GENTLEMEN: As indisposition prevents my meeting you in the General Assembly, that candour I have so often experienced from the Representatives of the freemen of this Colony encourages me to hope that you will excuse my personal attendance at this Session. Since the last Session of the General Assembly at Providence, I have had the honour of receiving a letter from the Earl of Dartmouth, one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, dated Whitehall, the 3d of March, 1775, enclosing the Resolution of the House of Commons, respecting the provision which they expect each Colony or Province in America to make for the common defence, and also for the civil Government and the administration of justice in such Colony, both which I have directed to be laid before you, and also a letter from the Committee of the Provincial Congress, which are all the publick letters I have received during the recess.

As the dispute between Great Britain and the Colonies is now brought to a most alarming, dangerous crisis, and this once happy Country threatened with all the horrors and calamities of a civil war, I consider myself bound by every tie of duty and affection, as well from an ardent desire to see a union between Britain and her Colonies established upon an equitable, permanent basis, to entreat you to enter into the consideration of the Resolution of the House of Commons, and also his Lordship's Letter which accompanied that Resolution, with the temper, calmness, and deliberation which the importance of them demands, and with that inclination to a reconciliation with the Parent State which will recommend your proceedings to His Majesty and both Houses of Parliament.

The prosperity and happiness of this Colony is founded on its connexion with Great Britain, "for if once we are separated, where shall we find another Britain to supply our loss? Torn from the body to which we are united by Religion, Liberty, Laws, and Commerce, we must bleed at every vein."

Your Charter privileges are of too much importance to be forfeited; you will, therefore, duly consider the interesting matters now before you with the most attentive caution; and let me entreat you not to suffer your proceedings for accommodating these disputes, which have already too long subsisted between both Countries, to have the least appearance of anger or resentment; but that a kind, respectful behaviour towards His Majesty and both Houses of Parliament accompany all your deliberations.

I shall always be ready to join with you in every measure which will secure the full possession of our invaluable Charter privileges to the latest posterity, and prevent the good people of this Colony from that ruin and destruction which, in my opinion, some of the orders of the late Assembly must inevitably involve them in, if they are not speedily repealed; for, besides the fatal consequences of levying war against the King, the immense load of debt that will be incurred, if the late Resolutions for raising an Army of Observation of fifteen hundred men within this Colony be carried into execution, will be insupportable, and must unavoidably bring on universal bankruptcy throughout this Colony.

If I have the honour of being re-elected, I shall, as I ever have done, cheerfully unite with you in every proceeding (which may be consistent with that duty and allegiance which I owe to the King and the British Constitution) for increasing the welfare and happiness of this Government.

I am, with great respect and esteem, gentlemen, your most humble servant,
J. WANTON.

PROVIDENCE, RHODE-ISLAND, COMMITTEE TO COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Providence, May 2, 1775.

SIR: The bearer hereof, John Lascell, hath been appointed by the Committee of Inspection for this Town to ride as a special post between this and Cambridge, Roxbury, &c. He will return on Friday next. We have only to inform you that the General Assembly of this Colony meet here to-morrow, for the purpose of an annual election, &c., in which session the melancholy situation of your Colony in particular, and of America in general, will be seriously attended to. What will be the result, God Almighty only knows; we wish and expect the best. Should any thing occur demanding particular notice, you will please to intimate it.

We are, Sir, with unfeigned affection, your friends and brethren,

JAMES ANGELL,
J. VARNUM,
EZEKL. CORNELL.

President Committee of Safety at Cambridge.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN CONNECTICUT TO HIS FRIEND IN NEW-YORK, DATED MAY 2, 1775.

I received your esteemed favour of the 24th April, and observe your fears respecting the times, which are truly distressing; however, I feel no apprehensions from General Gage's ever being able to penetrate into the country thus far, if he was even reinforced with fifty thousand men. In the last conflict there never was more than two hundred and fifty men engaged with the Troops, who made out to kill, wound, and take prisoners, upwards of two hundred of his men, with the loss of thirty-seven at most, which would not have been even so many, but the ardour of the country people led them between the flank guards and main body several times, which exposed them to certain death, being between two fires.

Our Assembly has sent two gentlemen to General Gage, to give him to understand that if he means to continue his hostile proceedings, he must expect all the country armed against him, determined to repel force with force to the last man; and I believe the prudent General will not venture his bones forty miles out in the country, with all the aid expected over this summer. The people in this country and Massachusetts, &c., are in high spirits, and fear him not, but wish he would try one expedition more into the country.

NATHANIEL FREEMAN TO DR. BENJAMIN CHURCH.

Sandwich, May 2, 1775.

SIR: Yours, enclosing the Resolve of the Committee of Safety, as to securing the boats, &c., has been received. I have secured all the boats in this part of the Country that will be of service to the Colony, and have given Col. Cobb orders to secure those below, which, I presume, by this time is done. We hauled the boats ashore, and hid them in swamps, sand, and wood, which was all that could be done here. Any farther orders from the honourable Committee in the cause of God and my Country, I am ready to execute with the greatest pleasure. And am, Sir, your very humble servant,

NATHL. FREEMAN.

Doctor Church.

GENERAL THOMAS TO COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Roxbury Camp, May 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of directions from the Committee of Safety, I sent an officer, on whom I could depend, to the house of Governour Hutchinson, who brought off all the papers he could find in that house, but I was informed that Colonel Taylor, of Milton, had lately taken several trunks out of the Governour's house not many days ago, in order to save them from being plundered. I immediately sent another messenger to Colonel Taylor for all the papers that belong to Governour Hutchinson, which he had in possession; he sent me for answer, he did not know of any papers that belong to Doctor Hutchinson, but just now comes and informs me that there are several trunks in his house, which he took as aforesaid, which he expects will be sent for very soon, and suspects there may be papers in the trunks; and if it is thought proper two or three judicious persons be sent to break open and search for papers, he will give them his assistance. This, gentlemen, is submitted to the consideration of the honourable Committee. I have, gentlemen, the honour to subscribe myself your most obedient humble servant,

JNO. THOMAS.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF MASSACHUSETTS TO THE GOVERNOUR OF CONNECTICUT.

Cambridge, May 2, 1775.

We yesterday had a conference with Dr. Johnson and Colonel Wolcott, who were appointed by your Assembly to deliver a letter to, and hold a conference with, General Gage. We feel the warmest gratitude to you for those generous and affectionate sentiments which you entertain towards us. But you will allow us to express our uneasiness on account of one paragraph in your letter, in which a cessation of hostilities is proposed. We fear that our brethren in Connecticut are not even yet convinced of the cruel designs of Administration against America, nor thoroughly sensible of the miseries to which General Gage's Army have reduced this wretched Colony. We have lost the Town of Boston, and we greatly fear for the inhabitants of Boston, as we find the General is perpetually making new conditions, and forming the most unreasonable pretensions for retarding their removal from that garrison. Our sea-ports on the eastern coasts are mostly deserted. Our people have been barbarously murdered by an insidious enemy, who, under cover of the night, have marched into the heart of the country, spreading destruction with fire and sword. No business but that of war is either done or thought of in this Colony. No agreement or compact with General Gage will in the least alleviate our distress, as no confidence can possibly be placed in any assurances he can give to a people whom he has first deceived in the matter, taking possession of and fortifying the Town of Boston, and whom he has suffered his Army to attack in the most inhuman and treacherous manner. Our relief now must arise from driving General Gage, with his Troops, out of the Country, which, with the blessing of God, we are determined to accomplish, or perish in the attempt, as we think an honourable death in the field, whilst fighting for the liberties of all America, far preferable to being butchered in our own houses, or to be reduced to an ignominious slavery.

We must entreat that our sister Colony, Connecticut, will afford, immediately, all possible aid, as at this time delay will be attended with all that fatal train of events which would follow from an absolute desertion of the cause of American liberty. Excuse our earnestness on this subject, as we know that upon the success of our present contest depend the lives and liberties of our Country and succeeding generations. We are, &c.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO MR. VOSE, AT MILTON.

Cambridge, May 2, 1775.

I am directed to let you know that Mr. Boyce applied to this Committee for a prisoner, who is a paper-maker, and was then at Worcester, and agreed to pay the expenses of removal, &c. In consequence of this application, the prisoner has been removed to his mills, but he refuses to pay the charges, (as Colonel Barrett informs.) The Committee consider themselves as ill treated, and are determined to remove the prisoner from Mr. Boyce's, and tender him to you upon the same conditions, desiring your immediate attendance. We are, &c.

RICHARD DERBY, JUN., TO GENERAL WARD.

Ipswich, May 2, 1775, Five o'clock, P. M.

SIR: I am now on my way from Newburyport to Salem, from whence I proposed sending the following advice per express, but meeting with an opportunity by one of your officers, I embrace it, and inform you that about two o'clock this afternoon Captain John Lee arrived at Newbury from Bilboa, in twenty-nine days, and informed me that on the 14th of last month, in longitude, forty-five degrees from London, he spoke a vessel from Plymouth, in England, who informed him that three days before he parted with a fleet of sixty sail of transports bound for Boston, under the command of Admiral Lord Howe, having on board twelve thousand Hessian Troops. He saw and read the London papers down to the 12th of March, from which, and by the Captain of the vessel, he learnt that twenty-seven Commissioners were on board the fleet, and that they were directed, if possible, to adjust matters; if not, they were ordered to risk every thing to penetrate into the Country; if not able to effect this, then to burn and destroy all in their power. Burgoyne was near sailing, with four thousand Hanoverians, for Quebeck, and a number of regiments are gone to the Southern Colonies. The Ministry had quieted the Prussian Monarch, by paying him all his demands. France and Spain had objected against any Prussians coming this way.

This is the purport of what I had from the Captain, who is a man of veracity. I advised the gentlemen at Newbury to collect what further they could, and inform you. Please to inform the Court of this matter. I am, &c.,

RICHARD DERBY, Jun.

P. S. Captain Lee could not obtain leave to bring any English paper, but only to read them.

RICHARD GLOVER TO MATTHEW TILGHMAN.

London, May 3, 1775.

SIR: The high station which you hold, and the distinguished character you bear in your Country, must apologize for me, who, trusting to your liberal sentiments, use the freedom of troubling you with this application. It is suggested by a sense of justice, and the certain knowledge that I am singly possessed of the means to vindicate a friend of yours and mine—I mean Mr. William Molleson, the most eminent trader to your Province, who hath been more than once unwarrantably traduced in the American prints. For these twelve months past, that gentleman, upon the subject of dispute between this Kingdom and its Colonies, hath not taken a single step without my privity and advice. If, therefore, his conduct hath, in any shape, been erroneous, I am bound in justice to transfer the blame from him to myself. He was the first person to whom I imparted, in confidence, my anxiety at the consequences which I early foreboded from such a dispute. It was about the beginning of last May. He asked my opinion of calling a general meeting of the Merchants in that season. I answered in the negative, alleging that the Resolutions of the Congress to be held in September should first be known, and the Parliament assembled here, whence the only lights could proceed to regulate a conduct without doors, which might promise success; and for that desirable purpose, all attempts should be laid aside which might imply the least mixture of party; that the subject was too serious and important for any tincture of that kind, and that the interval should be filled up by his communication of intelligence to proper quarters from time to time, and endeavour to lay, if possible, a foundation for conciliatory measures. His unwearied vigilance and attention to this plan, the weight which his discreet proceedings acquired, led me once to hope for a happier issue than, to my grief and disappointment, I have seen.

The same feelings at length produced impatience in him; an earlier meeting of the Merchants than I wished, was the effect of his zeal. Upon their express invitation, I had the honour to attend them, and rendered all the little assistance in my power. Mr. Molleson was among the foremost in diligence and activity; and I, who had been his original adviser and partaker in all his proceedings for such a length of time, without interruption, must be a competent witness to the sincerity of his ardour, and his unshaken fidelity of conduct.

Sir, this narrative of mine deserves some regard, because I am known not to be under the influence of any party. What I am, whoever pleases to read may judge. I neither court nor fear any set of men on either side of the Atlantic. Truth is my pursuit; the prosperity of all my wish; and that each may contribute to that end, is my prayer.

As this letter contains no secret, be pleased to use it in any shape, as may best conduce to its design of defeating misrepresentation, and of doing justice. I have the honour to remain, Sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

RICHARD GLOVER.

To the Hon. Matthew Tilghman, Esquire.

EARL OF DARTMOUTH TO THE GOVERNOUR OF GEORGIA:
Whitehall, May 3, 1775.

SIR: I have received your Letters, numbered from 35 to 41, and have laid them before the King.

The grounds upon which Masters of Ships, who were Midshipmen, and acted as Master's Mates on board the Fleet in the last war, claim each two thousand acres of Land, in virtue of the Royal Proclamation, refers to facts of which I have no official information. Whenever the Lords of the Admiralty shall, upon a proper application to them by those claimants, certify the facts on which they state their claims, I will not fail to receive His Majesty's pleasure upon their case. In the mean time, the matter must rest upon the opinion I think very properly adopted by yourself and the Council.

I have already so repeatedly expressed to you my sentiments of the present disorders in America, and the sense I have of your meritorious conduct, in the prudent and proper measures you have pursued for preventing, as far as you are able, the contagion from spreading itself through the Province of Georgia, that I have nothing to add on that subject, but to express my wishes that the steps I have taken for your support will encourage the friends of Government to resist the violences that are threatened, and preserve the publick peace in all events. I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

DARTMOUTH.

Sir James Wright, Baronet.

EARL OF DARTMOUTH TO THE GOVERNOUR OF NORTH-CAROLINA.

Whitehall, May 3, 1775.

SIR: Your Letters of the 26th of January and 10th of March, numbers 27 and 28, the latter of which I received only yesterday, contain matter of very great importance.

The Addresses from the four Counties of Guilford, Dobbs, Rowan, and Surry, breathe a spirit of loyalty to the King, and attachment to the authority of Great Britain, which cannot be too much encouraged; and it will be necessary that you lose no time in acquainting the inhabitants of those Counties, that these testimonies of their duty and affection have been most graciously received by His Majesty; that His Majesty will not fail to afford them those marks of his royal favour which such a meritorious conduct appears to deserve; and that, as soon as the necessary forms will admit, His Majesty's clemency towards the insurgents in 1770, will be extended, in a Proclamation of general pardon to all, except *Herman Husband*s. In the mean time, it is His Majesty's pleasure that you do pursue every step that may improve so favourable a symptom in the present state of general phrenzy; and perhaps you will not find it difficult, through the channel of some respectable persons in those Counties, to procure proper associations of the people in support of the Government. Such a measure cannot fail to cast a damp upon the machinations of faction, and disconcert any desperate measure they may have in contemplation.

I hope we may yet avoid the fatal necessity of drawing the sword; but it is prudent to provide, as far as we are able, against every possible mischief; and therefore you will do well to consider in time, whether it may not be practicable, in such an event, to embody and lead forth, in support of Government, such of the men in those Counties as are able to bear arms. If matters should come to this issue, it is the King's pleasure that you hold out to gentlemen of interest and leading amongst them, assurances of His Majesty's favour in granting them such commissions as shall be suitable to their rank and station; and every other encouragement and advantage allowed to any other troops in His Majesty's service, as far as is consistent with the established rules of the Army.

I confess to you, Sir, that this appears to me to be a matter of so much importance, that I cannot too earnestly recommend it to your attention, and that no time may be lost, in case of absolute necessity.

I have received His Majesty's commands to write to General Gage, to apprise him of this favourable circumstance, and to instruct him that he do, upon application from you, send some able and discreet officer to you, in order to concert the means of carrying so essential a service into effect; and, if necessary, to lead the people forth against any rebellious attempts to disturb the publick peace.

There are several other matters in your letters which will require consideration and instruction; but, as the mail for Charlestown will be made up to-night, I can only for the present add, that I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

DARTMOUTH.

His Excellency Gov. Martin, North-Carolina.

AMELIA COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of the County of Amelia, at the Court-House thereof, on Wednesday, the 3d of May, 1775:

WILLIAM ARCHER, Esquire, was chosen Chairman for the day.

It appearing to this Committee that the Militia of this County, since the expiration of the late Militia Laws, hath been totally neglected; and it being indispensably necessary for the internal security of the County, that the same be properly and regularly disciplined, and that Patrollers in every neighbourhood be constantly kept on duty:

Resolved, That application be made to the Lieutenant of this County, to direct forthwith a general muster of the Militia of the County; that he do his utmost to carry into execution the Law made in the year 1738, for embodying and disciplining the Militia of this Colony; that he give all the countenance and encouragement in his power to the Officers who are recruiting or embodying independent Companies, agreeable to the Resolution of the Convention of the 25th day of March last.

Resolved, That every member of this Committee open a subscription for raising half a pound of Gunpowder and one pound of Lead, by voluntary donation from each tithable person in this County, agreeable also to the said Resolution of the 25th.

Resolved, That John Tabb and Everard Meade, or either of those gentlemen, be appointed immediately, to purchase, for the use of this County, eight hundred pounds of Gunpowder, and three thousand two hundred pounds of Lead at least, for which we, and every of us, oblige ourselves to pay.

Resolved, That every member of this Committee have in readiness a stand of Arms and Ammunition, agreeable to the said Resolution of the 25th.

Resolved, That the Ammunition, when purchased, be lodged in the care of Mr. John Tabb, at his store, Mr. Thomas G. Peachy, Mr. Samuel Sherwin, Mr. Thomas Williams, Mr. Gabriel Foulkes, Mr. John Pride, with each one hundred pounds of Powder and four hundred pounds of Lead; and with Mr. James Scott, at this Court-House, two hundred pounds of Powder and eight hundred pounds of Lead.

Resolved, That publick notice be given to the Freeholders of this County, to meet and choose Delegates at next Court, to represent them in Convention for one year.

Resolved, That this Committee be adjourned till the fourth Thursday in this month.

JOHN PRIDE, Clerk.

NEW-KENT COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for New-Kent County, at the Court-House, the 3d day of May, 1775:

Resolved unanimously, That Lord Dunmore's conduct in removing the Powder from the Magazine of this Colony on board an armed vessel, at the time and in the manner it appears to have been done, was an ill-advised and arbitrary step, tending to disquiet the minds, and endanger the safety of His Majesty's loyal subjects of this Colony in general, and of the inhabitants of the City of Williamsburgh in particular.

Resolved, That his Lordship's verbal answer to the Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of Williamsburgh, was unsatisfactory and evasive; and that his Lordship's not returning the Powder agreeable to their request, and the known desire of the people of this Colony, is a sufficient proof that he was influenced by the worst motives.

Resolved, That this and other parts of his Lordship's conduct which have lately transpired, evince him to be an enemy to liberty and the true interests of this Colony, and a zealous supporter of tyranny and despotism over the people who have the unhappiness to live under his Government, and that he has thereby forfeited all title to their confidence.

Resolved, That the City of Williamsburgh are entitled to the ready and cheerful assistance of this County, in case they should be in danger from any invasion or insurrection.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Committee are due to the Committee of Hanover, for communicating their Order of the 2d instant; that this Committee are sensible of the dangers that threaten us from the Governour's conduct, as well as from other quarters, and will co-operate with a majority of the Counties of this Colony in such measures as shall be adopted for their defence and preservation.

It appearing to this Committee that a body of armed men from the County of Hanover have marched through this County, in order to make reprisals upon the King's property to replace the Gunpowder taken from the Magazine:

Resolved, That such proceedings make it particularly necessary for the inhabitants of this County to prepare for their defence, against any dangers that may ensue in consequence of it, by keeping their Arms in the best order, and the greatest readiness to act on any occasion.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the inhabitants of this County immediately to form a Company of Volunteers, to be assembled at the lower part of this County, ready to act on any emergency, as may be found necessary.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM SMITH, Clerk.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for Cumberland County, held on Wednesday, the 3d of May, 1775:

Resolved unanimously, That the thanks of this Committee, and of all the inhabitants of this County, are justly due to Captain Charles Scott, and his Independent Company, for their spirited offers of their service in defending this Colony against wicked invaders, and their cheerful appearance at this place to day, in readiness to march forwards on a late alarm; and that this Committee, in behalf of themselves and their constituents, do accordingly present to the said Captain Scott, and his Company, their most cordial thanks as aforesaid.

GEORGE CARRINGTON, Chairman.

EARL OF DARTMOUTH TO THE GOVERNOUR OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Whitehall, May 3, 1775.

SIR: I have received your letter of the 28th of February, and have laid it before the King. I have only to say that it gave His Majesty great concern to find that there is yet no appearance in Pennsylvania of a disposition in the people to return to a just sense of their situation, and of the fatal consequences of their longer continuing in a state of disobedience to the authority of the Supreme Legislature. I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

DARTMOUTH.

Deputy Governour Penn.

Philadelphia, May 3, 1775.

On Saturday last we had a meeting in this City of the Military Associators, when it was determined that each Ward should be formed into one or more Companies; the Officers to be chosen in the respective Wards. Two troops of Light-Horse are now raising. Two companies of expert Riflemen, and two companies of Artillery-men are forming. We have six pieces of brass artillery, and several light iron ones. Our Provincial arms, powder, &c., are all secured. Three Provincial Magazines are forming. In short, Mars has established his empire in this populous City; and it is not doubted but we shall have, in a few weeks from this date, four thousand men, well equipped, for our defence, or for the assistance of our neighbours.

MEETING OF INHABITANTS OF ACQUACKANONK, ESSEX COUNTY, NEW-JERSEY.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and Inhabitants of the Township of Acquackanonk, in said County, held at Mr. James Leslie's, near Acquackanonk Bridge, on Wednesday, the 3d day of May, Anno Domini 1775, an Association was then and there entered into and subscribed by the Freeholders and Inhabitants of said Township, being verbatim the same as that entered into by the Freeholders and Inhabitants at Newark, in said County. The following gentlemen, in number twenty-three, were then chosen or elected a General Committee, agreeable to said Association.

MICHAEL VREELAND, Esq., in the Chair.

Henry Garretse, Peter Peterse, John Berry, Robert Drummond, Esquires, Captain Francis Post, Thomas Post, Daniel Niel, Richard Ludlow, Captain Abraham Godwin, John Spier, Jacob Van Riper, Lucas Wessels, Francis Van Winkle, Cornelius Van Winkle, Henry Post, Junior, Doctor Walter Degraw, John Peer, Jacob Garretse, Jacob Vreeland, Abraham Van Riper, Stephen Ryder, Doctor Nicholas Roche, Committee Clerk.

Of the same number were chosen the following Delegates to attend the Provincial Convention to be held at Trenton the 23d instant, agreeable to the aforesaid Association, to represent said Township: Henry Garretse, Robert Drummond, Michael Vreeland, and John Berry, Esquires.

Peter Peterse, Esquire, Daniel Niel, Richard Ludlow, Thomas Post, and Doctor Nicholas Roche, are appointed a Committee of Correspondence for said Township.

Daniel Niel, Deputy Chairman to the General Committee, and Richard Ludlow, Deputy Clerk.

ADDRESS OF ISAAC WILKINS.

New-York, May 3, 1775.

MY COUNTRYMEN: Before I leave America, the land I love, and in which is contained every thing that is valuable and dear to me—my wife, my children, my friends, and property; permit me to make a short and faithful declaration, which I am induced to do neither through fear, nor a consciousness of having acted wrong. An honest man and a Christian hath nothing to apprehend from this world. God is my judge, and God is my witness, that all I have done, written, or said, in relation to the present unnatural dispute between Great Britain and her Colonies, proceeded from an honest intention of serving my Country. Her welfare and prosperity were the objects towards which all my endeavours have been directed. They still are the sacred objects which I shall ever steadily and invariably keep in view. And when in England, all the influence that so inconsiderable a man as I am can have, shall be exerted in her behalf.

It has been my constant maxim through life to do my duty conscientiously, and to trust the issue of my actions to the Almighty. May that God in whose hands are all events, speedily restore peace and liberty to my unhappy Country. May Great Britain and America be soon united in the hands of everlasting amity, and when united may they continue a free, a virtuous, and happy Nation to the end of time.

I leave America, and every endearing connection, because I will not raise my hand against my Sovereign, nor will I draw my sword against my Country; when I can conscientiously draw it in her favour, my life shall be cheerfully devoted to her service.

ISAAC WILKINS.

A Letter dated New-York, May 3, 1775, from John Cruger and Jacob Walton, Esquires, received and read, and is as follows, viz:

New-York, May 3, 1775.

SIR: At the desire of the gentlemen who presented the Association to us, we have committed to writing our reasons for not signing it, which we have thought proper to communicate to you in order to be laid before the Committee.

It appears to us that signing this paper would involve us in the greatest inconsistency. As we were elected Representatives in General Assembly for this City and County, we conceive that the faithful performance of this important trust requires of us a free, unbiased exercise of our own judgment. To submit this to the control of any power on earth would, in our opinion, be deserting that trust; but to engage implicitly to approve and carry into execution the regulations of any other body would justly expose us to the reproach of our own conscience, the censure not only of our constituents but of the whole world. In our legislative capacity we have already transmitted to the King and both Houses of Parliament, representations of our grievances. We have, to the utmost of our power, framed these in such a manner as we thought would be most likely to ensure them success by procuring a redress of our complaints, healing the present unhappy differences, and fixing for the Colonies a permanent Constitution upon principles of liberty and a lasting union with the Mother Country. These representations were a long time in agitation, and a state of our grievances, with the Resolutions of the House thereon, were publicly known to our constituents, and no disapprobation of our proceedings ever signified to us. Upon mature reflection, and after revolving our conduct with the most impartial deliberation, we cannot but approve what we have done, and will therefore patiently wait for the event, which will, we hope, be productive of much benefit not only to this Colony, but to the cause of American liberty in general; at least we have the fullest testimony of our consciences for the uprightness of our intentions.

We can with the greatest truth declare our approbation of any Association for preserving the peace and good order of the City and Province, and for the protection of personal safety and private property, and so far are we from giving the least countenance to the claims of Parliament to a right of taxing the Colonies, that we will contribute to the utmost of our power in measures necessary for preventing its being carried into execution. The preservation of the Constitution, which we are convinced gives us a right to an absolute exemption from Parliamentary taxation, we have most ardently at heart, and we shall at all times strenuously co-operate in opposing every violation of it. These reasons, with the publick manifestation of our principles contained in the representation of the General Assembly to the King and Parliament, we are persuaded must be satisfactory to every reasonable man. But to engage for an indiscriminate approbation of the measures of others, and that before we know them, would be to prejudge matters of the utmost importance, and to preclude us from the exercise of our own judgments, and that free deliberation without which our legislative powers would be a mere sound, and thereby to betray a trust which we are under the most solemn engagements to preserve free and inviolate, and of which we cannot be divested until the period of the dissolution of the House. As the signing of this Association, therefore, would in effect be to deprive ourselves of our legislative powers, we cannot but suppose, from the tenor of it, an exemption of us is implied in it.

With the most anxious concern for the distresses of the inhabitants of the Massachusetts-Bay, and the most sincere wishes for their relief, and the liberty and prosperity of all the Colonies,

We are, Sir, your most humble servants,

JOHN CRUGER,
JACOB WALTON.

To Mr. Isaac Low, Chairman of the Committee.

Mr. McDougall, seconded by Mr. Duane, made a motion in the words following:

Whereas this Committee is informed that the Postmaster has discharged the Eastern Post-rider:

I therefore move, Mr. Chairman, that a Sub-Committee be immediately appointed to wait on the Postmaster, to know the true state of the matter; and that they report his answer in writing.

Ordered, That Colonel Walton and Benjamin Kissam, Esquires, be a Committee for the above mentioned purpose.

Mr. Lamb, seconded by Mr. Brasher, made a motion in the words following, viz:

Whereas it has been confidently asserted that a considerable body of the British soldiery are ordered to this City from England; in consequence of which a number of Troops from Connecticut have lately marched into this City, with a view of aiding and assisting us in preparing for our defence:

I therefore move, that the thanks of this body be immediately presented to the officers and men for their kind offers of assistance, a conduct that is equally expressive of their anxious solicitude for our safety, as of a noble zeal in the service of our common Country, in this day of difficulty and danger.

Which being unanimously agreed to,

Ordered, That Mr. Lamb, Mr. Brasher, Mr. Ritzma, Captain Fleming, Captain Sears, Mr. S. Broome, Mr. Duane, and Mr. McDougall, be a Committee for the above purpose.

The Chairman having acquainted this Board that four gentlemen from Philadelphia were desirous of a conference with some of the members, on the subject of our publick affairs at this alarming juncture, Ordered, That the Committee consist of the following gentlemen for that purpose, viz: Mr. P. Livingston, Mr. Remsen, Mr. Lewis, Mr. J. Jay, Mr. Yates, Mr. Low, Mr. Young, Mr. S. Broome, Mr. P. V. B. Livingston, Mr. Van Zandt, Mr. A. Walton, Mr. Buchanan, and Mr. Pintard.

A Letter, dated New-Windsor, 29th April last, signed by James Clinton and others, inhabitants of Ulster County, was presented to this Committee by Mr. Robert Boyd, Jun., requiring our advice and assistance in procuring Arms and Ammunition for their poor.

Resolved, That this Committee do earnestly recommend it to the gentlemen who have subscribed the said letters, and to their fellow-subjects in general, to adopt and sign an Association similar to that which has so cheerfully and generally been entered into by the inhabitants of the City, and to perfect themselves in military discipline as soon as possible; that with respect to purchasing Arms, this Committee will give all the advice in their power, but it will be necessary to raise money for that purpose by voluntary contributions in their County for equipping their poor inhabitants.

The Committee appointed to wait on the Postmaster to inquire whether he had discharged the Eastern Post-rider, Report, that they have waited on him accordingly, and upon asking the Postmaster whether he had discharged the said Post-rider, he answered he had, and assigned the following reasons for doing it, viz: That the four last mails between New-York and Boston have been stopped, the mails broken open, many of the letters taken out and publickly read, some of which were detained and others sent open to the General Post Office in this City, and that the riders informed him that it was not safe for them to travel with the mail; in consequence of which, they were dismissed by him until they could carry the mail with safety as heretofore. And we report also, that on Mr. Foxcroft's request, we left with him the order of this Committee, which was certified by the Chairman.

Ordered, That the subject-matter of this Report be referred to the Committee of Correspondence and Intelligence, and that they make a report thereof at the next meeting of this Committee.

The Committee adjourned to to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

The Committee met, by adjournment, Thursday morning, nine o'clock, 4th May, 1775. Present:

Isaac Low,	John White,	John M. Scott,
James Duane,	Theophilus Anthony,	Cornelius Clopper,
P. V. B. Livingston,	William Goforth,	Jacobus Van Zandt,
Isaac Sears,	Jeremiah Platt,	Jacobus Lefferts,

Francis Lewis,	James Beckman,	Lewis Pintard,
Joseph Totten,	Richard Yates,	Cornelius P. Low,
Hercules Mulligan,	Augustus Van Horne,	Petrus Byvanck,
Victor Bicker,	Eleazer Miller,	Thomas Ivers.

Ordered, That Captain Sears, Captain Randall, and Captain Fleming be a Committee to procure proper judges to go and view the ground at or near King's Bridge, and report to this Committee, with all convenient speed, whether it will answer the purposes intended by it.

Ordered, That the Accounts against the Committee of Sixty be procured by Mr. Petit and the Secretary, and that a return thereof be made to this Committee.

The Committee adjourned until to-morrow morning.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

New-York Committee Chamber, May 3, 1775.

The Postmaster having, for the present, discharged the Eastern Post-riders, the General Committee have directed us, their Sub-Committee of Intelligence, to devise the best ways and means for continuing a correspondence with the Eastern Colonies: It is, therefore, our opinion, that the present Eastern Post-riders be employed to depart from this City on the usual days, and to go the usual stages; and the publick is hereby informed that Mr. Ebenezer Hazard has undertaken to receive and forward Letters from this City.

From information received by the Committee from Connecticut, it will be necessary (in order to prevent Letters from being opened by the Committees on the road) that they be inspected here by some well known member of the General Committee, and by him endorsed with his name, as one of the Committee of New-York.

GENERAL GAGE TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

[Read before Congress, May 19, 1775.]

Boston, May 3, 1775.

SIR: I am to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 28th April last, in behalf of the General Assembly of your Colony, relative to the alarming situation of publick affairs in this Country, and the late transactions in this Province.

That this situation is greatly alarming, and that these transactions are truly unfortunate, are truths to be regretted by every friend to America, and by every well-wisher for the peace, prosperity, and happiness of this Province. The intimate connexion and strong ties of friendship between the inhabitants of your Colony and the deluded people of this Province, cannot fail of inducing the former to interpose their good offices to convince the latter of the impropriety of their past conduct, and to persuade them to return to their allegiance, and to seek redress of any supposed grievances in those decent and constitutional methods, in which alone they can hope to be successful.

That Troops should be employed for the purpose of protecting the Magistrates in the execution of their duty, when opposed with violence, is not a new thing in the English or any other Government. That any Acts of the British Parliament are unconstitutional or oppressive, I am not to suppose; if any such there are, in the apprehension of the people of this Province, it had been happy for them if they had sought relief only in the way which the Constitution, their reason, and their interest, pointed out.

You cannot wonder at my fortifying the Town of Boston, or making any other military preparations, when you are assured that, previous to my taking these steps, such were the open threats, and such the warlike preparations throughout this Province, as rendered it my indispensable duty to take every precaution in my power for the protection of His Majesty's Troops under my command against all hostile attempts.

The intelligence you seem to have received, relative to the late excursion of a body of Troops into the Country, is altogether injurious, and contrary to the true state of facts. The Troops disclaim with indignation the barbarous outrages of which they are accused, so contrary to their known humanity. I have taken the greatest pains to discover if any were committed, and have found examples of their tenderness, both to the young and the old; but no vestige of their cruelty or barbarity. It is very possible that in firing into houses, from whence they were fired upon, that old people, women, or children, may have suffered; but if any such thing has happened, it was in their defence, and undesigned.

I have no command to ravage and desolate the Country; and were it my intention, I have had pretence to begin it upon the sea-ports, who are at the mercy of the fleet. For your better information, I enclose you a narrative of that affair, taken from gentlemen of indisputable honour and veracity, who were eye-witnesses of all the transactions of that day. The leaders here have taken pains to prevent any account of this affair getting abroad but such as they - have thought proper to publish themselves; and to that end the post has been stopped, the mails broke open, and letters taken out; and by these means the most injurious and inflammatory accounts have been spread throughout the Continent, which has served to deceive and inflame the minds of the people.

When the Resolves of the Provincial Congress breathed nothing but war; when those two great and essential prerogatives of the King, the levying of Troops and disposing of the Publick Moneys, were wrested from him; and when magazines were forming, by an assembly of men unknown to the Constitution, for the declared purpose of levying war against the King, you must acknowledge it was my duty, as it was the dictate of humanity, to prevent, if possible, the calamities of a civil war, by destroying such magazines. This, and this alone, I attempted.

You ask, why is the Town of Boston now shut up? I can only refer you for an answer to those bodies of armed men who now surround the Town, and prevent all access to it. The hostile preparations you mention, are such as the conduct of the people of this Province has rendered it prudent to make, for the defence of those under my command. You assure me the people of your Colony abhor the idea of taking arms against the Troops of their Sovereign; I wish the people of this Province (for their own sakes) could make the same declaration.

You inquire, is there no way to prevent this unhappy dispute from coming to extremities? Is there no alternative but absolute submission, or the desolations of war? I answer, I hope there is. The King and Parliament seem to hold out terms of reconciliation, consistent with the honour and interest of Great Britain, and the rights and privileges of the Colonies. They have mutually declared their readiness to attend to any real grievances of the Colonies, and to afford them every just and reasonable indulgence which shall, in a dutiful and constitutional manner, be laid before them; and His Majesty adds, it is his ardent wish that this disposition may have a happy effect on the temper and conduct of his subjects in America. I must add, likewise, the Resolution of the 27th February, on the grand dispute of taxation and revenue, leaving it to the Colonies to tax themselves, under certain conditions. Here is surely a foundation for an accommodation, to people who wish a reconciliation rather than a destructive war between Countries so nearly connected by the ties of blood and interest; but I fear the leaders of this Province have been, and still are, intent only on shedding blood.

I am much obliged by your favourable sentiments of my personal character, and assure you, as it has been my constant wish and endeavour hitherto, so I shall continue to exert my utmost efforts to protect all His Majesty's liege subjects under my care in their persons and property. You ask, whether it will not be consistent with my duty to suspend the operations of war on my part? I have commenced no operations of war, but defensive; such you cannot wish me to suspend, while I am surrounded by an armed Country, who have already begun, and threaten further to prosecute an offensive war, and are now violently depriving me, the King's Troops, and many others of the King's subjects under my immediate protection, of all the conveniences and necessities of life, with which the Country abounds. But it must quiet the minds of all reasonable people, when I assure you that I have no disposition to injure or molest quiet and peaceable subjects; but on the contrary, shall esteem it my greatest happiness to defend and protect them against every species of violence and oppression.

I am, with great regard and esteem, Sir, your obedient and humble servant,

THOS. GAGE.

The Hon. Governour Trumbull.

TO THE PRINTER OF THE MASSACHUSETTS SPY.

MR. THOMAS: The piece in your last, signed Thomas Gage, is replete with such notorious falsehoods, calumny, and evasion, that I scarce know whether it admits of any animadversion, to make it appear most false, abusive, and irritating to every honest mind; neither would it come into my heart to say any thing upon it, were it not that there are, even to this day, those that will speak so far favourably of him as to suggest that they do not think it is his doings so much as some others, that things are carried on as they are; and he is under a necessity of doing as he does, or he would endanger his own life to his master, &c.

Let us, then, take a short view of what he has done, and see whether we have any reason to conceive a favourable opinion of him, any thing better than that he is a most inimical, malicious, and blood-thirsty man. It is well known what a calumniating, malicious letter he sent to England about this Province, when Bernard was Governour here; that was certainly a most officious piece of malice; he was under no necessity of doing that. It is as manifest that he knew what he was undertaking when he came over last year, that it was to carry most arbitrary, unrighteous schemes into execution. Let it be that he was persuaded to believe that he should meet with no very powerful opposition, and that he would not have undertook, if he had known what opposition would have been; this will argue his baseness, and not any goodness; a disposition to trample upon the weak, and to set up power instead of righteousness, and to cast truth to the ground. As soon as he arrived, the first specimen of his goodness was to strike out thirteen Counsellors, very worthy men. Soon after this he dissolved the General Assembly, without even suffering them to have any pay for their service.

The next thing he did remarkable, was his sending in the night and plundering the magazine at Charlestown. Soon after this he went to intrenching and fortifying upon the Neck, and it would be tedious to enumerate all the falsehoods he publickly told about this to President Randolph, to the Town of Boston, and to sundry Committees; telling them that he was not about to hurt the Town by it, to stop the avenues; that he could not fortify it stronger than nature had formed, &c., &c. It would be endless to enumerate all the robberies, abuses, and insults, which his Troops have committed against the inhabitants of Boston, and passengers; the tarring and feathering, quarrelling with the watch, shooting at children passing quietly in the street, violently taking away men's substance from them and detaining it, knocking them down and leaving them half dead; all this before the Concord expedition, and all justified by the humane Thomas Gage. As to the Concord expedition and Lexington battle, they are too well known by the publick to be the most barbarous, savage conduct of the Troops, to admit of any illustration. The most barbarous Indians, I presume, would be ashamed of such conduct. It is not to be wondered that his Troops deny what they have done; for it is no new proverb that they who steal will lie, and much more; they that rob will murder, in a most savage manner; and Thomas Gage owns, in his letter, that he sent out his men to destroy, and yet says he has "commenced no war but defensive!"

Upon the whole, it is the well known character of the Devil to deceive by fair pretences, lie, and destroy; which character is most amply exemplified in what is above related. But the Devil did speak the truth twice—I do not know that this man has once; so I will leave him for the present.

CERTIFICATE TO EBENEZER BRADISH, JUNIOR, ESQUIRE, OF CAMBRIDGE.

Cambridge, May 3, 1775.

Whereas Ebenezer Bradish, Jun., Esq., of Cambridge, has been represented as a person unfriendly to the just rights and liberties of his Country, and by withdrawing himself from Cambridge and retiring to Boston, on the day of the late unhappy commencement of hostilities between the Troops under the command of General Gage and the inhabitants of this Province, he has increased the publick suspicions against him, whereby he is rendered more odious and disagreeable to his countrymen:

Therefore, to remove from the minds of our beloved friends and countrymen all groundless apprehensions, and to do justice to Mr. Bradish, we, the subscribers, having made due inquiry into the cause of his going to Boston at the time aforesaid, and of his conduct since, do say that we are satisfied that Mr. Bradish had no desire by that means to do any injury to his Country, but on the contrary his design was friendly, and his conduct justifiable; and we recommend it to all persons to conduct towards Mr. Bradish as a gentleman who is not unfriendly to the rights and privileges of his countrymen, so far as we are able to discover, upon strict inquiry into his late conduct.

SETH POMEROY, General, of Northampton.
 THOMAS LEGATE, Colonel, of Leominster.
 ELISHA PORTER, Colonel, of Hadley.
 JOHN PATTERSON, Colonel, of Lenox.

 JONATHAN W. AUSTIN, Major, of Chelmsford.
 THOMAS WILLIAMS, Captain, of Stockbridge.
 EBENEZER SAYER, Colonel, of Wells.
 JESSE LEAVENWORTH, of New-Haven.

N. B. Whereas a report has been unjustly spread abroad that it was not the Regulars but our people who took the goods lost out of my house; this is to certify to all good people, that the said report is false, and never came from me, and that I am certain my house was not only shot at but plundered by the Regulars. ORDERS TO BENEDICT ARNOLD.

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, May 3, 1775.

SIR: Confiding in your judgment, fidelity, and valour, we do, by these presents, constitute and appoint you Colonel and Commander-in-Chief over a body of men not exceeding four hundred. Proceed with all expedition to the western parts of this and the neighbouring Colonies, where you are directed to enlist those men, and with them forthwith to march to the Fort at Ticonderoga, and use your best endeavours to reduce the same, taking possession of the cannon, mortars, stores, &c., also the vessel and the other cannon and stores upon the Lake. You are to bring back with you such of the cannon, mortars, stores, &c., as you shall judge may be serviceable to the Army here, leaving behind what may be necessary to secure that post, with a sufficient garrison. You are to procure suitable provisions and stores for the Army, and draw upon the Committee of Safety for the same, and to act in every exigency according to your best skill and discretion for the publick interest, for which this shall be your sufficient warrant.

BENJAMIN CHURCH, Chairman Com. of Safety.

By order: WM. COOPER, Secretary.

To Benedict Arnold, Esquire, Commander of a body of Troops on an expedition to subdue and take possession of the Fort of Ticonderoga, &c.

Weymouth, May 3, 1775.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety now sitting at CAMBRIDGE, the Petition of the Selectmen of BRAINTREE, WEYMOUTH, and HINGHAM, humbly sheweth:

That the several Towns to which they respectively belong are in a defenceless state, and, as we apprehend, in great danger of an attack from the Troops now in Boston, or from the Ships in the harbour, more especially as they are now or soon will be in want of fresh provisions. That we have been at the trouble and expense of keeping up a military watch in each Town for this fortnight past, an expense which we are by no means able to bear, and which is no real defence to us; besides all that has been said, the inhabitants of said Towns have been, and are still likely to be in our present situation, almost constantly kept in a tumult and disorder, and unable to keep about their business, to their great damage.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray your Honours to take our distressed state into your wise and serious consideration, and grant us at least the return of those men that have enlisted in the service from our several Towns, or such other relief and protection as in your wisdom you shall think fit; and your Petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

New-Castle, May 3, 1775.

To the Honourable JOHN HANCOCK, Esquire, President, and the Honourable the other Members of Congress for the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in CONCORD assembled, the Petition of JAMES CARGILL humbly sheweth:

That your Petitioner was chosen yesterday to take command of the Liberty-men in New-Castle, and on viewing their state finds them almost destitute of ammunition, and chiefly unable to supply themselves, as their greatest dependence was on lumber trade, which is now stopped; and we find there is no town stock to supply them, and those of them that would gladly buy for themselves know not where it is to be had. Therefore prays that you would take our condition into your wise consideration, and if in your wisdom you should judge it best to grant us any supply out of the publick stock, that you would send it to us by the bearer, Lieutenant John Farley; and your Petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c. JAMES CARGILL.

May it please your Honours:

The Association in Eastham (which, at present, consists of about ninety persons, and is increasing) finding the Town of Eastham (though urged thereto) have not complied with the Resolve made and passed in Provincial Congress, at Concord, the 31st of March, 1775, in regard to paying in their money to the Receiver-General, immediately called a meeting of the Association, voted to hire what money was not collected of the Association, and have accordingly paid in the whole of our part of the Province Tax to the Constables, viz: Captain Job Crocker, who was Collector for the year 1774, and Mr. Jonathan Linnelye, the third, who is Collector for the present year. As they are both members of this Association, they have engaged to transmit the same to Henry Gardner, Esquire, of Stow, without delay.

N. B. It is voted by the Association, as their desire, that the Orders, Resolves, and Recommendations of the Provincial Congress for this Town may be directed in future to some one of this Committee, as they are not always made publick if they fall into the hands of some men in this Town. PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF MASSACHUSETTS TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read in Congress, May 11, 1775.]

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
 May 3, 1775. }

To the Honourable American Continental Congress, to be convened at PHILADELPHIA on the tenth of MAY instant.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: The Congress of this Colony, impressed with the deepest concern for their Country, under the present critical and alarming state of its publick affairs, beg leave, with the most respectful submission whilst acting in support of the cause of America, to request the direction and assistance of your respectable Assembly.

The enclosed packet, containing the copies of Depositions which we have despatched for London, also an Address to the Inhabitants of Great Britain, and a Letter to our Colony Agent, Benjamin Franklin, Esq., are humbly submitted to your consideration.

The sanguinary zeal of the Ministerial Army to ruin and destroy the inhabitants of this Colony, in the opinion of this Congress, hath rendered the establishment of an Army indispensably necessary. We have accordingly passed an unanimous resolve for thirteen thousand six hundred men to be forthwith raised by this Colony, and proposals are made by us to the Congress of New-Hampshire, and Governments of Rhode-Island and Connecticut Colonies, for furnishing men in the same proportion.

The sudden exigency of our publick affairs precluded the possibility of waiting for your direction in these important measures, more especially as a considerable reinforcement from Great Britain is daily expected in this Colony, and we are now reduced to the sad alternative of defending ourselves by arms, or submitting to be slaughtered.

With the greatest deference we beg leave to suggest that a powerful Army, on the side of America, hath been considered by this Congress as the only means left to stem the rapid progress of a tyrannical Ministry. Without a force superiour to our enemies, we must reasonably expect to become the victims of their relentless fury; with such a force we may still have hopes of seeing an immediate end put to the inhuman ravages of mercenary Troops in America, and the wicked authors of our miseries brought to condign punishment, by the just indignation of our brethren in Great Britain.

We hope that this Colony will at all times be ready to spend and be spent in the cause of America. It is nevertheless a misfortune greatly operating to its disadvantage, that it has a great number of sea-port towns exposed to the approach of the enemy by sea, from many of which the inhabitants have removed, and are now removing their families and effects to avoid destruction from ships of war. These, we apprehend, will be generally distressed from want of subsistence, and disabled from contributing aid for supporting the forces of the Colony, but we have the greatest confidence in the wisdom and ability of the Continent to support us, so far as it shall appear necessary for supporting the common cause of the American Colonies.

We also enclose several Resolves [passed this day] for empowering and directing our Receiver-General to borrow the sum of one hundred thousand Pounds, lawful money, and to issue his notes for the same, it being the only measure which we could have recourse to for supporting our forces; and we request your assistance in rendering our measures effectual, by giving our notes a currency through the Continent.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
April 26, 1775. }

To the Inhabitants of GREAT BRITAIN:

FRIENDS AND FELLOW-SUBJECTS: Hostilities are at length commenced in this Colony by the Troops under command of General Gage; and it being of the greatest importance that an early, true, and authentick account of this inhuman proceeding should be known to you, the Congress of this Colony have transmitted the same, and from want of a session of the honourable Continental Congress, think it proper to address you on the alarming occasion.

By the clearest depositions relative to this transaction, it will appear that on the night preceding the nineteenth of April instant, a body of the King's Troops, under command of Colonel Smith, were secretly landed at Cambridge, with an apparent design to take or destroy the military and other stores provided for the defence of this Colony, and deposited at Concord; that some inhabitants of the Colony, on the night aforesaid, whilst travelling peaceably on the road between Morton and Concord, were seized and greatly abused by armed men, who appeared to be officers of General Gage's Army; that the Town of Lexington by these means was alarmed, and a company of the inhabitants mustered on the occasion; that the Regular Troops, on their way to Concord, marched into the said Town of Lexington, and the said Company, on their approach, began to disperse; that notwithstanding this, the Regulars rushed on with great violence, and first began hostilities by firing on said Lexington Company, whereby they killed eight and wounded several others; that the Regulars continued their fire until those of said Company, who were neither killed nor wounded, had made their escape; that Colonel Smith, with the detachment, then marched to Concord, where a number of Provincials were again fired on by the Troops, two of them killed, and several wounded, before the Provincials fired on them; and that these hostile measures of the Troops produced an engagement that lasted through the day, in which many of the Provincials, and more of the Regular Troops, were killed and wounded.

To give a particular account of the ravages of the Troops as they retreated from Concord to Charlestown, would be very difficult, if not impracticable; let it suffice to say, that a great number of the houses on the road were plundered and rendered unfit for use; several were burnt; women in childbed were driven by the soldiery naked into the streets; old men, peaceably in their houses, were shot dead; and such scenes exhibited as would disgrace the annals of the most uncivilized Nation.

These, brethren, are marks of ministerial vengeance against this Colony, for refusing, with her sister Colonies, a submission to slavery. But they have not yet detached us from our Royal Sovereign. We profess to be his loyal and dutiful subjects, and so hardly dealt with as we have been, are still ready, with our lives and fortunes, to defend his person, family, crown, and dignity. Nevertheless, to the persecution and tyranny of his cruel Ministry we will not tamely submit; appealing to Heaven for the justice of our cause, we determine to die or be free.

We cannot think that the honour, wisdom, and valour of Britons will suffer them to be longer inactive spectators of measures in which they themselves are so deeply interested; measures pursued in opposition to the solemn protests of many noble Lords, and expressed sense of conspicuous Commoners, whose knowledge and virtue have long characterized them as some of the greatest men in the Nation; measures executing contrary to the interest, Petitions, and Resolves of many large, respectable, and opulent Counties, Cities, and Boroughs, in Great Britain; measures highly incompatible with justice, but still pursued with a specious pretence of easing the Nation of its burden; measures which, if successful, must end in the ruin and slavery of Britain, as well as the persecuted American Colonies.

We sincerely hope that the great Sovereign of the Universe, who hath so often appeared for the English Nation, will support you in every rational and manly exertion with these Colonies, for saving it from ruin; and that in a constitutional connection with the Mother Country, we shall soon be altogether a free and happy people.

Per order: JOS. WARREN, President pro tem.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
April 26, 1775. }

To the Hon. BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, Esq., LONDON:

SIR: From the entire confidence we repose in your faithfulness and abilities, we consider it the happiness of this Colony that the important trust of agency for it, on this day of unequalled distress, is devolved on your hands; and we doubt not your attachment to the cause of the liberties of mankind will make every possible exertion in our behalf a pleasure to you, although our circumstances will compel us often to interrupt your repose by matters that will surely give you pain. A single instance hereof is the occasion of the present letter; the contents of this packet will be our apology for troubling you with it. From these you will see how and by whom we are at last plunged into the horrors of a most unnatural war. Our enemies, we are told, have despatched to Great Britain a fallacious account of the tragedy they have begun; to prevent the operation of which to the publick injury, we have engaged the vessel that conveys this to you as a packet in the service of this Colony, and we request your assistance in supplying Captain Derby, who commands her, with such necessities as he shall want, on the credit of your constituents in Massachusetts-Bay. But we most ardently wish that the several papers herewith enclosed may be immediately printed and dispersed through every Town in England, and especially communicated to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London, that they may take such order thereon as they may think proper; and we are confident your fidelity will make such improvement of them as shall convince all who are not determined to be in everlasting blindness, that it is the united efforts of both Englands that must save either. But that whatever price our brethren in the one may be pleased to put on their constitutional liberties, we are authorized to assure you that the inhabitants of the other, with the greatest unanimity, are inflexibly resolved to sell theirs only at the price of their lives. Signed by order of the Provincial Congress:

Lexington, April 25, 1775.

We, Solomon Brown, Jonathan Loring, and Elijah Sanderson, all of lawful age, and of Lexington, in the County of Middlesex, and Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, do testify and declare, that on the evening of the eighteenth of April instant, being on the road between Concord and Lexington, all of us mounted on horses, we were, about ten of the clock, suddenly surprised by nine persons, whom we took to be regular officers, who rode up to us mounted and armed, each having a pistol in his hand; and after putting pistols to our breasts, and seizing the bridles of our horses, they swore that if we stirred another step we should be all dead men; upon which we surrendered ourselves. They detained us until two o'clock the next morning, in which time they searched and greatly abused us; having first inquired about the magazine at Concord, whether any guards were posted there, and whether the bridges were up; and said four or five regiments of Regulars would be in possession of the stores soon. They then brought us back to Lexington, cut the horses' bridles and girths, turned them loose, and then left us.

SOLOMON BROWN,
JONATHAN LORING,
ELIJAH SANDERSON.

MIDDLESEX, April 25, 1775:

Jonathan Loring, Solomon Brown, and Elijah Sanderson, being duly cautioned to testify the whole truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the above deposition, by them subscribed. Before us,

WM. REED,
JOSIAH JOHNSON,
WM. STICKNEY,
Justices of the Peace.

Lexington, April 25, 1775.

I, Elijah Sanderson, above named, do further testify and declare, that I was in Lexington Common the morning of the nineteenth of April aforesaid, having been dismissed by the officers above-mentioned, and saw a large body of Regular Troops advancing towards Lexington Company, many of whom were then dispersing. I heard one of the Regulars, whom I took to be an officer, say, "damn them, we will have them;" and immediately the Regulars shouted aloud, run, and fired on the Lexington Company, which did not fire a gun before the Regulars discharged on them. Eight of the Lexington Company were killed while they were dispersing, and at considerable distance from each other, and many wounded; and although a spectator, I narrowly escaped with my life. ELIJAH SANDERSON.

MIDDLESEX, ss., April 25, 1775:

Elijah Sanderson, above named, being duly cautioned to testify the whole truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the above deposition by him subscribed.

I, Nathaniel Gorham, Notary and Tabellion Publick, by lawful authority, duly admitted and sworn, hereby certify all whom it doth or may concern, that William Reed, Josiah Johnson, and William Stickney, Esquires, are three of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the County of Middlesex, and that full faith and credit are to be given to their transactions as such. In witness whereof I have hereunto affixed my name and seal, this twenty-sixth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five.

NATHANIEL GORHAM, Notary Publick.

Lexington, April 23, 1775.

I, Thomas Price Willard, of lawful age, do testify and declare, that being in the house of Daniel Harrington, of said Lexington, on the nineteenth instant, in the morning, about half an hour before sunrise, looked out of the window of said house and saw (as I suppose) about four hundred of Regulars, in one body, coming up the road, and marched toward the north part of the common, back of the meeting-house of said Lexington; and as soon as said Regulars were against the east end of the meeting-house, the commanding officers said something, what I know not; but upon that the Regulars ran till they came within about eight or nine rods of about a hundred of the Militia of Lexington, who were collected on said common, at which time the Militia of Lexington dispersed; then the officers made a huzza, and the private soldiers succeeded them. Directly after this an officer rode before the Regulars to the other side of the body, and hallooed after the Militia of said Lexington, and said, "Lay down your arms, damn you; why don't you lay down your arms?" and that there was not a gun fired till the Militia of Lexington were dispersed. And further saith not.

THOMAS PRICE WILLARD.

MIDDLESEX, ss., April 23, 1775:

The within named Thomas Price Willard personally appeared, and after due caution to testify the whole truth and nothing but the truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the written deposition by him subscribed.

Before us,

WM. REED,
JONA. HASTINGS,
DUNCAN INGRAHAM,
Justices of the Peace.

Lexington, April 25, 1775.

Simon Winship, of Lexington, in the County of Middlesex, and Province of Massachusetts-Bay, New-England, being of lawful age, testifieth and saith, that on the nineteenth of April instant, about four o'clock in the morning, as he was passing the publick road in said Lexington, peaceably and unarmed, about two miles and a half distant from the meeting-house in said Lexington, he was met by a body of the King's Regular Troops, and being stopped by some officers of said Troops, was commanded to dismount. Upon asking why he must dismount, he was obliged by force to quit his horse, and ordered to march in the midst of the body; and being examined whether he had been warning the Minute-Men, he answered no, but had been out, and was then returning to his father's. Said Winship further testifies that he marched with said Troops until he came within about half a quarter of a mile of said meeting-house, where an officer commanded the Troops to halt, and then to prime and load. This being done, the said Troops marched on till they came within a few rods of Captain Parker's Company, who were partly collected on the place of parade, when said Winship observed an officer at the head of said Troops flourishing his sword, and with a loud voice giving the word fire; which was instantly followed by a discharge of arms from said Regular Troops. And said Winship is positive, and in the most solemn manner declares, that there was no discharge of arms on either side till the word fire was given by said officer as above.

SIMON WINSHIP.

MIDDLESEX, ss., April 25, 1775:

Simon Winship, above named, appeared, and after due caution to testify the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the above deposition by him subscribed.

NATHANIEL GORHAM, Notary Publick.

Lexington, April 25, 1775.

I, John Parker, of lawful age, and commander of the Militia in Lexington, do testify and declare, that on the nineteenth instant, in the morning, about one of the clock, being informed that there were a number of Regular Officers riding up and down the road, stopping and insulting people as they passed the road, and also was informed that a number of Regular Troops were on their march from Boston, in order to take the Province Stores at Concord, ordered our Militia to meet on the common in said Lexington, to consult what to do, and concluded not to be discovered, nor meddle or make with said Regular Troops (if they should approach) unless they should insult us; and upon their sudden approach, I immediately ordered our Militia to disperse and not to fire. Immediately said Troops made their appearance, and rushed furiously, fired upon and killed eight of our party, without receiving any provocation therefor from us.

JOHN PARKER.

MIDDLESEX, ss., April 25, 1775:

The above named John Parker personally appeared, and after being duly cautioned to declare the whole truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the above deposition, by him subscribed. Before us,

Lexington, April 24, 1775.

I, John Robbins, being of lawful age, do testify and say, that on the nineteenth instant, the Company under the command of Captain John Parker being drawn up (sometime before sunrise) on the green or common, and I being in the front rank, there suddenly appeared a number of the King's Troops, about a thousand, as I thought, at the distance of about sixty or seventy yards from us, huzzaing and on a quick pace towards us, with three officers in their front on horseback, and on full gallop towards us; the foremost of which cried, "Throw down your arms, ye villains, ye rebels;" upon which said Company dispersing, the foremost of the three officers ordered their men, saying, "Fire, by God, fire; at which moment we received a very heavy and close fire from them; at which instant, being wounded, I fell, and several of our men were shot dead by one volley. Captain Parker's men, I believe, had not then fired a gun. And further the deponent saith not.

JOHN ROBBINS.

MIDDLESEX, ss., April 25, 1775:

I, John Robbins, within named, appeared, and being duly cautioned to testify the truth, and nothing but the truth, made solemn oath to the truth of the within deposition, subscribed by his special order, he being so maimed and wounded that he thought he could neither write his name nor make his mark. Before us,

WM. REED,
JOSIAH JOHNSON,
Justices of the Peace.

We, Benjamin Tidd, of Lexington, and Joseph Abbott, of Lincoln, in the County of Middlesex, and Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, in New-England, of lawful age, do testify and declare, that on the morning of the nineteenth of April instant, about five o'clock, being on Lexington common, and mounted on horses, we saw a body of Regular Troops marching up to the Lexington Company which was then dispersing. Soon after the Regulars fired first a few guns, which we took to be pistols from some of the Regulars who were mounted on horses, and then the said Regulars fired a volley or two before any guns were fired by the Lexington Company. Our horses immediately started and we rode off. And further saith not.

BENJAMIN TIDD,
JOSEPH ABBOTT.

MIDDLESEX, ss., April 25, 1775:

We further testify and declare, that about five o'clock in the morning, hearing our drum beat, we proceeded towards the parade, and soon found that a large body of Troops were marching towards us. Some of our Company were coming up to the parade, and others had reached it; at which time the Company began to disperse. Whilst our backs were turned on the Troops we were fired on by them, and a number of our men were instantly killed and wounded. Not a gun was fired by any person in our Company on the Regulars, to our knowledge, before they fired on us, and they continued firing until we had all made our escape.

I, Thomas Fessenden, of lawful age, testify and declare, that being in a pasture near the meeting-house at said

Lexington, on Wednesday last, at about half an hour before sunrise, I saw a number of Regular Troops pass speedily by said meeting-house on their way towards a Company of Militia of said Lexington, who were assembled to the number of about one hundred in a Company at the distance of eighteen or twenty rods from said meeting-house, and after they had passed by said meeting-house, I saw three officers on horseback advance to the front of said Regulars, when one of them being within six rods of the said Militia, cried out "Disperse, you rebels, immediately;" on which he brandished his sword over his head three times; meanwhile the second officer, who was about two rods behind him, fired a pistol pointed at said Militia, and the Regulars kept huzzajing till he had finished brandishing his sword, and when he had thus finished brandishing his sword, he pointed it down towards said Militia, and immediately on which the said Regulars fired a volley at the Militia, and then I ran off as fast as I could, while they continued firing till I got out of their reach. I further testify, that as soon as ever the officer cried "Disperse, you rebels," the said Company of Militia dispersed every way as fast as they could, and while they were dispersing the Regulars kept firing at them incessantly, and further saith not.

We, John Hoar, John Whitehead, Abraham Garfield, Benjamin Munroe, Isaac Parks, William Hosmer, John Adams, and Gregory Stone, all of Lincoln, in the County of Middlesex, Massachusetts-Bay, all of lawful age, do testify and say, that on Wednesday last we were assembled at Concord in the morning of said day, in consequence of information received that a Brigade of Regular Troops were on their march to the said Town of Concord, who had killed six men at the Town of Lexington. About an hour afterward we saw them approaching to the number, as we apprehended, of about twelve hundred, on which we retreated to a mill about eighty rods back, and the said Troops then took possession of the hill where we were first posted. Presently after this we saw the Troops moving towards the North Bridge, about one mile from the said Concord meeting-house; we then immediately went before them and passed the bridge, just before a party of them, to the number of about two hundred, arrived; they there left about one-half of their two hundred at the bridge, and proceeded with the rest towards Colonel Barrett's, about two miles from the said bridge. We then seeing several fires in the Town, thought the houses in Concord were in danger, and marched towards the said bridge, and the Troops who were stationed there observing our approach, marched back over the bridge, and then took up some of the plank; we then hastened our march towards the bridge, and when we had got near the bridge they fired on our men, first three guns, (one after the other,) and then a considerable number more; and then, and not before, (having orders from our commanding officer not to fire till we were fired upon,) we fired upon the Regulars, and they retreated. On their retreat through the Town of Lexington to Charlestown, they ravaged and destroyed private property, and burnt three houses, one barn, and one shop.

Lexington, April 23, 1775.

We, Nathan Barrett, Captain; Jonathan Farrer, Joseph Butler, and Francis Wheeler, Lieutenants; John Barrett, Ensign; John Brown, Silas Walker, Ephraim Melvin, Nathan Buttrick, Stephen Hosmer, Junior, Samuel Barrett, Thomas Jones, Joseph Chandler, Peter Wheeler, Nathan Peirce, and Edward Richardson, all of Concord, in the County of Middlesex, in the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, of lawful age, testify and declare, that on Wednesday, the nineteenth instant, about an hour after sunrise, we assembled on a hill near the meeting-house in Concord aforesaid, in consequence of an information,

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

that a number of Regular Troops had killed six of our countrymen at Lexington, and were on their march to said Concord; and about an hour afterwards we saw them approaching to the number, as we imagine, of about twelve hundred; on which we retreated to a hill about eighty rods back, and the aforesaid Troops then took possession of the hill where we were first posted. Presently after this we saw them moving towards the North Bridge, about one mile from said meeting-house; we then immediately went before them, and passed the bridge just before a party of them, to the number of about two hundred, arrived. They there left about one-half of these two hundred at the bridge, and proceeded with the rest towards Colonel Barrett's, about two miles from the said bridge. We then seeing several fires in the Town, thought our houses were in danger, and immediately marched back towards said bridge, and the Troops who were stationed there observing our approach, marched back over the bridge, and then took up some of the planks. We then hastened our steps towards the bridge, and when we had got near the bridge, they fired on our men, first three guns, (one after the other,) and then a considerable number more; upon which, and not before, (having orders from our commanding officer not to fire till we were fired upon,) we fired upon the Regulars, and they retreated. At Concord, and on their retreat through Lexington, they plundered many houses, burnt three at Lexington, together with a shop and a barn, and committed damage, more or less, to almost every house from Concord to Charlestown.

Concord, April 23, 1775.

I, Timothy Minot, Junior, of Concord, on the nineteenth day of this instant, April, after that I had heard of the Regular Troops firing upon Lexington men, and fearing that hostilities might be committed at Concord, thought it my incumbent duty to secure my family. After I had secured my family, some time after that returning towards my own dwelling and finding that the bridge on the northern part of said Concord was guarded by Regular Troops, being a spectator of what had happened at said bridge, declare that the Regular Troops stationed on said bridge, after they saw the men that were collected on the westerly side of said bridge march towards said bridge, then the Troops returned towards the easterly side of said bridge, and formed themselves, as I thought, for regular fight. After that they fired one gun, then two or three more, before the men that were stationed on the westerly part of said bridge fired upon them. TIMOTHY MINOT, JUN.

Lexington, April 23, 1775.

I, James Barrett, of Concord, Colonel of a Regiment of Militia in the County of Middlesex, do testify and say, that on Wednesday morning last about daybreak I was informed of the approach of a number of the Regular Troops to the Town of Concord, where were some magazines belonging to this Province. When there was assembled some of the Militia of this and the neighbouring Towns, I ordered them to march to the North Bridge, (so called,) which they had passed and were taking up. I ordered said Militia to march to said bridge and pass the same, but not to fire on the King's Troops unless they were first fired upon. We advanced near said bridge, when the said Troops fired upon our Militia and killed two men dead on the spot, and wounded several others, which was the first firing of guns in the Town of Concord. My detachment then returned the fire, which killed and wounded several of the King's Troops. JAMES BARRETT.

I, James Marr, of lawful age, testify and say, that in the evening of the eighteenth instant, I received orders from George Hutchinson, Adjutant of the Fourth Regiment of Regular Troops stationed at Boston, to prepare and march, to which order I attended, and marched to Concord, where I was ordered by an officer, with about one hundred men, to guard a certain bridge there. While attending that service, a number of people came along, in order, as I suppose, to cross said bridge, at which time a number of the Regular Troops first fired upon them.

Medford, April 25, 1775.

I, Edward Thoroton Gould, of His Majesty's own Regiment of Foot, being of lawful age, do testify and declare, that on the evening of the eighteenth instant, under the orders of General Gage, I embarked with the Light-Infantry and Grenadiers of the line, commanded by Colonel

Smith, and landed on the marshes of Cambridge, from whence we proceeded to Lexington. On our arrival at that place, we saw a body of Provincial Troops armed, to the number of about sixty or seventy men; on our approach they dispersed, and soon after firing began; but which party fired first, I cannot exactly say, as our Troops rushed on shouting and huzzaing previous to the firing, which was continued by our Troops as long as any of the Provincials were to be seen. From thence we marched to Concord. On a hill near the entrance of the Town, we saw another body of Provincials assembled; the Light-Infantry Companies were ordered up the hill to disperse them; on our approach they retreated towards Concord. The Grenadiers continued on the road under the hill towards the Town. Six companies of Light-Infantry were ordered down to take possession of the bridge which the Provincials retreated over; the Company I commanded was one; three Companies of the above detachment went forward about two miles. In the mean time the Provincial Troops returned, to the number of about three or four hundred. We drew up on the Concord side of the bridge; the Provincials came down upon us, upon which we engaged, and gave the first fire. This was the first engagement after the one at Lexington; a continual firing from both parties lasted through the whole day. I myself was wounded at the attack of the bridge, and am now treated with the greatest humanity, and taken all possible care of by the Provincials at Medford. EDWD. THOROTON GOULD,

ALEXANDER SCAMMELL TO JOHN SULLIVAN.

Portsmouth, New-Hampshire, May 3, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: Your leaving New-Hampshire at a time when your presence was so extremely necessary to cherish the glorious ardour which you have been so instrumental in inspiring us with, spread a general gloom in Durham, and in some measure damped the spirit of liberty through the Province; and nothing but the important business in which you are embarked would induce us to dispense with your presence with any degree of patience or resignation.

But when the horrid din of civil carnage surprised us on the 20th of April, the universal cry was—Oh! if Major Sullivan was here! I wish to God Major Sullivan was here! ran through the distressed multitude. April Court, which was then sitting, adjourned immediately. To arms! to arms! was breathed forth in sympathetick groans.

I went express to Boston, by desire of the Congressional Committee, then sitting at Durham, proceeded as far as Bradford, where I obtained credible information that evening. Next morning I arrived at Exeter, where the Provincial Congress was assembling with all possible haste. There I reported what intelligence I had gained: that the American Army at Cambridge, Woburn, and Charlestown, was more in need of provisions than men; that fifty thousand had assembled in thirty-six hours; and that the Regulars, who had retreated from Concord, had encamped on Bunker's Hill, in Charlestown.

The Congress, upon this report, resolved that the Durham Company, then at Exeter, (armed complete for an engagement, with a week's provisions,) should return home, and keep themselves in constant readiness. All the men being gone from the westward and southward of Newmarket, and Men-of-War expected hourly into Portsmouth, it was with the greatest difficulty your Durham soldiers were prevailed upon to return. Six or seven expresses arrived at Durham the night after our return; some desiring us to march to Kittery; some to Hampton; some to Ipswich, &c., which places, they said, sundry Men-of-War were ravaging. The whole country was in a continual alarm; but suspecting that the Marines at Portsmouth might take advantage of the confusion we were then in, and pay Durham a visit, we thought proper to stand ready to give them a warm reception; and supposing that your house and family would be the first mark of their vengeance, although I had been express the whole night before, I kept guard to defend your family and substance to the last drop of my blood. Master Smith being under the same apprehension, did actually lay in ambush behind a warehouse, and came very near sinking a fishing-boat anchored off in the river, which he supposed heaped full of Marines. Men, women, and children, were engaged day and night in preparing for the worst.

Many Towns in this Province have enlisted Minute-Men, and keep them under pay; and the Congress, before this, would actually have raised an army, had they not waited for the General Court, which sits to-morrow, in order to raise as much money as they can, to pay off their army when raised.

I am extremely mortified that I am unable to join the army at Cambridge. The particulars of the skirmish between the Regulars and Americans will, long before this, have reached you. In longing expectation, your safe, happy, and speedy return is hoped for by all your friends, but by none more sincerely than your dutiful humble servant,

ALEX. SCAMMELL.

To John Sullivan, Esq., at Philadelphia or New-York.

COMMITTEE OF BRUNSWICK TO THE BOSTON COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE.

Brunswick, May 3, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, beg liberty to inform you with our situation, as we are chosen by this Town to examine into the circumstances of it; and finding the Town very deficient as to arms and ammunition, have sent by water to Salem, but have just had our money returned back, without arms or ammunition; and at present we have not more than a quarter of a pound of powder to a man, throughout the Town, nor more than one firelock to two men; and in this defenceless state we are obliged to apply to you to assist our trusty friend whom we have sent, which is Captain Nathaniel Larrabee; and as we think it would be unsafe to transport powder by water, we have ordered him to take only one hundred weight, and for him to consult with you how and in what way it would be safest to get arms and more powder down to us.

We should esteem it a favour to be informed by you by way of letter, at every convenient opportunity, of our publick affairs. We are, gentlemen, yours ever to be commanded,
AARON HINKLEY, SAML. STANDWOOD,
BENJ. STONE, JAMES CURTIS.

NORFOLK (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of the County of Norfolk, at the Court-House of said County, on Thursday, the 4th of May, 1775:

The Resolves of the Convention held at the Town of Richmond, on the 20th of March last, were read, and unanimously approved.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Committee be presented to Thomas Newton, Junior, and James Holt, Esquires, our worthy Delegates, for their faithful discharge of the important trust reposed in them.

Having heretofore placed the highest degree of confidence in the good intentions of our Chief Magistrate towards his Majesty's most loyal and faithful subjects, the good people of this Dominion, over whom he presides, which we can safely affirm had gained him their universal esteem and respect, with equal surprise and sorrow we have seen in our publick Gazettes an extract of a Letter said to be wrote by our said Chief Magistrate, on the 24th of December last, to the Earl of Dartmouth, one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, and most grossly misrepresenting all the good people of this Colony, particularly the Magistrates, and those whom the people have elected as Committees to be the guardians of their inestimable rights and liberties. And as his Excellency has not thought proper to disavow being the author of such Letter, we must take it for granted that the extract published is a faithful copy. We therefore think it our indispensable duty, in justice to our own reputations, and that of our constituents, who have honoured us with such marks of their confidence and esteem, to refute so unjust and unmerited, so defamatory and atrocious a charge.

First, then, we declare that we know of no instance wherein any Committee in this or the neighbouring Counties has assumed an authority to inspect the books, or any other secrets of the trade of Merchants. We admit to have known some instances where some Merchants, being suspected of a breach of the Association, have voluntarily offered some private letters and books to be inspected, in order to acquit themselves of such charge.

He next says we stigmatize those we discover to have transgressed what we hardly call the Laws of the Congress; which stigmatizing, to use the words in the said extract, "is no other than inviting the vengeance of an outrageous and lawless mob to be exercised on the unhappy victims." Several in this Borough and County have been held up for publick censure for breaches of the Association, but no vengeance of any mob or individual has been inflicted on them, not even that fashionable one lately introduced by the Troops under the command of General Gage; and we could call upon sundry persons here who were thus stigmatized, to justify this assertion.

We wish his Excellency had deigned to name the County where the Committee had proceeded so far as to swear the men of their Independent Company to execute all orders which they should give them, as it is a piece of information entirely new to us; as well as that of every other County forming an Independent Company, for the avowed purpose, (as he says) of protecting their Committees, and to be employed against Government, if occasion require. We hope all the dark plots of our most secret or declared enemies will prove ineffectual in bringing matters to that unhappy issue; and we have so high an opinion of the virtue of our countrymen, that we look upon the solemnity of an oath altogether unnecessary to stimulate them to stand forth firm and intrepid upon all just occasions, in support of their civil and religious rights and liberties.

Whilst we were thus fondly flattering ourselves that we had in his Excellency a most powerful advocate in order to accommodate the unhappy disputes subsisting between Great Britain and the Colonies, we leave the world to judge what poignant sorrow we must feel on the discovery that it was a vain delusion; and that, instead of the good offices we expected, he was all the time widening the breach, by misrepresenting so greatly our conduct to those in power; and we now discover, from his Excellency's said Letter, that his gentle and lenient conduct, which we were too ready to attribute to the regard he possessed, and which we flattered ourselves he had for his Government, proceeded only from his fears of the disgrace of a disappointment; and we find, as soon as it was known that that Letter would be made publick, the mask was thrown off; and the first step taken to open the eyes of the people, was the seizing of the Gunpowder in the publick Magazine, in the most secret manner. How far such a manœuvre is justifiable, is not our intention at present to inquire into, that being a point on which the publick will undoubtedly undertake to judge for themselves; but we cannot help giving it as our opinion, that his Excellency's answer to the Address of the respectable Corporation of the City of Williamsburgh, on that occasion, is highly disrespectful and evasive. And now, my countrymen, let us, by our steady perseverance in virtue and unanimity, convince his Excellency, when he says that every step we take must inevitably defeat its own purpose, that he (to use the phrase of our late truly worthy and noble Governour) has not augured right.

We thought ourselves under the indispensable necessity of making the foregoing strictures on the above-mentioned Letter, lest our silence might be construed by our countrymen, or others, into a tacit confession of our guilt; and now we submit to the publick how far his Excellency merits the continuance of that unlimited confidence heretofore placed in him. The tribute of our respect we are still willing to pay him as our Chief Magistrate, and the representative of our most gracious Sovereign, to whom we shall always pay all due obedience.

Ordered, That the Clerk send a copy of these proceedings to Messrs. Dixon and Hunter, and Mr. John Hunter Holt, to be published; and they are desired to publish them in their next Gazettes.

BENJAMIN CROOKER, Clerk.

Williamsburgh, Virginia, May 4, 1775.

The Town of York being somewhat alarmed by a Letter from Captain Montague, commander of His Majesty's ship the Fowey, addressed to the Honourable Thomas Nelson, Esquire, President of His Majesty's Council in Virginia; and a copy of said Letter being procured, a motion was made that the copy should be laid before the Committee, and considered. The copy was read, and is as follows:

Fowey, May 4, 1775.

SIR: I have this morning received certain information, that his Excellency the Lord Dunmore, Governour of Virginia, is threatened with an attack at daybreak this morning, at his Palace at Williamsburgh, and have thought proper to send a detachment from His Majesty's Ship under my command, to support his Excellency; therefore strongly pray you to make use of every endeavour to prevent the party from being molested or attacked, as, in that case, I must be under a necessity to fire upon this Town.

To the Honourable Thomas Nelson, from GEORGE MONTAGUE.

The Committee, together with Captain Montague's Letter, taking into consideration the time of its being sent, which was too late to permit the President to use his influence had the inhabitants been disposed to "molest and attack" the detachment; and further considering that Colonel Nelson, who, had this threat been carried into execution, must have been a principal sufferer, was, at that very moment, exerting his utmost endeavours in behalf of Government, and the safety of his Excellency's person, unanimously came to the following Resolutions:

Resolved, That Captain Montague, in threatening to fire upon a defenceless Town, in case of an attack upon the detachment, in which said Town might not be concerned, has testified a spirit of cruelty unprecedented in the annals of civilized times; that, in his last notice to the President, he has added insult to cruelty; and that, considering the circumstance already mentioned, of one of the most considerable inhabitants of said Town, he has discovered the most hellish principles that can actuate a human mind.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the inhabitants of this Town, and of the County in general, that they do not entertain or show any other mark of civility to Captain Montague, besides what common decency and absolute necessity require.

Resolved, That the Clerk do transmit the above proceedings to the publick Printers, to be inserted in the Virginia Gazettes.

WILLIAM RUSSELL, Clerk to Committee.

TOWN-MEETING, UPPER FREEHOLD, (MONMOUTH COUNTY) NEW-JERSEY.

Monmouth County, Upper Freehold, May 4, 1775.

This day, agreeable to previous notice, a very considerable number of the principal inhabitants of this Township met at Inlay's Town:

JOHN LAWRENCE, Esquire, in the Chair.

When the following Resolves were unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, That it is our first wish to live in union with Great Britain, agreeable to the principles of the Constitution; that we consider the unnatural civil war which we are about to be forced into, with anxiety and distress; but that we are determined to oppose the novel claim of the Parliament of Great Britain to raise a revenue in America, and risk every possible consequence rather than submit to it.

Resolved, That it appears to this meeting that there are a sufficient number of Arms for the people.

Resolved, That a sum of money be now raised to purchase what further quantity of Powder and Ball may be necessary; and it is recommended that every man capable of bearing arms enter into Companies to train, and be prepared to march at a minute's warning; and it is further recommended to the people that they do not waste their Powder in fowling or hunting.

A subscription was then opened, and One Hundred and Sixty Pounds instantly paid into the hands of a person appointed for that purpose. The Officers of four Companies were then chosen, and the meeting broke up in perfect unanimity.

ELISHA LAWRENCE, Clerk.

TOWN-MEETING, NEWARK, NEW-JERSEY.

Newark, New-Jersey, May 4, 1775.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and Inhabitants of the Township of Newark, in New-Jersey, on Thursday, the 4th day of May, A. D. 1775:

DOCTOR WILLIAM BURNETT in the Chair.

An Association having been entered into and subscribed by the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of said Town, a motion was made and agreed to, that the same be read. The same was accordingly read, and is as follows:

"We, the Freeholders and Inhabitants of the Township of Newark, having deliberately considered the openly avowed design of the Ministry of Great Britain to raise a revenue in America; being affected with horror at the bloody scene now acting in the Massachusetts-Bay for carrying that arbitrary design into execution; firmly convinced that the very existence of the rights and liberties of America can, under God, subsist on no other basis than the most animated and perfect union of its inhabitants; and being sensible of the necessity, in the present exigency, of preserving good order, and a due regulation in all publick measures, with hearts perfectly abhorrent of slavery, do solemnly, under all the sacred ties of religion, honour, and love to our Country, associate and resolve, that we will, personally, and as far as our influence can extend, endeavour to support and carry into execution whatever measures may be recommended by the Continental Congress, or agreed upon by the proposed Convention of Deputies of this Province, for the purposes of preserving and fixing our Constitution on a permanent basis, and opposing the execution of the several despotick and oppressive Acts of the British Parliament, until the wished-for reconciliation between Great Britain and America, on constitutional principles, can be obtained.

"That a General Committee be chosen by this Town for the purposes aforesaid, and that we will be directed by, and support them in all things respecting the 'common cause, the preservation of peace, good order, the safety of individuals, and private property.'"

Voted, That Isaac Ogden, Esquire, Captain Philip Van Cortlandt, Bethuel Pierson, and Caleb Camp, be the Deputies to represent said Township in the Provincial Congress referred to in the said Association.

The General Committee also mentioned in the said Association, was then chosen, consisting of forty-four.

Agreed, That the powers delegated to the Deputies and General Committee, continue until the expiration of five weeks after the rising of the next Continental Congress, and no longer.

Agreed, That the General Committee have power to appoint one or more Sub-Committees, to act on any emergency.

ISAAC LONGWORTH, Town Clerk.

The General Committee immediately convened, and elected Lewis Ogden, Esquire, Chairman, Doctor William Burnett, Deputy Chairman, and Elisha Boudinot, Esq., Clerk of the said General Committee.

Agreed, That the above-named Lewis Ogden, Esquire,

Doctor William Burnett, Elisha Boudinot, Esquire, Isaac Ogden, Esquire, and Mr. Isaac Longworth, be a Committee of Correspondence for said Town.

ELISHA BOUDINOT, Clerk to Committee.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN NEW-YORK TO HIS CORRESPONDENT IN LONDON, DATED MAY 4, 1775.

The General Committee of One Hundred have stopped all supplies to Boston, Newfoundland, and all the Fishing Coasts, after the example of Philadelphia. The members of His Majesty's Council have sent a copy of the Minutes of their proceedings to the Committee this morning, with liberty to communicate the purport of them. The minutes (which are the outlines of a letter to be transmitted by this packet) contain a just and true account of the circumstances which took place on the news of an engagement; acknowledged the receipt of a letter from Lord Dartmouth of the 24th of March, wherein he hints at a plan of accommodation being to be offered; in answer to which they give their opinion explicitly, that no terms will be attended to in the present ferment; and unless General Gage ceases hostilities, it will be in vain to make proposals of any kind. In short, that this and all other Provinces are resolved, not only to refuse submission to the late and present Acts of Parliament, but to oppose, at the risk of their lives and fortunes, all those who come to enforce them.

New-York, May 4, 1775.

We hear that the Post, having been interrupted, the Postmaster (who has hitherto, without legal authority, been appointed from home, and as a convenience, permitted here unquestioned) has discharged the riders, the expense of which he has no longer a fund to support. An office for this necessary business will doubtless be put under proper regulations by the Continental Congress, and no more be permitted to return to the rapacious hands of unauthorized intruders, since it would be the most contemptible pusillanimity to suffer a revenue to be raised from our property to defray the expense of cutting our throats! We hear Mr. William Goddard, who has been a great sufferer, with many others, by the malpractices of an illegal holder of this office, is now on a journey to the Eastward, in order to put the business under proper regulations to be laid before the Congress.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO DOCTOR JOSEPH WARREN.

Hartford, May 4, 1775.

SIR: Your letter of the 2d of May instant, is received. You may be informed from our letter to Brigadier-General Putnam, what is already done by our General Assembly, and need not fear our firmness, deliberation, and unanimity to pursue the measures which appear best for our common defence and safety, and in no degree to relax our vigilant preparations for that end, and to act in union and concert with our sister Colonies, and shall be cautious of trusting promises which may be in the power of any one to evade. We hope no ill consequences will attend our embassy to General Gage.

Should be glad to be furnished with the evidences duly authenticated concerning the attack on the 19th of April last, at Lexington, which it is presumed you have taken. Though we are at a distance from the distressing scene before your eyes, yet are most sensibly affected with the alarming relations of them.

I am, in behalf of the Governour and Company, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable Joseph Warren, Esquire.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF MASSACHUSETTS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Cambridge, May 4, 1775.

The distressed situation into which a wicked and despotick Administration have involved this Country, will justify us in your eyes, as we presume, in our present most earnest and pressing desire that you will immediately send us three or four thousand men of your establishment, in order to enable us to secure a pass of the greatest importance to our common interest, and which the enemy will certainly possess themselves of as soon as their reinforcement arrive; and if they once get possession, it will cost us much blood and treasure to dislodge them, but may now be secured by us if we had a force sufficient, without any danger. Therefore we earnestly repeat our request for three or four thousand men for the present purpose, with all possible despatch, and supported with all necessary stores of ammunition and provision; and would beg that they may be forwarded in Companies or Regiments, as fast as they can be got ready. This will make it easier to the Troops, and to the country through which they may pass, and may probably be of more essential service to our common cause. We are, &c.

MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Cambridge, May 4, 1775.

It is with the highest satisfaction this Committee received your letter of the 2d instant, expressive of your tender care and sympathy with this Colony under our alarming situation. All we can write on this occasion is, that the exigency of our affairs requires all the assistance which your better judgment shall dictate. We rest assured that your zeal for the common safety will inspire you to do every thing that is proper for the safety and preservation of the unalienable rights of America. We are, &c.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN PITTS-FIELD TO AN OFFICER AT CAMBRIDGE, DATED MAY 4, 1775.

I have the pleasure to acquaint you that a number of gentlemen from Connecticut went from this place last Tuesday morning, having been joined by Colonel Easton, Captain Dickinson, and Mr. Brown, with forty soldiers, on an expedition against Ticonderoga and Crown Point, expecting to be reinforced by a thousand men from the Grants above here, a post having previously taken his departure to inform Colonel Ethan Allen of the design, and desiring him to hold his Green-Mountain boys in actual readiness. The expedition has been carried on with the utmost secrecy, as they are in hopes of taking those forts by surprise. We expect they will reach those forts by Saturday next, or Lord's day at farthest. The plan was concerted at Hartford last Saturday, by the Governour and Council; Colonel Hancock, and Mr. Adams, and others from our Province being present. Three hundred Pounds were drawn immediately out of the Treasury for the aforesaid purpose, and committed to those gentlemen that were here. We earnestly pray for success to this important expedition, as the taking those places would afford us a key to all Canada. Should success attend this expedition, we expect a strong reinforcement will be sent from the western part of Connecticut to keep those forts, and to repair and fortify them well.

We have had much work here of late with the Tories; a dark plot has been discovered of sending names down to General Gage; in consequence of which, and the critical situation of this Town, we have been obliged to act with vigour, and have sent Mr. Jones and Mr. Graves to Northampton Jail, where they now lie in close confinement, and have sent a hue and cry after Major Stoddard and Mr. Little, who have fled to New-York for shelter. We hope it will not be long before they are taken into custody and committed to close confinement. Our Tories are the worst in the Province; all the effect the late and present operations have had upon them is, they are mute and pensive, and secretly wish for more prosperous days to toriyism.

As to your important operations, sir, you have the fervent prayers of all good men that success may attend them. I hope God will inspire you with wisdom from above in all your deliberations, and your soldiers with courage and fortitude, and that Boston will be speedily delivered into your hands, the General thereof, and all the King's Troops, that the den of thieves, that nest of robbers, that asylum for traitors and murderers, may be broke up, and never another red coat from England set foot on these shores.

SELECTMEN OF TOPSHAM, IN LINCOLN COUNTY, TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Topsham, May 4, 1775.

This is to inform the Honourable Congress that the Town of Topsham is almost destitute of powder and flints; and we desire that your honourable body would direct Mr. Prince Rose, the man we have sent for powder, to some place where he can get about sixty or seventy weight of powder, and you will oblige the inhabitants of Topsham, who are true friends to liberty and friends to our Country.

In behalf of the inhabitants of Topsham:

JOHN FULTON, }
JAMES BEVERIDGE, } Selectmen.

COLONEL THOMAS GILBERT TO HIS SONS.

Boston, May 4, 1775.

On the 27th of April, I left the Ship, took passage on board a packet sloop on the first instant, in health arrived here, where I expect to stay till the Rebels are subdued, which I believe will not be long first, as the Ships and Troops are daily expected. My greatest fears are, you will be seduced or compelled to take arms with those deluded people. Dear sons, if those wicked sinners, the Rebels, entice you believe them not, but die by the sword rather than be hanged as Rebels, which will certainly be your fate sooner or later if you join them, or be killed in battle, and will be no more than you deserve. I wish you in Boston, and all the friends to Government. The Rebels have proclaimed that those friends may have liberty, and come in; but as all their declarations have hitherto proved, I fear, false, this may be so. Let Ruggles know his father wants him here. You may come by water from Newport. If here the King will give you provisions and pay you wages; but by experience you know neither your persons nor estates are safe in the country, for as soon as you have raised any thing, they will rob you of it, as they are more savage and cruel than heathens, or any other creatures, and, it is generally thought, than devils. You will put yourselves out of their power as soon as possible. This is from your affectionate father,

THOS. GILBERT.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN LONDON TO HIS FRIEND IN NEW-YORK, DATED MAY 5, 1775.

It has been long the object of Administration to reduce your Province, representing it as inimical to the system of opposition to their measures, so universally adopted in the other Colonies. To obviate this calumny, the friends of America have had little opportunity of vindicating you, because the intelligence from New-York comes here generally to persons absolutely devoted to the mandates of a very wicked Administration. The mercantile connections of New-York, as far as my knowledge extends, are as little friendly to American liberty as any I know. I wish it was in my power to point out your friends, for I do not mean to expose your enemies, who make themselves conspicuous enough.

The Troops from Ireland, destined to shackle the Bostonians, and with them every American, are about sailing. The three Generals, Howe, Clinton, and Burgoyne, have sailed. Howe is well known in America; Clinton is the son of one of your former Governours; these are both men of character—they go on this business with much reluctance; but they were told, you must do this or starve. As to Burgoyne, I am not master of language enough to express the horrible blackness of his character. Refer to the letters of Junius to the Duke of Grafton, to which I will add but one anecdote, for the truth of which you may be assured; that he (Burgoyne) declared, when those letters were published, if he could find out the author, he would assassinate him. Governour Tryon goes off in a day or two to strengthen the ministerial party with you, and has the command of money to bribe. A word to the wise. Major Skene has deceived the Ministry, in persuading them that he can bribe all the Members of the Continental Congress, for which purpose he has been sent off to Philadelphia.

The ministerial plan is undoubtedly to reduce every American to the most degraded state of absolute bondage and servitude. The two modes by which they hope to accomplish their end, are, using force and violence in New- England; and with bribery and other artifices, to divide the rest of the Colonies from the common cause; for this end New-York is not mentioned in the lately passed Act of Parliament for restraining the trade of Virginia, Maryland, &c. This grant, however, I cannot view in any other light than that of a tyrant, who might allow me to eat, but at the same time would put me to death if I went to a certain place where only I could get any thing to eat; for all connection whatsoever is cut off between New-York and the other Colonies. There is not in nature a clearer truth to me, than that if America is firmly united, and determined to encounter every difficulty rather than submit to the tyranny that is at this moment planned for them all without distinction by the present Ministers, it will be impracticable for the scheme to succeed. Without taking into the account the uncertainty of war, where the battle is not always to the strong, the natural and self-evident reasons for determining so absolutely in this question, are so clear and decisive, that it would be more absurd than any sceptick ever was yet to doubt it. I therefore conclude, the yeomanry at large, in the Government of New-York, will steadily persevere in maintaining their rights, and firmly unite with the other Colonies in whatever measures the grand Continental Council at Philadelphia may think best to adopt; notwithstanding the attempts to disunite you by a few men, who, for a golden gratuity, will sell themselves, their Country, and posterity, to tyranny, in hopes they may be the under-executioners. It is confidently said here, that Doctor Cooper's reward for what he has been doing and writing against his Country, will be the American Bishoprick, which is certainly to be established as soon as you are subdued. Parson Vardell is here, the agent for this business, I am told, and if so, no doubt expects a deanery to be added to his present appointments. Your persecutions will be complete, when the religious is added to the military.

Mr. McDougall, from the Committee of Correspondence and Intelligence, reported a draft of a Circular Letter to the different Colonies, which being read and approved of,

Ordered, That copies be engrossed and forwarded accordingly by the Committee of Correspondence.

A Letter, dated Richmond County, 2d May, 1775, from Paul Micheau and others, advising of their having appointed Deputies to attend the Provincial Congress, received and read.

Ordered, That Mr. Duyckinck and Mr. Denning be a Sub-Committee to attend the sales of a parcel of Cutlery, the property of Henry Johns, imported in December last.

Ordered, That Mr. Sharpe, Mr. Seaton, Mr. Duyckinck, and Mr. G. W. Ludlow, be a Committee to wait on every gentleman chosen to represent this City and County in Provincial Congress, and to request their strict attendance at the time appointed; and if any of them should decline to accept and execute that trust, to make report thereof to this Committee; and that they also wait on those gentlemen who have been chosen of this Committee and have not attended, to request their attendance; and if any of them should decline, to make report also of their names to this Committee.

Mr. McDougall, from the Committee of Correspondence, reported a draft of an answer to the address of Captain Samuel Broome and his Company; which being approved of,

Ordered, That the same be engrossed, signed by the Chairman, and presented to Captain Broome.

A Letter, dated Annapolis, May 1, 1775, from Matthew Tilghman, enclosing a Resolution of their Provincial Convention, suspending all Exportation to Quebeck, Newfoundland, Nova-Scotia, &c., received and read.

Mr. Kissam, from the Committee of Correspondence, reported and read the draft of a Letter to the Lord Mayor and Corporation of London, which being approved of,

Ordered, That copies be engrossed, signed, and forwarded.

A Letter, dated Albany, 3d May, 1775, from the Committee of Correspondence, received and read.

Ordered, That as Messrs. Adams and Hancock are daily expected in this City, the Committee of Correspondence and Intelligence wait on them, and request a private conference on the subject-matter of the above letter.

Mr. Berrian, seconded by Mr. Jay, moved that the tenth rule of this Committee be amended: that instead of every proceeding or debate of this Committee being kept secret, every thing may be divulged except such particular matters as shall be enjoined from the Chair to be kept private.

Which being unanimously agreed to,

Ordered, That the said amendment be accordingly made.

The Committee adjourned to Monday, 8th instant.

CIRCULAR LETTER FROM THE NEW-YORK COMMITTEE TO THE SEVERAL COLONIES.

New-York, May 5, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: At a time when the most vigorous exertions are most absolutely necessary for the defence of American liberty against the depredations of ministerial power; and the blood of our brethren in the Massachusetts has been actually shed for daring to maintain the rights of Englishmen; the inhabitants of this City and County have, in the most explicit manner, as you may perceive by the enclosed Association, resolved to stand and fall with the freedom of the Continent.

We are confident that our constituents are sincere in the strong assurances they have given us, that while we continue in office, they will be guided by our advice and direction. We have thought it necessary to advise the withholding supplies from the British Fisheries on the American Coasts, and to cease all exports to those Colonies which at this alarming juncture refuse to unite in the common cause. The expediency of this measure is too evident to need elucidation, and will doubtless procure us many hearty advocates in Britain for the redress of our grievances. Besides which, we have resolved to withhold all provisions and necessaries from the Army and Navy at Boston.

Our late Committee of Observation thought proper to recommend the appointment of a Provincial Congress; in consequence of which our constituents have chosen twenty-one Deputies to meet at this City, on the 22d instant, those who may be appointed for that purpose in the other Counties of this Colony. For your further satisfaction on these matters, we beg leave to refer you to the enclosed papers, to require you to communicate the substance of this information to your next neighbours, and to assure you that in our department we will watch incessantly for the publick safety. By order of the Committee:

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient and humble servant,
HENRY REMSEN, Deputy Chairman.

TO THE LORD MAYOR AND CORPORATION OF LONDON.

Committee Chamber, New-York, May 5, 1775.

MY LORD AND GENTLEMEN: Distinguished as you are by your noble exertions in the cause of liberty, and deeply interested in the expiring commerce of the Empire, you necessarily command the most respectful attention. The General Committee of Association for the City and County of New-York beg leave, therefore, to address you, and the capital of the British Empire, through its Magistrates, on the subject of American wrongs. Born to the bright inheritance of English freedom, the inhabitants of this extensive Continent can never submit to the ignominious yoke, nor move in the galling fetters of slavery: the disposal of their own property with perfect spontaneity, and in a manner wholly divested of every appearance of constraint, is their indefeasible birthright. This exalted blessing they are resolutely determined to defend with their blood, and transfer it uncontaminated to their posterity.

You will not then wonder at their early jealousy of the design to erect in this land of liberty a despotism scarcely to be paralleled in the pages of antiquity, or the volumes of modern times; a despotism consisting in power assumed by the Representatives of a part of His Majesty's subjects, at their sovereign will and pleasure to strip the rest of their property. And what are the engines of Administration to execute this destructive project? The duty on tea; oppressive restraints on the commerce of the Colonies; the blockade of the Port of Boston; the change of internal police in the Massachusetts and Quebeck; the establishment of Popery in the latter, the extension of its bounds; the ruin of our Indian commerce by regulations calculated to aggrandize that arbitrary Government; unconstitutional admiralty jurisdictions throughout the Colonies; the invasion of our right to a trial in the most capital cases by a jury of the vicinage; the horrid contrivance to screen from punishment the bloody executioners of ministerial vengeance; and, not to mention the rest of the black catalogue of our grievances, the hostile operations of an Army, who have already shed the blood of our countrymen. The struggles excited by the detestable Stamp Act have so lately demonstrated to the world that the Americans will not be slaves, that we stand astonished at the gross impolicy of the Minister. Recent experience has evinced that the possessors of this extensive Continent would never submit to a tax by pretext of legislative authority in Britain; disguise, therefore, became the expedient; in pursuit of the same end, Parliament declared their absolute supremacy over the Colonies, and have already endeavoured to exercise that supremacy in attempting to raise a revenue under the specious pretence of providing for their good Government and defence. Administration, to exhibit a degree of moderation, purely ostensible and delusory, while they withdrew their hands from our most necessary articles of importation, determined, with an eager grasp, to hold the duty on tea as a badge of their taxative power. Zealous on our part for an indissoluble union with the Parent State, studious to promote the glory and happiness of the Empire, and impressed with a just sense of the necessity of a controlling authority, to regulate and harmonize the discordant commercial interests of its various parts, we cheerfully submit to a regulation of commerce by the Legislature of the Parent State, excluding in its nature every idea of taxation.

Whither, therefore, the present machinations of arbitrary power infallibly tend, you may easily judge; if unremittedly pursued, as they were inhumanly devised, they will, by a fatal necessity, terminate in a total dissolution of the Empire. The subjects of this Country will not, we trust, be deceived by any measures conciliatory in appearance, while it is evident that the Minister aims at a solid revenue to be raised by grievous and oppressive Acts of Parliament, and by fleets and armies employed to enforce their execution. They never will, we believe, submit to an auction in the Colonies, for the more effectual augmentation of the revenue, by holding it up as a temptation to them, that the highest bidders shall enjoy the greatest share of governmental favour. This plan, as it would tend to sow the seeds of discord, would be far more dangerous than hostile force, in which we hope the King's Troops will ever be, as they have already been, unsuccessful. Instead of those unusual, extraordinary, and unconstitutional modes of procuring levies from the subject, should His Majesty graciously be pleased upon suitable emergencies, to make requisitions in ancient form, the Colonies have expressed their willingness to contribute to the support of the Empire; but to contribute of their voluntary gift as Englishmen. And when our unexampled grievances are redressed, our Prince will find his American subjects testifying on all proper occasions, by as ample aids as their circumstances will permit, the most unshaken fidelity to their Sovereign, and inviolable attachment to the welfare of his realm and Dominions.

Permit us further to assure you, that America is grown so irritable by oppression, that the least shock in any part is, by the most powerful and sympathetick affection, instantaneously felt through the whole Continent; that Pennsylvania, Maryland, and New-York, have already stopped their exports to the Fishing Islands, and those Colonies which at this dangerous juncture have refused to unite with their brethren in the common cause, and all supplies to the Navy and Army at Boston; and that probably the day is at hand when our Continental Congress will totally shut up our Ports. The minions of power here may now inform Administration, if they can ever speak the language of truth, that this City is as one man in the cause of liberty; that to this end our inhabitants are almost unanimously bound by the enclosed Association; that it is continually advancing to perfection by additional subscriptions; that they are resolutely bent on supporting their Committee, and the intended Provincial and Continental Congresses; that there is not the least doubt of the efficacy of their example in the other Counties; in short, that while the whole Continent are ardently wishing for peace on such terms as can be acceded to by Englishmen, they are indefatigable in preparing for the last appeal. That such are the language and conduct of our fellow-citizens, will be further manifested by a representation of the Lieutenant-Governor and Council, of the first instant, to General Gage, at Boston, and to His Majesty's Ministers, by the packet.

Assure yourselves, my lord and gentlemen, that we speak the real sentiments of the confederated Colonies on the Continent, from Nova-Scotia to Georgia, when we declare, that all the horrors of civil war will never compel America to submit to taxation by authority of Parliament.

A sincere regard to the publick weal and the cause of humanity, a hearty desire to spare the further effusion of human blood, our loyalty to our Prince, and the love we bear to all our fellow-subjects in His Majesty's Realm and Dominions, and a full conviction of the warmest attachment in the capital of the Empire to the cause of justice and liberty, have induced us to address you on this momentous subject, confident that the same cogent motives will induce the most vigorous exertions of the City of London to restore union, mutual confidence, and peace to the whole Empire.

We have the honour to be, my lord and gentlemen, your most obedient, and affectionate fellow-subjects,

MEMBERS OF THE NEW-YORK ASSEMBLY TO GENERAL GAGE.

New-York, May 5, 1775.

SIR: In the recess of the General Assembly we, who are members of it, cannot avoid addressing your Excellency on a subject of the utmost importance.

We have long seen, with the greatest anxiety, the progress of the unhappy contest between Great Britain and the Colonies; and as we have ardently wished for a cordial reconciliation, so we have, to the utmost of our power, endeavoured to pursue the means of attaining so desirable an end. While we were looking up to this object, encouraged to hope for the attainment of it by the assurances we had that a spirit of reconciliation was prevailing in the Mother Country, we were extremely alarmed at the late melancholy transactions in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, ending in actual bloodshed. The immediate effect occasioned by the intelligence of such important events, was a general agitation in the minds of the people here, which has since subsided into a fixed, confirmed resolution, to withhold all supplies and succours from the Troops under your Excellency's command, while they are at the same time associating and arming to put themselves in a state of defence.

Alarmed as we are by the ruinous consequences which must inevitably follow the prosecution of hostile measures, and anxiously affected with the calamities of an unnatural civil war, we are induced most earnestly to entreat your Excellency, in behalf of the Colonies, (which, however tenacious of their rights and liberties, and jealous of every infringement of them, can be exceeded in loyalty and affection for our most gracious Sovereign by none of his subjects,) that your Excellency will, as far as may be consistent with your duty, immediately order a cessation of further hostilities, until His Majesty can be apprised of the situation of the American Colonies. From such a request we entertain the most favourable expectations, when we reflect on the humanity and clemency which distinguish your Excellency's character, and which must render a conflict between Britons and Americans a subject of the most disagreeable nature to you. While we consider the state of mind which prevails among the people here, we cannot but mention their apprehensions at the report of the destination of some Troops for this place; should this really be the case, we must express our wish that it might also be consistent with your Excellency's duty, that no military force might land or be stationed in this Province.

It behooves us to acquaint your Excellency that two of the members of His Majesty's Council of this Province have this day sailed in the Packet for England; and we flatter ourselves that the indulgent Father of his People will be moved by the distressed situation of his American subjects, and that he will permit a negotiation to take place, which may prevent the further effusion of blood, and open a door for a lasting accommodation of present disputes. We are your Excellency's most obedient humble servants,

JOHN CRUGER,	JAMES JAUNCEY,
FRED. PHILIPS,	ZEB. WILLIAMS,
JACOB WALTON,	BENJ. SEAMAN,

SELECTMEN OF WORCESTER TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

[Worcester, May 5, 1775.]

The Selectmen of Worcester humbly pray that you would let them know what establishment you have made for a Post, or Post-riders from Worcester to the Army, &c., that they may conduct themselves agreeable to your orders and the publick weal.

We also beg your direction what regard we shall pay to Governour Gage's precept for calling a General Assembly, to be held in Boston, on the 31st day of May next. We think a similarity of conduct of every Town in the Province best, and know not how to obtain it but by your direction. We are, gentlemen, your humble servants, the Selectmen of Worcester. Per order:

JOSHUA BIGELOW.

To the Honourable President of the Provincial Congress, and the Honourable Members thereof, now assembled at Watertown.

PETITION TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

An address to the Provincial Congress, or any gentleman that is a Storekeeper for the Congress, from us, the out-skirts of the settlements on Sheepscot River and Deer's River, (without the limits of any Town,) under the command of Charles Glidden, Senior.

GENTLEMEN: It is our humble petition to you to supply us, your petitioners, with powder and ball, or lead, in order to be ready furnished to attend any alarm or call to assist in vindication of our American cause; and entreating your compliance with and fulfilment of this our address, will encourage our hearts, and raise up our spirits to a higher pitch of courage, and shall ever subscribe ourselves your obliged friends, and ready to serve.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE HON. ENOCH FREEMAN, ESQ., TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Falmouth, May 5, 1775.

We have lately heard that the Penobscot Indians are highly exasperated at Captain Goldthwaite, for suffering the Tender to dismantle the Fort there, and carry off the powder; that the truck trade is stopped, as we are informed; and that there was a number of men round about there going to take Goldthwaite, for delivering up the Fort, into their custody, but what they intend to do with him I don't hear. Perhaps it would be prudent for the Congress to send down there and secure the Indians in our interest, by keeping the truck trade open, supplying them powder, or any other method in their wisdom, upon mature consideration, they may think best. A hint on this head is enough.

The Selectmen of this Town have this moment agreed with one Mr. Jabez Matthews and one David Dinsmore, of New-Gloucester, to go over to Quebeck, to make discovery whether any Canadians are in motion to come on our back settlements, or to excite the Indians to do it; and I have wrote to Mr. Remington Holby, of Vassalborough, to procure one or two to go with them as hunters. And they are charged to be cautious not to let the Canadians have reason so much as to suspect their business; and they will depend on your endeavouring to get the Congress to order them adequate satisfaction out of the publick fund. If they discover any evil designs, we shall be glad to know it, that we may prepare accordingly for our defence. If they find there is no design upon us, it will be a great satisfaction to this eastern country.

I could write a good deal in favour of sending such an embassy, but as my time is almost wholly taken up on publick matters, I have little time to spare.

PETITION OF TIMOTHY LANGDON TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Georgetown, May 5, 1775.

To the Honourable the President of the Provincial Congress, the Petition of TIMOTHY LANGDON humbly sheweth:

That upon the second day of May instant, a Committee of Safety for ten Towns in the County of Lincoln, met at Pownalsborough, and, amongst other matters, took under consideration the expediency of removing the King's masts, being now in the dock in Georgetown; when it was unanimously voted that it was inexpedient to remove them.

That on the fourth day of May instant, a meeting of the Committees of Inspection for a number of Towns in the County of Lincoln, was held in Georgetown, and after duly considering of all matters respecting the King's masts, were of opinion that all persons be forbid to work upon said masts, or aid in any manner in fitting them for the King's use.

That Edward Parry, Esquire, who had procured those masts more than a year since, had promised the Committee that no person should ship those masts for him, but there they should remain in the dock in Georgetown. The Committees of Inspection were then of opinion, that it was inexpedient to remove the masts from the Dock.

That while the Committees of Inspection were met, Colonel Samuel Thompson, of Brunswick, in the County of Cumberland, appeared with twenty armed men, and when he had heard of the result of the Committees, he seized upon the body of Edward Parry, Esquire, and kept him in custody till he gave bonds in two thousand Pounds to tarry in this Town till the pleasure of Congress shall be known respecting him, and also obliged the said Edward to pay for the victuals and drink of him the said Thompson and his men, amounting to the sum of forty-two Shillings, lawful money.

That the said Edward Parry has ever behaved himself as a peaceable member of society, and he declared to the Committees, that had he known there was any order of Congress respecting the masts, he would not have concerned himself with them. Wherefore, your petitioner, at the request of, and as Clerk to the Committee of Inspection, humbly prays the honourable Congress that they would take the matters of fact above stated under consideration, and that orders be sent to Messrs. Dummer Sewall and Jordan Parker, the bondmen for said Parry, that he the said Parry may be released from his confinement, and they the said Dummer and Jordan released from their bonds; and your petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c.

TIM. LANGDON.

JAMES GOWEN AND OTHERS TO GENERAL WARD,

Kittery, May 5, 1775.

SIR: Captain Johnson Moulton, the bearer hereof, who has been a number of years in the service of this Province the last war, and performed to general satisfaction of all parties, and it appearing by the disposition of our men, who are acquainted with him in the service, that he will be the most likely to raise a regiment of good effective men, therefore do recommend him to your Honour (if you think proper) for a Colonel's commission.

And are your Honour's assured friends and humble servants,

JAMES GOWEN,
BENJ. CHADBOURN,
NATHAN LORD, JUN.

N. B. There is a considerable number of good men enlisted already, with a view of said Moulton's being their Colonel.

The Hon. Artemas Ward, Esquire.

THOMAS CHASE TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Roxbury Camp, May 5, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: General Thomas desires you would send a Committee to examine the trunks of Thomas Hutchinson, as they have sent for them, and the General has directions from you not to permit them to go to Boston till your Committee had examined them. I am, in behalf of his Excellency the General, your most obedient servant,

THOS. CHASE, Major Brig.

To the Honourable the Committee of Safety.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO GENERAL THOMAS.

Boston, May 6, 1775.

SIR: This Committee are of opinion, that it is the order of the Provincial Congress that the effects of all persons whatsoever should be permitted to go into Boston without search or detention, and therefore the trunks of Governor Hutchinson are not to be detained or injured.

We are, &c.

PROCLAMATION BY LORD DUNMORE.

By His Excellency the Right Honourable JOHN Earl of DUNMORE, His Majesty's Lieutenant and Governour General of the Colony and Dominion of VIRGINIA, and Vice-Admiral of the same.

A PROCLAMATION.

VIRGINIA, to wit:

Whereas I have been informed, from undoubted authority, that a certain Patrick Henry, of the County of Hanover, and a number of deluded followers, have taken up arms, chosen their Officers, and, styling themselves an Independent Company, have marched out of their County, encamped, and put themselves in a posture of war, and have written and despatched letters to divers parts of the Country, exciting the people to join in these outrageous and rebellious practices, to the great terrour of all His Majesty's faithful subjects, and in open defiance of law and Government; and have committed other acts of violence, particularly in extorting from His Majesty's Receiver General the sum of Three Hundred and Thirty Pounds, under pretence of replacing the Powder I thought proper to order from the Magazine; whence it undeniably appears that there is no longer the least security for the life or property of any man: Wherefore, I have thought proper, with the advice of His Majesty's Council, and in His Majesty's name, to issue this my Proclamation, strictly charging all persons, upon their allegiance, not to aid, abet, or give countenance to the said Patrick Henry, or any other persons concerned in such unwarrantable combinations, but on the contrary to oppose them and their designs by every means; which designs must, otherwise, inevitably involve the whole Country in the most direful calamity, as they will call for the vengeance of offended majesty and the insulted laws to be exerted here, to vindicate the constitutional authority of Government.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Colony, at Williamsburgh, this 6th day of May, 1775, and in the fifteenth year of His Majesty's reign.

DUNMORE.

God save the King.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CARLISLE, PENNSYLVANIA, DATED MAY 6, 1775.

Yesterday the County Committee met from nineteen Townships, on the short notice they had. About three thousand men have already associated. The arms returned amount to about fifteen hundred. The Committee have voted five hundred effective men, besides commissioned officers, to be immediately drafted, taken into pay, armed and disciplined, to march on the first emergency; to be paid and supported as long as necessary, by a tax on all estates, real and personal, in the County; the returns to be taken by the Township Committees, and the tax laid by the Commissioners and Assessors; the pay of the officers and men nearly as usual in times past. This morning we meet again at eight o'clock: among other subjects of inquiry this day, the mode of drafting, or taking into pay, arming, and victualing immediately the men, and the choice of field and other officers, will, among other important matters, be the subject of deliberation. The strength or spirit of this County perhaps may appear small, if judged of by the number of men proposed; but when it is considered that we are ready to raise fifteen hundred or two thousand, should we have support from the Province; and that independent, and in uncertain expectation of such support, we have voluntarily drawn upon this County a debt of about Twenty-Seven Thousand Pounds per annum, I hope we shall not appear contemptible. We make great improvement in military discipline; it is yet uncertain who may go.

New-York, May 6, 1775.

Many printed copies of a letter to the regular soldiers of Great Britain, now on service in America, were, on the 4th instant, distributed among the soldiers in the barracks in this City. The purport of this letter was to prove that soldiers of Great Britain could not legally be sent to America, without the consent of the Legislature of the Colony where they were sent; that in the Colonies soldiers were not subject to the military laws of England, nor could be punished or held by them; but that any officer who should presume to inflict any pains or penalties on, or to detain a soldier in America, on authority of a law of England not adopted by the Legislature in America, would himself be liable to severe punishments, and might be prosecuted by any soldier he should so punish or detain.

The next day, after the roll was called, (which was an hour before the usual time,) the men were ordered to march and form a circle; after which, Captain . . . made the following elegant oration:

"Soldiers, I make no doubt but you saw and have read the printed handbills which were thrown over our gates the last evening; those that have not, I particularly desire they will; they will see the licentiousness of the people, and the intention of that paper. I say it is with a design of endeavouring to draw you from your duty, degrading the Regiment; and what is worse, persuading you to destroy your souls and bodies. Look on your lappels, and I think I am certain it will put you in remembrance never to be guilty of either. You may depend that these disputes will be soon settled, in such a manner, and upon such terms, that all the deserters must be given up, and you may be certain that they will be hanged like so many dogs. These very rebels who decoy you, will be the first to deceive for their own purposes. I forgot to mention to you a circumstance which Captain . . . wrote to me in this letter, (showing it;) and for your satisfaction I will read the paragraph, to show you what you are to expect, if you are taken by any of those rebels and barbarians: 'Three companies of Light-Infantry were posted at a bridge, but after a vigorous defence were dislodged by so great a number of inhabitants or rebels, (I cannot say which,) coming upon them; they left behind them one killed and three wounded. Three scoundrels were so barbarous, that nothing but savages could have equalled it; two of these wounded men were scalped; besides this, one of them had his ears cut off, and eyes picked out. Such unheard-of barbarity could never be performed before by any civilized Nation.'"

So, my brother soldiers of the Eighteenth Regiment, congratulate me on my happy escape; I could not bear such confinement; I was never used to it before, though I have been a soldier near twenty years. I am now in good pay, where you may be soon, if you will follow my example; make haste, and come all to me, and you shall be taken good care of.

A DESERTER.

New-York, Tuesday, May 9, 1775.

Saturday evening last, the 6th instant, arrived here from the eastward, on their way to the Continental Congress at Philadelphia, the Honourable John Hancock, Thomas Cushing, Samuel Adams, John Adams, and Robert Treat Paine, Esquires, Delegates for the Province of Massachusetts-Bay; and the Honourable Eliphalet Dyer, Roger Sherman, and Silas Deane, Esquires, Delegates for the Colony of Connecticut. They were met a few miles out of Town by a great number of the principal gentlemen of the place, in carriages and on horseback, and escorted into the City by near a thousand men under arms. The roads were lined with greater numbers of people than were ever known on any occasion before. Their arrival was announced by the ringing of bells, and other demonstrations of joy. They had double sentries placed at the doors of their lodgings.

On Monday morning, the above gentlemen, with Philip Livingston, James Duane, John Alsop, and Francis Lewis, Esquires, Delegates for this City; Colonel William Floyd, for Suffolk, and Simon Boerum, Esq., for King's County, in this Province, set out for Philadelphia, attended by a great train to the North River ferry, where two or three sloops and a number of other vessels were provided; and it is said about five hundred gentlemen crossed the ferry with them, among whom were two hundred of the Militia under arms.

The Delegates were received at the ferry by a number of gentlemen from Newark, in New-Jersey, Captain Allen, at the head of his troop of Horse, and Captain Rutgers, at the head of his company of Grenadiers, (which were allowed by the gentlemen present to be as complete companies as they had seen.) The whole proceeded to Newark, where an entertainment was provided, and a number of patriotick toasts were drank. After dinner they were escorted to Elizabethtown, and on their way were met by the gentlemen and militia of that place.

Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, May 6, 1775.

The following is a copy of a paper found among those of the late Josiah Quincy, Esquire, delivered to him, signed by an intimate acquaintance of mine, an eminent merchant in London.

WILLIAM GORDON.

"The Quebeck Bill recalls to my mind some considerations, which lead me to think that it is fraught with infinitely more mischief to Britain and America, than most of its opposers are aware of; and that the planners and promoters of this Bill will, in the end, be found to have advanced the interest of France to the destruction of that of Britain, in a much more eminent degree than has hitherto been done by the very worst Minister that ever lived.

"The late Thomas Hollis, Esquire, well known in America on account of his many liberal benefactions, gave the following account of himself to a gentleman from whom I had it, viz: That the said Thomas Hollis had always the worst opinion of Lord Bute's principles; and believing him to have no attachment either to George the Third, or his family, did, when the last peace, (that is, of Paris), was negotiating; at his own expense, send abroad a gentleman, whose sole business it was to watch every motion, and discover every secret relating to this peace. The gentleman thus sent by Mr. Hollis so far succeeded as to discover that there were four secret articles; and Mr. Hollis enumerated the four following to my friend, and he to me, very soon after the peace, and long before any one of them was ever talked of being carried into execution:

"1. That a Popish Bishop was to be fixed by the King in Canada.

"2. That the Popish Religion was to be established there.

"3. That the bounds of Canada were to be fixed.

"4. That Canada, when thus fixed, was to be given back to the French.

"Now, Sir, when this account was first related to me, as it was long before any thing of this kind was agitated, I own I did not believe it possible that Bute could be bold enough to make such an infamous treaty, and therefore was at a loss how to controvert an authority so good, or to dispute an evidence which was so circumstantial; but I own, as I have now lived to see three of those secret articles executed, I firmly believe that the fourth will be as strictly observed; and that Canada restored to the French, thus fixed and improved, will enable France to distress our Colonies, and in the end give a mortal stab to the trade, the liberty, and glory of Britain. When I see either King, Ministers, or People, plan, execute, or acquiesce in measures so evidently ruinous to their own true interest, I am at a loss to discover what are the leading principles on which such insatiation is founded. No sagacity can suggest any adequate motives.

"N. B. When Lord Bute was at Venice, he attended mass constantly in a publick manner."

COPY OF AN INTERCEPTED LETTER, DATED MONTREAL, MAY 6, 1775.

DEAR FINLAY: Since your departure we have had many disagreeable things happened here, and news of worse from Boston, which have given me great uneasiness on your account, for fear you should fall into their hands, and be detained till matters are settled between them and the Mother Country, which desired event, I am afraid, is now far distant, since hostilities are commenced; but I hope you heard the shocking news in time to take such measures as to avoid any danger.

In the night of the 30th of April,* some malicious and mischievous person or persons disfigured the King's bust on the parade, by blacking its face, hanging a chaplet of potatoes about its neck, with a wooden cross and a label, on which was wrote, "Le Pape de Canada ou le sot Anglois," (the Pope of Canada and the fool of England), with an intent, no doubt, of creating jealousies, animosities, and disturbances amongst the people, particularly between the English and Canadians; and I am sorry to tell you they have met with great success.

Early the next morning, when it was discovered, the commanding officer sent two Sergeants to clean the bust and take off the chaplet, label, and cross. The new Judges and conservators of the peace were then consulted, but they took no immediate measures on the occasion, except sending an account of the transaction to the Governour. The military first took up the matter, and blamed the English inhabitants, throwing many reflections on them, particularly the Committee, who, some amongst them, were absolutely charged with the fact, which has occasioned great uneasiness, and I am afraid will be attended with bad consequences. The Canadians also point them out as the authors; so that you may judge a subscription of One Hundred Pounds Sterling was entered into by the Merchants, &c., at the Coffee-House, as a reward to any person who should discover the offender. The military gentlemen also subscribed Fifty Guineas for the same purpose; and advertisements were made out and published by both parties the next day, by beat of drum. In the course of the publication two frays happened. Mr. Belestre was standing at a corner of a street with a number of others, when the advertisement was read, and he observed that whoever did it deserved to be hanged; upon which young Franks observed they did not hang people for such trifles, and that it was not worth the trouble, which intensed Belestre, who abused Franks, and took him by the nose, which Franks returned with a blow that knocked him down, and cut his forehead; somebody then interposed and parted them; both parties applied to the Judges, but neither could get satisfaction. Belestre being the aggressor, could not get Franks bound over, and he could not Belestre, but for what reason I cannot tell. The next day Franks was apprehended and committed to prison, not for the assault, but on Belestre's affidavit, for the expressions he made use of about the crime, which I mentioned before, and bail was refused; however, the day following the Judges sent him notice, that upon consideration they had agreed to take bail, but he refused to give any, and is now in prison waiting for an answer from the Governour, to a state of the case he sent to his father.

The other affair happened between Ezekiel Solomons, the Jew, and Pallieur; the latter accused the Jews of having disfigured the bust, upon which some words ensued, and Solomons knocked him down; he has been apprehended, and has given bail.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Portsmouth, May 6, 1775.

SIR: We have received intelligence that Mr. Edward Parry, of this Town, together with Mr. John Barnard and Mr. Wilson, are now confined in irons in the County of Lincoln; for what cause we have not been able to explore. But from the past conduct of Mr. Parry in this Town, we are convinced he never merited such treatment; and that it cannot but meet with the disapprobation of your Congress, which have constantly manifested, in all their proceedings, a contrary temper.

We trust that Congress will exert their influence to procure the immediate release of that gentleman; and wish that humanity and candour may distinguish all our noble struggles in the cause of liberty. I am your most obedient servant. By order of the Committee:

WM. WHIPPLE.

TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY AT CAMBRIDGE.

In General Assembly, Providence, May 6, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your favour of yesterday we received by express this morning. We are now pursuing every method in our power to have our men in readiness to take the field as early as possible; and you may rest assured that we will exert ourselves upon this important occasion; and that the Army we have voted to be raised, which is to consist of fifteen hundred men, will be supplied with all necessary stores and ammunition; and one company is to be furnished with six three-pounders. As soon as they are in readiness we will give you the earliest information thereof, that they may be disposed of in such a manner as will best serve our common interest. I am, with great respect, gentlemen, your most humble servant. By order of the House:

METCALF BOWLER, Speaker.

Thursday, May 4, 1775, A. M.

A number of the elected Members met, and were adjourned by the Deputy Secretary to Friday, the 5th instant, at eleven of the clock in the forenoon.

Friday, May 5, 1775, A. M.

Met according to adjournment.

The Honourable Theodore Atkinson, Jonathan Warner, Peter Gillman, and John Sherburne, Esquires, came into the Assembly Chamber and administered the usual oaths to the Members present, and then returned.

The Honourable Theodore Atkinson, Jonathan Warner, Peter Gillman, and John Sherburne, Esquires, came from the Council Board with a message from his Excellency, that it was his Excellency's pleasure that the House proceed to the choice of a Speaker, and present him to the Chair for approbation.

The House then proceeded to the choice of a Speaker, and unanimously chose the Honourable John Wentworth, Esquire.

Voted, That Jacob Sheafe, Esquire, Captain Woodbury Langdon, Otis Baker, and Wiseman Clagget, Esquires, be a Committee to inform his Excellency that the House had made choice of the Honourable John Wentworth, Esquire, for their Speaker.

The Honourable Theodore Atkinson, Jonathan Warner, Peter Gillman, and John Sherburne, Esquires, came from the Board and informed the House that his Excellency approved of the Honourable John Wentworth, Esquire, as Speaker of the House, and that his Excellency required the attendance of the Speaker and all the Members in the Council Chamber.

The Speaker and House immediately waited on his Excellency in the Council Chamber, where his Excellency was pleased to make a Speech to both Houses, after which they returned to their Chamber.

Voted, That Meshech Weare, Esquire, be Clerk to this House.

The Honourable Meshech Weare, Esquire, the Clerk elect of this House, being absent, Voted, That Ebenezer Thompson, Esquire, be Clerk pro tempore to this House, who was sworn to the faithful discharge of his trust by Wiseman Clagget, Esquire.

Voted, That the following Rules be observed by this House, viz:

First. That whoever shall, by any misbehaviour in speech or action, justly offend any of the Members of this House, shall be admonished, fined, or imprisoned, as the House shall see meet.

Second. That no Member speak twice to any matter in debate before the House, until every Member have liberty to speak once to the same matter, if he should see cause.

Third. That every Member direct his speech to the Speaker, and not to one another; and when any Member has a mind to speak to any matter in debate, he shall stand up and ask leave of the Speaker, and not speak without his consent, and shall be silent at his command; but if the Member speaking thinks such command unseasonable or unreasonable, the Speaker shall take a vote of the House thereon, to which such Member shall submit on pain of forfeiting such sum as the House shall determine.

Fourth. That whenever it happens there are as many votes on the one side of the question as on the other without the Speaker, that then the Speaker make the casting vote.

Fifth. That if the Speaker be absent, the House may choose a Speaker pro tempore, that the business of the House may be carried on without delay.

Sixth. That if any Member, after being qualified and entered, shall absent himself at any time without leave from the House, he shall be liable to be fined at the discretion of the House.

Seventh. That if any Member of this House shall by the major part of the House be thought unfit and not qualified for said place, it shall be in the power of the House to dismiss such person, giving to the Town or Precinct notice to choose another person to fill up such vacancy.

Eighth. That every Bill to be passed in this House be read three times, and that there be two adjournments of this House before any Bill be passed into an Act.

Ninth. That the Speaker and eighteen Members be a House to do business.

Tenth. That no vote that is passed in this House shall be reconsidered by a less number than was present when it passed.

Voted, That Mr. Speaker, Doctor Gidding, Mr. Clagget, Mr. Langdon, and Colonel Bartlett, be a Committee to make a draft for an Answer to his Excellency's Speech, and lay the same before the House as soon as may be.

Saturday, May 6, 1775, A. M.

Met according to adjournment.

The Speaker communicated to the House a Letter directed to him and signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives of New-York, requesting the same to be laid before this House, together with a List of Grievances and Resolutions of that House in consequence thereof, and also a Petition to the King, a Memorial to the House of Lords, and a Representation and Remonstrance to the Commons of Great Britain; all which were read, and are on file.

Mr. Baker, Mr. Langdon, and Doctor Gidding being appointed a Committee yesterday to wait on his Excellency and desire he would be pleased to favour the House with a copy of his Speech to both Houses, was omitted to be entered then, as also that Mr. Warner brought a copy of his Excellency's Speech and delivered it to the Speaker, as follows:

Gentlemen of the Council, and of the Assembly:

As I cannot doubt but you will exercise your usual diligence in despatching the ordinary business of the Legislature, it becomes unnecessary for me particularly to urge your attention to that subject. You may be assured that I will give all the facility in my power to every measure that may be found conducive to the publick good; for as it heretofore hath been, so shall it constantly remain the invariable object of my warmest wishes and ambition, to promote the happiness and prosperity of His Majesty's Government and subjects of New-Hampshire.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly:

It is incumbent on me at this time to recommend to you to grant the necessary supply for the support of His Majesty's Government for the current year; but I doubt not you will cheerfully make proper provision for that purpose. The Treasurer's accounts for the year past, I shall order to be prepared for your inspection.

We cannot but view with inexpressible concern the alarming pitch to which the unfortunate dispute between Great Britain and her Colonies is daily advancing. A matter of such a momentous nature, which fills every humane mind with the deepest anxiety and affliction, and wherein this Province is unhappily involved, cannot, I presume, fail of engaging your most serious attention. It is therefore my duty, at such a critical and important moment, to call, in the most earnest and most solemn manner, upon you, gentlemen, who are the only constitutional and legal Representatives of the people, to direct your counsels to such measures as may tend to secure their peace and safety.

On the wisdom, candour, and moderation of your deliberations it will greatly depend to avert the calamities that must naturally attend a continuance of this unhappy contest; and I trust your conduct will be guided by such principles as shall effectually lead to a restoration of the publick tranquillity and a perfect re-establishment of an affectionate reconciliation with our Mother Country, upon a solid, equitable, and permanent foundation.

Gentlemen of the Council, and of the Assembly:

Connected as we are with our Parent State by the strongest ties of kindred, religion, duty, and interest, it is highly incumbent upon us, in this time of general disquietude, to manifest our loyalty and attachment to the best of Sovereigns, and our firm and unshaken regard for the British Empire; and I have full confidence that those great considerations will influence every part of your conduct. You may entirely rely on my most ardent zeal to co-operate with you in whatever constitutional means may be found necessary to accomplish that most essential object to the well-being of this Province—a restoration of our harmony with Great Britain.

The Honourable Theodore Atkinson came from the Board and delivered the following written Message from his Excellency:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly:

The Speaker, Mr. Gidding, and Mr. Langdon, three of your Members, came to me last evening as a Committee from the House, desiring a short adjournment. I am always disposed to show every indulgent regard in my power to the wishes of the House; but when I consider what uneasiness prevails at present among your constituents, of which I dare say you are not insensible, and that they must look to your counsels for relief from their fears and jealousies, I think it my duty to recommend to you to consider the matter, and if you should be of opinion that you will better consult the interests of your constituents by continuing to sit, I doubt not but your own private concerns will readily give way to the publick welfare.

J. WENTWORTH.

New-Hampshire Council Chamber, }
May 6, 1775.

Upon reading and considering the foregoing Message, Voted, That the following be presented to his Excellency as an Answer thereto:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY: In answer to your Message of this day in consequence of a verbal Message to your Excellency from the House last evening by the Speaker, Mr. Gidding, and Mr. Langdon, requesting a short adjournment, we would observe, that we think it not only very necessary for our private interest, at this particular season of the year, but especially for the interest of the Province in general at this peculiarly alarming crisis, that this House should be adjourned to some time early in June next, in order that we may in the mean time have an opportunity of fully consulting our constituents respecting the several weighty matters necessary to be considered by the House the present session.

The Deputy Secretary came from the Board and said it was his Excellency's pleasure to adjourn the General Assembly to Monday, the 12th day of June next, and accordingly, in His Majesty's name, adjourned the General Assembly to that time, and delivered to the Speaker the following written Message from his Excellency:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly:

In consequence of your representation to me, in answer to my Message of this day's date, that it will be expedient for you, as well for the accommodation of your own private affairs as to give an opportunity of consulting your constituents on the matters necessary to be considered by you in the present session, that the House should be adjourned for a short time, I have thought fit to adjourn the General Assembly, and it is accordingly adjourned to Monday, the 12th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the morning; then to meet at the State-House in Portsmouth for the despatch of the publick business.

THOMAS JEFFERSON TO DOCTOR WILLIAM SMALL.

DEAR SIR: Within this week we have received the unhappy news of an action of considerable magnitude between the King's Troops and our brethren of Boston, in which, it is said, five hundred of the former, with the Earl of Percy, are slain. That such an action has occurred is undoubted, though perhaps the circumstances may not have reached us with truth. This accident has cut off our last hope of reconciliation, and a phrenzy of revenge seems to have seized all ranks of people. It is a lamentable circumstance that the only mediatory power acknowledged by both parties, instead of leading to a reconciliation has divided people, should pursue the incendiary purpose of still blowing up the flames, as we find him constantly doing in every speech and publick declaration. This may perhaps be intended to intimidate into acquiescence; but the effect has been most unfortunately otherwise. A little knowledge of human nature, and attention to its ordinary workings, might have foreseen that the spirits of the people here were in a state in which they were more likely to be provoked than frightened by haughty deportment. And to fill up the measure of irritation, a proscription of individuals has been substituted in the room of just trial. Can it be believed that a grateful people will suffer those to be consigned to execution, whose sole crime has been the developing and asserting their rights? Had the Parliament possessed the power of reflection, they would have avoided a measure as impotent as it was inflammatory. When I saw Lord Chatham's Bill, I entertained high hope that a reconciliation could have been brought about. The difference between his terms and those offered by our Congress might have been accommodated, if entered on by both parties with a disposition to accommodate. But the dignity of Parliament, it seems, can brook no opposition to its power. Strange that a set of men who have made sale of their virtue to the Minister, should yet talk of retaining dignity! But I am getting into politicks; though I sat down only to ask your acceptance of the wine, and express my constant wishes for your happiness.

TH. JEFFERSON.

MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY, CORRESPONDENCE, AND PROTECTION, IN ALBANY.

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, }

SIR: We have received your important and very agreeable letter of the first of May current, by the worthy Captain Ten Eyck. While we lament the effusion of the blood of our friends and fellow-countrymen, shed by more than brutal cruelty, and urged on by the corrupt administration of a British Minister of State, yet, amidst all our sorrows on that melancholy occurrence, we rejoice greatly at the bright prospect lying before us, in the unanimity of the Colonies on this extended Continent. We have the highest satisfaction in the assurances from you, that the City of Albany continues firm and resolute to co-operate with their brethren in New-York, and in the several Colonies on the Continent, in their opposition to the Ministerial plan now prosecuting against us, and that the City have unanimously appointed a Committee of Safety, Protection, and Correspondence, which we esteem as a necessary measure to bind us all in one indissoluble bond of union in the common cause of the American Colonies. Be assured, sir, that we shall ever esteem it as our honour and interest to correspond with you at all times on matters tending to promote the common good. Suffer us to say that we have the greatest pleasure in your information that the extensive County of Albany will follow your laudable example, and the important aid the general cause will receive from our sister Colony New-York. The enclosed, you may depend upon it, is a well authenticated account of the late engagement in this Colony, and supported by a great number of affidavits. Permit us to say that you may rely upon the resolution of the people of this Colony to exert themselves in every possible way, and have long since devoted their lives and fortunes in the glorious cause of liberty and their Country, and that they never can give up their stand to oppose despotism and tyranny, while they have such full assurances from their sister Colonies, that they are equally engaged in the defence of the natural and constitutional rights of Americans. The blood of our neighbours, untimely poured out, cries aloud to the survivors to defend the American rights for which they bled and died. We have their wounds fresh in mind; and while the Colonies are united, we have the fullest assurances (under God) of the salvation of our Country.

We are, &c.

MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO COLONEL JAMES SCAMMON,

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, }
May 7, 1775. }

We are informed by the Field Officers of the First and Second Regiments, together with a number of gentlemen of note in the County of York, that it would be most agreeable that Captain Johnson Moulton should have the command of the Regiment to be raised in that County. The Committee, taking these matters into their most serious consideration, and the necessity of an Army being formed as soon as possible, as the salvation of the Country must depend (under God) on our union and exertions; and notwithstanding, sir, you have received orders for enlisting a Regiment, with a prospect of having the command of the same, yet we flatter ourselves that you will, when you view the importance of completing the Army, the delay that may arise in your quarter should you not consent to come under Mr. Johnson Moulton, you will cheerfully comply and rest satisfied, as we conceive it is the interest of your Country you aim at, and not any emolument or honours that may respect you as an individual. We doubt not, from these considerations, you will be actuated by that zeal and ardour in the cause of your Country that shall promote its truest interest, and that we shall soon be informed that the Regiment intended to be raised in the County of York is completed to the satisfaction of officers and men.

We are, &c.

To Colonel James Scammon.

PROCLAMATION BY ADMIRAL GRAVES.

By SAMUEL GRAVES, Esq., Vice-Admiral of the Blue, and Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed, and to be employed, in the River St. Lawrence, &c.

Whereas I have received information that a vessel is arrived at Marblehead with a very considerable quantity of money on board from a Spanish wreck, which must by all means be prevented from falling into the hands of the Rebels: You are therefore hereby required and directed to sail in His Majesty's Schooner, under your command, to Marblehead, without a moment's delay of time, and bring the vessel into Boston Harbour with the money, or remove the money into the Diana without delay, and let the vessel follow you hither.

Given under my hand on board His Majesty's Ship Preston, at Boston, the 7th of May, 1775.

SAMUEL GRAVES.

To Lieut. Graves, Commander of His Majesty's Schooner Diana.

By command of the Admiral: G. SEFFERINA.

COMMON COUNCIL OF WILLIAMSBURGH, VIRGINIA.

At a Court of Common Council for the City of Williamsburgh, held the eighth day of May, 1775:

Whereas it hath been represented to this Hall, that on the fourth instant, in the night time, some person or persons unknown, had broke into the publick Magazine, and taken from thence sundry Fire-Arms belonging to His Majesty:

We, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the said City, being desirous to maintain peace, order, and good government, do hereby declare our abhorrence of such unlawful proceeding, and do require the inhabitants to use their utmost endeavours to prevent the like outrage in future, and exhort all persons who may be in possession of any of the said Arms, to return the same immediately, to be replaced in the Magazine.

And it having been recommended to this meeting, by the Governour and Council, to appoint a guard to protect the said Magazine, they are of opinion that they have no authority to lay any tax for that purpose, but that if some trusty person should be appointed by his Excellency the Governour to be keeper thereof, and care taken to strengthen it with proper bars, there probably would be a stop put to violences of that nature; and they do humbly recommend to his Excellency Mr. Gabriel Maupin, who lives near the Magazine, as a person worthy of that trust.

MATTHEW DAVENPORT, Town Clerk.

SUSSEX COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for the County of Sussex, at the Court-House, Monday, 8th of May, 1775:

Present: David Mason, Augustine Claiborne, Michael Blow, Henry Gee, John Cargill, William Nicholson, William Blunt, Robert Jones, John Peters, John Mason, Jr., James Jones, George Rieves, Richard Parker, and George Booth, gentlemen.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Committee be given to the Rev. Mr. Campbell, for his excellent prayer of this morning, prior to the Committee entering upon business.

This Committee taking into consideration a paragraph which appears in the publick newspapers, said to be extracted from a letter written to Lord Dartmouth, one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, by Lord Dunmore, Governour of Virginia, on the twenty-fourth day of December last:

Resolved unanimously, as their opinion, That the said extracts (being fraught with calumny, falsehoods, and illiberal reflections against the good people of this Colony in general, who are now, and for some time past have been, contending for their dearest rights in the most decent and orderly manner) can be no other than a wicked and detestable forgery, or the work of some dirty ministerial sycophant, intending to widen our present unhappy differences with the Mother Country, and impress the people of this Colony with unfavourable sentiments of a ruler who, they are unwilling to believe, would so meanly forfeit that general esteem he had, by a mild and pacifick administration, so generally acquired. With this opinion of the said extracts, this Committee cannot forbear, however reluctantly, to observe, that a late manœuvre in seizing the powder in the publick magazine of this Colony, and privately conveying it away in the night, together with his evasive answer to the addresses of the Corporation of the City of Williamsburgh, presented to his Lordship upon that occasion, but too plainly point out to this Colony that the first Magistrate has swerved from the line of conduct which has hitherto marked his administration, and impressed this Committee with an idea that his private wishes are unfavourable to the welfare of this Colony, and the liberties of mankind. No other motives, we presume, could have actuated him to the commission of an act conceived in secrecy and brought forth in darkness; the design of which was evidently to render (at least as far as in his power so to do) this Colony defenceless, and lay it open to the attacks of a savage invasion, or a domestick foe, which a late Proclamation threatens us with, and which his Excellency could not be ignorant of.

Resolved unanimously, That it is absolutely necessary that this County be put into the best posture of defence possible; and to that end, that a meeting of the people be convened at the following places, on the following respective days, that is to say: those that muster under Captains Moore, Judkins, and Mason, at Brown's Quarter, on Tuesday the sixteenth instant; those that muster under Captains Jones, Smith, Hill, and Marrable, at the High-Hills on the seventeenth; and those that muster under Captains Nicholson, Parker, Reeves, Irby, and Harrison, at the plantation lately belonging to Captain James Jones, on the nineteenth; and that they, and every of them, do bring with them to the said several meetings what arms they and every of them have. And this Committee do earnestly request the Field-Officers and Captains to attend the said several meetings, in order to animate the people in the present time of danger to compliance of the Resolutions of the late Convention.

Resolved unanimously, That we, the members of this Committee now present, and every of us, will, in order to raise a sufficient sum of money to purchase Ammunition, in this time of imminent danger, pay, by way of contribution for that purpose, the sum of ten Pounds, current money, on or before the first day of June next. And as we doubt not but the absent members of this Committee will do the same for themselves, therefore Messrs. John Cargill, Jas. Jones, and George Reeves, are requested immediately to purchase ammunition for the use of this County, to the amount of two hundred Pounds, current money, the present members engaging to indemnify them in such purchase; and that they make report of their proceedings to the next Committee.

Resolved unanimously, That a Committee of Intelligence and Correspondence be appointed, of the following persons, that is to say: Messrs. Blow, Peete, Nicholson, Cargill, Gee, David Mason, Claiborne, and Blunt; that upon they, or any one of them, receiving an alarm, he or they do forthwith fall upon the best method in his or their power, to give notice of such alarm throughout this County, and also to some one or more of the Committees of Southampton and Brunswick, fixing upon the most convenient place for the people to rendezvous at, being guided therein by the quarter threatened most with an invasion, insurrection, or other attack.

Ordered, That the proceedings of this day be transmitted by the Chairman, as soon as may be convenient, to the press, in order to their publication.

MICHAEL BLOW, Chairman.

MECKLENBURGH COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a general meeting of the Freeholders of Mecklenburgh County, convened on Monday, the 8th day of May, 1775, at the Court-House of said County, in order to elect a Committee, pursuant to a Resolution of the American Continental Congress: The better to secure a due observation of the Association entered into by said Congress, the Freeholders then proceeded to the choice of a Committee, and elected into the office the following gentlemen, viz: John Speed, Bennett Goode, William Lucas, Henry Speed, Francis Ruffin, Lewis Burwell, Robert Burton, Edmund Taylor, Cleverious Coleman, Thacker Burwell, Sir Peyton Skipwith, Benjamin Whitehead, George Baskerville, Reuben Vaughan, Joseph Speed, John Tabb, John Jones, William Leigh, Robert Ballard, Samuel Hopkins, Junior, and John Ballard, Junior.

John Speed, Esq., was unanimously chosen Chairman, and Mr. Isaac Holmes, Clerk of this Committee.

Resolved unanimously, That every member of this Committee exert his endeavours to enlist Volunteer Soldiers, agreeable to the Resolution of the late Provincial Convention.

It being too late in the day to proceed on business, the Committee adjourned to Saturday, the 13th of May, 1775.

— Saturday, May 13, 1775.

The Committee met according to adjournment, and came to the following Resolves:

The Resolves of the Convention held at the Town of Richmond, the 20th of March, 1775, were read, and unanimously approved of.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Committee be presented to Robert Burton and Bennett Goode, Esquires, our worthy Delegates, for their faithful discharge of the important trust reposed in them.

Resolved unanimously, That the removal of the Gunpowder out of the Magazine, by express orders of Lord Dunmore, is truly alarming; and that by his answer for such conduct to the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of Williamsburgh, on that important occasion, he has highly forfeited all title to the confidence of the good people of Virginia.

Ordered, That the Clerk send copies of these Resolves to each of the Printers, and they are desired to publish them in their next Gazettes.

ISAAC HOLMES, Clerk.

PRINCE GEORGE (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for Prince George's County, held at Blandford, on Monday, the 8th of May, 1775, the following Resolutions were entered into, viz:

Resolved, nem. con., That every Merchant, Trader, or other person, importing any Goods, Wares, or Merchandise into this County, before he lands the same ought to produce to the Chairman of this Committee a certificate from the Chairman of the Committee of the County, Town, or City, from whence the said Goods, Wares, or Merchandise were re-shipped, that the same were imported into this Colony before the first day of February.

Resolved, That a Committee of Intelligence, consisting of Benjamin Harrison, of Brandon, David Meade, Richard K. Meade, Hubbard Wyatt, Peter Eppes, James Cocke, Nathaniel Harrison, John Baird, Robert Boyd, William McWhann, Richard Bland, Junior, Theodorick Bland, Junior, Nathaniel Raines, Thomas Bonner, and John Raines, Senior, be appointed to convey any alarm, as speedily as possible, to the adjacent Counties; and that the same mode be recommended to every County in this Colony.

Ordered, That a copy of the above Resolutions be transmitted to the Printer, and he is desired to publish them as soon as possible.

By order of the Committee:

HARTWELL RAINES, Secretary.

At a Committee held for the County of Prince George, the 8th of May, 1775. Present: twenty Members.

The following Letter from the Committee of the Borough of Norfolk to the Chairman of this Committee, was read, viz:

Norfolk, May 1, 1775.

A charge was laid before the Committee for Norfolk Borough, that Mr. James Marsden had purchased of Captain Fazakerly one puncheon of Linens, imported since the 1st of February, and that he had furnished him with twenty barrels of Pork. Upon inquiry, it appeared that Mr. Marsden knew nothing about the Linens, but furnished Captain Fazakerly with the Pork by order of Captain Charles Alexander.

As there may have been some foundation for the charge,

I am directed by this Committee to request you will please to inquire of Captain Alexander for what consideration he gave the order.

WILLIAM DAVIES, Secretary.

Captain Charles Alexander being requested, did attend the Committee, and made the following confession, viz:

That he had himself purchased the Linens inadvertently, without considering the consequence of violating the Resolutions of the Continental Congress, to which he acknowledged he ought to have paid agreeable regard; and he is extremely sorry for having thus incurred the displeasure of the good people of America, and thereby forfeited that good opinion which he would be always happy to have, and those favours which he might otherwise have hoped to have enjoyed from them. He also confesses that Mr. Marsden was acquainted with the circumstances of the said goods being imported contrary to the terms of the Association, subsequent to the said Alexander's purchasing of them; and that the said Marsden paid the Pork to the order above-mentioned, knowing that it was for part of the price of the said Linens, and afterwards sent the said Linens, and a parcel of Shoes, with an invoice thereof, accompanied with a Letter, to Humphrey Richards, factor for the said Alexander, in Blandford, signed Marsden, Maxwell, and Company. And the said Alexander further says, that the order he gave on Mr. Marsden to pay the Pork to Captain Fazakerly, was a conditional order, to pay Captain Fazakerly, in case the Convention then sitting should consent to the sale of the said goods, as there was then a Petition before the Convention for that purpose. Captain Alexander has further voluntarily agreed to re-ship the Linens, and a parcel of Shoes (under the same circumstances) remaining unsold, at his own cost, or store them under the inspection of the Committee; and that the profits arising upon such part thereof as are already sold, amounting to . . . shall be lodged in the hands of this Committee, for the use of, and forthwith to be sent to the poor of Boston.

CHAS. ALEXANDER.

The above examination was transmitted to the Committee of the Borough of Norfolk; in consequence of which the following Letter from the Committee of the said Borough, directed to the Chairman of the Committee of Prince George, the 3d day of July, 1775, when twenty-four of the members were present, Richard Bland, Esquire, in the Chair, was read:

Norfolk, May 22, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As Captain Alexander is within your jurisdiction, the Committee of this Borough are clearly of opinion that they have no authority to take up the matter with respect to his conduct, but only as far as relates to Mr. Marsden. It is therefore the request of this Committee, that you will please to resume the consideration of Captain Alexander's conduct, and take such steps therein as you may think proper. With respect to the part Mr. Marsden took in the matter, Captain Alexander denies that he was in any wise concerned, and that the facts contained in your letter have been mistaken by you. His testimony here directly contradicts his testimony before you. We therefore send you his examination, taken in writing, and repeatedly read and assented to by him. We shall be glad to be favoured with your answer.

WILLIAM DAVIES, Secretary.

Captain ALEXANDER's Examination at NORFOLK BOROUGH.

Question. Did Mr. Marsden know of your purchasing the Linens, &c., from Captain Fazakerly?

Answer. I cannot tell positively, but think he did not know of my purchase.

Q. Did Mr. Marsden pay the Pork to your order, knowing that it was for part of the purchase of the said Linens?

A. He did not.

Q. Did Mr. Marsden send the Linens, and a parcel of Shoes, with an invoice thereof, accompanied with a letter, to Mr. Humphrey Richards, signed Marsden, Maxwell, and Company, or not?

A. He did not, but there was a letter directed to me, written by Mr. Marsden's young man, (John Elm) in their name.

Q. Was the condition respecting the consent of the Convention for Captain Ezakerly to sell his Goods, expressed in the order, or not?

A. It was not, but was only agreed to verbally between the Captain and myself.

The said Charles Alexander having had proper notice, and failing to attend; and the Committee taking into their consideration the aforesaid Letter and Examination,

Resolved unanimously, That the said Charles Alexander has infringed the Tenth Article of the Continental Congress, and that he be held up to the publick as inimical to America, agreeable to the Eleventh Article of the Continental Association; and it is recommended to the good people of America to break off all dealings with the said Charles Alexander, his Factors, or Agents.

By order of the Committee:

HARTWELL RAINES, Secretary.

LOUISA COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a Committee held for the County of Louisa, at the Court-House, the 8th of May, 1775:

The Committee being fully sensible of the benefits that may redound to the community in general from the spirited behaviour of Captain Patrick Henry, and the other Officers and Gentlemen Soldiers of the Volunteer Company of Hanover, in procuring satisfaction for the Gunpowder taken out of the Colony's Magazine, beg leave to return them our most hearty thanks.

MEETING OF FREEHOLDERS OF WESTCHESTER COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the Freeholders of the County of Westchester, at the White-Plains, on Monday, the 8th day of May, 1775, pursuant to a general notice for that purpose, they did appoint a Committee of ninety persons for the said County, and determined that any twenty of them should be empowered to act for the said County, and then appointed the following persons (nominated by the said Committee) to represent the said County in Provincial Convention, viz:

Gouverneur Morris, Lewis Graham, James Van Cortlandt, Stephen Ward, Joseph Drake, Philip Van Cortlandt, James Holmes, David Dayton, John Thomas, Jun., Robert Graham, William Paulding.

The Committee then signed an Association, similar to that which was signed in the City of New-York, and appointed Sub-Committees to superintend the signing of the same throughout the County.

By order of the Committee:

JAMES VAN CORTLANDT, Chairman.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

The Committee met, by adjournment, Monday, May 8, 1775. Present:

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

Mr. McDougall, seconded by Mr. Scott, moved in the words following, viz:

Whereas it is necessary for the maintenance of the liberties of this and the neighbouring Colonies, that every person in this City and County who now have Arms or Ammunition, or other articles which will be wanted for our defence, to dispose of, or may import any of those articles for sale, should make the same known to some friend of the Country. And whereas, the disposal of any of those articles to any person other than such who will put them into the hands of men well-affected to the liberties of America may tend to enslave this Country, I therefore move that this Committee come into the following Resolutions, viz:

1. Resolved, That any person in this City or County who have Arms, Ammunition, or the other articles necessary for our defence, to dispose of, or shall import any of those articles for sale, and shall not, within ten days after the publication of these Resolutions, or in ten days after the importation of such Arms, Ammunition, &c., aforesaid, inform the Chairman or Deputy Chairman of this Committee of the quantity and quality of the same, he shall be held up to the publick as an enemy to this Country.

2. Resolved, That any person in this City or County, who shall, during the unhappy contest with our Parent State, dispose of any Arms, Ammunition, or other articles aforesaid, to any person, knowing or having reason to believe such person to be inimical to the liberties of America, or shall put those articles in the hands of any such person, or any other person, knowing or having reason to believe that they are to be used against those liberties, he shall be held up as an enemy to this Country.

Which being unanimously agreed to,

Ordered, That the same be published in handbills.

Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Clarkson, made a motion in the words following, viz:

I move that the Committee address his Honour the Lieutenant Governour, requesting that he would immediately apply to General Gage to give orders, in case any Troops should arrive here from Great Britain or Ireland, that they encamp on Staten Island, and not be permitted to land in this City; and that in case any Troops should arrive here before an answer can be had from General Gage, that in that case his Honour would apply to the Commanding Officer of such Troops, requesting that they may be landed and encamped on Staten Island.

Which being unanimously agreed to,

Ordered, That an Address be accordingly drawn up and ingrafted in the former Address ordered to be presented to his Honour.

A Letter, dated Newark, 5th May, 1775, from the Committee of Correspondence, received and read.

A Letter, dated Suffolk County, 5th May, 1775, from William Smith, received and read.

Mr. Scott, from the Committee of Correspondence, reported the draught of a Letter in answer to one of the 3d instant from Albany, which being read and approved of,

Ordered, That the same be engrossed and forwarded.

The Committee adjourned till to-morrow, the 9th instant.

A Letter, dated Kingsland District, Tryon County, 19th April, 1775, from William Petri, received and read.

Ordered, That the Committee of Correspondence be directed to draught and report an Answer to the above Letter.

Mr. Lamb, seconded by Mr. McDougall, moved in the words following, viz:

As the Firelocks belonging to this City are at present only fitted with ordinary wooden rammers, and consequently cannot be of much use in case of necessity, I move that a Sub-Committee be appointed to wait on the Corporation, to request that they will give directions to have them fitted with Steel Rammers.

Ordered, That Mr. Sharpe, Mr. Curtenius, and Mr. Ritzma, be a Committee for the above purpose.

Ordered, That the Letter to the Lord Mayor of London be published in Monday's Paper.

Captain Randall, from the Committee appointed to wait on his Honour the Lieutenant-Governour, to know when it would be his pleasure to receive the Address of this Committee, reported that his Honour would be ready to receive the Address to-morrow at twelve o'clock, at Jamaica.

Ordered, That Mr. C. P. Low, Mr. Van Dam, Colonel Walton, Captain Randall, Mr. De Lancey, Mr. T. Marston, Mr. Van Schaack, Mr. Sharpe, Mr. Duyckinck, Mr. Templeton, Mr. Beekman, Mr. Kissam, Mr. Scott, Mr. Remsen, Mr. Duryee, Mr. A. Walton, and Mr. F. Jay, be a Committee to present the said Address; and that they be charged to apply to the principal people of the Towns of Jamaica, Hempstead, and Oyster Bay, to represent to them the necessity of their joining with their countrymen in sending Delegates to the Provincial Congress.

A Letter, dated Philadelphia, 11th May, 1775, from Mr. Barclay, received and read; referred to the Committee of Correspondence to answer.

Mr. McDougall, seconded by Mr. Fleming, moved that the Committee of Correspondence be directed to draught and report, without delay, two Resolutions relative to the conduct proper to be observed by the citizens to those who do not sign the Association, and to direct that no inhabitant of this City and County be treated as an enemy to his Country, but by the determination of the Continental or Provincial Congress; or by this Committee.

Committee adjourned to Monday, 15th May, 1775.

At a Special Meeting of the Committee, Sunday, 14th May, 1775. Present:

Ordered, That the Address from this Committee, as presented yesterday to Lieutenant-Governour Colden, with his Answer now read, be published.

Whereas, it is strongly suspected that the Man-of-War now in this Harbour is supplied from some part of the Jersey and Staten Island, with Provisions and other necessities, with intent to ship the same to Boston for the use of the Army and Navy:

Ordered, That the Committee of Correspondence write to such of the neighbouring Committees, as also to such persons as they shall think necessary, requesting them to use all possible means for preventing the same.

Adjourned till to-morrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

To the Honourable CADWALLADER COLDEN, Esquire, Lieutenant-Governour and Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Colony of NEW-YORK, and the Territories thereon depending, in AMERICA, &c.:

The Humble ADDRESS of the General Committee of Association for the City and County of NEW-YORK:

May it please your Honour:

It frequently happens, under every form of Government, that the measures of Administration excite the just jealousies of the people, and that the same measures pursued divest them of all confidence in those in whose hands the ordinary executive powers are lodged. In such a state of things it is natural for the people to cast their eyes upon those of their fellow sufferers on whose abilities and integrity they can rely, and to ask their advice and direction for the preservation of all that is dear and valuable to them.

That such is the frame and temper of our inhabitants, you have had the fullest opportunity to know in the course of that residence with which you have lately honoured us.

This City and County, as well as the rest of the Colony, have exercised the greatest patience in waiting, though in vain, for a redress of the many unconstitutional and oppressive burdens under which this whole Continent has groaned for several years past. To their inexpressible grief they have found that the most dutiful applications for redress have not only been rejected, but have been answered by reiterated violations of their rights.

You cannot, therefore, wonder, Sir, that at this most interesting crisis, when their all is at stake, and when, under the authority of Administration, the sword has been drawn, though unsuccessfully, against their brethren of the Massachusetts, for asserting those invaluable rights which are the common inheritance of Britons and Americans, that the City and County of New-York have proceeded to associate in the common cause, and to the election of a Committee and Delegates in Congress, to represent them in their claims, and to direct their counsels and conduct for the preservation of those inestimable privileges to which the great Creator, the order of their being as rational creatures, and our happy Constitution, have given them an undoubted title.

To this important end they have unanimously invested us, their Committee, with a trust, which we are determined, with the best of our abilities and most faithfully to discharge; and in the execution of which we think it our indispensable duty to declare:

That our constituents, while they cheerfully yield that the Legislature of the Parent State may make provisions in their nature merely calculated to regulate the Trade of the Empire; yet they claim as their indefeasible birthright a total exemption from all taxes, internal and external, by authority of Parliament, and from every aid to the Crown, but on royal requisitions to their Representatives in Assembly, constitutionally convened, and freely deliberating and determining upon every such requisition.

That they never can, nor will submit to the establishment of unconstitutional admiralty jurisdictions; but will ever regard them as engines that may be employed for the most tyrannical purposes.

That they are determined never to part with their precious, and lately invaded right, of trial by peers of their vicinage, in any case whatsoever.

That they look with the utmost dread on every expedient by authority of Parliament, or otherwise, that may tend to secure from condign punishment offenders against the most essential rights of human nature, by removing them for their trial to places distant from the scene of perpetration, at the discretion of a Governour or Commander-in-Chief.

That they esteem, and therefore will by every lawful means oppose the late oppressive restraints upon Commerce, as subversive in their nature of the liberties of America.

That they regard the hostile blockade of the Port of Boston, the attack upon the venerable Charter rights of the Massachusetts, the extension of the bounds of Quebeck, the establishment of Popery and an arbitrary form of Government in that Province, and the exclusive privileges virtually given to it in the Indian trade, as so many steps of an ill-judging Administration, that most eminently endanger the liberty and prosperity of the whole Empire.

That they view with inexpressible horror, the bloody standard erected in the Eastern parts of the confederated Colonies, and feel, as in their own bodies, every stroke which their brave compatriots have received from the hand of their fellow-subjects cruelly and unnaturally armed against them by mistaken ministerial severity.

In short, that they are determined to equip themselves for maintaining, with successful bravery and resolution, the unquestionable rights of Englishmen.

Permit us at the same time, Sir, to assure you in their behalf, that though they are arming with great diligence and industry, it is not with design to oppose, but to strengthen Government in the due exercise of constitutional authority. It is to be in a state of readiness to repel every lawless attack by our superiours, and to prevent the anarchy and confusion to which ministerial misconduct has evidently paved the way. It is to defend the liberties of the subject, and to enable your Honour, and those in office under you, efficaciously to administer the just Government of this Colony.

Your Honour cannot but see the sudden transition of the inhabitants of this Capital from a state of tumult, occasioned by hostilities committed against their brethren, to tranquillity and good order, as the consequence of our appointment. It is our ardent wish, Sir, that the same tranquillity and good order may be permanent. We look forward, therefore, with deep concern at the expected arrival of Troops from Great Britain; an event that will probably be attended with innumerable mischiefs. Their presence will doubtless revive the resentment of our inhabitants at the repeatedly avowed designs of subjugating the Colonies by military force. Mutual jealousies may break out into reciprocal violence. Thousands will, in that case, be poured in upon us from our other Counties and the neighbouring Colonies, who, we are well assured, have resolved to prevent this City from being reduced to the present situation of Boston. Thus, instead of being a secure garrison-town and place of arms, as is vainly expected by some, the streets of New-York may be deluged with blood. Such a destructive evil, we are well assured, your Honour will do every thing in your power to avert. Permit us then, Sir, to beseech you to apply to Great Britain for orders that such Troops as may arrive from Great Britain or Ireland do not land or encamp in this City and County; and in case of their arrival before your Honour shall receive the General's answer, to solicit their commanding officer to the same purpose.

Give us leave, Sir, to conclude by assuring you, that we are determined to improve that confidence with which the people have honoured us, in strengthening the hands of the civil Magistrate, in every lawful measure calculated to promote the peace and just rule of this Metropolis, and consistent with that jealous attention which, above all things, we are bound to pay to the violated rights of America.

We are, Sir, with the greatest respect, your Honour's most obedient and humble servants.

Ordered unanimously by the Committee:

HENRY REMSEN, D. Chairman.

New-York, May 11, 1775.

His Honour's Answer.

GENTLEMEN: I have the best authority to assure you, that our most gracious Sovereign and both Houses of Parliament have declared their readiness to afford every just and reasonable indulgence to the Colonies, whenever they should make a proper application on the ground of any real grievances they may have to complain of. This declaration has been followed by a Resolution of the House of Commons, which it was expected would have manifested the justice and moderation of Parliament, and a disposition to comply with every wish of the subjects in America. They offer to forbear every kind of taxation or assessment on America, except such as are necessary for the regulation of Commerce, and only require that the Colonies should make provision by such ways and means as are best suited to their respective circumstances, for contributing a proportion to the common defence of the Empire, and for the support of their own civil Government and the administration of justice. His Majesty's Ministers did not doubt this temper in Parliament would meet with such a return on the part of the Colonies as would lead to a happy issue of the present disputes, and to a re-establishment of public tranquillity on grounds of equity, justice, and moderation. Is it not, then, to be lamented as the most unfortunate event, that the patience of the people was exhausted at the moment of this prospect of a peaceable and happy accomplishment of all their wishes? Will not those in whom they now confide yet endeavour to obtain it? Must this Country, till now happy and flourishing beyond parallel, be involved in the dreadful calamities ever attendant on civil war, while there remains one possible means untried, by which so great, so cruel an evil might be averted? You tell me, gentlemen, that the people have lost all confidence in the ordinary officers of Government, and that they have cast their eyes upon you for advice and direction. I cannot divest myself of the most affectionate concern for the welfare, the peace, and prosperity of the people over whom I have so long presided as the immediate representative of their august Sovereign; with whom I have lived the term of a long life, and among whom I leave all that is dear and valuable to me.* I am impelled by my duty, and a most zealous attachment to the interest and safety of this people, to exhort you not to irritate the present enraged state of their minds, nor suffer them to plunge into labyrinths from whence they can neither advance nor retreat, but through blood and desolation.

His Majesty's Ministers have, in the strongest terms, expressed the satisfaction with which the King received the assurances of the loyalty and affection of his faithful subjects in this Government, and of their ardent desire for a permanent reconciliation with the Mother Country. I cannot, then, conceive upon what grounds a suspicion is entertained that the City of New-York is to be reduced to the present state of Boston. I have not had the least intimation that any Regular Troops were destined for this Province. It is proper that General Gage should know your sentiments on this subject, and I shall embrace the first opportunity of communicating your request to him. At the same time I think there is reason to suspect that this report has been invented to facilitate the introduction of an armed force from Connecticut, which, I am told, is meditated. Will not the apprehension of such a design rouse you, gentlemen, and every virtuous citizen, to avert, by every means in your power, a measure so humiliating, so dangerous to the honour, safety, and freedom of this Colony?

I have beheld with inexpressible anxiety the state of tumult and disorder which raged in the Metropolis of this Province; and I am sorry that a recent instance, since your appointment, revives the threatening prospect of insecurity to which the inhabitants are reduced. I exhort you to carry into effect the assurances you give me, that you are determined to improve that confidence with which the people have honoured you, in strengthening the hands of the civil Magistrates. Let this be done immediately, and with impartial firmness on every occasion; that the houses, persons, and property of your fellow-citizens may not be attacked and insulted with impunity, and every degree of domestic security and happiness sapped to the foundation.

CADWALLADER COLDEN.

May 13, 1775.

* To know what confidence this Colony ought to put in the assurances given to our Committee by a certain person who fills a high post in this Government, it will be sufficient to read the extracts of the letters he wrote to the Ministry, and which have been exhibited before the Parliament.

To the Honourable JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esq., Captain-General and Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Forces in the Colony of CONNECTICUT:

May it please your Honour:

We, your Honour's dutiful Petitioners, inhabitants of that part of the society of Ridgebury which is within the Township of Ridgefield, beg leave humbly to represent, that in the present important struggle for the preservation of the rights and liberties of this Country, a large number of the inhabitants of this Parish have appeared firmly attached to the common cause, and adopted the measures concerted by the General Congress and recommended by our worthy Representatives in the General Assembly; whilst the Town, as a body, have rejected and protested against said measures. That as we presume this was a reason why the appointment of a Captain of a Company in the Forces now raising for the defence of this Colony fell upon a member of this rather than of the first society in the Town, but that the man appointed (Lieutenant Abraham Gray) hath declined taking a commission in the present service, yet that as he was not one of those who had openly and publicly manifested a concurrence with us, and with the Country in general, in pursuing the measures recommended by the General Congress, we conceive his refusal cannot be reasonably construed as any evidence of backwardness among us to engage in the present service.

We therefore humbly pray that the commission may not be transferred to any person out of this part of the Town, especially as we conceive there are men among us as well qualified to hold it as may be found elsewhere; and we beg leave particularly to mention Ichabod Doolittle as a man, in our apprehension, very suitable for the office, and humbly pray your Honour to appoint him to take the commission of a Captain, which the said Lieutenant Gray hath declined; and your Honour's Petitioners shall ever pray.

COMMITTEE OF MALDEN AND CHELSEA.

Malden, May 8, 1775.

The Joint Committee of Malden and Chelsea met.

Voted, That Captain John Dexter, Thomas Hills, and Jonathan Williams, be a Committee to wait on General Ward, and inform him that Doctor Samuel Danforth, of Boston, passes backwards and forwards to that place; and from his well known conduct and behaviour, we have reason to suspect his attachment to our most righteous cause; likewise his screwing Hay, and moving it down to Winnesimmet Ferry, in order to be removed to Boston; and that the Committee has taken care that said Hay shall be removed to some more secure place.

JOHN DEXTER, Chairman.

Hartford, Connecticut, May 8, 1775.

We have the pleasure to acquaint the publick that a Constitutional Post-Office is now rising on the ruins of the Parliamentary one, which is just expiring in convulsions. Mr. William Goddard, encouraged by the friends of liberty at New-York, hath engaged a faithful rider to proceed from Mr. John Holt's office on Thursday next, with the Eastern mails for Philadelphia, and Colonies southward. The first-mentioned gentleman is arrived here, and will proceed this day for the Provincial Congress at Watertown, and the camp near Boston, in order to complete the important business of his journey, having had the satisfaction of seeing Constitutional Posts and Postmasters established in every considerable Town which he hath visited. The patriotic conduct of the General Assembly of this Colony hath greatly contributed to the success of Mr. Goddard's enterprise, and it is not doubted but the institution will be patronised and properly regulated by the Continental Congress. Several of the old Postmasters have resigned their appointments and engaged in the new plan, and others may follow their example. Messrs. Peets and Hurd, and Adams and Hyde, are also employed as riders in the service of their Country.

* A Constitutional Post-Office is now kept at J. Holt's Printing Office in Water Street, near the Coffee-House, New-York, where Letters are received in, and carefully despatched by riders who may be depended upon for the faithful performance of duty, and execution of the most important trusts that business may require, as none but men of property and approved characters, will be employed.

The Posts for Philadelphia and the Southwestern Colonies set out about eight o'clock every Monday and Thursday morning, proceed that day, through the Towns of Newark, Elizabethtown, Rahway, Woodbridge, Bonumtown, Piscataway, and Brunswick, to Princeton, where they meet and exchange mails with the Posts from Philadelphia, who pass through Frankfort, Bristol, Trenton, and Maidenhead. These Posts the next day (Tuesday) return with the mails to the above office in New-York, and to Mr. Bradford's, at the Coffee-House in Philadelphia; from whence other Posts set out for the Westward and Eastward at the usual times. Those from New-York for the Eastward, set out about nine o'clock on Monday, about noon on Thursday, and return to New-York with the Eastern mails, on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The rates of postage for the present, are the same that they used to be under the unconstitutional Post-Office, and accounts are carefully kept of all the moneys received for Letters, as well as expended on riders, &c. That where rates and rules are affixed, and offices regularly established throughout the British Colonies, by each Provincial and by the Continental Congress, what shall be done before that time may be taken into the account, and properly adjusted.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Boston, May 8, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: The printed paper which I now send you, was brought to me by a kind neighbour who picked it up in the street, and as it is mine by the gift of the finder of it, I have thought it my duty to send it unto you, that so, as the Province is interested in it, it may by you be communicated to the Provincial Assembly over which you preside.

This "Circumstantial Account," as it is called, of the late engagement, has been so privately printed that some of their own officers have not the knowledge of it; and as this is the account which is most probably sent home, it is here currently reported that above thirty depositions upon oath, to the truth of it, have been sent along with it.

You will see, by this account, that the people of our Province are represented as the blamable causes of all that occurred. They attacked; they fired first; they committed cruelties. The British Soldiers only did their duty; and having done it, they did not properly retreat, but marched back to Charlestown.

I wish you, sir, and the Provincial Congress, the happiest direction from above in all your counsels and managements for the publick weal, and prosperity and the blessing of the Lord of Hosts in the prosecution of them; and am, with my most cordial respects to yourself and all our Delegates with you, your faithful friend and most obedient servant,

SAMUEL MATHER.

SELECTMEN OF WORCESTER TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Worcester, Massachusetts, May 8, 1775.

The Committee appointed by the inhabitants of the Town to take into their consideration what is requisite to be done with a number of people who have shown themselves disaffected to their Country, do report:

That in their humble opinion, as William Cambell has broke through his engagements with the fathers of the people, and presumed to go out of the Town and Province before the Resolve of the Provincial Congress was known, in order to injure the good people of this place, and has been, and by his conduct still appears to be, an inveterate enemy to the rights and privileges of this Country, notwithstanding his declarations to the contrary, he should be sent to Watertown or Cambridge, to be dealt with as the honourable Congress or the Commander-in-Chief shall think necessary, it being judged highly improper that he should tarry any longer in this Town.

And whereas Mr. Samuel Paine, of Worcester, has been found guilty of propagating a report, viz: "that the goods, &c., taken out of the dwelling house of Ebenezer Bradish, of Menotomy, was not taken by the Regular Troops, but by our people; and furthermore, that our Troops quartered in College were lousy and deserted by hundreds;" the inhabitants of the Town of Worcester assembled, Resolve, That said Paine be sent to Watertown or Cambridge with William Cambell, under the care of Captains Jonas Hubbard and Edward Craft, to be dealt with as the honourable Congress or Commander-in-Chief shall, upon examination, think proper.

JOSHUA BIGELOW,

Per order Selectmen of Worcester.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress in Watertown, or Commander-in-Chief at Cambridge.

Worcester, Massachusetts, May 9, 1775.

I, Gardner Chandler, of lawful age, do testify and say, that on the sixth instant, being in my garden, Samuel Paine came to me, (being the first time I had seen him since he came from Cambridge.) I asked him what news. He told me none but what we had here. I then asked him how matters were at Mr. Bradish's house; he said that the Hampshire Soldiers had got possession of it, and of all that was in it. I then mentioned the things that were lost the first day; he said they were not taken by the Regulars, but by our people. I asked him if the Soldiers did not come off; he said he heard they did in great numbers; and that he was told that the men were so close stowed in the Colleges that they were lousy.

GARDNER CHANDLER.

WORCESTER, ss., May 9, 1775:

The within named Gardner Chandler, after due caution, made oath to the truth of the within written affidavit taken before me.

ROBERT GODDARD,

Justice of the Peace.

SPOTTSYLVANIA COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a Committee for the County of Spottsylvania, held at the Town-House in Fredericksburgh, on Tuesday the ninth of May, 1775: Present twenty-six members:

FIELDING LEWIS, Esq., in the Chair.

The Committee having before them a copy of the proceedings of Captain Patrick Henry, and other gentlemen, officers and volunteers under his command, concerning the Powder taken from the County Magazine, cordially approve of the same, and unanimously vote them their thanks for their prudent, firm, and spirited conduct on that occasion.

Resolved unanimously, That the easy acquisition of the Powder from the County Magazine in the City of Williamsburgh, by order of his Excellency the Governour, and the convenient situation of that City with respect to the Navy, render it unsafe to continue the publick Treasury at that place, and that it is the opinion of this Committee that the same ought to be removed to a place of greater safety.

Resolved, That Mr. Chairman, Charles Dick, James Mercer, Charles Mortimer, and George Thornton, gentlemen, do write to the Treasurer, requesting him to call a Convention of the Delegates for this Colony as soon as possible.

ALEXANDER DICK, Clerk.

ORANGE COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

May 9, 1775.

The Committee for Orange County met on Tuesday the ninth of May. Taking into their consideration the removal of the Powder from the publick Magazine, and the compensation obtained by the Independent Company of Hanover; and observing also that the receipt given by Captain Patrick Henry to his Majesty's Receiver-General refers the final disposal of the Money to the next Colony Convention, came to the following Resolutions:

1. That the Governour's removal of the Powder lodged in the Magazine, and set apart for the defence of the Country, was fraudulent, unnecessary, and extremely provoking to the people of this Colony.

2. That the resentment shewn by the Hanover Volunteers, and the reprisal they have made on the King's property, highly merit the approbation of the publick, and the thanks of this Committee.

3. That if any attempt should be made, at the ensuing Convention, to have the Money returned to His Majesty's Receiver-General, our Delegates be, and they are hereby instructed, to exert all their influence in opposing such attempt, and in having the Money laid out in Gunpowder for the use of the Colony.

4. That the following Address be presented to Captain Patrick Henry, and the gentlemen independents of Hanover:

"GENTLEMEN: We, the Committee for the County of Orange, having been fully informed of your seasonable and spirited proceedings in procuring a compensation for the Powder fraudulently taken from the County Magazine by command of Lord Dunmore, and which it evidently appears his Lordship, notwithstanding his assurances, had no intention to restore, entreat you to accept their cordial thanks for this testimony of your zeal for the honour and interest of your Country. We take this occasion also to give it as our opinion, that the blow struck in the Massachusetts Government is a hostile attack on this and every other Colony, and a sufficient warrant to use violence and reprisal, in all cases where it may be expedient for our security and welfare."

HANOVER COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting appointed and held for Hanover County, at the Court-House, on Tuesday, the 9th of May, 1775: Present: John Syme, Samuel Overton, William Cranch, Meriwether Skelton, Richard Morris, Benjamin Anderson, John Pendleton, John Robinson, Nelson Berkeley, and George Dabney, Junior.

Agreeable to a Resolution of the Committee held at Newcastle, the 2d instant, setting forth that they being fully informed of the violent hostilities committed by the King's Troops in America, and of the danger arising to the Colony by the loss of the publick Powder, and of the conduct of the Governour, which threatens altogether calamities of the greatest magnitude and most fearful consequences to this Colony; and therefore recommending reprisals to be made upon the King's property, sufficient to replace the Gunpowder taken out of the Magazine: It appears to this Committee that the Volunteers who marched from Newcastle to obtain satisfaction for the Gunpowder, by reprisal or otherwise, proceeded on that business as follows, to wit:

That an Officer, with sixteen men, was detached to seize the King's Receiver-General, with orders to detain him; and this, it was supposed, might be done without impeding the progress of the main body. The said Receiver-General not being apprehended, owing to his absence from home, the said detachment, according to orders, proceeded to join the main body on its march to Williamsburgh, and the junction happened on the 3d instant, at Doncastle's Ordinary, about sunset. A little after sunrise next morning, the Commanding Officer being assured that proper satisfaction, in money, should be instantly made, the Volunteers halted, and the proposal being considered by them, was judged satisfactory as to that point; and the following Receipt was given, to wit:

"Doncastle's Ordinary, New-Kent, May 4, 1775.

"Received from the Honourable Richard Corbin, Esq., His Majesty's Receiver-General, £330, as a compensation for the Gunpowder lately taken out of the publick Magazine by the Governour's order; which money I promise to convey to the Virginia Delegates at the General Congress, to be under their direction laid out in Gunpowder for the Colony's use, and to be stored as they shall direct, until the next Colony Convention, or General Assembly, unless it shall be necessary, in the mean time, to use the same in defence of this Colony. It is agreed, that in case the next Convention shall determine that any part of the said money ought to be returned to His Majesty's Receiver-General, that the same shall be done accordingly.

"PATRICK HENRY, JUNIOR."

It was then considered, that as a General Congress would meet in a few days; and probably a Colony Convention would shortly assemble, and that the reprisal now made would amply replace the Powder, with the charges of transportation, the Commanding Officer wrote the following Letter, and sent it by express:

May 4, 1775.

SIR: The affair of the Powder is now settled, so as to produce satisfaction to me, and I earnestly wish to the Colony in general. The people here have it in charge from the Hanover Committee, to tender their services to you as a publick officer, for the purpose of escorting the publick Treasury to any place in this Colony, where the money would be judged more safe than in the City of Williamsburgh. The reprisal now made by the Hanover Volunteers, though accomplished in a manner least liable to the imputation of violent extremity, may possibly be the cause of future injury to the Treasury. If, therefore, you apprehend the least danger, a sufficient guard is at your service. I beg the return of the bearer may be instant, because the men wish to know their destination.

With great regard, I am, Sir, your most humble servant,

PATRICK HENRY, JUNIOR.

To Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., Treasurer.

To which an answer was received from the said Mr. Nicholas, importing that he had no apprehension of the necessity or propriety of the proffered service. For which reasons, and understanding moreover, from others, that the private citizens of Williamsburgh were in a great measure quieted from their late apprehensions for their persons and property, the Volunteers judged it best to return home, and did so accordingly, in order to wait the further directions of the General Congress, or Colony Convention.*

It appears also to this Committee, that before and on the march, strict orders were repeatedly given to the Volunteers to avoid all violence, injury, and insult, towards the persons and property of every individual; and that in executing the plan of reprisal on the persons of the King's servants, and his property, bloodshed should be avoided, if possible; and that there is the strongest reason that the foregoing orders respecting private persons and property, were strictly observed.

Resolved, That this Committee do approve of the proceedings of the Officers and Soldiers of the Volunteer Company, and do return them their sincere thanks for their services on the late expedition; and also that the thanks of this Committee be given to the many Volunteers of the different Counties, who joined and were marching, and ready to co-operate with the Volunteer Company of this County.

Ordered, That the Clerk do transmit a copy of these proceedings to the Printers, and desire that they will be pleased to publish the same in their Gazettes as soon as possible. By order of the Committee:

BARTLETT ANDERSON, Clerk.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN BUCKS COUNTY, TO HIS FRIEND IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED MAY 9, 1775.

Our Committee met yesterday. From their Resolves, (a copy of which I enclose you,) you will find they have adopted your plan, and recommend our associating into companies to learn the military exercise of arms. Some Townships have already begun, and many others, animated with the same zeal for the welfare of their Country, will, I trust, readily fall in with the plan, a knowledge of which, we have great reason to fear we shall soon be called on to give a proof of. The unanimity, prudence, spirit, and firmness, which appeared in the deliberations of yesterday, do honour to Bucks County, and will, I hope, in some measure, wipe off those aspersions we too deservedly lay under.

A large number of the inhabitants being assembled, the * HANOVER, May 12, 1775.—Yesterday, Patrick Henry, one of the Delegates for this Colony, escorted by a number of respectable young gentlemen, Volunteers from this and King William and Caroline Counties, set out to attend the General Congress. They proceeded with him as far as Mrs. Hooe's Ferry, on the Potomack, by whom they were most kindly and hospitably entertained; and also provided with boats and hands to cross the river. And after partaking of this lady's beneficence, the bulk of the Company took their leave of Mr. Henry, saluting him with two platoons and repeated huzzas. A guard accompanied that worthy gentleman to the Maryland side, who saw him safely landed; and committing him to the gracious and wise Disposer of all human events, to guide and protect him whilst contending for a restitution of our dearest rights and liberties, they wished him a safe journey, and happy return to his family and friends.

Resolves of the day were made publick, who testified their highest approbation of the conduct of the Committee, and unanimously voted them the thanks of the County.

A disciple of those species of creatures called Tories, being formally introduced to a tar barrel, of which he was repeatedly pressed to smell, thought it prudent to take leave abruptly, lest a more intimate acquaintance with it should take place.

BUCKS COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of the County of Bucks, held at the house of Richard Leedom, May 8, 1775:

Resolved unanimously, That we do heartily approve of the Resolves of the late Provincial Convention, held at Philadelphia, the 23d day of January last, and do earnestly recommend it to the observation of the inhabitants of this County.

Resolved unanimously, That notwithstanding the disapprobation we have hitherto shown to the prosecution of any violent measures of opposition, arising from the hopes and expectations that the humanity, justice, and magnanimity of the British Nation would not fail of affording us relief; being now convinced that all our most dutiful applications have hitherto been fruitless and vain; and that attempts are now making to carry the oppressive Acts of Parliament into execution by military force, we do therefore earnestly recommend to the people of this County to form themselves into Associations in their respective Townships, to improve themselves in the military art, that they may be rendered capable of affording their Country that aid which its particular necessities may at any time require.

Joseph Hart, John Kidd, Joseph Kirkbride, James Wallace, and Henry Wynkoop, or any three of them, are appointed as Delegates to meet in Provincial Convention, if any should be found necessary.

The Committee request all persons who have taken subscriptions for the relief of the poor of Boston, as soon as possible to collect and pay the same into the hands of the Treasurer, Henry Wynkoop, that it may be speedily applied towards the benevolent purpose for which it was intended; and at the same time, to give those who have not subscribed an opportunity to contribute also.

By order of the Committee:

HENRY WYNKOOP, Clerk pro tem.

TO THE PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Bedford, May 9, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Not long since we were favoured with your letter of the 18th ultimo, enclosing the melancholy news of a number of Troops being ordered for America; in consequence of which we advertised a meeting of the County Committee, when the following Resolves were unanimously entered into:

At a meeting of the General Committee of the County of Bedford, held at Bedford, the 9th day of May, 1775, in pursuance of a notice for that purpose from the Committee of Correspondence for the said County:

GEORGE WOODS, Esquire, Chairman.

Resolved unanimously, That this County will immediately form themselves into Military Associations, and prepare themselves, in order to defend their lives, liberties, and properties, from any illegal attempts made against them.

Resolved unanimously, That each Township in this County shall be immediately notified to assemble themselves at a certain day and place most convenient for that purpose, and then and there, by ballot or otherwise, choose Officers in their respective Townships.

Resolved unanimously, That the said Officers, when chosen, shall make out a Roll, and each man shall subscribe his name in said Roll; and that the Captain shall immediately transmit a copy thereof to the Committee of Correspondence at Bedford.

Resolved unanimously, That the Committee of this County shall purchase all the Powder and Lead in any store that may be had within the said County, and have the same put up in some safe Magazine in the Town of Bedford, for the use of the said Soldiers; and that each Company shall, by subscription, make up a proportionable part of the same; which Ammunition shall not be distributed without the orders of the Committee of Correspondence of the said County, or until it shall be thought necessary by this Committee, or a majority of them.

Resolved unanimously, That each Company in this County shall use their utmost endeavours to purchase or provide all the Ammunition they can, so that no person in the said Company shall have less than one pound of Powder, and Lead in proportion.

Resolved unanimously, That as soon as the said Companies are formed, they and each of them shall be subject to military regulations and discipline, in the same manner as any other of His Majesty's Troops are, (corporal punishment only excepted.)

Resolved unanimously, That in case any person or persons in this County shall refuse to subscribe himself in a roll of some Company in the said County, in order to defend the cause of liberty now contending for, or by any ways or means whatever discourage or disunite the said Associations, that then he or they so offending shall be immediately reported by some of the officers of their respective Townships, to the Committee of Correspondence at Bedford, in order that such steps may be taken as by the said Committee may be thought most prudent; and that, in the mean time, no person or persons within the said County shall, directly or indirectly, have any dealing or commerce, by either buying or selling, borrowing, or lending to or with any of the said offenders.

Resolved unanimously, That all persons within this County that are not at present provided with Guns, Swords, or Tomahawks, in case of ability shall provide for themselves; and in case of inability, that the Captain of each Company shall immediately transmit their names, or their number, to the Committee of Correspondence at Bedford, that proper measures may be taken in order to provide for them.

Resolved unanimously, That each Township shall meet and choose their Officers, and make return agreeable to the above Resolves, within the space of ten days from this date. By order of the Committee of Correspondence:

DAVID ESPY, Clerk.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM ULSTER COUNTY, NEW-YORK,
DATED MAY 9, 1775.

A great revolution in political measures has taken place in this County since we received a copy of the Association entered into by your City, with which many of us have ever been desirous to harmonize, especially in such proceedings as were conformable to the general sense of your inhabitants. On this principle, as well as from a full conviction of preventing the anarchy and confusion which attend a dissolution of the powers of Government, and of uniting with our fellow-subjects in adopting some general plan for obtaining a redress of grievances, on constitutional principles, forwarding the wished-for reconciliation between Great Britain and America, and preserving peace and good order, the safety of individuals and private property; I say, concurring with you unanimously, so far as I have heard, in these good purposes, the inhabitants of several Precincts met yesterday, and cheerfully agreed to bury in oblivion all past differences that had happened from discordant sentiments respecting the mode proper to be pursued for obtaining a redress of those grievances we have all so loudly complained of, and heartily to join with you in the measures you had taken for restoring internal harmony, peace, and concord, to our convulsed Country, on the brink of being overwhelmed with every species of the most outrageous violence, anarchy, and confusion.

Never were meetings so numerous, general, calm, dispassionate, orderly, or unanimous. In effecting these salutary dispositions, Mr. Mason, Pastor of the Sceders' Congregation in New-York, has great merit, for his repeated exhortations to the people of his sect here, (to whom he preached at this juncture,) zealously inculcating the doctrines of peace, order, and benevolence, reprehending all acts of violence, outrage, and licentiousness, and exerting all his other influences for enforcing those objects on this occasion. I hope the good seed he has sown will take firm root, produce a British constitutional plant, and long continue to bear fruit worthy of the husbandman that scattered it. May it never be blasted by the noxious shade of a superincumbent tree, or the poisonous exhalations of surrounding shrubs; but thrive and flourish, and spread a benign farina, impregnating every variety of its species with its virtues, far and near.

It is the ardent wish of my heart, that both the ensuing Continental and Provincial Congress of this Colony, under the influences of a genuine spirit of patriotism and love for this Country, may seriously and calmly consider of and recommend such measures only as will tend to obtain for us a redress of our grievances on constitutional principles; lay a foundation for our speedily having confirmed to us, in the most extensive latitude our local circumstances will admit of, the pure and unmutated constitutional rights and privileges of free Englishmen, as established at the glorious and happy Revolution, on a basis solid and permanent; and whilst they are firmly actuated by these views and endeavours, I hope they may glow with every sentiment of affection, veneration, and regard for their Parent State, and give every testimony of it, by pursuing and recommending, with all their power, the most healing and conciliatory measures. In these sentiments I am happy in being joined by many, and most of the serious, considerate, sensible freeholders in this County. God send us a good deliverance.

JOEL CLARK TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Farmington, May 9, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: I have been too long a soldier to feel my breast unmoved at the sound of my neighbours beating to arms. I feel too much for my distressed and injured Country to see the dangers which threaten it without wishing to share them with my countrymen; and I partake too much of the spirit of those ancestors we boast, not to offer my services at this crisis in any way inconsistent with honour and fidelity to my Country. I take the freedom to address your Honour as the Captain-General of this Colony, and tender therefore my services. I served in the ranks at the age of fifteen, in the reduction of Louisburg, in '45. I served in every other station in the last war, until I was appointed to the command of a Company in the three last years before the peace; in all which stations I appeal to those in the service for my conduct. Once I received the General's thanks for my service in a command of four hundred men, in 1760, and the additional pay of a Captain in the regular service. Now this don't argue either the want of skill or readiness in me of doing my duty. When I saw last winter the appointment of Field Officers by the honourable Assembly, of the Regiment I belong to, I had thoughts which I suppressed. The gentlemen I have no objection to. They may make a figure in peace, and they may make a figure in war. They have never had experience. I now see the danger to which my Country is reduced; and my love to that, and duty to your Honour, demand this offer of my service. I do not apply for want of bread or business of my own: I have enough of both, and a property to defend. The present union of hearts and hands of all ranks of people in the cause, renders it needless for me to take up your Honour's time. When dangers were represented in the alarm in September last, I raised a Company at some expense of my own, and was in readiness to march at the confirmation of the news. I know not whether it is in your Honour's power to give me a proper appointment in the service, but I shall always be satisfied in having done my duty in this address to your Honour, and am, with much respect, your Honour's most obedient and humble servant,

JOEL CLARK.

Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Captain-General of the Forces in the Colony of Connecticut.

P. S. If your Honour will condescend to inquire of Generals Wooster, Spencer, Putnam, and Colonels Ward, Wadsworth, Waterbury, Champion, &c., for my character, &c., I shall esteem it as a favour: also Mr. Root, a Representative.

THOMAS HOWELL TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-Haven, May 9, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: I have been informed that I had the honour to be nominated by the honourable General Assembly as a Commissary to provide for the Troops now raising in the defence of the Colony. I sincerely thank the Assembly for this mark of respect. I have the interest of the Colony, its rights and privileges, at heart, as much, I believe, as any man. But as there has been for some time past an unhappy dispute in this Town, and by which we have, in some measure, been thrown into parties; and as one party has made (as I am told) an unfair representation against me, I think it my duty, when the interest of my Country is at stake, to sacrifice private interest to the public good. Upon that principle, sir, I have to inform you that I am willing to resign the office of Commissary, and I conceive it will conduce to the peace of the Town to have Mr. Jonathan Fitch appointed. He may, perhaps, reconcile all parties, which is the desire of, Sir, your humble servant,

THOMAS HOWELL.

SHEFFIELD (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation for the Town of Sheffield, on Tuesday, the ninth day of May, 1775:

Complaint being made to this Committee that John Westover, Job Westover, and Noah Westover, had, in various instances, contravened the doings and Resolutions of the General and Provincial Congresses; and that the said John, Job, and Noah, were enemies of American liberty; it was thereupon ordered, that the Clerk cause the said John, Job, and Noah, to be notified to attend before this Committee on Friday next, at one o'clock, afternoon, at the house of Mr. Daniel Dewey, in this Town, to answer to the aforementioned complaint.

Voted, To adjourn this meeting till Friday next at one o'clock in the afternoon, then to meet at the house of Mr. Daniel Dewey.

Friday, May 12, 1775.

The Committee met according to adjournment.

John Westover and Job Westover appeared before the Committee; Noah Westover not being to be found, has not been notified. The Committee took into consideration the complaint against the said John and Job; and Captain Daniel Lawrence, his wife, Messrs. Jonathan Westover and Joseph Kingman, being adduced as witnesses, it appeared from their evidence (among many other matters) that the said John hath affirmed that the late Continental Congress, in their doings, were guilty of rebellion against the King; and that the said Job hath affirmed that the Parliament of Great Britain had a right to tax the Americans; and that each of them had said many things disrespectful of the said Congress, and the Provincial Congresses. The following question being, during the course of the examination, put to the said John and Job, viz: "If an engagement should unfortunately happen between the British and American Armies, which they would choose should prevail?" the said John answered, that the question was so difficult he could not give a direct answer. The said Job, in answer to said question, said that he supposed the consequences of a victory on the side of the American Army would be more prejudicial to this Country than the contrary. During the time the several matters aforesaid were under the consideration of the Committee, and before any resolution was had thereon, the said John voluntarily and solemnly engaged, that at no time hereafter will he do any thing detrimental to the cause now contended for by this Country; and that so far as he understands the true intent and meaning of the doings of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, he will not violate the same in any particular.

The following motion was then made and seconded, Whether the foregoing declaration of the said John is satisfactory to this Committee? It passed in the affirmative.

The following motion was then made and seconded, Whether the said Job is an enemy of American liberty? It passed in the affirmative unanimously. Therefore,

Resolved, unanimously, That the said Job Westover is an enemy of American liberty, and that it is the duty of all those who wish well to the cause of freedom, from henceforth to break off all dealings with the said Job.

Voted, That the Clerk do procure the foregoing proceedings with regard to said John and Job Westover, to be inserted in the American Oracle of Liberty.

A GENTLEMAN AT PITTSFIELD, IN BERKSHIRE COUNTY, TO AN OFFICER IN CAMBRIDGE.

Pittsfield, Massachusetts, May 9, 1775.

In my last I wrote to you of the Northern Expedition; before this week ends, we are in raised hopes here of hearing that Ticonderoga and Crown Point are in our hands. Solomons, the Indian King of Stockbridge, was lately at Colonel Easton's of this Town, and said there that the Mohawks had not only given liberty to the Stockbridge Indians to join us, but had sent them a belt, denoting that they would hold five hundred men in readiness to join us immediately on the first notice; and that the said Solomons holds an Indian post in actual readiness to run with the news as soon as they shall be wanted. Those Indians would be of great service to you should the King's Troops march out of Boston, as some think they undoubtedly will upon the arrival of their recruits, and give us battle. Our Militia this way, Sir, are vigorously preparing for actual readiness. Adjacent Towns and this Town are buying arms and ammunition. There is a plenty of arms to be sold at Albany as yet; but we hear, by order of the Mayor, &c., no powder is at present to be sold there. The spirit of liberty runs high there, as you have doubtless heard by their post to our Head Quarters. I have exerted myself to disseminate the same spirit in King's District, which has of late taken surprising effect. The poor Tories of Kinderhook are mortified and grieved, and are wheeling about, and begin to take the quick step. New-York Government begins to be alive in the glorious cause, and to act with great vigour.

I fervently pray, Sir, that our Council of War may be inspired with wisdom from above, to direct the warlike enterprise with prudence, discretion, and vigour. O! may your councils and deliberations be under the guidance and blessing of Heaven! Since I began to write, an intelligent person, who left Ticonderoga, Saturday before last, informs me, that having went through there and Crown Point about three weeks ago, all were secure; but on his return, he found they were alarmed with our expedition, and would not admit him into the Fort; that there were twelve soldiers at Crown Point, and he judged near two hundred at Ticonderoga; that those Forts were out of repair, and much in ruins; that it was his opinion our men would undoubtedly be able to take them; and that he met our men last Thursday, who were well furnished with cattle, and wagons laden with provisions, and in good spirits, who he supposed would arrive there last Sabbath day, and he doubted not but this week they would be in possession of those Forts. He informed them where they might obtain a plenty of ball; and there are cannon enough at Crown Point, which they cannot secure from us. That he saw the Old Sow, brought from Cape Breton, and a number of good brass cannon, at Ticonderoga. Should this expedition succeed, and should the Council of War send up their orders for the people this way to transport by land twenty or thirty of the best of the cannon to Head Quarters, I doubt not but the people in this country would do it with all expedition. We could easily collect a thousand yoke of cattle for the business.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE OF LYNN TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Lynn, May 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer, Captain Barker, will bring before your Honour Mr. Josiah Martin, as a person whom we have considered to have acted as an enemy to the Province, and have sent the evidences that appeared against him.

JOHN MANSFIELD, Chairman.

Evidences names: Harthorn Ramsdell, John Bancroft, William French, James Bancroft.

JOSIAH MARTIN TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Cambridge, May 11, 1775.

Gentlemen of the Committee of Safety:

I was sent from Lynn by a guard of soldiers to be examined, and am sorry that myself or any other faithful and loyal subject to his Country should be treated as I am. Methinks it would give a check to the spirit of an Alexander. Humanity is the least we may expect of one another. Your true and loyal Whig, JOSIAH MARTIN.

PETITION FROM COHASSET.

Cohasset, May 9, 1775.

The Selectmen of the District of COHASSET humbly shew:

That to their great satisfaction they find that the idea of Counties, Towns, and Districts, are in a great measure lost in a general conference for the safety of the whole, and that this Committee, on whom are the eyes of the Government, in various instances granted protection to such parts of the sea-coasts as were most exposed. Your Petitioners therefore beg leave to say, that they are in a defenceless state, and that they are exposed to be ravaged by the crews of every ship or vessel whose inclination leads them to plunder; that they have kept up a military watch from the twentieth of April last to this time, and which is absolutely necessary to be continued for the safety not only of said District, and the Towns adjoining, but of the whole. They therefore pray that they may have liberty to raise, on the same footing that men are raising in our neighbourhood, and have a Company, and that they may do duty in this place until the safety of the whole shall require their removal.

And, as in duty bound, shall pray.

ISAAC LINCOLN,
ABEL KENT,
THOMAS LATHROP, } Selectmen of Cohasset.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LONDON, TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED MAY 10, 1775.

Before you receive this you will probably have determined the fate of both parts of the British Empire in that venerable assembly, the Continental Congress. We have no fears for you, but the infatuation of the Ministry here gives us as much to apprehend as ever. It is still the full persuasion of all the courtiers (and I almost think of the greatest part of the Nation) that notwithstanding all your seeming firmness and hostile preparations, you will submit to any thing rather than contend with us. A very short time will now determine that matter, for there is no appearance of any relaxation here. We wait for the great event with the most anxious and distressing impatience.

ADDRESS OF THE VOLUNTEER COMPANY OF WILLIAMSBURGH, VIRGINIA.

At a meeting of the Volunteer Company of the City of Williamsburgh, on the tenth day of May, 1775, the following Address was unanimously agreed to, and ordered to be published.

JOHN BROWN, Clerk.

To the Gentlemen, Freeholders, and Volunteers who so generously offered their assistance to the City of WILLIAMSBURGH, on a late alarming occasion:

GENTLEMEN: A quick sensibility to insults offered our Country, and a determined resolution to risk every thing in support of its honour and interest, are ruling motives in the breast of every patriot. To these we ascribe your late movement towards the Metropolis, where certain incidents, sufficiently alarming at this juncture, had attracted the attention of all our worthy countrymen. We are happy in being able to convince you, that there is at present no necessity for their vigorous interposition; but the zealous alacrity with which you proffered your assistance, as it shows a sincere devotion to the publick good, must be highly pleasing to your fellow-countrymen, and demands our warmest thanks and acknowledgments.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED NEW-YORK, MAY 10, 1775.

When the news of the engagement between the Provincials and the Regulars arrived here, Doctor Cooper, with several others, fled on board the Man-of-War, and have since sailed for Europe, so that the City is almost cleared of Tories, and the few which remain are ashamed and afraid. A soldier who had deserted from the Welsh Fusiliers was among the forces which came to assist us from New-England; some of the soldiers in the barracks saw him, and told the officers. He was taken and confined; but when his New-England Captain heard of it, he went to the barracks, called for the commanding officer, and demanded his man. The officer told him he was a deserter; the Captain replied he did not care, he would have him, as he had promised to protect him. An officer who was standing by, said, if he was the commanding officer he would take him prisoner. The Captain replied, he might, but he would be the dearest prisoner he ever had, and swore the barracks should be in a flame in one hour if they attempted such a thing. However, the commanding officer thought proper to deliver up the man; and the very next day two sentinels deserted from the Governour's door.

TO THE PUBLICK.

Kingston, Ulster County, New-York, May 10, 1775.

When the characters of gentlemen who have acted in a publick capacity are impeached, (especially those who have taken upon them the execution of the measures of the last Continental Congress,) how disagreeable the task may be, it behoves every one who is a friend to truth, honesty, and liberty, to consider it as their duty, and incumbent on them, with all their efforts to support the proceedings of those gentlemen. This County in general, and Kingston in particular, have distinguished themselves by a ready compliance with the Association of the Congress, and some spirited measures to render them effectual; but as every flock contains some bad sheep, so the article of Tea has discovered the infected persons amongst us. The simile is just, and the cure used for the one, must be applied to the other, viz: a separation of the clean from the unclean. This has been done; the Committee of this Town have, after many friendly advices and entreaties, which proved in vain, been led to the disagreeable necessity of publishing Mr. Jacobus Low, merchant of this Town, all which have not as yet wrought a reformation of his conduct. He lately published a piece in vindication of his conduct, the like of which is not to be paralleled; it not only contains scurrilous and abusive language, but gross falsehoods.

First, he begins, "Johannes Slegt, Chairman of the Committee of Ulster County, has published me as an enemy of my Country, for selling Tea, in which it is set forth, that all the Merchants and Skippers had signed articles in which they agreed not to sell Tea." This, he says, "is absolutely false, for there are more who have not signed for the very reasons I had, and the Committee knew that they had not all signed at the time of publishing this piece of malice."

The Committee are surprised at Mr. Low's ignorance and stupidity, since he has as well incurred the displeasure of the friends of liberty in the City of New-York, as here, by his non-compliance with his brethren, merchants in this Town. But it appears that he will endeavour to heap sin upon sin, to cure a wound by a fresh bruise; that is, by committing a crime and leading the guiltless in the execution thereof.

The Committee still say, that every Merchant and Skipper in this Town, who were possessed of East-India Tea for sale, had signed the said articles before the publication, which they are ready to prove by the original in their custody, (Jacobus Low only excepted.) They also deny that Johannes Slegt was Chairman for the County of Ulster, (as he says,) but only for the Town of Kingston. They also deny that any malice was shown unto him; but that, on the contrary, he was solicited, advised, and entreated to quit selling Tea, as the other merchants had done, to prevent a publication, which then proved abortive. As for the assertion of its being known in Kingston that said Low had offered to sign the Third Article of the Association, is even contradicted by his own advertisement, for he still adheres to the consumption of it.

As for the matters he asserts to have been reported in and by the Committee, is absolutely false; here the world may discover the wickedness of his heart, by endeavouring to punish others for his own crimes. In short, it is imposing on the publick to answer every part of so base a piece of wilful and false publication, from a man who was treated with so much lenity as he was from this Committee.

By order of the Committee:

JOHANNES SLEGT, Chairman.

N. B. Since the publication of Mr. Low, this Committee has been augmented to the number of seventeen, and have re-elected Johannes Slegt Chairman.

TOWN-MEETING, PROVIDENCE, RHODE-ISLAND.

At a Town-Meeting held at Providence, on the tenth day of May, A. D. 1775, by adjournment, Nicholas Cooke, Esquire, Moderator:

Voted, That it be and it is hereby recommended to the honourable Town Council at their next session to establish a Watch in this Town of six men each night, agreeable to law, and to appoint a Master or Warden to set said Watch, and to have the oversight and direction thereof, for six months from this time; and that the said Town Council be desired to meet to settle said Watch on Friday next; and it is recommended to said Council that each person have the liberty to watch in their turn, or to furnish a person in his room, and on failure thereof to pay Three Shillings for each neglect.

Voted, That six persons be appointed to examine into the state of the inhabitants of this Town, and to make report of all such that are provided with Small-Arms and accoutrements agreeable to law, and of all such that are not provided agreeable to law with Small-Arms, &c., and of all persons that in their judgments are not of ability to supply themselves, saving and excepting all those that are or may be enlisted.

The following persons are appointed to make the examination, to wit: Nathaniel Wheaton, Benjamin Thurber, David Lawrence, Paul Allen, Benoni Pearce, and Barnard Eddy, and that the same be made on Saturday next.

Voted, That this meeting be adjourned to Monday next, two o'clock, P. M.

GENERAL THOMAS TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Roxbury Camp, May 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I have just received a letter from the Committee of Inspection for the Town of Providence, desiring me to inform them if the Committee of Safety have transmitted to their friend in London an account of the battle at Lexington, and have informed that the Colony have appointed a Committee of Safety, who has the direction of the Troops; therefore letters to this place on that subject should be directed to said Committee of Safety. I should be glad to know what answer I may return them. I am unacquainted with the proceedings of Congress, or the Committee of Safety, relative to that matter. If you will be pleased to send me an answer by the first opportunity, it will oblige your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN THOMAS.

To the Committee of Safety in Cambridge.

TOWN-MEETING, BRISTOL, MASSACHUSETTS.

May 10, 1775.

To the Honourable the Members of the Provincial Congress of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

On the second day of May, 1775, at a legal meeting of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Bristol, the following Articles were agreed to:

First. Whereas we wrote to your Honours last March a little sketch of our circumstances, and that we would put ourselves as soon as possible into military order, and then inform your Honours more particularly of our strength in regard to arms and ammunition: therefore we would now inform your Honours that we have endeavoured to put ourselves into military order and discipline as well as we were capable. We make out three Companies, each Company consisting of about sixty training soldiers exclusive of officers, which officers were chosen by vote of the several Companies in the training field. As to arms, the most of us have got guns, but we are in very low circumstances in regard to ammunition—powder especially; we have used several means to provide ourselves with powder, but it has happened to be to no purpose. Therefore if it is possible that your Honours can point out to us any way of relief in this particular we shall take it as a very great favour; we apprehend that we are very unsafe to be destitute of ammunition; as our Town borders on the sea, we are much exposed to our enemies.

Second. Voted unanimously, That Mr. Thomas Brackett be, and we hereby empower him to be, our agent and attorney in all matters whatsoever, in our name and stead to contract for any articles that our said attorney shall think necessary for this Town: by whom we hope to receive advices from your Honours how we shall conduct in all matters. We remain, with earnest prayer to Almighty God for a blessing upon your Honours' persons, and upon your Honours' proceedings in behalf of this Province, your Honours' most dutiful, most obedient, and most humble servants. By order and in behalf of the Town of Bristol:

SAMUEL OATES,	} Committee-Men.
ROBERT GIVEN,
THOMAS BOYD,
GEORGE RODGERS,
THOS. JOHNSTON,	} Selectmen of Bristol.
JAMES HUSTON,
WILLIAM BARNES, Town Clerk.

TIMOTHY PICKERING TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Salem, May 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: It appearing highly expedient that a Regiment should be formed from Salem and its environs, with a view to serve the general cause, I took the liberty of recommending Colonel Mansfield and Captain Hutchinson Colonel and Lieutenant-Colonel of it. They then appeared to me the most suitable persons that could be found willing to fill these places, and I am still of the same opinion. I should not give you any further trouble about the matter, if I did not think Colonel Hutchinson was suffering unjustly by means of Colonel Herrick; the latter, as Mr. Hutchinson informs me, declared himself well pleased with his appointment, and heartily, in appearance, congratulated him upon it; and yet, with might and main is now endeavouring to supplant him, and he builds his hopes of succeeding, it seems, not upon Colonel Hutchinson's inefficiency, nor upon his own superiour ability and merit, but upon a foundation which a man of honour, I think, would reject with disdain: Colonel Herrick, truly, has friends in Court! an admirable plea for his advancement; incontestable evidence of his merit! I should not have opened my lips to Colonel Herrick's disadvantage, had he not, in a manner which appears to me most ungenerous, endeavoured to supplant Colonel Hutchinson, and otherwise treated him with great incivility, to use a gentle word. What I have said, gentlemen, is grounded wholly upon Colonel Hutchinson's account of the matter; but from the manners and character of the gentleman, I cannot suffer myself to doubt his veracity. Nevertheless, if I am misinformed, I will readily ask Colonel Herrick's pardon. I should not, gentlemen, have presumed to intrude myself upon you, if Colonel Hutchinson himself had had an opportunity of laying the affair before you; but as he failed of this, I thought myself bound in justice to support him, and to express my indignation, and to bear my testimony against the indecent attack by which a post well deserved, and fairly obtained, was attempted to be wrested from him. This letter, if it comes to Colonel Herrick's knowledge, will doubtless offend him; but if it be necessary to expose it, I do not wish it should be concealed. Yet I am desirous of the friendship of all men; but in the innocence and integrity of my heart, I wrote my first letter in favour of Colonel Hutchinson and Colonel Mansfield; in the same spirit I have written this, and if a gentleman is offended with me for doing my duty, I can bear his resentment or reproaches with patience. I had like to have forgot to add, though it is of importance, and what, for the good of the common cause, I am bound to say, that it is probable the Regiment will be much dissatisfied if the Lieutenant-Colonel be displaced; and one Company, I am informed, have already expressed great uneasiness about it. I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

TIMOTHY PICKERING, JUN.

To the Committee of Safety.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE HON. ENOCH FREEMAN, ESQ., TO SAMUEL FREEMAN, WATERTOWN.

Falmouth, May 10, 1775.

We are in confusion; though Colonel Thompson wrote us he had laid aside the scheme of coming here to take the Ship Canoeaux, yet he appeared yesterday on the back of the Neck. I cannot help thinking but that it is a very imprudent action, and fear it will bring on the destruction of the Town; for we can make no defence against a Man-of-War, and, undoubtedly, in a short time there won't be a house standing here.

Pray let Congress be informed of this affair, and let us know whether Thompson had such orders; and pray the Congress to give us some direction, for we are in such confusion nobody seems to be rational.

NEW-KENT COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for New-Kent County, at the Court-House, the 11th day of May, 1775:

The Committee taking into consideration Lord Dunmore's Proclamation, dated the third day of this month, said to be issued with the advice of His Majesty's Council, wherein the inhabitants of this Colony are indiscriminately charged; in general terms, with dissatisfaction to His Majesty's Government, and a design to effect a change in the form of it, think it necessary for themselves and their constituents to declare their sentiments. And accordingly,

Resolved unanimously, That unfeigned loyalty to His Majesty's person and Government, as by law established, and a due obedience to the laws of our Country, are the ruling principles of the inhabitants of this County; and that the suggestion on which the said Proclamation appears to be founded, so far as it respects the inhabitants of this County, is an injurious reflection upon them, and has no foundation in truth. At the same time we are determined, for ourselves and posterity, to support and maintain the rights and privileges of British subjects, which we are entitled to, against any tyrannical attempts whatever.

Resolved, That the Resolutions of this Committee, entered into on the third of this month, and the first Resolution entered into this day, be sent to the Printers to be published. By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM SMITH, Clerk.

SOMERSET COUNTY (NEW-JERSEY) COMMITTEE.

Pursuant to notice given by the Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence for the County of Somerset, in New-Jersey, the Freeholders of the County met at the Court-House the 11th day of May, 1775:

HENDRICK FISHER, Esq., chosen Chairman,
FREDERICK FRELINGHUYSEN, Clerk.

1. Resolved, That the several steps taken by the British Ministry to enslave the American Colonies, and especially the late alarming hostilities commenced by the Troops under General Gage against the inhabitants of Massachusetts-Bay, loudly call on the people of this Province to determine what part they will act in this situation of affairs; and that we therefore readily consent to elect Deputies for a Provincial Congress, to meet at Trenton on Tuesday, the 23d instant, agreeable to the advice and direction of the Provincial Committee of Correspondence.

2. Resolved, That the number of Deputies shall be nine, and that they shall be chosen by ballot.

Adjourned for an hour.

Four o'clock, the people re-assembled.

Hendrick Fisher, John Roy, Esquires, Mr. Frederick Frelinghuysen, Mr. Enos Kelsey, Peter Schenck, Jonathan D. Sergeant, Nathaniel Airs, William Patterson, and Abraham Van Nest, Esquires, are appointed Deputies for this County, who, or any five of them, are hereby empowered to meet the Deputies from the other Counties in Provincial Congress, at Trenton, on Tuesday the 23d instant, and to agree to all such measures as shall be judged necessary for the preservation of our constitutional rights and privileges.

Resolved, That the Deputies for this County be instructed, and they are hereby instructed to join with the Deputies from the other Counties, in forming such plan for the Militia of this Province, as to them shall seem proper; and we heartily agree to arm and support such a number of men as they shall order to be raised in this County.

Resolved, That this County will pay the expenses of their Deputies who shall attend the Congress.

Resolved, That Messrs. Tobias Van Norden and Daniel Blackford be added to the Committee of Observation for the Township of Bridgewater. By order:

FREDERICK FRELINGHUYSEN, Clerk.

RECANTATIONS OF MR. BAILEY, MR. M'MASTER, AND MR. ACHINCLOSS.

Whereas, I the subscriber, have, for a long series of time, both done and said many things that I am sensible has proved of great disadvantage to this Town and the Continent in general; and am now determined by my future conduct to convince the publick that I will risk my life and interest in defence of the constitutional privileges of this Continent, and humbly ask the forgiveness of my friends and the Country in general for my past conduct.

P. BAILEY.

Portsmouth, N. H., May 11, 1775.

Whereas, I the subscriber, have, for a long series of time, both done and said many things that I am sensible has proved of great disadvantage to this Town and the Continent in general; and am now determined by my future conduct to convince the publick that I will risk my life and interest in defence of the constitutional privileges of this Continent, and humbly ask the forgiveness of my friends and the Country in general for my past conduct.

JAMES MCMMASTER.

Portsmouth, N. H., May 11, 1775.

Whereas my past conduct hath made an ill impression upon the minds of many of the inhabitants of this Town and Province; and as many view me unfriendly to the rights and liberties of British America, I hereby declare that I am heartily sorry that any part of my conduct should have given uneasiness to any of the friends of America; and hereby engage to aid and assist in supporting the common cause of America to the utmost of my power; and I hope my future conduct will render me worthy of the friendship and protection of this Country.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO GENERAL THOMAS.

Cambridge, May 11, 1775.

The Captains Caleb Wright and John Holmes, of the County of Berkshire, now report verbally, that your Excellency is willing that about sixty of Colonel Fellows's men, who have not enlisted, may have liberty to return home, they having first the consent of this Committee. We have conferred with his Excellency General Ward, upon the subject, and are of opinion that no liberty ought to be granted to any for that purpose until the camps are so far strengthened as that all who were called in upon the late alarm may have liberty to return; and as the Troops from Connecticut are very soon expected, we think that these, with others which are daily coming in, will strengthen our hands so far as to relieve those who want to return to their homes. We are, &c.

LETTER FROM FALMOUTH, MASS., TO A GENTLEMAN IN WATERTOWN, DATED MAY 11, 1775.

SIR: It may not be disagreeable to you to have a more particular account of the solemn scene that has been acted here for two or three days past, than it can be expected common fame will give you.

Last Tuesday morning, Lieutenant-Colonel Thompson, of Brunswick, with about fifty armed men, with each a small bough of spruce in his hat, and having a spruce pole, with a green top on it for a standard, landed on the back part of our Neck, at a place called Sandy Point, where is a thick grove of trees. In that place they lay, unknown to the people of the Town, seizing and detaining several persons that happened to pass that way, till about one o'clock, when Captain Mowat, the Surgeon of his ship, and the Reverend Mr. Wiswal, taking a walk that way for their pleasure, were seized and made prisoners. As soon as the master of the ship (one Hogg) heard of it, he wrote to Colonel Freeman, that if Captain Mowat and the other prisoners were not delivered up in an hour or two, (I do not certainly know the time,) he would lay the Town in ashes. You can hardly conceive the consternation, confusion, and uproar that immediately ensued. Our women were, I believe, every one of them in tears, or praying, or screaming; precipitately leaving their houses, especially those whose husbands were not at home, and widows hurrying their goods into countrymen's carts, never asking their names, though strangers, and carrying their children either out of Town, or up to the south end, according to the greater or less irritability of their nerves. Some persons bed-ridden, or in childbed, were hastily removed, with no small danger of their lives. Several gentlemen of the Town, who could attend it, and I among the rest, immediately repaired to Colonel Thompson's camp; and after obtaining leave of the advance guard, were permitted to speak with him. We endeavoured to persuade him to deliver up the prisoners, by all the rational arguments we could think of, but he appeared inflexible, and even furious. Here and there one in the Town (none but Tories however) were at first for rescuing the prisoners by our Militia; but the general voice of the Town was to observe a strict neutrality, excepting persuasives and arguments.

Colonel Phinney, of Gorham, Colonel of the Minute-Men, being in Town, and fearing a rescue, or for some other reason, sent out for his men, I suppose without asking the advice of any body; and soon afterwards sent word that they need not come into Town. Night was coming on, and the weather cool and windy, which endangered the health of some of the gentlemen, at least in the open field. It was therefore agreed by Colonel Freeman and his advisers, at the desire of Mowat, and by the free consent of Thompson, that the company of Cadets should escort the party and the prisoners to Mr. Marston's, in order that a consultation might be further held there. The two companies remained embodied before the door. Colonel Thompson remained unwilling to deliver up the prisoners, insisting much that Divine Providence had thrown them into his hands, and that it was open and settled war between the Colonies and Britain. But he was more and more convinced that the whole force of the Town was against him, and found himself disappointed of a reinforcement that he expected to meet him here; so that by about nine o'clock in the evening he was much cooled; and the prisoners giving their parole that they would deliver themselves into his hands at nine the next morning, General Preble and Colonel Freeman pledging themselves for them, he consented to set them at liberty. Upon which Mowat, having expressed his gratitude to the Town in strong terms, went aboard, and dismissed a number of our people, whom the master had, during the afternoon, caught in boats and made prisoners. But when Colonel Thompson's men found that he had given Mowat his liberty, they were hard to pacify. Not only Colonel Phinney's Minute-Men, but most of the Militia from Gorham, Scarborough, Cape Elizabeth, and Stroudwater, in the whole amounting, it is said, to six hundred, came into Town before morning, highly enraged at Captain Mowat's being dismissed, and seemingly determined to destroy his ship. Wednesday morning, when it was found that Mowat would not deliver himself up, the Army took and made prisoners of General Preble and Colonel Freeman, threatening to treat them in the same manner as they would treat Mowat, if they had him. Even their children were not permitted to speak with them, and they had no dinner that day. All the officers of the companies then present agreed to resolve themselves into a Committee of War; and after some hesitation they admitted the officers of our companies on the Neck, into the Committee; in which Committee a vote was passed by a considerable majority, that Captain Mowat's ship ought to be destroyed. In the next place they appointed a Committee out of their number, to consider in what manner it should be done. This Committee have not yet reported as I can find; but they have proceeded to call men before them who were suspected of being Tories, to question them, to draw promises from them, and especially to draw money and provisions from them. The Reverend Mr. Wiswall delivered himself up very willingly, and seemed rather impatient till they had him with them; saying to some that passed by his door, he was ready to die at any time, as he knew he was in a good cause—the cause of the church of England.

The Committee interrogated him concerning his political principles. He declared an abhorrence of the doctrine of passive obedience and non-resistance, and that he thought

Great Britain had no right to tax America internally; but as to the late Acts of Parliament, he had not examined them, and did not choose to give his opinion concerning them.

Old Mr. Wyer had a file of men sent after him, who, holding a pistol to his breast, forced him to go before the Committee; and when there he was interrogated whether he had said, "the Militia ought to rescue Captain Mowat?" to which he answered in the affirmative; also, whether he did not think it an imprudent speech? to which he answered, yes; also, whether he were of the same mind now? He answered, no, as matters are circumstanced; then whether he would say any thing again against the body of men in Town? He said, no. The Committee soon agreed to dismiss him, and one of them said he was not worth their notice. He thanked the gentlemen for their civility, made a low bow, and departed. Captain Steward called to the crowd before the door, to make way for Mr. Wyer, and told them out of the window the Committee had dismissed him as unworthy of their notice.

Captain Pote was fetched before the Committee, without making any resistance, though he had made formidable preparations to defend himself. It is reported that the Committee made him give them, for the benefit of the body, about fifty Pounds, (old tenour,) in cash and provisions, and that they have bound him in a bond of two thousand Pounds, to appear at the Congress of the Province, and give an account of himself to them. They taxed General Preble some barrels of bread and a number of cheeses, and two barrels of rum for each company then in Town, which he readily gave them, Wednesday afternoon, in value about ten Pounds, lawful money. Wednesday evening they made out a bill of one hundred and fifty-eight Pounds, lawful money, against Preble and Freeman, to satisfy the body for their time and trouble in the expedition; but I hear they have dropped that demand.

Yesterday morning they entered the house of Captain Coulson, and they use it as a barrack. The men made so free with a barrel of New-England rum, which they found in the cellar, that some of them were quite, and others almost drunken.

Between meetings yesterday, Calvin Lombard, being raised with liquor, went down to the water side and fired a brace of balls at Mowat's ship, which penetrated deep in its sides. The fire was answered from a fusée on board, but with no aim to do execution. Captain Mowat immediately wrote to Colonel Freeman to deliver up Calvin, and to raise the militia to dispel the mob from the country, as he called them, assuring him that otherwise he must fire upon the Town. This threw the Town again into a panic, but we had, notwithstanding, a pretty full meeting in the afternoon.

Yesterday they hauled Captain Coulson's boat up to the house, where it remained till just now, three quarters after twelve, when near a hundred men hauled it up through the streets and into Captain Pearson's back lot, down almost to the Cove. It is reported that Mowat sent word, or wrote on shore last evening, that he had bought that boat of Coulson, and paid for it, and that if it were not returned immediately, or speedily, he would fire upon the Town. He doubtless saw it hauled away just now, but he has not fired as yet; and here I sit writing at my desk in the old place, being fully convinced that Mowat never will fire upon the Town, in any case whatever. My house is turned into a kind of barrack. Several have removed bedding and other goods into it. We are full at nights. I don't know why people think themselves so safe here, unless it be because my wife is not yet much affrighted.

This morning the Committee sent to Deacon Titcomb for one hundred pounds of bread, who returned for answer that he had no bread but what he wanted for himself; but if the company would go out of Town immediately, he would give it them. Colonel Phinney promised that he would do his utmost endeavour to get them out of Town to-day; therefore the bread was delivered.

Friday, 3 o'clock.—They have just hauled another boat over to Back Cove, and left it with the former. The boat belongs to the ship. They have this day carried off Mr. Tyng's Bishop, a piece of plate said to be worth five hundred Pounds, (old tenour,) and his laced hat; but they say they only take these things as pawns, to make the owners behave better, or to that purpose.

Friday, 6 o'clock.—The Gorham Company being the only one that remained here since Wednesday evening, excepting Thompson, are now gone out of Town, being urged and coaxed to it by Colonel Phinney. The Town thinks itself greatly relieved by it.

These companies paid no regard to the fast yesterday. I cannot find that any of them attended publick worship, except one; nor any of their officers, except Colonel Phinney. He was sent for to Back Cove by Colonel Mitchell and Colonel Merrill, who were vexed at the proceedings of the armament, and came to give advice. But Thompson would not wait on his senior.

The soldiery thought nothing too bad to say of the Falmouth gentry. Some of them were heard to say as they walked the streets yesterday, "this Town ought to be laid in ashes." I find the plan was concerted beforehand on purpose to humble Falmouth, for its arrogance in sending a message to Thompson last week, to dissuade him from coming to take the ships. He then wrote to Colonel Freeman that he had wholly laid aside his design; and being reminded of it, his answer was, "there is policy in war."

Saturday, A. M.—Thompson is not gone, as we supposed last night. The ship has sent out a little vessel with a swivel, to interrupt him. If he had gone last night he would have been destroyed. Your friend and servant.

P. S. Being disappointed last Saturday of sending the above, I am now able to add something more. Captain Mowat sent a letter to the Town on Saturday, informing them that he had heard that fort guns were going to be brought in and replaced, in order to destroy his ship; and demanding of the Town to return his boats, and drive out of Town the cowardly mob that was here. The Selectmen warned a Town-Meeting, to meet at eight o'clock, Monday morning. They met accordingly, and gave Mowat such an answer as pleased him: "That the Town disapproved of the proceedings of the armed body, but that we were unable to resist them."

The Reverend Mr. Wiswal went on board ship on Saturday; and Sabbath morning sent to his Wardens that he should not preach in the church, but that they might come on board if they pleased, and hear him. None went. Some say he has taken a final leave of his people; how it is I cannot yet find out. His family remains here, and he is gone to Portsmouth; some say and think to get himself a settlement there. His people seem to be universally set against him, except a few high Tories, and wish never to see his face any more.

Yesterday Mowat and Coulson and their ships departed for Portsmouth.

COMMITTEE OF DEER ISLAND TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Deer Island, Lincoln County, May 11, 1775.

SIRS: We, who are the Committee of this Town, do desire to make our complaint unto you, and will inform you in what poor circumstances we are at this time; and would beg your assistance, as we are without powder and ball, and no way to get any, as our wood and lumber will not sell at any price; and, gentlemen, we are in great want for corn and pork, and shall suffer, unless we have help from you, and unless the ports are opened and trade goes on. And, gentlemen, if you will be so kind unto us as to help us, we will make you full satisfaction for the same when we can sell our lumber. We would inform you that there is on this Island about three hundred souls, and we beg that you would consider what a poor condition we must be in. Gentlemen, we can't purchase either corn or pork at any rate whatsoever, and hope that your love and regard for your brethren, and true sons of liberty, will send us speedy relief. And, gentlemen, in complying with the above, you will greatly oblige your humble servants,

COMMITTEE OF THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO THE COMMITTEE OF INSPECTION, NEW-YORK.

Watertown, May 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We are directed by the Congress of this Colony, who are just informed that two men-of-war, the Asia, and one other, with three or four companies of Troops on board, sailed yesterday from Boston for your place, to give you the earliest notice thereof.

It is supposed that they have orders to secure the ammunition and military stores in the Fort of your City, &c., and your noble exertions in the common cause have given the Congress reason to think that a timely information relative to the matter, would be important to you. The post is now in waiting, which prevents us from indulging an inclination of enlarging. We are, respectfully, gentlemen, &c.,

COMMITTEE AT TICONDEROGA TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Ticonderoga, May 10, 1775.

To the Provincial Congress now sitting at Watertown:

This is to certify, that previous to Colonel Benedict Arnold's arrival to the Forts Ticonderoga and Crown Point, a Committee sent from the Colony of Connecticut, furnished with money for the purpose of reducing and garrisoning said Forts, had, with the assistance of seventy men from the Massachusetts, and one hundred and forty from the New-Hampshire Grants, marched within a few miles of Ticonderoga, and this morning, at daybreak, took possession of said Fort, and have given the command thereof into the hands of Colonel Ethan Allen. And said Arnold refuses to give up his command, which causes much difficulty; said Arnold not having enlisted one man, neither do we know that he has or could do it. And as said Committee have raised the men, and are still raising supplies for the purpose of repairing said Forts, taking the armed sloop, and defending this Country and said Forts, we think that said Arnold's farther procedure in this matter highly inexpedient, both in regard to expense and defence.

Committee of War for the Expedition against TICONDEROGA and CROWN POINT.

ETHAN ALLEN TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Ticonderoga, May 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I have to inform you with pleasure unfelt before, that on break of day of the tenth of May, 1775, by the order of the General Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut, took the Fortress of Ticonderoga by storm. The soldiery was composed of about one hundred Green Mountain Boys, and near fifty veteran soldiers from the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay. The latter was under the command of Colonel James Easton, who behaved with great zeal and fortitude, not only in council, but in the assault. The soldiery behaved with such resistless fury, that they so terrified the King's Troops that they durst not fire on their assailants, and our soldiery was agreeably disappointed. The soldiery behaved with uncommon rancour when they leaped into the Fort; and it must be confessed that the Colonel has greatly contributed to the taking of that Fortress, as well as John Brown, Esq., Attorney at Law, who was also an able counsellor, and was personally in the attack. I expect the Colonies will maintain this Fort. As to the cannon and warlike stores, I hope they may serve the cause of liberty instead of tyranny, and I humbly implore your assistance in immediately assisting the Government of Connecticut in establishing a garrison in the reduced premises. Colonel Easton will inform you at large. From, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

ETHAN ALLEN.

To the Honourable Congress of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, or Council of War.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Ticonderoga, May 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I wrote you yesterday that arriving in the vicinity of this place, I found one hundred and fifty men collected at the instance of some gentlemen from Connecticut (designed on the same errand on which I came) headed by Colonel Ethan Allen, and that I had joined them, not thinking proper to wait the arrival of the Troops I had engaged on the road, but to attempt the Fort by surprise; that we had taken the Fort at four o'clock yesterday morning without opposition, and had made prisoners, one Captain, one Lieutenant, and forty odd privates and subalterns, and that we found the Fort in a most ruinous condition and not worth repairing; that a party of fifty men were gone to Crown Point, and that I intended to follow with as many men to seize the sloop, &c., and that I intended to keep possession here until I had farther advice from you. On and before our taking possession here, I had agreed with Colonel Allen to issue further orders jointly, until I could raise a sufficient number of men to relieve his people; on which plan we proceeded when I wrote you yesterday, since which, Colonel Allen, finding he had the ascendancy over his people, positively insisted I should have no command, as I had forbid the soldiers plundering and destroying private property. The power is now taken out of my hands, and I am not consulted, nor have I a voice in any matters. There is here at present near one hundred men, who are in the greatest confusion and anarchy, destroying and plundering private property, committing every enormity, and paying no attention to publick service. The party I advised were gone to Crown Point, are returned, having met with head winds, and that expedition, and taking the sloop, (mounted with six guns,) is entirely laid aside. There is not the least regularity among the Troops, but every thing is governed by whim and caprice; the soldiers threatening to leave the garrison on the least affront. Most of them must return home soon, as their families are suffering. Under our present situation, I believe one hundred men would retake the Fortress, and there seems no prospect of things being in a better situation. I have therefore thought proper to send an express, advising you of the state of affairs, not doubting you will take the matter into your serious consideration, and order a number of Troops to join those I have coming on here, or that you will appoint some other person to take the command of them and this place, as you shall think most proper. Colonel Allen is a proper man to head his own wild people, but entirely unacquainted with military service; and as I am the only person who has been legally authorized to take possession of this place, I am determined to insist on my right, and I think it my duty to remain here against all opposition, until I have further orders. I cannot comply with your orders in regard to the cannon, &c., for want of men. I have wrote to the Governor and General Assembly of Connecticut, advising them of my appointment, and giving them an exact detail of matters as they stand at present. I should be extremely glad to be honourably acquitted of my commission, and that a proper person might be appointed in my room. But as I have, in consequence of my orders from you, gentlemen, been the first person who entered and took possession of the Fort, I shall keep it, at every hazard, until I have further advice and orders from you and the General Assembly of Connecticut.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

P. S. It is impossible to advise you how many cannon are here and at Crown Point, as many of them are buried in the ruins. There is a large number of iron, and some brass, and mortars, &c., lying on the edge of the Lake, which, as the Lake is high, are covered with water. The confusion we have been in has prevented my getting proper information, further than that there are many cannon, shells, mortars, &c., which may be very serviceable to our Army at Cambridge.

B. A.

EDWARD MOTT TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Shoreham, May 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I would congratulate you on the surrender of the Garrison of Ticonderoga to the American forces.

The affair was planned and conducted after the following manner. A number of the principal gentlemen of the Assembly at Hartford, on Friday, the twenty-eighth of April, conversing on the distressed condition of the people of Boston, and the means necessary to relieve them, fell on the scheme to take that Fortress, that we might have the advantage of the cannon that were there, to relieve the people of Boston. I told the gentlemen that in my opinion it might be taken by surprise with a few men, if properly conducted. On which they desired me, if I was willing to serve my Country in that way, to join Captain Noah Phelps, of Simsbury, and Mr. Bernard Romans, on that design, and furnished us with three hundred Pounds in cash, from the Treasury, and desired us to go forward to the upper Towns, and search into the situation of said Garrison, and, if I thought proper, to proceed to take possession of the same. On which we collected to the number of sixteen men in Connecticut, and proceeded forward till we came to Colonel Easton's, at Pittsfield, and there consulted with Colonel Easton and John Brown, Esq., who, after they heard our plan of operation, agreed to join us; and, after informing them that we intended raising our men on the Grants for the aforesaid purpose, as it would be difficult to raise and march a number of men through the country any distance, without our plans being discovered, Colonel Easton and Mr. Brown told us that the people on the Grants were poor, and at this time of year it would be difficult to raise a sufficient number of men there to take and hold said Garrison, whereupon Colonel Easton offered to raise men in his own Regiment for the aforesaid purpose, to join with the Green Mountain Boys. On which I set out with him for the Town of Jericho, where Colonel Easton raised between forty and fifty men, and proceeded to Bennington, at which place the men arrived the next day. At which place a Council of War was called, Colonel Easton being Chairman, it was voted that Colonel Allen should send forward parties to secure the roads to the northward, to prevent all intelligence from arriving before us. On Sunday evening, the seventh of this instant, (May) we arrived at Castleton, where, the next day, was held a Council of War by a Committee chosen for that purpose, of which Committee I had the honour to be Chairman. After debating and consulting on different methods of procedure in order to accomplish our designs, it was concluded and voted that we would proceed in the following manner, viz: That a party of thirty men, under the command of Captain Herrick, should, on the next day, in the afternoon, proceed to Skenesborough, and take into custody Major Skene and his party, and take possession of all the boats that they should find there, and in the night proceed up the Lake to Shoreham, with the remainder of our men, which was about one hundred and forty, who were under the command of Colonel Ethan Allen, and Colonel James Easton was his second, and Captain Warner the third in command; as these three men were the persons who raised the men, they were chosen to command, and to rank according to the number of men that each one raised. We also sent off Captain Douglass, of Jericho, to proceed directly to Panton, and there consult his brother-in-law, who lived there, and send down some boats to Shoreham, if possible, to help our people over to the Fort. All this was concluded should be done, or attempted, and voted universally. After this affair was all settled, and the men pitched on to go in each party, all were preparing for their march, being then within about nine miles of Skenesborough, and about twenty-five miles, the way we went, from Ticonderoga.

Colonel Arnold arrived to us from you with his orders. We were extremely rejoiced to see that you fully agreed with us as to the expediency and importance of taking possession of those garrisons, but were shockingly surprised when Colonel Arnold presumed to contend for the command of those forces that we had raised, who we had assured should go under the command of their own officers, and be paid and maintained by the Colony of Connecticut. But Mr. Arnold, after we had generously told him our whole plan, strenuously contended and insisted that he had a right to command them and all their officers, which bred such a mutiny among the soldiers which had nearly frustrated our whole design, as our men were for clubbing their fire-locks and marching home, but were prevented by Col-

Colonel Allen and Colonel Easton, who told them that he should not have the command of them, and if he had, their pay would be the same as though they were under their command; but they would damn the pay, and say they would not be commanded by any others but those they engaged with; and after the Garrison was surrendered, Mr. Arnold again assumed the command of the Garrison, although he had not one man there, and demanded it of Colonel Allen, on which we gave Colonel Allen his orders in writing, as follows, viz:

"To Colonel Ethan Allen.

"SIR: Whereas, agreeable to the power and authority to us given by the Colony of Connecticut, we have appointed you to take the command of a party of men, and reduce and take possession of the Garrison at Ticonderoga, and the dependencies thereto belonging, and as you are now in actual possession of the same, you are hereby required to keep the command and possession of the same, for the use of the American Colonies, until you have further orders from the Colony of Connecticut, or the Continental Congress.

"Signed by order of the Committee of War:

"EDWARD MOTT, Chairman."

Colonel James Easton was of great service both in council and action, and in raising men for the above expedition, and appeared to be well qualified to be not only a Colonel of the Militia at home, but to command in the field. And also John Brown, Esq., of Pittsfield, we recommend as an able counsellor, and full of spirit and resolution, as well as good conduct; wish they may both be employed in the service of their Country equal to their merit.

I have the pleasure to add, that on Wednesday morning last, the tenth of this instant (May) about the break of day, our men entered the gate, till when they were undiscovered, and in the most courageous and intrepid manner darted like lightning upon the guards, so that but two had time to snap their fire-locks at us, and in a few minutes the Fortress, with its dependencies, were delivered into our hands. There are about forty soldiers taken prisoners of war, including officers and excluding those taken at Skenesborough. Not one life lost in these noble acquisitions.

I am, gentlemen, in haste, your most obedient humble servant,

EDWARD MOTT,

Chairman of the Committee of War.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress, or to the Council of War for the Province of Massachusetts-Bay. Per favour of Colonel James Easton.

An Act in further addition to an Act entitled an Act for forming and regulating the Militia, and for the encouragement of military skill, for the better defence of this Colony.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the Town of Westmoreland shall be one entire Regiment, distinguished and called by the name of the Twenty-Fourth Regiment, and shall be under the same rules and orders, and have the same powers, privileges, and advantages, as other Regiments of this Colony by law have.

An Act in further addition to an Act entitled An Act for forming and regulating the Militia, and for the encouragement of military skill, for the better defence of this Colony.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the Towns of Middletown and Chatham shall be one entire Regiment, distinguished and called by the name of the Twenty-Third Regiment, and shall be under the same rules and orders, and have the same powers, privileges, and advantages as other Regiments of this Colony by law have.

An Act in addition to an Act made and passed at a General Assembly holden at HARTFORD, on the second WEDNESDAY of JANUARY, 1774, incorporating and constituting the Town of WESTMORELAND.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the bounds of the Town of Westmoreland be, and they are hereby extended westward until they meet with the line lately settled with the Indians at Fort Stanwix, commonly called the Stanwix Line, bounding north and south on the north and south lines of this Colony; and the inhabitants on said tract of land annexed as aforesaid are hereby incorporated with said Town of Westmoreland, and the same is hereby annexed to the County of Litchfield, to be under the same regulations and restrictions as are in and by said Act incorporating said Town of Westmoreland provided.

Whereas a sum of Money is necessary for payment of incident charges of Government: Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That there be forthwith imprinted the sum of Fifty-Thousand Pounds, Bills of Credit on this Colony, equal to lawful money, of suitable denominations, as the Committee herein appointed shall direct, and of the same tenour with the late emission of Bills of Credit of this Colony, without interest, payable at or before the first day of June, Anno Domini 1778, dated the first day of June, 1775; and Jabez Hamlin, William Pitkin, George Wylls, Elisha Williams, Benjamin Payne, Thomas Seymour, and Jesse Root, Esquires, or any three of them, are appointed a Committee for the purpose aforesaid, to take care said Bills be imprinted with all convenient speed, and to sign and deliver the same to the Treasurer of this Colony, taking his receipt therefor, and the said Committee shall be sworn to a faithful discharge of their trust; and the Treasurer is hereby directed to pay out said Bills according to the order of Assembly.

And for providing an ample and sufficient Fund to call in, sink, and discharge the aforesaid sum to be emitted as aforesaid: Be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That a Tax of Seven-Pence on the Pound be, and is hereby granted and ordered to be levied on all the polls and rateable estate in this Colony, according to the list thereof, to be brought into this Assembly in October, 1776, with the additions; which Tax shall be collected and paid into the Treasury of this Colony by the first day of June, Anno Domini 1778; which Tax may be discharged by paying the Bills of this Colony of this emission, or lawful money. And the Treasurer of this Colony is hereby ordered and directed to send forth his warrants for collecting the same accordingly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Embargo laid by the General Assembly at their session in April last, be continued on the several articles mentioned in the Act of said Assembly laying said Embargo, until the first day of August next, and the same is continued by this Assembly; and his Honour the Governour is desired to issue his Proclamation accordingly: provided, nevertheless, that his Honour the Governour, by and with the advice of the Council, be, and is hereby empowered to discontinue such Embargo, in whole or in part, at any time when it may be judged proper and expedient.

Resolved by this Assembly, That there be provided ninety Marque or Officers' Tents, and five hundred Tents for private Soldiers, and also Cloth for forty-eight marque tents and four hundred and sixty tents for private soldiers; one thousand and ninety-eight iron Pots that will contain about ten quarts each, unless a number of tin Kettles are already provided, in which case the number of pots be reduced to the number that will remain after deducting said kettles, but if the number of pots cannot be procured, then the defect to be supplied with tin kettles; and one thousand and ninety-eight Pails; two brass Kettles that will contain from eight to twelve gallons, for the use of each Company; two thousand and five hundred wooden Bowls, in the whole; four Frying Pans for the use of each Company; six thousand quart Rundlets; sixty Drums, and one hundred and twenty Fifes, all for the use of said Troops; six Standards, one for each Regiment, distinguished by their colour as follows, viz: for the first yellow, for the second blue, for the third scarlet, for the fourth crimson, for the fifth white, and for the sixth azure; a Medicine Chest and apparatus to the value not exceeding Forty Pounds, for each Regiment, under the direction of the respective Surgeons, with a capital set of Instruments for the use of the whole corps on each particular destination, and that whatever of medicine, apparatus, and instruments are left or not used, be returned for the use of the Colony; about seventy Books, each in quarto, consisting of one quire of paper, covered with cartridge paper; two reams of writing paper immediately; also ten reams of paper for making cartridges; and also one Cart or Wagon for each Company.

And it is further resolved by this Assembly, That the allowance of Provisions for said Troops be as follows, viz: three-quarters of a pound of Pork, or one pound of Beef, and also one pound of Bread or Flour, with three pints of Beans to each man per day, the beef to be fresh two days in the week; and also half a pint of Rice or a pint of Indian-Meal, and also six ounces of Butter; also three pints of Peas or Beans to each man per week; also one gill of Rum to each man upon fatigue per day, and not at any other time; Milk, Molasses, Candles, Soap, Vinegar, Coffee, Chocolate, Sugar, Tobacco, Onions in their season, and Vegetables be provided for said Troops, at the discretion of the General and Field Officers.

And it is further resolved by this Assembly, That One Shilling and Six Pence shall be paid to each of said men who shall supply themselves with three pounds of Ball, also Three Shillings for a pound of Powder, and Three Pence for half a dozen Flints; in case of failure such defect to be supplied by the Selectmen of each Town respectively out of the Town Stock, and in case of further failure the deficiency of three pounds of ball, one pound of powder, and six flints to each man, shall be supplied out of the stock of ammunition belonging to this Colony, and the Treasurer is hereby directed to order the same accordingly. Those Troops who march Eastward to be supplied out of the Colony stock at New-London, Nor- wich, Windham, or Mansfield; and that the account of powder, ball, and flints that shall be supplied by the several Towns, shall be adjusted by two Assistants or Justices of the Peace, and delivered to the Selectmen of such respective Towns, who shall present the same to the Committee of the Pay-Table, who shall give an order on the Treasurer to pay the sum due to such Selectmen accordingly; and that the Paymaster of each Company shall take a particular account of the powder, ball, and flints that each person belonging to such Company shall provide for himself, and shall procure an order on the Treasurer from the Committee of the Pay-Table for the sums due for the same according to the rates aforesaid, and such Paymaster shall receive and pay the same to each person to whom it is due accordingly; and that five thousand of the flints that belong to this Colony shall be sent to New-London, and five thousand of ditto to Norwich, ten thousand of ditto to Windham, five thousand of ditto to remain at New-Haven, three thousand of ditto be sent to Fairfield, and two thousand be sent to Litchfield, and delivered to the Keepers of the Colony Stores in those places; and that one ton of the ball belonging to the Colony, in the care of the Treasurer, be forthwith sent to Windham.

An Act for encouraging the Manufacturing Fire-Arms and Military Stores within this Colony, for the safety and defence thereof.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That there be procured, as soon as may be, three thousand stands of Arms for the use of this Colony, of the following dimensions, viz: the length of the barrel of the gun three feet and ten inches, the diameter of the bore from inside to inside three-quarters of an inch, the length of the blade of the bayonet sixteen inches, the length of the socket four inches and one-quarter; that the barrels of the guns be of a suitable thickness, with iron ramrods, with a spring in the lowest loop to secure the ramrod; a good substantial lock, and a good stock well mounted with brass, and marked with the name or initial letters of the maker's name.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That a bounty of Five Shillings shall be given for every stand of Arms, including a good lock, that shall be manufactured within this Colony by or before the twentieth day of October next; provided the same be not made for or sold to any person not belonging to this Colony; and also that a bounty or premium of One Shilling and Six Pence be given for every good Gun-lock that shall be made and manufactured within this Colony by or before the twentieth day of October next; and that all such arms made and manufactured in this Colony by or before the twentieth day of October next, shall be purchased by this Colony at a reasonable price over and above the premium or bounty aforesaid.

And it is further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That William Williams, William Hilhouse, Titus Hosmer, Ichabod Lewis, Ebenezer Norton, and Erastus Wolcott, Esquires, be, and they are hereby appointed a Committee to procure said Fire-Arms to be made, and completed according to the direction of this Act; and said Committee are hereby ordered and directed forthwith to make inquiry what number of fire-arms and gun-locks may probably be made and furnished in the several parts of this Colony by the twentieth day of October next, and report the same to his Honour the Governour as soon as may be. And said Committee are also hereby empowered and directed to receive such sums of money out of the publick Treasury as may be necessary to pay for the arms that shall be made and completed pursuant to this Act by the time limited as aforesaid, with the bounty and premium aforesaid; and the Treasurer of this Colony is hereby ordered and directed to pay the same accordingly. And said Committee are hereby directed to pay the same to the several persons to whom it is due pursuant to this Act, according to the orders and directions they shall receive from the General Assembly of this Colony for that purpose, and receive and secure such arms so purchased for the use and benefit of this Colony.

And it is further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That a bounty or premium of Ten Pounds shall be given for every fifty pounds weight of Saltpetre that shall be made and manufactured from materials found in this Colony within one year next after the rising of this Assembly, and so in proportion for a greater or lesser quantity. And also that a bounty or premium of Five Pounds shall be given for every hundred pounds weight of Sulphur that shall be made and manufactured within this Colony from materials found in any of the British Colonies on the Continent of America within one year next after the rising of this Assembly, and so in proportion for a greater or lesser quantity.

An Act for Regulating and Ordering the Troops that are or may be raised for the defence of this Colony.

Whereas God in his providence hath been pleased in great mercy to bestow upon the inhabitants of this Colony all the rights, liberties, and immunities of the free and natural-born subjects of the Realm of England, which have been established and confirmed by a sacred compact, and secured by a Royal Charter—which rights, liberties, and immunities were the birthright of our brave, virtuous, and religious ancestors whilst in England, who, rather than submit to religious or civil tyranny, chose to leave their pleasant seats and all their happy prospects in their native Country, bravely encountered the danger of untried seas and coasts of a howling wilderness, barbarous men and savage beasts, at the expense of their ease and safety of their blood, their treasure, and their lives, transplanted and reared the English Constitution in these wilds upon the strong pillars of civil and religious liberty, and having led the way by their great example, bequeathed their inestimable purchase as a sacred and inalienable legacy to their posterity, who have ever since united the sincerest loyalty to their Sovereign and the warmest affection for their elder brethren in England with the enjoyment of their aforesaid rights, liberties, and immunities; nor have they till lately been thought incompatible:

And whereas since the close of the last war the British Parliament, claiming a power of right to bind the people of America by Statute in all cases whatsoever hath, in some Acts, expressly imposed taxes upon them; and in others, under various pretences, but in fact for the purpose of raising a Revenue, hath imposed rates and duties payable in these Colonies, established a Board of Commissioners with unconstitutional powers, and extended the jurisdiction of Courts of Admiralty, not only for collecting said duties, but also for the trial of causes merely arising within the body of a County:

And whereas, in consequence of other Statutes, Judges, who before held only estates at will in their offices, have been made to depend on the Crown alone for their salaries; and Standing Armies kept up in time of peace; and it has been lately resolved in Parliament that, by force of a Statute made in the thirty-fifth year of the reign of King Henry the Eighth, Colonists may be transported to England and tried there upon accusations for treason and misprision, or concealment of treasons committed or alleged to be committed in the Colonies; and by a late Statute such trials have been directed in cases therein mentioned:

And whereas three Acts of Parliament have been passed, by one of which the Port of Boston is shut up, and thousands reduced from affluence to poverty and distress; by another the Charter of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay is subverted and destroyed; and by the third, under pretence of the impartial administration of justice, all hope of justice is taken away in certain cases:

And whereas another Statute hath been made, by which the Roman Catholick Religion is established, the equitable system of English laws abolished, and a tyranny exercised in the Province of Quebec, to the great danger of the neighbouring Colonies; and also in the present session of Parliament another Act is passed, by which the New-England Colonies are in a great measure deprived of their Trade and Fishery—the blessings which God and nature have indulged them, being thus attempted by force to be wrested from them:

And whereas all our humble, dutiful, and loyal Petitions to the Throne for redress of grievances, have been treated with contempt, or passed by in silence by His Majesty's Ministers of State; and the refusal to surrender our just rights, liberties, and immunities, hath been styled rebellion, and Fleets and Armies have been sent into a neighbouring

Colony to force them to submit to slavery, and awe the other Colonies to submission, by the example of vengeance inflicted on her; who have, besides the usual calamities and insults that proceed from standing armies, fortified the Town of Boston, driven the peaceable inhabitants from their dwellings, and imbrued their hands in the blood of our countrymen; all which acts and measures have relation to all the British Colonies, in the principles from which they flow, and are evidently intended to force or terrify them into a submission to Parliamentary taxation, or at least into a surrender of their property at the pleasure of the British Parliament, and in such proportions as they shall please to prescribe, with which we must comply, or lie at the mercy of those who cannot know our situation and circumstances, and will be interested to oppress and enslave us; our liberty, our lives and property, will become precarious and dependant on the will of men over whom we can have no check or control; religion, property, personal safety, learning, arts, publick and private virtue, social happiness, and every blessing attendant on liberty, will fall victims to measures advanced and pursued against us, whilst shameless vice, infidelity, irreligion, abject dependance, ignorance, superstition, meanness, scurrility, and the whole train of despotism present themselves to our view in melancholy prospect:

And whereas, although this Assembly wish for no new rights and privileges, and desire only to preserve their ancient Constitution, as it has been understood and practised upon from the beginning; freely yielding to the British Parliament the regulation of our external commerce, for the purpose of securing the commercial advantages of all the Dominions of our Sovereign to the Mother Country, and the commercial benefits of its several members, excluding every idea of taxation for raising a revenue without our consent, and claiming only a right to regulate our internal police and Government, and are most earnestly desirous of peace, and deprecate the horrors of war; yet, when they see military preparations against them at hand, and the hopes of peace and harmony placed at a greater distance; being fully determined never to make a voluntary sacrifice of their rights, and not knowing how soon Parliamentary and Ministerial vengeance may be directed against them immediately, as it is now against the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, who are suffering in the common cause of British America; trusting in the justice of their cause, and the righteous providence of Almighty God, for the restoration of quiet and peace, or success in their efforts for their defence, have thought it their duty to raise Troops for the defence of this Colony:

And whereas it is necessary that such Troops, both officers and soldiers, should be made acquainted with their duty, and that Articles, Rules, and Regulations should be established to preserve order, good government, and discipline in the Army, agreeable to the mild spirit of our Constitution, and not according to the severities practised in Standing Armies:

Therefore, be it enacted by the Governour, Council, and Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by authority of the same: ARTICLE I. That all officers and soldiers not having just impediment shall diligently frequent divine service and sermon, in the places appointed for assembling the Regiment, Troop, or Company to which they belong; and such as wilfully absent themselves, or being present behave indecently or irreverently, shall, if commissioned officers, be brought before a Regimental Court Martial, there to be publicly and severely reprimanded by the President; if non-commissioned officers or soldiers, every person so offending shall, for his first offence, forfeit One Shilling, to be deducted out of his wages; for his second offence, he shall not only forfeit One Shilling, but be confined not exceeding twenty-four hours, and for every like offence shall suffer and pay in like manner; which money so forfeited shall be applied to the use of the sick soldiers of the Troop or Company to which the offender belongs.

ART. II. That whatever non-commissioned officers and soldiers shall use any unlawful oath or execration, shall incur the penalties expressed in the first Article; and if a commissioned officer be thus guilty of profane cursing or swearing, he shall forfeit and pay for each and every such offence the sum of Four Shillings, lawful money.

ART. III. That any officer, or soldier who shall behave himself with contempt or disrespect towards the General or Generals, or Commander-in-Chief, or shall speak words tending to his or their hurt or dishonour, shall be punished according to the nature of his offence, by the judgment of a General Court Martial.

ART. IV. That any officer or soldier who shall begin, excite, cause, or join in any meeting or sedition in the Regiment, Troop, or Company to which he belongs, or in any other Regiment, Troop, or Company of the forces of this Colony, either by land or sea, or in an party, post, detachment, or guard, on any pretence whatsoever, shall suffer such punishment as by a General Court Martial shall be ordered.

ART. V. That any officer, non-commissioned officer, or soldier, who being present at any meeting or sedition, does not use his utmost endeavours to suppress the same, or, coming to the knowledge of any mutiny or intended mutiny, does not, without delay, give information thereof to the commanding officers, shall be punished by order of a General Court Martial according to the nature of his offence.

ART. VI. That any officer or soldier who shall strike his superiour officer, or draw or offer to draw, or shall lift up any weapon or offer any violence against him, being in the execution of his office, on any pretence whatsoever, or shall disobey any lawful command of his superiour officer, shall suffer such punishment as shall, according to the nature of his offence, be ordered by the sentence of a General Court Martial.

ART. VII. That any non-commissioned officer or soldier who shall desert, or without leave of his commanding officer absent himself from the Troop or Company to which he belongs, or from any detachment of the same, shall, upon being convicted thereof, be punished according to the nature of his offence, at the discretion of a General Court Martial.

ART. VIII. That whatsoever officer or soldier shall be convicted of having advised or persuaded any other officer or soldier to desert, shall suffer such punishment as shall be ordered by the sentence of a General Court Martial.

ART. IX. That all officers of what condition soever shall have power to part and quell all quarrels, frays and disorders, though the persons concerned should belong to another Regiment, Troop, or Company, and either order officers to be arrested, or non-commissioned officers or soldiers to be confined and imprisoned, till their proper superiour officers shall be acquainted therewith; and whoever shall refuse to obey such officer, though of an inferiour rank, or shall draw his sword upon him, shall be punished at the discretion of a General Court Martial.

ART. X. That no officer or soldier shall use any reproachful or provoking speeches or gestures to another, nor shall any officer or soldier presume to send a challenge to any person to fight a duel; and whoever shall, knowingly and willingly, suffer any person whatsoever to go forth to fight a duel, or shall second, promote, or carry any challenge, shall be deemed a principal therein; and whatsoever officer or soldier shall upbraid another for refusing a challenge shall also be considered as a challenger, and all such offenders in any of these or such like cases, shall be punished at the discretion of a General Court Martial.

ART. XI. That every officer commanding in quarters, or on a march, shall keep good order, and to the utmost of his power redress all such abuses or disorders which may be committed by any officer or soldier under his command; if upon any complaint made to him of officers or soldiers beating or otherwise ill treating any person, or of committing any kind of riot to the disquieting of the inhabitants of this Continent, he the said commander who shall refuse or omit to see justice done on the offender or offenders; and reparation make to the party or parties injured, as far as the offender's wages shall enable him or them, shall, upon due proof thereof, be punished as ordered by a General Court Martial, in such manner as if he himself had committed the crimes or disorders complained of.

ART. XII. That if any officer shall think himself to be wronged by his Colonel, or his Commanding Officer of the Regiment, and shall, upon due application made to him, be refused to be redressed, he may complain to the General or Commander-in-Chief of the forces of this Colony, in order to obtain justice, who is hereby required to examine into said complaint and see that justice be done.

ART. XIII. That if any inferiour officer or soldier shall think himself wronged by his Captain or other officer commanding the Troop or Company to which he belongs, he is to complain thereof to the Commanding Officer of the Regiment, who is hereby required to summon a Regimental Court Martial for the doing justice to the complainant, from which Regimental Court Martial either party may, if he think himself still aggrieved, appeal to a General Court Martial; but if, upon a second hearing, the appeal shall appear to be vexatious and groundless, the person so appealing shall be punished at the discretion of the General Court Martial.

ART. XIV. That whatsoever non-commissioned officer or soldier shall be convicted at a Regimental Court Martial of having sold, or designedly, or through neglect, wasted the Ammunition, Arms, or Provision, or other Military Stores delivered out to him to be employed in the service of this Colony, shall, if an officer, be reduced to a private sentinel, and if a private soldier, shall suffer such punishment as shall be ordered by a Regimental Court Martial.

ART. XV. That all non-commissioned officers and soldiers who shall be found one mile from the camp, without leave in writing from their Commanding Officer, shall suffer such punishment as shall be inflicted on him or them by the sentence of a Regimental Court Martial.

ART. XVI. That no officer or soldier shall be out of his quarters or camp without leave from their Commanding Officer of the Regiment, upon penalty of being punished, according to the nature of his offence, by order of a Regimental Court Martial.

ART. XVII. That every non-commissioned officer or soldier shall retire to his quarters or tent at the beating of the retreat, in default of which he shall be punished according to the nature of his offence, by order of the Commanding Officer.

ART. XVIII. That no officer, non-commissioned officer, or soldier, shall fail of repairing at the time fixed, to the place of parade or exercise, or other rendezvous appointed by the Commanding Officer, if not prevented by sickness or some other evident necessity, or shall go from the said place of rendezvous, or from his guard, without leave from his Commanding Officer, before he shall be regularly dismissed or relieved, on penalty of being punished according to the nature of his offence, by the sentence of a Regimental Court Martial.

ART. XIX. That whatsoever commissioned officer shall be found drunk on his guard, party, or other duty, under arms, shall be cashiered for it; any non-commissioned officer or soldier so offending, shall suffer such punishment as shall be ordered by the sentence of a Regimental Court Martial.

ART. XX. That whatsoever sentinel shall be found sleeping upon his post, or shall leave it before he shall be regularly relieved, shall suffer such punishment as shall be ordered by the sentence of a General Court Martial.

ART. XXI. That any person belonging to the Troops of this Colony, who, by discharging of fire-arms, beating of drums, or by any other means whatever, shall occasion false alarms in camp or quarters, shall suffer such punishment as shall be ordered by the sentence of a General Court Martial.

ART. XXII. That any officer or soldier who shall, without urgent necessity, or without leave of his superiour officer, quit platoon or division, shall be punished according to the nature of his offence, by the sentence of a Regimental Court Martial.

ART. XXIII. That no officer or soldier shall do violence or offer any insult or abuse to any person who shall bring provisions or other necessaries to the camp or quarters of the Army; any officer or soldier so offending shall, upon complaint being made to the Commanding Officer, suffer such punishment as shall be ordered by a Regimental Court Martial.

ART. XXIV. That whatsoever officer or soldier shall shamefully abandon any post committed to his charge, or shall speak words inducing others to do the like in time of an engagement, shall suffer death immediately.

ART. XXV. That any person belonging to the forces raised, or that may be raised for the defence of this Colony, who shall make known the watchword to any person who is not entitled to receive it according to the rules and discipline of war, or shall presume to give a parole or watchword different from what he received, shall suffer death, or such other punishment as shall be ordered by the sentence of a General Court Martial.

ART. XXVI. That whosoever belonging to the forces raised, or that may be raised for the defence of this Colony, shall relieve the enemy in Money, Victuals, or Ammunition, or shall knowingly harbour or protect an enemy, shall suffer such punishment as by a General Court Martial shall be ordered.

ART. XXVII. That whosoever belonging to the forces already raised, or that may be raised for the defence of this Colony, shall be convicted of holding correspondence with, or of giving intelligence to, the enemy, either directly or indirectly, shall suffer such punishment as by a General Court Martial shall be ordered.

ART. XXVIII. That all Publick Stores taken in the enemy's camp or magazines, whether of Artillery, Ammunition, Clothing, or Provisions, shall be secured for the use of the Colony.

ART. XXIX. That if any officer or soldier shall leave his Post or Colours, in time of an engagement, to go in search of plunder, he shall, upon being convicted thereof before a General Court Martial, suffer such punishment as by said Court Martial shall be ordered.

ART. XXX. That if any Commander of any Post, Intrenchment, or Fortress, shall be compelled by the officers or soldiers under his command to give it up to the enemy, or to abandon it, the commissioned officers, non-commissioned officers, or soldiers, who shall be convicted of having so offended, shall suffer death, or such other punishment as shall be inflicted upon them by the sentence of a General Court Martial.

ART. XXXI. That all sutlers and retailers to a camp, and all persons whatsoever serving with the forces already raised, or that may be raised for the defence of this Colony in the field, though not enlisted soldiers, are to be subjected to the same orders, rules, and regulations, to which the officers and soldiers are or shall be subjected.

ART. XXXII. That no General Court Martial shall consist of less than thirteen, none of which shall be under the degree of a commissioned officer; and the President of each and every Court Martial, whether General or Regimental, shall have power to administer an oath to every witness, in order to the trial of offenders; and the members of all Courts Martial shall be duly sworn by the President, and the next in rank on the Court Martial shall administer the oath to the President.

ART. XXXIII. That the members both of General and Regimental Courts Martial shall, when belonging to different Corps, take the same rank which they hold in the Army; but when Courts Martial shall be composed of officers of one Corps, they shall take their ranks according to their commissions by which they are mustered in the said Corps.

ART. XXXIV. That all the members of a Court Martial are to behave with calmness, decency, and impartiality, and in giving of their votes are to begin with the youngest or lowest in commission.

ART. XXXV. That no Field Officer shall be tried by any person under the degree of a Captain; nor shall any proceedings or trials be carried on, excepting between the hours of eight in the morning and three in the afternoon, except in cases which require an immediate example.

ART. XXXVI. That the commissioned officers of a Regiment may, by the appointment of their Colonel or Commanding Officer, hold Regimental Courts Martial for the inquiry into such disputes or criminal matters as may come before them, and for the inflicting corporeal punishments for small offences, and shall give judgment by the majority of votes; but no sentence shall be executed till the Commanding Officer (not being a member of the Court Martial) shall have confirmed the same.

ART. XXXVII. That no Regimental Court Martial shall consist of less than five officers, excepting in cases where that number cannot be conveniently assembled, when three may be sufficient, who are likewise to determine by the majority of voices, which sentence is to be confirmed by the Commanding Officer, not being a member of the Court Martial.

ART. XXXVIII. That every officer commanding in any Fort, Castle, or Barrack, or elsewhere, where the Corps under his command consists of detachments from different Regiments, or of independent Companies, may assemble Courts Martial for the trial of offenders, in the same manner as if they were Regimental, whose sentence is not to be executed till it shall be confirmed by the said Commanding Officer.

ART. XXXIX. That no person whatsoever shall use menacing words, signs or gestures, in the presence of a Court Martial then sitting, or shall cause any disorder or riot so as to disturb their proceedings, on the penalty of being punished at the discretion of the Court Martial.

ART. XL. That to the end that offenders may be brought to justice, whenever any officer or soldier shall commit a crime deserving punishment, he shall, by his Commanding Officer, if an officer, be put in arrest; if a non-commissioned officer or soldier, be imprisoned till he shall be either tried by a Court Martial, or shall be lawfully discharged by proper authority.

ART. XLI. That no officer or soldier who shall be put in arrest or imprisonment, shall continue in his confinement more than eight days, or till such time as a Court Martial can be conveniently assembled.

ART. XLII. That no officer commanding a Guard, or Provost Marshal, shall refuse to receive or keep any prisoner committed to his charge by an officer belonging to the forces aforesaid, which officer shall, at the same time, deliver an account in writing, signed by himself, of the crime with which the said prisoner is charged.

ART. XLIII. That no officer commanding a Guard, or Provost Martial, shall presume to release any prisoner committed to his charge, without proper authority for so doing; nor shall he suffer any prisoner to escape, on the penalty of being punished for it by the sentence of a General Court Martial.

ART. XLIV. That every Officer or a Provost Martial to whose charge prisoners shall be committed, is hereby required, within twenty-four hours after such commitment, or as soon as he shall be relieved from his guard, to give, in writing, to the Colonel of the Regiment to whom the prisoner belongs, (where the prisoner is confined upon the guard belonging to the said Regiment, and that his offence only relates to the neglect of duty in his own Corps,) or to the Commander-in-Chief, their names, their crimes, and the names of the officers who committed them, on the penalty of being punished for his disobedience or neglect, at the discretion of a General Court Martial.

ART. XLV. And if any officer under arrest shall leave his confinement before he is set a liberty by the officer who confined him, or by a superiour power, he shall be cashiered for it.

ART. XLVI. That whatsoever commissioned officer shall be convicted before a General Court Martial of behaving in a scandalous, infamous manner, such as is unbecoming the character of an officer and a gentleman, shall be discharged from the service.

ART. XLVII. That all officers, conductors, matrosses, drivers, or any other persons whatsoever, receiving pay or hire in the service of the Artillery of this Colony, shall be governed by the aforesaid Rules and Articles, and shall be subject to be tried by Court Martial in like manner with the officers and soldiers of the Troops.

ART. XLVIII. That for offences arising amongst themselves, or in matters relating solely to their own Corps, the Courts Martial may be composed of their own officers; but where a number sufficient of such officers cannot be assembled, or in matters wherein other Corps are interested, the officers of Artillery shall sit in Courts Martial with the officers of the other Troops.

ART. XLIX. That all crimes not capital, and all disorders and neglects which officers and soldiers may be guilty of to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, though not mentioned in the Articles of War, are to be taken cognizance of by a General or Regimental Court Martial, according to the nature or degree of the offence, and be punished at their discretion.

ART. L. That no Courts Martial shall order any offender to be whipped or receive more than thirty-nine stripes for one offence.

ART. LI. That the Field Officers of each and every Regiment are to appoint some suitable person belonging to such Regiment, to receive all such Fines as may arise within the same for any breach of any of the foregoing Articles, and shall direct the same to be carefully and properly applied to the relief of such sick, wounded, or necessitous soldiers as belong to such Regiment, and such persons shall account with such officer for all Fines received, and the application thereof.

ART. LII. That all members sitting in Courts Martial shall be sworn by the President of said Courts, which President shall himself be sworn by the officer in said Court next in rank; the oath to be administered previous to their proceeding to the trial of any offender, in form following, viz: "You, A B, swear that you will well and truly try and impartially determine the cause of the prisoner now to be tried, according to the Rules for Regulating the Forces raised or to be raised for the defence of the Colony of Connecticut, so help you God."

ART. LIII. That all persons called to give evidence in any case before a Court Martial, who shall refuse to give evidence, shall be punished for such refusal at the discretion of such Court Martial; the oath to be administered in the form following, viz: "You swear the evidence you shall give in the case now in hearing shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God."

Resolved by this Assembly, That the military officers in the several Towns, that were concerned in assembling or furnishing with Ammunition any of the inhabitants of this Colony who marched in the late alarm, either eastward or westward, are hereby ordered and directed to deliver to the Selectmen of such respective Towns, where any expense has been occasioned thereby, a particular account of the names of the persons who marched under arms as aforesaid, for the relief of people in distress, and have since returned; and also of the time every such person was detained, from the first of his march till his return; and also the quantity of Ammunition every such person was supplied with from any Colony or Town stock. And the Selectmen of all such respective Towns are hereby ordered and directed to collect a particular account of the expenses for provision, carriage, &c., that has incurred by means aforesaid, in such Town severally, with the names of the persons who advanced the same, or to whom the satisfaction may be due. And such Selectmen are also ordered and directed to lay before the Committee of the Pay-Table a particular account of the quantum of each article of expense for provision, time of those that marched, money advanced, &c.; which Committee of the Pay-Table are hereby ordered and directed to settle and adjust such accounts, and allow what shall be just and reasonable; the pay of the officers respectively, and wages of the men, to be the same as in the present establishment, and give to such Selectmen an order on the Treasurer for payment of the same. And such Selectmen are hereby directed to receive and pay the same accordingly to each of the persons to whom it is due; and such Selectmen are also hereby ordered and directed to receive back of such persons who marched in the service aforesaid, and have returned, such articles of Ammunition as they received from any Colony or Town stock, and see the same duly returned accordingly. And in case such Ammunition or part thereof shall not be returned, the value of such proportion so detained by each of said persons who received the same, shall be deducted out of the sum allowed to him respectively for his service aforesaid.

Whereas there is convincing evidence that a design is formed by the British Ministry of making a cruel invasion from the Province of Quebeck upon the Northern Colonies, for the purpose of distressing our lives and liberties, and some steps have actually been taken to carry said design into execution: And whereas several inhabitants of the Northern Colonies, residing in the vicinity of Ticonderoga, immediately exposed to incursions, impelled by a just regard for the defence and preservation of themselves and their countrymen from such imminent dangers and calamities, have taken possession of that post and of Crown Point, in which were lodged a quantity of Cannon and Military Stores; that would certainly have been used in the intended invasion of these Colonies, and have also taken into their custody a number of officers and soldiers who were holding and keeping said Posts, and of their own motion have sent them into this Colony; and as this Colony has no command of said Posts, now in possession of people of several Colonies, it is impracticable for said officers and soldiers to return to said posts, and the dictates of humanity require that said officers and soldiers, with their families, should be provided for and supported while they continue in this Colony: it is therefore;

Resolved by this Assembly, That Col. Erastus Wolcott, Captain Samuel Wadsworth, Captain Ezekiel Williams, and Mr. Epaphras Bull, Henry Allyn, Esquire, Colonel Fisher Gay, Col. Matthew Talcott, Col. James Wadsworth, Captain Jonathan Wells, Ebenezer White, Esquire, and Colonel Jonathan Humphrey be, and they, or any three of them, are hereby appointed a Committee, and are ordered and instructed, at the expense of this Colony, to take care of and provide for said officers and soldiers, with their families at present, and see that they be treated with humanity, kindness, and respect, according to their rank and station, and encourage, assist, and advise said soldiers in procuring such profitable labour and business as they may be capable of, wherever said soldiers can find persons willing to entertain and give them employment, until, by the advice of the Continental Congress or otherwise, this Assembly shall take further order concerning them, and that the Commander-in-Chief make a proper return, under his hand, to said Committee, of the corps that are under his command.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the form for Commissions for the Field-Officers in the service for the special defence and safety of this Colony, shall be as follows, and the Governour and Secretary are desired and directed to sign the same:

"Colony of CONNECTICUT:

"JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esquire, Captain-General and Governour-in-Chief in and over His Majesty's ENGLISH Colony in NEW-ENGLAND in AMERICA,

"To Benjamin Hinman, Esquire, greeting:

"By virtue of the power and authority to me given, and by the Royal Charter to the Governour and Company of the said Colony, under the great seal of England, I do, by these presents, reposing especial trust and confidence in your loyalty, courage, and good conduct, constitute and appoint you, the said Benjamin Hinman, to be Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of the inhabitants enlisted and assembled for the special defence and safety of His Majesty's said Colony. You are, therefore, to lead, conduct, order, and exercise said Regiment in the service aforesaid, and to keep them in good order and discipline, hereby commanding them to obey you as their Colonel, and yourself to observe and follow such orders and instructions as you shall from time to time receive from me or the Commander-in-Chief of the said Colony for the time being, or other your superiour officers, according to military rules and discipline, pursuant to the trust reposed in you.

"Given under my hand and the publick seal of the said Colony at . . . , the first day of May, in the fifteenth year of the reign of His Majesty King George the Third, Anno Domini 1775."

Resolved, further, That the form for Warrants for the Officers on the Staff be as follows, and the Governour is directed to sign the same:

"JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esquire, Governour and Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Colony of CONNECTICUT in NEW-ENGLAND, in AMERICA,

"To Rev. Cotton Mather Smith, greeting:

"Reposing especial trust and confidence in your loyalty, piety, ability, integrity, and good conduct, I do hereby appoint you, the said Cotton Mather Smith, Chaplain of the Fourth Regiment of the inhabitants enlisted and assembled for the special defence and safety of His Majesty's said Colony; and do hereby authorize and empower you to exercise the several acts and duties of your office and station as Chaplain of the said Regiment, which you are faithfully to perform in a due and religious discharge thereof, according to the important trust reposed in you, for which this is your warrant.

"Given under my hand and seal at arms, in . . . , in the Colony aforesaid, this twentieth day of May, in the fifteenth year of the reign of His Majesty King George the Third, Anno Domini 1775."

"JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esquire, Governour and Commander-in-Chief in and over His Majesty's ENGLISH Colony of CONNECTICUT in NEW-ENGLAND, in AMERICA,

"To Lemuel Wheeler, Gentleman, greeting:

"I do, by these presents, reposing especial confidence in your loyalty, skill, and good conduct, appoint you, the said Lemuel Wheeler, to be Physician and Surgeon in the Fourth Regiment of inhabitants enlisted and assembled for the special defence and safety of His Majesty's said Colony; and I do hereby authorize and empower you to exercise your said office in a due discharge of the duties thereof, which you are carefully and diligently to attend as a Physician as aforesaid, according to the trust reposed in you, for which this is your sufficient warrant.

"Given under my hand and seal at arms, at . . . , in said Colony, the twentieth day of May, 1775, in the fifteenth year of His Majesty's reign."

"Colony of CONNECTICUT:

"JONATHAN TRUMBULL, Esquire, Governour and Commander-in-Chief in and over His Majesty's Colony of CONNECTICUT in NEW-ENGLAND, in AMERICA,

"To . . . , Gentleman, greeting:

"I do, by these presents, reposing especial trust and confidence in your loyalty, fidelity, and good conduct, constitute and appoint you, the said . . . , to be Commissary in the . . . Regiment of the inhabitants enlisted and assembled for the special defence and safety of His Majesty's said Colony; and you having first given bond, with sufficient surety for a faithful discharge of your trust, I do authorize and empower you to exercise your said office in a due performance of the duties thereof in the Regiment aforesaid, keeping proper accounts, and the same render on oath when required, according to the trust reposed in you, for which this is a sufficient warrant.

"Given under my hand and seal at arms, in . . . , the . . . day of May, A. D. 1775, in the fifteenth year of His Majesty's reign."

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Committee of the Pay-Table be directed to give orders on the Treasurer of this Colony for payment to all such persons who have actually expended moneys or given their written obligations therefor, more than to the amount of what is equitably due to them for their personal service in obtaining possession of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, upon their exhibiting their accounts, and having them liquidated and approved by said Committee; and also, that said Committee be, and they are hereby further directed to receive the accounts of the cost and expenses, both of men and provisions, incurred in taking and securing said Fortresses, by any inhabitants of this Colony, or any others by them engaged and employed, digest the same into proper form, and lay the same before this or some future Assembly, for their equitable consideration and allowance.

Resolved by this Assembly, That all accounts of disbursements made by order or direction of this Assembly relative to the present extraordinary emergencies of Government, be laid before the Pay-Table Committee already appointed, to be by them examined, settled, and adjusted; and said Committee are hereby directed to draw all needful orders on the Treasurer for the payment thereof.

Resolved by this Assembly, That each non-commissioned officer and soldier belonging to any military company or trainband in this Colony, shall be paid out of the Colony Treasury Six Pence for each half day he shall attend and perform military exercises, and Twelve Pence for each day he shall attend and perform regimental exercise, in obedience to a law of this Colony passed at the session of the General Assembly in October last; and that the Clerk of each of said Companies shall make out duplicate and attested Rolls of such non-commissioned officers and soldiers as performed military exercises as aforesaid, and deliver the same to the Captain, or, in his absence, to the chief officer of such company whereof he is Clerk, and said Captain or chief officer shall present said Roll to two assistants, or two Justices of the Peace, to be by them examined and approved, which Rolls, when approved, shall, by such authority, be noted thereon accordingly, one of which Rolls shall be delivered to such officer, and the other held by said authority; and thereupon said authority shall draw an order on the Treasurer of this Colony, payable to such Captain or chief officer, who shall receive the money due them of the Treasurer, and pay the same to each non-commissioned officer and soldier as shall be due according to said Roll.

Resolved by this Assembly, That Jabez Hamlin, Matthew Talcott, and Titus Hosmer, Esquires, be and they are hereby appointed a Committee to provide such stores of Lead as they shall judge necessary for the use of this Colony; and that said Committee may be effectually able to execute their said trust, they are authorized and directed, on behalf of this Colony, to contract for, purchase, or take the Lead Ore that is or may be raised out of the Lead Mines in Middletown, and cause any and greater quantities of Ore to be dug out of said mine, and by the best and most prudent ways and means they can, to procure said Ore to be refined and fitted for the use of this Colony, and to erect any furnace or building necessary for that purpose; and that said Committee have power and authority to take and receive out of the Colony Treasury from time to time, any sum or sums of money that shall be found necessary to enable them to procure said Lead, or purchase said Lead Ore, and smelt, refine, and separate the lead therefrom, not exceeding the sum of Four Hundred Pounds, lawful money, in the whole; and the Colony Treasurer is ordered to pay and advance the said sum of money to the said Committee, or their order, accordingly, always provided that the owner or owners of said mine or ore shall have reasonable allowance and be duly compensated for any loss, hurt, or damage, that he or they may or shall sustain or suffer by reason of the premises.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Commander-in-Chief for the time being, of the Forces raised in this Colony, at their respective destinations, be authorized and empowered, and they are hereby empowered to procure a suitable Armourer or Armourers to repair any Fire-Arms that may be damaged in the service, as occasion may call for, and lay the account thereof before the Committee of the Pay-Table, who are hereby directed to draw orders on the Treasurer for the payment thereof.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Committee of the Pay-Table be directed to repair the Arms belonging to this Colony in the hands of the Treasurer, and deliver out as many of them as may be wanted, to the inhabitants enlisted for the special defence of this Colony, and have them appraised, and take proper receipts therefor.

Resolved by this Assembly, That Samuel Mott, Esquire, be and he is hereby appointed Engineer, forthwith to repair to Ticonderoga and Crown Point, to assist and act in said capacity, and to take rank as a Lieutenant-Colonel among the Troops raised for the defence of this Colony.

Resolved by this Assembly, That Thaddeus Burr, Esq., of Fairfield, and Charles Church Chandler, Esq., of Woodstock, be a Committee to engage and employ, at the publick expense of this Colony, two News-Carriers to perform regular stages from Fairfield to Woodstock, and from Woodstock to Fairfield, passing through the Towns of Windham and Lebanon, in such manner that they severally arrive in Hartford every Saturday; and that they forward all proper intelligence to Fairfield and Woodstock, with all convenient speed; also, that Gurdon Saltonstall, Esq., of New-London, be a Committee to engage and employ two News-Carriers at the expense of the Colony, to perform regular stages from Woodstock to New-Haven, on the Fairfield stage, and from New-Haven to Woodstock, in such manner that they severally arrive in New-London every Saturday; and that they forward all proper intelligence each way every Monday morning, with all convenient despatch; and that Thaddeus Burr, Esquire, of Fairfield, Charles Church Chandler, Esquire, of Woodstock, and Gurdon Saltonstall, Esq., of New-London, be a Committee to forward, at the publick expense of this Colony, all such extraordinary and important intelligence which shall be received from time to time at either place, as they shall judge proper and necessary; the aforesaid regulations to continue in force until the rising of the Assembly in October next, and no longer.

This Assembly do appoint the Honourable Matthew Griswold, Esquire, and the Honourable Eliphalet Dyer, Jabez Huntington, and Samuel Huntington, Esquires, William Williams, Nathaniel Wales, Junior, Jedediah Elderkin, Joshua West, and Benjamin Huntington, Esquires, a Committee to assist his Honour the Governour when the Assembly is not sitting, to order and direct the marches and stations of the inhabitants enlisted and assembled for the special defence of the Colony, or any part or parts of them, as they shall judge necessary; and to give orders from time to time for furnishing and employing said inhabitants so enlisted with every matter and thing that may be needful to render the defence of the Colony effectual.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Commissions ordered by the Special Assembly in April last, to the respective Officers appointed to enlist men for the defence of the Colony, shall be dated May 1, 1775, and the Secretary ordered to fill them up accordingly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Warrants to the Staff Officers, viz: Chaplain, Surgeon, and Surgeon's Mates for each Regiment enlisted and formed for the special defence and safety of this Colony, shall be dated the 20th day of May, 1775, and his Honour the Governour is directed to fill the same accordingly.

This Assembly grants to Major-General Wooster the sum of Four Pounds per month, to assist and enable him to provide a proper Secretary for the necessary service of such Department.

This Assembly grants to Brigadier Generals Spencer and Putnam, respectively, as they shall find necessary, the sum of Four Pounds per month, to assist and enable them to provide proper Secretaries for the necessary service of their respective Departments.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Commissaries appointed by this Assembly for supplying the inhabitants raised for the defence of the Colony, shall be allowed one and a half per cent. commission on all supplies purchased and paid for by order of the Assembly.

Resolved by this Assembly, That Jabez Hamlin and Jesse Root, Esquires, be added to, and they are hereby appointed of the Committee to sign the Bills of Publick Credit on this Colony, ordered to be emitted by the General Assembly holden at this place by special order of his Honour the Governour, on the 26th day of April last, any three of said Committee to execute the trust aforesaid.

Resolved by this Assembly, That five hundred pounds of Powder be immediately borrowed by the Committee of the Pay-Table, from the Town stocks of the adjacent Towns, and put into the hands of Colonel James Easton, to be transported with the utmost expedition to Crown Point and Ticonderoga, to be there used for the present and immediate defence of those Posts, till the Resolves of the Continental Congress may be carried into execution; and that an order be drawn by the Committee of Pay-Table on the Colony Treasurer, in favour of said Colonel Easton, for Two Hundred Pounds, lawful money, to be improved by him in defraying the expenses of transporting said Powder and other necessary purposes, for the immediate support and security of said Fortresses, rendering his account therefor.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the pay of the Adjutants in the Forces assembled for the defence of this Colony shall be the sum of Six Pounds per month; and that such Adjutants shall sustain and receive pay for that office only; and it is further resolved that the pay of the First Lieutenants of the Colonels' Companies in each Regiment, respectively, shall be Six Pounds per month.

This Assembly do appoint David Johnson, Junior, Second Lieutenant in the Second Company in the Fourth Regiment, to be enlisted and assembled for the special defence of this Colony; in the room of David Bissell, superseded.

This Assembly do appoint Major Jabez Thompson to be Lieutenant-Colonel of the Second Regiment of Militia in this Colony, in the room of Lieutenant-Colonel Gould, resigned.

Zebulon Butler, Esq., to be Colonel of the Twenty-Fourth Regiment.

Nathan Denison, Esq., to be Lieutenant-Colonel of the Twenty-Fourth Regiment.

William Judd, Esq., to be Major of the Twenty-Fourth Regiment.

Oliver Smith, Esq., to be Major of the Eighth Regiment, in room of Major Charles Phelps, Esq., resigned.

Upon the Memorial of John Sutliff, Junior, and others, Inhabitants of the Society of Northbury, in Waterbury, showing to this Assembly that they live within the limits of the West Military Company or Trainband, in said Society, and that the major part of said Company, both Officers and Soldiers, are totally disaffected to the general cause of American liberty, and that they altogether refuse to adopt the measures advised by the Continental Congress, but publicly speak and act in direct opposition thereto:

Upon which a Committee, viz: Thomas Matthews and Timothy Judd, Esquires, were appointed, who have made their Report to this Assembly, and the same being also accepted:

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Captain and Ensign of said West Military Company or Trainband, in the Society of Northbury, in said Waterbury, be and they are hereby cashiered and dismissed from their respective military offices; and the Colonel of the Regiment said Company is part of is hereby directed to lead said Company to the choice of a Captain and an Ensign, and other needful officers, and make return to this Assembly.

Upon the Memorial of Nathaniel Niles, of Norwich, in the County of New-London, shewing to this Assembly that it is of importance that the manufacturing of Iron Wire, upon which the Woollen and Cotton Manufactories so greatly depend, should be set up and carried on with the greatest expedition, which the Memorialist is willing to undertake and pursue, upon proper encouragement, and hath made some progress therein, &c., as per Memorial on file:

Resolved by this Assembly, That Jabez Huntington, Samuel Huntington, and Elijah Backus, Esquires, all of Norwich, be and they are hereby appointed a Committee to examine into the matters contained in said Memorial, and the expenses of erecting proper works for the manufacturing of Iron Wire; and what encouragement may be properly given the Memorialist therefor; and if said Committee, upon due examination, shall judge it reasonable and expedient, they are hereby empowered to draw their order on the Colony Treasurer for any sum not exceeding Three Hundred Pounds to be paid by said Treasurer, who is hereby directed to pay the same to the Memorialist, upon his giving good security to the acceptance of said Committee, that said sum shall be improved solely for the setting up and carrying on said Manufactory; and that the principal sum so received shall be repaid at the expiration of four years after received, without any interest thereon.

Resolved by this Assembly, That the Secretary of this Colony be directed to send to the Towns of Torrington and New-Hartford, to return to this Assembly, in October next, the whole of their Lists, the exemption that hath been granted to the Society of Torrington notwithstanding ing; and also to all the rest of the Towns in this Colony that are incorporated, that have not yet sent in their Lists.

This Assembly do appoint Elisha Sheldon, Esq., Colonel Samuel Wyllys, Mr Ezra Selden, Mr. William Hawley, Mr. Jonathan Trumbull, Junior, and Major Samuel Canfield, to audit and adjust the Colony Accounts with John Lawrence, Esq., the present Treasurer of this Colony.

Whereas the situation of publick affairs are such at present, that the attention of the publick is called off from private matters to things of greater importance; therefore,

Resolved, That the consideration of all private business of a civil and disputable nature, be referred over to the session of this Assembly in October next.

This Assembly grants to his Honour Governour Trumbull, the sum of One Hundred and Fifty Pounds, for the first half of his salary the current year.

This Assembly grants to the Honourable Deputy Governour Griswold the sum of Fifty Pounds, for the first half of his salary the current year.

This Assembly grants to John Lawrence, Esq., the sum of One Hundred and Eighty Pounds, for his salary the year past as Treasurer of this Colony.

This Assembly grants to George Wyllys, Esq., Secretary of this Colony, the sum of Twenty Pounds, for his salary the year past.

This Assembly is adjourned by Proclamation, &c., until the Governour shall see cause to call it to meet together again. Test: GEORGE WYLLYS, Secretary.

In the Lower House:

Mr. Hosmer, Colonel Wolcott, Colonel Elderkin, and Mr. Sturgess, are appointed a Committee to join the Committee from the Honourable Upper House, to consider what Intelligence, Papers, and Documents are material and necessary to be transmitted and communicated to the Continental Congress at Philadelphia; and likewise take into their consideration what matters and things relative to the late hostile transactions, it is expedient to make publick, and report make. Test: RICHARD LAW, Clerk.

In the Upper House:

Jabez Hamlin, Esquire, is appointed to join the Committee of the Lower House in the affair above-mentioned. Test: GEORGE WYLLYS, Secretary.

To the Honourable the General Assembly now sitting in HARTFORD.

We, your Honours' Committee appointed to consider what Intelligence, Papers, and Documents are material and necessary to be transmitted and communicated to the Continental Congress now sitting at Philadelphia; and likewise what matters and things relative to the late hostile transactions it is expedient to make publick, beg leave to report our opinion:

First. That it is material and necessary that copies of the Letter wrote by his Honour the Governour to General Gage, at the request and in behalf of the Assembly, and of General Gage's answer to said Letter, and of his Narrative of the proceedings of the Troops on the 18th and 19th of April last, accompanied with a Letter from his Honour the Governour, should be prepared and transmitted to Colonel Eliphalet Dyer, Roger Sherman, and Silas Deane, Esquires, Delegates from this Colony to the Continental Congress, to be made use of at their discretion; the Narrative from the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts-Bay, and the Depositions taken by and received from them, being, as we are well informed, already sent to said Continental Congress, we are of opinion it is not necessary to forward from hence.

Secondly. That a concise and true Narration of the late hostile attack made by the Troops under the command of General Gage upon the inhabitants of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, with the Depositions to support and confirm the same, should be prepared for the press, and be printed and dispersed through this Colony; and we farther beg leave to submit it to the consideration of the Assembly, whether it would not answer some good purpose, if the Narrative of said transactions received from General Gage, were printed and published with the Narrative and proofs aforesaid. Per order: J. HAMLIN.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LONDON TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA.

London, May 12, 1775.

I did not, until this day, receive your kind favour of March 17, which confirmed the agreeable intelligence of the decisive victory of the sons of liberty in New-York, over the pitiful and mercenary supporters of despotism.

The Remonstrance of their Assembly to the House of Commons, Mr. Burke, the agent, is to present next Monday, the 15th instant. I fancy you may take it for granted, the Ministry are determined it shall not be received; but if their minds should change before that time, it will be received only to be condemned, by ordering it to lay on the table, which is almost as slighting a mode of procedure as refusing to receive it. Thus are applications treated, when made in the very manner the Ministers themselves have pointed out. In short, nothing will please, but an absolute and total submission, at the shrine of despotism, of the lives, liberties, and property, of yourselves and posterity to endless generations.

Whether these things are not worthy of contending for, even unto death, I leave you to judge, who may enjoy the blessings of them, or feel the curse of wanting them forever. The advantages of commerce are now, for the first time in this Kingdom, held at naught by our wicked Ministers; as they suppose commerce enlarges the ideas of men in general, and gives more aversion to tyranny than confined employment; therefore, the trade of poor old England is to be buried in the same grave with American liberty.

The merchants and manufacturers you well know, however, before this, have bestirred themselves in the American cause; but as they did not really feel, their exertions were not earnest enough to command success. For my own part, I am convinced this business can never be settled without bloodshed, unless you are tame enough to give up every thing that can be held dear in this world, viz: civil and religious liberty, to absolute tyranny; because I know the Ministers, or, in plain words, their master, Lord Bute, has ordained it shall be. In my mind, there should not be one moment's hesitation about the choice: we can die but once, and never on a better occasion than in the cause of God, and the rights of mankind. The friends of liberty in this Country, who are really numerous, look to you with wonderful attention. They expect much good from your virtue; and, in my judgment, when the first engagement happens in America, a flame will burst out here that must overwhelm the contrivers of all this mischief. The eyes of all Europe are upon you; and I believe we should have had a foreign war before this, but France and Spain wait to see the business first fairly begun in America. However, this day the foreign mail brings certain intelligence of twelve Spanish Men-of-War arriving at Cádiz, from the Mediterranean, which has occasioned much speculation among the politicians, and horrible grimaces among the ministerial gentry. I am no enthusiast; but still I am convinced that this American business is in the hand of Providence, to make you a great and wonderful Empire. Every circumstance is in your favour, and I have no doubt of your sagacity and virtue in taking advantage thereof.

We suppose, by this time, all the Troops for Boston have left Ireland—seven Regiments of Infantry and one of Horse; the Foot may be about three thousand effective men, and the Horse from two to four hundred. The Cavalry, if they arrive (for probably many will die on the passage) cannot be fit for service this summer. Next week Sir George Savile in the House of Commons, and Lord Camden in the House of Lords, are each of them to present a Petition from the inhabitants of Quebeck, praying for the repeal of the Quebeck Government Act, when each of them, in their several Houses, will make a motion for that purpose.

From what knowledge I have of America, it appears to me an absolute certainty that the ministerial plan of slavery that is formed for you can never succeed, if you continue unanimous, and determine to resist, even unto death, rather than resign your liberties. Depend on your own efforts, and leave the issue to Providence, which, as the guardians of virtue, will certainly make your efforts successful.

RICHMOND COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a Committee elected for the County of Richmond, meeting by an adjournment from the 10th of this instant, at the Court-House of this County, on the 12th of May, 1775, present Landon Carter, Esquire, Chairman, and a very full bench of the Members:

The Committee appointed on the 10th instant, having brought in their Report, according to the order of that day, the same was received and read, and is as follows:

Your Committee, taking into consideration, according to order, the late Address of his Excellency the Governour to the Council, on the 2d of this instant, and the Proclamation issued in consequence of their advice on the 3d instant, think themselves indispensably bound to their constituents to vindicate them from the groundless aspersions, and very unjust accusations with which a part of this community are therein charged, and which are only calculated to induce a belief that the people of this Country are meditating a plan to change the present form of Government. They have, therefore,

Resolved, 1st. That the late commotions in some parts of this Country, alluded to in the Address and Proclamation, arose from a full conviction of a cruel and determined plan of Administration to enslave these Colonies, which has been manifested in various instances, and of which the late proceedings of his Excellency, in removing the Powder from the Magazine, with the several circumstances attending the same, appear evidently to be a part.

2d. That our repeated and dutiful applications for redress of grievances, our patient endurance under a long course of irritating and oppressive measures, and our most solemn declarations "that our utmost wish was a restitution of the rights which we enjoyed until the year 1763," are convincing proofs of our attachment to the Constitution, our loyalty to our Sovereign, and our love of order.

3d. That the whole of his Excellency's conduct respecting the unhappy disputes between the Colonies and the British Ministry, especially the groundless and injurious charges alleged against the people of this Colony, in his Address to the Council, and in his Proclamation of the 3d of this instant, (May), are unjustifiable and inimical, and therefore he has justly forfeited the confidence of the people of this Colony.

4th. That the Members of His Majesty's Council who advised the above-mentioned Proclamation, acted inconsistently with that wisdom, justice, and generosity which ought to characterize them as legislators, judges, and natives of the most distinguished in the Colony; and we do declare, that we find ourselves deeply affected that those who should be mediators between the executive power and the people, should concur in fixing a stigma on their fellow-subjects, so unjust and so undeserved.

5th. That in order to remove these atrocious aspersions, and to convince the world of our firm attachment to the Constitution as it existed before the year 1763, we hereby solemnly pledge ourselves to support it at the hazard of our lives and fortunes.

Every Resolve contained in the foregoing being distinctly read, and separately considered, was passed namine contradicente.

Ordered, That these proceedings of this day, as soon as may be convenient, be transmitted to the Press for the satisfaction of the publick.

WILLIAM SMITH, Clerk pro tem.

PROCLAMATION BY LORD DUNMORE.

By His Excellency the Right Honourable JOHN Earl of DUNMORE, His Majesty's Lieutenant and Governour-General of the Colony and Dominion of VIRGINIA, and Vice-Admiral of the same:

A PROCLAMATION.

VIRGINIA, to wit:

Whereas the General Assembly stands prorogued to the first Thursday in September next, but it is judged expedient and necessary that they should be sooner convened: I have therefore thought proper, by this Proclamation, in His Majesty's name, to appoint the first Thursday in the next month for that purpose; at which time their attendance is accordingly required at the Capitol, in the City of Williamsburgh, for the despatch of publick business.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Colony, at Williamsburgh aforesaid, this 12th day of May, in the fifteenth year of His Majesty's reign. DUNMORE.

God save the King.

TO THE PUBLICK.

Whereas the following false reports have been industriously propagated, with the malicious design of injuring my character with the publick, viz: that I had insulted the Delegates of the present Congress at Bristol, and declared that they were an unlawful body of men, and that the Magistrates ought to disperse them; and "that I have wrote letters to the Ministry inimical to America:" Now in justice to my own reputation, and that the good people of this Province may not be deceived by such groundless falsehoods, I do declare that these reports are malicious and without the least foundation; and that however easy it might have been to establish a correspondence with Administration, was I capable of entertaining a thought inimical to the Country where all I hold dear and valuable is fixed, and where I am determined to spend the remainder of my life, yet I have, neither directly nor indirectly any such correspondence, nor ever wrote a sentiment to any man in Great Britain injurious to the rights and freedom of America, nor ever recommended any measure whatever to be pursued in respect to the present dispute between the two Countries. And I do hereby call on the author or authors of these false reports to make good their malicious charges, or to take that blame to themselves which such malevolence deserves.

All that I have to request of my countrymen on this or the like occasions is, that they will deal with so much candour and justice towards me as to discredit any malevolent reports, until the authors shall exhibit some proof in support of their charges: and this I trust no good man will think unreasonable, as he cannot but be aware that the most innocent may be condemned, unless this great rule of justice be observed.

JOSEPH GALLOWAY.

Trevoze, Pennsylvania, May 12, 1775.

Bergen County, New-Jersey, Committee Chamber, }
May 12, 1775. }

Resolved, That John Fell, Esquire, Theunis Dey, Esquire, Thomas Brown, Esquire, Peter Zabriskie, Esq., John Demarest, Esquire, Mr. Samuel Berry, Mr. Cornelius Van Vorst, Mr. Isaac Noble, Mr. Aarent J. Schuyler, Mr. Jacob Terhune, Doctor Abraham Van Boskirk, John Van Boskirk, Esquire, Mr. Gabriel Ogden, Mr. Jost Zabriskie, and Mr. Gabriel Van Orden, be a Standing Committee of Correspondence for this County, and that any five of them, of which the President or Vice President to be one, have power to act.

Ordered, That a copy of the above Resolve be printed in the New-York Newspapers.

By order of the Committee: JOHN FELL, Chairman.

At a meeting of the Committee of Correspondence for Bergen County, New-Jersey, May 12, 1775:

Present: John Fell, Theunis Dey, Thomas Brown, John Demarest, Esquires, Messrs. Cornelius Van Vorst, Isaac Noble, Jacob Terhune, Doctor Abraham Van Boskirk, John Van Boskirk, Esquire, Messrs. Gabriel Ogden, Jost Zabriskie, and Gabriel Van Orden:

John Demarest, Esquire, chosen President; Mr. Gabriel Van Orden, chosen Vice-President.

Ordered, That a copy of the above proceedings be published in the New-York Newspapers.

By order of the Committee of Correspondence:

JOHN DEMAREST, President.

TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Whereas an agreement has been made between General Gage and the inhabitants of the Town of Boston, for the removal of the persons and effects of such of the inhabitants of the Town of Boston as may be so disposed, (excepting their fire-arms and ammunition,) into the country, and in consequence thereof, the Provincial Congress have made a Resolution, the purport of which is nearly similar to the above agreement, in confidence that said agreement would be punctually adhered to; but by sad experience we find the inhabitants of Boston are not permitted to leave the Town according to the agreement, and nothing to prevent, that we know of, but the cruel exertion of despotick power: Therefore it is humbly submitted to the Committee of Safety, whether it is not advisable to suspend the aforesaid Resolution of Congress until they are fully satisfied the above agreement is punctually fulfilled, and in the mean time to apprehend and seize all Crown officers and known enemies to the liberties of the Colonies, to be liberated when it may be judged reasonable by the Congress; and also to recommend the like mode of conduct to our sister Colonies.

S. OSGOOD, Major of Brigade.

May 12, 1775.

PETITION OF JOHN SAWYER AND OTHERS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

To the Honourable Congress now sitting at WATERTOWN, the humble Petition of us the subscribers, whose names are underwritten, humbly sheweth, &c.

Whereas your petitioners have lately settled in the eastern parts, and are in great distress for want of provisions and ammunition, by reason of the lumber failing of sale, and the great drought last summer, that our crops being cut short, and being in great distress for fear of the enemy, as we have news from Cooper shewing that the Indians on the Cape are building forty Indian canoes, and it is expected that the Governour of Halifax has hired the Indians to come along shore and kill us and our families, and take our creatures, and we have nothing to defend ourselves with but our hands, as there is no powder of any value among us, (we also fear the tenders coming to get our cattle:)

Your humble petitioners therefore beg your assistance, and grant us some relief, and send us some corn and other necessities of life, and some powder, balls, flints, and a few small arms, that we may have wherewithal to defend ourselves and fight for our lives and liberties, which we pray God to give us strength and courage, as long as we have life, in the defence of our Country, provided your Honours should order us any support.

We, your petitioners, bind ourselves to pay forthwith the interest and charges in sending, as soon as lumber will have any sale, and trading revive.

We, your petitioners, beg your serious consideration, and as in duty bound we shall ever pray.

There being in the Town in number that are able to bear arms seventy, but living at a great distance, and not having time to assemble at this time, the vessel just ready to sail, we would beg for the whole.

May 12, 1775.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Amesbury, May 12, 1775.

SIR: Mr. John Currier has enlisted about forty soldiers, who are ready to march, provided he may be their Captain, (and upon this condition they enlisted,) and we can recommend him to be a person of good character, and conducted very well in the last war, and that he has been steady and faithful in the affairs of the Town he has been chosen to serve in; and we desire that he may be enlisted to the office that his soldiers expected him to have; and further, we expect that he will shortly enlist more men to fill his Company. And as we lately received a letter from the Congress, recommending to us to be assisting and encouraging the enlisting of soldiers, we have done our endeavours in promoting and encouraging the same, and are still ready to do all in our power to forward all necessities recommended to us.

Sir, we are your humble and obedient servants,

CALEB PILSBURY, }
JOSIAH SARGEANT, } Selectmen of Amesbury.

In Committee of Supplies Chamber, }
Watertown, May 12, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: The Congress having resolved that the Army should be supplied with such goods, wares, and merchandise as shall appear necessary by the Colony, and not as has been by Sutlers, we have procured some articles that are wanted, and sent them, with a copy of the Resolves, to one of the Deputies of the Commissary at Cambridge, Mr. Browne; but we think that it will be found necessary to have Deputies for this business only, as it must take up the whole time of one person to deliver goods to two Regiments only, and keep good accounts against the soldiers, more especially as the accounts must be exhibited to the Captains, that they may deduct them on making up the muster-roll. As the Commissary is now confined with sickness to his chamber, we desire you to appoint a Deputy for the particular business, that the goods procured by us may be received by him, and immediately disposed of to the soldiers, who are much in want thereof.

DAVID CHEEVER,
One of the Committee of Supplies.

In Committee of Supplies Chamber, }
Watertown, May 13, 1775. }

SIR: We shall be glad to know how the matter is circumstanced with respect to the Colony Arms which were lent to the Scholars, that proper measures may be pursued to get them in. Pray send a line by the bearer.

We are truly your friends, &c., &c.

DAVID CHEEVER, per order.

To the Committee of Safety.

GENERAL THOMAS TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Roxbury, May 12, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I find no establishment made by the Congress for such officers as Adjutant and Quartermasters General, which officers are as necessary, in a large encampment, as almost any whatever; and where any number of Regiments are posted in camp, there cannot be a proper regulation of duty without such. I should be glad to be advised whether I may be allowed to give any encouragement to any suitable persons for such office, that they will receive any reward in future if they will undertake it. And as I understand there are a number of the Rules for the Massachusetts Army printed, and are now at Cambridge, should be glad a number may be forwarded by the bearer for the use of the Camp in Roxbury.

I am, gentlemen, with due respect, your most obedient humble servant,

JNO. THOMAS.

To the Honourable the Committee of Safety.

JAMES CAVET TO ARTHUR ST. CLAIR AND OTHERS.

Pittsburgh, May 13, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am sorry that it is so much in my power to doubt the Governour's attention to this unhappy Country. We have not had, since our confinement, the least account from him, and I think it is beyond a doubt he got our packet. Our express is returned, and says he gave the letters to Doctor Plunket at Susquehannah, who would certainly send them. Our situation, and that of the well affected inhabitants of this place, is become almost intolerable; it is impossible for any person to conceive the cruel mode of proceedings at this place, unless those who are unhappy enough to be eye-witnesses thereof. Mr. Smith, in particular, will, (if not by some means prevented,) in a short time be absolutely ruined. Mr. Hanna and myself will, at this court, be confined in the guard-room of Fort Dunmore, if we don't give bail, and God knows whether it will be in our power so to do, for we are informed, by some of our friends, that none other will be acceptable but those who will come into open court and swear they are worth whatever sum is in the recognizance, and no doubt it will be an enormous sum. Mr. Smith was this day taken with a writ of one hundred thousand Pounds damages. But I need not descend into particulars; every part of their conduct appears that they not only want the jurisdiction of this quarter, but also to rob every man of his property.

And, gentlemen, it is by your friends here thought advisable that the Sheriff, with a party of fifty men, or thereabouts, should come up and take us who are in confinement, and also as many of these rascals as possible, as there will be no strength to oppose you, there being but eighteen men in the Fort. It is surprising what a pusillanimous temper must prevail amongst the people in general to suffer the peace and welfare of a whole County to be destroyed by such a handful of villains. But let the people be called upon by the Sheriff, and certainly they will not refuse to come. If such a step be thought best, it ought to be managed with secrecy and despatch. Pray send off an express by Tuesday night to us with advice, for if we are not taken off we must give bail, if it can be had, and the thoughts of so doing is no small mortification after hanging out so long. I have no time to say any more, but acknowledge myself your humble servant,

JAMES CAVET.

To Arthur St. Clair, John Carnaghan, William Lochey, Esquires, and all our brethren inclusive.

P. S. I must beg your pardon and patience also for writing so long an epistle, but I had almost forgot to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 9th, and also to inform you that Mr. Scott is bound by the Sheriff to appear here next court, and I suppose will share the same fate of Hanna and myself.

DOCTOR ELEAZER WHELOCK TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

Dartmouth College, May 13, 1775.

MUCH HONOURED AND RESPECTED SIR: Your favour of 17th ultimo duly arrived. Mr. Dean is not yet returned; I am now daily expecting him, with one of my English pupils, who has resided with the Tribe at St. Francis ever since last August, to learn their language. I have no suspicion of any publick design of hostilities in any of the Northern Tribes; but we are lately alarmed with accounts that several of our own people have been authorized by General Gage to go to Canada and collect a party there to join them in distressing us at a time which they shall think favourable for their purpose. The bearer, Mr. Smith, who is a tutor of this college, and a young gentleman to be depended upon, can give you the account, which I suppose you have likely already had, for substance, from Esquire Curtis, of this place.

But we are many of us more alarmed by the rash, precipitant, and headlong conduct of a number among us who have been honoured with His Majesty's commissions, civil and military, but have of late openly and publicly given them up, and that only upon this principle, viz: that His Majesty has forfeited his Crown, and that all commissions from him are therefore vacated of course; and have accordingly appointed a set of officers of their own choosing, and appear to be plunging themselves and their dependants as far and as fast as they can into a state of anarchy. They assume to themselves the right of treating their fellow men in a rough and sovereign manner, seizing, stopping, controlling, and examining strangers and others in such a hostile manner as tends to inspire a general fear in all sorts; e. g., two of my scholars, a few days ago, were peaceably and inoffensively travelling from college home, when they were, by a ruffian, stopped in the road, who presented a gun cocked at their breasts, and swore by God they were dead men if they did not immediately tell him who they were, where they were going, and what their business was; and this without milder or other introduction to his inquiry. And it is feared, if a speedy stop cannot be put to this evil, murders, and frequent ones, too, will ensue; and that they will prove themselves really to be what these Colonies have been so injuriously charged with being, and bring the fiercest rage of a Northern Army upon these infant frontiers, and justify them in savage cruelties, prevent any testimonial of our Governour in our favour, and draw away the strength of the Provinces below us from our defence, which he may have no occasion to do if we behave ourselves soberly, adhere firmly to our Constitution, though at the same time, as individuals, are helping our brethren as much as our feeble state will allow. And I would humbly propose whether this case, as the evil seems to be spread wide in part of this Province, and in the new countries adjoining in New-York Province, be not worthy to be communicated for the consideration of the Continental Congress, who can put a stop to it, if any can.

I also fear much evil from the unprovoked, harsh, cruel, and worse than savage threats given out by some against my Indian boys, which have already occasioned fear in some of them; and I fear, if it be not stopped, will produce some unfavourable accounts from them to their friends; this evil I am constantly guarding against as much as possible.

I have lately received letters from my honoured patrons in London, of February 17th, replete with expressions of friendship to this institution, but with assurances that no further publick aids are to be expected by me from that side the water till this publick controversy between them and us be amicably settled, which they suggest no present grounds of encouragement to expect; nor do they think fit in their publick and united capacity to write a word of politicks, but as private friends some of them express their great friendship to the religious and civil liberties of America, and their apprehensions that if the sword should be drawn in the controversy on this side the water, it will be soon theirs also.

I would humbly propose to your Honour, and if you shall think proper, to your honourable Assembly, whether—considering the surprising progress of this institution under the smiles of Heaven hitherto, and the fair prospect not only of its great utility to the general and charitable design of it, but also as it is, and likely may long be, an important barrier against the present threatening mischiefs of a Northern enemy—it may not be thought worthy your charitable recommendation of it to the charity and benevolence of the Continental Congress, to be by them recommended to the favour and notice of the pious and charitable of these Colonies.

This may greatly serve the interests of this institution in its present infant, feeble, and deserted state, and not only so, but raise it higher in the esteem of the savage Tribes, which are its first object, and enable me to increase its influence to the good purposes of preserving and increasing that peace and friendship which at present subsists between us and them, and seems to be of very great importance to both. My printed Narrative may give you and other gentlemen some short account of the progress and present state of it, by which you may be able to judge for yourselves of the propriety and expediency of what I here propose. All which I do, with the greatest cheerfulness and confidence, submit to your wise, prudent, and friendly determination. I would not have any thing published or sent abroad which I have hinted, so as to expose my friends at home, who, I find, are cautious in that matter. I am, my honoured and dear Sir, with much esteem and respect, your Honour's most obedient and most humble servant,

ELEAZER WHELOCK.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THOMAS FRASER TO GEORGE ERVING, IN BOSTON, DATED LONDON, MAY 13, 1775.

I thank you most heartily for the great trouble you have given yourself in sending our house, as well as myself, so particular an account of the state of your present unfortunate Country. Sorry, very sorry am I to find so many thousands of its inhabitants act as if they were infatuated, and determined, as much as in them lays, that every thing shall be in confusion. I have for many months flattered myself there was no chance that any blood would be shed on account of the present disagreeable contest. I still hope the wide breach may be healed without proceeding to such extremities, but really I have now my fears. However, trusting that an over-ruling Providence will order every thing for the best, I will patiently wait the event. I am sorry that your trade, as well as ours, is so much interrupted; when it will be otherwise I cannot say. Your brig, the Harmony, lies in our river, and what is to be done with her I cannot say; on her arrival, our J. L. sent his servant with a note to Lord North, acquainting him that the vessel was come, and that he was ready to wait upon his Lordship. I am surprised he has not sent a line; it is probable he may have forgot it. Mr. Lane sends to him again to-morrow. I am the more surprised he has not desired him to come to his house, because he read your letter with great attention, and expressed his uneasiness that the friends of good order laboured under so many inconveniences, which he wished might be avoided in future. You have before been informed of his Lordship saying he was glad your brig was gone forward, because it gave him an opportunity of well considering the application you have made. From his silence, I should apprehend he doth not mean the scheme should be put in execution. He hinted to Mr. Lane, that if permission was given, we must apply to the Admiralty. In short, I wish you success in all your engagements; but whether or no you and I may have reason to have desired that Captain Shayler might come fully loaded with merchandise from hence, is a point that I cannot determine. You must allow that affairs are in a very critical situation; and although a civil war may never break out, yet there has been a great appearance of one. If you should for once lose the profit you expected to make by the Harmony, I hope it will be amply made up to you when matters get settled; then there may be some comfort in executing our friends' commissions. You may believe me when I say I have experienced very little satisfaction for these two years past, and scarce know what course to take with the little business we have left. I trust that when matters once get settled, that Administration will take proper notice of those who have ventured so much to serve them; your friends here will not be backward in promoting your interest on every occasion.

I have neither time nor abilities to enter into the minutiae of things as I could wish. I have a great respect for Mr. Erving, and hope there will ever be a lasting friendship subsisting between us. What the Americans will think of the Restraining Act of the Fishery, &c., I cannot tell; I should think it must bring about universal confusion and anarchy, or a happy and speedy settlement; this last I earnestly wish may take place. Mr. Lane proposes, when he sees Lord North, to desire him to destroy your letter; though, as it had been in his possession many weeks before, presume it can signify but little, especially as I am pretty confident the contents of your letter will never be known to the publick. I am, with great respect, Sir, your most humble servant,

THOMAS FRASER.

TIMOTHY LADD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Goffstown, N. H., May 13, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: After my regards to your Honours with freedom, whereas it is thought there will be a number of soldiers called for out of this Province for the assistance and defence of North America, for our privileges and liberties; I would inform your Honours that if occasion should call for a number, I am ready to serve your Honours in this Government and my Country, for the defence of our privileges and the enjoyment of liberty in America.

If your Honours should call for me, I am ready to serve my Country with all freedom and assistance that I am capable of; as I think it is the duty of all well-wishers to liberty and the North America. Wishing success to liberty, so I subscribe myself your well-wisher and humble servant,

TIMOTHY LADD.

To the Honourable Congress sitting at Exeter.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Ticonderoga, May 14, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: My last was the 11th instant per express, since which a party of men have seized on Crown Point, in which they took eleven prisoners, and found sixty-one pieces of cannon serviceable, and fifty-three unfit for service. I ordered a party to Skenesborough, to take Major Skene, who have made him prisoner, and seized a small schooner, which is just arrived here. I intend setting out in her directly, with a batteau and fifty men, to take possession of the sloop, which, we are advised this morning by the post, is at St. John's, loaded with provisions, &c., waiting a wind for this place. Enclosed is a list of cannon, &c., here, though imperfect, as we have found many pieces not included, and some are on the edge of the lake, covered with water. I am, with the assistance of Mr. Bernard Romans, making preparation at Fort George for transporting to Albany those cannon that will be serviceable to our Army at Cambridge. I have about one hundred men here, and expect more every minute. Mr. Allen's party is decreasing, and the dispute between us subsiding. I am extremely sorry matters have not been transacted with more prudence and judgment; I have done every thing in my power, and put up with many insults to preserve peace and serve the publick. I hope soon to be properly released from this troublesome business, that some more proper person may be appointed in my room; till which I am, very respectfully, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

P. S. Since writing the above, Mr. Romans concludes going to Albany to forward carriages for the cannon, &c., and provisions, which will be soon wanted. I beg leave to observe he has been of great service here, and I think him a very spirited, judicious gentleman, who has the service of the Country much at heart, and hope he will meet proper encouragement.

B. A.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS, NOW SITTING AT WATERTOWN.

Falmouth, May 14, 1775.

HONoured SIR: The Committee of Correspondence in this Town beg leave to inform you, that some time past we received advice from Georgetown, that Colonel Thompson was fitting two vessels there with design to attempt the taking the King's ship Canceaux, stationed in this harbour, commanded by Captain Mowat, a gentleman whose conduct since he has been here has given no grounds of suspicion he had any design to distress or injure us; but on the other hand has afforded his assistance to sundry vessels in distress. As we thought such an attempt had the appearance of laying the foundation for the destruction of this Town, the Committee of Correspondence met, and wrote to the Committee of Correspondence at Georgetown, desiring they would prevent their coming; we also wrote to Colonel Thompson desiring him to desist from such an attempt, as it would throw this Town into the greatest confusion imaginable; we sent an express, and received his answer that he had dropped the design of coming. But on Monday night he landed upwards of sixty men on the back side of a neck of land joining this Town, who came there in a number of boats, and lay undiscovered till about the middle of the next day; at which time Captain Mowat, the Doctor of the ship, and Parson Wiswal, were taking a walk on said neck, when a detachment from Colonel Thompson's party rushed from their concealment, surrounded the gentlemen, and made them prisoners, and conducted them to the Colonel, who was with the main body on the back side of the neck. Captain Hogg, who now commanded the ship, immediately clapped springs on his cables, she laying within musket shot of the Town, and swore if the gentlemen were not released by six o'clock, he would fire on the Town. He fired two cannon, and although there were no shot in them, it frightened the women and children to such a degree, that some crawled under wharves, some ran down cellar, and some out of Town. Such a shocking scene was never presented to view here. The gentlemen who were in custody were conducted to a publick house, where Captain Mowat declared if he was not released it would be the destruction of the Town. Every gentleman present used his utmost endeavours to accommodate the matter. Colonel Thompson consented that a Committee should be chosen, consisting of officers from his party, and gentlemen from the Town, to consult in what manner the affair could be accommodated; but as it was late, the Committee chose to defer the consideration of it till next morning. Captain Mowat then requested he might go on board his ship that night; and he would pawn his word and honour he would return next morning, at what time, and at what place should be appointed. Colonel Thompson consented, provided Colonel Freeman, and Brigadier Preble, would pass their words, and that the several gentlemen should return according to their promise, and also pawn their word and honour if the gentlemen failed coming, that they would deliver themselves up and stand by the consequences; which was consented to. Captain Mowat not coming according to promise, which was to have been at nine o'clock next morning, the sponsors appeared according to promise, and were confined. Captain Mowat wrote to them, and let them know he had fully determined to have complied with his promise, but he had sent his man on shore to carry some dirty linen to his washing-woman, and to bring off some clean; that said man made oath, that two of the body, under arms, one of which swore, by all that was sacred, the moment he came on shore he should have what was in his piece, and the other that he should never return on board again with his life: and that two more of his men made oath, they heard several of the men under arms say, the moment he came on shore they would have his life; this was what he wrote to plead an excuse for not complying with his promise. Colonel Thompson told the two gentlemen under confinement, that he must have some provision and refreshment for his men, which they procured to the amount of thirteen or fourteen Pounds, lawful money, on which they were dismissed. About ten o'clock, he sent an account to them for time and expense, amounting to one hundred and fifty-eight Pounds and eighteen Shillings, lawful money, and gave them till next morning nine o'clock to return an answer, which they did in the negative. He said he would have satisfaction before he left the Town. He then seized all the goods he could find belonging to Captain Coulson and William Tyng, Esquires. They also carried off one boat belonging to Coulson, and one other to Captain Mowat. They also obliged Captain Pote to furnish them with some provisions, and a small matter of cash. They also brought one man on his knees for speaking disrespectfully of the Colonel and his men. Colonel Thompson, we doubt not, is a true friend to his Country, and a man of courage and resolution; but as our Town lays so much exposed to the Navy, that had he succeeded in his attempt, (which there was not the least probability of,) it must have proved the destruction of this Town and the country back, which is now in the greatest distress for want of provisions. We have only related plain facts, that the honourable members of the Provincial Congress may not be imposed on with false accounts, to whom please to communicate this letter. We are, with great esteem, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JEDEDIAH PREBLE, Chairman.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE OF FALMOUTH TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Falmouth, May 15, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: We, the Committee of Correspondence in Falmouth, would beg leave to represent to your Honours the situation and circumstances of this Town and County, and if there is any impropriety in our doing it, your candour will excuse it.

The alarming attempt of Colonel Thompson to take the Ship Canceaux, Captain Henry Mowat commander, now in this harbour, has occasioned great uneasiness in this Town, as it has a tendency to bring on us certain ruin, by the Admiral resenting it in such a manner as to block up our harbour before the time; and we have no force to oppose or prevent it; no fortifications, no ammunition, no cannon; and if provisions are stopped from coming in here, the Town is ruined, as well as the country, which depends upon the Town for supplies, of which at present there is a great scarcity. We think Colonel Thompson's attempt was rash and injurious, if not unjustifiable, as we cannot learn he had any authority from you or the Congress. We are sure it was contrary to the will and without any orders from his superiour officers in the militia; though solicited for by him; and the people here seemed to be laid under contribution by them to subsist his men.

We hope care will be taken that every attack upon our enemies through the Province shall be conducted by proper officers, orderly, regularly, and with proper authority, lest it should occasion a civil war among ourselves. 'Tis true, in defending ourselves, which may be sudden, immediate and resolute opposition, in the best manner that can be suddenly thought of, should be adopted; but we are afraid that if any number of men at any time, and in any manner, may collect together, and attack any thing, or any person they please, every body may be in danger. Sat verbum sapienti.

We are also concerned lest a good deal of confusion should arise from a number of our young men in the country possessing themselves of the enlisting papers lately printed, some calling themselves Colonels, some Majors, appointing their own officers, Adjutants, Chaplains, Chirurgeons, &c., &c., without having, as we can learn, any written orders for so doing; for they seem to contend already who shall be chief officers, and they are uncertain whether the men they enlist are to be stationed here for defence, or to march to Cambridge to make up the Standing Army.

Enlisting papers, we understand, were sent to General Preble, but he not having any written orders did not act in the affair. If the Army can be completed without drawing men from hence, as we have all along been made to understand was the case, we cannot help thinking it would be most prudent; however, we shall not be backward if there is real occasion for men; and in that case we humbly submit whether it would not be best some person or persons should be appointed to conduct the affair according to orders. We hope we shall be excused for thus troubling your Honours, as we were solicited to do it by a number of gentlemen. We are, with great veneration, your Honours' most obedient humble servant,

ENOCH FREEMAN, per order.

To the Honourable the Committee of Safety for the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, Cambridge.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May 18, 1775. }

Ordered, That Colonel Thompson have the following Letter sent him.

"SIR: This Congress has received information that the Committee of Correspondence of the Town of Falmouth, on hearing that you were about making an attack on the Canceaux man-of-war, lying in the harbour of that Town, desired you to forbear any proceedings of that kind, which you promised to do, but that you afterwards took the Captain of said ship-of-war, and detained the Honourable Jedediah Preble and Enoch Freeman, Esquire, as hostages for the return of the said Captain, and that you levied contributions of money and other things from the subjects there, and took a boat belonging to the said Canceaux.

"Though this Congress approves of your general zeal for this Country, yet it appears that your conduct in taking the Captain of the ship against your promise, and your levying money, or other things of the people, is by no means justifiable, and it is therefore expected that you attend the next Congress that shall be held in this Colony, and do your character justice in this matter, and that you return said boat, and stay all further proceedings of this kind in the mean time."

Williamsburgh, Va., May 19, 1775.

On Monday last, May 15, 1775, Captain Montague's detachment of Marines took their departure from this City, and are returned on board the Fowey.

The same day a Council was held at the Capitol, after the breaking up of which, the following Address was made publick:

"To all the good People of VIRGINIA:

"We, His Majesty's faithful subjects, the Council of this Colony, deeply impressed with the most sincere regard for the prosperity of our Country, and the welfare of all its inhabitants, and being desirous, by our example, and by every means in our power, to preserve the peace and good order of the community, can no longer forbear to express our abhorrence and detestation of that licentious and ungovernable spirit that is gone forth, and misleads the once happy people of this Country.

"The Council recommend it to all orders of men to consider seriously what will be the probable consequence of such a conduct as hath been lately pursued, and whether a redress of the grievances complained of will not be more likely to be obtained by gentle, mild, and constitutional methods, than by such intemperate behaviour, which must tend to exasperate and inflame, rather than reconcile the differences that now unhappily subsist.

"The Council wish, upon this occasion, that all odious distinctions may be laid aside, and that they may be considered not as a separate body of men, and having a distinct interest from the rest of their countrymen and fellow-subjects, but, in the light in which they have always regarded themselves, as the watchful guardians of the rights of the people, as well as of the prerogative of the Crown. They are most of them natives of this Country, they have families, they have property, and they trust they have integrity too, which are the best securities men can give to any society for the faithful discharge of their duty.

"Let, then, their exhortations have proper weight and influence among the people; and they plight their faith that they will join heartily with them in the use of such means as shall be judged most salutary and conducive for enforcing obedience to the laws, and supporting the Constitution of their Country, under which it has flourished from its infancy, and for obtaining a happy and speedy conclusion to all our troubles.

"As his Excellency the Governour hath issued his Proclamation for the speedy meeting of the General Assembly, the Council are happy in finding an opportunity will be given the people of representing their grievances in the manner prescribed by the Constitution.

"Signed by order of the Members of the Council:

"JOHN BLAIR, Clerk of the Council."

CHESTER COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for the County of Chester, at the Borough of Chester, May 15, 1775, Anthony Wayne, Esquire, in the chair, the following Resolves were made, viz:

Whereas the British Parliament, instead of hearing our just complaints or showing the least regard to the dutiful and loyal Petition of the late Continental Congress in behalf of America, have proceeded to fresh acts of tyranny and oppression, which, added to an Address of both Lords and Commons to His Majesty, declaring the inhabitants of the Province of Massachusetts-Bay to be in a state of open rebellion, and several of the other Colonies encouragers of the same, have induced the soldiery under the command of General Gage, at Boston, to commence a civil war, by wantonly firing upon and murdering a number of the inhabitants of that Province: And whereas the said Address militates equally against all the inhabitants of the other Colonies, who have the virtue to refuse obedience to laws and measures destructive to the best rights and liberties of America, which, if suffered to take effect, must inevitably reduce these Colonies to a state of abject slavery, from which, in all probability, no human efforts would ever be able to rescue them; and although we will not yield to any of our fellow-subjects in point of duty and loyalty to our most gracious Sovereign, yet we cannot be so far negligent of our own happiness as totally to neglect providing for our common safety:

Therefore resolved unanimously, 1st. That it is the indispensable duty of all the freemen of this County immediately to form and enter into Associations for the purpose of learning the military art; and that they provide themselves with proper Arms and Ammunition, to be ready in case of emergency to defend our liberty, property, and lives, against all attempts to deprive us of them. And we solemnly engage to promote such Associations to the utmost of our power.

2d. Resolved, nem. con., That no Powder be expended in this County, except on emergent occasions, and the store and shop-keepers are requested not to dispose of any, except to some one or more of this Committee, who are ordered to purchase the same.

3d. Resolved, nem. con., That this Committee, confiding in the wisdom and virtue of the Continental Congress now sitting in Philadelphia, will adopt, and use their utmost endeavours to carry into execution, all such measures as the said Congress shall recommend for the preservation of American liberty.

4th. Resolved, nem. con., It is earnestly recommended to every subscriber in this County for the relief of the poor in Boston, that they immediately pay the same, as it is much wanted for the benevolent purposes intended.

5th. Resolved, nem. con., That each member of this Committee will give his attendance at the Borough of Chester on the 31st of this instant, at ten o'clock, A. M., in order to consult the Justices, Grand Jury, and Board of Commissioners and Assessors, on ways and means to procure a proper quantity of Arms and Ammunition for the use of this County.

The Committee then adjourned to the time and place above-mentioned. By order of the Committee:

FRANCIS JOHNSTON, Secretary.

Burlington, Monday, May 15, 1775.

Pursuant to his Excellency's several prorogations of the General Assembly from time to time till this day, the House met.

Azariah Dunham, Esq., being duly returned a Representative to serve in the General Assembly for the County of Middlesex, and now attending, was admitted into the House, and took the usual oaths, and made and subscribed the declaration by law appointed, before Cortland Skinner, Esq., thereto authorized by dedimus potestatem.

Ordered, That Mr. Dunham do take his seat in the House.

The House adjourned till three P. M.

The House met.

Ordered, That Mr. Fisher and Mr. Wetherill do wait upon his Excellency and acquaint him that a sufficient number of Members to constitute a House are met, and are ready to receive any thing he may please to lay before them.

Mr. Speaker laid before the House a Letter to him from *William Bolla*n, Benjamin Franklin, and Arthur Lee, Esquires, dated London, December 24, 1774; which was read.

Mr. Speaker also laid before the House a Letter to him from the Honourable John Cruger, Esquire, Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Province of New-York, enclosing their Petition to the King, the Memorial to the House of Lords, and a Representation to the House of Commons, a List of Grievances, and the Resolutions entered into by the General Assembly there, on the eighth of March last; all which were read.

Mr. Fisher reported that Mr. Wetherill and himself waited upon his Excellency with the message of the House according to order, and that his Excellency was pleased to say that the House should hear from him to-morrow morning.

The House adjourned till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, May 16, 1775.

The House met and adjourned till three P. M.

The House met.

A Message from his Excellency by Mr. Deputy Secretary Pettit:

Mr. SPEAKER: His Excellency is in the Council Chamber, and requires the immediate attendance of the House.

Whereupon Mr. Speaker left the Chair, and, with the House, went to wait upon his Excellency; and being returned, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and reported that the House had waited on his Excellency, who was pleased to make a Speech to the Council and House of Assembly, of which Mr. Speaker said he had, to prevent mistakes, obtained a copy. And the same, by order of the House, was read, and is as follows, viz:

Gentlemen of the Council, and Gentlemen of the Assembly:

The sole occasion of my calling you together at this time, is to lay before you a Resolution of the House of Commons, wisely and humanely calculated to open a door for the restoration of that harmony between Great Britain and her American Colonies, on which their mutual welfare and happiness so greatly depend.

This Resolution having already appeared in the publick papers, and a great variety of interpretations put upon it, mostly according to the different views and dispositions by which men are actuated, and scarcely any having seen it in its proper light, I think I cannot, at this critical juncture, better answer the gracious purposes of His Majesty, nor do my Country more essential service, than to lay before you as full an explanation of the occasion, purport, and intent of it, as is in my power. By this means you, and the good people you represent, will be enabled to judge for yourselves, how far you ought or ought not to acquiesce with the plan it contains, and what steps it will be prudent for you to take on this very important occasion.

You will see in the King's answer to the joint Address of both Houses of Parliament on the seventh of February, how much attention His Majesty was graciously pleased to give to the assurance held out in that Address, of the readiness of Parliament to afford every just and reasonable indulgence to the Colonies, whenever they should make a proper application on the ground of any real grievance they might have to complain of. This Address was accordingly soon after followed by the Resolution of the House of Commons, now laid before you, a circumstance which afforded His Majesty great satisfaction, as it gave room to hope for a happy effect, and would, at all events, ever remain an evidence of their justice and moderation, and manifest the temper which has accompanied their deliberations upon that question, which has been the source of so much disquiet to the King's subjects in America.

His Majesty, ardently wishing to see a reconciliation of the unhappy differences by every means through which it may be obtained, without prejudice to the just authority of Parliament, which His Majesty will never suffer to be violated, has approved the Resolution of his faithful Commons, and has commanded it to be transmitted to the Governors of his Colonies, not doubting that this happy disposition to comply with every just and reasonable wish of the King's subjects in America, will meet with such a return of duty and affection on their part, as will lead to a happy issue of the present dispute, and to a re-establishment of the publick tranquillity on those grounds of equity, justice, and moderation, which this Resolution holds forth.

What has given the King the greater satisfaction in this Resolution, and the greater confidence in the good effects of it, is, his having seen that, amidst all the intemperance into which a people, jealous of their liberties, have been unfortunately misled, they have nevertheless avowed the justice, the equity, and the propriety of subjects of the same State contributing, according to their abilities and situation, to the publick burdens; and this Resolution, it is thought, holds no proposition beyond that.

It would probably be deemed unjust to suppose that any of the King's subjects in the Colonies can so far forget the benefits they have received from the Parent State as not to acknowledge that it is to her support, held forth at the expense of her blood and treasure, that they principally owe that security which hath raised them to their present state of opulence and importance. In this situation, therefore, justice requires that they should, in return, contribute according to their respective abilities to the common defence; and their own welfare and interest demand that civil establishment should be supported with becoming dignity.

It has been the care, and it is the firm determination of Parliament to see that both these ends are answered, and their wisdom and moderation have suggested the propriety of leaving to each Colony to judge of the ways and means of making due provision for these purposes, reserving to themselves a discretionary power of approving or disapproving what shall be offered.

The Resolution neither points out what the civil establishment should be, nor demands any specifick sum in aid of the publick burdens. In both these respects it leaves full scope for that justice and liberality which may be expected from Colonies that, under all their prejudices, have never been wanting in expressions of an affectionate attachment to the mother Country, and a zealous regard for the general welfare of the British Empire; and therefore the King trusts that the provision they will engage to make for the support of civil government, will be adequate to the rank and station of every necessary officer, and that the sum to be given in contribution to the common defence will be offered on such terms, and proposed in such a way, as to increase or diminish according as the publick burdens of Great Britain are from time to time augmented or reduced, in so far as these burdens consist of taxes and duties which are not a security for the National Debt.

By such a mode of contribution, the Colonies will have full security that they can never be required to tax themselves, without Parliament's taxing the subjects in Great Britain in a far greater proportion; and it may be relied upon, that any proposition of this nature, made by any of the Colonies, and accompanied with such a state of their faculties and ability, as may evince the equity of the proposal, will be received with every possible indulgence; provided it be at the same time unaccompanied with any declarations, and unmixed with any claims which will make it impossible for the King, consistently with his own dignity, or for Parliament, consistently with their constitutional rights, to receive it. But it is not supposed that any of the Colonies will, after this example of the temper and moderation of Parliament, adopt such a conduct. On the contrary, the pleasing hope is cherished that the publick peace will be restored, and that the Colonies will enter into the consideration of the Resolution of the House of Commons with that calmness and deliberation which the importance of it demands, and with that good will and inclination to a reconciliation, which are due to the candour and justice with which Parliament has taken up this business, and at once declared to the Colonies what will be ultimately expected from them.

It has been already observed that the King entirely approves the Resolution of the House of Commons, and I have His Majesty's commands to say, that a compliance therewith by the General Assembly will be most graciously considered by His Majesty, not only as a testimony of their reverence for Parliament, but also as a mark of their duty and attachment to their Sovereign, who has no object nearer to his heart than the peace and prosperity of his subjects in every part of his Dominions. At the same time I must tell you His Majesty considers himself as bound, by every tie, to exert those means the Constitution has placed in his hands for preserving that Constitution entire, and to resist, with firmness, every attempt to violate the rights of Parliament, to distress and obstruct the lawful commerce of his subjects, or to encourage in the Colonies ideas of independence inconsistent with their connexion with Great Britain.

Here, gentlemen, you have a full and candid state of the disposition and expectations of His Majesty and the Parliament. They require nothing of America but what the Colonies have repeatedly professed themselves ready and willing to perform. A late Assembly of this Province, in their Petition to the King in 1766, express themselves thus: "As no danger can approach Britain without giving us the most sensible alarm, so your Majesty may be assured, that with filial duty we shall ever be ready to afford all the assistance in our power, and stand or fall with that Kingdom from which we boast our descent, and to which we are attached by the strongest ties of duty, gratitude and affection." And in a subsequent Petition they say: "Very far it is from our intentions to deny our subordination to that august body, (the Parliament,) or our dependence on the Kingdom of Great Britain. In these connexions, and in the settlement of our liberties under the auspicious influence of your Royal House, we know our happiness consists; and, therefore, to confirm those connexions, and to strengthen this settlement, is at once our interest, duty, and delight."

Similar declarations have been repeatedly made in other Colonies. The following vote was passed in the Assembly of Pennsylvania, to wit: "The House, taking into consideration the many taxes their fellow-subjects in Great Britain are obliged to pay towards supporting the dignity of the Crown, and defraying the necessary and contingent charges of the Government, and willing to demonstrate the fidelity, loyalty, and affection of the inhabitants of this Province to our gracious Sovereign, by bearing a share of the burden of our fellow-subjects, proportionable to our circumstances, do, therefore, cheerfully and unanimously resolve that three thousand Pounds be paid for the use of the King, his heirs and successors, to be applied to such uses as he in his royal wisdom shall think fit to direct and appoint." And the said three thousand Pounds was afterwards paid into His Majesty's Exchequer by the Agent of the Province accordingly.

Nor can I avoid mentioning what was done in the Convention of Committees from every County in Pennsylvania, who met in July last for the express purpose of giving instructions to their Representatives in Assembly on this very subject. Several of these instructions manifest such a candour and liberality of sentiment, such just ideas of the importance of our connexion with Great Britain, and point out so rational a method to be pursued for obtaining a redress for the supposed grievances, (previous to any attempts to distress the trade of that Kingdom,) that it is greatly to be regretted that the conduct of America, in a matter of such vast importance to its future welfare, had not been regulated by the principles and advice they suggested. In those instructions, speaking of the powers Parliament had claimed and lately exercised, the Convention say: "We are thoroughly convinced they will prove unfailing and plentiful sources of dissensions to our mother Country and these Colonies, unless some expedients can be adopted to render her secure of receiving from us every emolument that can, in justice and reason, be expected; and us secure in our lives, properties, and an equitable share of commerce. Mournfully revolving in our minds the calamities that, arising from these dissensions, will most probably fall on us and our children, we will now lay before you the particular points we request of you to procure, if possible, to be finally decided, and the measures that appear to us most likely to produce such a desirable period of our distresses and dangers." Then, after enumerating the particular Acts of Parliament, which they consider as grievances, and desire to have repealed, they add: "In case of obtaining these terms, it is our opinion that it will be reasonable for the Colonies to engage their obedience to the Acts of Parliament, commonly called the Acts of Navigation, and to every other Act of Parliament declared to have force at this time in these Colonies, other than those above mentioned, and to confirm such Statutes by Acts of the several Assemblies. It is also our opinion that, taking example from our mother Country in abolishing the Courts of Wards and Liveries, tenures in capite, and by Knights' service and purveyance, it will be reasonable for the Colonies, in case of obtaining the terms before mentioned, to settle a certain annual revenue on His Majesty, his heirs and successors, subject to the control of Parliament, and to satisfy all damages done to the East-India Company. This our idea of settling a revenue, arises from a sense of duty to our Sovereign, and of esteem for our mother Country. We know and have felt the benefits of a subordinate connexion with her. We neither are so stupid as to be ignorant of them, nor so unjust as to deny them. We have also experienced the pleasures of gratitude and love, as well as advantages from that connexion. The impressions are not erased. We consider her circumstances with tender concern. We have not been wanting, when constitutionally called upon, to assist her to the utmost of our abilities, inasmuch that she has judged it reasonable to make us recompenses for our over-strained exertions; and we now think we ought to contribute more than we do to the alleviation of her burdens. Whatever may be said of these proposals on either side of the Atlantic, this is not a time either for timidity or rashness. We perfectly know that the great cause now agitated is to be conducted to a happy conclusion only by that well-tempered composition of counsels which firmness, prudence, loyalty to our Sovereign, respect to our Parent State, and affection to our native Country, united, must form." "In case of war, or in any emergency of distress, we shall also be ready and willing to contribute all aids within our power. And we solemnly declare, that on such occasions, if we, or our posterity, shall refuse, neglect, or decline thus to contribute, it will be a mean and manifest violation of a plain duty, and a weak and wicked desertion of the true interests of this Province, which ever have been, and must be, bound up in the prosperity of our Mother Country. Our union, founded on mutual compacts and mutual benefits, will be indissoluble; at least more firm than an union perpetually disturbed by disputed rights and retorted injuries." I could quote several more passages from these instructions, which are expressive of the same honest and generous sentiments with regard to Great Britain, but I shall only make one more extract, and that respecting the mode which they recommended to be pursued for the redress of grievances, viz: "But other considerations have weight with us. We wish every mark of respect to be paid to His Majesty's administration. We have been taught, from our youth, to entertain tender and brotherly affections for our fellow-subjects at home. The interruption of our commerce must greatly distress great numbers of them. This we earnestly desire to avoid. We therefore request that the Deputies you shall appoint may be instructed to exert themselves at the Congress, to induce the Members of it to consent to make a full and precise state of grievances, and a decent, yet firm claim of redress, and to await the event before any other step is taken. It is our opinion that persons should be appointed and sent home to present this state and claim at the Court of Great Britain." After mentioning their confidence in the intended General Congress, and their resolution to abide their determinations for the sake of unanimity, they declare that it is "with a strong hope and trust that they will not draw this Province into any measure judged by us, who must be better acquainted with its state than strangers, highly inexpedient. Of this kind, we know any other stoppage of trade, but of that with Great Britain, will be. Even this step we should be extremely afflicted to see taken by the Congress, before the other mode, above pointed out, is tried."

Happy would it have been at this day, in all probability, if some such healing measure had been pursued. Some plan of union, or proposal of "a mutual compact" for "mutual benefit," was the grand object which every honest man in the Colonies had at heart. An imperfect one (if not too glaringly so) was better than none, as it would, if it had answered no other purpose, have laid a foundation for negotiation and treaty. It has been lately observed in Parliament, "That it does not appear the Colonies were seriously inclined to come into any reasonable terms of accommodation, as no body was authorized to make any proposals to that effect."

However, it can be of little avail now to animadvert on past transactions. Who has been most in the right or most in the wrong, can never be satisfactorily decided. Many things will ever happen in the course of a long continued dispute, which good men of both parties must reflect on with pain, and wish to have buried in oblivion. In the present situation of affairs we should only look forward, and endeavour to fall on some expedient that may avert the impending danger. To effect this desirable purpose, a plan is now formed and recommended to you by His Majesty, containing terms greatly corresponding with the avowed sentiments of many of the Colonies, and which, I think, can only want to be rightly understood in order to be generally adopted. It does not require from the people of this Country any formal acknowledgment of the right of taxation in the Parliament. It waives all dispute on that head, and suspends the exercise of it forever, if so long the Colonies shall perform their part of the contract. It does not even require as a preliminary that the Non-Importation and Non-Exportation Agreements shall be abolished. It comes before you in the old accustomed manner, by way of requisition, being approved and adopted by the King, who has directed his several Governours to signify to the respective Assemblies his desire that they should grant such aids for the common defence, and the support of Government within the Colonies, as shall appear to them just and equitable, and proportionate to their abilities. His Majesty and the Parliament, 'tis true, are to judge whether the aids which each Colony may offer are worth acceptance, or adequate to their respective abilities, as they did during the course of the last war, very much to the satisfaction of those Colonies who exerted themselves; often making them a compensation "according as their active vigour and strenuous efforts respectively appeared to merit." The necessity of some such supreme judge is evident from the very nature of the case, as otherwise some Colonies might not contribute their due proportion. During the last war I well remember it was ardently wished by some of the Colonies that others who were thought to be delinquent might be compelled, by Act of Parliament, to bear an equal share of the public burdens. It appears, by the minutes of Assembly, in March and April, 1758, that some of the neighbouring Colonies thought New-Jersey had not, at that time, contributed its due share towards the expenses of the war, and that President Reading (the then Commander-in-Chief of the Colony) was of the same opinion. And since my administration, when the Assembly, in 1764, was called upon to make provision for raising some Troops on account of the Indian war, they declined doing it for some time but "on condition a majority of the Eastern Colonies, as far as to include Massachusetts-Bay, should come into His Majesty's requisition on the occasion." But as none of the Assemblies of the New-England Governments thought themselves nearly concerned, nothing was granted by them, and the whole burden of the expeditions then carried on fell upon Great Britain and three or four of the middle Colonies; with which this Colony was dissatisfied, and the Assembly complained of it in one of their Addresses to me on the occasion. But what fully evinces that there is no design of oppression or extortion in the proposed reservation in His Majesty and his Parliament of the right of approving the aids which may be offered by the Colonies, is His Majesty's gracious assurance that the propositions on this head will be received with every possible indulgence. The moneys raised by the several Colonies as their proportion to the common defence, is made subject to the disposal of Parliament, as in justice it ought, as they furnish the whole sum which may be wanted for that necessary purpose, according to the estimates annually laid before them by the Crown, besides making provision for the civil list and National Debt, towards which the Colonies are not asked to contribute. The Army and Navy establishment, it is well known, is necessarily increased since the extension of the British Dominions in America. The whole American civil and military establishment, as paid by Great Britain, after the peace of Aix-la-Chapelle, was, it is said, only £70,000 sterling; but since the last peace, it amounts to upwards of £350,000. As this great additional expense was chiefly incurred on an American account, it cannot but be reasonable that America should pay some part of it. To remove every objection that other taxes may be raised upon America, under the colour of regulations on commerce, the produce of all such duties is to be carried to the account of that Province where it is to be levied.

We have now, thank Heaven, a happy opportunity of getting entirely rid of this unnatural contest, by only complying with what I think has been fully proved and acknowledged to be our indispensable duty. Wherever a people enjoy protection, and the other common benefits of the State, nothing can be more reasonable than that they should bear their share of the common burden.

It is much to be lamented that there is so much truth in the observation, that mankind generally act, not according to right, but according to the present interest, and most according to present passion. In the present case there are no difficulties but what may be easily surmounted, if men come together sincerely disposed to serve their Country, unbiassed by any sinister views or improper resentments. This, gentlemen, I trust will be found to be your disposition in this most alarming situation of publick affairs. Let me conjure you, however, not to come to any precipitate resolutions respecting the plan of accommodation now communicated to you. I have no objection to give you any time you may think necessary for the due consideration of it. It is, indeed, a concern of a more interesting nature than ever before came under the consideration of an American Assembly. If it is adopted, all will yet be well. If it is totally rejected, or nothing similar to it proposed, or made the basis of a negotiation, it will necessarily induce a belief of what has been lately so often mentioned in publick, "That it is not a dispute about modes of taxation, but that the Americans have deeper views, and mean to throw off all dependance upon Great Britain, and to get rid of every control of their Legislature." Should such sentiments ever prevail, they cannot but have the most fatal effects to this Country. I am, however, fully convinced, that the body of the people in the Colonies do not even entertain a wish of the kind. Rather than lose the protection of Great Britain, America, were it ever so constitutionally and allowedly independent, would find it for its advantage to purchase that protection at an expense far beyond what Great Britain would ever think of requiring while we show her that regard and obedience to which she is justly entitled, and which our own interest and safety should prompt us to show, if there were no other considerations.

Taxation being the principal source of the present disorders, when that important point is once settled, every other subject of complaint which has grown out of it will, no doubt, of course, be removed; for you may rely, gentlemen, that notwithstanding the many inimical and oppressive designs which the jealousies and suspicions of incensed people have attributed to Government, yet it is evident, from the whole tenour of the letters which I have had the honour to receive from the King's Ministers, that His Majesty and they have nothing more at heart than to have these unhappy differences accommodated on some just and honourable plan, which shall at the same time secure the liberties of the people, without lessening the necessary power and dignity of Parliament.

God grant that the Colonies may manifest the same laudable disposition, and that a hearty reconciliation and harmony may take place of the present confusion and dissension.

WM. FRANKLIN.

Council Chamber, May 16, 1775.

Mr. Deputy Secretary laid before the House the copy of an Address to the King from the Lords and Commons of Great Britain, of the 7th of February, 1775, together with His Majesty's Answer; also, a copy of a Resolution of the Honourable House of Commons of Great Britain, of the 20th of February last; all which were read.

Ordered, That his Excellency's Speech and the said Papers be read a second time.

Mr. Tucker laid before the House a printed Pamphlet lately received from Great Britain, entitled "The Parliamentary Register, No. 5," containing, among other things, a Paper entitled "An extract of a Letter from Governour Franklin to the Earl of Dartmouth, dated Perth-Amboy, February 1, 1775; received February 28," in these words, viz:

"The General Assembly of this Province are now sitting, being convened on the 11th of last month, in order to transact the publick business.

"At the opening of the session I had some hopes of prevailing on the House of Representatives not to approve of the proceedings of the General Congress held at Philadelphia, for which purpose a paragraph of my speech was particularly calculated. But the Delegates from this Province took the alarm, and used their utmost endeavours with the members to persuade them to give their approbation to those proceedings, as otherwise one grand end the Congress had in view would be entirely frustrated, namely: the preserving an appearance of unanimity throughout the Colonies, without which they said their measures could not have that weight and efficacy with the Government and people of Great Britain, as was intended.

"The scheme, however, met with some opposition in the House, every member proposing to defer the consideration of it to a future time, or to give their approbation to only some parts of the proceedings of the Congress; but by the artful management of those who espoused the measure, it was carried through precipitately the very morning it was proposed, as your Lordship will see by a copy of their Resolutions now enclosed, which were all previously prepared for the purpose."

Which Extract was read, and ordered to be read a second time.

Mr. Crane had leave of absence upon special occasion.

The House adjourned till nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Wednesday, May 17, 1775.

The House met.

His Excellency's Speech, together with the Papers accompanying the same, were read the second time, and committed to a Committee of the Whole House.

Mr. Speaker laid before the House a Letter to him from John Smith, Esquire, Treasurer of the Eastern Division, dated Perth-Amboy, May 13, 1775, setting forth that he had attended the Justices and Freeholders of Middlesex, with the sum of Nine Thousand Five Hundred and Ninety-Eight Pounds and Three Shillings, to be sunk according to law on the Wednesday preceding; but that no sufficient number to constitute a Board had attended; and praying that an act of Assembly may immediately pass to cancel and burn said Bills; which Letter was read, and ordered a second reading.

The House adjourned till three, P. M.

The House met.

The House, according to Order, resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole House on His Excellency's Speech and the Papers accompanying the same, and after some time spent therein, Mr. Speaker resumed the Chair, and Mr. Fisher, Chairman of the Committee, reported that the Committee had gone through the matters to them referred, and had come to one Resolution, which he was ready to report whenever the House will please to receive the same.

Ordered, That the Report be made immediately.

Whereupon Mr. Fisher reported the Resolution of the Committee, as follows, viz:

Resolved, That an humble Address be presented to his Excellency in answer to his Speech; to which the House agreed.

Ordered, That Mr. Fisher, Mr. Wetherill, Mr. Kinsey, Mr. Paxon, and Mr. Lawrence, be a Committee to prepare and bring in the draught of an Address to his Excellency, in answer to his Speech.

Joseph Barton, Esquire, being duly returned a Representative in Assembly for the County of Sussex, and now attending, was admitted into the House, and took the usual oaths, and made and subscribed the Declaration by law appointed, before Cortland Skinner, Esquire, authorized by dedimus potestatum.

Ordered, That Mr. Barton do take his seat in the House.

The House adjourned till ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Thursday, May 18, 1775.

The House met.

The printed Paper, entitled "An Extract of a Letter from Governour Franklin to the Earl of Dartmouth, dated Perth-Amboy, February 1, 1775; received February 28," was read the second time.

Ordered, That Mr. Hinchman, Mr. Mehelm, Mr. Combs, Mr. Taylor, and Mr. Holme, be a Committee to prepare and bring in the draught of a Message to his Excellency, to request his Excellency would be pleased to inform this House whether the said Extract is authentick or not.

The House adjourned till three, P. M.

The House met.

Mr. Hinchman, from the Committee appointed this morning, brought in the draught of a Message to his Excellency, according to order; which was read, amended, agreed to, and ordered to be engrossed.

The engrossed Message to his Excellency was read and compared, and the same is as follows, viz:

Ordered, That Mr. Dey and Mr. Hewlings do wait upon his Excellency with the following Message:

May it please your Excellency:

A printed Pamphlet lately received from Great Britain, entitled "The Parliamentary Register, No. 5," has been laid before this House, containing, among other things, a Paper entitled "An Extract of a Letter from Governor Franklin to the Earl of Dartmouth, dated Perth-Amboy, February 1, 1775; received February 28," in these words:

"The General Assembly of this Province are now sitting, being convened on the 11th of last month, in order to transact the publick business.

We request your Excellency will be pleased to inform this House whether the said Extract contains a true representation of the words or substance of the Letter, or any part of the Letter by your Excellency written relative to the proceedings of the last session of Assembly.

By order of the House:

House of Assembly, May 18, 1775.

Mr. Fisher, from the Committee on the Address to his Excellency, brought in a draught; which was read, and ordered a second reading.

Mr. Deputy Secretary Pettit laid before the House His Majesty's royal approbation of two Acts of Assembly of this Province; and also His Majesty's royal disallowance of one other Act, in these words, viz:

"At the Court at St. James's, the 20th day of February, 1775. Present: The King's Most Excellent Majesty, Lord President, Duke of Queensbury, Duke of Newcastle, Earl of Denbigh, Earl of Rochford, Earl of Dartmouth, Viscount Falmouth.

"Whereas, by commission under the great seal of Great Britain, the Governour, Council, and Assembly of His Majesty's Colony of New-Jersey are authorized and empowered to make, constitute, and ordain Laws, Statutes, and Ordinances for the publick peace, welfare, and good government of the said Colony, which Laws, Statutes, and Ordinances are to be as near as conveniently may be, agreeable to the Laws and Statutes of this Kingdom, and are to be transmitted to His Majesty for his royal approbation or disallowance: And whereas, in pursuance of the said powers, two Acts were passed in the said Colony in the last session of the General Assembly there, which have been transmitted, entitled as follows, viz:

"An Act for striking One Hundred Thousand Pounds in Bills of Credit, and directing the mode for sinking the same.

"An Act for the relief of Abner Hatfield, an insolvent debtor.

"Which Acts, together with the representation from the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations thereupon, having been referred to the consideration of a Committee of the Lords of His Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council for Plantation Affairs, the said Lords of the Committee did this day report as their opinion to His Majesty, that the said Acts were proper to be approved. His Majesty taking the same into consideration, was pleased, with the advice of his Privy Council, to declare his approbation of the said Acts; and pursuant to His Majesty's royal pleasure thereupon expressed, the said Acts are hereby confirmed, finally enacted, and ratified accordingly; whereof the Governour or Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's said Colony of New-Jersey, for the time being, and all others whom it may concern, are to take notice and govern themselves accordingly. G. CHETWYND."

"At the Court at St. James's, the 20th day of February, 1775. Present: The King's Most Excellent Majesty, Lord President, Duke of Queensbury, Duke of Newcastle, Earl of Denbigh, Earl of Rochford, Earl of Dartmouth, Viscount Falmouth.

"Whereas, by commission under the great seal of Great Britain, the Governour, Council, and Assembly of His Majesty's Colony of New-Jersey are authorized and empowered to make, constitute, and ordain Laws, Statutes, and Ordinances for the publick peace, welfare, and good government of the said Colony, which Laws, Statutes, and Ordinances are to be as near as conveniently may be, agreeable to the Laws and Statutes of this Kingdom, and are to be transmitted for His Majesty's royal approbation or disallowance: And whereas, in pursuance of the said powers, an Act was passed in the said Colony in the last session of General Assembly, and transmitted, entitled as follows, viz:

"An Act for lowering the interest of Money to Six per Cent. within this Colony.

"Which Act, together with a representation from the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations thereupon, having been referred to the consideration of a Committee of the Lords of His Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council, the said Lords of the Committee did this day report as their opinion to His Majesty, that the said Act ought to be disallowed. His Majesty, taking the same into consideration, was pleased, with the advice of his Privy Council, to declare his disallowance of the said Act; and pursuant to His Majesty's royal pleasure thereupon expressed, the said Act is hereby disallowed, declared void, and of none effect; whereof the Governour or Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's said Colony of New-Jersey, for the time being, and all others whom it may concern, are to take notice and govern themselves accordingly. G. CHETWYND."

The House adjourned till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Friday, May 19, 1775.

The House met.

The Address to his Excellency was read the second time, and committed to a Committee of the Whole House.

The House accordingly resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole House on the Address, and after some time spent therein, Mr. Speaker resumed the Chair, and Mr. Fisher, Chairman of the Committee, reported that the Committee had gone through the Address, and had made sundry amendments to the same; and by leave of the House Mr. Fisher reported the Address with the amendments; which were read; and the Address being further amended in the House, was agreed to.

Ordered, That the said Address as amended and agreed to, be engrossed.

The House adjourned till three, P. M.

The House met.

The engrossed Address to his Excellency was read and compared.

Ordered, nem. con., That Mr. Speaker do sign the same.

Ordered, That Mr. Tucker and Mr. Hinchman do wait upon his Excellency, and desire to be informed when his Excellency will be attended by the House with their Address.

Colonel Ford had leave of absence on urgent business.

Mr. Tucker reported that Mr. Hinchman and himself waited on his Excellency according to order, and that his Excellency was pleased to say the House should hear from him.

The House adjourned till nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

The House met.

Saturday, May 20, 1775.

A Message from his Excellency, by Mr. Deputy Secretary Pettit:

Gentlemen:

As the Honourable Samuel Smith, Esquire, has resigned his office of Treasurer of the Western Division, I now inform you that I have, with the advice of the Council, appointed Joseph Smith, Esquire, to that office; which appointment, I doubt not, will be to your satisfaction.

WM. FRANKLIN.

Burlington, May 20, 1775.

Which was read; and thereupon a certified copy of the Bond entered into by the said Joseph Smith, Esq., being laid before the House, executed according to law,

Resolved, That this House is entirely satisfied with the security therein mentioned.

It also appearing that the late Treasurer hath paid into the hands of the said Joseph Smith, Esquire, the sum of Six Thousand One Hundred and Sixty-Six Pounds Fourteen Shillings and Eight Pence, the balance of the said late Treasurer's accounts, as settled by the Committees of the Council and this House, together with all books, papers, &c., belonging to the Colony:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this House that the late Treasurer's Bond be taken off the files, cancelled, and delivered to him.

It also appearing that the Chest heretofore used for keeping the publick money, &c., is private property,

Ordered, That the present Treasurer do procure a proper and strong Iron Chest for that purpose; and upon his exhibiting an account of the expense thereof,

Resolved, That this House will make provision to defray the said expense.

A Message from his Excellency, by Mr. Deputy Secretary Pettit:

Mr. Speaker:

His Excellency is in the Council-Chamber, and requires the immediate attendance of the House.

Whereupon Mr. Speaker left the Chair, and with the House went to wait upon his Excellency in the Council-Chamber, when he addressed the Governour in the words, or to the effect following:

"I am ordered by the House of Assembly to deliver to your Excellency their Address, which being different from my sentiments, I think it necessary thus publicly to declare it; a step I should not have taken, had I been permitted to enter my dissent on the Minutes of the House."

Having delivered the Address, and being returned, Mr. Speaker resumed the Chair, and reported that the House had waited on his Excellency with their Address, in these words, viz:

To his Excellency WILLIAM FRANKLIN, Esquire, Captain-General, Governour, and Commander-in-Chief in and over His Majesty's Colony of NOVA-CESAREA, or NEW-JERSEY, and Territories thereon depending in AMERICA, Chancellor and Vice-Admiral in the same, &c.

The humble Address of the Representatives of the said Colony, in General Assembly convened:

May it please your Excellency:

We, His Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Representatives of the Colony of New-Jersey, in General Assembly convened, have taken under our consideration your Excellency's Speech at the opening of the session, together with the Resolution of the House of Commons accompanying the same, containing a proposition for accommodating of the unhappy differences at present subsisting between our Parent Country and the Colonies.

As the Continental Congress is now sitting to consider of the present critical situation of American affairs; and as this House has already appointed Delegates for that purpose, we should have been glad that your Excellency had postponed the present meeting until their opinion could be had upon the Resolution now offered for our consideration, and to which we have no doubt that a proper attention will be paid; more especially as we cannot suppose you to entertain a suspicion that the present House has the least design to desert the common cause, in which all America appears to be both deeply interested and firmly united, so far as separately, and without the advice of a body in which all are represented, to adopt a measure of so much importance. Until this opinion is known, we can only give your Excellency our present sentiments, being fully of opinion that we shall pay all proper respect to, and abide by, the united voice of the Congress on the present occasion.

Your Excellency is pleased to tell us that this Resolution "has had a variety of interpretations put on it;" "that scarcely any have seen it in its proper light;" and you proceed to give us that explanation of the design and occasion, which you apprehend will enable us and our constituents to judge how far the plan it contains ought to be acquiesced in, and what steps it may be prudent to take in the present situation. We confess that your Excellency has put a construction on the proposition, which appears to us to be new; and if we would be of the opinion that the Resolution "holds no proposition beyond the avowal of the justice, the equity, and the propriety of subjects of the same State contributing, according to their abilities and situation, to the publick burden," and did not convey to us the idea of submitting the disposal of all our property to others in whom we have no choice, it is more than probable that we should gladly embrace the opportunity of settling this unhappy dispute.

Most Assemblies on the Continent have, at various times, acknowledged and declared to the world their willingness not only to defray the charge of the administration of justice, and the support of the civil Government, but also to contribute, as they have hitherto done when constitutionally called upon, to every reasonable and necessary expense for the defence, protection, and security of the whole British Empire; and this Colony in particular hath always complied with his Majesty's requisitions for those purposes. And we do now assure your Excellency that we shall always be ready, according to our abilities and to the utmost of our power, to maintain the interests of His Majesty and of our Parent State. If, then, your Excellency's construction be right, and if a proposal "of this nature" will, as you are pleased to inform us, be received by His Majesty with every possible indulgence, we have hopes that the declaration we now make will be looked on by His Majesty and his Ministers, not only to be similar to what is required from us, but also to be a "basis of a negotiation" on which the present differences may be accommodated—an event which we most ardently wish for.

We have considered the Resolution of the House of Commons. We would not wish to come to a determination that might be justly called precipitate, in the present alarming situation of affairs; but if we mistake not, this Resolution contains no new proposal. It appears to us to be the same with one made to the Colonies the year preceding the passing of the late Stamp Act; at least it is not materially different therefrom. America then did not comply with it; and though we are sincerely disposed to make use of all proper means to obtain the favour of His Majesty and the Parliament of Great Britain, yet we cannot, in our present opinion, comply with a proposition which we really apprehend to give up the privileges of freemen; nor do we want any time to consider whether we shall submit to that which, in our apprehension, will reduce us and our constituents to a state little better than that of slavery.

By the Resolution now offered, if assented to, we think we shall be, to all intents and purposes, as fully and effectually taxed by our fellow-subjects in Great Britain, where we have not any representation, as by any of the late Acts of the British Parliament under which we have been aggrieved; of which we have complained; and from which we have prayed to be relieved; and that, too, in a much greater degree, perhaps, than by all those Acts put together. We cannot consent to subject the property of our constituents to be taken away for services and uses, of the propriety of which we have no right to judge, while to us are only left the ways and means of raising the money. We have always thought and contended, that we had a right to dispose of our property ourselves; and we have always cheerfully yielded our assistance to His Majesty in that way; when the exigencies of affairs required us so to do, and he has condescended to ask it from us. It is the freedom of granting, as well as the mode of raising moneys, which this House cannot voluntarily part with, without betraying the just rights of the Constitution. The present Resolution seems to require us to raise a proportion which a Parliament of Great Britain may at any time think fit to grant. At this time we cannot form any judgment, either of the extent of the proposition, or of the consequences in which the good people of the Colony may be involved by our assent to a provision so indeterminate; for it appears to us to be impossible to judge what proportion or share the people can bear, until we know what situation they will be in when any sum is intended to be raised.

Upon the whole, though sincerely desirous to give every mark of duty and attachment to the King, and to show all due reverence to the Parliament of our Parent State, we cannot, consistent with our real sentiments, and the trust reposed in us, assent to a proposal big with consequences destructive to the publick welfare; and hope that the justice of our Parent Country will not permit us to be driven into a situation, the prospect of which fills us with anxiety and horror.

There may be much truth in the observation, "that mankind generally act not according to right, but according to present interest, and most according to present passion." Yet we trust that our conduct on the present occasion is neither influenced by the one nor the other; and we persuade ourselves that your Excellency is so well acquainted with the people you govern, that it is quite unnecessary for us to make use of any means to convince you of the injustice of the charge, "that the Americans have deeper views, and mean to throw off all dependance on Great Britain, and to get rid of every control of their Legislature."

We heartily pray that the supreme Disposer of events, in whose hands are the hearts of all men, may avert the calamities impending over us, and influence our Sovereign, his Ministry, and the Parliament, so as to induce them to put a stop to the effusion of the blood of the Colonists, who wish always to look upon their fellow-subjects in Great Britain as their brethren, and are really desirous to promote their interests and happiness upon any reasonable terms; and it will give us great pleasure to find your Excellency amongst those who, by just and proper representations of the dispositions of the inhabitants of these Colonies, shall assist in settling of the present unhappy differences. By order of the House:

CORTLAND SKINNER, Speaker.

House of Assembly, May 19, 1775.

To which his Excellency was pleased to make the following Answer:

Gentlemen:

I have done my duty. I lost no time in laying before you the propositions I had received for an amicable accommodation of the present unhappy differences. I gave you as full and candid an explanation of them as I was authorized or enabled to do. Whether those propositions or my explanation of them did or did not contain any thing new, is but little to the purpose. The question is, whether they ought or ought not to be approved, either in whole or in part, or be made the ground of a negotiation; and whether, in the latter case, every Assembly on the Continent ought not to take some active measures to effect an end so desirable. In stating the matter to you, I could have no suspicion that you did not think yourselves competent to the business, and were necessarily to wait the determination of another body. It was but the last session you assured me that you would not "suffer any of the rights vested in you by the Constitution to be wrested out of your hands by any person or persons whatsoever." I shall forbear to point out the inconsistency of this Address with that declaration. Nor shall I aim to convince you of the wrong ideas you have formed of those propositions. Were they ever so rightly understood, or ever so well approved by you, yet, to judge by your own declaration, it could be of no avail. The times are indeed greatly altered. I shall be happy to see some proper attempts made to mend them. My representations and endeavours, from the first commencement of this unnatural dispute to this day, have not been, nor shall they ever be, wanting towards effecting a reconciliation. I am persuaded that if a disposition of this sort is manifested, and the proper steps are pursued by those who have it in their power to take the lead in this important affair on the part of America, it may be easily accomplished to mutual satisfaction. His Majesty, I am sure, would wish to avoid the shedding of the blood of his American, as much as that of his British subjects. They must be all equally dear to him, if they are equally dutiful. The Americans, in general, have been, and I hope will ever prove as well disposed to His Majesty and Family, as the subjects of any other part of the Dominions.

The House adjourned till three, P. M.

The House met.

His Excellency having laid before the House a copy of the Resolution of the honourable the House of Commons of Great Britain, of the 20th of February, 1775, containing a plan formed for the accommodation of the unhappy differences between our Parent State and the Colonies; which plan, under the present circumstances, this House could not comply with and adopt; and yet this House being desirous of making use of all proper means to effect a reconciliation, do recommend it to their Delegates to lay the same plan before the Continental Congress for their consideration.

Ordered, That Mr. Mehelm and Mr. Elmer do go to the Council, and inquire whether they have any business before them; if not, that this House proposes to apply to his Excellency for a dismission.

Mr. Mehelm reported that Mr. Elmer and himself waited on the Council accordingly, who said they had nothing before them.

Ordered, That Mr. Fisher and Mr. Lawrence do wait upon his Excellency, and acquaint him that the House having gone through the business, is desirous of a dismission.

Mr. Fisher reported, that Mr. Lawrence and himself waited upon the Governour accordingly, who was pleased to say the House should hear from him presently.

A Message from his Excellency by Mr. Deputy Secretary Pettii.

A Message to the Assembly.

Gentlemen:

It has been my unhappiness almost every session during the existence of the present Assembly, that a majority of the members of the House have suffered themselves to be persuaded to seize on every opportunity of arraigning my conduct, or somenting some dispute, let the occasion be ever so trifling, or let me be ever so careful to avoid giving any just cause of offence. This, too, has been done with such an eagerness in the promoters of it as can only be accounted for on a supposition that they are either actuated by unmanly private resentment, or by a conviction that their whole political consequence depends upon a contention with their Governour. Such effusions of ill-humour have never yet, however, nor is it likely they ever will, produce any benefit to the Province; on the contrary, they have occasioned great delays and obstructions to the publick business, and consequently been attended with very considerable expense to the people.

In this light, and in no other, can I look upon the proceedings of your House with respect to the matter mentioned in your Message of Thursday. A member receives a pamphlet from England, containing, as is pretended, an extract of a letter from me to the Secretary of State. What does he do with it? Does he come to me, or does he write to me on the subject, or does he even request any other person to inquire of me whether the extract is genuine or not? No, he treasures it up, till the House meets; but either through motives of shame or fear, he does not choose to appear openly in the affair himself. He looks around for some person to take the odium of the intended business off his hands, and presently finds one exactly fitted to his purpose. The pamphlet is accordingly laid before the Assembly, the extract is read, inserted at large on the Minutes, ordered a second reading, and after it had been on record two days, the House at length thought proper to send me a message requesting I would be pleased to inform them "whether the said extract contains a true representation of the words or substance of the letter, or any part of the letter by me written relative to the proceedings of the last session of Assembly."

If such a procedure does not manifest a premeditated affront, and an intention to do me a personal injury, let any man judge, who considers the several steps which have been taken in this affair, the many falsehoods which have been industriously propagated, respecting the contents of the letter, and the present turbulent state of the Province.

Some, if not all of you, must have known that the pamphlet though called the Parliamentary Register, was not a publication authorized by Parliament, or of any more authority than a common magazine or newspaper. Nor can I doubt but that some of you must have seen or heard that what was lately published in that work, as the Speech of the Earl of Chatham, was publicly denied by his Lordship. It is well known to be as much the practice, in England to write and publish speeches which were never spoke, as it is in America to publish extracts of letters which were never wrote by the persons to whom they are attributed.

Besides, gentlemen, as to the particular extract in question, I cannot but flatter myself that I am not so remarkable for writing nonsense and contradictions, but that you might have at least doubted the genuineness of the extract when you saw on the very face of it so glaring an absurdity as could not be supposed to have come from the pen of any man of common sense. Would you not have thought me extremely deficient in the common marks of respect which is due from one gentleman to another, and much more from one branch of the Legislature to another, had I seen a pretended extract of a letter, said to be wrote by you to your Agent, or from him to you, containing evident nonsense and absurdity, and should order it to be read in Council, and entered on the minutes without making any inquiry as to the authenticity of it, until two days after? Would you not have construed such conduct into a designed affront, or suspected that it was calculated to expose you to ridicule, or to promote some intended injury, more especially in times so circumstanced as the present.

I cannot think that you have the least right to a sight of any part of my correspondence with the King's Ministers, and I am convinced that you would deem it a very improper request, were I to ask you to communicate to me your correspondence with the Agent of this Province, at the Court of Great Britain. I will, however, thus far comply with your request as to assure you that "the said extract does not contain a true representation of the words or substance of my letter;" but had you, before you suffered it to be entered on your Minutes, applied to me, either in a private or publick way, I should have had not the least scruple to have let you seen the whole of what I wrote "relative to the proceedings of the last session of Assembly." It has ever been my rule, as it is my duty, to represent matters exactly in the light as they appear to me from the best information I can obtain at the time of writing my despatches. If I afterwards find that I have been mistaken in any thing, I never fail to rectify the mistake as soon as discovered.

On the whole, gentlemen, I have very particular reasons to complain of the treatment I have received on account of this pretended extract. Great pains have been taken to propagate an idea that I wrote a letter to England inimical to the Province or to America in general. After it is produced nothing of the kind appears, nor should I have the least objection to the publication of my whole correspondence with the King's Ministers. You have on your Minutes a copy of a letter from Lord Shelburne, which will shew that the representations I made of the disposition and conduct of the people of this Province, at the time of the Stamp Act, a time somewhat similar to the present, were, to use his Lordship's words, "much to its honour." My sentiments respecting the present transactions I have no scruple to declare do not entirely coincide with those of either party. But I trust that those who know me best will do me the justice to allow that no office or honour in the power of the Crown to bestow, will ever influence me to forget or neglect the duty I owe my Country, nor the most furious rage of the most intemperate zealots induce me to swerve from the duty I owe His Majesty.

WM. FRANKLIN.

1. Resolved, That the laying of the Parliamentary Register before this House, containing a publication said to be an extract of a Letter from Governour Franklin to Lord Dartmouth, so far from doing or carrying an appearance of intending an injury to the character of his Excellency, or deserving of those personal reflections contained in his Message to the House of this day, had, in the opinion of this House, a tendency to do him real service, by giving him an opportunity of exculpating himself from the charge of writing the said Letter or extract, if the charge had been groundless.

2. Resolved, That Mr. Fisher, Mr. Kinsey, Mr. Tucker, Mr. Paxon, and Mr. Hinchman, be a Committee to consider of the said Message; and make report to the next sitting of Assembly.

On the question, Whether the House agrees to the said Resolutions or not? It passed in the affirmative:

Yeas.	Yeas.	Yeas.
Mr. Combs,	Mr. Dey,	Mr. Holme,
Mr. Wetherill,	Mr. Domarest,	Mr. Hand,
Mr. Dunham,	Mr. Winds,	Mr. Eldridge,

Mr. Lawrence,	Mr. Hawlings,	Mr. Mohelm,
Mr. Garritse,	Mr. Paxon,	Mr. Sheppard,
Mr. Fisher,	Mr. Sykes,	Mr. Elmer,
Mr. Rey,	Mr. Hinchman,	Mr. Pettit.

Nay. Mr. Barton.

A Message from his Excellency, by Mr. Deputy Secretary Pettit.

Mr. SPEAKER: His Excellency is in the Council Chamber, and requires the immediate attendance of this House.

Whereupon Mr. Speaker, with the House, waited upon his Excellency, who was pleased to prorogue the General Assembly to the 20th day of June next, then to meet at Burlington.

A Letter, dated Philadelphia, 13th May, 1775, from John Lamb, received and read.

Mr. P. V. B. Livingston, from the Committee of Correspondence reported and read, the draft of an Answer to a Letter, dated Tryon County, 19th April, 1775: also an Answer to one received from Thomas Barclay, dated Philadelphia, May 11th, 1775, which being approved of,

Ordered, That the same be forwarded.

Mr. Remsen moved, seconded by Mr. Laight, in the words following:

Whereas the inhabitants of this City have reposed a trust of great importance in this Committee, which we are bound in honour to discharge with fidelity; and as the purposes of our appointment may in a great measure be defeated unless the members are in a situation to be assembled on sudden emergencies; I therefore move that it be

Resolved, That no member do absent himself out of Town longer than forty-eight hours at a time, without leave first obtained from the Committee, or from the Chairman; and that every member be served with a copy of this Resolve.

The following Address was presented by Captains Lasher, Ritzma, Stockholm, Banker, Fleming, and Lott:

We, the subscribers, who, by the unanimous consent and approbation of many of our fellow-citizens, have formed different companies of Foot, in order to co-operate with the rest of our fellow-citizens in carrying into execution the General Association of the late Continental Congress, do hereby offer our service to the General Committee, cheerfully to take our tour of duty in such military services as the Committee may direct, and to be otherwise subservient to the end of their appointment.

JOHN LASHER, CHRIS. BANKER,
RODOL. RITZMA, EDWARD FLEMING,
ANDREW STOCKHOLM, ABRAHAM P. LOTT.

Ordered, That the Committee of Correspondence be directed to draft an Answer to the above Address.

Committee Chamber, New-York, May 15, 1775.

Resolved, That copies of the Association be lodged at the following places in the respective Wards in this City, to wit:

In the South-Ward, at the house of Mr. John Lasher;
Dock-Ward, at the house of Mr. Gerardus Duyckinck;
East-Ward, at the house of Mr. John Inlay;
West-Ward, at the house of Mr. Peter T. Curtenius;
North-Ward, at the house of Mr. John White;
Montgomerie-Ward, the house of Mr. Petrus Byvanck;
Out-Ward, at the house of Mr. Thomas Ivers;

To the intent, that all such persons who have not yet subscribed the Association, may with the greater convenience do it. And it is hereby recommended to them to make their subscriptions as speedily as possible, as returns of all such as decline are to be made to the Committee.

By order of the Committee:

ISAAC LOW, Chairman.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

New-York, May 15, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We have this moment received by express from Albany, the within authentick intelligence of the fortress of Ticonderoga having been surprised and taken by a detachment of Provincials from Connecticut and the Massachusetts-Bay. And as we do not conceive ourselves authorized to give any opinion upon a matter of such importance, we have thought proper to refer it to the Congress; and that the people of Albany may be acquainted with the sentiments of that Assembly as early as possible, their express, who is the bearer hereof, will carry any despatches the Congress may think proper to send on the occasion to the City of Albany, by a short route from Philadelphia.

We have already wrote to the Committee of Albany in answer to their letters to us, referred to in the enclosed; but it seems our letters were not come to hand.

We are, gentlemen, with great respect, your obedient humble servants. By order of the Committee:

ISAAC LOW, Chairman.

The Honourable Peyton Randolph, Esquire, President of the Continental Congress.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO THE NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

Albany, May 12, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We applied to you on the third instant, for your advice on an application to us for supplying with provisions, &c., some Troops from Connecticut, on their intended attack against Ticonderoga, &c., and it is to our great regret that we have hitherto received no answer, although we pressed it, and have since wrote to you on the subject, by Colonel Schuyler, since which time frequent applications have been made to us on the same subject; and as we are unacquainted with the sentiments of our Colony on this very important enterprise, we have declined interfering.

We have just now received the original of the enclosed copy; by its contents you will see that they have succeeded in surprising Ticonderoga, and that a requisition is made for men and provisions in order to enable them to repair and hold that fortress. Mr. Brown, who was personally in the action, brought the letter, and made the demand, says, that the prisoners were on their way to this City; but that unless they are immediately assisted, they are afraid they will be obliged to abandon the fort, and leave the artillery behind, of which there are about two hundred pieces, great and small. He is dissatisfied with our answer, and went away abruptly, though we told him the circumstances we were in, and that we would immediately despatch an express to you. We hope you will no longer keep us in suspense.

As the Troops in Canada will probably endeavour to retake it, the consequence of this enterprise will probably involve the northern parts of this Colony in the horrors of war and devastation; and therefore we earnestly call on you to furnish us with your advice in this alarming crisis, immediately, by Captain Barent Ten Eyck, who is sent express. We are, gentlemen, your humble servants.

By order of the Committee of the City of Albany.

ABRAHAM YATES, JUN., Chairman.

Mr. Isaac Low, Chairman of the Committee, New-York.

ETHAN ALLEN TO THE ALBANY COMMITTEE.

Ticonderoga, May 11, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I have the inexpressible satisfaction to acquaint you that at day-break of the tenth instant, pursuant to my directions from sundry leading gentlemen of Massachusetts-Bay and Connecticut, I took the fortress of Ticonderoga, with about one hundred and thirty Green Mountain Boys. Colonel Easton with about forty-seven valiant soldiers, distinguished themselves in the action, Colonel Arnold entered the fortress with me side by side. The guard was so surprised, that contrary to expectation they did not fire on us, but fled with precipitancy. We immediately entered the fortress, and took the garrison prisoners, without bloodshed, or any opposition. They consisted of one Captain, and a Lieutenant and forty-two men.

Little more need be said. You know Governour Carleton of Canada will exert himself to retake it; and as your County is nearer than any other part of the Colonies, and as your inhabitants have thoroughly manifested their zeal in the cause of their Country, I expect immediate assistance from you both in men and provisions. You cannot exert yourselves too much in so glorious a cause. The number of men need be more at first, till the other Colonies can have time to muster. I am apprehensive of a sudden and quick attack. Pray be quick to our relief, and send us five hundred men immediately—fail not. From your friend and humble servant,

ETHAN ALLEN, Commander of Ticonderoga.

Abraham Yates, Chairman of the Committee, Albany.

NEWBURGH (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the major part of the Committee of Correspondence and Observation, for the Precinct of Newburgh, in Orange County, New-York, met agreeable to adjournment, at the house of Martin Wyganh, on Monday, the 15th of May, 1775: Wolver Ecker, was chosen Chairman, Cornelius Hasbrouck, Clerk.

This Committee, taking into consideration the present most alarming situation of our publick affairs, occasioned by the bloody measures of a wicked Ministry; and considering the great utility of a General Association being fully signed by every male person, from the age of sixteen and upwards in this Province; and whereas we have reason to lament that a number of persons in this Precinct are so lost to the preservation of themselves and their Country, that they refuse, or neglect to sign the Association with the rest of their neighbours, fellow-sufferers, and countrymen in this Precinct:

1. Resolved, That this Committee, in their several Districts, as they, or the major part of them shall agree respectively, be, and are hereby appointed to wait on such person or persons who have neglected and refused to sign the said Association, and in the most friendly manner to invite them to sign the same.

2. Resolved, That in case any person or persons, being males, and of the age aforesaid, shall refuse to sign the same, or does not come in and sign the same, on or before the 29th of this instant, he or they shall, and are hereby deemed enemies to their Country.

3. Resolved, That any person or persons refusing as aforesaid, that it is the opinion of this Committee, that no person or persons whatsoever shall have any kind of connection or dealings with such person or persons whatsoever; and that whosoever shall have any such connection, ought to be treated in like manner, and be considered as an enemy to his Country, notwithstanding he or they may have signed the Association.

4. Resolved, And we do recommend it to all our neighbouring and adjacent Towns, Precincts, Counties, and Provinces, that they will, in like manner treat such persons as aforesaid.

5. Resolved, That the names of such person or persons, who shall refuse as aforesaid, shall be made publick in the Newspapers.

6. Resolved, That any person or persons owning Negroes in this Precinct shall not, on any account whatever, suffer his or their Negro or Negroes to be absent from his dwellinghouse or farm, after sun-down, or send them out in the day time off their farm without a pass; and in case any Negroes shall be found absent, contrary to the above Resolve, (except it be in return with his or their masters team,) shall be apprehended by any person or persons whatsoever, and brought forthwith before any two or more of this Committee, who shall cause them to receive thirty-five lashes, or any number less, as the said Committee shall judge proper.

7. Resolved, That the above Resolves of the Committee shall be subject to the control of the Provincial and Continental Congresses, to their approbation and disapprobation.

8. Resolved, That we will truly adhere to and obey whatever Resolutions the Continental and Provincial Congresses, or either of them shall resolve and direct, with respect to this Precinct or other matters which are to be observed in general, until such times as His Majesty, and his Lords and Commons shall repeal and disannul all their present tyrannical acts and measures, and again restore us to our former liberties and privileges, which, by law and nature we are entitled to, as natural born subjects.

By order of the Committee:

WOLVER ECKER.

PROVIDENCE (RHODE-ISLAND) TOWN-MEETING.

At a Town-Meeting held at Providence, by adjournment, on Monday, the fifteenth day of May, A. D. 1775, Mr. Joseph Brown, Moderator:

Voted, That the doings of the Town Council, on the matter of the Watch, be approved and accepted, and that Mr. Zephaniah Andrews be, and is hereby appointed to build a guard-house and three watch-boxes in this Town, agreeable to the vote of the Town Council establishing a Watch, and that the said Mr. Andrews advise with Messrs. John Brown and Jonathan Arnold on that matter.

Voted, That the master of the Watch, together with John Brown and Jonathan Arnold, have full power to direct what instrument or instruments the Watch shall be provided with from time to time.

Voted unanimously, That the Committee who were appointed by the Town, at their last meeting, to inquire into the state and preparation of the several inhabitants of this Town, in respect to Fire-Arms and other military stores and accoutrements required by law, as they are not prepared to make their report at this meeting, be, and they are hereby directed to make their report to Colonel John Mathewson, Edward Thürber, and Jonathan Arnold, who are appointed by the Town a Committee to receive the same; and they, together with the aforesaid Committee, are hereby appointed and empowered to purchase, at the expense and on account and risk of the Town, such and so many Arms as shall appear to them necessary to supply all able-bodied men who are by said Committee deemed unable to provide for themselves, and furnish such supplies of military stores and accoutrements as they judge necessary, under certain rules and restrictions to be by them made. And that the said Committee make their report to the Town as soon as they have completed the business assigned them in this vote, together with the regulations which shall be by them made as aforesaid.

And it is further voted, That the said Committee do, as soon as may be after receiving the Report of the first Committee as aforesaid, furnish each Captain of the Militia Companies in this Town with lists of those persons who live within the limits of their respective Companies, that are able to provide themselves with Arms, &c., as the law requires; and that upon receipt thereof it is recommended to them to strictly adhere to the law, and cause all such to provide themselves, or exact their fines for each deficiency.

Voted, That Major Truman and Mr. Paul Allen be a Committee to make up the whole of the Town's stock of Powder and Lead, or procure the same to be made into Cartridges as soon as may be, at the expense of the Town, and when so made, return the same to the Captains of the several Military Companies in this Town.

Voted, That the vote passed in town-meeting on the last Tuesday of August, be reprinted in the Providence Gazette.

Worcester, May 24, 1775.

The week before last, the Falcon, sloop-of-war, was cruising about Cape Cod, and meeting with a wood sloop in ballast, seized her, but promising the Skipper to release him and his vessel if he would give information of any vessel that was just arrived from the West-Indies with a cargo on board; he at length told the Captain of the Falcon that there was a sloop at Dartmouth, which had just arrived; whereupon the Captain of the Falcon, instead of releasing the wood sloop, armed and manned her, and sent her in search of the West-Indiaman. They found the vessel lying at anchor, but her cargo was landed; however, they seized her and carried her off, after putting part of their crew and some guns and ammunition on board. Notice of this getting on shore, the people fitted out a third sloop, with about thirty men and two swivel-guns, and went in pursuit of these royal pirates, whom they came up with at Martha's Vineyard, where they lay at anchor, at about a league's distance from each other; the first surrendered without firing a gun; our people, after putting a number of hands on board, bore down upon the other, which, by this time, had got under sail; but the people in the Dartmouth sloop coming up with her, the pirates fired upon them; the fire was immediately returned, by which three of the pirates were wounded, among whom was the commanding officer. Our people boarded her immediately, and having taken both sloops, carried them into Dartmouth, and sent the prisoners to Cambridge; from thence nine of them were yesterday brought to this Town.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM NEWPORT, RHODE-ISLAND, DATED MAY 10, 1775.

Last Friday the Falcon, Captain Lindsey, took two sloops at Bedford, with intention of sending them to the Islands near the Vineyard, to carry from thence a parcel of sheep to Boston. The Bedford people resented this conduct in such a manner as to immediately fit out two sloops, with thirty men on board, and last Saturday retook them both, with fifteen men on board. In the action there were three of the men-of-war sailors badly wounded, one of whom is since dead. The other thirteen they immediately sent to Taunton Jail.

GROTON (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

Groton, May 15, 1775.

The inhabitants of Groton in town-meeting assembled, the Reverend Samuel Dana offered that to the Town with regard to his political principles and conduct with which the Town voted themselves fully satisfied, and that he ought to enjoy the privileges of society in common with other members; and we hope this, with the following by him subscribed, will be fully satisfactory to the publick.

OLIVER PRESCOTT, ISAAC FARNSWORTH, JAMES PRESCOTT, MOSES CHILD,
JOSIAH SARTELL,

Committee of Correspondence for GROTON.

"I, the subscriber, being deeply affected with the miseries brought on this Country by a horrid thirst for ill-got wealth and unconstitutional power; and lamenting my unhappiness in being left to adopt principles in politics different from the generality of my countrymen, and thence to conduct in a manner that has but too justly excited the jealousy and resentment of the true sons of liberty against me, earnestly desirous at the same time to give them all the satisfaction in my power, do hereby sincerely ask forgiveness of all such for whatever I have said or done that had the least tendency to the injury of my Country, assuring them that it is my full purpose, in my proper sphere, to unite with them in all those laudable and fit measures that have been recommended by the Continental and Provincial Congresses, for the salvation of this Country, hoping my future conversation and conduct will fully prove the uprightness of my present professions.

"SAMUEL DANA.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM GOVERNOUR GAGE TO LORD DARTMOUTH, DATED BOSTON, MAY 15, 1775.

They have been enlisting among the country people as many men as could be collected at forty shillings a man, and we are told they are enlisting them in the other Provinces. If they proceed in their movements it seems impossible to be long before we again come to blows; and from the beginning I have perceived it was the wish and design of the leaders here to bring affairs to that crisis; but so to manage it as to bring the rest of the Colonies to support them. It is astonishing how they have duped the whole Continent.

TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

To the Honourable the Committee of Safety for the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

The Petition of WILLIAM BENT and others, humbly sheweth:

That from various hands we, the subscribers, have obtained beating orders, and have respectively enlisted a company of men, consisting of fifty-six privates; and being all from the same neighbourhood, and doing duty along our seacoast, we are desirous of being immediately formed into a regiment.

And we beg leave most earnestly to move to your Honours, that Colonel Lemuel Robinson, of Dorchester, may be appointed to take the command of us as our Colonel. From the acquaintance we have with this gentleman, and from his known military character, we are induced to think that he is highly worthy the honour and the trust, and therefore are very desirous of being under his command.

Besides, we are concerned for the honour of the County of Suffolk. Present appearances render it suspicious that there are not gentlemen enough in said County sufficiently capacitated to command the Companies raised in it—a thought too degrading. And we are apprehensive that we, or a part of us, shall be put under the command of officers from other Counties; which will be very disagreeable, not only to us, but to our Companies also.

We therefore pray, that for the honour of the County, and for the peace and good order of our Companies, Colonel Lemuel Robinson may have the command of us. And as in duty bound, will ever pray.

PETITION OF JOHN BOICE AND HUGH M'LEAN.

To the Honourable the Congress of the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, assembled at WATERTOWN:

The Petition of JOHN BOICE and HUGH M'LEAN, of MILTON, humbly sheweth:

That your petitioners carry on the business of manufacturers of Paper at Milton, which has been deemed of great utility to the publick; that John Salter, James Calder, Wil- liam Durant, and William Pierse, now enlisted soldiers in the Provincial service, were all of them apprentices to your petitioners, and have attained so great a knowledge in the art of paper making, that their attendance on that business is absolutely necessary to its being carried on; that they have done the principal part of the work at your petitioners' mills for two years past; and unless they are released from the service they are now in, it is impossible for your petitioners to continue this so useful and necessary branch of American manufactures. Wherefore, the petitioners pray that the said John Salter, James Calder, William Durant, and William Pierse, may be, by order of this honourable Congress, dismissed as soon as may be from the service of the Provincial Army. And your petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

JOHN BOICE,
HUGH M'LEAN.

JOSEPH PRIME AND OTHERS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Berwick, May 15, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: This day, on our waiting on Major Wood, on his march to Head-Quarters, we are informed that one Alexander Scammell is appointed Major of the Regiment now raising in the County of York. Mr. Scammell lives in New-Hampshire, and has no property in Berwick or the County of York. We being military officers in said County of York, not attending the County meeting in advising to the field officers, do approve of the choice at said meeting, that is, Johnson Moulton, First Colonel; J. S. Scammon, Lieutenant-Colonel; Daniel Wood, Major.

We are, gentlemen, with esteem, yours, &c.

JEDEDIAH PREBLE TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Falmouth, May 15, 1775.

HONOURED GENTLEMEN: These wait on you by Colonel Phinney, who brought me all the papers necessary for enlisting a Regiment in the County of Cumberland. I advised with the Committee of Correspondence, who was of opinion it would be difficult for our County to spare a Regiment to be moved out of the Province of Maine, as we lay much exposed to the Navy by sea, and the Indians and French on our back settlements, if they should be employed against us; but should be glad to do every thing in our power for the defence of our just rights and dearer liberties. Our men are zealous in the cause of their Country, and ready to venture every thing for the defence of it. Colonel March informs me your Honours have appointed him a Colonel, and gave him orders to raise a Regiment in this County, and to appoint all his officers; this he acquainted me with after I had delivered Colonel Phinney the papers back again, which he brought to me. It is impossible we can spare two Regiments out of this County, and they have both made considerable progress; am much afraid there will be some difficulty in settling the affair. I am persuaded the men in general would prefer Colonel Phinney, and so should I for that reason, as I look on Colonel Phinney to be equal to Colonel March in every respect.

Should have done myself the honour to have waited on you in person, but am still in a poor state of health, and so exercised with the gout that I cannot bear my shoes. I purpose to visit the Camp whenever I am able to undergo the fatigue of so long a journey. I wish courage and conduct in our officers, resolution and a spirit of obedience in our soldiery, and a speedy end of all our troubles. I am your Honours' most obedient humble servant,

JEDEDIAH PREBLE.

LETTER TO THE EASTERN INDIANS.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, May 15, 1775.

FRIENDS AND GOOD BROTHERS: We, the Delegates of the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, being come together in Congress to consider what may be best for you and ourselves to do to get rid of the slavery designed to be brought upon us, have thought it our duty to write you the following Letter:

Brothers, the great wickedness of such as should be our friends, but are our enemies, (we mean the Ministry of Great Britain,) have laid deep plots to take away our liberty and your liberty. They want to get all our money; make us pay it to them when they never earned it; to make you and us their servants, and let us have nothing to eat, drink, or wear, but what they say we shall, and prevent us from having guns and powder to use and kill our deer and wolves, and other game, or to send to you for you to kill your game with, and to get skins and furs to trade with us for what you want. But we hope soon to be able to supply you with both guns and powder of our own making.

We have petitioned to England for you and us, and told them plainly we want nothing but our own, and don't want to hurt them; but they won't hear us, and have great ships and their men with guns to make us give up, and kill us, and have killed some of our men; but we have drove them back and beat them, and killed a great many of their men. The Englishmen of all the Colonies, from Nova-Scotia to Georgia, have firmly resolved to stand together and oppose them. Our liberty and your liberty is the same. We are brothers, and what is for our good is for your good; and we, by standing together, shall make those wicked men afraid, and overcome them, and all be freemen. Captain Goldthwait has given up Fort Pownall to our enemies. We are angry at it, and we hear you are angry with him, and we don't wonder at it. We want to know what you, our good brothers, want from us of clothing or warlike stores, and we will supply you as fast as we can. We will do all for you we can, and fight to save you any time, and hope none of your men, or the Indians in Canada, will join with our enemies. You may have a great deal of good influence on them. Our good brothers, the Indians at Stockbridge, all join with us, and some of their men have enlisted as soldiers, and we have given them that enlisted each one a blanket and a ribbon, and they will be paid when they are from home in the service, and if any of you are willing to enlist we will do the same for you. We have sent Captain John Lane to you for that purpose, and he will show you his orders for raising one Company of your men to join with us in the war with your and our enemies.

Brothers, we humbly beseech that God, who lives above, and who does what is right here below, to be your friend, and bless you, and to prevent the designs of those wicked men from hurting you or us.

Brothers, if you let Mr. John Preble know what things you want, he will take care to inform us, and we will do the best for you that we can.

TOWN-MEETING, PORTSMOUTH, NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Extracts of sundry Votes passed at a Town-Meeting held at the North Meeting-House in Portsmouth, May 15, 1775:

Voted, That the Town will aid and assist the Committee that is or shall be chosen in behalf of this Town, to preserve the peace and order of it, whenever the Committee shall judge occasion may require.

And that this Committee be fully empowered to inquire touching any obnoxious persons who may flee to this Town for an asylum, and that they shall judge whether it is expedient for any such refugees to reside here or depart from it; and any inhabitant of this Town who shall be obnoxious, shall be only accountable to the Committee for their conduct.

Voted, That no other persons but the Committee shall concern with any such refugees; but if any person shall know of any such obnoxious persons coming into Town, the earliest notice thereof should be given the Committee.

Voted, That the Committee be empowered to call before them, and upon proper evidence to pass censure upon, any inhabitants of this Town who shall dare to transgress any of the preceding votes, or in any manner to disturb the peace of the Town.

Voted, That it is recommended to the inhabitants of this Town to refrain from purchasing any Lamb that shall be killed before the first day of August next, and that they kill no Lambs before that time.

Voted, That the Town recommend the use of fresh Fish to the inhabitants, twice a week at least.

COMMITTEE AND SELECTMEN OF MARLOW TO THE PROVINCIAL COMMITTEE OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Marlow, N. H., May 15, 1775.

We received your letter inviting us to send a Deputy in our behalf to represent us at a Congress at Exeter, on the 17th instant, to consult on the affairs of this Government, and adopt such plan as may be most expedient to preserve the rights and privileges of this and the other Colonies. After notice, we met and considered the matters, and our own circumstances, and our poverty is such that at present we are not able to support a Deputy at said Congress. But being well-wishers to the continuance of our rights and privileges, both civil and sacred, we have chosen us a Committee of Correspondence with the other Committees of the other Towns in said Province, and we do hereby acquaint you of our free and voluntary will and resolution, with the hazard of our lives and interests to assist in the defence of the same with our neighbouring Colonies; and we do hereby commit and entrust the consulting of the measures to be proceeded in to your wise and prudent conduct, under God, considering him as the alone Governour of men under him; and we hope and trust that God will give wisdom and understanding and strength according to the troubles and trials of the day in which we now live; and in all things we mean to pay our portion according to our ability, hoping that God will help us so to do.

SAMUEL GUTIN,
NATHANIEL HADLEY,
ELIAS LEWIS,

Com. of Correspondence and Selectmen of MARLOW.

To the Provincial Committee to be held at Exeter, in the Province of New-Hampshire.

P. S. We should be glad to be favoured with what measures are concerted by the said Congress.

TOWN OF ALSTEAD TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Alstead, N. H., May 15, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We received a letter from the former Convention requesting us to assist by sending a man to represent us. We should gladly have embraced the privilege were we in a capacity; but our ability is such that we look upon ourselves as not able to maintain a man to sit in Congress, but have proceeded so far in town-meeting, duly warned, to choose a Committee to correspond with our sister Towns, and to draw a letter to forward our doings, joining with the Town of Marlow in this procedure, which are as follows, viz:

Made choice of Nathaniel Sartell Prentiss, Oliver Shepherd, and Simon Brooks, as a Committee of Correspondence, and voted to abide by the proceedings of a Convention at the risk of our all, trusting in their wisdom and sagacity (under God) that their endeavours and proceedings will happily extricate us out of the alarming evil that we either feel or fear; which will be the constant prayer and wish of your friends and brethren in one common cause, the inhabitants of Alstead.

By a vote of the Town chose Mr. Oliver Shepherd to forward these our proceedings immediately, and make return. In behalf of the Committee:

NATHANIEL PRENTISS, Town Clerk.

To the Honourable the Delegates from the several Towns in this Province now sitting at Exeter, New-Hampshire.

AUGUSTA COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the inhabitants of that part of Augusta County that lies on the west side of the Laurel Hill, at Pittsburgh, the 16th day of May, 1775, the following gentlemen were chosen a Committee for the said District, viz: George Croghan, John Campbell, Edward Ward, Thomas Smallman, John Cannon, John McCullough, William Gee, George Valandingham, John Gibson, Dorsey Penticost, Edward Cook, William Crawford, Devereux Smith, John Anderson, David Rodgers, Jacob Vanmetre, Henry Enock, James Ennis, George Willson, William Vance, David Shepherd, William Elliot, Richmond Willis, Samuel Sample, John Ormsbey, Richard McMaher, John Nevill, and John Sveringer.

The foregoing gentlemen met in committee, and resolved that John Campbell, John Ormsbey, Edward Ward, Thomas Smallman, Samuel Sample, John Anderson, and Devereux Smith, or any four of them, be a Standing Committee, and shall have full power to meet at such times as they shall judge necessary, and in case of any emergency, to call the Committee of this District together, and shall be vested with the same power and authority as the other Standing Committees and Committees of Correspondence are in the other Counties within this Colony.

Resolved unanimously, That the cordial and most grateful thanks of this Committee are a tribute due to John Harvie, Esquire, our worthy Representative in the late Colonial Convention held at Richmond, for his faithful discharge of that important trust reposed in him; and to John Nevill, Esquire, our other worthy Delegate, whom nothing but sickness prevented from representing us in that respectable Assembly.

Resolved unanimously, That this Committee have the highest sense of the spirited behaviour of their brethren in New-England, and do most cordially approve of their opposing the invaders of American rights and privileges to the utmost extreme, and that each member of this Committee, respectively, will animate and encourage their neighbourhood to follow the brave example.

The imminent danger that threatens America in general, from Ministerial and Parliamentary denunciations of our ruin, and is now carrying into execution by open acts of unprovoked hostilities in our sister Colony of Massachusetts, as well as the danger to be apprehended to this Colony in particular from a domestick enemy, said to be prompted by the wicked minions of power to execute our ruin, added to the menaces of an Indian war, likewise said to be in contemplation, thereby thinking to engage our attention, and divert it from that still more interesting object of liberty and freedom, that deeply, and with so much justice, hath called forth the attention of all America; for the prevention of all, or any of those impending evils, it is

Resolved, That the recommendation of the Richmond Convention, of the 20th of last March, relative to the embodying, arming, and disciplining the Militia, be immediately carried into execution with the greatest diligence in this County, by the officers appointed for that end; and that the recommendation of the said Convention to the several Committees of this Colony, to collect from their constituents, in such manner as shall be most agreeable to them, so much money as shall be sufficient to purchase half a pound of gunpowder, and one pound of lead, flints, and cartridge paper, for every tithable person in their County, be likewise carried into execution.

This Committee, therefore, out of the deepest sense of the expediency of this measure, most earnestly entreat that every member of this Committee do collect from each tithable person in their several districts the sum of Two Shillings and Six-Pence, which we deem no more than sufficient for the above purpose, and give proper receipts to all such as pay the same into their hands; and the sum so collected to be paid into the hands of Mr. John Campbell, who is to give proper security to this Committee, or their successors, for the due and faithful application of the money so deposited with him for the above purpose, by or with the advice of this Committee, or their successors; and this Committee, as your representatives, and who are most ardently labouring for your preservation, call on you, our constituents, our friends, brethren, and fellow-sufferers, in the name of God, of every thing you hold sacred or valuable, for the sake of your wives, children, and unborn generations, that you will, every one of you, in your several stations, to the utmost of your power, assist in levying such sum, by not only paying yourselves, but by assisting those who are not at present in a condition to do so. We heartily lament the case of all such as have not this small sum at command in this day of necessity; to all such we recommend to tender security to such as Providence has enabled to lend them so much; and this Committee do pledge their faith and fortunes to you, their constituents, that we shall, without fee or reward, use our best endeavours to procure, with the money so collected, the ammunition our present exigencies have made so exceedingly necessary.

As this Committee has reason to believe there is a quantity of Ammunition destined for this place for the purpose of Government, and as this country, on the west side of the Laurel Hill, is greatly distressed for want of ammunition, and deprived of the means of procuring it, by reason of its situation, as easy as the lower Counties of this Colony, they do earnestly request the Committees of Frederick, Augusta, and Hampshire, that they will not suffer the ammunition to pass through their Counties for the purposes of Government, but will secure it for the use of this destitute country, and immediately inform this Committee of their having done so.

Resolved, That this Committee do approve of the Resolution of the Committee of the other part of this County, relative to the cultivating a friendship with the Indians; and if any person shall be so depraved as to take the life of any Indian that may come to us in a friendly manner, we will, as one man, use our utmost endeavours to bring such offender to condign punishment.

Ordered, That the Standing Committee be directed to secure such Arms and Ammunition as are not employed in actual service, or private property, and that they get the same repaired, and deliver them to such Captains of Independent Companies as may make application for the same, and taking such Captain's receipt for the arms so delivered.

Resolved, That the sum of fifteen Pounds, current money, be raised by subscription, and that the same be transmitted to Robert Carter Nicholas, Esq., for the use of the Deputies sent from this Colony to the General Congress. Which sum of money was immediately paid by the Committee then present.

Mr. John Campbell reported, from the Select Committee for considering the grievances, as Instructions to the Delegates, which he read in his place, and handed it to the Clerk's table, where it was again read, and is as follows:

To JOHN HARVIE and GEORGE ROOTES, Esquires.

GENTLEMEN: You being chosen to represent the people on the west side the Laurel Hill in the Colonial Congress for the ensuing year, we, the Committee for the people aforesaid, desire you will lay the grievances hereafter mentioned before the Congress at their first meeting, as we conceive it highly necessary they should be redressed, to put us on a footing with the rest of our brethren in the Colony.

1st. That many of the inhabitants in this part of the County have expended large sums of money, and supplied the soldiers in the last Indian war with provisions and other necessaries, many of whom have expended all they had; and though, at the same time, we bear a grateful remembrance of the good intentions of the late Colonial Congress, so feelingly and generously expressed in their Resolves, yet the unhappy situation we are reduced to by the payment of those supplies being delayed, involves this new and flourishing country in extreme poverty.

2d. That the maintaining a garrison at this place, when there is no other method used for supplying them with provisions, but by impressing from the inhabitants of the country, ought to be considered.

3d. That this country, joining the Indian Territory and the Province of Quebeck, (which by its late change of Constitution is rendered inimical to liberty,) lies exposed to the inroads of the Savages and the Militia of that Province; and should the Ministry or their emissaries be able to stir up either of them against the Colonies, this country will be in need of support to enable them to provide against, and withstand any attempt that may be made on their civil or religious liberties.

4th. That for want of freeholders we cannot get legal Grand Jurors, which are necessary for the well government of the country.

5th. That the unsettled boundary between this Colony and the Province of Pennsylvania, is the occasion of many disputes.

6th. That the collecting the duty on skins and furs, for which a commission hath lately been sent up here, will banish the Indian Trade from this place and Colony.

Which Report being agreed to,

Resolved unanimously, That a fair copy be drawn off and delivered to our Delegates as their instructions.

Ordered, That the foregoing proceedings be certified by the Clerk of this Committee, and published in the Virginia Gazette.

By order of the Committee.

JAMES BERWICK, Clerk.

DOCTOR FRANKLIN TO DOCTOR PRIESTLEY, IN LONDON.

Philadelphia, May 16, 1775.

DEAR FRIEND: You will have heard, before this reaches you, of a march stolen by the Regulars into the country by night, and of their expedition back again. They retreated twenty miles in six hours.

The Governour had called the Assembly to propose Lord North's pacifick plan, but, before the time of their meeting, began cutting of throats. You know it was said he carried the sword in one hand, and the olive branch in the other; and it seems he chose to give them a taste of the sword first.

He is doubling his fortifications at Boston, and hopes to secure his Troops till succour arrives. The place, indeed, is naturally so defensible, that I think them in no danger.

All America is exasperated by his conduct, and more firmly united than ever. The breach between the two Countries is grown wider, and in danger of becoming irreparable.

I had a passage of six weeks, the weather constantly so moderate that a London wherry might have accompanied us all the way: I got home in the evening, and the next morning was unanimously chosen by the Assembly of Pennsylvania a Delegate to the Congress now sitting.

In coming over, I made a valuable philosophical discovery, which I shall communicate to you when I can get a little time. At present am extremely hurried.

Yours, most affectionately,

B. FRANKLIN.

MEETING OF THE INHABITANTS OF WESTMORELAND, PENNSYLVANIA.

At a general meeting of the inhabitants of the County of Westmoreland, held at Hanna's Town the 16th day of May, 1775, for taking into consideration the very alarming situation of this Country, occasioned by the dispute with Great Britain:

Resolved unanimously, That the Parliament of Great Britain, by several late Acts, have declared the inhabitants of the Massachusetts-Bay to be in rebellion, and the Ministry, by endeavouring to enforce those Acts, have attempted to reduce the said inhabitants to a more wretched state of slavery than ever before existed in any state or country. Not content with violating their constitutional and chartered privileges, they would strip them of the rights of humanity, exposing lives to the wanton and unpunishable sport of a licentious soldiery, and depriving them of the very means of subsistence.

Resolved unanimously, That there is no reason to doubt but the same system of tyranny and oppression will (should it meet with success in the Massachusetts-Bay) be extended to every other part of America: it is therefore become the indispensable duty of every American, of every man who has any publick virtue or love for his Country, or any bowels for posterity, by every means which God has put in his power, to resist and oppose the execution of it; that for us we will be ready to oppose it with our lives and fortunes. And the better to enable us to accomplish it, we will immediately form ourselves into a military body, to consist of Companies to be made up out of the several Townships under the following Association, which is declared to be the Association of Westmoreland County:

Possessed with the most unshaken loyalty and fidelity to His Majesty, King George the Third, whom we acknowledge to be our lawful and rightful King, and who we wish may long be the beloved Sovereign of a free and happy people throughout the whole British Empire; we declare to the world, that we do not mean by this Association to deviate from that loyalty which we hold it our bounden duty to observe; but, animated with the love of liberty, it is no less our duty to maintain and defend our just rights

(which, with sorrow, we have seen of late wantonly violated in many instances by a wicked Ministry and a corrupted Parliament) and transmit them entire to our posterity, for which purpose we do agree and associate together:

1st. To arm and form ourselves into a Regiment or Regiments, and choose officers to command us in such proportion as shall be thought necessary.

2d. We will, with alacrity, endeavour to make ourselves masters of the manual exercise, and such evolutions as may be necessary to enable us to act in a body with concert; and to that end we will meet at such times and places as shall be appointed either for the Companies or the Regiment, by the officers commanding each when chosen.

3d. That should our Country be invaded by a foreign enemy, or should Troops be sent from Great Britain to enforce the late arbitrary Acts of its Parliament, we will cheerfully submit to military discipline, and to the utmost of our power resist and oppose them, or either of them, and will coincide with any plan that may be formed for the defence of America in general, or Pennsylvania in particular.

4th. That we do not wish or desire any innovation, but only that things may be restored to, and go on in the same way as before the era of the Stamp Act, when Boston grew great, and America was happy. As a proof of this disposition, we will quietly submit to the laws by which we have been accustomed to be governed before that period, and will, in our several or associate capacities, be ready when called on to assist the civil magistrate in carrying the same into execution.

5th. That when the British Parliament shall have repealed their late obnoxious Statutes, and shall recede from their claim to tax us, and make laws for us in every instance, or when some general plan of union and reconciliation has been formed and accepted by America, this our Association shall be dissolved; but till then it shall remain in full force; and to the observation of it, we bind ourselves by every thing dear and sacred amongst men.

No licensed murder! no famine introduced by law!

Resolved, That on Wednesday, the twenty-fourth instant, the Township meet to accede to the said Association, and choose their officers.

PENNSYLVANIA COUNCIL.

At a Council held at Philadelphia on Tuesday, 16th May, 1775.

Present: The Honourable John Penn, Esq., Governour, James Tilghman, Andrew Allen, Esquires.

The Governour acquainted the Board that eight Cayuga Indians came to Town on Saturday last from Canasatego, on the Cayuga branch of Susquehannah, on some business with this Government, and that he now proposed to hear what they had to say.

Whereupon the Board agreed that they should be immediately sent for, and they were accordingly introduced.

The Governour then acquainting them that he was ready to hear them, . . . , addressing himself to the Governour, first went through some short usual ceremonies of clearing the throat and heart, and opening the ears, &c., and then producing a belt of wampum, spoke as follows, viz: That three of their company who were present as the nearest surviving relations of the old Seneca Sohaes, who lived for many years with his family and connexions on a tract of land within the manor of Conestogo, in Lancaster County; that the old man, with his family and relations, were several years ago murdered there by some wicked men belonging to this Government; and that the said tract of land, containing about five hundred acres, now became the property of his three relatives present, one of whom is Sohaes's brother; that they had come down at this time to see their brother Onas, and to make sale of the said land to him. That the land is very rich, and worth a great deal of money; but as their brother Onas was himself well acquainted with its value, they desired he would purchase it from them, for such a price as he thought reasonable, and they would be entirely satisfied.

He then delivered the belt of wampum to the Governour, and told him that he had finished what he had to say.

The Governour thereupon acquainted the Indians that he and his Council would take their Speech into consideration, and give them an answer on Thursday morning.

At a Council held at Philadelphia on Thursday, 18th May, 1775. Present: The Honourable John Penn, Esq., Governour, William Logan, Benjamin Chew, Andrew Allen, Edward Shippen, Jr., Esquires.

The eight Cayuga Indians being sent for, attended at the Board in order to receive the Governour's answer to their Speech on Tuesday last, which the Governour in part delivered to them; but as it appeared to the Board that the Indians did not clearly and fully comprehend his meaning, the person who undertook to interpret to them, not being sufficiently acquainted with their language, and the Indians expressing great dissatisfaction on being informed that this land had already been purchased and paid for, it was agreed that Isaac Still, a Delaware Indian interpreter, should be immediately sent for, to interpret the Governour's answer to the Indians in Council, on Saturday morning next.

At a Council held at Philadelphia on Saturday, 20th May, 1775. Present: The Honourable John Penn, Esq., Governour, William Logan, James Tilghman, Andrew Allen, Edward Shippen, Jr., Esquires.

The eight Cayuga Indians, by the desire of the Governour, again attended the Board, with the Indian interpreter, Isaac Still, and having taken their seats, the Speaker repeated over the Speech he had delivered to the Governour on Tuesday last, which was the same in substance as entered on the Minutes of that day, and the Governour returned them his answer, which was fully explained to them by Isaac Still, and is as follows, viz:

"BRETHREN: The tract of land you mention, consisting of five hundred acres, part of the Conestogo Manor where old Sohaes dwelt, was included in a purchase long since made from the Indians; notwithstanding which I agree that Sohaes and his family had the proprietary's permission to live thereon as long as they chose to remain in the inhabited part of the country.

"Some time after the death of Sohaes, and all his family that resided there, in the year 1768, there was a treaty held at Fort Stanwix, to which I was invited by Sir William Johnson, in order to treat with the Indians concerning the purchase of a large tract of land, part of which lay in the King's Government, and part in the Province of Pennsylvania. At this treaty the last great Indian purchase was made, for which I then paid the Indians ten thousand Dollars. But before the treaty was finished, Sir William Johnson informed me that the Indians expected to be paid for the five hundred acres of land, part of the Conestogo Manor, where Sohaes dwelt. I accordingly agreed to pay them for it. The price agreed on was two hundred Pounds, York money, or five hundred Dollars, the value of which was then delivered in goods to Togataio, the Cayuga Chief, to be distributed as he thought proper; and the deed I now show you for the land I bought of the Indians at that treaty, signed by the Chiefs of the Six Nations, expressly includes this five hundred acres of land. Having therefore already purchased the lands twice, it cannot reasonably be expected that I should pay for it again. However, as you have come from a great distance, under an expectation of selling this land, and perhaps did not receive so great a portion of the goods I delivered at Fort Stanwix as should have been paid to the relatives of Sohaes, and to show you the desire I have to preserve peace and friendship with the Indians, and that when they pay me a visit they should not go away dissatisfied, I am willing to make you a present, which I hope you will think a generous one. I therefore desire you will accept of these three hundred Dollars." A belt.

The Indians accordingly very gladly accepted the three hundred Dollars, and signed a receipt for the same on the back of the deed executed at Fort Stanwix, expressing it to be in full satisfaction of all claims of Sohaes's family to the said five hundred acres of land.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee, by adjournment, Tuesday, 16th May, 1775. Present, forty-seven Members.

Mr. McDougall, from the Committee of Correspondence, reported the draft of an answer to a Letter received from Elisha Lawrence, dated 9th May, 1775, which being read and approved of,

Ordered, That the same be forwarded.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Ward Companies of Militia for the City and County of New-York, to enroll their men in the different beats, so that they may be in readiness to take their tour of duty as a Military Night Watch for this City, and it is recommended to the men in the different Wards to appear punctually for that purpose.

At a special meeting of the Committee, on Wednesday, 17th May, 1775. Present, forty-seven Members.

A Letter, dated Philadelphia, 17th May, 1775, from the gentlemen in delegation for this Colony, enclosing an extract of the Minutes of the Continental Congress, respecting the conduct to be observed by the inhabitants of this City towards any Troops that may arrive here, received and read.

Ordered, That the same be published.

An Affidavit of Charles Murray, Captain of the sloop Modesty, respecting the seizing Guns and Powder on board the said sloop, by His Majesty's ship-of-war Kingfisher, was read.

Resolved, That his worship the Mayor of this City, be furnished with a copy of the Affidavit of Captain Charles Murray, and be requested to procure a conveyance of it to Captain Montague of His Majesty's Ship Kingfisher, and to desire his answer on the subject matter of the said Affidavit.

Philadelphia, May 16, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed we send you the advice of the Congress on the subject on which you requested it; and lest the advice to remove the Military Stores might be construed to extend to those belonging to the Crown, we think it prudent to suggest to you, that the contrary construction is the true one.

You would have received this advice before, had not sundry circumstances not material, or perhaps proper to explain, concurred in deferring it till now.

We are, gentlemen, your humble servants,

JAMES DUANE, LEWIS MORRIS,
FRANCIS LEWIS, PHILIP LIVINGSTON,
JOHN JAY, JOHN ALSOP.

In Congress, Monday, May 15, 1775.

The City and County of New-York, having through their Delegates applied to the Congress for their advice how to conduct themselves with regard to the Troops expected there; the Congress took the matter into their most serious deliberation, and came to the following Resolution:

"That it be recommended for the present to the inhabitants of New-York, that if the Troops which are expected should arrive, the said Colony act on the defensive, so long as may be consistent with their safety and security; that the Troops be permitted to remain in the barracks so long as they behave peaceably and quietly, but that they be not suffered to erect fortifications, or take any steps for cutting off the communication between the town and country; and that if they commit hostilities, or invade private property, the inhabitants should defend themselves and their property, and repel force by force; that the warlike stores be removed from the Town; that places of retreat, in case of necessity, be provided for the women and children of New-York; and a sufficient number of men be embodied, and kept in constant readiness for protecting the inhabitants from insult and injury."

A true copy from the Minutes:

CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.

ERASTUS WALCOTT AND OTHERS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Hartford, May 16, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We were yesterday informed of the success of an expedition undertaken, and set on foot by some individuals of this Colony, in a secret manner, against Ticonderoga and Crown Point, the particular account of which you will have received before this comes to hand. Immediately on receipt of this news, an express was despatched from hence to the Continental Congress for their advice in this important matter. Posts were also sent to Albany, to the Committee of Correspondence for that City, requesting them to afford their aid in maintaining that pass till the opinion of the Colonies can be known.

We understand an expedition against the same place hath been undertaken under the authority of your Province; but the adventure being set on foot by some private gentlemen in this Colony, and success having attended their enterprise before the forces from the Massachusetts Bay came up, some question arose about the right to command and hold this important pass. We consider all the Colonies, and the New-England Colonies especially, as brethren united together in one joint interest, and pursuing the same general design, and that whatever expedition in furtherance of the grand designs may be undertaken by any one of the Colonies, or body of men in either of them, ought to be considered as undertaken for the joint benefit of the whole confederate Colonies, and the expenses of the enterprise, and cost of maintaining and defending the same, is to be borne by all in proportion to their abilities.

This is not a time for the Colonies to contend about precedency, but we hope all will wish to put out a helping hand, and mutually afford each other all necessary assistance against our common enemy. Some parts of your Province are more conveniently situated to furnish men, &c., for maintaining our possession. We doubt not you will exert yourselves to secure every advantage which may arise from this successful attempt, in which we hope the City and County of Albany, and the Colony of Connecticut will co-operate with you, but of this we cannot assure you, as our calls are very many.

We are, gentlemen, your humble servants,

ERASTUS WOLCOTT, SAMUEL BISHOP,
WILLIAM WILLIAMS, SAMUEL H. PARSONS.

Committee of Correspondence for Connecticut.

Honourable Provincial Congress of Massachusetts.

P. S. We hope you will not omit any thing you can do, as 'tis uncertain what New-York will undertake without the consent of the General Congress, &c.

JOSEPH WARREN TO ARTHUR LEE.

Cambridge, May 16, 1775.

MY DEAR SIR: Every thing here continues the same as at the period of my writing a short time ago. Our military operations go on in a very spirited manner. General Gage had a reinforcement of about six hundred Marines the day before yesterday; but this gives very little concern here. It is not expected that he will sally out of Boston at present, and if he does, he will but gratify thousands who impatiently wait to avenge the blood of their murdered countrymen. The attempt he has made to throw the odium of the first commencement of hostilities on the people here, has operated very much to his disadvantage, as so many credible people were eye witnesses of the whole affair, whose testimonies are justly supposed of infinitely greater weight than any thing he has brought or can bring in support of his assertion. My private opinion is, that he is really deceived in this matter, and is led (by his officers and some other of the most abandoned villains on earth, who are natives of this Country, and who are now shut up with him in Boston) to believe that our people actually began the firing; but my opinion is only for myself; most people are satisfied not only that he knows that the Regulars began the fire, but also that he gave his orders to the commanding officer to do it. Thus by attempting to clear the Troops from what every one is sure they were guilty of, he has brought on strong suspicions that he himself is guilty of having preconcerted the mischief done by them. Indeed his very unmanly conduct, relative to the people of Boston, in detaining many of them, and contriving new excuses for delaying their removal after they had given up their fire-arms upon a promise of being suffered to leave town and carry with them their effects, has much lessened his character confirmed former suspicions.

The Continental Congress is now sitting. I suppose before I hear from you again, a new form of Government will be established in this Colony. Great Britain must now make the best she can of America. The folly of her Minister has brought her into this situation. If she has strength sufficient even to depopulate the Colonies, she has not strength sufficient to subjugate them. However, we can yet without injuring ourselves offer much to her. The great national advantages derived from the Colonies may, I hope, yet be reaped by her from us. The plan for enslaving us, if it had succeeded, would only have put it in the power of the Administration to provide for a number of their unworthy dependants, whilst the Nation would have been deprived of the most essential benefits which might have arisen from us by commerce; and the taxes raised in America would, instead of easing the Mother Country of her burdens, only have been employed to bring her into bondage.

I cannot precisely tell you what will become of General Gage; I imagine he will at least be kept closely shut up in Boston. Perhaps you will very soon hear something further relative to these things. One thing I can assure you has very great weight with us; we fear if we push this matter as far as we think we are able—to the destruction of the Troops and Ships-of-War—we shall expose Great Britain to those invasions from foreign Powers, which we suppose it will be difficult for her to repel.

In fact, you must have a change in men and measures or be ruined. The truly noble Richmond, Rockingham, Chatham, Shelburne, with other Lords, and the virtuous and sensible minority in the House of Commons; must take the lead. The confidence we have in them will go a great way; but I must tell you that those terms which would readily have been accepted before our countrymen were murdered, and we in consequence compelled to take arms, will not now do.

Every thing in my power to serve the united interest of Great Britain, shall be done; and I pray that you, your brother, and Mr. Sayre, (to whom I beg you would make my most respectful compliments,) would write fully, freely, and speedily, to me, and let me know what our great and good friends in the House of Commons think expedient and practicable to be done.

God forbid that the Nation should be so infatuated as to do any thing further to irritate the Colonies; if they should, the Colonies will sooner throw themselves into the arms of any other power on earth, than ever consent to an accommodation with Great Britain. That patience which I frequently told you would be at last exhausted, is no longer to be expected from us. Danger and war are become pleasing; and injured virtue is now armed to avenge herself. I am, my dear Sir, your most obedient servant,

JOS. WARREN.

To Arthur Lee, Esq., London.

P. S. Please to let Mr. Sayre and Sheriff Lee know that I shall write to them by the first opportunity. This will be handed you by our good friend Mr. Barrell, who will give you a more particular account of our publick affairs.

LETTER FROM THE MASSACHUSETTS TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, {
May 16, 1775. }

"Resolved, That Doctor Benjamin Church be ordered to go immediately to Philadelphia, and deliver to the President of the Honourable American Congress there now sitting, the following application, to be by him communicated to the Members thereof; and the said Church is also directed to confer with the said Congress respecting such other matters as may be necessary to the defence of this Colony, and particularly the state of the Army therein."

May it please your Honours:

That system of Colony administration which, in the most firm, dutiful, and loyal manner, has been in vain remonstrated against by the representative body of the United Colonies, seems still, unless speedily and vigorously opposed by the collected wisdom and force of all America, to threaten ruin and destruction to this Continent.

For a long time past this Colony has, by a corrupt Administration in Great Britain and here, been deprived of the exercise of those powers of government, without which a people can be neither rich, happy, nor secure. The whole Continent saw the blow pending, which if not warded off must inevitably have subverted the freedom and happiness of each Colony. The principles of self-defence, roused in the breasts of freemen by the dread of impending slavery; caused to be collected the wisdom of America in a Congress, composed of men who, through time, must, in every land of freedom, be revered among the most faithful asserters of the essential rights of human nature.

This Colony was then reduced to great difficulties, being denied the exercise of civil Government according to our Charter, or the fundamental principles of the English Constitution, and a formidable Navy and Army (not only inimical to our safety, but flattered with the prospect of enjoying the fruit of our industry) were stationed for that purpose in our Metropolis. The prospect of deciding the question between our Mother Country and us by the sword, gave us the greatest pain and anxiety; but we have made all the preparation for our necessary defence that our confused state would admit of; and as the question equally affected our sister Colonies and us, we have declined, though urged thereto by the most pressing necessity, to assume the reins of civil Government without their advice and consent; but have hitherto borne the many difficulties and distressing embarrassments necessarily resulting from a want thereof.

We are now compelled to raise an Army, which, with the assistance of the other Colonies, we hope, under the smiles of Heaven, will be able to defend us and all America from the further butcheries and devastations of our implacable enemies. But as the sword should, in all free States, be subservient to the civil powers; and as it is the duty of the Magistrates to support it for the people's necessary defence, we tremble at having an Army (although consisting of our own countrymen) established here, without a civil power to provide for and control them.

We are happy in having an opportunity of laying our distressed state before the representative body of the Continent, and humbly hope you will favour us with your most explicit advice respecting the taking up and exercising the powers of civil Government, which we think absolutely necessary for the salvation of our Country; and we shall readily submit to such a general plan as you may direct for the Colonies, or make it our great study to establish such a form of Government here, as shall not only most promote our own advantages, but the union and interest of all America.

As the Army now collecting from different Colonies is for the general defence of the rights of America, we would beg leave to suggest to your consideration the propriety of your taking the regulation and general direction of it, that the operations of it may more effectually answer the purposes designed.

Jos. WARREN, President pro tem.

Attest: SAMUEL FREEMAN, Secretary pro tem.

To the Hon. the Continental Congress, Philadelphia.

COMMITTEE OF BROWNFIELD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Brownfield, May 16, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: There are five or six families of Indians hunting at Androscoggin, about twenty-five miles north of my house. Several of the women and youngsters were at my house last week; one of them expressed much concern about the times; said their men could not hunt, eat, nor sleep; keep calling together every night; courting, courting, every night, all night. O, strange Englishmen kill one another. I think the world is coming to an end. Mrs. Brown asked which side they would fight. Answered, why should we fight for t'other country, for we never see t'other country; our hunting is in this country. One of them said her brother was a Colonel; she wished she could see him; she would tell him not to fight for t'other country, but to fight for this country. One of the party is gone to Canada. They wanted powder, but got none. Some of them were painted; and as it was the first time they came in paint, it surprised some of our women. I thought it best you should know of their concern and uneasiness, and that one was gone to Canada. The bearer, Mr. Holt, is used to the woods; has been a hunting this spring where they are; if necessary will go to them.

At this day it appears to me to be necessary for every man to be supplied with arms, &c. We have in this Town ten guns, shot, twenty pounds of powder, and half a hundred of lead. James Holt, James Haywood, and myself, are a Committee in behalf of this Town, and was to provide every thing necessary. I have been to Portsmouth to purchase, but could not; my business called me immediately home. Now Mr. Holt sets out to apply to you for relief. If he can be supplied, we will stand accountable, and stand ready to serve our Country. The bearer has served long in the last war; was at Nova-Scotia in 1755; was in the siege at Fort Bosajure; has given repeated evidence he can stand fire, and is now ready to serve his Country, if required. I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

HENRY YOUNG BROWN.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for Cumberland County, held on Wednesday, the 17th of May, 1775:

Mr. Chairman opened the business of the day by laying before the Committee informations lately received by express from the Northward, respecting the Government of New-York, amongst which is a Resolution of the Maryland Provincial Convention, for immediately suspending all Exportations from that Province to Quebeck, Nova-Scotia, Georgia, and Newfoundland, or any part of the Fishing Coasts, or Fishing Islands, and to the Town of Boston, until the Continental Congress shall give farther directions thereon: Whereupon the Committee, after the maturest deliberation, came to the following Resolutions:

Resolved unanimously, That this Committee doth heartily approve of the said Resolution of the Maryland Provincial Convention, as well concerted upon the view of the present conjuncture of affairs, and doth recommend it as a proper rule of conduct to all men.

Resolved, That the present alarming situation of American affairs, especially in the Province of New-York, renders it absolutely necessary that a Colony Convention be immediately called; and this Committee do recommend it to Robert Carter Nicholas, Esquire, in the most earnest terms, to call a Colony Convention as speedily as possible, provided the General Assembly now called to meet on the first Thursday in June, shall be prorogued to a farther day.

The following Address to the inhabitants of the lower parts of Virginia, was proposed, and unanimously agreed to:

Friends and Countrymen:

We, the Committee for the County of Cumberland, taking into our serious consideration the unremitting efforts of despotick Administration to effect the total subversion of American liberty, aided by the wicked and venal tools of corruption, who are endeavouring, by the basest misrepresentations and falsehoods, to effect an unnatural division between the Mother Country and her Colonies, covering their wicked design under the specious pretence of duty and attachment to our gracious Sovereign, and the sacred laws of the British Empire; and also to the unhappy situation to which you will be reduced in case of a hostile invasion of this Colony, do, for ourselves and our constituents, (should such a distressing circumstance take place,) most cordially invite you to remove so many of your wives and children into this County as the inhabitants thereof can conveniently entertain, where they will meet with the best protection and accommodations we are able to afford.

GEORGE CARRINGTON, Chairman.

CECIL COUNTY (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Cecil County, at Ek Ferry, on the 17th day of May, 1775:

In consequence of an information being made, that Charles Gordon, Attorney-at-Law in Cecil County, had treated with great disrespect, and maliciously aspersed the Continental Congress, the Provincial Convention, and the Committee of this County; and had, at divers times, and by sundry ways and means, vilified their proceedings; a Summons thereupon issued from the Committee, commanding his appearance to answer to the above charge; to which

Summons he returned the following verbal answer, as appears by affidavit:

"On the 17th day of May, 1775, personally came William Savin before me the subscriber, one of his Lordship's Justices of the Peace for the County aforesaid, and made oath on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that he served Mr. Gordon with a copy of the within Summons in time for him to have observed it; and that he told him (this deponent) that he would not meet, and if the Committee wanted him they must come to his plantation, but not inside his yard gate; that he asked why they did not come themselves, or send some of their head men; that upon his (this deponent) saying he believed unless he did not comply with their request, they would all come, he, Mr. Gordon, said he was ready to receive them; that his plantation was large enough to hold them all, but they must not come inside his yard gate, or there would be lives lost. Mr. Gordon said he had said, and does still say, that they are a parcel of damned scoundrels of the Committee, and that if they have any thing to say to him, they must come to him, for he was at their defiance."

Sworn before

DAVID SMITH.

Whereupon the Committee entered into the following Resolve, viz:

Whereas Charles Gordon, Attorney-at-Law in Cecil County, hath treated this Committee with great contempt and insolence; and the general tenour of his conduct for a long time hath been such, as in our opinions declares him to be an enemy to the common cause of liberty for which we are contending; and whereas he hath this day been duly summoned to appear before this Committee and answer unto the above charge; to which Summons he returned an impertinent and insolent answer, even menacing this Committee with destruction if they attempt to proceed any farther against him: It is, therefore,

Resolved, That he lie under the imputation of being an enemy to this Country, and as such we will have no dealings or communication with him, nor permit him to transact any business with us, or for us, either in a publick or private capacity, which shall be commenced after the date hereof, until he appears before this Committee and satisfies them with respect to the above charge; and we do earnestly recommend it to all the good people of this County to observe the same line of conduct.

Resolved, That the above be published.

JAMES VEAZEY, JUNIOR, Chairman.

JOHN VEAZEY, 3d, Clerk pro tem.

Philadelphia, May 20, 1775.

On Wednesday evening last, May 17, arrived here John Brown, Esquire, from Ticonderoga, express to the General Congress, from whom we learn, that on the beginning of this instant, a company of about fifty men from Connecticut and the western part of Massachusetts, and joined by upwards of one hundred from Bennington, in New-York Government, and the adjacent Towns, proceeded to the eastern side of Lake Champlain, and on the night before the 11th current, crossed the Lake with eighty-five men, (not being able to obtain craft to transport the rest) and about daybreak invested the Fort, whose gate, contrary to expectation, they found shut, but the wicker open; through which, with the Indian war-whoop, all that could, entered one by one, others scaling the wall on both sides of the gate, and instantly secured and disarmed the sentries, and pressed into the parade, where they formed the hollow square; but immediately quitting that order, they rushed into the several barracks on three sides of the Fort, and seized on the garrison, consisting of two officers and upwards of forty privates,* whom they brought out, disarmed, put under guard, and have since sent prisoners to Hartford, in Connecticut. All this was performed in about ten minutes, without the loss of a life, or a drop of blood on our side, and but very little on that of the King's Troops.

In the Fort were found about thirty barrels of flour, a few barrels of pork, seventy odd chests of leaden ball, computed at three hundred tons, about ten barrels of powder, in bad condition, near two hundred pieces of ordnance, of all sizes, from eighteen-pounders downwards, at Ticon- deroga and Crown Point, which last place, being held only by a Corporal and eight men, falls of course into our hands.

By this sudden expedition, planned by some principal persons in the four neighbouring Colonies, that important pass is now in the hands of the Americans, where we trust the wisdom of the Grand Continental Congress will take effectual measures to secure it, as it may be depended on that Administration means to form an army in Canada, composed of British Regulars, French, and Indians, to attack the Colonies on that side.

Mr. Brown brought intercepted letters from Lieutenant Malcolm Fraser, to his friends in New-England, from which appear, that General Carleton has almost unlimited powers, civil and military, and has issued orders for raising a Canadian Regiment, in which, Mr. Fraser observes, the officers find difficulty, as the common people are by no means fond of the service. He likewise remarks, that all the King's European subjects are disaffected at the partial preference given to the late converts to loyalty, as he phrases it, to their utter exclusion from all confidence, or even common civility. Matters are indeed in such a situation, that many, if not most of the merchants, talk of leaving the Province.

Mr. Brown also relates, that two regular officers of the Twenty-Sixth Regiment, now in Canada, applied to two Indians, one a head warrior of the Caughnawaga tribe, to go out with them on a hunt to the south and east of the Rivers St. Lawrence and Sorrel, and pressing the Indians farther and farther on said course, they at length arrived at Cohass, where the Indians say they were stopped and interrogated by the inhabitants, to whom they pretended they were only on a hunt, which the inhabitants (as the Indians told Mr. Brown) replied must be false, as no hunters used silver (bright) barrelled guns. However, the Cohass people dismissed them all; and when they returned into the woods, the Indian warrior insisted on knowing what their real intention was, and they told him that it was to reconnoitre the woods to find a passage for an army to march to the assistance of the King's friends in Boston. The Indian asked where they would get the army? They answered, in Canada, and that the Indians in the upper Castles would join them. The Chief, on this, expressed resentment, that he, being one of the head men of the Caughnawaga tribe, should never have been consulted in the affair. But Mr. Brown presumed the aversion of this honest fellow and his friends to their schemes, was the reason of their being kept from their knowledge.

The conductors of this grand expedition are to be Monsieur St. Luke le Corne, the villain who let loose the Indians on the prisoners at Fort William Henry, and one of his associates.

Watertown, May 18, 1775.

Yesterday Colonel Easton arrived at the Provincial Congress in Watertown from Ticonderoga, and brings the glorious news of the taking of that place by the American forces without the loss of a man; of which interesting event we have collected the following particulars, viz:

Last Tuesday se'night about two hundred and forty men from Connecticut and this Province, under Colonels Allen and Easton, arrived at the Lake near Ticonderoga; eighty of them crossed it, and came to the Fort about the dawn of day. The sentry was much surprised at seeing such a body of men, and snapped his piece at them; our men, however, immediately rushed forward, seized and confined the sentry, pushed through the covered way, and all got safe upon the parade, while the garrison were sleeping in their beds. They immediately formed a hollow square, and gave three huzzas, which brought out the garrison; an inconsiderable skirmish with cutlasses or bayonets ensued, in which a small number of the enemy received some wounds. The commanding officer soon came forth; Colonel Easton clapped him upon the shoulder, told him he was his prisoner, and demanded, in the name of America, an instant surrender of the Fort, with all its contents, to the American forces. The officer was in great confusion, and expressed himself to this effect: damn you, what—what does all this mean? Colonel Easton again told him that he and his garrison were prisoners. The officer said that he hoped he should be treated with honour. Colonel Easton replied he should be treated with much more honour than our people had met with from the British Troops. The officer then said, he was all submission, and immediately ordered his soldiers to deliver up all the arms, in number about one hundred stands. As they gave up their arms, the prisoners were secured in the hollow square.

The American forces having thus providentially got possession of this important fortress, found in it upwards of one hundred pieces of cannon, several mortars, and a considerable quantity of shot, stores, and some powder.

After this acquisition, a detachment of our Troops was despatched to take possession of Crown Point, where there is a considerable number of cannon. Another detachment was sent to Skeneborough, where they took Major Skene and his family, with a number of soldiers, and several small pieces of cannon.

Colonel Easton met several hundred men from the western parts of this Province, on their way to Ticonderoga. They were on the same expedition, not knowing the Fort was taken till they met Colonel Easton. Part of them pursued their march, in order to secure and garrison the Fort.

The prisoners, to the number of about one hundred, including negroes, &c., were brought off by John Brown, Esquire. Colonel Allen was left commander of the Fort.

The officers and soldiers in this important expedition behaved with the utmost intrepidity and good conduct, and therefore merit the highest applauses of their grateful Country.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, May 17, 1775.

Whereas, by some misapprehension or mistake of the Seventh Resolve of the late Provincial Convention, sundry Lambs have been lately brought into market and purchased by some of the inhabitants of this City: In order, therefore, to rectify such mistake, and as much as possible to preserve and promote the breed of Sheep, it is ordered that said Resolve be re-published in all the Newspapers; and the Committee do earnestly request all persons to discourage a practice which has so pernicious a tendency to deprive us of wool, one of the most material and necessary articles of manufacture.

"Resolved unanimously, That from and after the first day of March next, no person or persons should use in his, her, or their families, (unless in cases of necessity,) and on no account to sell to the butchers, or kill for the market, any Sheep under four years old; and where there is a necessity for using any mutton in their families, it is recommended to them to kill such as are the least profitable to keep."

ISAAC MELCHER, Secretary pro tem.

An account of the commencement of Hostilities between GREAT BRITAIN and AMERICA, in the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY. By the Reverend Mr. WILLIAM GORDON of ROXBURY, in a Letter to a Gentleman in ENGLAND, dated MAY 17, 1775.

MY DEAR SIR: I shall now give you a letter upon publick affairs. This Colony, judging itself possessed of an undoubted right to the chartered privileges which had been granted by our glorious deliverer, King William the Third, and finding that the Continent was roused by the measures and principles of Administration, was determined upon providing the necessary requisites for self-defence, in case there should be an attempt to support the late unconstitutional Acts by the point of the sword, and upon making that resistance which the laws of God and nature justified, and the circumstances of the people would admit, and so to leave it with the righteous Judge of the world to settle the dispute. Accordingly the Provincial Congress, substituted by the inhabitants in lieu of the General Assembly, which could not convene but by the call of the Governour, prepared a quantity of stores for the service of an army, whenever the same might be brought into the field. These stores were deposited in various places; many of them at Concord, about twenty miles from Charlestown, which lies on the other side of the river, opposite to Boston, answering to Southwark, but without the advantage of a bridge. It was apprehended by numbers, from the attempt made to surprise some cannon at Salem on the 26th February, that there would be something of the like kind in other places; and many were uneasy, after the resolutions of the Parliament were known, that any quantity of stores was within so small a distance of Boston, while there was no regular force established for the defence of them. Several were desirous of raising an army instantly upon hearing what had been determined at home; but it was judged best upon the whole not to do it, as that step might be immediately construed to the disadvantage of the Colony by the enemies of it, and might not meet with the unanimous approbation of the Continental Congress.

Here I must break off for a few minutes to inform you, by way of episode, that on the 30th of March, the Governour ordered out about eleven hundred men to parade it for the distance of five miles; to Jamaica Plains, and so round by the way of Dorchester back again; in performing which military exploit, they did considerable damage to the stone fences, which occasioned a Committee's being formed, and waiting upon the Provincial Congress, then at Concord, on the point of adjourning, which prevented their adjournment, and lengthened out the session till the news of what Parliament had done reached them on April 2d, by a vessel from Falmouth, which brought the account before the Governour had received his despatches, so that obnoxious persons took the advantage of withdrawing from Boston, or keeping away, that they might not be caught by the General, were orders for that purpose given him from home, as there is much reason to suppose was the case, from a hint in an intercepted letter of Mr. Mauduit's to Commissioner Hallowell, and from subsequent intelligence. The Tories had been for a long while filling the officers and soldiers with the idea, that the Yankees would not fight, but would certainly run for it, whenever there was the appearance of hostilities on the part of the Regulars. They had repeated the story so often, that they themselves really believed it, and the military were persuaded to think the same in general, so that they held the country people in the utmost contempt. The officers had discovered, especially since the warlike feat of tarring and feathering, a disposition to quarrel, and to provoke the people to begin, that they might have some colour for hostilities. This cast of mind was much increased upon the news of what Parliament had resolved upon; the people, however, bore insults patiently, being determined that they would not be the aggressors.

At length the General was fixed upon sending a detachment to Concord, to destroy the stores, having been, I apprehend, worried into it by the native Tories that were about him, and confirmed in his design by the opinion of his officers, about ten of whom, on the 18th of April, passed over Charlestown Ferry, and by the neck through Roxbury, armed with swords and pistols, and placed themselves on different parts of the road in the night to prevent all intelligence, and the country's being alarmed; they stopped various persons, threatening to blow their brains out, ordering them to dismount, &c. The Grenadier and Light-Infantry Companies had been taken off duty some days, under pretence of learning a new exercise, which made the Bostonians jealous; one and another were confirmed in their suspicions by what they saw and heard on the 18th, so that expresses were forwarded to alarm the country, some of whom were secured by the officers on the road; the last had not got out of Town more than about five minutes, ere the order arrived to stop all persons from leaving the Town. An alarm was spread in many places, (to some the number of officers on the road to Concord proved an alarm;) however, as there had been repeated false ones, the country was at a loss what to judge. On the first of the night, when it was very dark, the detachment, consisting of all the Grenadiers and Light-Infantry, the flower of the army, to the amount of eight hundred or better, officers included, the companies having been filled up, and several of the inimical torified natives, repaired to the boats, and got into them just as the moon rose, crossed the water, landed on Cambridge side, took through a private way to avoid discovery, and therefore had to go through some places up to their thighs in water. They made a quick march of it to Lexington, about thirteen miles from Charlestown, and got there by half an hour after four.

Here I must pause again, to acquaint you that in the morning of the 19th, before we had breakfasted, between eight and nine, the whole neighbourhood was in alarm; the Minute-men (so called from their having agreed to turn out at a minute's warning) were collecting together; we had an account that the Regulars had killed six of our men at Lexington; the Country was in an uproar; another detachment was coming out of Boston; and I was desired to take care of myself and partner. I concluded that the Brigade was intended to support the Grenadiers and Light-Infantry, and to cover their retreat, in which I was not mistaken. The Brigade took out two cannon, the detachment had none. Having sent off my books, which I had finished packing up the day before, conjecturing what was coming on from the moment I had heard of the resolutions of Parliament, though I did not expect it till the reinforcement arrived, we got into our chaise, and went to Dedham. At night we had it confirmed to us, that the Regulars had been roughly handled by the Yankees, a term of reproach for the New-Englanders, when applied by the Regulars. The Brigade under Lord Percy marched out, playing, by way of contempt, Yankee Doodle; they were afterwards told, that they had been made to dance to it.

Soon after the affair, knowing what untruths are propagated by each party in matters of this nature, I concluded that I would ride to Concord, inquire for myself, and not rest upon the depositions that might be taken by others. Accordingly I went the last week. The Provincial Congress have taken depositions, which they have forwarded to Great Britain; but the Ministry and pretended friends to Government, will cry them down, as being evidence from party persons and rebels; the like may be objected against the present account, as it will materially contradict what has been published in Boston, though not expressly, yet as it is commonly supposed, by authority; however, with the impartial world, and those who will not imagine me capable of sacrificing honesty to the old, at present heretical, principles of the Revolution, it may have some weight.

Before Major Pitcairn arrived at Lexington signal guns had been fired, and the bells had been rung to give the alarm; but let not the sound of bells lead you to think of a ring of bells like what you hear in England; for they are only small sized bells, (one in a Parish,) just sufficient to notify to the people the time for attending worship, &c. Lexington being alarmed, the train band or Militia, and the alarm men (consisting of the aged and others exempted from turning out, excepting upon an alarm) repaired in general to the common, close in with the meeting-house, the usual place of parade; and there were present when the roll was called over about one hundred and thirty of both, as I was told by Mr. Daniel Harrington, clerk to the company; who further said, that the night being chilly, so as to make it uncomfortable being upon the parade, they having received no certain intelligence of the Regulars being upon their march, and being waiting for the same, the men were dismissed, to appear again at the beat of drum. Some who lived near, went home, others to the publick house at the corner of the common. Upon information being received about half an hour after, that the Troops were not far off, the remains of the company who were at hand collected together, to the amount of about sixty or seventy, by the time the Regulars appeared, but were chiefly in a confused state, only a few of them being drawn up, which accounts for other witnesses making the number less, about thirty. There were present as spectators, about forty more, scarce any of whom had arms. The printed accounts tell us, indeed, that they observed about two hundred armed men. Possibly the intelligence they had before received had frightened those that gave the account to the General, so that they saw more than double. The said account, which has little truth in it, says, "that Major Pitcairn galloping up to the head of the advanced companies, two officers informed him, that a man (advanced from those that were assembled) had presented his musket, and attempted to shoot them, but the piece flashed in the pan."

The simple truth, I take to be this, which I received from one of the prisoners at Concord in free conversation, one James Marr, a native of Aberdeen, in Scotland, of the Fourth Regiment, who was upon the advanced guard, consisting of six, besides a sergeant and corporal: They were met by three men on horseback before they got to the meeting-house a good way; an officer bid them stop; to which it was answered, you had better turn back, for you shall not enter the Town; when the said three persons rode back again, and at some distance one of them offered to fire, but the piece flashed in the pan without going off. I asked Marr whether he could tell if the piece was designed at the soldiers, or to give an alarm? He could not say which. The said Marr further declared, that when they and the others were advanced, Major Pitcairn said to the Lexington Company, (which, by the by, was the only one there,) stop, you rebels! and he supposed that the design was to take away their arms; but upon seeing the Regulars they dispersed, and a firing commenced, but who fired first he could not say. The said Marr, together with Evan Davies of the Twenty-Third, George Cooper of the Twenty-Third, and William McDonald of the Thirty-Eighth, respectively assured me in each other's presence, that being in the room where John Bateman, of the Fifty-Second, was, (he was in an adjoining room, too ill to admit of my conversing with him,) they heard the said Bateman say, that the Regulars fired first, and saw him go through the solemnity of confirming the same by an oath on the bible.

Samuel Lee, a private in the Eighteenth Regiment, Royal Irish, acquainted me, that it was the talk among the soldiers that Major Pitcairn fired his pistol, then drew his sword, and ordered them to fire; which agrees with what Levi Harrington, a youth of fourteen last November, told me, that being upon the common, and hearing the Regulars were coming up, he went to the meeting-house, and saw them down in the road, on which he returned to the Lexington Company; that a person on horseback rode round the meeting, and came towards the company that way, said something loud, but could not tell what, rode a little further, then stopped and fired a pistol, which was the first report he heard, then another on horseback fired his pistol; then three or four Regulars fired their guns; upon which, hearing the bullets whistle, he ran off, and saw no more of the affair.

Mr. Paul Revere, who was sent express, was taken and detained some time by the officers, being afterwards upon the spot, and finding the Regulars at hand, passed through the Lexington Company with another, having between them a box of papers belonging to Mr. Hancock, and went down a cross road, till there was a house so between him and the company as that he could not see the latter; he told me likewise, that he had not got half a gun-shot from them before the Regulars appeared; that they halted about three seconds; that upon hearing the report of a pistol or gun, he looked round, and saw the smoke in front of the Regulars, our people being out of view because of the house; then the Regulars huzzaed and fired, first two more guns, then the advanced guard, and so the whole body. The bullets flying thick about him, and he having nothing to defend himself with, ran into a wood, where he halted, and heard the firing for about a quarter of an hour.

James Brown, one of the Lexington Militia, informed me, that he was upon the common; that two pistols were fired from the party of the soldiers towards the Militiamen as they were getting over the wall to be out of the way, and that immediately upon it the soldiers began to fire their guns; that being got over the wall, and seeing the soldiers fire pretty freely, he fired upon them, and some others did the same.

Simon Winship of Lexington, declared, that being upon the road about four o'clock, two miles and an half on this side of the meeting-house, he was stopped by the Regulars, and commanded by some of the officers to dismount, or he was a dead man; that he was obliged to march with the said Troops until he came within about half a quarter of a mile of the said meeting-house, when an officer commanded the Troops to halt, and then to prime and load; which being done, the Troops marched on till they came within a few rods of Captain Parker's Lexington Company, who were partly collected on the place of parade, when said Winship observed an officer at the head of said Troops flourishing his sword round his head in the air, and with a loud voice giving the word fire; the said Winship is positive that there was no discharge of arms on either side, until the word fire was given by the said officer as above.

I shall not trouble you with more particulars, but give you the substance as it lies in my own mind, collected from the persons whom I examined for my own satisfaction. The Lexington Company upon seeing the Troops, and being of themselves so unequal a match for them, were deliberating for a few moments what they should do, when several dispersing of their own heads, the Captain soon ordered the rest to disperse for their own safety. Before the order was given, three or four of the regular officers, seeing the company as they came up on the rising ground on this side the meeting, rode forward one or more, round the meeting-house, leaving it on the right hand, and so came upon them that way; upon coming up one cried out, "you damned rebels, lay down your arms;" another, "stop, you rebels;" a third, "disperse, you rebels," &c. Major Pitcairn, I suppose, thinking himself justified by Parliamentary authority to consider them as rebels, perceiving that they did not actually lay down their arms, observing that the generality were getting off, while a few continued in their military position, and apprehending there could be no great hurt in killing a few such Yankees, which might probably, according to the notions that had been instilled into him by the tory party, of the Americans being poltrons, end all the contest, gave the command to fire, then fired his own pistol, and so set the whole affair agoing. The printed account says very different; but whatever the General may have sent home in support of that account, the publick have nothing but bare assertions, and I have such valid evidence of the falsehood of several matters therein contained, that with me it has very little weight. The same account tells us, that several shots were fired from a meeting-house on the left, of which I heard not a single syllable, either from the prisoners or others, and the mention of which it would have been almost impossible to have avoided, had it been so, by one or another among the numbers with whom I freely and familiarly conversed. There is a curious note at the bottom of the account, telling us, that notwithstanding the fire from the meeting-house, Colonel Smith and Major Pitcairn, with the greatest difficulty kept the soldiers from forcing into the meeting-house, and putting all those in it to death. Would you not suppose that there was a great number in the meeting-house, while the Regulars were upon the common on the right of it, between that and the Lexington Company? Without doubt. And who do you imagine they were? One Joshua Simonds, who happened to be getting powder there as the Troops arrived; besides whom, I believe there were not two, if so much as one; for by reason of the position of the meeting-house, none would have remained in it through choice but fools and madmen. However, if Colonel Smith and Major Pitcairn's humanity prevented the soldiers putting all those persons to death, their military skill should certainly have made some of them prisoners, and the account should have given us their names. To what I have wrote respecting Major Pitcairn, I am sensible his general character may be objected. But character must not be allowed to overthrow positive evidence when good, and the conclusions fairly deduced therefrom. Besides, since hearing from Mr. Jones in what shameful abusive manner, with oaths and curses, he was treated by the Major at Concord, for shutting the doors of his tavern against him and the Troops; and in order to terrify him to make discoveries of stores; and the manner in which the Major crowed over the two four-and-twenty pounders found in the yard, as a mighty acquisition, worthy the expedition on which the detachment was employed, I have no such great opinion of the Major's character; though, when he found that nothing could be done of any great importance by bullying, blustering, and threatening, he could alter his tone, begin to coax, and offer a reward. It may be said this Jones was a jailer; yes, and such a jailer as I would give credit to, sooner than the generality of those officers that will degrade the British arms, by employing their swords in taking away the rights of a free people, when they ought to be devoted to a good cause only. There were killed at Lexington eight persons—one Parker of the same name with the Captain of the company, and two or three more, on the common; the rest on the other side of the walls and fences while dispersing. The soldiers fired at persons who had no arms. Eight hundred of the best British Troops in America having thus nobly vanquished a company of non-resisting Yankees while dispersing, and slaughtering a few of them by way of experiment, marched forward in the greatness of their might to Concord. The Concord people had received the alarm, and had drawn themselves up in order for defence; upon a messenger's coming and telling them that the Regulars were three times their number, they prudently changed their situation, determining to wait for reinforcements from the neighbouring Towns, which were now alarmed; but as to the vast numbers of armed people seen assembling on all the heights, as related in the account, 'tis mostly fiction. The Concord Company retired over the north bridge, and when strengthened returned to it, with a view of dislodging Captain Laurie, and securing it for themselves. They knew not what had happened at Lexington, and therefore orders were given by the commander not to give the first fire. They boldly marched towards it, though not in great numbers, (as told in the account,) and were fired upon by the Regulars, by which fire a Captain belonging to Acton was killed, and I think a private. The Reverend Mr. Emerson of Concord, living in the neighbourhood of the bridge, who gave me the account, went near enough to see it, and was nearer the Regulars than the killed. He was very uneasy till he found that the fire was returned, and continued till the Regulars were drove off. Lieutenant Gould, who was at the bridge, and was wounded and taken prisoner, has deposed that their Regulars gave the first fire there, though the printed narrative asserts the contrary; and the soldiers that knew any thing of the matter, with whom I conversed, made no scruple of owning the same that Mr. Gould deposed.

After the engagement began, the whole detachment collected together as fast as it could. The narrative tells us, that as Captain Parsons returned with his three companies over the bridge, they observed three soldiers on the ground, one of them scalped, his head much mangled, and his ears cut off, though not quite dead; all this is not fiction, though the most is. The Reverend Mr. Emerson informed me how the matter was, with great concern for its having happened. A young fellow coming over the bridge in order to join the country people, and seeing the soldier wounded, and attempting to get up, not being under the feelings of humanity, very barbarously broke his skull, and let out his brains with a small axe, (apprehend of the tomahawk kind,) but as to his being scalped and having his ears cut off, there was nothing in it. The poor object lived an hour or two before he expired. The detachment, when joined by Captain Parsons, made a hasty retreat, finding by woful experience that the Yankees would fight, and that their numbers would be continually increasing. The Regulars were pushed with vigour by the country people, who took the advantage of walls, fences, &c., but those that could get up to engage were not upon equal terms with the Regulars in point of number any part of the day, though the country was collecting together from all quarters, and had there been two hours more for it, would probably have cut off both detachment and Brigade, or made them prisoners. The soldiers being obliged to retreat with haste to Lexington, had no time to do any considerable mischief. But a little on this side Lexington Meeting-House where they were met by the Brigade, with cannon, under Lord Percy, the scene changed. The inhabitants had quitted their houses in general upon the road, leaving almost every thing behind them, and thinking themselves well off in escaping with their lives. The soldiers burnt in Lexington three houses, one barn, and two shops, one of which joined to the house, and a mill-house adjoining to the barn; other houses and buildings were attempted to be burnt, and narrowly escaped. You would have been shocked at the destruction which has been made by the Regulars, as they are miscalled, had you been present with me to have beheld it. Many houses were plundered of every thing valuable that could be taken away, and what could not be carried off was destroyed; looking-glasses, pots, pans, &c., were broke all to pieces; doors when not fastened, sashes and windows wantonly damaged and destroyed. The people say that the soldiers are worse than the Indians; in short, they have given the Country such an early specimen of their brutality as will make the inhabitants dread submission to the power of the British Ministry, and determine them to fight desperately rather than have such cruel masters to lord it over them. The Troops at length reached Charlestown, where there was no attacking them with safety to the Town, and that night and the next day crossed over in boats to Boston, where they continue to be shut up; for the people poured down in so amazing a manner from all parts, for scores of miles round, (even the grey-headed came to assist their countrymen,) the General was obliged to set about further fortifying the Town immediately at all points and places.

The proceedings of April 19th have united the Colony and Continent, and brought in New-York to act as vigorously as any other place whatsoever; and has raised an army in an instant, which are lodged in the several houses of the Towns round Boston till their tents are finished, which will be soon. All that is attended to, besides ploughing and planting, &c., is making ready for fighting. The non-importations and non-exportations will now take place from necessity, and traffick give place to war.

We have a fine spring, prospects of great plenty; there was scarce ever known such a good fall of lambs; we are in no danger of starving through the cruel acts against the New-England Governments; and the men who had been used to the fishery, (a hardy generation of people,) Lord North has undesignedly kept in the Country to give strength to our military operations, and to assist as occasion may require: thanks to a superiour wisdom for his blunders. The General is expecting reinforcements, but few have arrived as yet; the winds, contrary to the common run at this season, instead of being easterly, have been mostly the reverse. When the reinforcement arrives, and is recovered of the voyage, the General will be obliged in honour to attempt dislodging the people, and penetrating into the country; both soldiers and inhabitants are in want of fresh provisions, and will be like to suffer much, should the Provincial Army be able to keep the Town shut up on all sides, excepting by water, as at present.

The General engaged with the Selectmen of Boston, that if the Town's people would deliver up their arms into their custody, those that chose it should be allowed to go out with their effects. The townsmen complied, and the General forfeited his word, for which there will be an after reckoning, should they ever have it in their power to call him to an account. A few have been allowed to come out with many of their effects; numbers are not permitted to come out, and the chief of those who have been, have been obliged to leave their merchandise and goods (linen and household stuff, cash and plate excepted) behind them. You must look back to the origin of the United Provinces, that you may have an idea of the resolution of this people. May the present struggle end as happily in favour of American liberty, without proving the destruction of Great Britain. We are upon a second edition of King Charles the First's reign, enlarged. May the dispute be adjusted before the times are too tragical to admit of it. Both officers and privates have altered their opinion of the Yankees very much since the 18th of April.

The detachment while at Concord disabled two twenty-four-pounders, destroyed their two carriages and seven wheels for the same, with their limbers; sixteen wheels for brass three-pounders, and two carriages, with limber and wheels for two four-pounders; five hundred pounds of ball thrown into the river, wells, and other places; and broke in pieces about sixty barrels of flour, half of which was saved. Cannot be certain of the number that were killed. Apprehend, upon the whole, the Regulars had more than one hundred killed, and one hundred and fifty wounded, besides about fifty taken prisoners. The country people had about forty killed, seven or eight taken prisoners, and a few wounded.

N. B. I never saw the printed account till Monday, so that I was not directed by it in any of my inquiries when at Lexington and Concord. The General, I am persuaded, gave positive orders to the detachment not to fire first, or I am wholly mistaken in my opinion of him. The prisoners at Worcester, Concord, and Lexington, all agreed in their being exceedingly well used. The policy of the people would determine them thereto, if their humanity did not.

Worcester, May 17, 1775.

A great number of that arch traitor Hutchinson's letters have lately fell into the hands of our people. By them is discovered the diabolical plans that have been laid to enslave this Country, and show to the world what an indefatigable slave he has been to his masters the Ministry, and their grand master the Devil. These letters will, undoubtedly, be soon made publick. A correspondent at Roxbury has favoured us with the following extract from one of them; to General Gage, then at New-York:

"Boston, July 23, 1771.

"SIR: I have the honour of your letter of the 15th. Yesterday a vessel arrived, which left London on the 24th of May. I have letters to the 22d. Parliament rose the 9th, and nothing done as to America. I send you a passage of a letter from Sir Francis Bernard. I have the honour to be, very respectfully, &c.

"SIR: It appears to me to be a matter of great importance to His Majesty's general service, and to the real interest of the Colony, that the discord beginning between New-York and us should be encouraged. I wrote some time ago to Mr. Colden upon this subject, but he rather declined concerning himself in it. There is certainly a strong aversion, which nothing but the confederacy against Great Britain could have conquered. This has too much the appearance of Machiavelian policy; but it is justifiable, as it has the most obvious tendency to save the Colonies from ruining themselves, as well as distressing the Mother Country. If Pennsylvania could be brought to take part with New-York, I think the business would be done. I must beg the favour of you not to suffer this letter to come under any other than your own observation. I have the honour to be," &c. &c.

NORTHBOROUGH COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE TO GENERAL WARD.

Northborough, May 17, 1775.

SIR: We, the Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Northborough, have taken into our custody Mr. Ebenezer Cutler, late of Groton, but now of this Town, who, from his conduct, appears to us to be an avowed enemy to his Country. He has set at naught and despised all the Resolutions, &c. of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, and also utterly refuses to act in any defence of his now perishing Country whatever; and as he has, from his past conduct, ever since we have been struggling for the liberties of our Country, appeared in the eyes of the publick to be aiding and abetting in defeating the plans of the good people of this Province, and has been riding from one part of this Province to the other, and, in our opinion, for no good design, we think it highly necessary to send him to the Council of War, to know whether he may (as he deserves) have a pass to go into Boston. We also enclose the substance of two evidences concerning said Cutler. By order of the Committee of Correspondence:

GILLAM BASS, Clerk.

To the Hon. General Artemas Ward, Esq., or Council of War now sitting at Cambridge.

N. B. General Ward, we apprehend, is well acquainted with the character and conduct of said Cutler.

PORTSMOUTH COMMITTEE TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Portsmouth, May 17, 1775.

SIR: A brig from Biddeford, in England, arrived this day, the master of which has just been with the Committee, and acquaints them that his orders are to take on board six masts, of about sixteen inches diameter.

We are informed that the ship lately built at Casco Bay, which arrived in the harbour this morning, is come with the intention to load masts, which are now ready for her. The opinion of the Congress touching the propriety of shipping the masts, is desired as soon as may be.

We have heard that part of the Troops from England arrived yesterday at Boston. I am, by order of the Committee, Sir, your most humble servant,

H. WENTWORTH, Chairman.

To the President of the Provincial Congress, at Exeter.

NEWCASTLE (DELAWARE) COMMITTEE.

Newcastle, on Delaware, ss :

Whereas, the Committee chosen in the several Hundreds of the County of Newcastle, did, at their meeting on the third day of May instant, take "into consideration the present distressed and defenceless situation of the inhabitants of this County, and the unhappy circumstances of their brethren in the other Colonies;" and did therefore "resolve unanimously, that a sum of Money be immediately raised for establishing a fund for procuring and providing the necessary means for our and their protection and support;" and further, "that the sum of one shilling and six pence in the Pound, be collected from each taxable inhabitant in the County, according to the County rates, as well estates as those resident, for the purposes aforesaid," to be collected by the members of the said Committee :

And whereas the said Committee have found a difficulty in collecting the said Money: We, the subscribers, Justices of the Peace and Grand Jurymen for the County aforesaid, do hereby engage, under the solemn ties of virtue, honour, and love of our Country, that, in order to remedy the inconvenience which the Committee aforesaid have met with in the collection of the said Money, we and each of us will, at the Levy Court next to be held for this County, vote for, and to the utmost of our power promote the laying a Tax of one shilling and six pence in the Pound, upon the "taxables, as well estates as those resident," in this County, for the purposes aforesaid, in addition to the tax which may be necessary for the current expenses of the County; out of which additional tax all sums of money already, or which may hereafter be paid in compliance with the said Resolves of the Committee, are to be deducted, and credit given for them to the persons who have paid or may pay the same, respectively.

Witness our hands, this 18th day of May, 1775.

It being found quite impracticable to raise the sums of money that were necessary for the purposes aforementioned, in so short a time as the urgency required, in the usual legal ways, therefore the Committee were obliged to adopt the foregoing method, as appearing the most speedy, effectual, and equitable manner of raising the same; and it is hoped that all lovers of their Country will readily pay their several quotas to the Committee-men of their respective Hundreds, who have undertaken to collect the same without any fees or commissions, as the money is immediately wanted.

Each of the Committee of Correspondence are required to be diligent in collecting, as speedily as possible, what money has been subscribed and not paid towards the relief of our suffering brethren at Boston, and to apply to such as have not before contributed to their support, as their situation is at present most deplorable.

ARTHUR ST. CLAIR TO JOSEPH SHIPPEN, JUN.

Ligonier, May 18, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I yesterday received the enclosed letter from Mr. Cavet, with the contents of which I request you will make the Governour acquainted. You see Hanna and he are very uneasy, which is really not to be wondered at, as they have been now upwards of three months in confinement, for paying obedience to his Honour's Proclamation, and have not had a single line from any person about Government, or any directions how to conduct themselves. The Governour in these times must be occupied by objects of much greater magnitude; but I wish he could spare a few minutes for their affairs, which is truly a business of the last consequence to them, threatening them with no less than absolute ruin.

We have an account that Lord Dunmore has been obliged to abandon his Government; it is the only piece of good news has reached us since the disputes with Great Britain took so serious a turn; but I doubt the truth of it.

The Pittsburgh Court is now sitting; whether they do business or not, I have not heard. The proposition for the relief of Cavet and Hanna, though I believe it practicable enough, I would do nothing in without the Governour's concurrence, as it might be attended with serious consequences.

Yesterday we had a County meeting, and have come to resolutions to arm and discipline, and have formed an Association, which I suppose you will soon see in the papers. God grant an end may be speedily put to any necessity for such proceedings. I doubt their utility, and am almost as much afraid of success in this contest, as of being vanquished. I am, with much respect, dear Sir, your most obedient and most humble servant,

AR. ST. CLAIR.

NEWARK (NEW-JERSEY) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the General Committee of Association for the Township of Newark, in New-Jersey, on Thursday, the 18th day of May, 1775:

The Committee taking into consideration the Resolutions of the Committees of New-York and other Provinces, relative to the suspension of all exportation to Quebec, Nova-Scotia, Georgia, and Newfoundland, or any part of the Fishing Coasts and Fishing Islands; and highly approving the same, do resolve that it be recommended to the gentlemen Traders of this Town, that they stop all exportations to the said places; and also to our constituents in general, that they do not supply any person whatsoever with any kind of Exports, which they have reason to believe are designed for either of those places, nor any of the King's ships or boats with provisions clandestinely; nor in any manner whatsoever that may counteract any Resolutions that have been made by the Committee of New-York. By order of the Committee:

LEWIS OGDEN, Chairman.

INSTRUCTIONS TO DELEGATES FROM NEWARK IN CONGRESS OF NEW-JERSEY.

At a meeting of the General Committee of Association held at Newark, the 18th day of May, 1775:

The following Instructions to Isaac Ogden and Philip Van Cortlandt, Esquires, Messrs. Bethuel Pierson and Caleb Camp, the Deputies elected to represent said Town in Provincial Congress, were unanimously agreed on:

GENTLEMEN: The great, the important crisis which will determine the fate of America, seems hastily approaching; a crisis in which not only you, the fond wives of your bosoms, the infants of your tenderest solicitude; but millions of your posterity yet unborn, and every thing that is near and dear to you, worthy your wish, or meriting your care, are deeply interested; a crisis which will decide whether this Continent shall be governed by the unlimited will of a Senate in which it has no voice; by a power without the right, over which it can have no influence or control; whether it shall be forever bound in wretched, relentless chains of slavery, or whether the glorious sun of constitutional liberty shall still enlighten this horizon, and permanently shine, unclouded with the tainted breath of despotism.

To you, gentlemen, is delegated by the inhabitants of this Town one of the most important trusts in their power, which nothing less than tyrant necessity could have urged them to grant, or you to accept; a necessity which, with hearts glowing with affection, overflowing with loyalty to our Sovereign, we unfeignedly lament.

We need not, we mean not, gentlemen, to wish you additional firmness in the common cause; your being chosen to this trust sufficiently approves your principles and steady regard to the duties, the great interests of your delegation; nor need we advise that you carry with you that spirit of harmony, that firmness with moderation, which we are happy to say animates this part of the Province; and as we have the pleasure and reason to expect that the interests of the general weal, on constitutional ground, will be the constant line of your conduct; that you will keep this goal steadily in view; so we do not wish to bind you with an embarrassing chain of restrictions, much less do we presume to dictate measures to the Provincial Congress; but shall only lay before you some outlines of a plan which we desire you to propose to the wisdom of that Convention.

Money has been aptly called the sinews of war; so may it also the anima that enlivens, that braces and gives firmness to the nerves of our Constitution. In the alarming exigency rising before us, there will probably be occasion for a publick fund; and we could wish, as the whole Province is equally interested, that the burden should be also equal. We conceive, when the necessary sum is fixed by the Congress, that the present Quota Bill, by which the proportion of taxes in the several Counties for the support of Government, &c., has been ascertained, will be a just scale to regulate the present occasion; and perhaps the Assessors and Collectors in the several Townships may, in general, be proper persons to conduct the like business, leaving it in the option of such Towns as may incline to make a special choice of new officers for this purpose.

We consider it advisable that a certain number of men be immediately raised, disciplined, well accoutred with arms and ammunition, and prepared in every respect for an instant service.

That as men who go volunteers will be most likely to be hearty in the service, and the disagreeable measure of draughting from the Militia may thereby be prevented, a roll be opened in every Town where it can be advantageously, for the enlistment of Volunteers, to be prepared as above-mentioned, for every emergency; that the Congress appoint the commandant and all the field-officers, and that the General Committees of those Towns where any company or companies shall be raised, have the appointment of the Captains and subalterns; that one or more proper persons be empowered by the Congress to sign and affix a proper seal to the commissions, agreeable to such appointment; that the Volunteers, on their enlistment, subscribe certain articles, to oblige themselves, under certain penalties, (to be ascertained by the Congress, similar to the Mutiny Bill, if thought proper,) to be obedient to their officers, and to prevent desertion; that proper persons be appointed for a Treasurer of said fund, and for a Paymaster-General, giving the necessary security, &c.; that the pay for the officers and men be fixed by the Congress; and that the said Volunteers, from the day of their enlistment, be in discipline at least so much time as may amount to one day in a week; and also such further time, not exceeding — days in the whole, per week, as shall be judged expedient by the said General Committees; that sufficient arms and ammunition for such Volunteers as are unable to furnish themselves therewith, and provisions for emergent occasions, be provided; and that every Volunteer entrusted with the arms, &c., belonging to the Province, be obligated to return them to the Commanding Officer, when called for, except such as may be lost in the service, &c.; that magazines of powder and other necessary military stores be formed in such parts of the Province as shall be judged most advantageous for emergencies; that Commissioners be appointed to direct and regulate any contingent business which cannot be ascertained with precision by the Congress; that Muster-Masters be appointed to review the companies, and to take care that none but able-bodied men be continued on the rolls; nor any apprentice or servant enlisted, without his master's consent in writing; that a proper number of field-pieces be provided, and one or more Artillery Companies raised and disciplined. As exigencies may happen which may require a greater force than the number of Volunteers to be raised as aforesaid, that the Congress recommend it to the Militia Captains throughout the Province to procure such persons as are capable of teaching military discipline, to be paid out of the publick fund; and that their men be exercised at least — times per week; that it be recommended by the Congress to the several Towns or Counties throughout the Province, who have not already done it, to appoint General Committees to enter into and subscribe an Association of similar import to that adopted by this County. We are, gentlemen, your humble servants. By order of the Committee:

LEWIS OGDEN, Chairman.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

The Committee met Thursday, the 18th of May, 1775.
Present:

Isaac Low,	Victor Bicker,	Cornelius Clopper,

Ordered, That Colonel Walton, Colonel Lisperard, Colonel Beckman, Major Van Dam, Mr. Brasher, Mr. Lasher, Mr. Fleming, and Mr. Curtenius, be a Committee for instituting a Military Night Watch in this City, to consist of forty men, each with an officer to command them, and that they report the mode to this Committee with all convenient speed.

Ordered, That the following Letter be immediately despatched to his Honour the Governour of Connecticut, to wit:

New-York, May 18, 1775.

SIR: As we have great reason to expect the arrival of Troops from Britain, to be quartered in this Province, we thought it a necessary piece of precaution to ask of the Continental Congress a line of conduct for our inhabitants on that event. We have received their directions on that head, as appears by the enclosed. We have also been informed that our brethren of Connecticut, attentive to the common cause, and kindly tendering the safety of this City in its present defenceless state, are upon the point of marching a considerable body of Troops into it with intent to assist us in securing it against any attempt to reduce it to the condition of a garrison-town or place of arms. We have on this head to request your Honour, should those Troops be about to march, to direct their encampment on the Western frontiers of your Colony, if your Honour should think it expedient they should proceed so far, until some plan can be properly settled with our Provincial Congress, who are to meet on the 22d instant, so as to place their introduction, if necessary, on such a basis as will produce perfect concord and unanimity, and most effectually answer the valuable ends of so friendly a succour.

To His Honour Jonathan Trumbull, Esquire.

Directions for a Military Watch in the City of New-York.

First. That a guard be mounted every evening at eight o'clock, at the City-Hall, consisting of not less than forty men properly officered.

Second. That detachments be made from the said guard to patrol the streets every two hours, under the command of a non-commissioned officer, accompanied by a constable or other civil officer, who may be directed by a Magistrate to attend from nine o'clock in the evening until five o'clock in the morning.

Third. That they pay particular attention that no Provisions be exported from this City; and if any persons are discovered exporting Provisions contrary to the Resolves of this Committee, to take particular notice of them, and endeavour, by persuasion and other peaceable methods, to prevent it, and that they make a report thereof.

Fourth. That the patrols do not challenge persons, boats, &c., but watch their motions, if suspected, and by all means endeavour to prevent outrage on person or property, and report the perpetrators.

Fifth. That no unnecessary and wanton alarm be given to our fellow-citizens, either by firing of guns, beating of drums, or otherwise, in the night, but that all their operations be conducted with that manly prudence and discretion becoming citizens zealous to support their freedom without tumult and disorder.

Sixth. That the commanding officer of the guard dismiss his guard at five o'clock in the morning, and report in writing by ten o'clock, to the Chairman, Deputy, or Chairman pro tempore, all extraordinary occurrences which may have happened during the time of his being on duty, signed by himself.

ABM. BRASHER, EDWARD FLEMING,
JOHN LASHER, ALEX. McDOUGALL.

At a special meeting of the Committee, 19th of May 1775:

The Chairman produced a Letter delivered him by his Worship the Mayor, in answer to a Resolution of yesterday, requesting him to furnish Captain Montague with a copy of Charles Murray's Affidavit.

Ordered, That Mr. Scott, Mr. Kissam, Mr. Van Schaack, Mr. Helme, Mr. Jones, Mr. Ritzma, Mr. Murray, and Mr. Smith, be a Committee to inquire into the merits of Captain Montague's plea for having seized the Powder, &c., on board of Captain Murray's Vessel, and report their opinion thereon to the Committee at their next meeting.

At a meeting of the Committee, May 20, 1775. Present forty-six Members.

Ordered, That Mr. Van Dam, Mr. Burling, Mr. Totten, and Mr. Laight, be a Committee to form an estimate of what Stores may be necessary to forward to Albany.

Mr. Charles McEvers exhibited a complaint in writing against Mr. John Anderson.

A Letter from the Continental Congress, dated May 18, 1775, enclosing a Resolve of that Board, was received and read.

Mr. McDougall reported the draft of a Letter to the Committee at Albany, which being approved of,

Ordered, That the same be forwarded.

COMMITTEE OF PALATINE DISTRICT, TRYON COUNTY, NEW-YORK, TO THE ALBANY COMMITTEE.

May 18, 1775.

We are so peculiarly circumstanced in this County, relating to the present struggle for American liberty, that we cannot longer defer laying the situation of this County before you. The District we represent has been foremost in avowing its attachment to liberty, and approving the method of opposition adopted in America, and are now signing an Association similar to what has been signed in other Counties in this Province, and we hope in a few days to have the pleasure to transmit it down for the press. The County being extensive, it takes a considerable time before the people who are favourable to the cause can be got to sign; for we have caused copies of the Association to be dispersed in divers parts of the County. This County has, for a series of years, been ruled by one family, the different branches of which are still strenuous in dissuading people from coming into Congressional measures, and even have, last week, at a numerous meeting of the Mohawk District, appeared with all their dependants armed to oppose the people considering of their grievances; their number being so large, and the people unarmed, struck terror into most of them, and they dispersed. We are informed that Johnson-Hall is fortifying by placing a parcel of swivel-guns round the same, and that Colonel Johnson has had parts of his regiment of Militia under arms yesterday, no doubt with a design to prevent the friends of liberty from publishing their attachment to the cause to the world. Besides which we are told that about one hundred and fifty Highlanders, (Roman Catholics), in and about Johnstown, are armed and ready to march upon the like occasion. We have been informed that Colonel Johnson has stopped two New-Englanders, and searched them, being, we suppose, suspicious that they came to solicit aid from us or the Indians, whom we dread most, there being a current report through the County that they are to be made use of in keeping us in awe.

We recommend it strongly and seriously to you to take it in your consideration, whether any powder and ammunition ought to be permitted to be sent up this way, unless it is done under the inspection of the Committee, and consigned to the Committee here, and for such particular shopkeepers as we in our next shall acquaint you of. We are determined to suffer none in our District to sell any but such as we approve of, and sign the Association. When any thing particular comes to our knowledge relating to the Indians, (whom we shall watch,) or any other thing interesting, we shall take the earliest opportunity in communicating the same to you. And as we are a young County, remote from the Metropolis, we beg you will give us all the intelligence in your power. We shall not be able to send down any Deputies to the Provincial Congress, as we cannot possibly obtain the sense of the County soon enough to make it worth our while to send any, but be assured we are not the less attached to American liberty. For we are determined, although few in number, to let the world see who are, and who are not such; and to wipe off the indelible disgrace brought on us by the Declaration signed by our Grand Jury and some of our Magistrates, who, in general, are considered by the majority of the County as enemies to their Country. In a word, gentlemen, it is our fixed resolution to support and carry into execution every thing recommended by the Continental Congress, and to be free or die.

COLONEL GUY JOHNSON TO THE COMMITTEE OF SCHE-NECTADY, NEW-YORK.

Guy Park, May 18, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We have, for some days past, heard of many threats from the publick, that gives us reason to apprehend that the persons or properties of gentlemen of the first consideration, both with respect to station and property, would have been insulted in this County, and myself in particular, under colour of a gross and notorious falsehood, uttered by some worthless scoundrels, respecting my intentions as Superintendent of Indian Affairs. To gentlemen of sense and moderation, these malicious, ill-founded charges ought to be self-evidently false; my duty is to promote peace, and my office of the highest importance to the trade and frontiers. But as these reports are daily increasing, it becomes me, both as a subject and a man, to disavow them; and until I can find out and chastise the author, to assure the publick of their mistake, and to inform them that it has rendered it my duty for self-preservation so necessary, that I have taken precaution to give a very hot and disagreeable reception to any persons that shall attempt to invade my retreat; at the same time that I have no intention to disturb those who choose to permit me the honest exercise of my reason and duties of my office, and requesting that you will immediately cause this to be made publick to the Albany Committee, I remain, gentlemen, your very humble servant, G. JOHNSON.

AUTHENTICK ACCOUNT OF THE TAKING OF FORTRESSES AT TICONDEROGA AND CROWN POINT, BY A PARTY OF THE CONNECTICUT FORCES.

New-York, May 18, 1775.

Captain Edward Mott and Captain Noah Phelps set out from Hartford on Saturday, the twenty-ninth of April, in order to take possession of the fortress of Ticonderoga, and the dependencies thereunto belonging. They took with them from Connecticut sixteen men unarmed, and marched privately through the country till they came to Pittsfield, without discovering their design to any person, till they fell in company with Colonel Ethan Allen, Colonel Easton, and John Brown, Esq., who engaged to join themselves to said Mott and Phelps, and to raise men sufficient to take the place by surprise if possible. Accordingly the men were raised, and proceeded as directed by said Mott and Phelps, Colonel Ethan Allen commanding the soldiery. On Tuesday they surprised and took the fortress, making prisoners the commandant and his party. On Wednesday morning they possessed themselves of Crown Point; taking possession of the ordnance stores, consisting of upwards of two hundred pieces of cannon, three mortars, sundry howitzers, and fifty swivels, &c.

Ethan Allen, fearful of an attempt from Governour Carleton to retake the place, has written to the Committee of Albany for a supply of five hundred men and provisions; the Committee, however, not perceiving themselves competent to determine on a matter of so much importance, requested the advice of our General Committee, who referred them, and immediately despatched an express, to the Congress now sitting in Philadelphia.

ETHAN ALLEN TO THE MERCHANTS OF MONTREAL.

St. John's, May 18, 1775:

GENTLEMEN: I have the pleasure to acquaint you that Lakes George and Champlain, with the fortresses, artillery, &c., particularly the armed sloop of George the Third, with all water carriages of these Lakes, are now in possession of the Colonies. I expect the English Merchants, as well as all virtuous disposed gentlemen, will be in the interest of the Colonies. The advanced guard of the Army is now at St. John's, and desire immediately to have a personal intercourse with you. Your immediate assistance as to provisions, ammunition, and spirituous liquors, is wanted and forthwith expected, not as a donation, for I am empowered by the Colonies to purchase the same; and I desire you would forthwith, and without further notice, prepare for the use of the Army those articles to the amount of five hundred Pounds, and deliver the same to me at St. John's, or at least a part of it almost instantaneously, as the soldiers press on faster than provisions. I need not inform you that my directions from the Colonies are not to contend with, or any way injure or molest the Canadians or Indians; but, on the other hand, treat them with the greatest friendship and kindness. You will be pleased to communicate the same to them, and some of you immediately visit me at this place, while others are active in delivering the provisions.

I write in haste, and am, gentlemen, your obedient humble servant,

ETHAN ALLEN.

To Mr. James Morrison and the Merchants that are friendly to the cause of liberty in Montreal.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE CAMP AT CAMBRIDGE,
DATED MAY 18, 1775.

We hear from Halifax that the people have at last shewn they have spirit. It seems the agents for procuring forage for the expected regiment of Dragoons had taken, without the consent of the owner, and were shipping for Boston, a great quantity of hay, on which the people set fire to, and wholly destroyed it. And when that work was finished, they attempted the like by the King's Magazines, which they several times fired, but they were extinguished by the people from the ships-of-war lying there, who made a brisk fire on the people, and prevented them from effecting their design. The fugitives from Boston are gone for Halifax, but the people say no d—d Tories shall be allowed to breathe in their air, so that these devils can't find a resting place there, which was the only place on the Continent that they ever dared to hope they might stay in.

COLONEL STARK TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Medford, May 18, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: About the twenty-ninth of April last, a Committee sent from Provincial Congress of the Province of New-Hampshire to the Provincial Congress of the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, having discretionary instructions from said Congress, advised to raise a Regiment from the Province of New-Hampshire as soon as possible, under the Constitution and establishment of the Massachusetts-Bay, but to be deemed as part of the quota of men of the Province of New-Hampshire, and that New-Hampshire Congress would establish said measures. In consequence of which, a number of officers of the Province of New-Hampshire convened, and made choice of their field-officers for said Regiment, who have raised the same, fifty-four of whom are now present at Medford, exclusive of drummers and fifers, and the remainder are hourly expected; and as a great number of those already here (who expected, when they enlisted, to draw arms from the Provincial stocks) are destitute of the same, and cannot be furnished,

(as no arms are to be procured here at present,) must inevitably return from whence they came, unless they are supplied from some quarter speedily. I humbly pray that you would maturely consider our defenceless situation, and adopt some measure or measures whereby they may be equipped. In confidence of your immediate compliance with the above request, I am, in the Country's common cause, your most obedient and devoted humble servant,

JOHN STARK.

N. B. The gentleman who presents this to the Convention, can give you particular information as to our present situation.

ADDRESS OF THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS TO GOVERNOUR WENTWORTH.

May it please your Excellency:

Governour Gage, in a letter to the Earl of Dartmouth, dated 27th January, 1775, informed the British Ministry that your Excellency had applied to him for two Regiments of the British Troops, to be stationed at Portsmouth; and as it evidently appears, at this alarming period, that the British Troops are ministerial tools, sent to America to endeavour to enforce unconstitutional and tyrannical Acts of the British Parliament, by fire, sword, and famine, and as we humbly conceive it is your Excellency's duty, in your political capacity, to guard and defend the lives, liberty, and properties of the inhabitants of this Province, your Excellency's sending for Troops to destroy the lives, liberties, and properties you have solemnly engaged to defend and protect, conveys to our minds such shocking ideas, that we shall rejoice to find what is represented to be fact in said letter, to be farce. But as we have such information, duty to ourselves and constituents, obliges us humbly to desire your Excellency to give us such evidence as will enable us to know and inform our constituents what to expect.

We are, &c., &c.

CAROLINE COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a Committee held for the County of Caroline, on Friday, the nineteenth of May, 1775, the Committee having taken into their most serious consideration his Excellency Lord Dunmore's Letter, dated the twenty-fourth of December last, to Lord Dartmouth, His Majesty's Secretary of State for the American Department; also his Lordship's Proclamation, and a Letter wrote by a certain Captain Montague to the Honourable Thomas Nelson, Esq., (which were severally published in the Gazettes,) think it their indispensable duty to remonstrate against the illiberal aspersions which are most injuriously thrown out against our constituents, as part of the community, and also to declare our abhorrence of the brutal disposition that dictated the menaces contained in the said Montague's Letter: Therefore, Resolved,

1st. That his Lordship's Letter, if founded on the information of others, fully evinces to us their unfriendly and inimical disposition towards this Country, and his wishes to perpetuate the unhappy dispute between Great Britain and America, which we so fervently and ardently desire to terminate on constitutional principles. We cannot forbear adverting to that part of his Lordship's Letter, where he asserts that armed Companies in some Counties are formed, and sworn to enforce the order of the Committees directly in open defiance of the legal prerogative of the Crown. Such proceedings as these, we are apprehensive, never had existence, or we should have had as early intelligence of them as his Lordship.

2d. That that part of his Lordship's Proclamation wherein he charges some persons with being disaffected to His Majesty's Government, and endeavouring to effect a change in it, under the appearance of defending their liberties, contains an accusation totally groundless, and cannot be meetly applied to the people of this Colony, who ever were, and in future wish to be, distinguished for their loyalty to our most gracious Sovereign, whom we sincerely pray may ever enjoy his reign in peace, happiness, and glory. We think ourselves extremely ill-treated by his Lordship, while we are aiming to preserve that liberty and freedom which the God of nature originally gave, and our ancestors have handed down to us, to be charged with disaffection to His Majesty's Government. On a review of his Lordship's conduct, we cannot avoid suspecting his design in removing the gunpowder (more especially in the night) was rather to deprive this Colony of it, than to be used for suppressing any insurrection.

3d. That Captain Montague's threat of firing upon the defenceless Town of York, bespeaks such a base and diabolical disposition, that he ought to be contemned and despised by all men of spirit and humanity. We therefore recommend it to our constituents, not to show the said Montague any mark of civility or respect whatsoever.

SAMUEL HAWES, JR., Clerk.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF VIRGINIA.

Williamsburgh, May 19, 1775.

There are few attempts in life so unlikely to give universal satisfaction as those that are brought before the all-scrutinizing eye of the publick; for although a man be so fortunate as to please some, he may, on the other hand, offend many. And there are few men, possessed of a tolerable knowledge of men and manners, but what must be, on the least attentive consideration, assured of the truth of this thesis. How careful, then, ought that man to be, who makes his appearance in the publick papers, in knowing that he is embarked, if not in an unoffending, yet a righteous cause. Thus equipped, he may fearlessly pass the rock of criticism, if not with eclat, with that, at least, which affords more permanent felicity—the heartfelt commendation of a good conscience. These animadversions lead me to a few strictures on our truly great and worthy Governour's Proclamation of the sixth of this instant. I confess, in the first place, that it is with the most pungent sorrow I find that justice, and the great cause of America's inherent rights, make it indispensably necessary, in these unhappy days, that nothing should pass unnoticed that is not dignified by the sacred signature of truth, and which, through the malversation of bad and designing men, might have the baneful tendency of extending the unnatural breach between Great Britain and her Colonies, and bring on the additional displeasure of our gracious King. Of such a tendency appears our Governour's Proclamation of the above date, particularly aimed at Patrick Henry, Jun., Esquire, his Country's and America's unalterable and unappalled great advocate and friend. As most of the good people of this Country may have seen this unparalleled Proclamation, I shall not take up much of their or your time, in a very minute recital of it; suffice it to say, that the whole must appear a Ministerial trick, calculated to please some, to delude others, and, what is of more serious and alarming consequence, (similar to one of his other laudable efforts,*) to prejudice and detract from the great American cause, by effecting a disunion amongst the friends of it, as the only possible means of obtaining success to Ministerial machinations. The degenerate tools of lawless power may applaud his Lordship's ingenuity, but the honest, virtuous, and upright sons of constitutional liberty will reprobate the want of that candour and nobleness of spirit, which can alone give effulgence to high birth or exalted station, and deprived of which, either the one or the other must, in the reflection of the virtuous mind, (to use the great Mr. Pope's words,) appear but as so much "leather or prunella." There are, however, representations of the conduct of the said Mr. Henry, and his deluded followers, (as his Lordship is pleased, fashionably, to call them,) so exceedingly inconsonant to my idea of the case, that his Lordship must pardon me if I should, for the sake of justice, attempt to set the matter in a different and less partial point of view. His Lordship observes, "That the said Mr. Henry, with a number of deluded followers, had taken up arms, chosen their officers, and, styling themselves an Independent Company, had marched out of their County, encamped, and put themselves into a posture of war, and had written letters, &c., to the great terror of all His Majesty's faithful subjects, and in open defiance of law and Government; and have committed other acts of violence, particularly in extorting from his Receiver-General the sum of three hundred and thirty Pounds, under pretence of replacing the powder he (the Governour) thought proper to order from the Magazine;" whence, adds his Lordship, "it undeniably appears that there is no longer the least security for the life or property of any man." Would not strangers to this manœuvre of Mr. Henry be induced readily to believe, from this Proclamation of his Lordship, that his conduct in the affair of the powder was directly consistent with the greatest rectitude; and, on the contrary, that Mr. Henry's behaviour was, in the extreme, impolitical, disorderly, and base? But let such first recur to the many poor subterfuges that Ministerial vicegerents have lately been drove to, and then they will not be greatly astonished at the contents of his Lordship's Proclamation.

* See his Lordship's Letter to the Earl of Dartmouth, dated the twenty-fourth of December last.

The powder which was removed from the Magazine in the City of Williamsburgh, under cover of the night, (a time most friendly and best adapted to dark and insidious designs,) appears clearly to have been, if not the permanent and exclusive property of this Colony, at least so intended for its direct emolument and protection, by an Act of Assembly, passed in the first year of King George the First's reign, entitled, "An Act for erecting a Magazine;" that his Lordship's removal of it on board one of His Majesty's armed vessels, just at that alarming and critical time, was, in my view, illegal, and a competent declaration of his hostile and inimical designs against this unhappy Country, and sufficient, of itself, to have roused the good people of it from that lethargick state of security into which the great appearance of his Lordship's friendship had lulled them; and farther, to have placed themselves in such a posture of defence as might enable them to guard against the impending blow which this step of his Lordship plainly told them was but too fast approaching. The inhabitants of Williamsburgh, justly alarmed and incensed at such behaviour from his Lordship, like men determined to support their constitutional rights and property in opposition to every act of violence under Heaven against them, take up arms, and are about to demand restitution of the powder, when they are dissuaded from such a step by gentlemen in whom great confidence is placed, who persuade them to lay down their arms, and return to their respective homes; assuring them at the same time, that every pacifick endeavour should be made in order to have the powder replaced in the Magazine. They then convened a common hall, and in a very respectful manner, address his Lordship on the impropriety of his conduct in the affair of the powder; entreating him at the same time to return it again to the Magazine, and thereby restore peace and order to the inhabitants of the Town. To which said address his Lordship was pleased to return a verbal answer, (being, it is said, peculiarly happy in expressing his sentiments with ease and propriety that way,) whereby it most evidently appears that his Lordship expressly avows the impropriety of his conduct in the removal of the powder, in promising, upon his "word and honour," that in case there should be an insurrection of the slaves, which he acknowledges there was cause to apprehend, he would then return the powder, on being allowed a half hour to do it in. The inconsistency of such an answer is so plain, that it needs no comment. In short, several gentlemen, who were dissatisfied with such an evasive, contradictory, and affrontive answer, wait on his Lordship in person, and entreat him, as the representative of His Majesty here, as the Chief Magistrate, and, above all, as a friend to peace and order, to return the powder, and thereby quiet the fears and apprehensions of the people, which he now positively refuses to do; assigning, as a reason for his strange and unwarrantable conduct, that the people of Williamsburgh had been in arms.

But attend to his subsequent conduct, and see if it accords with those pompous professions of regard for peace, order, and good government, and the happiness of the people (who are so unhappy as to be under his rule) which he would induce a belief are the grand objects of his care and study. Conscious that the people would no longer acquiesce in a behaviour in one moment so disingenuous and evasive, in another so disrespectful and irritating, he determined to fling off the mask, and bid defiance to their utmost efforts to regain the powder; and therefore immediately began to arm his menial servants, who were, by their lord and master's example, taught to look upon and treat the good people of this Country with the greatest indignity and contempt. Add to all this, that we had just heard that many of our worthy and noble friends, the guardians and zealous supporters of our liberty, were on the black list of American victims, destined to sacrifice, in order to appease those sanguinary wretches in power; and that, farther, we had received the long-feared and melancholy news, that the sword was now drawn by the King's Troops against our brethren the Bostonians, who were then bleeding in the common cause. Thus unhappily circumstanced on all sides, what does Mr. Henry to deserve those inglorious epithets, which are, though obscurely, yet most certainly aimed principally at him, not only by his Lordship's candid and liberal Address to the Council, previous to the issuing of a former Proclamation, but by those also in exalted station, who, it was hoped from their affinity to our wrongs, and having received their birth here, would have entertained sentiments of a more generous and liberal kind, of those who are the produce of the same Country, and in loyalty and attachment to their gracious Sovereign, not an iota, I trust, inferior to them. I repeat, what does Mr. Henry (matters being thus situated) to deserve the censure of his countrymen? Why, like the vigilant guardian and protector of their constitutional rights and liberties, he was resolved, with proper assistance, by the force of arms, to effect a restitution of the powder, or an equivalent thereto, which had been, by low fraud and artifice, removed out of the Country's possession, and which he now was sorry to find pacifick measures were not likely to accomplish. This gentleman, therefore, by the advice and determination of the Hanover Committee, held at Newcastle the second instant, accompanied by many of his respectable and worthy countrymen, set out from Newcastle on their way to the capital, and were joined on their way down by several spirited gentlemen from different Counties. With what prudence and penetration Mr. Henry took his measures, and what they eventually produced, may be fully known by a reference to a publication of his conduct at large, in the proceedings of the Committee of Hanover County on the ninth instant; and, as the matter stands represented there, and which is incontrovertibly consistent with the real truth of the case, how then does his Lordship get his intelligence that this movement of Mr. Henry was to the great "terror of all His Majesty's faithful subjects?" From whence does he learn that Mr. Henry had committed "acts of violence?" Have any of those terrified "faithful subjects," on whom those acts of violence were committed, preferred their complaints before his Lordship, in order to obtain redress? Or are these words inserted only to heighten or aggravate this supposed guilty conduct of Mr. Henry, in the opinion of those who cannot be, in all probability, from the remoteness of their situation, furnished with an impartial and fair state of the case? The guilty, perhaps, might fear and tremble at an apprehension of the just vengeance of the incensed people, roused and provoked as they were by reiterated acts of oppression and tyranny; but whether the innocent Americans (of which, I thank Heaven, there is by far the greater majority) were terrified and frightened by this attempt of Mr. Henry to regain their property, I leave the candid part of mankind to determine, from the publication of the proceedings of the many Committees which have sat on this occasion, as may be seen in the papers subsequent to this step taken by Mr. Henry.

Thus much I have thought proper to lay before the publick, in vindication of the conduct of a gentleman who is now absent, and, as the advocate and steady friend of his Country, contending, I doubt not, for all that is precious and worth the preserving, to those who are by nature free, and who, by their laws and Constitution, have an indubitable right to remain so, in opposition to every power on earth to make them otherwise.

Had his Lordship, at this perplexed and unhappy juncture of affairs, steadily pursued that noble line of right which prudence and his duty had marked out to him; had he evinced from his actions, in accordance to his professions, that the happiness of the people which he ruled was his great object and care; had he, like a good, virtuous, and great man, stepped in as a mediator in this unnatural struggle between Great Britain and her Colonies, and attempted to close, rather than by disingenuous misrepresentations, to widen the breach, I trust he would still have continued to receive that grateful tribute of applause which the people here have, on some late occasions, so cordially offered up to him. But from his late conduct, as held up to the world, what confidence can they place in him who has declared himself to be (and his actions manifest he is not in jest) their opposed and dangerous enemy? BRUTUS.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF THE MANOR OF CORTLANDT, NEW-YORK.

Manor of Cortlandt, May 19, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The dangerous innovations and infringements attempted by certain mercenary Ministerial tools and infamous traitors (in this Manor) to their Country, who assume to themselves the name of loyalists, on the liberties of their fellow-subjects, have greatly alarmed the impartial friends of liberty herein. A fool, says an author, has great need of title; it teaches men to call him Count and Duke, and to forget his proper name of fool.

In a day when American pulse beats high for liberty; when it is the subject of almost every publick paper, as well as topick of discourse, it might justly have been expected that no American would be so hardy as to violate the rights of his fellow-subjects; and if any such monster should appear in this land of liberty, that there would not be wanting advocates for so glorious and important a cause, as to expose those of its members who are trampling on the sacred rights of the people.

I have waited with great impatience, expecting that some able hand would have undertaken the benevolent task to warn you to beware of the conduct of some of the basest villains that ever disgraced any society, and draw the attention of the inhabitants to its danger; but finding that although now some months are elapsed since the commencement of the measures of these traitors, &c., yet none has appeared to sound the friendly alarm to the very indolent inhabitants, I have attempted what I so ardently wished might have been done by some more able hand. While we are straining every nerve to baffle foreign attempts to enslave us, surely it must be very criminal in the descendants of Britons, who ought to love life and liberty alike, to be so assiduous in exerting themselves to enslave their fellow-subjects.

It may not be improper to inform you, gentlemen, of the springs and motives which induce these principal movers to forget their duty to God, their fellow-countrymen, and their posterity.

They, anxious to secure to themselves and their posterity power and authority, and to engross some offices or pensions from or under the Crown, have made a sacrifice of all publick virtue on the altar of self-interest. This desperate spirit it was that induced these traitors or mercenary hirelings to exert their influence to bring about the detestable measures proposed by a certain paper handed about here last winter, entitled "The Loyalists' Test." But, happily for this Manor, this very dangerous scheme was disconcerted by some lovers of loyalty and liberty. For the men who would make such inroads on the liberties of the people, as they were aiming at, to gratify their thirst for power, and give Administration a high idea of their influence in this Manor, would, from the same principle, exert every nerve of influence to carry any ministerial mandate into execution, at the expense of the liberties of their fellow-countrymen.

Can any judicious American son of liberty behold these traitors of their Country without the utmost abhorrence, by whose influence the more illiterate, and those who are unacquainted with the principles of the present dispute, are so besotted as to resign their liberties into the hands of the most ambitious and designing fellows, who are aiming to make a merit with the Ministry by enslaving their fellow-countrymen, and to aggrandise themselves and their posterity? Surely he cannot. If Charles the First deserved the axe, and James the Second the loss of his Kingdom, for changing the Constitution, and thereby trampling on the rights of their subjects, I leave you, my countrymen, to judge what punishment would be adequate to the crimes of these loyalists and their tools, who are aiming at the same by a sacrifice of all publick virtue, and the liberty of their Country.

AN INHABITANT.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE COMMITTEE OF SUPPLIES.
Cambridge, May 19, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Benedict Arnold having been authorized and empowered to raise and furnish a number of men, not exceeding four hundred, to proceed against and reduce the garrison at Ticonderoga, with its dependencies, has, we find, in consequence of said commission, been supplied with fifteen oxen, by Mr. Thomas Wells Dickason; and this Committee being informed by said Dickason that the Committee of Supplies wanted a certificate of said order and appointment, that they may with propriety discharge the order of said Arnold on the Committee of Safety, have handed this, presuming it may be sufficient to satisfy the Committee of Supplies of his (said Arnold's) appointment. We would observe that the above-mentioned cattle are at Newport. You will give such directions respecting them as to you in your wisdom shall seem meet. We are, &c.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.
Crown Point, May 19, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: My last was of the 14th instant, by Mr. Romans, via New-Haven. I then acquainted you of the occasion of delay in not carrying your orders into execution. The afternoon of the same day, being joined by Captains Brown and Oswald, with fifty men, enlisted on the road, they having taken possession of a small schooner at Skenesborough, we immediately proceeded on our way for St. John's, and at eight o'clock, P. M., the 17th instant, arrived within thirty miles of St. John's; the weather proving calm, manned out two small batteaus with thirty-five men, and the next morning, at six o'clock, arrived at St. John's, surprised and took a sergeant and his party of twelve men, the King's sloop, of about seventy tons, with two brass six-pounders and seven men, without any loss on either side. The Captain was gone to Montreal, and hourly expected with a large detachment for Ticonderoga, a number of guns and carriages for the sloop, which was just fixed for sailing; add to this, there was a Captain of forty men at Chamblée, twelve miles distant from St. John's, who was expected there every minute with his party; so that it seemed to be a mere interposition of Providence that we arrived at so fortunate an hour. We took such stores on board as were valuable, and the wind proving favourable, in two hours after we arrived, weighed anchor for this place, with the sloop and four of the King's batteaus, having destroyed five others; so that there is not left a single batteau for the King's Troops, Canadians, or Indians, to cross the Lake in, if they have any such intention.

I must, in justice to Colonel Allen, observe that he left Crown Point soon after me for St. John's, with one hundred and fifty men, and on my return met him five leagues this side, and supplied him with provisions, his men being in a starving condition. He informed me of his intention of proceeding on to St. John's with eighty or one hundred men, and keeping possession there. It appeared to me a wild, impracticable scheme, and provided it could be carried into execution, of no consequence, so long as we are masters of the Lake, and of that I make no doubt, as I am determined to arm the sloop and schooner immediately.

I wrote you, gentlemen, in my former letters, that I should be extremely glad to be superseded in my command here, as I find it next to impossible to repair the old fort at Ticonderoga, and am not qualified to direct in building a new one. I am really of opinion it will be necessary to employ one thousand or fifteen hundred men here this summer, in which I have the pleasure of being joined in sentiment by Mr. Romans, who is esteemed an able engineer. I am making all possible provision for wheel-carriages to carry such cannon, &c. to Albany as can be spared here, and will be serviceable to our army at Cambridge.

I must refer you for particulars to the bearer, Captain Jonathan Brown, who has been very active and serviceable, and is a prudent, good officer; and I beg leave to observe I have had intimations given me, that some persons had determined to apply to you and the Provincial Congress, to injure me in your esteem, by misrepresenting matters of fact. I know of no other motive they can have, only my refusing them commissions, for the very simple reason that I did not think them qualified. However, gentlemen, I have the satisfaction of imagining I am employed by gentlemen of so much candour, that my conduct will not be condemned until I have the opportunity of being heard. I am, with the greatest respect, gentlemen, your most devoted and very humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.
To the Committee of Safety, Cambridge.

P. S. Enclosed is a memorandum of such cannon, &c. as I intend sending to Cambridge, also of such as are here. By a return from Montreal to General Gage, I find there are seven hundred and seventeen men in Canada, of the Seventh and Twenty-Sixth Regiments, including seventy which we have taken prisoners.

GENERAL WARD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

May 19, 1775.

SIR: It appears to me absolutely necessary that the Regiments be immediately settled; the officers commissioned; the soldiers numbered and paid, agreeable to what has been proposed by the Congress—if we would save our Country. I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

A. WARD.

J. Warren, Esq., President of the Congress at Watertown.

JAMES RUSSELL TO JOSEPH WARREN.

Charlestown, May 19, 1775.

SIR: I yesterday, by Major Fuller, Mr. Whittemore, and Mr. Bliss, received a Resolve of the Congress appointing them a Committee to call on me to know whether I have any of the publick moneys in my hands. In answer thereto, I would desire you, Sir, to inform the Provincial Congress, that the light money for several years past since the increase of light-houses, and more especially since the obstructions of the last year upon our trade, has not been sufficient to defray the expense of said houses; and I have consequently been under a necessity to apply the money arising from the Impost for that purpose. Ever since I received the favours of my Country, in being chosen to the Impost Office, I have done all in my power in the discharge of my duty therein to their satisfaction. The means of procuring oil, by the unhappy and increasing troubles of our Country, appearing very uncertain and precarious, I have endeavoured to purchase as large a stock as I could; and as the Impost Bill expired the first of March last, the publick moneys I have in my hands will not be more than sufficient to enable me to pay for the oil contracted for to complete for the present year.

Your most humble servant,

JAMES RUSSELL.

Joseph Warren, Esq., President Provincial Congress.

ABIJAH BROWN TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Watertown, May 19, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to your order I have removed the cannon under my care at Waltham, to the Town of Watertown, and have delivered them to the Committee of Correspondence for the same Town; and shall have my company in readiness to march to Cambridge to-morrow morning. I am, gentlemen, with much respect, your most obedient and most humble servant,

ABIJAH BROWN.

To the Hon. the Committee of Safety, at Cambridge.

PETITION OF BENJAMIN THOMPSON.

To the Honourable the Committee of Safety for the Colony of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

The Petition of BENJAMIN THOMPSON, Esq., of Concord, in the Province of NEW-HAMPSHIRE, humbly sheweth:

That on Monday, the 15th instant, your petitioner was taken up and confined in this Town, upon suspicion of being inimical to the liberties of this Country; and that in consequence of his being taken up, the Committee of Correspondence for the Town, after having given publick notice of the time and place of hearing, and desired all persons that could give evidence to attend, proceeded to an examination of the affair, agreeable to the recommendation of the Honourable Provincial Congress. But as no person appeared to lay any thing of consequence to his charge; and as the Committee were not pleased either to acquit or condemn him; and as his own personal safety, as well as the quiet and satisfaction of the publick, but more especially of the people of New-Hampshire, depends on his having an acquittance after the most publick, thorough, and impartial examination, your petitioner humbly prays that the Committee of Safety would be pleased to take the matter into consideration, and examine the same; and that they would be pleased to give notice of the time and place of hearing, not only to the people of New-Hampshire, and others that are in the Army at Cambridge, or elsewhere, but also that the publick in general, and the inhabitants of the Town of Concord, in the Province of New-Hampshire, and the adjacent Towns in particular, be desired to attend or send in depositions of what they know relative to the affair. And your petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c.,

BENJ. THOMPSON.

Woburn, May 19, 1775.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

May 19, 1775.—A Committee of Safety was appointed by the Congress, consisting of the following persons, viz: Honourable Matthew Thornton, Doctor Josiah Bartlett, Esquire, Captain William Whipple, Nathaniel Folsom, Esquire, and Ebenezer Thompson, Esquire.

May 23, 1775.—The Committee of Safety was empowered by vote of the Congress to recommend persons they think proper for Chaplains, Surgeons, and Surgeons' Mates, and also to procure proper forms for enlisting Soldiers.

May 24, 1775.—Israel Morey and Samuel Ashley, Esquires, Captain Josiah Moulton, and Reverend Samuel Webster, were added to the Committee of Safety; and said Committee was empowered to issue orders for enlisting men sufficient for one Regiment, in the same manner as is practised in the Massachusetts-Bay, and receive returns of men enlisted as is done there.

Accordingly, the same day the Committee gave orders to Winborn Adams of Durham, Winthrop Rowe of Kensington, Henry Elkins of Hampton, Samuel Gilman of Newmarket, Philip Tilton of Kingston, Benjamin Titcomb of Dover, Jonathan Wentworth of Somersworth, Jeremiah Clough of Canterbury, James Norris of Epping, and Zaccheus Clough of Poplin, to enlist each a Company; which orders, &c., were of the forms following:

"In Committee of Safety,

"Exeter, . . . 1775. }

"To

"SIR: You are hereby empowered immediately to enlist a Company, to consist of sixty-two able-bodied and effective men, well accoutred, including Sergeants, as Soldiers in the New-Hampshire service, for the preservation of American liberty, and cause them to pass muster as soon as possible.

. Chairman."

"Exeter, . . . 1775.

"Whereas you have this day received orders for enlisting sixty-two Soldiers well accoutred, including Sergeants, for the New-Hampshire service, for the preservation of the liberties of America, you are hereby acquainted that the commission of a Captain in said service shall be made out for you as soon as you have completed the said enlistment, and you will also be allowed to nominate two Subalterns to serve under you, who will receive commissions accordingly, if the Committee shall approve of them.

"By order of the Committee of Safety:

. Chairman."

The Enlistment.

"We, the subscribers, do hereby severally solemnly engage and enlist ourselves as Soldiers in the New-Hampshire service for the preservation of the liberties of America, from the day of our enlistment to the last day of December next, unless the service should admit of a discharge of a part or the whole sooner, which shall be at the discretion of the Committee of Safety, and we hereby promise to submit ourselves to all the orders and regulations of the Army, and faithfully to observe and obey all such orders as we shall receive from time to time from our Officers.

Wednesday, May 17, 1775.

The Members being called over and seated, proceeded as follows:

Voted, That the Honourable Matthew Thornton, Esq., be President.

Voted, That Ebenezer Thompson, Esq., be Secretary.

Voted, That as Ebenezer Thompson, Esquire, the elected Secretary, is not present, Samuel Cutts, Esquire, be Secretary pro tempore.

At the desire of the Convention, the Reverend Mr. Stearns made a prayer.

Voted, That those Members who did not produce certificates be allowed to sit in Convention until the adjournment; and if they do not then produce them, to be excluded.

Voted, That the Reverend Mr. Stearns, Colonel Folsom, Mr. President, George Frost, Esquire, Mr. Wheelock, Mr. Sparhawk, and the Reverend Mr. Webster, be a Committee to draw up Rules to be observed by the Members of this Convention while sitting, and present them as soon as may be.

Voted, That the aforesaid Committee, together with Mr. Whipple and Mr. Cutts, be a Committee to report what they think necessary to be done about establishing a Post-Office.

Adjourned till to-morrow, eight o'clock in the morning.

Thursday, May 18, 1775, A. M.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That the following Rules be adopted and observed by the Members of this Convention while sitting:

"1st. That no person speak without asking leave of, and addressing himself to the President.

"2. That no Member speak while another is speaking.

"3. That no Member should speak a second time upon a point, if another person who has not spoke before, should desire to speak.

"4. That no Member make a new motion upon a point, until that which is under consideration is determined.

"5. That there be silence among the other Members while any one is speaking.

"6. That no Member absent himself more than half an hour without permission from the President.

"7. That on any matter of importance under consideration of this body, on the request of the Members of ten Towns, the determination thereof shall be put off to the next day of sitting.

"8. That no Member speak without standing up."

A Letter being received from Hunking Wentworth, Esquire, Chairman of a Committee at Portsmouth, the same was read and ordered to lay.

Voted, That a Post-Office shall be established at Portsmouth, and that Samuel Penhallow, Esquire, shall be Postmaster, and that he, together with the Members from Portsmouth, shall be a Committee to agree with a Post Rider or Riders.

Voted, That John Hale, Esquire, be empowered in behalf of this Convention to proceed immediately to the City of Albany, or any other place he thinks proper, for the purpose of procuring Fire-Arms and Gunpowder for the use of this Province; and as the scarcity of money and suddenness of the occasion hinders this Convention from supplying Colonel Hale with cash for the said purpose, if Colonel Hale can obtain credit for said articles, this Convention pledges their honour and faith to pay said money at the time agreed by Colonel Hale and the vender or venders of the same.

Voted, That a number of men be raised in this Province to join in the common cause of defending our just rights and liberties.

Voted, That Colonel Bartlett, Captain Whipple, Colonel Folsom, Mr. President, Reverend Mr. Webster, Reverend Mr. Stearns, Colonel Nicholas Gilman, Captain Page, Moses Parsons, Mr. Wheelock, Mr. Rollings, Reverend Mr. Farrar, Mr. Morey, Mr. Gregor, and Colonel Ashley, be a Committee to prepare and bring into this Convention a plan of ways and means for furnishing Troops, &c.

Voted, That the Reverend Mr. Wingate, Reverend Mr. Fletcher, and Mr. Samuel Sherburn, be a Committee to prepare a draught to be sent to the several Towns in this Province, respecting disputes about Tories.

Adjourned till eight o'clock to-morrow morning.

Friday, May 19, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

The President being necessarily absent,

Voted, That Samuel Cutts, Esquire, be President pro tempore.

A Petition of Major Andrew McClary, praying redress of sundry grievances; read and ordered to lay for consideration.

A Letter from Colonel John Stark, requesting a supply of Fire-Arms for the Soldiers under his command; read and ordered to be put under the consideration of the Committee of Ways and Means.

1. Voted unanimously, That the good and wholesome Laws of this Province be faithfully supported, and that all persons assist the Justices thereof in the due execution of their office.

2. That in these times of general distress, it is recommended to the inhabitants of this Province, that they encourage all Religious Worship, and that they, by all means, discountenance all manner of vice, and especially the profanation of the Sabbath, which is and has been a growing evil, and that all officers exert themselves for the above purpose.

3. That it is enjoined on all Planters and Farmers that they pay the strictest attention to Agriculture, that, with the blessings of kind Heaven, the sore calamities of famine may not be added to our present distress; and that to encourage the Woollen Manufactory, they kill no Lambs before the first of August next; likewise that they raise as much Flax as possible.

4. That as the Linen and Woollen goods will be much in demand, it is recommended that those who have abilities employ all persons who are acquainted with those manufactures; likewise, that extravagance and dissipation of every kind be discountenanced.

5. That encouragement be given for the making of Saltpetre, by granting a Bounty of One Shilling per pound for the first hundred weight; and that the said Bounty be continued as long as this Congress shall think proper.

6. That whereas many persons, who, through inadvert-tency, wilful malice, or immoderate heat, have thrown out many opprobrious expressions respecting the several Congresses, and the methods of security they have thought proper to adopt, and thereby have made themselves obnoxious to the inhabitants of this Province, it is therefore recommended that the Committees of the several Towns have a watchful eye over all such persons; and they shall be the proper persons only to take cognizance thereof, and that their result be final; and that proper complaint being made to either of the Committee, they make the most speedy and critical inquiry thereof, in order to prevent riots and mobs, and that they discountenance the same.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Met according to adjournment,

The Convention being informed that a Committee from the Convention of the Massachusetts-Bay were waiting to deliver a message to this Convention, Voted, That Mr. President, Colonel Folsom, Colonel Bartlett, Captain Whipple, Mr. Cutts, Mr. Stearns, and Captain McDuffee, be a Committee to wait on those gentlemen, and introduce them into the Convention, and further converse with them relative to their mission.

The Honourable Joseph Gerrish, Esquire, and Colonel Ebenezer Sawyer, a Committee from the Massachusetts Congress, were introduced and delivered a Letter to the President from the President of the Congress, together with a copy of an application by them made to the Continental Congress, both of which are on file.

Voted, That the Selectmen of the respective Towns where the persons enlisted under Colonel Stark, who are destitute of Fire-Arms, belong, be desired to procure the same and forward them to the persons so destitute, and if such Towns cannot furnish them, Colonel Stark, or any of the Officers under him, are desired to purchase the same, and upon a just account thereof being rendered to this Convention, it shall be allowed and paid. And Colonel Stark is desired, as soon as circumstances will permit, to transmit to this Convention what shall be done in consequence of this Vote; and every Soldier supplied as aforesaid is required to give a receipt for such Fire-Arm that he will, at his dismission from the service, return the same, or have the value thereof deducted out of his wages.

Voted, That Mr. Enoch Poor, Captain Ezekiel Worthen, and Colonel Nicholas Gilman, be a Committee to fix immediately on Carriages fit for the field eight Cannon, out of such as they think most serviceable among those that may be found for that purpose.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Saturday, May 20, 1775, A. M.

Met according to adjournment, and came to the following Resolutions, viz:

Whereas by the late Acts of the British Parliament, and conduct of the Ministers in pursuance thereof, it appears very evident that a plan is laid and now pursuing to subjugate this and the other American Colonies to the most abject slavery, and the late hostilities committed by the British Troops in our sister Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, leaves us no doubt in determining that no other way is left us to preserve our most darling rights and inestimable privileges but by immediately defending them by arms. Reduced, therefore, by this most terrible necessity, this Convention, after the most solemn deliberations thereon, have,

1. Resolved, That it is necessary to raise immediately two thousand effective Men in this Province, including Officers and those of this Province already in the service, and that the time from their enlistment continue to the last day of December, unless the Committee of Safety should judge it proper that a part or the whole be discharged sooner.

2. That every Member pledge his honour and estate, in the name of his constituents, to pay their proportion of maintaining and paying the Officers and Soldiers of the above number while in their service.

3. That application be made immediately to the Continental Congress for their advice and assistance respecting means and ways to put the above plan into execution.

4. That the establishment of Officers and Soldiers shall be the same as in the Massachusetts-Bay.

5. That the Selectmen of the several Towns and Districts within this Colony be desired to furnish the Soldiers, who shall enlist from their respective Towns and Districts, with good and sufficient Blankets, and render their accounts to the Committee of Supplies.

6. That if it should appear that the above number of men is not our full proportion with the other Governments, that this Convention will be ready to make a proper addition for that purpose.

Voted, That the thanks of this Convention be given to the persons who took away and secured for the use of this Government, a quantity of Gunpowder, from the Castle called William and Mary, in this Province.

Voted, That Colonel Thornton, Colonel Bartlett, Captain Whipple, Colonel Folsom, and Ebenezer Thompson, be a Committee of Safety, and that their Instructions be deferred until next week.

Voted, That Colonel Nicholas Gilman, Samuel Cutts, Esquire, Ishabod Rawlings, Esquire, Mr. Timothy Walker, Junior, Doctor John Giddinge, Mr. Thomas Sparhawk, and Colonel John Hale, be a Committee of Supplies, and that the giving them necessary Instructions be deferred until next week.

Voted, That Colonel Nicholas Gilman and Mr. Poor be a Committee to sell any quantity of Gunpowder, not exceeding four barrels, to such frontier Towns in this Province as they shall think most need it.

Voted, That the Reverend Mr. Stearns, the Reverend Mr. Webster, and Mr. Josiah Moulton the third, be a Committee to make a draught of a Letter in answer to one received from the Congress of the Massachusetts-Bay, as also a Letter to the Continental Congress, and lay the same before this Convention as soon as may be.

Adjourned to Monday next, three o'clock in the afternoon.

Monday, May 22, 1775, P. M.

Met according to adjournment.

The President being absent,

Voted, That Colonel Folsom be President pro tempore.

The Secretary being absent,

Voted, That Josiah Moulton, 3d, be added to the Committee of Supplies.

Voted, That there be procured some suitable person to officiate as Chaplain to each Regiment in the service.

Voted, That there be a Surgeon and Surgeon's Mate procured for each Regiment.

Voted, That it be left to the Committee of Safety to recommend persons they think proper for Chaplains, Surgeons, and Surgeon's Mates.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety procure proper forms for enlisting Soldiers, &c.

Voted, That Colonel Nicholas Gilman be Treasurer and Receiver-General of this Colony, and that he, with two sufficient sureties, give bond to the Honourable Matthew Thornton, Esq., President of this Congress, or his successor in that office, for the faithful discharge of his trust.

Voted, That there be raised, levied, and paid by the inhabitants of this Province, in the same proportion as was last used in levying and proportioning the Taxes of this Province, the sum of Three Thousand Pounds, lawful money, and paid unto Nicholas Gilman, Esq., of Exeter, as Treasurer appointed by this Convention, by the first day of November next.

Voted, That all Officers and Soldiers employed in the service shall be taxed as other persons are, according to their ability.

Adjourned till to-morrow, nine o'clock in the morning.

Wednesday, May 24, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety recommend three persons for Field-Officers in the Regiment now to be raised.

Voted, That it be recommended to the several Towns in this Government to encourage Manufactures in general, and that of Fire-Arms in particular.

Voted, That there be added to the Committee of Safety one from the County of Hillsborough, one from Cheshire, and one from Grafton.

Voted, That Mr. Enoch Poor be the first in command in the Second Regiment to be raised, under Colonel Folsom; Captain John McDuffee to be second, and Captain Joseph Cilley the third.

Voted, That Mr. Cutts, Mr. Wheelock, and Mr. Walker, be a Committee to examine into the state of our late Treasurer, Doctor Giddinge's Account.

Thursday, May 25, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That Messrs. Samuel Sherburn, Pierce Long, John Dudley, Esq., be a Committee to bring in a draught empowering the Committee of Safety and Committee of Supplies to act in the recess of this Congress; and also to recommend to this body some suitable person for a Commissary.

Voted, That the Rev. Mr. Farrar and the Rev. Mr. Stearns be added to the above-mentioned Committee.

Voted, That Moses Emerson, Esq., be Commissary for the Army.

Voted, That the Congress sit by adjournment from day to day, till the return of the Committee from Cambridge.

Friday, May 26, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, The following Instructions to the Committee of Safety: That the Committee of Safety be empowered and directed, in the recess of the Congress, to take under their consideration all matters in which the welfare of the Province in the security of their rights shall be concerned, except the appointment of the Field-Officers, and take the utmost care that the publick sustain no damage; and that they act in the following manner:

1st. That they see to it that whatever plans have been determined upon by the Congress to be immediately carried into execution, which have not been entrusted to the management of any particular persons or Committee, shall be executed by such persons, and in such ways, as the Committee shall judge best.

2d. If any exigence not provided for by the Congress requires immediate attention—such as marching Troops raised to repel an invasion in any part, or directing the motions of the Militia within the Province, or without the Province, with their own consent for the same purpose; or make use of any special advantage for securing Military Stores, or securing any important Post, or preventing our enemies from securing advantageous Posts, or from obtaining Military Stores or Provisions—immediately they shall take the most prudent and effectual method to accomplish the above and similar purposes.

3d. That they be and hereby are empowered and directed to apply to the Committee of Supplies for the necessary Stores, Provisions, &c., for the effectual carrying the aforesaid Instructions into execution.

Voted, That a copy of Colonel Fenton's Letters which have been read in Congress; also, a copy of a Letter from the Congress to Colonel Fenton, be sent to the Towns of Portsmouth, Greenland, and Rye.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That a Company, not exceeding sixty men, in the Northwesterly parts of this Colony, be forthwith enlisted, to be ready to act as occasion may require; that at present a small party of them, not exceeding ten men at a time, be employed to guard the passes and gain intelligence; and that those only who are in actual service shall be under pay; and that the enlisting and further directing them be referred to the Committee of Safety.

Voted, That the Committee of Supplies be empowered and directed to furnish the Commissary with whatever Military Stores and Provisions the Committee of Safety shall think necessary. And that they and each of them be empowered to take up such Stores, &c., on the faith of this Colony, on the best terms, and from such person or persons as they can procure them; and also that they, or the major part of them, be empowered to borrow, on the faith of this Colony, any sum not exceeding Ten Thousand Pounds, lawful money, as the Committee find necessary, to answer the directions from the Committee of Safety. And this Convention, for themselves and constituents, plight their faith and estates to said Committee of Supplies, as their bondmen to all intents and purposes, for the payment of whatever sum they hire or borrow in consequence of this Vote.

Adjourned to Wednesday, ten o'clock, A. M.

Wednesday, May 31, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That the division of the two thousand men raised and to be raised in this Colony, into Regiments and Companies, be referred to the Committee of Safety, for them to report their opinion to the Congress as soon as may be. Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Met according to adjournment.

The Committee of Safety reported as their opinion, that the two thousand men be divided into three Regiments, and each Regiment into ten Companies, as equally as can conveniently be done.

Voted, That the foregoing Report be received, and that the Regiments and Companies be divided accordingly.

Voted, That the enlisting men in this Colony by persons belonging to any other, is a wrong measure, and ought to be discouraged.

A Petition being read, signed by twelve persons, praying that James Read, Esq., might not be commissioned in the Army, as he had, heretofore, shown himself inimical to the liberty of his Country; and no person appearing to prove or enforce the Petition, voted that it be dismissed.

Voted, That the thanks of this Congress be given to the party who this day have removed sundry Cannon from the sea-coast in this Colony, to the Town of Portsmouth, and to Doctor Hall Jackson in particular, for assisting in the matter and bringing us the intelligence.

Voted, That Major Hobart be Muster-Master to muster Captain Adams's Company.

Adjourned till to-morrow, eight o'clock.

Thursday, June 1, 1775.

Voted, That two Companies, as soon as they can be properly mustered and equipped, be sent to guard the sea-coast for the present.

Voted, That the two Companies first equipped and mustered, be sent to guard the sea-coast.

Voted, That there be three Field-Officers appointed for each Regiment, exclusive of the General Officers.

The complaint of Joseph Reille against Major Hobart, read and considered.

Voted, That the Petition or complaint be dismissed.

Voted, That Major Hobart be empowered to administer the same oath to Soldiers in the common service, as has been taken in the Massachusetts service.

Voted, That James Reed, Esq., be appointed Colonel of a Regiment.

Voted, That Israel Gilman, Esq., be appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of Colonel Reed's Regiment.

Voted, That Nathan Hale be Major of the aforesaid Regiment.

Whereas in the course of the present disputes it may be necessary to import on the risk of the Colony a quantity of Military Stores:

Resolved, That the Committee of Supplies be, and they hereby are empowered and directed to import or cause to be imported from any place whatever, such and so many Stores aforesaid, not exceeding the value of three thousand Pounds, lawful money, and the same to risk at their discretion, with or without making insurance on the vessels or cargoes which may be so employed, sent out, or imported.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety be empowered to give out Enlisting Orders to ten persons to enlist each a company of sixty-two Soldiers, including non-commissioned officers, to make a Regiment, to be under the command of Colonel James Reed.

Resolved, That the Committee of Portsmouth, together with Captain Ezekiel Worthen, be desired to provide a number of Fascines; and also to procure proper Carriages for those Guns removed from Jerry's Point; and also such other materials as they may think necessary for erecting a Battery to hinder the passage of Ships up to the Town; and also that they endeavour, if it can be done with secrecy and safety, to get what Shot may be at the Fort at Newcastle; and that all those matters be done with the utmost secrecy the matter will allow of, and then determine upon some suitable place for a Battery, where the materials, when completed, may suddenly be removed to.

Whereas his Excellency the Governour of this Colony, in calling a General Assembly, to meet at Portsmouth in February last, required three new Towns that had never sent Members before to elect persons to represent them in said Assembly, and as said Assembly are to sit by adjournment on the 12th instant, this Congress are of opinion that the Governour's assuming the right of sending to such new Towns, as he thinks fit without concurrence of the other branches of the Legislature, is unconstitutional and subversive of the rights and privileges of the good people of this Colony, and the establishing such a precedent may leave room for some designing Governour to occasion a very partial representation of the people by sending to small Towns, and omitting large ones with many other evils:

Therefore do resolve further, That it is the opinion of Congress, that the persons called and elected as aforesaid, ought not to be allowed a seat in the House of Representatives of this Colony.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Friday, June 2, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That the Committee of Supplies be desired to apply, and obtain the quantity and quality of the Powder brought from the Fort William and Mary, also take it into their possession, and lay the state of it before the Committee of Safety.

Voted, That General Folsom, as Brigadier-General and first commander of the New-Hampshire Forces, under the Commander-in-Chief of the New-England Army, be allowed the same wages as a Brigadier-General shall receive in the Massachusetts service, both as General and commander of a Regiment, while in actual service, and that he have no particular Regiment of his own, but equally command all the New-Hampshire Forces; and that ten Companies of the Regiment, of sixty-two men each, now at Medford, in the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, be the first or oldest Regiment.

Whereas, at the particular desire of the people on the western frontiers of this Colony, a vote was passed by this Congress the 26th instant, to raise a Company of sixty men, under such directions and restrictions as is therein expressed; and at their special request it is now thought necessary to alter that establishment, and augment the number:

Therefore, voted, That a Company of sixty men be raised of the inhabitants of said frontiers, to be commissioned by the Committee of Safety; and that they, and two Companies out of the two thousand men raised in this Colony, be stationed as soon as the Committee of Supplies procure Stores for them, by the Committee of Safety on said frontiers, and remain until further orders.

Monday, June 5, 1775.

Met according to adjournment, three o'clock, P. M.

But few Members present, adjourned till to-morrow, at eight o'clock.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

Tuesday, June 6, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That all Officers and Soldiers of the New-Hampshire Army, now raising for the defence and security of the rights and liberties of this and our sister Colonies in America, shall each and every of them (excepting the General Officers,) repeat and take the following oath, viz:

"I, A B, swear I will truly and faithfully serve in the New-Hampshire Troops to which I belong, for the defence and security of the estates, lives, and liberties of the good people of this and the sister Colonies of America, in opposition to ministerial tyranny by which they are or may be oppressed, and to all other enemies and opposers whatsoever; that I will adhere to the Rules and Regulations of said Army, observe and obey the General and other officers set over me, and disclose and make known to said officers all traitorous conspiracies, attempts, and designs whatsoever, which I shall know to be made against said Army, or any of the English American Colonies. So help me God."

Voted, To raise one Artillery Company, to be at Portsmouth.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety look out and commission the best men they can find, as officers of the said Artillery Company.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Met according to adjournment.

Whereas a vote passed on the third instant, respecting General Folsom's wages, and that of ranking Colonel Stark's Regiment: Voted, That that part of said vote, which respects General Folsom's wages, be reconsidered; and instead thereof, voted that General Folsom, as chief commander of the New-Hampshire Forces, under the Commander-in-Chief of the New-England Forces, be allowed the wages of a Colonel of a Regiment, and such other allowances as this Convention may think proper hereafter.

Voted, That Captain Elkins's Company be for the present placed upon the sea-coast.

Voted, That the Proclamation for a Fast on the 22d instant be sent to the press, and from thence sent to all the Towns in the Colony.

Voted, That the Artillery Company consist of sixty-five men, including officers, to be at Portsmouth.

Voted, That the Committee of Safety appoint Muster Masters.

Adjourned till eight o'clock to-morrow.

Wednesday, June 7, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That every transaction which this Convention thinks expedient should be kept as a profound secret, we do hereby solemnly promise and oblige ourselves strictly to conform to, and not communicate upon any pretence whatsoever, unless by leave of this Congress.

Adjourned till eight o'clock to-morrow.

Thursday, June 8, 1775.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, An Address to the inhabitants of this Colony be sent to the press, respecting lenity by creditors to their debtors, &c.

Colonel Hale returned, got no Powder or Small-Arms, but gives us great encouragement that we shall have some soon from the Southern Colonies; and that Powder is made at Philadelphia in such quantities, that two hundred barrels is made in a day; and that Provisions are plenty and cheap in Connecticut, and that quantities are now transporting to Cambridge.

Adjourned till three o'clock.

Met according to adjournment.

Voted, That Captain Page and Colonel Stark, from Dumbarton, have a hearing before this Convention the second day of sitting, after adjournment, for any time longer than from Saturday to Monday.

Voted, That the sum of Fifty Pounds be paid by the Treasurer of this Colony to any inhabitant of said Colony who shall manufacture the largest quantity of Saltpetre, not less than one hundred weight, within one year from this date: also the sum of six pence per pound for every pound above ten pound (excepting that person who receives the bounty of fifty Pounds) manufactured by any person within said Colony, in the said year, and that the Committee of Supplies be directed and empowered to examine any quantity offered, and to draw on the Treasurer agreeable to this Resolve, or some other Committee who shall be particularly empowered for this purpose.

Whereas a number of the Towns of this Colony have not yet paid into the hands of George Jaffrey, Esq., their Province Tax:

Resolved, That the Constables and Collectors of said Towns be, and hereby are directed to pay said money into the hands of Colonel Nicholas Gilman, Receiver-General for the Colony of New-Hampshire, who is authorized to receive and give receipts for the same.

Voted, That Deacon Samuel Books be Postmaster for this Town.

Adjourned till eight o'clock to-morrow.

Friday, June 9, 1775.

Voted, That Ebenezer Thompson, Esquire, and Colonel Nicholas Gilman, be a Committee to procure the plates, and see the Notes struck off. Adjourned to three o'clock.

Met according to adjournment.

Resolved, That the Receiver-General of this Colony, appointed by this Congress, be hereby empowered to give his notes of hand on the faith of the Colony, payable to the possessor, for the sum of Ten Thousand and Fifty Pounds, of the present currency, or lawful money, to be paid into the Treasury aforesaid by a Tax on the polls and estates of the inhabitants of this Colony, in the following manner, viz: four thousand Pounds to be paid by the twentieth December, which will be in the year of our Lord 1776, and six per cent. interest from the date; and the sum of three thousand Pounds the twentieth December, 1777, and three thousand and fifty Pounds the twentieth December, 1778. And the said notes shall be struck by copper-plate, to be engraved under the direction of this Congress for the several sums following, to complete said sum of Ten Thousand and Fifty Pounds, viz: Six thousand Pounds in Forty Shilling notes; three thousand Pounds in Twenty Shilling notes; nine hundred Pounds in Six Shilling notes, and one hundred and fifty Pounds in One Shilling notes; and the form of said notes to be in the following words, with such other devices as may be ordered by the Congress, viz:

"Colony of New-Hampshire,
No. June 20, 1775."

"The possessor of this note shall be entitled to receive, out of the Treasury of this Colony, the sum of Shillings, lawful money, on the twentieth of December, 177-, with interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum; and this note shall be received in all payments at the Treasury at any time after the date hereof, for the principal sum, without interest, if so paid before the said twentieth day of December, A. D. 177-.

S. T.

N. G.

And the Treasurer or Committee who shall number the same, shall fill the blank left for time of payment in a number of bills sufficient to complete four thousand Pounds, with the figure 6, and number to complete three thousand Pounds with the figure 7, and the remainder with the figure 8. And the said Notes, when brought unto said Receiver-General and paid by him, shall, after the said time fixed for payment, be burnt to ashes in the presence of the Congress of this Colony.

3,000	40s. is	£6,000
3,000	20s. is	3,000
3,000	6s. is	900
3,000	1s. is	150

£10,050 lawful money.

Adjourned to eight o'clock to-morrow.

Saturday, June 10, 1775.

Voted, That all Bills of Credit on the faith of the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, have a free currency in this Colony of New-Hampshire.

Voted, That the President of the Congress be empowered to sign any papers in the recess of the Congress, which it is necessary should be signed by him as President, and in particular the commissions to all officers appointed for the Army belonging to this Colony.

Voted, That one month's wages be paid to all the officers and soldiers in the pay of this Colony as soon as may be, and that prior thereto the Paymaster administer to each of the said officers and soldiers the oath appointed by this Congress.

Voted, That George Frost, Esq., be one of the Committee with Ebenezer Thompson, Esq., instead of Colonel Nicholas Gilman, to procure the plate, see the money struck off, signed, and delivered to the Receiver-General.

This body having taken into consideration the great stagnation of Trade, and the difficulty to which their constituents are reduced by the unhappy dispute with Great Britain, as to the turning either their real or personal estates into cash, think it necessary to recommend for the present all possible lenity and forbearance in creditors towards those who may stand indebted to them, but that they avoid multiplying suits at law, and especially the carrying them to such length as the levying execution on real estates, which must, in this case, in our apprehension, be sold much below their real value. We most particularly recommend this lenity and forbearance in reference to such who have or may engage as officers and soldiers in the defence of the invaded rights and liberties of America; and we further recommend to debtors all possible care and endeavour to discharge to the utmost of their power all just demands upon them.

Adjourned to the twenty-seventh instant.

ANNE ARUNDEL COUNTY (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Anne Arundel County, at Pigg Point, on Saturday, the twentieth of May, at the request of Mr. David Weems, Jr.; Joseph Galloway, Esq., in the Chair. Present: Mr. Thomas Tillard, Thomas Deale, Marmaduke Wyvill, Thomas Tongue, Robert Brown, William Tillard, Edward Tillard, Samuel Harrison, and John Stewart.

Mr. Weems desired to know if he might procure some articles that he had occasion for, of any of the masters of ships, particularly an anchor and cable of Captain David Carcaud, of the Ship Industry.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that Mr. Weems, nor any other person, can, consistent with the letter and spirit of the Association of the Continental Congress, purchase or receive the same.

Resolved, That Captain Carcaud cannot sell, or in any manner dispose of, or land the aforesaid anchor and cable, or any rigging, sails, or other goods he may have on board his ship, to any person within the Province of Maryland, or any part of America.

Ordered, That this be printed in the Maryland Gazette.
J. STEWART, Clerk.

TO THE DELEGATES OF NEW-JERSEY IN THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read before Congress May 27, 1775.]

House of Assembly, New-Jersey, }
May 20, 1775. }

His Excellency having laid before the House a copy of the Resolution of the honourable House of Commons of Great Britain, of the twentieth of February, 1775, containing a plan formed for the accommodation of the unhappy differences between our Parent State and the Colonies, which plan, under the present circumstances, this House could not comply with and adopt; and yet this House, being desirous of making use of all proper means to effect a reconciliation, do recommend it to their Delegates to lay the same plan before the Continental Congress for their consideration.

A true copy from the Journals:

RICHARD SMITH, Clerk of Assembly.

COLONEL GUY JOHNSON TO THE MAGISTRATES AND OTHERS OF PALATINE, ETC., TRYON COUNTY, N. Y.

Guy Park, May 20, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I have lately had repeated accounts that a body of New-Englanders or others were to come to seize and carry away my person, and attack our family, under colour of malicious insinuation that I intend to set the Indians upon the people. Men of sense and character know that my office is of the highest importance to promote peace amongst the Six Nations, and prevent their entering into any such dispute. This I effected last year when they were much vexed about the attack made upon the Shawanese, and I last winter appointed them to meet me this month, to receive the answer of the Virginians. And all men must allow, that if the Indians find their council fire disturbed, and their Superintendent insulted, they will take a dreadful revenge. It is therefore the duty of all people to prevent this, and to satisfy any who may have been imposed on, that their suspicions, and the allegations they have collected against me, are false and inconsistent with my character and office.

I recommend this to you as highly necessary at this time, as my regard for the interest of the Country, and self-preservation, has obliged me to fortify my house, and keep men armed for my defence, till these idle and ridiculous reports are removed. You may lay this letter before such as are interested in those matters. I am, gentlemen, your humble servant,

G. JOHNSON.

To the Magistrates and others of Palatine, Canajoharie, and the Upper Districts.

COLONEL GUY JOHNSON TO THE MAGISTRATES OF SCHENECTADY AND ALBANY.

Guy Park, May, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As the peace and happiness of the Country are objects that every good man should have at heart, I think it highly necessary to acquaint you, that for a few days I have been put to the great trouble and expense of fortifying my house, and keeping a large body of men for the defence of my person; and have received repeated accounts that either the New-Englanders, or some persons in or about the City of Albany or Town of Schenectady, are coming up, to a considerable number, to seize and imprison me on a ridiculous and malicious report that I intend to make the Indians destroy the inhabitants, or to that effect. The absurdity of this apprehension may easily be seen by men of sense; but as many credulous and ignorant persons may be led astray and inclined to believe it, and as they have already sent down accounts, examinations, &c., from busy people here, that I can fully prove to be totally devoid of all foundation, it is become the duty of all those who have authority or influence, to disabuse the publick, and prevent consequences which I foresee with very great concern, and most cordially wish may be timely prevented. Any differences in political ideas can never justify such extravagant opinions; and I little imagined that they should have gained belief amongst any order of people who know my character, station, and the large property I have in the country, and the duties of my office, which are to preserve tranquillity amongst the Indians, hear their grievances, &c., and prevent them from falling upon the trade and frontiers. These last were greatly threatened by the Indians on account of the disturbances last year between the Virginians and Shawanese; during which, my endeavours prevented the Six Nations from taking a part that would have sensibly affected the publick; and I appointed last fall that the Six Nations should come to me this month, in order to receive, amongst other things, final satisfaction concerning the lands said to be invaded by the Virginians, who have now sent me their answer. In the discharge of this duty, I likewise essentially serve the publick. But should I neglect myself, and be tamely made prisoner, it is clear to all who know any thing of Indians, they will not sit still and see their Council fire extinguished, and Superintendent driven from his duty, but will come upon the frontiers, in revenge, with a power sufficient to commit horrid devastation. It is therefore become as necessary to the publick, as to myself, that my person should be defended. But as the measures I am necessitated to take for that purpose may occasion the propagation of additional falsehoods, and may at last appear to the Indians in a light that is not for the benefit of the publick, I should heartily wish, gentlemen, that you could take such measures for removing these apprehensions, as may enable me to discharge my duties (which do not interfere with the publick) without the protection of armed men and the apprehension of insult; and as the publick are much interested in this, I must beg to have your answer as soon as possible. I am, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

G. JOHNSON.

To the Magistrates and Committee of Schenectady, and to the Mayor, Corporation, &c., of Albany; to be forwarded by the former.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF RHODE-ISLAND.

Providence, Rhode-Island, May 20, 1775.

Whereas the Ministry and Parliament of Great Britain, sacrificing the glory and happiness of their Sovereign, and the good of Britain and the Colonies, to their own ambitious and lucrative views, have entered into many arbitrary illegal resolutions, for depriving His Majesty's subjects in America of every security for the enjoyment of life, liberty, and property; and have sent, and are still sending, Troops and Ships-of-War into these Colonies, to enforce their tyrannical mandates, and have actually begun to shed the blood of the innocent people of these Colonies; in consequence whereof, this Assembly, at the session held on the twenty-second of April last, passed an Act for raising fifteen hundred men, as an Army of Observation, and to assist any of our sister Colonies:

And whereas the Honourable Joseph Wanton, Esquire, then Governour of this Colony, did enter a Protest against the said Act, conceived in such terms as highly to reflect upon the General Assembly, and upon the united opposition of all America, to the aforesaid tyrannical measures: And whereas the said Joseph Wanton, Esquire, hath neglected to issue a Proclamation for the due observation of Thursday, the eleventh of May instant, as a day of fasting and prayer, agreeable to an Act passed at the said session: And whereas the said Joseph Wanton, Esq., hath been elected to the office of Governour of this Colony for the present year, and been duly notified by this Assembly, notwithstanding which, he has not attended at this General Assembly, and taken the oath required by law: And whereas the said Joseph Wanton, Esquire, hath positively refused to sign the commissions for the officers appointed to command the Troops so ordered to be raised. By all which he hath manifested his intention to defeat the good people of these Colonies in their present glorious struggle to transmit inviolate to posterity those sacred rights they have received from their ancestors:

Be it therefore enacted by this General Assembly, and by the authority thereof it is enacted, That the Deputy-Governour and Assistants be, and they are hereby forbid to administer the oath of office to the said Joseph Wanton, Esq., unless in free and open General Assembly, according to the unvaried practice of this Colony, and with the assent of such Assembly; that until the said Joseph Wanton, Esq., shall have taken the oath of office as aforesaid, it shall not be lawful for him to act as Governour of this Colony in any case whatever; and that every act done by him, in the precedent capacity of Governour, shall be null and void in itself, and shall not operate as a warrant or discharge to any person acting by his order or under his authority.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That Henry Ward, Esq., Secretary of the Colony, be and he is hereby directed and fully authorized and empowered to sign the commissions for all officers, civil and military, chosen by this Assembly, as well those going in the service aforesaid, as others; he receiving therefor, out of the general Treasury, two shillings and eight pence for each commission. And that such commission so signed, with the Colony seal affixed, shall be as full and effectual warrants to every and all such officers so chosen, for the faithful discharge of his and their duty, as if the same were signed by a Governour of this Colony, duly elected and engaged according to law; any law, custom, or usage, to the contrary hereof in any wise notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That his Honour the Deputy Governour be requested, and fully authorized and empowered, to call the General Assembly together upon any emergency, to meet at such time and place as he shall think most fit for the interest of the Colony.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY OF MASSACHUSETTS TO GENERAL PREBLE.

Cambridge, May 20, 1775.

SIR: This Committee received your favour of the 15th instant, touching the raising men for the service of this Colony, and note your just observations on the subject.

The Committee, after the Resolutions of the Congress for the establishing an Army of 13,600 men, thought the exigencies of the times, and the exposed situation of the several Towns near Boston, made it absolutely necessary that the Army should be immediately raised, and that for the facilitating of this important business, it was expedient orders should be issued to such men as are recommended as proper persons for such important trusts. Accordingly orders were issued to as many Colonels as were sufficient to complete said Army; but from the delay which appeared in the Army's being formed, by the slow progress made in the enlisting men, and the exposed situation of the Colony camp, by the going off of numbers from time to time, it was rendered necessary that further orders should be issued for completing the Army with all possible speed; and, in consequence of that determination, among others, Colonel March received orders for the enlisting of a Regiment for the service of this Colony, and, we understand, has made some considerable progress in enlisting men for said service. We are also informed by your Honour, that Colonel Phinney has received enlisting orders from you, and has engaged in the business of enlisting men to complete a Regiment. And we are further informed by your Honour, that it is impracticable that two Regiments should be raised in the County of Cumberland; and being told by Colonel Phinney that many of the men that would be raised in your County, could not be supplied by the Towns, from which they are enlisted, with fire-arms and blankets, this Committee, taking into consideration the exposed situation of your County, and the probability of the Army's being completed without drawing men from those parts of the Colony which are more immediately exposed, would recommend, Sir, that you would use your influence that a stop be put to the raising any men in your County, until it may be known by the various returns from the several Colonels authorized for the raising Regiments, whether it may be necessary to take any men from your County; and should this necessity take place, of raising a Regiment in your County, this Committee will endeavour to give you such early intelligence as may be necessary. The request of this Committee to your Honour, we flatter ourselves will not be conceived by you as carrying in it the least disrespect to Colonel March or Colonel Phinney, but solely from the probability of the Army's being complete, without taking men from those parts of the Colony which are more immediately exposed. We should be glad to see your Honour at Head-Quarters; hope your health will soon admit, and with you join in the hope of soon seeing a speedy end to the great difficulties this distressed Colony now labours under.

We are, Sir, with great respect, your Honour's humble servants.

LETTER FROM THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONFER WITH THE CONGRESS OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Exeter, May 20, 1775.

SIR: In obedience to the orders of the Congress, we have executed the commission entrusted us, and find the General disposed to concur in every measure that shall conduce to the publick good. Enclosed, Sir, is their Resolve of Congress. We can add no more than giving you account of their seizing a number of masts in Portsmouth, destined for the Navy. Their firmness, resolution, and unanimity, gives us great pleasure, and are, Sir, with the highest respect, your most obedient humble servants,

JOSEPH GERRISH,
EBENEZER SAWYER.

To the President of the Congress of the Massachusetts Colony, if sitting, and if not, to the Chairman of the Committee of Safety.

In Provincial Convention at Exeter, }
May 20, 1775. }

Whereas by the late Acts of the British Parliament, and conduct of the Ministers in pursuance thereof, it appears very evident that a plan is laid and now pursuing, to subjugate this and the other American Colonies to the most abject slavery; and the late hostilities committed by the British Troops in our sister Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, leaves us no doubt in determining that no other way is left us to preserve our most darling rights, and inestimable privileges, but by immediately defending them by arms. Reduced, therefore, by this most terrible necessity, this Convention, after the most solemn deliberations, have

Resolved, That it is necessary to raise immediately two thousand effective men in this Province, including officers, and those of this Province that are already in the service, and that the time of their enlistment continue to the last day of December next, unless the Committee of Safety should judge it proper that a part or the whole be discharged sooner.

That every member pledge his honour and estate in the name of his constituents, to pay their proportion for the maintenance and pay of the above officers and soldiers while in service.

That application be made immediately to the Continental Congress, for their advice and assistance respecting means and ways to put the above plan into execution.

That the establishment of the officers and soldiers shall be the same as in the Massachusetts-Bay.

Agreed, That the Selectmen of the several Towns and Districts within this Colony, be desired to furnish the soldiers, who shall enlist from their respective Towns and Districts, with good and sufficient blankets, and render their account to the Committee of Supplies.

That if it should appear that the above number of men is not our full proportion with other Governments, that this Convention will make a proper addition for that purpose.

MATTHEW THORNTON, President.

REVEREND WILLIAM GORDON TO DOCTOR J. WARREN.

Jamaica Plains, May 20, 1775.

SIR: Shall be obliged to you would you stop any letters directed for me that may be brought by the post, and send them by the bearer, who will pay the postage. Should the Committee approve of sending me Hutchinson's loose letters, with the letter books, on Monday, will apply myself to sorting them according to date, reading them over, and notifying every thing that shall appear to me of importance to be laid before the publick. Your very humble servant, and brother in the same common cause,

WILLIAM GORDON.

LETTER FROM FOUR MOHAWKS TO THE ONEIDAS, TRANSLATED FROM THE MOHAWK INTO ENGLISH.

Written at Guy Johnson's, May, 1775.

This is your letter, you great ones or Sachems. Guy Johnson says he will be glad if you get this intelligence, you Oneidas, how it goes with him now, and he is now more certain concerning the intention of the Boston people. Guy Johnson is in great fear of being taken prisoner by the Bos- tonians. We Mohawks are obliged to watch him constantly. Therefore we send you this intelligence that you shall know it, and Guy Johnson assures himself, and depends upon your coming to his assistance, and that you will without fail be of that opinion. He believes not that you will assent to let him suffer. We therefore expect you in a couple of days' time. So much at present. We send but so far as to you Oneidas, but afterward perhaps to all the other Nations. We conclude and expect that you will have concern about our ruler, Guy Johnson, because we are all united.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE COMMITTEE OF TRYON COUNTY, NEW-YORK, ON THE LETTER OF COLONEL GUY JOHNSON, OF MAY 20, AND THE LETTER FROM THE MOHAWKS.

In Committee, Tryon County, May 21, 1775.

1. That it is the opinion of this Committee that the Indians who signed the letter never would have presumed to write or send the same, if they had not been countenanced.

2. That as we have unanimously adopted the proceedings of the Grand Continental Congress, and mean virtuously to support the same, so we feel and commiserate the sufferings of our brethren in the Massachusetts-Bay, and the other Colonies in America, and that we mean never to submit to any arbitrary and oppressive acts of any power under Heaven, or to any illegal and unwarrantable action of any man or set of men.

3. That as the whole Continent has approved of the actions and proceeding of the Massachusetts-Bay, and other of the Provinces of New-England, we do adopt and approve of the same. Wherefore we must and do consider that any fortification or armed force raised, to be made use of against them, as evidently designed to overawe and make us submit.

4. That Colonel Johnson's conduct in raising fortifications round his house, keeping a number of Indians and armed men constantly about him, and stopping and searching travellers upon the King's highway, and stopping our communication with Albany, is very alarming to this County, and is highly arbitrary, illegal, oppressive, and unwarrantable; and confirms us in our fears, that his design is to keep us in awe, and oblige us to submit to a state of slavery.

5. That as we abhor a state of slavery, we do join and unite together under all the ties of religion, honour, justice, and a love for our Country, never to become slaves, and to defend our freedom with our lives and fortunes.

COMMITTEE OF PALATINE DISTRICT, TRYON COUNTY, TO THE ALBANY COMMITTEE.

Upon the alarming news that expresses were gone to call down the Upper Nation of Indians to Colonel Johnson's, we caused ourselves to be convened this day, to take the state of this County into consideration; upon which we have determined to order the inhabitants of this District to provide themselves with sufficient arms and ammunition, and to be ready at a moment's warning. We are sorry to acquaint you that all communication with your County is entirely stopped by Colonel Johnson, who has five hundred men to guard his house, which he has fortified, under pretence that he is afraid of a visit of the New-Englandmen, as will appear by a copy of a letter we intercepted this morning. We have not fifty pounds of powder in our District, and it will be impossible for you to help us to any till the communication is opened, not a man being suffered to pass without being searched. To-morrow is to be a meeting of Canajoharie District, when we expect they will adopt congressional measures very heartily, and we purpose to have a meeting of the Committees of both Districts, and propose the question, whether we will not open the communication by force; if which question is determined in the affirmative, we shall despatch another express to you, acquainting you with the day, when we hope you will be on your way up with some ammunition.

We have just sent off an express to the German Flats, and Kingsland Districts, desiring them to unite with us and give us their assistance; which Districts, or at least a great majority of them, we are credibly informed, are very hearty in the present struggles for American liberty. We are, gentlemen, perhaps in a worse situation than any part of America is at present. We have an open enemy before our faces, and treacherous friends at our backs, for which reason we hope you will take our case into your immediate consideration, and give us an answer by the bearers, who go express by the way of Schoharie, as we dare not trust them any other way. They have orders to wait for an answer. We have reason to think that a great many of the Indians are not satisfied with Colonel Johnson's conduct, for which reason we have thought it would not be improper to send a couple of men, well acquainted with the Indian language, to dissuade them from coming down. And we think it would be of service to us if you could send two also, who are able to make the Indians sensible of the present dispute with the Mother Country and us. We have the pleasure to acquaint you, that we are very unanimous in our District, as well as in Canajoharie, and we are determined by no means to submit to the oppressive acts of Parliament, much less to Colonel Johnson's arbitrary conduct.

May 21, 1775.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED BOSTON, MAY 21, 1775.

You request my writing freely, which I must be cautious of, for reasons which will naturally occur to you. As to the inhabitants removing, they are suffered to go out under certain restrictions. This liberty was obtained after many town meetings, and several conferences between their Committee and General Gage. The terms mutually agreed to were, "that the inhabitants should deliver up all their arms to the Selectmen." This was generally done, though it took up some days. On this occasion the inhabitants were to have had liberty to remove out of Town, with their effects, and during this, to have free egress and regress. But mark the event: the arms being delivered, orders were issued by the General, that those who inclined to remove must give in their names to the Selectmen, to be by them returned to the Military Town Major, who was then to write a pass for the person or family applying, to go through the lines, or over the ferry; but all merchandise was forbid; after a while, all provisions were forbid; and now all merchandise, provisions, and medicine. Guards are appointed to examine all trunks, boxes, beds, and every thing else to be carried out; these have proceeded to such extremities, as to take from the poor people a single loaf of bread, and half pound of chocolate; so that no one is allowed to carry out a mouthful of provisions; but all is submitted to quietly. The anxiety indeed is so great to get out of Town, that even were we obliged to go naked, it would not hinder us. But there are so many obstructions thrown in the way, that I do not think those who are most anxious will be all out in less than two or three months—vastly different from what was expected, for the General at first proposed, unasked, to procure the Admiral's boats to assist the inhabitants in the transportation of their effects, which is not done, and there are but two ferry-boats allowed to cross. They have their designs in this, which you may easily guess at. We suffer much for want of fresh meat.

GENERAL WARD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Head-Quarters, May 21, 1775.

The General requests the ordnance hereafter mentioned may be immediately procured and sent to Head-Quarters, viz: thirty twenty-four pounders—if the whole number cannot be obtained, the number be made up with eighteen pounders, double fortified; ten twelve-pounders; eighteen nine-pounders; and ordnance stores for the above cannon, viz: twenty-one thousand and six hundred pounds of powder, and eighty balls for each cannon; fifteen hundred stand of arms; twenty thousand pounds musket powder; forty thousand pound of lead; and also seventeen hundred pots.

J. WARD, Secretary.

JAMES SULLIVAN TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

New-Hampshire, May 21, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: This will be handed to you by Mr. Scammell who I have recommended as major of the County of York Regiment.

I trouble you early, to let you know that the Regiment in the County of Cumberland will have not more than one gun to three men, and expect to be armed by the Province. If the Colony does not intend to arm them, I apprehend that notice thereof should be immediately given to Colonel March. It may be thought best to bring no men from that part of the Colony. I am, with much veneration, your very humble servant, JAMES SULLIVAN.

To Joseph Warren, President of the Committee of Safety.

THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Cambridge, May 21, 1775.

This Committee have often contemplated the mode of ascertaining the method of completing the several Regiments, and find no clear and explicit rule to their satisfaction, and therefore beg leave to suggest to the honourable Congress of this Colony whether a return from a muster-master, that such or such a Regiment had such a number of privates who had passed muster, would not be a good rule for ascertaining when a Regiment may be said to be full, and submit the consideration of the same to the honourable Congress. We are, &c.

PRINCE WILLIAM COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of a Special Committee for the County of Prince William, held at the house of Thomas Young, in the Town of Dumfries, on Monday, the 22d day of May, 1775. Present: Foushee Tebbs, Esquire, in the Chair. Messrs. William Grayson, Thos. Blackburn, Henry Lee, Andrew Leitch, Richard Graham, William Brent, John Brett, John McMillan, Henry Peyton, John Peyton, Hugh Brent, James Tripolett, Synaugh Helen, William Tebbs, Thomas Atwell, William Carr, Jesse Ewell, and Cuthbert Harrison.

A Proclamation by his Excellency Lord Dunmore, with the advice of His Majesty's Council, having appeared in the publick papers, charging a certain Patrick Henry, and his followers, with rebellious practices, for extorting from the Receiver-General the sum of three hundred and thirty Pounds, in satisfaction for the Powder his Lordship thought proper to remove from the publick Magazine in Williamsburgh;

This Committee having taken the said transaction into their serious consideration; and it appearing to them from the Address of the Corporation of the City of Williamsburgh, on the removal of the Powder, wherein a claim is made, as restitution is required, and no right in Government by his Excellency at that time alleged, which we conceive he would naturally and necessarily have done if any such had existed; and having also been informed from respectable authority, that assurance had been given to several gentlemen in Williamsburgh, by his Lordship, that if no disturbances were raised the Powder should be returned: for these and other reasons which might be given, they are of opinion that the Powder removed from the publick Magazine in Williamsburgh, did of right belong to this Colony.

This Committee being further of opinion that the late violent and hostile proceedings of His Majesty's Troops in the Massachusetts-Bay, in attempting to seize the military stores of that Colony, would have justified reprisals of a much greater magnitude:

Resolved, therefore, unanimously, That the thanks of this Committee are justly due to Captain Patrick Henry, and the Gentlemen Volunteers who attended him, for their proper and spirited conduct on that alarming occasion.

By order: EVAN WILLIAMS, Clerk.

BUCKINGHAM COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

The Committee of the County of Buckingham desire it may be known to the inhabitants of the lower Counties, that should any of them, in the impending struggle for our dearest rights, be driven from their habitations, that the people of Buckingham are disposed to give the most friendly reception to as many of the wives, children, and slaves of those their brethren, as their situations severally will permit; as also to join them with their whole strength to restore them to the peaceable and quiet enjoyment of their possessions.

Farther, that if any of their said brethren would choose, by way of precaution, to make settlements and cultivate grain in Buckingham, that, coming with recommendations from their County Committees, they may have lands assigned them, and continue on them as their own, until a cessation of the present troubles; also, that their stocks shall be equally welcome to the woods and fields of the said County, except such part only as may propagate the murrain, which, as endangering the common means of subsistence, may be equally dangerous to all parties. The Committee of Buckingham do not doubt but their sentiments upon the matter in question will be general throughout the interior Counties.

Published by order of the Committee, held at the Court-House, the 22d of May, 1775.

ROLFE ELDRIDGE, Clerk.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee for the County of Middlesex, on Monday, the 17th of April, 1775:

A complaint was lodged against one Thomas Haddin, an inhabitant of said County, for refusing to sign the Continental Association, and reviling the same: Whereupon the Committee ordered him to be summoned to appear before them this 22d of May; and it plainly appearing that he had been summoned, but that he not only refused to appear, but expressed himself in terms of the highest contempt, both of the Association and Committee:

Resolved, therefore, That the said Thomas Haddin be held forth to the publick as an enemy to American liberty.

Ordered, That a copy of the above be sent to the Printers of the Virginia Gazette, and that they be requested to print the same.

LODOWICK JONES, Clerk to Committee.

MEETING OF THE INHABITANTS OF CHARLES COUNTY, MARYLAND.

At a meeting of the Inhabitants of Charles County, in Port-Tobacco Town, on Monday, the 22d day of May, 1775:

Captain GEORGE DENT, Chairman, and JOHN GWINN, Clerk.

Resolved unanimously, That George Dent, Samuel Hanson, William Smallwood, Josias Hawkins, Francis Ware, Joseph H. Harrison, Thomas Stone, Daniel Jenifer, Robert T. Hooe, John Dent, Samuel Love, Thomas Hanson Marshall, Philip R. Fendall, Samuel Hanson, of Samuel, William Harrison, and John H. Stone, be and are by this meeting appointed Deputies to represent this County in any General Convention to be held for this Province; and that any five or more of them have power and authority to act for and bind this County.

By order of the Committee:

JOHN GWINN, Clerk.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA TO HIS FRIEND IN WILLIAMSBURGH, VIRGINIA, DATED MAY 22, 1775.

We know the plan of Ministry is to bring the Canadians and Indians down upon us; for this reason the Provincial Troops of Connecticut and Massachusetts have wisely taken, by a brave coup de main, possession of the forts at Ticonderoga and Crown Point. In the former they got two hundred pieces of large cannon, some field-pieces, swivels, powder, &c. &c. The Congress have directed New-York, Connecticut, and Massachusetts, to remove these stores, &c., to the south end of Lake George, and take strong posts there, to intercept the communication and march of Canadian and Indian forces into these Colonies.

The taking of Ticonderoga last war cost Great Britain many thousand lives, and an immense expense; but now it has been taken from them, though strong and well garrisoned, by the bravery and enterprise of a few Provincials, and at a very small expense.

There never was a more total revolution at any place than at New-York. The Tories have been obliged to fly. The Province is arming; and the Governour dares not call his prostituted Assembly to receive Lord North's foolish plan. Two of the Delanceys, Watts, Cooper, Rivington, Colonel Philips, and the rest of the Tory leaders, are fled; some to England, and some to private places in the country, where they are not known. The Congress have advised the Yorkers to make provision for carrying their women and children into the country, and to remove their warlike stores before the arrival of the Troops there, whom they are not to suffer to encamp, or commit with impunity any hostilities against the people.

The latest and best accounts from Boston make the loss of Regulars, in killed and wounded and missing, one thousand men. The Provincial loss was trifling. Ten thousand men are now encamped before the Town, between which and the country there is no intercourse. General Gage refuses to let the people out; in consequence of which their distress presently must be grievous indeed. The besieging army keep the one besieged in constant alarm; so that it is said that they rest neither night nor day. Every day is expected to bring two thousand men more from Ireland, and seven Regiments to New-York, where the Tories had informed Ministry they would be well received. But now, behold, they come to a Country universally hostile, and in arms, to receive them. Connecticut has twelve thousand men in arms; the Jerseys a good many; and this Province at least eight thousand. There are two thousand in this City, well-armed and disciplined. In short, every Colony this way is well prepared for war, and appear to be secure against any force likely to be sent against them. It would seem as if the Southern Colonies were alone vulnerable at present, and this should be remedied as soon as possible.

It seems the bill for restraining the Trade of the Colonies is not to have force until a certain time after its arrival in North America; so that in this instance the whole power of the Legislature is given to Ministry; for it will depend on them when the Act shall arrive here, since they may send it when, or never, as they please.

We find, by the late accounts, that Ministry will be more puzzled than they imagine, to accomplish their detestable purposes against us. A gentleman of the strictest veracity writes, that the embarkment from England has been delayed, by the impossibility of getting seamen for the ships; but, he adds, let not this delay your vigorous efforts for defence. From Ireland we learn that the people there have interposed to prevent the embarkment; and that a contest has happened, in which several lives were lost on both sides.

The other day, General Gage hearing that all the Provincial Troops, except fifteen hundred, were retired to sign an Association prepared for them at some distance from the encampment, marched with his whole force out of Boston; but seeing the fifteen hundred Provincials drawn up in order for battle, and disliking their countenance, he returned within his lines.

A man-of-war's tender at Rhode-Island lately seized a vessel loaded with provisions for the Army at Boston; and the country people, in boats, attacked and took both the provisions, vessel, and tender, having wounded the Lieutenant of the man-of-war, and taken his men prisoners, whom they conveyed captives into the country. Thus you see our infant struggles on the water are not unsuccessful.

LETTER FROM THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE DELEGATES AT PHILADELPHIA, TO THE PROVINCIAL COMMITTEE OF THAT COLONY.

Philadelphia, May 22, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We take this early opportunity of informing you by Captain Partridge, that the Congress, upon hearing of the forts at Ticonderoga and Crown Point being seized by the people of New-England, to prevent General Carleton, with his Canadians and Indians taking possession of them to annoy our frontiers; and finding, by about thirty Indian Chiefs now in Philadelphia, as well as by persons sent to sound the dispositions of all the several Indian Nations, that such a design is really on foot; and that General Johnson, the Superintendent for Indian affairs, has really endeavoured to persuade the Indians to enter into a war with us; and that many other steps have been taken by a bloody-minded and cruel Ministry, to induce those hereditary enemies of America to fall upon and butcher its inhabitants; we say, upon those things appearing to the Congress, they have ordered the above forts to be demolished, and the warlike stores to be removed, and another fort to be erected and maintained at the lower part of Lake George, if the Committee of New-York shall think it necessary, and to call upon all the New-England Governments to give assistance, if required by New-York. We earnestly entreat you, for the honour of the Province, if such a requisition be made, to give them every possible assistance to preserve our people from the incursions of a barbarous and savage enemy.

We are sorry, gentlemen, that honour will not permit us to give you the least information respecting our proceedings. We can only say that all the Colonies are firmly united, and are preparing for the worst. We hope that you will, in imitation of the other Colonies, proceed to choose your officers, and establish your Militia upon the new plan which has been adopted by every Colony upon the Continent. We shall bring with us Governour Wentworth's letters to Lord Dartmouth, for twelve months past, that you may judge whether he is your friend, as he pretends, or whether he is not rather your inveterate enemy.

Gentlemen, we are, with great respect, your most obedient servants,

JOHN SULLIVAN,
JOHN LANGDON.

To the Provincial Committee of New-Hampshire.

P. S. We earnestly entreat you to prevent our General Court from making any application to Great Britain for redress of grievances, as that would draw all America upon our Province, it being agreed that no one shall make terms without the advice and consent of the whole.

Mr. Laight, from the Sub-Committee appointed to make an estimate of materials necessary to be forwarded to Albany, made a Report thereof.

Ordered, That the same be forwarded.

Mr. McDougall, seconded by Mr. Lamb, moved in the words following, viz:

That two members of this Committee be sent to the Deputies of the County of Albany, now in this City, to confer with them whether the County of Albany can furnish men to garrison Ticonderoga, till the Stores there are removed to the south side of Lake George, agreeable to a Resolution of the Continental Congress.

Mr. De Lancey, seconded by Mr. Scott, moved for an amendment of the above Motion, in the words following, viz: by leaving out all the latter part of the said Motion, from the words "be sent," and substituting in its room:

be desired to wait on the Provincial Convention, without delay, and lay before them the Recommendation of the Continental Congress relative to applying to the neighbouring Colonies for Forces.

And the question being put thereon, it was carried in the affirmative, as follows, viz:

Ordered, That Messrs. Brinkerhoff, Ketletas, Sands, F. Jay, Bull, and Curtenius, be a Committee to inquire what quantity of Blankets, Ravens Duck, Osnaburghs, Russia Sheetting, Tin Plates, and Coarse Cloths, are in this City, and to request the favour of the possessors not to part with them for a few days, until the Provincial Congress shall determine on the expediency of detaining them for our own use.

The Committee adjourned to Monday, 29th May, 1775.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE TO GOVERNOR TRUMBULL.

New-York, May 22, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: I am directed by the General Committee of Association for this City and County, to transmit to your Honour the enclosed authentick copy of a Resolution of the Continental Congress, received by express; and to inform your Honour, that in consequence thereof, we immediately shipped to Albany one hundred barrels of pork; and that a Select Committee has been appointed to purchase and forward, without delay, cordage, oakum, pitch gins, and every other necessary that may be wanted from hence, to carry into execution the aforesaid Resolution. We have also, by express, desired our brethren at Albany to give their aid and assistance. I have the honour to be, most respectfully, your Honour's most obedient and humble servant,

HENRY REMSEN, Dep. Chairman.

Honourable Governor Trumbull.

LETTER FROM THE MAYOR, ALDERMEN, AND COMMONALTY OF ALBANY TO THE COMMITTEE FOR PALATINE DISTRICT, TRYON COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

Albany, May 22, 1775.

We this day received yours, without date, directed to the Magistrates and Committee of Albany and Schenectady, and to the Mayor, Corporation, &c., of Albany, wherein you write that you have received repeated accounts that either the New-Englanders, or some persons in or about this City or the Town of Schenectady, are coming up, to a considerable number, to seize and imprison you, on a ridiculous and malicious report that you intend to make the Indians destroy the inhabitants, or to that effect, and that you, in consequence thereof, have been put to the great trouble and expense of fortifying your house, and keeping a large body of men for the defence of your person, &c.

You proceed and say, that the absurdity of this apprehension may easily be seen by men of sense, but that as many credulous and ignorant persons may be led astray, and inclined to believe it, &c., it is become the duty of all those who have authority or influence to disabuse the publick, and prevent consequences which you foresee with very great concern.

We are very sorry to learn from you that any groundless reports should have arisen, and be propagated to your prejudice, considering your character, station, and the large property you have in the County. And we trust that you are so well acquainted with the nature and duties of your office, that you will pursue the dictates of an honest heart, and study the interest, peace, and welfare of your Country; in which case we presume you need not be apprehensive of any injury in your person or property. Neither can we learn nor conceive that there either is or has been any intention of taking you captive, or offering you any indignity whatever, either by the New-England people or any of the inhabitants of this City, or any one else; and we have but too much reason to think that these groundless reports have been raised and industriously propagated, in your own phraseology, by some busy people in your County, to rouse up the Indians from their peaceful habitations, and take up arms against such of our American brethren as are engaged on the part of America in the unhappy contest between Great Britain and her Colonies.

As it appears from your letter that you consider the station wherein you are placed, as Superintendent of Indian affairs, to be of the highest importance to the publick, we hope that you will use all possible means in your power to restore peace and tranquillity among the Indians, and assure them that the report propagated prejudicial to you or to them is totally groundless of any just foundation, and that nothing will afford His Majesty's subjects in general a greater satisfaction, than to be and continue with them on the strictest terms of peace and friendship.

ALBANY, NEW-YORK, COMMITTEE TO COL. GUY JOHNSON.

Committee Chamber, May 23, 1775.

SIR: Several letters have been handed to us, addressed to the Magistrates of Schenectady and Mayor and Corporation of Albany, some of which you requested to be communicated to us, whereby we, with great concern, observe you are much alarmed with apprehensions of evil intentions against your family, and self in particular, from a body of New-Englanders or people from those parts, so as to put you under the necessity of fortifying yourself for safety. From what cause these terrible ideas have sprung, we are entirely ignorant. If any real ones, you must be better acquainted with them than we are; however, we do assure you that the first and last knowledge of such designs have come to us from you, and of course must have originated somewhere near you. We are not ignorant of the importance of your office as Superintendent, and have been perfectly easy with respect to any suspicions of the Indians taking a part in the present dispute between Great Britain and her Colonies, knowing them to be a people of too much sagacity to engage with the whole Continent in a controversy that they can profit nothing by, and which would throw them into endless war and misery. As long as they are peaceable, they need not be under apprehensions of hostilities commencing against them.

We have been some time ago informed that there was to be a Congress at your house of the Indians, and hope such methods may be taken then as will give them a just sense of the nature of the present disturbances, and that they may govern themselves by such a line of conduct as will appease the minds of such persons in your County as may be uneasy on their account.

The information we have from time to time received, very lately from travellers passing by your house, has given us some pain, as we find the communication betwixt this and your County in a manner stopped, insomuch that no person is permitted to pass without undergoing a strict examination. These proceedings will, if not speedily stopped, raise the resentment of the people, we fear, and cause them to undertake such acts as will not be in the power of any authority to restrain. We would, therefore, be glad, and permit us to recommend it seriously to your attention, that you would leave the communication free, and disperse your guards, and not interfere with the meetings of the people, intended solely to concert measures for the preservation of their liberties, in conjunction with the other Counties of this and the rest of His Majesty's Colonies.

MASSACHUSETTS PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May 22, 1775. }

"Resolved, That the following Narrative of the excursion and ravages of the King's Troops, under the command of General Gage, on the nineteenth of April last, together with the Depositions taken by order of the Congress to support the truth of it, be sent to the press for publication.

SAMUEL FREEMAN, Secretary."

A Narrative of the Excursion and Ravages of the King's Troops, under the command of General GAGE, on the nineteenth of APRIL, 1775; together with the Depositions taken by order of Congress to support the truth of it. Published by authority.

On the nineteenth day of April, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, a day to be remembered by all Americans of the present generation, and which ought, and doubtless will be handed down to ages yet unborn, the Troops of Britain, unprovoked, shed the blood of sundry of the loyal American subjects of the British King in the field of Lexington. Early in the morning of said day, a detachment of the forces under the command of General Gage, stationed at Boston, attacked a small party of the inhabitants of Lexington and some other Towns adjacent, the detachment consisting of about nine hundred men, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Smith: the inhabitants of Lexington, and the other Towns were about one hundred, some with and some without fire-arms, who had collected upon information that the detachment had secretly marched from Boston on the preceding night, and landed on Phipps's farm in Cambridge, and were proceeding on their way with a brisk pace towards Concord, as the inhabitants supposed, to take or destroy a quantity of stores deposited there for the use of the Colony; sundry peaceable inhabitants having the same night been taken, held by force, and otherwise abused on the road, by some officers of General Gage's Army, which caused a just alarm, and a suspicion that some fatal design was immediately to be put in execution against them. This small party of the inhabitants was so far from being disposed to commit hostilities against the Troops of their Sovereign, that, unless attacked, they were determined to be peaceable spectators of this extraordinary movement; immediately on the approach of Colonel Smith with the detachment under his command, they dispersed; but the detachment, seeming to thirst for blood, wantonly rushed on, and first began the hostile scene by firing on this small party, by which they killed eight men on the spot, and wounded several others before any guns were fired upon the Troops by our men. Not contented with this effusion of blood, as if malice had occupied their whole souls, they continued the fire, until all of this small party who escaped the dismal carnage were out of the reach of their fire.

Colonel Smith, with the detachment, then proceeded to Concord, where a part of this detachment again made the first fire upon some of the inhabitants of Concord and the adjacent Towns, who were collected at a bridge upon this just alarm, and killed two of them, and wounded several others, before any of the Provincials there had done one hostile act. Then the Provincials, roused with zeal for the liberties of their Country, finding life and every thing dear and valuable at stake, assumed their native valour, and returned the fire, and the engagement on both sides began. Soon after, the British Troops retreated towards Charlestown, having first committed violence and waste on publick and private property, and on their retreat were joined by another detachment of General Gage's Troops, consisting of about a thousand men, under the command of Earl Percy, who continued the retreat. The engagement lasted through the day; and many were killed and wounded on each side, though the loss on the part of the British Troops far exceeded that of the Provincials.

The devastation committed by the British Troops on their retreat, the whole of the way from Concord to Charlestown, is almost beyond description; such as plundering and burning of dwelling-houses and other buildings, driving into the street women in child-bed; killing old men in their houses unarmed. Such scenes of desolation would be a reproach to the perpetrators, even if committed by the most barbarous Nations; how much more when done by Britons famed for humanity and tenderness! and all this because these Colonies will not submit to the iron yoke of arbitrary power.

DEPOSITIONS TAKEN BY ORDER OF THE CONGRESS.

[For Depositions No. 1. to No. 20. inclusive, see Folio 489-501.]

A paper having been printed in Boston, representing that one of the British Troops killed at the bridge at Concord, was scalped and the ears cut off from the head; supposed to be done in order to dishonour the Massachusetts people, and to make them appear to be savage and barbarous, the following deposition was taken, that the truth may be known.

Concord, May 11, 1775.

We, the subscribers, of lawful age, testify and say, that we buried the dead bodies of the King's Troops that were killed at the North Bridge in Concord, on the nineteenth day of April, 1775, where the action first began, and that neither of those persons were scalped, nor their ears cut off, as has been represented.

ZACHARIAH BROWN,
THOMAS DAVIS, JR.

Zachariah Brown and Thomas Davis, Jr., personally appeared before me, and made oath to the above declaration.

DUNCAN INGRAHAM, Justice of the Peace.

[No. 22.]

Hannah Adams, wife of Deacon Joseph Adams, of the second Precinct in Cambridge, testifieth and saith, that on the nineteenth day of April last past, upon the return of the King's Troops from Concord, divers of them entered our house by bursting open the doors, and three of the soldiers broke into the room in which I then was laid on my bed, being scarcely able to walk from my bed to the fire, and not having been to my chamber door from my being delivered in child-birth to that time. One of said soldiers immediately opened my curtains with his bayonet fixed, and pointing the same to my breast. I immediately cried out, "for the Lord's sake don't kill me." He replied, "damn you." One that stood near, said, "we will not hurt the woman if she will go out of the house, but we will surely burn it." I immediately arose, threw a blanket over me, went out, and crawled into a corn-house near the door, with my infant in my arms, where I remained until they were gone. They immediately set the house on fire, in which I had left five children and no other person; but the fire was happily extinguished when the house was in the utmost danger of being utterly consumed.

HANNAH ADAMS.

MIDDLESEX, ss., CAMBRIDGE, Second Precinct, }
May 17, 1775: }

Hannah Adams, the subscriber of the above deposition, personally appeared and made oath to the truth of the same. Before me,

JONA. HASTINGS, Justice of the Peace.

[No. 23.]

Cambridge, May 19, 1775.

We, Benjamin Cooper and Rachel Cooper, both of Cambridge aforesaid, and of lawful age, testify and say, that in the afternoon of the nineteenth day of April last, the King's Regular Troops, under the command of General Gage, upon their return from blood and slaughter which they had made at Lexington and Concord, fired more than one hundred bullets into the house where we dwell, through doors, windows, &c.; then a number of them entered the house where we and two aged gentlemen were, all unarmed. We escaped for our lives into the cellar; the two aged gentlemen were immediately most barbarously and inhumanly murdered by them, being stabbed through in many places; their heads mauled, skulls broke, and their brains beat out on the floor and walls of the house. And further saith not.

BENJAMIN COOPER,
RACHEL COOPER.

MIDDLESEX, ss., May 19, 1775:

The above named Benjamin Cooper and Rachel Cooper appeared, and after due caution, made solemn oath to the truth of the above deposition by them subscribed.

Before me, JONAS DIX, Justice of the Peace.

RAVAGES OF THE KING'S TROOPS ON THE NINETEENTH
OF APRIL, 1775.

The Committee appointed to estimate the damages done at Cambridge, Lexington, and Concord, by the King's Troops on the 19th day of April, 1775, having attended that service, beg leave to report :

That the devastation made by fire and robbery on said day, by said Troops, is as follows, viz :

The damage to the buildings in Cambridge, estimated according to the best skill and judgment of your Committee; after viewing the same, amounts to £76 5s. 6d.

The value of the goods and chattles that were destroyed or taken out of said houses, or near the same, by the estimation of those persons, (by their several accounts exhibited) on oath, who lost the same, amounts to £1036 6s. 3d.

The value of the goods and chattles that were destroyed or taken out of said houses, or near the same, by the estimation of those persons, by their several accounts exhibited, who left the same, but were not sworn to by reason of some being absent, or some other inconveniences that attended the same, amounts to - £72 6s. 10d.

Damage done to the meeting-house and school-house in the north-west precinct, in said Cambridge, estimated by your Committee, amounts to - £0 13s. 4d.

Vessels, linen, and cash belonging to the church of said precinct, taken out of the house of Joseph Adams, deacon of said church, as by his account exhibited on oath, amounts to - £16 16s. 8d.

Total, £1202 8s. 7d.

Damages sustained in LEXINGTON, viz :

The following buildings destroyed by fire, with cash, utensils, and other moveables, either burnt in the same, or carried away, estimated by the owners of said premises, as by their accounts exhibited on oath, £891 8s. 6d.

Damage to other buildings in said Town, estimated as the buildings in Cambridge, amounts to £32 18s. 7d.

Damage (by robbing of said Troops) by sundry inhabitants, as by their several accounts on oath, £760 18s. 2d.

Damage sustained by other inhabitants, as their several accounts exhibited, but not on oath, for the reasons afore mentioned, amounts to - £74 4s. 2d.

Damage to meeting-house in said Town, £1 12s. 0d.

Total, £1761 1s. 5d.

Damage sustained in CONCORD, viz :

The buildings estimated as above, - £2 12s. 0d.

Damage sustained by sundry inhabitants in manner afore-said, under oath, amounts to - £209 16s. 10d.

Damage by other inhabitants, not under oath, for reasons afore-said, amounts to - £59 1s. 9d.

Damage to sundry door-locks broke in His Majesty's Jail, in said Town, by account exhibited on oath, by the under keeper of said jail, amounts to £3 6s. 0d.

Total, £274 16s. 7d.

ABRAHAM FULLER,
ICHABOD GOODWIN, } Committee.
OLIVER WHITNEY,

SAMUEL BULLARD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Sherburn, May 22, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: A harmony between officers and privates was never more necessary to promote the general good than at this present period. Permit me for a moment to suggest to you, what appears to me in its consequences very detrimental to that unanimity hinted above. A sergeant and private soldier informed me this day, that Colonel Jacob Miller, of Hollistown, was likely to be discharged from his command in the Regiment. I must say, gentlemen, this information gave me great pain, when I consider him as a brave and resolute man, a good soldier, and a person who made no interest to obtain the command he held. He is universally esteemed by all who personally know him, and was chosen agreeably to the direction of the Committee of Safety, as declared by Colonel Pierce, moderator of the corps of officers at the time of choice. Consider, gentlemen, the apparent consequences which are likely to ensue should Colonel Miller be discharged. I am credibly informed that three or four companies that are raised and are raising will refuse serving in the Regiment, and perhaps be the means of ruining the Regiment entirely. I thought it my duty to communicate these hints for the good of my Country, which I hope will be a sufficient apology for this address. I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant, SAMUEL BULLARD.

TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF MASSACHUSETTS.

In Committee of Supplies, Watertown, }

SIR: The letters which we have this day received from General Ward, through your Honourable Congress, carry with them such ungenerous treatment as this Committee could not conceive that it had merited. We, Sir, are conscious to ourselves of having discharged the heavy duty of our office to the utmost of our power with fidelity, and we think if your General has any consideration he must acknowledge it; nevertheless, after he knew that we had issued an advertisement for collecting the Colony Arms in the Essex Gazette, instead of assisting us in the matter, the Congress is troubled with the affair, as if their Committee was incapable of transacting such a trivial undertaking.

But what we think most hardly of is the affair of the plank. We received a memorandum, and ordered it to be provided immediately; the owner of the mills had not procured them yesterday, but engaged to have them in readiness by Tuesday morning, which we directed the boatman to apprise the General of. We shall, in justice to ourselves, expect an explanation of this matter, when the affairs of the Colony can be a little settled, from the General; and in the interim think it necessary to remove any unfair suggestions from the minds of the members of your Honourable Congress. Being, Sir, with respect, your humble servant,
DAVID CHEEVER, per order.

MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, }
May 22, 1775. }

SIR: This Committee having received from Captain Benedict Arnold, by letter of the 11th of May, instant, information respecting the reduction of Ticonderoga, and the situation of that fortress in many respects, beg leave to lay said letter before the Honourable Congress, that they may proceed thereon in such manner as to them in their wisdom shall seem meet. This Committee apprehend it to be out of their province in any respect whatever.

We are, with due respect, your Honours' obedient humble servants,
J. PALMER, Chairman.

To the Honourable President of the Provincial Congress, now sitting at Watertown.

MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO BENEDICT ARNOLD.

Watertown, May 22, 1775.

SIR: This Congress have this day received your letter of the eleventh instant, informing the Committee of Safety of the reduction of the fort at Ticonderoga, with its dependencies which was laid before this Congress by said Committee. We applaud the conduct of the Troops, and esteem it a very valuable acquisition.

We thank you for your exertions in the cause, and considering the situation of this Colony at this time, having a formidable Army in the heart of it, whose motions must be constantly attended to, and as the affairs of that expedition began in the Colony of Connecticut, and the cause being common to us all, we have already wrote to the General Assembly of that Colony to take the whole matter respecting the same under their care and direction, until the advice of the Continental Congress can be had in that behalf, a copy of which letter we now enclose you.

We are, &c.

EARL OF DARTMOUTH TO GOVERNOUR TRYON.

Whitehall, May 23, 1775.

SIR: In a very short time after you embarked upon your return to your Government, the Petition to the King, the Memorial to the House of Lords, and the Representation to the House of Commons of the Assembly of New-York, upon the subject matter of the grievances they complain of, in various instances, of the exercise of the constitutional authority of Parliament, were received; and Mr. Burke having delivered to me the Petition to the King, I had the honour to present it to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive it with the most gracious expressions of regard, and attention to the humble request of his faithful subjects in New-York, who have on this occasion manifested a duty to His Majesty, and a regard for the authority of the Parent State, which, had they not in the Memorial to the House of Lords, and in the Representation to the House of Commons, been unfortunately blended with expressions containing claims which made it impossible for Parliament, consistent with its justice and dignity, to receive them, might have laid the foundation of that conciliation we have so long and so ardently wished for.

I will, however, still hope (and I am strengthened in that hope by private advices received to day from Pennsylvania) that the Resolution of the House of Commons of the 27th of February will remove all obstacles to the restoration of the publick tranquillity; and I am commanded by the King to say that nothing can give greater satisfaction to the Royal breast than to see us again a happy and united people.

Should such an event take place it will be, and ought in justice to be, attributed in great measure to the moderation and good disposition which has appeared in the Assembly of New-York; and whilst they continue firm, the body of people must soon be convinced how equally vain and improper it is to insist upon claims inconsistent with their dependance on the authority of Parliament, and that the only constitutional method of obtaining redress for any grievances they may have to complain of, is through the channel of their legal Representatives in Assembly. I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant, DARTMOUTH.

Governour Tryon.

THE CRISIS, NO. XIII.

London, May, 1775.

Every Englishman must deplore the ill success, and abhor the unworthy treatment, which attended the two late conciliatory plans in relation to America. Pregnant with good sense, benevolence, and sound reason, they will do eternal honour to the wisdom, justice, policy, and humanity of the heads and hearts that formed them. How different was the plan of North! Crafty, mean, insidious, impolitick, irrational, shallow, and (like himself and coadjutors) beneath contempt. This was not treating with America, but insulting her; every step against her hitherto has been founded in the greatest inhumanity, the grossest ignorance, and the worst policy. I will proceed to prove my assertion, and defy the whole cabal of ministerial slaughtermen to confute me. I do not call upon the master butcher, because he can only be considered (after the part he has acted by asserting) an executive, and not as a rational master in this business.

First, then, for the humanity of these proceedings: let it be granted only, as it must, that the Crown stands in the same relation to America as a parent to her child, and my first assertion proves itself. Have any gentle, tender, sensible means been used to reconcile her? Have not her humble remonstrances, proposals, submissions, and supplications, been treated with contempt? Not suffered to lie on the table of a British House of Commons? Have they been deemed worthy of a thought by her pious Sovereign? Has she not been branded with the ignominious name of rebel by Act of Parliament, for no other reason, (I mean no true one,) than because she has wisely and calmly deliberated upon, remonstrated against, and steadily, but not tumultuously, resented the repeated injuries she has received?

As to riots by mobs, they are not to be imputed to her as treason and rebellion. America, as a Nation most unconstitutionally oppressed, has hitherto only deliberated upon her sufferings. She has not acted. My Lords Suffolk, Pomfret, Radnor, Apsley, and Sandwich, they have not acted. It is as yet no treason, my Lords, to think, to advise, to fear, and to prepare. You cannot, you dare not move to annul, as you may wish, the statute of treasons in America. The Americans have as good a right to that as your Lordships. I mean, as yet, my Lords, because I am not quite satisfied that, even in the present smuggled and corrupt Parliament, the boldest and most venal prostitute durst make so dangerous a trial upon the patience and long sufferance of this Kingdom.

I will now inform your Lordships, that it is contrary to the Law of Nations to attempt the destruction even of the most inveterate enemy by famine, until he has been first solemnly summoned to submit. Have the Americans ever yet been (though, if men, they shortly will be) in arms? Have they yet had a prospect of any other terms than such as would make them slaves? Will they be weak enough to submit to such conditions? The preliminaries hitherto proposed have been founded in oppression, not in reason; they are fit for brutes, not men. The lenient, the compassionate North, has treated America like the assassin of an alley; with his knife at her throat, he has humanely left it at her choice to strip herself, for fear she should be stripped by him. Why have the Ministry had recourse at first to this inhuman scheme of famine? They fear the Army will relent, when they find they must wade through the blood of their own countrymen. Their present General (Gage) has, to his honour, declined the bloody task. Even a foreigner, to whom the same command was offered, has revolted at the thought. Is not this stratagem of starving freemen into slavery, the most inhuman, as well as the most cowardly of all others, especially when it is considered that all the remonstrances of these unhappy sufferers have been rejected? I should insult the reader's understanding by waiting for a reply. I therefore come to the next ingredient in the American persecution—ignorance.

I must first remark, that some of their wise Lordships were for having Maryland and Virginia, very remote inland countries, prohibited from the Fishery. Thus far have some of the great and sage counsellors of this Nation been ignorant even of the situation of that part of their fellow-creatures whom they wish to involve in the most dreadful of all calamities—famine. But the very scheme itself is impracticable; these wretched people cannot be totally destroyed, either by butchery or famine; their numbers are great and formidable; in such a vast extent of country their resources will be endless; they are not destitute of arms already, and they will be supplied with more in spite of our vigilant fleet. They have all the materials necessary for war in the bowels of their Country; they have artists, handicraftsmen, manufacturers, and mechanics of all sorts; cattle of all kinds; fruit of the earth in vast abundance; fine streams and rivers, though no doubt Administration, for the sake of consistency, will give strict orders, and pay highly for the poisoning of these; but that will not easily be effected; these people in general know the use of arms; they have perseverance, courage, resolution, and, above all, most prophetic Lord Sandwich! they have virtue, which can never be overcome. Should our Army strike and fall, the hatred, enmity, and revolt of America, is fixed forever; they never will submit to lick the tyrant hand which has once been raised against their liberties, their properties, and their lives. Under the above considerations, the present scheme of Government must seem impracticable; if so, or if, from rancour and resentment it has been viewed but partially, it is the grossest ignorance to pursue it. Should Heaven interpose on the side of justice, we shall perceive our error too late. But were our attempts by sword or famine sure of success, Government is only destroying its own vitals.

What, then, is the policy of this unnatural war? It is like the war between the belly and the other members; the whole State must feel its consequence. Shallow North told his House of Commons (for it is his) that the imports from the American Continent were inconsiderable. Now, my Lord, you ought to know (and in honour you should have declared) that the imports of that part of America into our Sugar Colonies, were the very life of them; neither planters nor negroes can subsist without them, particularly in the prohibited, interdicted article of fish, which, when salted, is their general food. Your Lordship, by your war and your intended famine, has effectually starved and ruined all the passive and obedient Sugar Colonies, as well as your declared enemies in America. Thus a most valuable fishery, a considerable sugar trade, and thousands (perhaps millions) of innocent and brave lives will be sacrificed by a narrow-minded Ministry to wicked views and insatiable resentments, in the reign of a monarch born a Briton! An ancient Pict, or a wild Indian, savage in their natures, would blush and shudder at such proceedings. With the Colonies and trade the revenue must sink. If royal profusion and ministerial corruption were to sink likewise, it would be well; but they will still attempt to draw blood from the most impoverished veins. The commercial, the landed interest, the publick bank, at last, must feel the shock. Then, perhaps, when famine threatens at our own doors, the British lion will be roused. Then, for I will prophesy in my turn, comes a revolution, fatal to minions, pensioners, placemen, knaves, and tyrants; but happy for the Nation, if, from the ashes of all these pests, the rights of suffering and insulted Englishmen can be once more established. We shall find it to our cost in vain to send English soldiers; none but Scotch will do the business against English breasts. I am of opinion, let the wishes of the Ministry be what they will, that if every officer who goes upon this assassination were a Burgoyne, he would be disappointed of the blood he pants for, his command will be sinecure, and his victory a brave and virtuous desertion. All who deserved the name of soldiers, would throw down their arms, and embrace their gallant and happy countrymen. An English army will not, and a navy cannot destroy the liberties of America; the Ministry, who wish to deceive the Nation, are, as they frequently are, deceived themselves; they cannot execute their plan without extraordinary and successive, almost perpetual drafts of forces. Should the patient spirit of this Kingdom rise at such a time in arms, and France and Spain add to the horrors of a civil war, even in the midst of these calamities it will be some consolation, that the advisers, abettors, and detestable heads of these diabolical measures, cannot long escape the vengeance of an injured people.

WILLIAM HOOPER TO SAMUEL JOHN JOHNSTON, IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Philadelphia, May 23, 1775.

DEAR JOHNSTON: The close attention which I am compelled to pay to the business of the Congress, scarce gives me an opportunity to pay my duty to my friends. As we meet at nine A. M. and sit till four P. M., you will readily conceive that the little leisure we have is not sufficient for the common functions of life and exercise to keep us in health. While I am writing I encroach upon Congress hours, and if I could furnish you with any thing interesting it might be some apology for the transgression. But the strict secrecy which is enjoined upon the members, leaves us at large to communicate nothing worthy attention that happens within the walls of the State-House. Let it suffice, that the most perfect harmony subsists among the members.

The character of the New-Yorkers is no longer suspicious. They take a forward and an active share in the opposition; all ranks of people among them are embarked in the common cause, and are sacredly resolved to preserve the cargo or perish with the ship. The few Tories among them are silent; the cry of liberty is irresistible. The . . . , who are never happy except when dabbling in faction, have met a just reward for their misguided zeal, and have been compelled (six of them) to seek protection on board a King's ship. Rivington follows their fortunes, and his printing shop, which forged calumny and sedition for the whole Continent, is shut up. New-York must now become the seat of war. The taking of Ticonderoga will divert the attention of Government to that quarter, and the New-Yorkers will not long be suffered to be indifferent spectators of its operations. Believe me, I do not think they wish to be. Their City is filled with armed men, whom they have raised and disciplined, to be called into action when hostilities begun on the part of Lord North's troops shall render it necessary. Government has sent them the Asia, man-of-war, we suppose to protect their trade, or rather to give spirit to the Tories; but that day is past; they are sunk, never to rise again.

This City has taken a deep share in the insurrection which is so generally diffused through the Continent. Men, women, and children feel the patriotick glow, and think every man in a state of reprobation beyond the power of heavenly mercy to forgive, who is not willing to meet death rather than concede a tittle of the Congress creed.

Quakerism has received a shock from which it will never recover. An attempt to restrain the other sects in their spirited conduct, has only shown the weakness of their efforts, and the insignificance of their numbers, when in competition with those who think and act differently from them. The Testimony, to their eternal dishonour, accompanied with the proceedings of the New-York Assembly, gave encouragement to Administration to adopt the present compulsory measures, which, at this hour, we all lament; for certain it is, till those got to hand, the plan prepared by the Administration was conciliatory.

If it should be thought expedient to raise troops in each Colony, and money of course must be supplied, from whence must it come in our Province? Would the Provincial Convention think it prudent to emit for that purpose, or are not the circumstances such as to leave no alternative to their choice? Whether this, or what, will be recommended, is still in suspense. This, however, is certain, that it will be necessary that a Convention should be held immediately upon the return of the Delegates. I would, therefore, advise Mr. Harvey to warn the several Counties immediately to elect Representatives to sit in Convention, and I would propose that each County should send ten at least. This is consistent with the New-York policy, which thereby has given strength to the cause, by interesting so many in the protection of it. Every man, let his property be ever so small, has still his rights to preserve, and claims a share in the publick consultation, which must eventually affect him. Such a step with us would be prudent. The spirit wants more in North-Carolina, I think; perhaps you may think ten too many.

Hewes sends you the newspapers. Pray make my compliments acceptable to every branch of your worthy family. Remember me affectionately to Mr. Iredell. I refer you to James Charlston for every thing which is not related in the newspapers. Only let me add to the members of the Committees, that a resolve has passed the Congress, and ordered to be published, that no vessel shall be suffered to load for Newfoundland, St. John's, or Nova-Scotia, to supply the British fisheries there, or any where else along the coast of America. This is much to be noticed; it is a just retaliation for restraining the American fishery.

Hewes orders me to Congress that he may have an opportunity to despatch his vessel; and as Caswell is indisposed I must obey, and thereby save your patience a further trial. I am your affectionate friend and obedient humble servant,

WILLIAM HOOPER.

Williamsburgh, Virginia, May 25, 1775.

Last Tuesday evening, May 23d, the Honourable Peyton Randolph, Esquire, escorted all the way from Ruffin's Ferry by a troop of thirty-six of the Williamsburgh Volunteers, and met a little way out of Town by the rest of the company, arrived safe at his house in this City, amidst the acclamations of the inhabitants, from the General Congress at Philadelphia; and next morning they presented him with the following Address, as a tender of their best services at this dangerous and alarming period:

To the Honourable PEYTON RANDOLPH, Esquire:

We, the members of the Volunteer Company in Williamsburgh, embodied to support the constitutional rights and liberties of America, are exceedingly alarmed to hear, from report, that the same malevolent demons from whom have originated all the evils of America, are now exerting their utmost treachery to ensnare your life and safety. The friends of liberty and mankind have never escaped the fury of arbitrary despots. No wonder, then, that you should be selected as a proper victim to be sacrificed to the malice of the present Administration.

Permit us, therefore, (attached to you by the noble ties of gratitude and fellow-citizens,) to entreat you in the warmest manner to be particularly attentive to your own safety, as you regard the interests of this Country. We now proffer to you our services, to be exerted at the expense of every thing a freeman ought to hold dear, as you may think most expedient, in the defence of your person and constitutional liberty, and will most cheerfully hazard our lives in the protection of one who has so often encountered every danger and difficulty in the service of his countrymen. May Heaven grant you long to live, the father of your Country and the friend to freedom and humanity.

To which he was pleased to return the following Answer:

GENTLEMEN: The affection you have expressed for me demands the warmest returns of gratitude. I feel very sensibly the happiness resulting from the kind attention of my worthy fellow-citizens to my security and welfare. Your apprehensions for my personal safety arise from reports which, I hope, have no foundation. Such unjust and arbitrary proceedings would bring on the authors of them the resentment and indignation of every honest man in the British Empire. I shall endeavour to deserve the esteem you have expressed on this occasion, and shall think it the greatest misfortune that can attend me if ever my future conduct should give you any reason to be displeased with the testimony you have now offered of your approbation.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Westmoreland County, held at the Court-House the 23d of May, 1775, present the Rev. Thomas Smith, Chairman, and fifteen other members of said Committee.

This Committee having taken into consideration the Address of the citizens of Williamsburgh, presented to his Excellency the Governour, on the 21st of April last, and his Excellency's verbal answer thereto, as also his Lordship's Speech to the Council, the 2d of May, and the Proclamation issued the next day, in consequence of the advice given him by a majority of the said Council, look upon themselves as indispensably bound to declare their sentiments thereon, as well to expose the inimical measures of men in high office, for a long time steadily pursued against the just rights of a loyal people, as to take off the odium they have endeavoured by some late proceedings to fix upon this Colony.

The seizing the powder, confessedly placed in the Magazine for the defence and protection of this Colony, by order of his Excellency the Governour, was a step by no means to be justified, even upon the supposition of its being lodged there from on board a man-of-war, as his Lordship has in his Proclamation asserted, although in his verbal answer to the Address of the citizens of Williamsburgh, he has tacitly acknowledged the powder to belong to the Country, by agreeing to deliver it up: that is, the same powder they demanded as the Country's; and we have been informed that the Country had powder in the Magazine, which cannot now be found there: We therefore consider the removing the powder privately, and when that part of the Country was, as his Lordship confesses, in a very critical situation, to be a part of that cruel and determined plan of wicked administration to enslave the Colonies, by first depriving them of the means of resistance, and do Resolve,

1st. That the dissatisfaction discovered by the people of this Country, and late commotions raised in some parts thereof, proceeded, not as his Lordship in his Proclamation has injuriously and inimically charged, from a disaffection to His Majesty's Government, or to a design of changing the form thereof, but from a well grounded alarm, occasioned altogether by the Governour's late conduct, which clearly evinced his steady pursuit of the above mentioned ministerial plan to enslave us.

2d. That so much of his Excellency's Proclamation which declares "the real grievances of the Colony can be only obtained by loyal and constitutional applications," is an insult to the understanding of mankind, inasmuch as it is notorious that this and the other Colonies upon the Continent have repeatedly heretofore made those applications, which have ever been treated with contumely, and as his Lordship, since the late unhappy differences between Great Britain and the Colonies have subsisted, hath deprived us of the constitutional mode of application, by refusing to have an Assembly.

3d. That so far from endeavouring or desiring to subvert our ancient, and to erect a new form of Government, we will, at the risk of our lives and fortunes, support and defend it, as it existed and was exercised until the year 1763, and that his Lordship, by misrepresenting the good people of this Colony, as well in his letter to the British Minister as in his late Proclamation, has justly forfeited their confidence.

4th. That His Majesty's Council, who advised the Proclamation before-mentioned, have not acted as they were bound to do from their station in Government, which ought to have led them to be mediators between the first Magistrate and the people, rather than to join in fixing an unjust and cruel stigma on their fellow-subjects.

5th. That the thanks of this Committee are justly due to the Delegates of the late Continental Congress, and to the Delegates from this Colony particularly, for their prudent, wise, and active conduct, in asserting the liberties of America; and that the design of Government which, in some instances, we are informed, has already been carried into execution, to deprive them of all offices, civil and military, tends manifestly to disturb the minds of the people in general; and that we consider every person advising such a measure, or who shall accept of any office of preferment, of which any of the noble asserters of American liberty have been deprived, as an enemy to this Country.

Ordered, That the Clerk transmit a copy of the foregoing Resolutions to the Printer as soon as conveniently may be, in order that the same may be published in the Gazette.

JAMES DAVENPORT, Clerk Com'tee.

At a Committee held for Westmoreland County, May 23, 1775,

Resolved, That every Merchant or Factor who shall import European Goods into this County from any other Colony or District, shall, before he be permitted to sell such Goods, produce to the Chairman, or any one of the Committee, a certificate from the Committee of the Colony, County, or District from whence such Goods were purchased, of their having been imported agreeable to the terms of the Association of the Continental Congress.

JAMES DAVENPORT, Clerk.

TALBOT COUNTY (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation for Talbot County, on the 23d of May, 1775, at the Court-House of the said County,

The Rev. Mr. JOHN GORDON, Chairman.

A Letter from the Committee of Observation in Baltimore Town, bearing date May 20, 1775, and signifying that the Ship Johnston, belonging to Mr. Gildart, of Liverpool, was loaded with Salt and Dry Goods, by the house of Messrs. Ashton, and bound to Chesapeake Bay, was read.

In consequence whereof, a deputation, consisting of eleven gentlemen, was appointed to wait on Mr. James Braddock, agent and store-keeper for Mr. Gildart, owner of the said Ship Johnston, to advise him of the information received, to request him to give a satisfactory account and state of all goods now in his hands, and not to assist or countenance, directly or indirectly, the landing of any goods from the said ship, or in any way to promote the sale thereof. On the whole, the deputation aforesaid had it in charge to require an answer from Mr. Braddock, as to the part he meant to act on this occasion, and whether he would comply with their requisition, and to report the same to the Committee on Tuesday, the 30th instant, on which day they agreed to meet, unless the deputation should think it necessary to call a Committee sooner, in which case they were requested to give publick notice.

On the 30th instant the Committee, as above, met according to appointment, when the deputation aforesaid appeared, and reported that they went to Mr. Braddock's store, but not finding him at home, they left a copy of the letter from the Committee of Baltimore Town, together with a copy of the order of this Committee, to be delivered to him when he should return.

In consequence of this Mr. Braddock appeared before the Committee, and informed them "that he did expect the Ship Johnston shortly to arrive in Miles River, but that he had no advice, nor had any reason to believe (except from the aforesaid letter from the Baltimore Town Committee) that the said ship would bring either Dry Goods or Salt."

Mr. Braddock did likewise, at the same time, voluntarily enter into the following engagement and promise: "That if the Ship Johnston, or any other vessel having on board any Goods or Merchandise prohibited by the American Association, shall come addressed to him, or to any other agent or factor for Mr. Gildart, he will, in such an event, neither directly nor indirectly receive, nor assist in landing, storing, or following the said Goods or Merchandise, but that, on the contrary, he will, immediately and forthwith, give notice of the arrival of the said ship or other vessel to the above mentioned deputation, or to some four of them, (who are appointed to go on board such ship or vessel, and to examine the papers, viz: the manifest, the cockets, and log-book,) and that he would give directions for the immediate return of any ship or vessel addressed to him; without breaking bulk."

Mr. Braddock delivered, at the same time, to the Committee an inventory of the Goods he has now on hand, with which they declared themselves satisfied for the present.

On the same day information being made to the Committee that Mr. Brascup, tavern-keeper at Talbot Court-House, had, on Tuesday, the 23d of May, served up a Lamb at his table, he was accordingly called before the Committee to give an account of his conduct; and upon his informing them that he had not purchased more than two or three Lambs, which he had been assured were yeaned before the first day of January, and on his promise that he would not, for the future, purchase any more Lambs without a certificate from the seller that they had been yeaned, either before the first day of January or after the first of May, the Committee were satisfied, and dismissed Mr. Brascup.

Ordered, That the above proceedings be published in the Maryland Gazette.

Signed by order of the Committee:

ROBERT WILSON, Clerk pro tem.

ROBERT HANNA AND OTHERS TO GOVERNOUR PENN.

Pittsburgh, May 23, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: Shortly after our confinement here we wrote you in what manner we have been treated by the court of Fort Dunmore, as 'tis called, and also enclosed a list of actions brought against us for acting in our office, with the writs of adjournment from and to Staunton; but we have the greatest reason to believe it has not yet come to your hands, by reason of our receiving no answer. We have ever since remained, and now are in jail bounds, though often threatened with close confinement. We, with the assistance of one of our brethren now in the same state with us, (namely, Thomas Scott,) would inform your Honour as follows, viz: The said Scott was recognised on the thirteenth of November last past, to appear at the next court then to be holden at this place; notwithstanding the appearance was made accordingly, and no court held, yet the recognisance was continued; and since, the body of said Scott was arrested by armed force, with five writs, one at the suit of the King, and four civil processes, for acting by virtue of your Honour's commission of the peace; to which process the said Scott appeared here at court the sixteenth instant, and upon the said recognisance, was adjudged by the court to be bound in five hundred Pounds, with two sureties in two hundred and fifty Pounds each, to keep the peace, be of good behaviour, and in particular not to act as a Magistrate by any authority derived from Pennsylvania. On refusing to give such bail, on account of the latter clause in particular, though sufficient bail for the prison bounds was tendered, was ordered, and put into close jail with murderers and thieves, and there detained about one hour; but on a motion to the court, made by Mr. Harvie, was admitted to prison bounds bail.

In consequence of the disagreeable circumstances we now labour under, and more especially those of us who have families, we look upon it absolutely necessary to send the bearer hereof express, (who is ordered to wait your answer,) praying your immediate instructions, whether we shall give the bail required by this court, break the bounds, or in what manner we shall be enlarged, or conduct ourselves to your Honour's satisfaction, and the interest of the Government, to which we are closely attached.

Sir, the unhappy situation to which this Country is at present reduced by the proceedings of the Virginians, has rendered it impossible for us to collect any sum of money whatever; and our ready cash being nearly exhausted in defence of the cause, lays us under the necessity of applying to your Honour for the sum of fifteen Pounds, which we were obliged to promise to said express for his services, which we hope you will order him paid before he leaves Town, and also enclose such other sums of money as you may think sufficient to defray the past expenses, and answer the present necessities of your Honour's most obliged and very humble servants,

ROBERT HANNA,
JAMES CAVET,
THOMAS SCOTT.

To the Honourable John Penn, Esq., Governour and Commander-in-Chief of the Province of Pennsylvania, &c.

ROBERT HANNA AND OTHERS TO GOVERNOUR PENN.

Pittsburgh, May 23, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: Messrs. Hanna and Cavet, who were apprehended and taken into custody the twenty-second of last February, as you have been already informed by despatches forwarded to you by them immediately for that purpose; and we are sorry to find that they have not as yet received any reply to their letters on that subject, although they are now upwards of three months confined to prison bounds at this place, to the great prejudice of their persons and families, by pretended authority from the Government of Virginia, which did, and still continues to tyrannize over this unhappy part of your Province, but more especially over us, who beg leave to address your Honour on this pressing occasion, for we are aimed at in a particular manner as the objects of their resentment, therefore are doomed to utter ruin and destruction, if they by any means can accomplish their aim. They are not satisfied with imprisoning our persons, (of which every one of us has participated in turn,) but insult and domineer over us as well in open court as every where else opportunity serves. They have procured a number of litigious law suits, entered against every one of us, for acting as Magistrates by authority from the Government of Pennsylvania, as well before, as since Lord Dunmore and his tools usurped the jurisdiction of this distressed part of the Province; the Militia continuing to kill our cattle and hogs, just as it suits them, without any questions asked of the owners, or satisfaction offered.

They likewise take upon themselves to determine our title to lands, as well between this and Ligonier, as beyond this place, by a jury of twelve men of their own choosing, without allowing the defendant the privilege of objecting to any of that number; notwithstanding Magistrates of their own appointment could be procured on the ground to testify some of these select men were the sworn enemies of the defendants.

This was actually the case with Mr. Devereux Smith, the third instant, when Connolly in the like manner dispossessed him of a tract of land some miles eastward of this place, and declared it should be the property of one George Sly; and, in six days afterwards, the Sheriff broke open Mr. Smith's door, and gave the said Sly possession. In short we are deemed and treated like degraded beings that are nowise entitled to the common right of mankind; and the very name of a Pennsylvanian is sufficient to render any man odious at this day now-a-days.

To conclude, we are worried out with repetitions of tyranny and oppression, and greatly injured in bodies, minds, and estates; in the meantime we are, with sincere attachments to your Honour's person and Government, your Honour's most humble and most devoted servants,

ROBERT HANNA, ÆNEAS MACKAY,
JAMES CAVET, THOMAS SCOTT.
DEVEREUX SMITH,

To John Penn, Esquire, Governour of the Province of Pennsylvania, &c.

P. S. As we find ourselves so deeply engaged in lawsuits, brought against us for acting as Magistrates, both before and since Lord Dunmore extended the jurisdiction this length, we were obliged to employ Mr. John Harvie to appear in our behalf in all the actions already brought on account of Government. We therefore humbly hope you will be pleased to honour a draft amounting to thirty Pounds, our money, drawn by us in favour of said Harvie on you; to be paid when it may come to hand, which will oblige us all.

NATHANIEL WALES, JUN., AND OTHERS, TO THE SPEAKER OF THE ASSEMBLY OF CONNECTICUT.

New-York, May 23, 1775.

SIR: We arrived in this city last evening, and have the satisfaction to inform you that the Committee of New-York have complied with the direction of the Continental Congress, as to furnishing our forces at Ticonderoga with provision.

The Provincial Convention of this Province are now sitting, but have not got through the business of examining certificates, &c.; we have not therefore as yet laid our appointment before them. We have had a personal conference with Mr. Pierce, an eminent English merchant of Montreal, express to the Continental Congress, with intelligence of a most interesting nature. He informs us that all the French officers of Canada are now in actual pay under General Carleton. That St. Luke le Corne, who was Superintendent of all the Indians in Canada while it was in the hands of the French, and is father-in-law of Mr. Campbell, who is Superintendent under His Majesty, has sent belts to Northern Tribes, as far up as the Falls of St. Mary and Michilimackinack, to engage them to take up arms against the New-England Colonies, but the event of that embassy is not yet known. That a similar application has been made to the tribes nearer to the frontiers of the English settlements, but with little success, as not more than forty Indians could be found that would engage in the measures; that the plan of operations in Canada is to procure the savages to join with the Canadians in hostilities against the rebels of New-England.

Mr. Pierce gives it as his opinion that the Canadians, viz: the plebeians, will not, but with the utmost reluctance, engage against the Colonists, but that the nobles are our bitter enemies. He also says that General Carleton was expected at Montreal in a day or two after he left that place, which was the eleventh May instant, and that he was to take up his residence there for this summer.

We are now about to take up lodgings in the heart of the City, where we shall have an opportunity of conversing with the citizens, and learn their true spirit. The Provincial Convention of New-Jersey meet this day; we propose to wait on them some time this week.

We can at present give you no just account of the state of the cause of liberty in this City, but hope, from the little information we have already had, that there will not be so general a defection as we apprehended.

We are, with due respect, your most obedient servants,
NATHANIEL WALES, JR.,
THADDEUS BURR,
PIERPONT EDWARDS.

To the Honourable William Williams, Esq., Speaker of the House of Assembly, Connecticut.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM TICONDEROGA TO A GENTLEMAN IN HARTFORD, CONN., DATED MAY 23, 1775.

I shall endeavour to give you a very concise journal of matters here since the twelfth instant.

May 11.—We set sail from Skenesborough in a schooner belonging to Major Skene, which we christened Liberty.

Sunday 13.—Arrived at Ticonderoga, from whence, after some preparations, we set sail for Crown Point.

Monday 14.—Contrary winds retarded our voyage, and the day drew to a close when we anchored at Crown Point.

Tuesday 15.—Contrary winds. Colonel Arnold, with thirty men, took the boat and proceeded on for St. John's, leaving to Captain Sloan the command of the vessel with the sailors, and to me the command of the soldiers on board. About twelve o'clock, while beating down, we espied a boat; sent out our coxswain to bring her in. It proved to be the French post from Montreal, with Ensign Moland on board. We examined the mail, and among other things, found an exact list of all the regular Troops in the Northern Department, amounting to upwards of seven hundred.

Wednesday 16.—A fair gale. We overtook Colonel Arnold in the boat, took him on board, and at night arrived within thirty miles of St. John's, when the wind fell and the vessel was becalmed. We immediately armed our two boats, manned them with thirty-five men, and determined, by dint of rowing, to fetch St. John's, and take the place and the King's sloop by surprise at break of day.

Thursday 17.—After rowing hard all night, we arrived within half a mile of the place at sunrise, sent a man to bring us information, and in a small creek, infested with numberless swarms of gnats and musketoes, waited with impatience for his return. The man returning, informed us they were unapprised of our coming, though they had heard of the taking of Ticonderoga and Crown Point. We directly pushed for shore, and landed at about sixty rods distance from the barracks; the men had their arms, but upon our briskly marching up in their faces, they retired within the barracks, left their arms, and resigned themselves into our hands. We took fourteen prisoners, fourteen stands of arms, and some small stores. We also took the King's sloop, two fine brass field-pieces, and four boats. We destroyed five boats more, lest they should be made use of against us. Just at the completion of our business, a fine gale arose from the north; we directly hoisted sail, and returned in triumph. About six miles from St. John's, we met Colonel Allen with four boats and ninety men, who determined to proceed and maintain the ground. This scheme Colonel Arnold thought impracticable, as Montreal was near, with plenty of men, and every necessary for war. Nevertheless, Colonel Allen proceeded and encamped on the opposite side of the lake, or river, as it is there called; the next morning he was attacked by two hundred Regulars, and obliged to decamp and retreat.

Friday 18.—Returned again to Crown Point, from thence to Ticonderoga.

Saturday 19.—Encamped at Ticonderoga. Since that time nothing material has happened. It is Colonel Arnold's present design that the Sloop Enterprise, as she is called, and the Schooner Liberty, shall cruise on the Lake, and defend our frontiers, till men, provisions, and ammunition are furnished to carry on the war.

Tuesday, May 23, 1775.

The Provincial Congress having been appointed to convene this day at Trenton, a large number of the Deputies accordingly assembled; and the day was spent in examining and comparing the Certificates of election of the several Members present.

Wednesday, May 24, 1775.

The Congress proceeded to the choice of a President, when Hendrick Fisher, Esquire, was duly elected; Jonathan D. Sergeant, Esquire, was chosen Secretary, and William Paterson, Esquire, and Mr. Frederick Frelinghuysen, his Assistants.

Inasmuch as the business on which this Congress are now assembled, and is likely to engage their deliberations, appears to be of the highest moment, and may, in the event, affect the lives and properties, the religion and liberties of their constituents, and of their remotest posterity, it unquestionably becomes the representative body of a Christian community to look up to that all-powerful Being, by whose providence all human events are guided, humbly imploring his divine favour, in presiding over and directing their present councils towards the re-establishment of order and harmony between Great Britain and her distressed Colonies; and that he would be graciously pleased to succeed the measures that may be devised as most conducive to these desirable ends: It is, therefore,

Ordered, That the President do wait upon the Ministers of the Gospel in this Town, and, in behalf of this Congress, request their alternate attendance and service every morning at eight o'clock, during the session, in order that the business of the day may be opened with prayer for the above purposes.

The President opened to the Congress the important occasion of their meeting; recommended the utmost deliberation in determining on the measures to be pursued in defending those inestimable rights and privileges to which, by our happy Constitution, the inhabitants of this Province are justly entitled; and that due care might be taken to support the established civil authority (so far as might consist with the preservation of their fundamental liberties) for the maintenance of good order and the undisturbed administration of justice.

The Congress then took into consideration the present unhappy contest between Great Britain and these Colonies, which they determined to be of such a nature, and had arrived to such a crisis, that this Convention had become absolutely necessary, in order to provide such ways and means for the security of the Province, as the exigencies of the times require; and, at the same time, declared that they had assembled with the profoundest veneration for the person and family of His sacred Majesty George the Third, firmly professing all due allegiance to his rightful authority and Government.

Whereas a majority of the several legislative Representatives of this Colony, in General Assembly convened at Perth-Amboy, in January last, was instructed and authorized by their constituents to elect and appoint Deputies to represent this Province in the Continental Congress now sitting in the City of Philadelphia: And whereas the said General Assembly accordingly did elect and appoint Stephen Crane, James Kinsey, William Livingston, John De Hart, and Richard Smith, Esquires, for that purpose: And whereas some of the Counties of this Colony omitted so to instruct and authorize their said legislative Representatives, who, notwithstanding, cordially joined in the said election and appointment: This Congress do, therefore, heartily approve of the said Stephen Crane, James Kinsey, William Livingston, John De Hart, and Richard Smith, as Representatives of this Province in the said Continental Congress; and do also sincerely thank the House of Assembly for the laudable regard they have shown for the rights and liberties of the good people of this Province, in timely adopting the Continental Association, and resolving in favour of the Resolutions and Proceedings of the late Continental Congress.

And it is unanimously agreed and Resolved, That it will be most eligible for the inhabitants of each respective County in this Colony, whenever a Continental Congress shall be again necessary, to appoint and empower Deputies to meet in Provincial Congress, for the purpose of electing Delegates to represent this Province in such Continental Congress.

Ordered, That all Votes be taken from the Counties respectively, so that the Vote of each County be taken as one.

The Congress having considered the application of about two hundred of the inhabitants of the Township of Shrewsbury, in the County of Monmouth, calling themselves Associates of the said Township; do unanimously advise that the persons appointed by the said present Associates as their Committee, do immediately advertise a meeting of the inhabitants of the said Township of Shrewsbury, in order to choose a Committee of Observation for the said Township, and adopt the Association recommended by the Continental Congress; and after such choice and adoption, to elect Deputies, one or more, to represent them in this Congress. And that the persons who shall be so elected, by a majority of the inhabitants attending the said meeting of the Township, be received as members of this Congress. And in case of the refusal or neglect of the Township so to do, then this Congress do advise the said Committee of the present Associates to send a Deputy or Deputies for themselves to this Congress; and do direct the said Committee to make and certify their report to this Congress of what shall have been done in this behalf.

Thursday, May 25, 1775.

Samuel Tucker, Esquire, was elected Vice-President, by a plurality of votes.

The Congress resumed the consideration of a written Message to the Continental Congress, which, after certain amendments, was approved and ordered to be entered, and a copy to be made and signed by the President; which Message is in the words following, viz:

In Provincial Congress of New-Jersey. }
Trenton, May 25, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: In the present very alarming crisis, we have been appointed by the several Counties of this Province as their Deputies, to meet in Provincial Congress.

We are accordingly now convened in this place, with dispositions the most heartily to concur, to the utmost of our abilities, in the common cause of America. Yet we think it not advisable to enter into any measures of consequence, until some general plan may be agreed upon and recommended by you.

In this first instance of such Assembly in the Colony, without any precedent among ourselves to direct us, and, at the same time, anxiously concerned to make our Provincial measures consistent with that plan which may be devised and recommended by the Continental Congress, we have judged it necessary to address ourselves to you, for such advice and assistance as you, in your wisdom, may think proper to favour us with. For this purpose we have deputed two of our members, William P. Smith and Elias Boudinot, Esquires, the bearers hereof, whom we recommend to the Congress, requesting you will furnish us, by them, with such directions concerning the line of conduct in which we ought to act, as will prevent any measures we may adopt from marring or obstructing the general views of the Congress, or disappointing your expectations.

Signed by order:

HENDRICK FISHER, President.

To the Members of the Continental Congress.

Friday, May 26, 1775.

The Continental Congress having resolved unanimously, "That all exportations to Quebeck, Nova-Scotia, the Island of St. John's, Newfoundland, Georgia, (except the Parish of St. John's) and to East and West Florida, immediately cease; and that no Provisions of any kind, or other necessities, be furnished to the British Fisheries on the American coasts, until it be otherwise determined by the Congress."

Resolved unanimously, That this Congress do earnestly recommend to the good people of this Province, that they do most religiously adhere to the said Resolution; and that the Secretary do publish this Resolve in one or more of the publick Newspapers.

The Committee appointed for opening a correspondence with the Provincial Congress of New-York, reported a draught of a Letter for that purpose; which was read, approved, and ordered to be entered, and a copy to be made out and signed by the President; which Letter was in the words following, viz:

GENTLEMEN: We, the Deputies appointed by the inhabitants of New-Jersey to meet in Provincial Congress, are now convened here, for the purpose of pursuing such measures as may be thought most expedient in the present unhappy situation to which the Colonies are reduced, and which the peculiar exigencies of the times may require. As nothing can tend more to ensure success to the steps which may, at this critical juncture, be adopted by the several Provinces, than a uniform plan of conduct, we conceived it necessary to look up to the Continental Congress for their advice and direction, which we have accordingly applied for, and hope soon to receive. We also think it of consequence that a correspondence should be established with you and our other sister Colonies, and a free communication be had, from time to time, of such measures as may be judged most conducive to the interest of the common cause; and we request to be favoured with such intelligence as may occur to you worthy of attention, and of which our situation may probably deprive us.

Monday, May 29, 1775.

Pierpoint Edwards, Esquire, one of a Committee from the Assembly of Connecticut to this Congress, attended with certain propositions and instructions, which were received and read, and ordered to be referred for further consideration.

Messrs. Daniel Hendrickson and Nicholas Van Brunt, from the Township of Shrewsbury, in the County of Monmouth, produced a certificate that the said Township had chosen a Committee of Observation pursuant to the directions of the Continental Congress, and that they had elected these gentlemen as Deputies to represent the said Township in this Congress. The said certificate was allowed and filed.

Tuesday, May 30, 1775.

William P. Smith and Elias Boudinot, Esquires, the Committee sent by this Congress with a Message to the Continental Congress, returned with a written Answer, importing that the Congress were not as yet prepared to give any advice on the state of this Province, and promising the same as soon as they should be prepared.

Jonathan D. Sergeant, Esquire, having resigned his office of Secretary to this Congress, William Paterson, Esquire, was chosen Secretary, and Mr. Frederick Frelinghuysen Deputy Secretary.

The Congress received a Letter from the Provincial Congress of New-York, in answer to theirs of the 26th instant, importing their readiness to establish a correspondence with us, and a free communication of such measures as may from time to time be judged conducive to promote the common cause.

Wednesday, May 31, 1775.

The Petition of Robert Murray and John Murray, setting forth their sincere contrition for violating the Continental Association, and their determined resolution for the future strictly to observe the same, &c., was read, and ordered a second reading.

The Petition of Robert and John Murray was read a second time; and, being now considered, it was unanimously resolved, that the petitioners, having made the best satisfaction in their power for their former breach of the General Continental Agreement, and expressed their resolution strictly to adhere to the same in future, ought to be restored to the favourable regard of their Country; and the said Robert and John Murray are accordingly restored to all the civil and commercial privileges which they heretofore enjoyed in this Province.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

Afternoon.

The Congress resumed the consideration of the form of an Association, which was reported in the morning; and, after certain amendments, approved the same, and ordered it to be entered, which is in the words following:

"We, the subscribers, freeholders and inhabitants of the Township of, in the County of, and Province of New-Jersey, having long viewed with concern the avowed design of the Ministry of Great Britain to raise a revenue in America; being deeply affected with the cruel hostilities already commenced in the Massachusetts-Bay for carrying that arbitrary design into execution; convinced that the preservation of the rights and privileges of America depends, under God, on the firm union of its inhabitants, do, with hearts abhorring slavery, and ardently wishing for a reconciliation with our Parent State, on constitutional principles, solemnly associate and resolve, under the sacred ties of virtue, honour, and love to our Country, that we will personally, and as far as our influence extends, endeavour to support and carry into execution whatever measures may be recommended by the Continental and our Provincial Congresses, for defending our Constitution, and preserving the same inviolate.

"We do also further associate and agree, as far as shall be consistent with the measures adopted for the preservation of American freedom, to support the Magistrates and other civil officers in the execution of their duty, agreeable to the laws of this Colony; and to observe the directions of our Committee, acting according to the Resolutions of the aforesaid Continental and Provincial Congresses; firmly determined, by all means in our power, to guard against those disorders and confusions to which the peculiar circumstances of the times may expose us."

Resolved, That copies of the above Association be immediately sent to the Committees of Observation or Correspondence in the several Counties in this Province, which have not already associated in a similar manner, in order that the same may be signed by the several inhabitants, accompanied with the following Letter, to be signed by the President:

GENTLEMEN: Anxiously desirous to promote, as far as possible, an union among the inhabitants of this Colony, we have thought proper to recommend to them the enclosed Association, which we desire may be immediately signed by the good people of your Township; that at a time when our most valuable privileges are invaded, we may, in a uniform manner, make our defence, and prevent the evils to which our unhappy situation exposes us.

Thursday, June 1, 1775.

The Committee appointed to prepare the draught of an answer to Pierpoint Edwards, Esquire, reported the same, which was read, approved, and ordered to be entered, and a copy thereof to be delivered, signed by the President; which is in the words following:

In Provincial Congress, New Jersey, }
June 1, 1775. }

Pierpoint Edwards, Esquire, from the Colony of Connecticut, having laid before this Congress sundry papers, containing, among other things, the appointment of a Committee by the House of Representatives of said Colony, for the purpose of procuring intelligence of the true state of this Province, giving information of the state of the said Colony of Connecticut, and for cultivating harmony and good correspondence with this Province; and this Congress having read and considered the same, take this method of expressing their highest satisfaction with the spirited conduct and proceedings of the said Colony of Connecticut, and do hereby request the said Mr. Edwards to assure the Honourable House of Representatives of that Colony, that the Province of New-Jersey will most heartily co-operate with them in the general measures now pursuing for the common defence of the rights of America, and will, with great pleasure, cultivate that harmony and good correspondence with our brethren of Connecticut, which they so earnestly desire; that this Congress are now engaged in settling a plan for putting the Province in the best state of defence in their power, and are ready to pursue such other methods and directions as shall be recommended to them by the Continental Congress, from whom they are daily expecting advice for this purpose; and whenever any particular measure shall be finally settled and concluded upon by this Province, the House of Representatives of Connecticut shall have the earliest intelligence.

Friday, June 2, 1775.

A Letter from Pierpoint Edwards, Esquire, requesting copies of such of the Resolves and Proceedings of this Congress as respected the regulation of the Militia, the raising of men and money, &c., for the common defence of America, was received and read; to which the following answer was returned, viz:

SIR: The Congress received your polite letter of this morning, and are sorry that the Militia Bill and other matters now before them are not so far completed that they can comply with your request, in giving you extracts from them to take with you to the Honourable House of Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut. You may, however, be assured, that when the Congress rises, a copy of such proceedings as shall be necessary to be communicated, will be transmitted to the Speaker of your Honourable House. We are, &c.

Saturday, June 3, 1775, P. M.

The draught of a plan for regulating the Militia of this Colony, which was reported in the morning, was read a second time; and, after sundry amendments, was approved, and ordered to be entered; which is in the words following:

The Congress, taking into consideration the cruel and arbitrary measures adopted and pursued by the British Parliament and present Ministry for the purpose of subjugating the American Colonies to the most abject servitude; and being apprehensive that all pacifick measures for the redress of our grievances will prove ineffectual, do think it highly necessary that the inhabitants of this Province be forthwith properly armed and disciplined for defending the cause of American freedom. And further considering that, to answer this desirable end, it is requisite that such persons be entrusted with the command of the Militia as can be confided in by the people, and are truly zealous in support of our just rights and privileges, do recommend and advise that the good people of this Province henceforward strictly observe the following Rules and Regulations, until this Congress shall make further order therein:

1st. That one or more Companies, as the case may require, be immediately formed in each Township or Corporation; and, to this end, that the several Committees in this Province do, as soon as may be, acquaint themselves with the number of male inhabitants in their respective Districts, from the age of sixteen to fifty, who are capable of bearing arms, and thereupon form them into companies, consisting, as near as may be, of eighty men each; which companies so formed shall, each by itself, assemble and choose, by plurality of voices, four persons from among themselves, of sufficient substance and capacity, for its officers, namely, one Captain, two Lieutenants, and an Ensign.

2d. That the officers so chosen appoint for their respective companies fit persons to be sergeants, corporals, and drummers.

3d. That as soon as the companies are so formed, the officers of such a number of companies as shall by them be judged proper to form a Regiment, do assemble and choose one Colonel, one Lieutenant-Colonel, a Major, and an Adjutant, for each Regiment.

4th. That each Captain, as soon as elected, furnish himself with a Muster-Roll, after the form following, to be signed by every person under his command, viz:

"We, the subscribers, do voluntarily enlist ourselves in the company of, in the Township of, in the County of, under the command of Colonel, (if a Colonel shall be chosen at the time of subscribing,) and do promise to obey our officers in such service as they shall appoint us, agreeable to the rules and orders of the Provincial Congress. Witness our hands, &c."

5th. That the persons so enlisted meet under the direction of their officers, in such manner, and at such times and places, as shall by them be judged necessary for their improvement in military discipline; and that each whole company do assemble at least once a month for the same purpose; and that a general muster or review of the whole Regiment be had as often, and at such times, as the Field Officers shall appoint.

6th. That each person enlisted be equipped as soon as possible with arms and ammunition, in such manner as by the Field Officers of such Regiment shall be directed.

7th. That due obedience be paid to the officers, and strict attention observed in learning the military exercise.

8th. That where Companies and Regiments are already formed, and officers chosen and appointed, the same be continued, provided that they do adopt such further rules and orders respecting the signing of a muster-roll, days of meeting and reviews, as are hereinbefore contained; and that where part only of the officers are already appointed and chosen, they do proceed to elect such other officers as remain yet to be chosen, in conformity to the rules herein contained.

The Congress taking into consideration the spirited exertions of the Counties of Morris, Sussex, and Somerset, in raising Minute-Men, do approve of and thank them for their zeal in the common cause, and will take the same into further consideration at their next meeting.

The draught of an Ordinance for raising a sum of money for the purpose therein mentioned, after sundry amendments, was approved, and ordered to be entered, in the words following:

Whereas it has become absolutely necessary, in the present dangerous and extraordinary state of publick affairs, in which the usual resources of Government appear to be insufficient for the safety of the people, and in which the good people of this Province have therefore thought proper to choose Deputies in this present Congress, that a fund be provided for the use of the Province, we, the said Deputies, being persuaded that every inhabitant is willing and desirous to contribute his proportion of money for so important a purpose, do, pursuant to the powers entrusted to us by the people, Resolve and direct, that the sum of Ten Thousand Pounds, proclamation money, be immediately apportioned and raised for the use aforesaid, the same to be apportioned, laid out and disposed of, in such manner as hereinafter is directed.

2. And it is resolved and directed, That the part and proportion of the said sum to be raised in the County of Bergen be six hundred and sixty-four Pounds eight Shillings; and that the part and proportion of Essex be seven hundred and forty-two Pounds eighteen Shillings; and that the part and proportion of Middlesex be eight hundred and seventy-two Pounds six Shillings and eight Pence; and that the part or proportion of Somerset be nine hundred and four Pounds two Shillings; and that the part or proportion of Monmouth be one thousand and sixty-nine Pounds two Shillings and eight Pence; and that the part or proportion of Morris be seven hundred and twenty-three Pounds eight Shillings; and that the part or proportion of Sussex be five hundred and ninety-three Pounds five Shillings and four Pence; and that the part or proportion of Hunterdon be one thousand three hundred and sixty-three Pounds sixteen Shillings and eight Pence; and that the part or proportion of Burlington be one thousand and seventy-one Pounds thirteen Shillings and four Pence; and that the part or proportion of Gloucester be seven hundred and sixty-three Pounds two Shillings and eight Pence; and that the part or proportion of Salem be six hundred and seventy-nine Pounds twelve Shillings; and that the part or proportion of Cumberland be three hundred and eighty-five Pounds six Shillings and eight Pence; and that the part or proportion of Cape-May be one hundred and sixty-six Pounds eighteen Shillings.

3. And, in order that the said sum may be duly raised,

It is further resolved and directed, That the same be apportioned by persons hereafter to be appointed by the Committees of the several Townships in this Colony, in which apportionment all certainties shall be rated one-fifth less than the sums they are respectively directed to be rated at by the fourth section of an Act of the General Assembly of this Colony, made and passed in the tenth year of the reign of his present Majesty, entitled "An Act to settle the quotas of the several Counties in this Colony for the levying Taxes;" and that all lands, horses, cattle, and other taxables, be valued as in the above-mentioned Act is directed; which said apportionment shall be made and delivered to the persons to be appointed by the several Committees in each Township, at or before the first day of August next ensuing.

And it is further resolved and directed, That the persons who shall be appointed for apportioning the same as aforesaid in the several Townships of each County, to that end do meet together on the first Monday in July next, at such place as by the laws of this Colony have been appointed for the Assessors to meet in for the like purpose; and then and there settle and divide to each Township within their County its quota of the sum hereinbefore directed to be raised in the County.

4. And it is further resolved and directed, That the several Committees in each Township of the Colony shall appoint fit persons to collect the same, who, upon receiving the said apportionment, shall immediately collect and pay the same to such person or persons as the several Committees in each County may hereafter appoint; or, where there is no County Committee, to such person or persons as the several Township Committees shall jointly appoint.

5. And it is further resolved and directed, That after the part or proportion of each County shall have been apportioned and received by the County Collector, he shall and do pay the same, or any part or parts thereof, to the County Committee, or to their order, signed by their Chairman, by their vote, the same to be disposed of by them in such manner as they in their discretion shall think most proper to answer the said exigencies.

Ordered, That Mr. Fisher, Mr. Tucker, Mr. Daniel Hunt, Mr. Frelinghuysen, Mr. I. Pearson, Mr. Dunham, Mr. Schurman, Mr. John Hart, Mr. Borden, Mr. Deare, Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Schenck, Mr. Ralph Hart, and Mr. Heard, or any three of them, in conjunction with the President or Vice-President, be a Committee of Correspondence, with power to convene this Congress.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY AT CAMBRIDGE.

Crown Point, May 23, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: My last was of the 19th instant, by Captain Jonathan Brown. I then advised you of my taking possession of the King's sloop, &c.; and that, on the 18th instant, on my return from St. John's, Colonel E. Allen, with about eighty or one hundred men, passed me with intention of making a stand at St. John's; and not being able to dissuade him from so rash a purpose, I supplied them with provisions, &c. Yesterday he arrived at Ticonderoga, with his party, and says that on the evening of the 18th instant he arrived with his party at St. John's, and hearing of a detachment of men on the road from Montreal, laid in ambush for them; but his people being so much fatigued, (when the party were about one mile distant,) thought proper to retreat, and crossed the lake at St. John's, where they continued the night. At dawn next day they were, when asleep, saluted with a discharge of grape-shot from six field-pieces, and a discharge of small arms from about two hundred Regulars. They made a precipitate retreat, and left behind them three men. Immediately on this advice I proceeded here with the sloop and schooner, well armed as possible under our circumstances, and eighty men, which, with the party here before, makes near one hundred and fifty men, with whom I am determined to make a stand here to secure the cannon, it being impossible to remove them at present. I am in hourly expectation of two or three hundred men more; most of those here are enlisted. Colonel Allen's men are in general gone home.

As the Regulars have good information of our strength and movements, I am apprehensive of their paying us a visit, provided they can get batteaus from Montreal to St. John's. I shall make every possible preparation to give them a warm reception. I have commissioned Captain John Sloan in the sloop, and Captain Isaac Mathues in the schooner. I have wrote to New-York for a number of gunners and seamen to man the two vessels, being in great want of them. At present obliged to stay on board one of them myself.

As soon as a sufficient number of men arrives, I shall lose no time in carrying your orders into execution in regard to the cannon, &c. This morning, very luckily, an escort of provisions (five barrels of pork and thirty barrels of flour) arrived here as a present from Albany, under the care of Captain Elisha Phelps. The last barrel of our pork being abroach, I have ordered fifty barrels of pork and one hundred of flour from Albany, which I expect soon; prior to which I bought fifteen oxen and thirty barrels of flour, which is all the provisions purchased as yet. The people who have enlisted are promised the same bounty as is given in the Massachusetts-Bay. A sum of money will be requisite to carry matters into execution. I have one hundred and sixty Pounds, found in the sloop; but as it was the Captain's property, do not choose to make use of it at present. I have sent to Albany repeatedly for powder, and can get none; have only one hundred and fifty pounds here, which I brought from Concord. I beg you will order a quantity to be forwarded here immediately. I have wrote to Connecticut, but can have no dependance from that quarter, as it is very scarce there.

I hope some gentleman will soon be appointed in my room here, who is better able to serve the publick than I am. Interim, I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To the Committee of Safety at Cambridge.

P. S. Since writing the above, one of Colonel Allen's party, who was taken prisoner at St. John's, has made his escape, and says, that on the 19th instant there were four hundred Regulars at St. John's, who expected to be joined by more men, and were making all possible preparation to cross the lake and retake Crown Point and Ticonderoga. I have sent expresses to Fort George and Skeneborough, to rally the Country. You may depend, gentlemen, these places will not be given up unless we are overpowered by numbers, or deserted by Providence, which has hitherto supported us.

MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, }
May 23, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: There appears to be some considerable difficulty in the adjustment of General Ward's Regiment, so far as it respects the first that may have command under him in his Regiment. The circumstances we would beg leave to lay before your Honours: Colonel Joseph Henshaw came down Lieutenant-Colonel of a Minute Regiment, under General Ward, and still expects to hold his command under General Ward in said Regiment, upon the present establishment, as he was early applied to by the Committee for that purpose; Colonel Jonathan Ward came down Lieutenant-Colonel under General Ward, of the Standing Militia, and likewise expects to hold his command under General Ward, in the present establishment, having given out enlisting orders to the Captains in said Regiment. Seven Captains in said Regiment desire that Colonel Ward may be appointed, as appears by a certificate under their hands. This Committee have applied to General Ward to determine which of said Colonels should have the command, but he declines to act in the affair. We therefore thought it proper to make this short representation to your Honours, that you might, in your wisdom, put a speedy end to said controversy.

WILLIAM COOPER, Secretary.

To the Hon. Provincial Congress in Watertown.

PETITION OF JOHN MERRILL.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress now at WATERTOWN: The Petition of the subscriber humbly sheweth:

That there is now at Topsham a company of able-bodied men, the number about sixty, who have mostly good effectual fire-arms, but they have very little, or most of them no powder, on which account they are supposed to be in great danger from the Indians, as well as other ways; this is therefore to pray your Honours to give some directions where may be had about fifty or sixty pounds of powder, for which the cash shall be paid by your very humble servant.

JOHN MERRILL.

SELECTMEN OF WALTHAM TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY AT CAMBRIDGE.

Waltham, May 23, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: In obedience to a letter we received from you with respect to Mr. Millicant, we have made particular inquiry into Mrs. Millicant's passing to and repassing from Boston, and after the most critical inquiry, we find Mrs. Millicant went only once to Boston, to bring her little children out of Boston, which were at Mrs. Neuman's, before the engagement; and from a particular inquiry into that affair, are persuaded she conveyed no intelligence to our enemies, that can be any ways detrimental to the important cause in which we are engaged; and from Mr. Millicant's known integrity, uprightness, and good conduct, since he has been with us, we cannot but suppose the information you received of Mr. Millicant's conveying intelligence to our enemies, was from a person either prejudiced against, or entirely unknown to him, and so suspected him to be our enemy, because he is on the half-pay list. However, we shall be on the watch, and very careful that no intelligence be conveyed to our enemies by Mr. Millicant, or any other person in this Town. We are, gentlemen, with due deference, your humble and obedient servants,

TEWKESBURY (MASS.) COMMITTEE OF INSPECTION.

Tewkesbury, May 23, 1775.

Whereas Mr. Timothy Brown, of this Town, has been suspected of being an enemy to the liberties of America: We, the Committee of Inspection of said Tewkesbury, having heretofore taken the matter under our inspection, and had the said Brown upon examination before us, and found no proof of the late charges laid against him, we set up notifications desiring any person that had any thing to offer by way of evidence against the said Brown's character, to offer it to us; and again having met this day upon adjournment, and had the said Brown again upon examination, and still no further evidence against the said Brown appears, but he declares himself a friend to the liberties of his Country, and that he will use the utmost of his endeavours to defend the same; therefore we would inform the publick, that unless some absolute proof be brought against him, the said Brown ought not to be treated as an enemy, but as a friend to our just rights and liberties.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS TO JOHN SULLIVAN AND JOHN LANGDON, ESQUIRES, AT PHILADELPHIA.

Exeter, May 23, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Although it is painful to us to have occasion to realize the necessity of deciding by the sword the present controversy with Great Britain, yet we trust you will know with satisfaction that, in the fullest representative body this Province ever had, it was unanimously voted to raise a body of men for the purposes of general defence. As we conclude you have been already sufficiently apprised of the hostile conduct of the Army under General Gage, we can assure you that the whole Colony seems to be of one heart and one soul; so that even those who had been formerly inactive, are now soberly awake and active. The blood of their brethren has roused them.

We could have desired to consult a General Congress, if time had allowed, before we had taken such an important step as raising a military force. But the case seemed too plain to be doubted, and too urgent to be delayed. We have resolved to raise forthwith two thousand men. How shall we pay them, you are sensible, must now be one question.

We trust, as you know the state of the Colony, that you will enter into the full importance of the question. We desire you will do your utmost to forward some plan in which we may be able to discharge our engagements. We must, gentlemen, press you on this article. The little cash we ever had, is by one means or another almost entirely drained off. The most are ready to join, and are willing to expend one half, if they may preserve the other. Yet we seem to have no method left but borrowing, and we don't know that we can borrow, unless we issue a proper currency ourselves, or have a currency on a general plan, or can borrow in some of the other Colonies.

With regard to what is further necessary to regulate the general policy of the Colonies, you will find our situation and views, so far as we have formed any, in our enclosed letter to the Congress. You may rely upon it that if any general regulations of the Province are thought necessary or best, we shall be ready to receive the same, and govern ourselves accordingly.

Gentlemen, we commit ourselves and you, the honourable body of which you are members, and the cause of liberty and justice throughout America and the world, to the all-directing Mind, and subscribe, with much esteem, your most obedient servant.

To the Honourable John Sullivan and John Langdon, Esquires, Members for this Colony of New-Hampshire in the Continental Congress.

THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Received and read before Congress June 2, 1775.]

Exeter, May 23, 1775.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: British America being entrusted to your wisdom, the proposal of those plans, by which, as by a pole star, it may steer in the tempest occasioned by the arrogant claims, the haughty threats, and unnatural attacks of the British Ministry, it is reasonable for you to expect, and for each Colony to choose, that whatever important step is taken by any of the Colonies, the consequence of which reaches the whole, you should receive the earliest authentick intelligence of the measure itself, together with the facts and motives leading to it, that it may be either diverted, forwarded, or ripened, so as to harmonize with whatever extensive plan the great Fountain of wisdom, and Friend of justice shall inspire the guardians of our common rights.

Long has America mourned to find those she wishes to revere, adopting one plan after another to strip her of the blessings of freedom, deaf to all her pleas for justice.

The counsels of America, united in that illustrious body, the late Continental Congress, we hoped, that, by denying ourselves, we should scatter the mists which hid the path of justice from the eye of Britain; but with pain we have learned that firmness is insolence, and that the most calm resolution to be free is treason in the new Ministerial language.

In spite of the gathering storm, we yet resolved, if possible, to avoid the last retreat of the injured—an appeal to God by the sword; but at length plain and pressing facts constrain us to believe that our enemies mean to deny us every other; though, to our view, the thought is shaded deep in horrors.

Not long since the alarm sounded through this Colony, that the insidious foe, though continually speaking of peace, had begun a scene of bloodshed and devastation on the lives and property of our brethren in the Massachusetts.

Listening only to calls of humanity, without waiting for consultations, with all the speed of common interest and friendship, we generally run to their aid; but we come to be only witnesses, as yet, of the scenes of pillage and of slaughter, perpetrated by the sons of violence. The enemy were retreated. Our situation obliged us to return, not to neglect the cause, but that we might prosecute, by united and consistent counsels, with steady firmness.

As soon as convenience would allow, being directed by our brethren of this Colony to act for them in the present exigence, which seems not to allow time for consulting America at large, feeling for ourselves, our friends, and our Country, we have determined to exert our utmost efforts in defence of the common cause of America, and for the present have resolved to raise the number of two thousand men, (including officers,) to be employed as occasion shall require, under the regulation of this Convention, until we have the advice of the Continental Congress, to whose superintendence we choose to submit. We have, in consequence, engaged to provide for the pay of the above number, until the last day of December next.

We beg leave to suggest that this will, of course, introduce a vast expense. We will not conceal that the circulating cash in this Province is very small, in but a trifling proportion, as we suppose, to the necessary demand on this occasion. We ask the advice and assistance of the Congress with regard to the best method of carrying the above vote into execution. We desire to have the benefit of some general plan for bills of credit, or that we may act with the advice of the Congress in issuing such ourselves; or that we may be pointed to such other methods as shall appear just and equal, in apportioning the expense of the common cause.

Although we ardently wish that, if possible, a connection may yet be preserved between Great Britain and these Colonies, founded on the invariable principles of justice, and the general principles of the British Constitution, yet we are entirely disposed to respect, and willing to submit to any plan of further uniting the Colonies, for the purpose of common security and defence.

We will not conceal that many among us are disposed to conclude, that the voice of God and Nature, to us, since the late hostile design and conduct of Great Britain, is, that we are bound to look to our whole political affairs.

We have not yet largely and fully consulted with one another on this article, but have only acted with the single view of the plain necessity of certain steps to be taken, to secure us from the ruin which the British Ministry have prepared for us. We trust we shall keep this alone in view until we hear the united plan of the Colonies in the General Council, which we pray and trust may be under the influence of Heaven.

By order of the Convention of the Colony of New-Hampshire.

I am, gentlemen, your most humble servant,
MATTHEW THORNTON, President.

To the Honourable Members of the Congress now sitting in the City of Philadelphia.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Province of New-Hampshire, in Provincial Convention, }
Exeter, May 23, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: We acknowledge the honour of an interview with your Committee, the Honourable Joseph Gerrish, Esquire, and Colonel Ebenezer Sawyer, and the intelligence by them communicated to us; and, in way of reply, would inform you, that in consideration of the present alarming state of the Colonies in general, and your Province in particular, we have determined to raise, for the common defence and safety, two thousand men, including officers and those already employed in the publick service, belonging to this Province; to be raised and qualified as soon as may be, and more, if it shall appear to be our proportion, as soon as a proper estimate can be made. And in respect to such other matters as your Committee had in commission to us, we shall take them into our serious consideration; as they are matters of so great importance we cannot immediately determine respecting them, but would wait the advice and direction of the General Congress, to which we are about immediately to apply, as we find you have done. We would beg leave to assure you that the people of this Province appear to be heartily engaged in the common cause, and at all hazards determined to stand by and support it, relying on Divine Providence for success.

By order of Convention:

MATTHEW THORNTON, President.

To the Honourable Congress of Massachusetts-Bay.

COLONEL JOHN FENTON TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Portsmouth, N. H., May 23, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I this moment received your letter of the twenty-third instant. I do assure you, gentlemen, I mentioned the matter respecting the Indians coming down on our frontiers, in my letter to the people of the County of Grafton, as a matter of opinion only, nor have I the least clue or circumstance to guide me in these sentiments but mere opinion.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servant,
JOHN FENTON.

P. S. I wrote that letter to the people of the County of Grafton out of absolute friendship and regard to the County.

Portsmouth, April 26, 1775.

To the People of the County of GRAFTON, from a real friend, who sincerely wishes their well doing:

For God's sake pay the closest attention to the sowing and planting your lands, and do as much of it as possible, not only for your own and families' subsistence, but to supply the wants of your fellow-men down country; for you may be assured that every kind of distress, in the provision way, is coming upon them.

Let nothing induce you to quit your farming business. Mind no reports; and do not think of coming down country to fight. There are enough without you; therefore your diligence in farming will much more serve your Country than coming to assist us. Much depends on the back settlements raising plenty of grain.

I am informed that should the people from the back settlements take up arms, a number of Indians and Canadians will fall upon them; but that if they remain quiet they will not. This I inform you of from the love I bear you, and give it you as a sincere friend should do.

JOHN FENTON.

Exeter, June 27, 1775.

Colonel Fenton's compliments to the President of the Congress, requests to know if it will be convenient to be called before them to-morrow morning; if so, he begs he may be informed, as his family are only waiting to know what is to become of him, before they quit this Province.

In Congress, Exeter, June 30, 1775.

Upon a full hearing of sundry complaints against Colonel John Fenton:

Voted, That the said Colonel John Fenton is an enemy to the liberties of America.

July 1, 1775.

Voted, That Captain Josiah Moulton be desired to take four men and an officer out of Captain Elkins's Company at Hampton, and convey Colonel John Fenton to Headquarters of the New-Hampshire Forces, and deliver him to General Nathaniel Folsom, there to be confined till further orders.

PETITION OF CAPTAIN DELAPLACE.

To the Honourable the General Assembly of the Governor and Company of the ENGLISH Colony of CONNECTICUT, in NEW-ENGLAND, in AMERICA, now convened at HARTFORD.

The memorial of William Delaplace, a Captain in His Majesty's Twenty-sixth Regiment, and commandant of the Fort and Garrison of Ticonderoga, in behalf of himself and the officers and soldiers under his command, beg leave to represent our difficult situation to your Honours, and petition for redress.

Your memorialist would represent, that on the morning of the tenth of May instant, the Garrison of the Fortress of Ticonderoga, in the Province of New-York, was surprised by a party of armed men under the command of one Ethan Allen, consisting of about one hundred and fifty, who had taken such measures effectually to surprise the same, that very little resistance could be made, and to whom your memorialists were obliged to surrender as prisoners; and overpowered by a superiour force, were disarmed, and by said Allen ordered immediately to be sent to Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, where your memorialists now are detained as prisoners of war, consisting of officers, forty-seven private soldiers of His Majesty's Troops, besides women and children. That your memorialists being ignorant of any crime by them committed, whereby they should be thus taken and held, also are ignorant by what authority said Allen thus took them, or that they are thus detained in a strange country, and at a distance from the post assigned them; thus know not in what light they are considered by your Honours, consequently know not what part to act; would therefore ask your Honours' interposition and protection, and order that they be set at liberty, to return to the post from whence they were taken, or to join the Regiment to which they belong; or if they are considered in the light of prisoners of war, your Honours would be pleased to signify the same to them, and by whom they are detained, and that your Honours would afford us your favour and protection during the time we shall tarry in this Colony; and your memorialists shall ever pray.

WILLIAM DELAPLACE,
Captain Commandant Ticonderoga Fort.
Hartford, May 24, 1775.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May 24, 1775. }

Friends and Fellow-Countrymen:

With great satisfaction we bear publick testimony of your disposition to serve the glorious cause in which America is now engaged, evidenced by your readiness to supply on the credit of the Colony many necessary articles for the use of the Army, and in various other ways; by which you have given convincing proofs that you are heartily disposed to maintain the publick liberty. The cause, we have not the least doubt, if you continue to exert yourselves in conjunction with our sister Colonies, will finally prevail.

This Congress have opened a subscription for one hundred thousand Pounds, lawful money, for which the Receiver-General is directed to issue notes on interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable in June, 1777; and as it is of the utmost importance that the money be immediately obtained, that the publick credit may not suffer, we most earnestly recommend to such of you as have cash in your hands, which you can spare from the necessary supplies of your families, that you would lend the same to the Colony; by which you will put it in our power to carry into effect the measures undertaken for the salvation of the Country.

That the Army should be well supplied with every article necessary for the most effectual military operations, you must all be sensible, and that if we should fail herein it may prove ruinous and destructive to the community, whose safety (under God) depends upon their vigorous exertions.

As you have already, in many instances, nobly exerted yourselves, this Congress have not the smallest doubt but that you will with great cheerfulness crown all by furnishing as much cash as will be necessary for the good purposes aforementioned; especially when it is considered that there are now no ways of improving money in trade, and that there is the greatest probability the other Colonies will give a ready currency to the notes, which will render them in one respect at least on a better footing than any other notes heretofore issued in this Colony.

If you should furnish the money that is now needed you will perform a meritorious service for your Country, and prove yourselves sincerely attached to its interests. But if an undue caution should prevent your doing this essential service to the Colony, the total loss both of your liberties and that very property which you by retaining it affect to save, may be the unhappy consequence; it being past all controversy that the destruction of individuals must be involved in that of the publick.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE HON. ENOCH FREEMAN.
Falmouth, May 24, 1775.

You informed me that the last Provincial Congress did me the honour to choose me one of the Committee of Safety for the Province. You may acquaint that Committee that were my health and capacity equal to my inclination to serve the publick, I should cheerfully attend that service without delay; but at present I cannot possibly go up. Yet if I can be of any service to the common cause in the mean time, in these exposed parts of the Country, my utmost endeavours shall not be wanting, and as soon as I can find myself able, purpose to come up.

It would, perhaps, be convenient for the publick, that some person or persons here should be appointed, whose business it should be to execute the orders of the Congress and Committee of Safety, and to communicate back to them, from time to time, intelligence and occurrences that may affect the publick, without the trouble of getting a quorum of Committee and Selectmen together, who live at a distance, which often causes great delay; and my time is so often taken up in one publick affair and another, that I am obliged to neglect my own business to my great damage.

If the Congress should allow the Regiment raised here in this County to be stationed among us for our defence, it will be necessary that some body should have the care of them, besides their own officers, to employ them in such a manner as shall be most for the safety of the whole.

In this service I think I might be of as much or more service to the publick than if I were to go up to the Committee; and as the gentlemen there are more acquainted with the circumstances of that part of the Province than I am, I should be of the less advantage to them, and I presume I am more acquainted with this part of the Province, and, with their concurrence, may be of more service to the publick here, than there; for here new emergencies may and do often arise, which require immediate attention.

I heard to-day that lately there were a number of Indians up Androscoggin River consulting what side to take, but could not agree among themselves. 'Tis pity but somebody here should be employed to negotiate with them, or any other Indians, as opportunity should offer.

A man from Deer Island, near Penobscot, was here this afternoon, and gives a melancholy account of the distress the people are in that way, for want of bread, owing to the stoppage of trade. He heard that several children had died of hunger. What will become of them God only knows; we are not able to help them or ourselves. I don't know what can be done for them or us, without some vessel of superiour force to the tenders should be provided to bring bread-kind among us.

I just now heard that Colonel John Cox was taken on his passage to New-York with spars, and carried into Boston.

WORCESTER COUNTY (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

Worcester, May 24, 1775.

Whereas the meeting of the Convention of this County stands adjourned to the second Tuesday in June next, but as the honourable Provincial Congress have resolved that it will be expedient for the several Committees of Correspondence to render a true statement of the conduct of their respective Towns and Districts, on the fourth Wednesday of this instant, May, especially with regard to their outstanding Provincial rates: Agreeable thereto the Committees of Correspondence for the several Towns and Districts in this County, are hereby requested to meet at the Court-House in Worcester, on Wednesday next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. Several matters of importance require a general attendance. Such Towns as have voted for a County Treasurer are desired to send in their votes to said Convention on said day.

WILLIAM YOUNG, Chairman.

Worcester, Massachusetts, May 24, 1775.

It having been thought highly expedient, at this exigency of our publick affairs, that every person among us who is known to be an enemy to the rights and privileges of this Country, and has been aiding or abetting to the cursed plans of a tyrannical ruler and an abandoned Ministry, should be disarmed, and rendered as incapable as possible of doing further material mischief to this distressed Province; the Tories in this Town were notified to appear with their arms and ammunition on Monday last. They accordingly appeared, and after surrendering their arms to the Committee of Correspondence, and being strictly ordered not to leave the Town or to meet together, without a permit, were dismissed.

WOBURN (MASSACHUSETTS) COMMITTEE.

Whereas the Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Woburn, authorized by the honourable Provincial Congress to examine into the principles and conduct of any person suspected of being inimical to the liberties of this Country, have examined Major Benjamin Thompson, of Concord, in the Province of New-Hampshire, being brought before them, suspected of being thus inimical. And whereas the said Committee have summoned certain evidences, who they supposed could give light into the matter, to attend, which evidence failed of so doing: This is therefore to inform all persons who are knowing to the said Major Thompson's conduct, that the Committee have adjourned to Monday, the 29th day of May next, at three o'clock, afternoon, at the meeting-house, where said evidence are desired to attend, as the Committee think themselves bound to dismiss and recommend the said Thompson, unless something more appears against him than what they have heard.

SAMUEL WYMAN, Chairman.

COMMITTEES OF SAFETY OF PORTSMOUTH, GREENLAND, AND RYE.

At a meeting of the Committees of Safety of the Towns of Portsmouth, Greenland, and Rye, concerning the examination of one John Ackerman, upon a suspicion of the said John Ackerman's being inimical to the liberties and privileges of this Country, suspected to be giving and receiving intelligence from the British Troops, for which purposes of inquiry the said Ackerman was sent from the Provincial Congress in Exeter, to their Committees; and after a thorough examination of the said Ackerman, Benjamin Hart and John Reise, who were represented to them by said Congress as having sent the said Ackerman into the country: It appears to the said Committees that the said Ackerman was sent into the country as aforesaid for personal safety, to give intelligence of any armed men coming to Portsmouth, as the peculiar stations of some persons gave suspicion of some design against them, and that it was for no other end that the said Ackerman was sent, as appears from their particular examination upon oath, had before us, the said Committees, and they were accordingly dismissed.

This certifies that the bearer, Mr. John Folsom, brought a prisoner, viz: John Ackerman, from the Provincial Congress at Exeter, before the Committee of Safety for the Town of Portsmouth, who ordered a guard to be kept on him till examination to-morrow, ten o'clock, A. M.

RICHMOND COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, May 25, 1775.

In Committee, Landon Carter, Esquire, in the Chair. As His Majesty's Council have judged it proper to publish an admonitory address to the community at large, we should think ourselves wanting in respect to the deliberations of that honourable Board not to consider it with the strictest attention. We have done so accordingly; and as we find that the matter of the address is not only exceptional, but are farther informed that it is industriously circulated amongst the people, together with a proposition lately made in the House of Commons by Lord North, which covers the most insidious and dangerous views, under an artful guise of wisdom, humanity, and peace, we should be wanting in a much higher duty to ourselves and our constituents, should we fail to animadvert on both with freedom and decency. We cannot, then, think,

First. That the mild professions of regard for the prosperity and welfare of this Country, in the first part of the address, are consistent with the passionate expressions of detestation and abhorrence for that spirit in the people by which alone the liberties of this Country can be secured. We confess we are entire strangers to any licentious and ungovernable spirit prevailing. If the honourable gentlemen mean to brand the late commotions with these appellations, we are compelled to observe that no person can so unjustly and uncharitably construe them, unless he entirely turn aside from the violent and provoking measures which justify them; for it cannot be expected that the people should continue quiet when every violence is offered to their privileges and prosperity, or that they should tamely suffer the foundation of their Constitution to be overturned by a too scrupulous adherence to its form.

Second. That inviting and exhorting to mild and constitutional modes of application clearly implies, that they esteem our former proceedings in this respect violent and irregular. The justice of this charge we leave to be decided by the world, who are in possession, and who have given ample testimony in favour of the many suppliant, wise, and firm applications, which have been addressed to the several branches of the British Legislature.

Third. We allow all due weight to the pledges of their friendship, which the Honourable Council have among us; and we hope that their integrity may ever be an effectual antidote to the influence of that servile and baneful spirit which we are authorized (by the explicit declarations of many independent and respectable members of both Houses of Parliament) to say, prevail extensively in this age, with men in office.

With respect to the proposition of Lord North, above-mentioned, insultingly called, by ministerial tools, the olive branch, we are of the opinion that it offers no kind of redress (even if the Colonies should submit) of any one of the many grievances under which they now labour; for in the only instance in which a seeming redress is proposed, (that of taxation,) the Parliament of Great Britain is to settle the quantum to be raised by each Colony, and the application thereof, the Colonies determining only on the mode of levying. This by no means is relief to them, but in fact puts them in a worse situation than ever, as they thereby will fully acknowledge the absolute power of the British Parliament; and we are still to have the sword hung over our heads, ready to fall on such as shall in any instance disoblige the Minister, or refuse to obey his dictates. Lord North himself declared his intention was only to divide the Colonies, and thereby the more easily subdue them. The selecting out Governor Pownall's speech alone, approving the motion, when so many excellent speeches were made exposing the measure, and setting its treachery and absurdity in a clear and evident light, is a certain proof of the design of the King's officers here to mislead the good people of this Colony.

By order of the Committee:

LE ROY PEACHY, Clerk.

LANCASTER COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

The Committee of the County of Lancaster, on the 25th day of May, 1775, taking into consideration his Excellency Lord Dunmore's Address to the Council, and their recommendation and Proclamation issued in consequence thereof, hold they are necessarily bound to justify themselves and their constituents from such cruel imputations and assertions, and that such Proclamation must tend to excite a belief of an intention to change the Government, or raise convulsions in the state.

That the behaviour of some of the people in this Colony, alluded to, originated in a full assurance of the determined bloody plan to enslave the Colonies, manifested in various instances and ungracious encroachments, and more particularly and immediately in his Excellency's clandestime removal of the powder from the publick Magazine of the Colony.

That his Excellency's ill-founded and injurious charge, to criminate the body of the people in this Colony, is hostile, and cannot be justified; therefore, he has forfeited the confidence of the inhabitants of this Country.

That those members of His Majesty's Council who recommended and assisted in such Proclamation, and also since gave their advice to the good people of this Country, prefaced with cruel and indecent allegations, manifestly implying seditious and rebellious actions, tending to raise bitter dissensions and animosities, acted without prudence, policy, moderation, or generosity; and we are most sensibly grieved, that those whose duty and high department should warm them to every mode of reconciliation, should not only countenance, but themselves become incendiaries to fix, by their publication, a stigma by such an unmerited stricture on their brethren and fellow sufferers.

That our application for redress of grievances so justly founded, so often and vainly repeated; our long sufferance and forbearance under such unfellow-feeling, unrelenting measures, and our ardent wishes and endeavours for a reconciliation, by the restitution of our just rights and privileges, as we enjoyed them in the year 1763, evinces our attachment to our once happy Constitution, and our allegiance to our gracious Sovereign.

We, in order to exculpate ourselves and our constituents from such heinous maledictions, and to convince the world of our upright intentions, pledge ourselves to support the Constitution, and His Majesty King George the Third, in all his just rights and prerogatives, with our lives and fortunes.

TO THE PUBLICK.

Norfolk, Va., May 25, 1775.

The inhabitants of the Borough of Norfolk, in town-meeting assembled, being informed that Captain Collins, of the Magdalen armed schooner, is endeavouring to dispose of a sloop seized by him, lately belonging to John Bowdoin, Esquire, of the Eastern Shore; and being also further informed, that the said Collins has made application to some persons for the purchase of a pilot boat, probably with an intention to convert her into a tender, to distress the trade of this or some other Colony: The inhabitants of this Borough are therefore determined to give no encouragement to him, or any such men, nor purchase any of their prizes from them, nor in the least contribute to their emolument by bidding for the plunder of our countrymen; nor will we sell any pilot boat or any other vessel to them for their hostile purposes, nor in any respect have any kind of dealings with them. And the inhabitants of this Borough, assembled as aforesaid, do further resolve, to have no dealing with any person that, in spite of the ties of duty and attachment to his Country, shall counteract these our resolutions, by granting any assistance for the destruction of our rights and properties, or of any other of the good people of the confederated Colonies. And we invite all persons to accede to this resolution.

TO THE PEOPLE OF VIRGINIA.

Williamsburgh, May 25, 1775.

Whilst we are almost involved in all the terrors of a civil war; whilst the injured genius of America cries aloud for justice; and whilst the only measures by which an accommodation can be procured meet with a most daring and unjust opposition from some of our most distinguished men, who should rather be the principal promoters of it: can I, without doing violence to reason, avoid exclaiming against the inhumanity of the action? Were they Englishmen, I should only say that they could not divest themselves of that partiality for their native Country, almost inherent in our nature, and of consequence had imbibed wrong principles; but for Americans, both born and brought up among us, to sell their Country for a smile, or some ministerial office, what language is sufficient to express the indignation, the contempt, which such conduct must naturally create in every virtuous breast. Alas! Great Britain, thy vices have even extended to America. So small an isle is become insufficient to contain such innumerable pollutions. Americans! the torrent as yet is but small; only a few are involved in it; it must be soon stopped, or it will bear all before it with an impetuous sway. The warlike Coriolanus, after he had fought many great and memorable battles in the service of his Country, after he had opposed in Carioli, an extensive city, all its inhabitants, as valiantly as ever extravagant fiction represents Hector to have done in the Grecian camp; I say, after he had performed such meritorious actions for his Country, when he found himself treated contemptuously, and banished from the city for taking up arms against his Country in his own defence, has all his former glory sullied. In what light, then, must we look on our countrymen, who espouse the side of the infamous Ministry? The conclusion is obvious. Pity for the despicable wretches bids me cease to draw it.

VOLUNTARIUS.

Kent-County upon Delaware, May 25, 1775.

The Militia Officers of above twenty Companies, chosen in the several Districts throughout said County, met together at Dover; and that the business of the day might be conducted with order and regularity, they chose Captain John Haslet, Chairman, and Lieutenant Mark McCall, Clerk.

The following Association was then drawn up, and unanimously approved and subscribed, viz:

"We, whose names are hereunto written, Military Officers, duly elected and chosen by the good people of the several Hundreds and Districts of the County of Kent upon Delaware, pursuant to the direction and recommendation of the Committee of Inspection for said County, do hereby jointly and severally, for ourselves and each of us, solemnly promise and engage, by the sacred ties of honour and love for our Country, that we and each of us will, to the utmost of our abilities, well and faithfully execute the important offices conferred upon us by our fellow-subjects, and in our military and every other capacity, at the risk of our lives and fortunes, defend the liberties and privileges of America, as well natural as constitutional, against all invaders, or such as may attempt any the least violation or infringement of them.

"And we do further, in manner aforesaid, promise and agree, that we, and each of us, will subject ourselves to such pains, penalties, military punishments, and disgrace, as Courts Martial, to be constituted from time to time of the officers of our own body, shall or may inflict on any of us offending against the rules of military discipline, or contravening, in word or deed, the true interest of America, or the spirit and principle of this Association."

The Convention next proceeded to divide the County into two Divisions, each division to contain one Regiment of men, and then chose the necessary Field-Officers for each Regiment, viz:

For the Upper Regiment.

The Honourable Cesar Rodney, Esq., Colonel;
Thomas Collins, Esquire, Lieutenant-Colonel; and Mr. French Battell, Major.

For the Lower Regiment.

John Haslet, Esquire, Colonel;
William Rhodes, Esquire, Lieutenant-Colonel; and Mr. Robert Hodgson, Major.

They then settled an uniform plan of their future conduct, with rules to be observed in every Company; and broke up in perfect harmony.

MARK MCCALL, Clerk.

ARTHUR ST. CLAIR TO GOVERNOUR PENN.

Ligonier, May 25, 1775.

SIR: An express from Pittsburgh, with despatches for your Honour, having called here this morning, I embrace the opportunity to inform your Honour that a commission is come up from Virginia to collect the Colony duty on all peltries exported from that place, and that notice has been given to the traders there to conduct themselves accordingly. I think they will find some way to evade paying it, and those that are not yet come in, will certainly carry them past. 'Tis a shocking thing that people should be obliged to such shift, and the trade of the Province be destroyed, by the obstinacy and caprice of one man. I flatter myself, however, it will not be of long continuance. Lord Dunmore's seizing the magazine has raised such a ferment that he will not probably visit the frontiers soon, and by the prorogation of his Assembly, the invasion law, under which it seems the garrison of the fort was kept up, will expire; I think the ninth of next month is its period, and I am informed Connolly is preparing to decamp.

We have nothing but masters and Committees all over the country, and every thing seems to be running into the greatest confusion. If some conciliating plan is not adopted by the Congress, America has seen her golden days; they may return, but will be preceded by scenes of horror. An Association is formed in this County for defence of American liberty. I got a clause added, by which they bind themselves to assist the civil Magistrates in the execution of the laws they have been accustomed to be governed by.

Hanna and Cavet are still pressing me to do something for their relief, and are very desirous they should be brought off by force; their project was, that writs should be issued against them, and that the Sheriff should take a posse with him and bring them away, and make prisoners at the same time of their persecutors. I believe 'tis very practicable, but I gave them to know that without positive directions from your Honour I would advise no such step, and that I thought you would not direct any that might have a tendency to embroil the Provinces. However, it is no wonder that they are uneasy; they have been long confined, and must have suffered considerably by it.

Lord Dunmore has issued a Proclamation, disclaiming the proceedings of the Surveyors in taking entries of lands, and ordering them to return the money received for them, but has spared their names; but I have seen none of them; they were spirited away, it seems, as fast as they appeared.

If the Fort should be evacuated next month, pray, Sir, would it be proper to endeavour to get possession of it, or to raze it? That may possibly be done by themselves.

Mr. Connolly has sent out for some of the principal men of the Indians to come and receive the prisoners, and the Pittsburgh Committee have petitioned the General Congress to hold a treaty with the Western Tribes. I have the honour to be, Sir, your Honour's most obedient and most humble servant,

ARTHUR ST. CLAIR.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, }
May 25, 1775.

To the Honourable the Governour and Company of the ENGLISH Colony of CONNECTICUT:

BRETHREN: By a minute of the Grand Continental Congress, of the eighteenth of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, a copy of which we do herewith transmit you, we are informed that Ticonderoga hath been taken by sundry inhabitants of the Northern Colonies; and from the minute aforesaid we are assured that this measure was for the common safety of the American Colonies.

In pursuance of the directions contained in that minute, we have given the necessary orders for removing the cannon and stores taken at that important fortress to the south end of Lake George, and for securing them there; and we have appointed Messrs. John N. Bleeker, Henry I. Bogart, George Palmer, Dirk Swart, and Peter Lansing, superintendents of this business.

There is no doubt but that our brethren of Connecticut will feel great reluctance at the idea of ordering any of their troops to march within the bounds of this Colony, for the purpose of defending the fort of Ticonderoga and the cannon and stores above-mentioned at Fort George. But we pray you to cast away all fears of offending us upon this occasion. We shall be happy to hear that you have placed a part of your forces in these posts, with intent to defend them, until they shall be relieved by troops from this Colony.

In further pursuance of the directions of the Grand Congress, we have ordered provisions to be conveyed to Ticonderoga and Lake George, and we shall continue to furnish such supplies as we shall deem necessary.

You will be pleased, gentlemen, to appoint trusty commanders over your forces destined for the purposes above-mentioned; and we do assure you of our willingness that they shall take the command at those places while garrisoned by your troops. We beg leave to assure you that in this and all other matters we will pay the highest attention to every recommendation of the Grand Continental Congress, and that we have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servants,

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

By order of the Congress:

JOHN MCKESSON, }
ROBERT BENSON, } Secretaries.

P. S. We pray you to use every effort to preserve and improve the present peaceable disposition of the Canadians and Indians, for which purpose we think it will be necessary to keep up the strictest vigilance to prevent any incursions from being made into the Province of Quebeck.

In Congress, Thursday, May 18, 1775.

Whereas, there is indubitable evidence that a design is formed by the British Ministry of making a cruel invasion from the Province of Quebeck upon these Colonies, for the purpose of destroying our lives and liberties, and some steps have actually been taken to carry the said design into execution: and whereas several inhabitants of the Northern Colonies, residing in the vicinity of Ticonderoga, immediately exposed to incursions, impelled by a just regard for the defence and preservation of themselves and their countrymen from such imminent danger and calamities, have taken possession of that post in which was lodged a quantity of cannon and military stores that would certainly have been used in the intended invasion of these Colonies: this Congress earnestly recommend it to the Committees of the Cities and Counties of New-York and Albany, immediately to cause the said cannon and stores to be removed from Ticonderoga to the south end of Lake George; and, if necessary, to apply to the Colonies of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, and Connecticut, for such an additional body of forces as will be sufficient to establish a strong post at that place, effectually to secure the said cannon and stores, or so many of them, as it may be judged proper to keep there, and that an exact inventory be taken of all such cannon and stores, in order that they may be safely returned when the restoration of the former harmony between Great Britain and the Colonies, so ardently wished for by the latter, shall render it prudent and consistent with the overruling law of self-preservation.

COLONEL SPENCER TO THE ASSEMBLY OF CONNECTICUT.

Hartford, May 25, 1775.

Colonel Spencer returns his hearty thanks to the Honourable General Assembly now sitting at Hartford, for the undeserved honours that have been conferred upon him from time to time, and particularly that he has had the honour for some time to command the Twelfth Regiment of Militia in this Colony. And he begs leave to assure your Honours that he always has been and still is ready to serve your Honours, according to his ability, in any place to which he has been appointed, so far as may be in his power; but as his late appointment in the Colony service forbids that attendance to the duty of a Colonel as aforesaid, as the circumstances of the times require, he humbly begs leave to lay down his said office of Colonel; and subscribes himself your Honours' most obedient and most humble servant,

JOSEPH SPENCER.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Hartford, May 25, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the 17th instant, with the enclosed Resolve of the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts-Bay, was delivered to me by Colonel Easton, and communicated to the General Assembly, who have desired me to return their congratulations on the reduction of Ticonderoga, a fortress truly important, and to assure you they entertain a proper sense of the merit of those officers and soldiers by whose bravery and good conduct it was achieved. As this advantage was gained by the united counsels and enterprise of a number of private gentlemen in your Province, New-Hampshire, New-York, and this Colony, prompted only by a zeal for the liberty of their Country, without publick authority, (to our knowledge,) and is of great and general importance to the United Colonies, it was thought best to take the advice of the Continental Congress upon the manner of treating it in future, both by the General Assembly of this Colony and the Committee of New-York, as well as by you. Despatches were accordingly sent to Philadelphia, and the intention of the Continental Congress thereupon hath been this day received by express, with a letter from the Committee of New-York, copies of which enclosed are herewith sent you. By them you will see the present custody of that fortress is committed to the Province of New-York, with the assistance of the New-England Colonies, if needed.

The General Assembly of this Colony behold your situation with concern, and a fixed resolution to contribute every thing in their power to your defence and preservation, and, as far as pertains to them, are willing and desirous you should have the benefit of such artillery as may be spared from the fortresses of Crown Point and Ticonderoga; but as they do not consider themselves as entitled to the command of those places, they cannot take upon themselves to give orders for the removal of the heavy cannon that may be spared without the concurrence of the other Colonies, in them.

The necessity of securing and maintaining the posts on the lakes for defence of the frontiers, becomes daily more evident from the iterated intelligence we receive of the plan formed by our enemies to distress us by inroads of Canadians and savages, from the Province of Quebeck, upon the adjacent settlements. The enclosed copy of a letter from our Delegates attending at New-York, to communicate measures with the Provincial Congress in that City, throws an additional light on this subject, and is thought worthy to be communicated to you; and whilst the designs of our enemies against us fill us with concern, we cannot omit to observe the smiles of Providence upon us in revealing their wicked plans, and hitherto prospering the attempts of the Colonies to frustrate them. With a humble reliance on the continuance of Divine favour and protection in a cause of the justice of which a doubt cannot be entertained, the General Assembly of this Colony are ready to co-operate with the other Colonies in every exertion for their common defence, and to contribute their proportion of men and other necessities for maintaining the posts on the frontiers, or defending or repelling invasions in any other quarter, agreeable to the advice of the Continental Congress. I am, gentlemen, in behalf of the General Assembly of this Colony, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

The Honourable Provincial Congress of Massachusetts.

GENERAL THOMAS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Roxbury Camp, May 25, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I have had the honour of being informed by your Committee, that the Honourable Congress have made choice of me as Lieutenant-General of the Massachusetts Army, and desire to know whether I would accept that trust. I am sensible of the great importance of the office, and of my inability of discharging that duty; but since you have done me the honour of appointing me to that important office, shall accept of the same, and attend the Congress to-morrow. I am, gentlemen, with the most profound respect, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN THOMAS.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress.

LETTER FROM DOCTOR JOSEPH WARREN.

Watertown, May 25, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Upon my arrival here just this minute, I had the pleasure of being informed that our worthy friend Colonel Arnold, not having had the sole honour of reducing Ticonderoga and Crown Point, determined upon an expedition against St. John's, in which he happily succeeded. The letters were directed to the Committee of Safety, but were supposed to be necessary to be laid before this Congress. I have not seen them yet, but you will have the particulars from the bearer.

I have also received a letter from the Congress at New-Hampshire, informing me of a resolve to raise forthwith two thousand men, and more if it should be necessary. The Troops, at least one Company of them, with a train of artillery from Providence, are in the upper end of Roxbury. To say the truth, I find my health much mended since this morning. I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

J. WARREN.

P. S. You will be kind enough to communicate the contents of this letter to General Room, as I love to give pleasure to good men.

COMMITTEE OF MALDEN TO COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Malden, May 25, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: This may certify that Mr. Ebenzer Pratt, Mr. John Nichols, Mr. John Barrett, and Mr. John Nichols, Jr., are persons who may be confided in, that they will not take any advantage of a pass which has been obtained for them from Samuel Graves, Vice-Admiral of the Blue, to the disadvantage of the common cause, in which we are all engaged, desiring, at the same time, that you will lay them under such restrictions, in every respect, as you shall judge necessary.

Signed by order and in the name of the Selectmen, the Committee of Correspondence and Inspection of the Town of Malden.

PETER THACHER,
BENJAMIN BLANEY,
ELISHA STORY.

Honourable Committee of Safety, sitting in Cambridge.

PETITION FROM THE INHABITANTS OF MACHIAS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Machias, May 25, 1775.

To the Honourable Congress of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

GENTLEMEN: With the highest satisfaction we now consider you as the guardians of this extensive and wealthy Province; and relying on your wisdom, the wisdom of the Continental Congress, the justice of our cause, and the tender mercy of our fathers' God, we promise ourselves, in due time, a happy deliverance from the iron chains of tyranny, which were forming for us, and from servitude equal to Egyptian bondage.

As a part, therefore, of your charge, we, the distressed inhabitants of Machias, beg leave to approach your presence, and to spread our grievances at your feet. We dare not say we are the foremost in supporting the glorious cause of American liberty; but this we can truly affirm, that we have done our utmost to encourage and strengthen the hand of all the advocates for America with whom we have been connected; that we have not even purchased any goods of those persons whom we suspected to be inimical to our Country, except when constrained by necessity; and that none on the Continent can more cheerfully risk all that is dear to them on earth, when called, in support of those precious privileges which God and our venerable ancestors, as a most invaluable legacy, have handed down to us. We must now inform your Honours, that the inhabitants of this place exceed one hundred families, some of which are very numerous, and that Divine Providence has cut off all our usual resources. A very severe drought last fall prevented our laying in sufficient stores; and had no vessels visited us in the winter, we must have suffered. Nor have we this spring been able to procure provisions sufficient for carrying on our business; our labourers are dismissed, some of our mills stand still, almost all vessels have forsaken us, our lumber lies by us in heaps, and, to complete our misfortunes, all our ports are to be shut up on the first of July next. We must add, we have no country behind us to lean upon, nor can we make an escape by flight; the wilderness is impervious, and vessels we have none. To you, therefore, honoured gentlemen, we humbly apply for relief; you are our last, our only resource; and permit us to say again, you are our guardians, and we rejoice and glory in being subject. Pardon our importunity. We cannot take a denial, for, under God, you are all our dependance; and if you neglect us, we are ruined. Save, dear Sirs, one of your most flourishing settlements from famine and all its horrors. We ask not for charity; we ask for a supply to be put into the hands of Messrs. Smith and Stillman, or any other person or persons your wisdom may point out, who shall obligate themselves to pay the whole amount in lumber, the only staple of our country.

That God may long preserve you, and make you happily instrumental in his hand, in restoring all the sweets of peace and liberty to this much injured Country, and even to Great Britain herself, is the constant and fervent prayer of, gentlemen, your most humble petitioners.

COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, }
County of Cumberland. }

To the Honourable the Representatives of the several Towns in said Colony, in General Congress assembled:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: We, the Committees of Correspondence of the several Towns in said County, beg leave to represent to your Honours the circumstances of this County in this day of struggle and danger. In the first place we confess our Towns have, in general, heretofore, been negligent in providing arms and ammunition according to law, until distress came upon us from our mother Country, and then were debarred from having them from thence where we were wont to purchase them; since which we have not been able to furnish ourselves. And in the next place we are in a distressed situation with respect to provision for our people to subsist upon till their new crops come in, owing, in part, to their last year's crops being cut short by the drought, and so many of our people not being farmers, but lumbering sailors, &c., together with the difficulty and danger there now is of getting any from the Southern Governments, owing to their carefulness to keep a sufficient supply for their own people in this day of expense, and the hazard of having it taken by the men-of-war and tenders, could we procure any of them; and where to fly for relief, but to your Honours, we know not. Notwithstanding these difficulties, we can with pleasure say that the people of this country almost universally are zealous in the cause of constitutional liberty, and have exerted themselves in complying with the recommendations of the Congresses, and particularly in raising a Regiment of hardy and spirited men for the service of the Colony, who have been exercising every day, as we understand, for some time past, and expected to be sent for to the Army; till lately we have the satisfaction to hear the Army is like to be complete without them. We would likewise represent to your Honours, that we are exposed to our enemies by sea and land; by sea, our sheep and cattle on the islands and shores are exposed to be ravaged by every little tender that may be sent to get fresh meat for their fleet and army; and by land, we may be alarmed by the inroads of our old enemies, the Indians and French, though we hope better things from them.

Wherefore we pray your Honours to take our plain and just representation into consideration, and, if possible, find out some way whereby we may be supplied with some arms, ammunition, and provisions, and that the Regiment enlisted here may be stationed among us, and subsisted at the charge of the publick, for our defence, until they shall be more wanted elsewhere, (in which case they will be ready to march on the first notice,) and while here, to be employed in such a manner as may be most for our safety and advantage, and that they may pass muster here by some person who may be appointed for that purpose. Your Honours' favourable answer to our request will much oblige this County in whose behalf we are your Honours' most obedient humble servants,

JEDEDIAH PREBLE, Chairman.

THOMAS BARNARD TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY FOR SALEM.

Salem, May 25, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: A suspicion of being inimical to those with whom we are connected in society, and whom we esteem and love, cannot but give severe pain to a generous mind.

Unhappily I have been viewed by my countrymen in a light so disagreeable. The Address which I signed to Governour Hutchinson, upon his leaving this Province, I signed with no party views; with no design whatever of injuring that Country, with the prosperity of which my dearest human interests are closely connected; but with strong hopes of promoting the lasting peace and welfare of my native land. But I own my fond expectations arising therefrom have been disappointed. The cause of America I look upon as capable of full defence by the voice of justice and the British Constitution, and shall be ever ready to support it in that way which the united wisdom of the Continent shall dictate.

Such are my sentiments, and upon the strength of them I would request of my countrymen to throw the veil of charity and forgiveness over any incautious action of mine, which may have led them to think unfavourably of me, and to grant me a place in their esteem, which I shall ever think myself happy in deserving.

THOMAS BARNARD, JR.

In Committee of Safety, Salem, May 25, 1775.

Resolved unanimously, That the foregoing declaration of the Reverend Thomas Barnard, Jr., now laid before the Committee, is fully satisfactory, and we hope will remove any ill impressions that may have been made on the minds of the good people of this Province in consequence of his addressing Governour Hutchinson, and cause them to look upon him as a friend to his Country.

RICHARD DERBY, JR., Chairman.

Charlestown, S. C., May 26, 1775.

We are informed that the inhabitants of this Town lately presented a memorial to the General Committee, setting forth the dearness and alarming scarcity of grain; and that the Committee, after having made a full inquiry into the facts, have resolved that it is their opinion that no Indian corn should be exported from this Province, except by persons who may have plantations in Georgia, for their own immediate use upon such plantations; nor any rice, except to complete the lading of such vessels as had actually taken on board part of their intended cargoes of rice before the twenty-fourth instant, until the General Assembly, or the Provincial Congress, shall take the matter under their consideration, and come to some determination thereupon.

We are also informed that the General Committee having been applied to by Captain Heslope, of the Brigantine Hannah, lately arrived from Liverpool with about eight thousand bushels of salt, for permission to cast the said cargo of salt overboard into Hog-Island Creek, as if it was only common ballast, and not merchandise; after having duly considered every circumstance, and being fully satisfied that the said cargo was shipped at Liverpool as merchandise, with an intent to put the American Association at defiance, and putting the virtue of the inhabitants of this Colony to the test, have resolved that it was their opinion that the said cargo "ought to be forthwith sent back;" and we hear that Captain Heslope, finding too late the effects of his owner's folly and presumption, is preparing to return to Liverpool with their full cargo.

LOUDOUN COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Loudoun County, held at Leesburgh on Friday, May 26, 1775. Present: Francis Peyton, Esq., Josias Clapham, Thomas Lewis, Anthony Russell, John Thomas, George Johnston, Thomas Shore, James Lane, Jacob Reed, Leven Powell, William Smith, Robert Jamison, Hardage Lane, and John Lewis, gentlemen.

The Committee, taking into consideration the conduct of the Governour relative to the powder which was, by his express orders, taken secretly out of the publick Magazine belonging to this Colony, in the night of the twentieth ult., and carried on board the Magdaline Schooner:

Resolved, nemine contradicente, That his Lordship, by this and other parts of his conduct which have lately transpired, has not only forfeited the confidence of the good people of this Colony, but that he may be justly esteemed an enemy to America; and that as well his excuse published in his Proclamation of the fourth instant, as his verbal answer to the Address presented him on that occasion by the City of Williamsburgh, are unsatisfactory and evasive, and reflect, in our opinion, great dishonour on the General Assembly and inhabitants of this Colony, as from the latter a suspicion may be easily deduced, that the Representatives of the people are not competent judges of the place wherein arms and ammunition, intended for the defence of the Colony, may be safely lodged, and that the inhabitants (unlike other subjects) cannot, in prudence, be trusted with the means necessary for their protection from insurrection, or even invasion; so in the former a very heavy charge is exhibited against the best men among us, of seducing their fellow-subjects from their duty and allegiance; a charge, we are confident, not founded in reality, and which, we believe, is construed out of the discharge of that duty which every good man is under, to point out to his weaker countrymen, in the day of publick trial, the part they should act, and explain, on constitutional principles, the nature of their allegiance, the ground of which we fervently pray may never be removed, whose force we desire may never with reason be relaxed, but yet may be subservient to considerations of superiour regard.

The Committee being informed by some of the officers who commanded the Troops of this County that marched on the above occasion, that the reason of their marching no farther than Fredericksburgh was, their having received repeated requests from the Honourable Peyton Randolph, Esq., to return home, assuring them that the peaceable citizens of Williamsburgh were under no apprehensions of danger, either in their persons or properties; that the publick treasury and records were perfectly safe; and that there was no necessity for their proceeding any further; three of the other Delegates appointed to the Continental Congress, the only civil power we know of in this great struggle for liberty, being of the same opinion.

Resolved, nemine contradicente, That under such circumstances we approve the conduct of the said Officers and Troops.

Resolved, nemine contradicente, That we cordially approve the conduct of our countryman, Captain Patrick Henry, and the other volunteers of Hanover County, who marched under him, in making reprisals on the King's property for the trespass committed as aforesaid, and that we are determined to hazard all the blessings of this life rather than suffer the smallest injury offered to their persons or estates, on this account, to pass unrewarded with its equal punishment.

Resolved, nemine contradicente, That it be recommended to the Representatives of this County, as the opinion of this Committee, that they by no means agree to the reprisals, taken as aforesaid, being returned.

Ordered, That the Clerk transmit immediately a copy of the preceding Resolves to the Printers of the Virginia and Pennsylvania Gazettes, to be published.

By order of the Committee,

GEORGE JOHNSTON, Clerk.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, }
May 26, 1775. }

BRETHREN: Having received a minute of the Grand Continental Congress, of which we send you a copy herewith, we wrote a letter to the Governour and Company of the Colony of Connecticut, of which we also send you a copy.

We do not doubt of your ready concurrence in the measures recommended by that august body, in which we do entirely acquiesce.

We pray you to act on this occasion with prudence and expedition, especially as we have received intimation from our brethren in Connecticut that they cannot send a sufficient force for the purposes mentioned to them in our letter; and we beg leave to assure you that we are affectionately your friends and brethren in the generous cause of freedom.

We are, gentlemen, your humble servants,

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

To Joseph Warren, Esq., and others, the Committee of Safety for the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay.

THE SUB-COMMITTEE OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF ALBANY TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF NEW-YORK.

[Read before Congress June 3, 1775.]

Albany Committee-Chamber, }
May 26, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: We have received a letter from the New-York Committee, of the twentieth inst., enclosing the Resolution of the Continental Congress of the eighteenth instant. We have likewise received some material information from the north and westward, which we shall now lay before you. And first respecting our western intelligence. We are so much crowded with business and despatches from different quarters, that we cannot so copiously enlarge on every different subject as we could wish; we shall therefore only state the necessary facts to you, interspersed with such remarks as we conceive of consequence.

The first of our intelligence from the west was, that the Indians were exceedingly uneasy, and more of them daily coming in to Colonel Johnson's place at Guy Park, occasioned, as he alleges, by reason of a report in his neighbourhood, that the New-England people, with some others, intended seizing and taking him captive to New-England, and by this means extinguish the Indian council fire. And that this was to be done in consequence of another report that Colonel Johnson was setting up the Indians to destroy the inhabitants, &c.

Next we received a letter wrote by four Mohawks to the Oneidas, whereof we enclose you a copy, translated from the Mohawk into English, No. 2.

Next we received a letter from the Committee of Palatine District, in Tryon County, whereof we enclose you a copy, No. 3; our answer to which you have enclosed, No. 3, a.

Next, five persons from Tryon County here, who made oath of their being stopped in the road at Colonel Johnson's on the seventeenth instant; we enclose copy of the affidavit, No. 4.

On the same day we also received from the Committee of Schenectady a copy of Colonel Johnson's letter to them, dated the eighteenth, which you have enclosed, No. 5, and to which the Schenectady Committee wrote him an answer, whereof we have no copy.

Next we received copy of a letter from Colonel Johnson to the Magistrates and others of Palatine, Cannjoharie, and the upper Districts, dated twentieth instant, which you have enclosed, No. 6; and of the answer to which we have no copy.

Next we received copy of another letter from Colonel Johnson, without a date, directed to the Magistrates, &c., of Schenectady, and the Mayor and Corporation, &c., of Albany, which you have enclosed, No. 7; whereupon we wrote him a letter, dated the twenty-third instant, copy whereof you have enclosed, No. 8, and one to the same effect was wrote to him, on the same subject, by the Corporation here.

Next we received copy of the speech of the Mohawks, interpreted by the Reverend Mr. Kirkland, on the twentieth instant, whereof you have a copy enclosed, No. 9; whereto we wrote an answer, dated twenty-third instant, and appointed two persons of our Committee, to wit, Gilbert Marselis and Peter Schuyler, to go to the Mohawks, with Mr. Martin Lydias as an interpreter; enclosed you have a copy thereof, No. 10.

Next we received a reply from the Mohawks to our answer, dated the twenty-fifth; a copy whereof you have enclosed, No. 11, wherein is contained the reply of the Indians, and the Sub-Committee's answer thereto.

We shall now proceed to communicate our northern intelligence, the substance of which you will fully collect from Col. Arnold's letter to us, dated twenty-second inst., whereof we enclose you a copy, No. 12. Second: Col. Arnold's letter to Captain Noah Lee, dated the twenty-third instant, whereof we enclose you a copy, No. 13. Third: We yesterday received the Quebeck mail opened, and sent to us by some of our people from above, and such letters as were already opened, were inspected by two of our members, who made an extract of such passages in them as respected their publick commotions, a copy of which extract we enclose you, No. 14.

We shall now take notice of the New-York Committee's letter to us, of the twentieth instant, enclosing the Resolution of the Continental Congress, from which we find that the reduction of Ticonderoga by our forces, is approved of, and recommending us to proceed with all possible despatch with a sufficient body of forces, &c., to the northward, to remove the cannon and stores from Ticonderoga to the south end of Lake George. We are now busy to raise two Companies, each Company composed of fifty men, in order to go upon said expedition, who we expect will be in readiness to march in two or three days. But, gentlemen, there are a number of very material difficulties that immediately arise. We have no ammunition; all the powder already gone up, with what we can possibly collect yet among us, will not amount to above two hundred and fifty pounds; and with so small a quantity it is impossible for us to do any thing of consequence, nor can we possibly conceive how the Provincial forces can maintain these northern posts, or withstand the attack of the British Troops from Quebeck, who are, from the best intelligence we can collect, preparing, as fast as possible, to come down, in order to take these places from us; an enterprise which, if by them undertaken and completed, will introduce our enemies into the very bowels of our Country. We beg of you, gentlemen, without delay, to take these important matters into your most serious and immediate consideration, and afford us the necessary assistance in this our distressed situation, and send us up, with all possible speed, a sufficient quantity of powder, without which nothing can possibly be done. We likewise stand in need of blankets, pitch, tar, oakum, nails, spikes, gin, ropes, camp-kettles, intrenching tools, &c., and some rice, oat-meal, and barley, &c.; also for the sloop and schooner, two mates, two gunners, two gunner's mates, two boatswains, and eighteen seamen, agreeable to Colonel Arnold's list, (copy enclosed,) No. 15, all which you'll be pleased to cause to be sent up to us with all possible despatch.

We would beg of you, likewise, to take into consideration some mode or plan for raising and paying our forces; the one which we have adopted here, pro hac vice, until you conclude upon a better one, we enclose you a copy of, No. 16.

We would mention another matter to you, which, in our humble opinion, requires your immediate consideration; that as the vessel from St. John's has lately been taken by our forces, and whereof the Continental Congress have had no intelligence, on the eighteenth instant, when they entered into the Resolution respecting Ticonderoga, and removing the stores and cannon from thence to Lake George, whether it would not be expedient to fortify the latter instead of the former, as Ticonderoga is by far the strongest and most important fortress.

We beg the favour of you that you will, immediately after your perusal of this our letter, and the papers herewith sent, be pleased to forward the same to the Continental Congress by the most speedy and eligible mode of conveyance.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient servants.

By order of the Committee:

SAMUEL STRINGER, Chairman pro tem.

ETHAN ALLEN TO THE ASSEMBLY OF CONNECTICUT.

Crown Point, May 26, 1775.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: I here communicate to you a copy of a letter I sent by Mr. Winthrop Hoit and Captain Abraham Nimham, a friendly Stockbridge Indian, to the several Tribes of Indians in Canada.

"Head-Quarters of the Army, Crown Point, }
May 24, 1775. }

"By advice of council of the officers, I recommend our trusty and well-beloved friend and brother, Captain Abraham Nimham, of Stockbridge, as our ambassador of peace to our good brother Indians of the four Tribes, viz: the Hocnawagoes, the Swagaches, the Canesadaugans, and the Saint Fransawas.

"Loving brothers and friends: I have to inform you that George the Third, King of England, has made war with the English Colonies in America, who have ever till now been his good subjects; and sent his army and killed some of your good friends and brothers at Boston, in the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay. Then your good brothers in that Province, and in all the Colonies of English America, made war with King George, and have begun to kill the men of his army, and have taken Ticonderoga and Crown Point from him, and all the artillery, and also a great sloop which was at St. John's, and all the boats in the lake, and have raised, and are raising two great armies; one is destined for Boston, and the other for the fortresses and department of Lake Champlain, to fight the King's Troops that oppose the Colonies from Canada; and as King George's soldiers killed our brothers and friends in a time of peace, I hope, as Indians are good and honest men, you will not fight for King George against your friends in America, as they have done you no wrong, and desire to live with you as brothers. I was always a friend to Indians, and have hunted with them many times, and know how to shoot and ambush like Indians, and am a great hunter.

"I want to have your warriors come and see me, and help me fight the King's Regular Troops. You know they stand all along close together, rank and file, and my men fight so as Indians do, and I want your warriors to join with me and my warriors, like brothers, and ambush the Regulars: if you will, I will give you money, blankets, tomahawks, knives, paint, and any thing that there is in the army, just like brothers; and I will go with you into the woods to scout; and my men and your men will sleep together, and eat and drink together, and fight Regulars, because they first killed our brothers; and will fight against us; therefore I want our brother Indians to help us fight; for I know Indians are good warriors, and can fight well in the bush. You know it is good for my warriors and Indians too to kill the Regulars, because they first began to kill our brothers in this Country without cause.

"Ye know my warriors must fight, but if you our brother Indians do not fight on either side, we will still be friends and brothers; and you may come and hunt in our woods, and come with your canoes in the lake, and let us have venison at our forts on the lake, and have rum, bread, and what you want, and be like brothers.

"I have sent our friend, Winthrop Hoit, to treat with you on our behalf in friendship; you know him, for he has lived with you, and is your adopted son, and is a good man; Captain Nimham, of Stockbridge, and he will tell you about the whole matter more than I can write. I hope your warriors will come and see me. So I bid all my brother Indians farewell.

ETHAN ALLEN,

"Colonel of the Green Mountain Boys."

This, gentlemen, is a copy of the letter I have sent the Indians; I hope it may have a good effect. I thought it advisable that the Honourable Assembly should be informed of all our politicks. And am, gentlemen, with the greatest respect, your most obedient and humble servant,

ETHAN ALLEN.

The Honourable General Assembly.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Crown Point, May 26, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: My last was of the 23d instant; I then advised you of the situation of matters here, since which there has been no material alteration. Very few men have arrived. We have fixed the sloop with six carriage and twelve swivel guns; the schooner with four carriage and eight swivels. Both vessels are in good order, and tolerably well manned. Eight gentlemen having arrived from Hartford, who are seamen, I have sent two ten-inch ifon mortars, and two eight-inch brass mortars, and two eight-inch howitzers, to Ticonderoga, to be forwarded to Fort George.

You may depend on my sending the cannon from this place as soon as possible. There are three thirteen-inch iron mortars here—beg to know what I shall do with them. I have received large donations of flour, pork, peas, &c., from Albany—near seventy barrels—and I am informed there is a large quantity on the road from that place, and a quantity supplied from Connecticut.

The advice I received from Butterfield, and communicated in the postscript of my last, of the 23d instant, proves to be premature. I have good intelligence from a batteau immediately from St. John's, which place she left on the 19th instant, that the Regulars were returned to Chamblée. I am, with great respect, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

To the Committee of Safety, Cambridge.

LETTER FROM THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In Provincial Congress, at Watertown, }
May 26, 1775. }

“Resolved, That the following Letter be sent to the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New-York, now sitting in that Colony.”

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed are copies of a letter from Colonel Arnold, and a list of military stores at Ticonderoga, &c. You cannot fail to observe that Mr. Arnold, for the defence of this Colony, is endeavouring that such ordnance as he judges can be spared from that quarter, should be transported to the army in this Colony. This step is taken in consequence of orders given by our Committee of Safety. Perhaps this may appear to you extraordinary, but we trust you will candidly overlook such a mistake (if it is one,) being made in the hurry and confusion of war; and we most solemnly declare to you, that this Congress, and the inhabitants of this Colony, are at the utmost remove from any disposition or design to make any the least infraction upon, or usurpation of the jurisdiction of any of our sister Colonies. And if any of those cannon, &c., taken at the Lake Champlain, should happen, through the exertions of enterprising spirits, to be brought within the allowed limits of this Colony, and come to our use, we shall hold ourselves accountable for them to the Representatives of the Continent; and whenever they shall inform us that they are more needed for the general defence at any other part of the Continent than in this Colony, we shall endeavour that they be removed thither with the utmost despatch. As to the expediency and policy of endeavouring to maintain those old fortresses near Lake Champlain, or abating them, and erecting others in some other places upon the same lake, or abandoning those posts, and bringing off all the ordnance and warlike stores in those posts, we conceive that the advice of the Continental Congress ought to be obtained, and we have therefore addressed them in the most pressing manner, being of opinion that the maintaining a post there is absolutely necessary for the defence of your, and all the New-England Colonies.

Gentlemen and brethren, could you have seen the horrid devastation and carnage in this Colony, committed by ministerial Troops, those sons of violence, who have got some footing in this Colony, the breach of a most solemn treaty with respect to the inhabitants of Boston, when they had surrendered their arms, and put themselves wholly in the power of a military commander, relying upon his faith, then pledged, that they should immediately depart the Town with their effects as stipulated, which was no sooner done than they were positively refused permission to carry out the most valuable part of those effects, but their persons detained under the most idle pretences, and suffered only to scatter from their prison a few in a day, hardly to be seen or noticed; we say, gentlemen, could you see and realize these scenes of distress, you could not refrain one moment from doing every thing in your power to prevent the like distress from happening to your metropolis, and availing yourselves of every article, which an enemy can improve with the least advantage to themselves, for effecting the like desolation, horrors, and insults on the inhabitants of your City and Colony, or which might enable you to make the most effectual defence. Have you not, gentlemen, divers of those articles as it were under your hand? If you should delay securing them until they should be out of your power, and within a few days you should behold those very materials improved in murdering you, and yourselves perishing for the want of them, will not your chagrin and regret be intolerable? Brethren, pardon our importunity. It is our own case. Don't we daily behold Castle William, and realize the ample warlike provisions and apparatus therein, held by our enemies, to our infinite and inexpressible mortification? We wish to heaven that you may be timely admonished by the consequence of our delay.

JOSEPH HAWLEY TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Watertown, May 26, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The Congress have directed a Committee, of which I have the honour to be Chairman, to apply to you forthwith for copies of the commission, and every paper containing the appointment of Colonel Benedict Arnold, to a secret warlike enterprise to the westward; of the instructions given him by you; of your engagements to him in behalf of this Colony; and authority to raise a Regiment to be in the pay of this Colony, if any such authority was given him by you; his orders respecting the ordnance at Ticonderoga, and places on Lake Champlain; and every thing necessary to give the Congress a full understanding of the relation Colonel Arnold then stood, and now stands in to this Colony, and send them as soon as possible to us by Captain Brown. I am, gentlemen, with the greatest respect, your most obedient servant,

JOSEPH HAWLEY.

To the Committee of Safety.

BENJAMIN GREENLEAF TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Newburyport, May 26, 1775.

SIR: I yesterday received your letter of the 19th instant, informing me that the Provincial Congress had done me the honour of choosing me a member of the Committee of Safety, and that they requested my attendance without delay. I readily exert myself on every occasion that presents, as far as I am able, to promote such measures as have a tendency to relieve the Country from its present difficulties and embarrassments; but my ill state of health forbids my attending closely to business, and therefore disqualifies me to act in that department with advantage to the publick or myself, for which reason I have to entreat the indulgence of the Congress while I ask to be excused from that service; assuring them I cannot be an indifferent observer of scenes that are now acting; but as I have hitherto attended to our publick affairs as far as my health would permit, almost to the total neglect of my own personal concerns, I shall continue to do so, if my life is spared, until this land obtains a complete deliverance from the hands of tyranny and oppression; but then it must be in a sphere wherein I shall not be liable to so much confinement and solicitude as I must necessarily submit to as a member of that Committee. I am, with respect, Sir, your most humble servant,

B. GREENLEAF.

To Mr. Freeman, Secretary of the Provincial Congress.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CON-GRESS.

Cambridge, May 26, 1775.

The Committee of Safety beg leave to represent to your Honours the conduct of Jonathan Brewer, of Waltham. Said Brewer was recommended to this Committee as a suitable person to take orders to enlist a Regiment on the present establishment, and accordingly received ten sets of orders from this Committee for that purpose. Since that, various complaints have been made to us relative to his conduct. When he gave out his enlisting orders he made proclamation that he had received orders to enlist a Regiment of Rangers, and gave some of his Captains written orders accordingly, directly contrary to the orders he received from this Committee, and in that way drew off men from the companies and regiments, which occasioned great uneasiness and frequent complaints. He has, without any orders or directions, taken into his service two horses—one belonging to Colonel Jones, the other to Colonel Taylor— and has kept them for several weeks past. He has also given a lease of part of Colonel Jones's real estate, without the least pretence of right, and taken security therefore in his own name.

Although this Committee were first induced to give the said Brewer enlisting orders for raising a Regiment, from the character they had of him as being courageous, and experienced in war, &c., they are now fully convinced, from the evidence they have since had of the low artifices and impositions he has made use of to obtain the small number of men he has returned, his seizing private property and converting it to his own use, in a manner that cannot by any means be justified, and which we fear will be improved by our inveterate enemies to the dishonour and detriment of this Colony, he is unworthy of confidence. Upon the whole, we apprehend he has not only disqualified himself for serving this Colony, as a Colonel of a Regiment, but ought immediately to be dealt with in such a manner as you in your wisdom shall think proper.

We are, &c.

THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Watertown, May 26, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We received your favour of the 23d instant, wherein you inform us of your determination to raise immediately two thousand men for the common defence of America.

It gives us the greatest pleasure and satisfaction to observe the present concordant temper and disposition so prevalent throughout the several Colonies, in support of their common rights. Such a remarkable unanimity, under the smiles of a kind Providence, can scarcely fail of succeeding to the utmost of our sanguine wishes. We trust, gentlemen, our cause is just and right; and that to submit to the vassalage and slavery of an unconscionable Administration, would not only be ignominious, but highly derogatory to the spirit and resentment of free and loyal Americans; and although the horrors and devastation of war are highly deprecated by us, yet pressing necessity urges to the utmost of our exertion, in the preservation of every thing dear to us, (even life itself,) by a resolute opposition to our unwearied and unnatural enemies. We therefore earnestly request you, gentlemen, to forward with all speed those Troops you are raising, to co-operate with us against the common enemy, hoping, under the Divine protection, to convince even the British Parliament of their unreasonable, rash, and inconsiderate proceedings against a most injured and cruelly oppressed people. We are, gentlemen, with sincere affection, your most obedient humble servants,

By order: JOSEPH WARREN, Pres't pro tem.

To the Hon. Congress of New-Hampshire Colony.

BENJAMIN BULLARD AND OTHERS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Cambridge, May 26, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We, the subscribers, being highly dissatisfied with the alteration that is likely to take place respecting the field-officers in Colonel Nixon's Regiment, as we took out enlisting orders under Colonel John Nixon, Lieutenant-Colonel Jacob Miller, and Major Nathaniel Cudworth, with the expectation that they were to be the established field-officers of the Regiment, especially as we were at the choice of said gentlemen, and knowing the choice to be fair and above board; and every gentleman present appeared to be pleased with the same; therefore, we think it a great grievance that, after they had been at the trouble of recruiting, and had almost filled up our respective companies before we had any notice of any design to make an alteration in the leaders of said Regiment. And further, that we were to come to a new choice with men that were not nominated with us, to be in our corps as Captains. And furthermore, that several Lieutenants should act in behalf of their Captains, they being not present; and one Lieutenant saying at the same time he had no thought of tarrying in the Army. All which we think to be sufficient reasons that the first choice stands fair, and the last the contrary. Therefore, as we are earnest to be in the service in the defence of our Country, (if the last choice is established,) beg leave to have the privilege of joining in some other Regiment. And as in duty bound shall ever pray.

BENJ. BULLARD, Captain,
JOHN LELAND, Captain,
THOS. DRURY, Captain,
THADDEUS RUSSELL, Captain.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety.

FREDERICK COUNTY (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

Resolved unanimously, That the thanks of this Committee be presented to the Reverend Charles Minn Thruston and Colonel Isaac Zane, who represented this County in the late Convention, from a just sensibility of a faithful discharge of the trust reposed in them.

Resolved unanimously, That this Committee do recommend to the Representatives of this County to use their influence in the ensuing session of Assembly, to procure adequate satisfaction to the officers and soldiers who bravely ventured their lives in defence of their Country, in the late expedition against the Indians; and also to those who advanced their property on the credit of the publick, for the support of the Army.

Whereas, it is expected that proposals will be made to the Assembly, on behalf of Administration, to levy a certain sum of money annually, disposable by Parliament: it is therefore earnestly recommended to our Representatives to oppose such proposal to the utmost of their abilities, and to express their determined resolution to reject any proposition whatever which may be offered, while an armed force remains on this Continent, for the purpose of compelling submission to Parliamentary mandates; and every requisition for levying money on their constituents, coming through any other channel than the official servants of the Crown, the use to which such moneys are to be applied being always expressed in such requisitions. And we would have it understood, as the sense of this Committee, that no measures with Administration, which may affect the liberties of America, ought to be agreed to on behalf of this Colony, without the concurrence of our sister Colonies.

Resolved unanimously, That the several arbitrary and illegal Proclamations lately issued by Lord Dunmore, his seizure of the Colony Powder, and his gross misrepresentations of the state of this Colony to the Ministry, render it highly necessary to regard with peculiar attention whatever comes through his hands.

Ordered, That the Clerk transmit a copy of the above to the publick Printer.

WILLIAM HETH, Clerk.

May 27, 1775.

PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation for Prince George's County, at the house of Richard Carnes, in Piscataway, on Saturday, the 27th day of May, 1775, were present nineteen members.

Thomas Baily failing to appear, according to former reference, with the evidence proposed from Baltimore, the Committee proceeded to consider the charges against him; and as it appeared from the said Baily's own declaration, that he was informed at Alexandria, before he landed the Salt, that the ship-load of Salt which arrived at Baltimore, consigned to Doctor John Stevenson, was declared to be illegally imported, and ordered to be destroyed; they do resolve, that the said Thomas Baily has committed a wilful violation of the Continental Association, by selling and landing the Salt imported in the Sally, Captain Moate.

The Committee being informed that Mr. John Baynes, of Piscataway, has killed a Lamb, contrary to the Resolve of the Provincial Convention, held at Annapolis, in December last, Messrs. Luke Marbury and George Diggs were sent to inform him that the Committee desired his immediate attendance. Mr. Baynes appeared, and being informed as above, acknowledged that he had killed a Lamb, and conceived that he had not thereby violated the Continental Association, which he purposed to adhere to, and thought it superiour to the Provincial Convention, which he conceived was only intended to carry the Resolves of the Continental Congress into execution.

Resolved, That the said Mr. Baynes, in killing the said Lamb, has violated the Resolve of the Provincial Convention; that such measures may be of mischievous consequence, as tending to create a disregard to publick regulations, formed for preserving the liberties of America.

Ordered, That a copy of these proceedings be signed by the Chairman, and sent to be published in the Maryland Gazette. By order of the Committee:

JOSIAS BEALL, Chairman.

ASSEMBLY OF CONNECTICUT TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Hartford, May 27, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: You have doubtless received the advice of the Continental Congress, relative to the important fortress and pass of Ticonderoga and Crown Point. We esteem it necessary to be guided by their opinion in every important transaction, and have great satisfaction in their approbation of the capture made of those posts; and their advice relating to removing the cannon, &c., to the south end of Lake George, and making a stand there, must probably be complied with, unless they, upon further consideration, shall alter their opinion, and advise to making the stand at one or both the aforesaid forts, which this House and Assembly judge to be much more expedient, on many obvious accounts, and have several days since signified their opinion to our Delegates at said Congress; and for these and other reasons, hope for their concurrence.

The bearer, Captain Phelps, who has been very active and useful in the captures, is just arrived with important advices from Colonel Arnold, of an expected attack speedily from Governor Carleton, and is charged with the same advices from Mr. Arnold to you. In consequence of them, and the imminent danger the people there are exposed to, our Assembly have just ordered five hundred pounds of our pittance of powder to be forthwith sent to them; and also four companies to march for their present relief, and have advised the New-York Provincial Congress of this step; and also are now despatching advice of the same to the Continental Congress; and also again setting forth the advantage of maintaining a post at Ticonderoga or Crown Point, and suggesting our wishes that they reconsider their advice. In the mean time you may be assured that we have no just claim to the acquisition or the command of them, as in the least degree to interfere with any measures you may think proper to adopt relating to them, and consider what we have done as a small and temporary relief.

I am, gentlemen, in the name and behalf of the House of Representatives, your most obedient and very humble servant. By order: WM. WILLIAMS, Speaker.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL ACCOUNT OF THE BATTLE AT CHELSEA, HOG ISLAND, ETC., IN MASSACHUSETTS.

On Saturday, May 27, 1775, a party of the American Army at Cambridge, to the number of between two and three hundred men, had orders to drive off the live stock from Hog and Noddle Islands, which lie near Chelsea, Winnemmet, on the northeast side of Boston Harbour. From Chelsea to Hog Island, at low water, it is but about knee high, and from that to Noddle's Island about the same. The stock on the former belonging to Mr. Oliver Wendell, at Boston, and Mr. Jonathan Jackson, at Newburyport; that on Noddle's Island was owned by Mr. Williams, of Boston, who hires the island.

About eleven o'clock, A. M., between twenty and thirty men went from Chelsea to Hog Island, and from thence to Noddle's Island, to drive off the stock which was there, but were interrupted by a schooner and sloop despatched from the fleet in Boston Harbour, and forty Marines, who had been stationed on the island to protect the live stock. However, they sent off two fine English stallions, two colts, and three cows, killed fifteen horses, two colts, and three cows, burnt a large barn full of salt, hay, and an old farmhouse. By this time they were fired on from the schooner and sloop, and a large number of Marines in boats, sent from the several men-of-war; upon which they retreated to a ditch on the marsh, and kept themselves undiscovered till they had an opportunity to fire on the Marines, when they shot down two dead, and wounded two more, one of whom died soon after. They then retreated to Hog Island, where they were joined by the remainder of their party from Chelsea, and drove off all the stock thereon, viz: between three and four hundred sheep and lambs, some cows, horses, &c. During this there were firings between the Provincials and the schooner, sloop, boats, and Marines, on the other island.

Having cleared Hog Island, the Provincials drew up on Chelsea Neck, and sent for a reinforcement of three hundred men and two pieces of cannon, (four-pounders,) which arrived about nine o'clock in the evening; soon after which General Putnam went down and hailed the schooner, and told the people that if they would submit they should have good quarters, which the schooner returned with two cannon shot; this was immediately answered with two cannon from the Provincials: upon this a very heavy fire ensued from both sides, which lasted till eleven o'clock at night, when the fire from the schooner ceased; the fire from the shore being so hot that her people were obliged to quit her and take to the boats, a great number of which had been sent from the ships to their assistance, and also a large reinforcement of Marines sent to Noddle's Island, with two twelve-pounders.

The schooner being thus left, drove ashore, where, about break-of-day, the Provincials carried some hay under her stern, and set her on fire, the sloop keeping up a small fire upon them; at which time a heavy cannonading was begun at Noddle's Island Hill, with the twelve-pounders, upon the Provincials; also General Putnam kept a heavy fire upon the sloop, which disabled her much, and killed many of her men, so that she was obliged to be towed off by the boats, when the firing ceased, except a few shot which were exchanged between the party at Chelsea, and the Marines on Noddle's Island. Thus ended this long action, without the loss of one Provincial, and only four wounded, one of whom was wounded by the bursting of his own gun, and another only lost his little finger. The loss of the enemy amounted to twenty killed, and fifty wounded. The Provincials took out of the schooner four double fortified four-pounders, twelve swivels, chief of her rigging and sails, many clothes, some money, &c., which the Sailors and Marines left behind, they having quitted in great haste.

COMPLAINT AGAINST LIEUT. COLONEL ABIJAH BROWN.

Waltham, May, 1775.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety now assembled at CAMBRIDGE, Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

Whereas a number of the inhabitants in and about Waltham, in the County of Middlesex and Province aforesaid, having a deep sense of their obligations to the Honourable Committee for their services, upon information given, look upon themselves in duty bound, to represent to them in this publick manner, the repeated and publick insults and abuses that the Honourable Committee and Congress are from day to day treated with by one Abijah Brown, who calls himself Lieutenant-Colonel, who, from time to time, and in different company, in the most publick manner upon the road, and in publick houses, where company of strangers or town's people are on any occasion assembled, taking such opportunity to declare, though in such profane language that we must be excused from repeating, viz: that the Congress had no power to do as they did; for all the power was and would be in the Army; and if the Congress behaved as they did, that within forty-eight hours the Army would turn upon the Congress, and they would settle matters as they pleased; that there would be nothing done but what would be done by the Army; and with respect to the General and Committee, that they had no more right or power to give their orders to remove the cannon and stores from Waltham, than one John Stewart, who is a poor unhappy man, that is non compos mentis; hereby representing the General and Committees as a set of idiots and lunatics, in order to lessen and bring into contempt the power and authority of the Province, at this very important day. This conduct, from one assuming rank in the Army, in and about Head-Quarters where the Army is, and his reasons for such conduct, we leave every one to judge for himself, &c.

We therefore would humbly pray that your Honours would be pleased to take into your consideration this very dangerous matter, before it is too late, and before the seeds of discord and mutiny have taken too deep root, and take such steps to put an end to it, as well as to him, with regard to his being any way concerned in the Army, as your Honours in your wisdom shall see fit. Abner Sanders, John Sanders, Jedediah White, Peter Ball, Eleazer Bradshaw, &c., of Waltham, and Captain Abijah Child, now in the Army, stand ready, upon any day that your Honours may appoint, to appear and give your Honours the fullest proofs of what is here set forth, though this is but in part.

JONAS DIX, NATH'L BRIDGE, } Selectmen of JOSIAH BROWN, } Waltham.
JOHN CLARK, }

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, }
May 27, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: This Committee having received information from sundry persons, Selectmen of the Town of Waltham, respecting the conduct of Major Abijah Brown, of said Waltham, informing that he, the said Brown, at sundry times and in sundry places, did utter many things disrespectful and reflecting on the conduct of said Provincial Congress, the several Committees, and upon the General of the Colony Army, this Committee, apprehending that any determination on this case is out of the department of this Committee, beg leave to refer this matter, with the evidences respecting the same, to your Honours, that you may be furnished with such light as may enable you to determine thereon, as to you in your wisdom shall seem meet. We are your Honours' most obedient humble servants,

BENJAMIN WHITE, Chairman.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May, 1775. }

The Committee appointed to examine into the complaint against Lieutenant-Colonel Brown, beg leave to make the following Report, viz:

That after a full hearing of the allegations and proofs for and against said Brown, on the complaint of some unknown persons, through the Selectmen of Waltham, to this honourable Congress, we are of sentiment that an unhappy controversy has existed in said Town, relating to publick affairs, in which said Brown has exerted himself very earnestly in favour of the cause of liberty, by which means he has disgusted several persons, who have since endeavoured therefor to censure and stigmatize him as being an officious, busy, and designing man; and, unhappily, it appears that Mr. Brown has associated in taverns indiscriminately with many persons, in discourse with whom he at some times inadvertently expressed himself, which he could not strictly justify himself in, and that it is evident those disaffected antagonists of Mr. Brown had taken the advantage of his halting purely from revenge; and the Committee adjudge, from the whole of the evidence for and against said Brown, that he is injuriously treated by the secret resentments of designing persons, and that he ought to be reinstated to the esteem and countenance of every friend to the liberties of this Country. Per order:

THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read in Congress June 2, 1775.]

Watertown, May 27, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: Enclosed are copies of a letter from Colonel B. Arnold, (dated Crown Point, May 19th,) and a list of military stores at Ticonderoga, &c. It seems that the step Colonel Arnold is taking in transporting into this Colony part of the ordnance taken at Lake Champlain, is in consequence of orders given him by our Committee of Safety; and if they had considered the proposal in a calmer season, perhaps they might have thought it would have been proper previously to have consulted our brethren of the Colony of New-York; certain it is, that this Colony is in the most pressing need of the ordnance which Colonel Arnold is transporting hither. On this occasion, we beg leave most solemnly to assure your Honours that nothing can be more abhorrent to the temper and spirit of this Congress and the people of this Colony, than any attempt to usurp on the jurisdiction of any of our sister Colonies, which, upon a superficial consideration of this step, there may seem to be some appearance of. But we assure ourselves that such is the candour and generous sentiments of our brethren of New-York, as that we may rest secure that they will readily overlook this mistake, (if it is one,) committed in the haste of war, and which may be naturally attributed thereto. And if any of the cannon should arrive within the limits of this Colony we shall hold ourselves accountable for them to your Honours, or any succeeding Representatives of the Continent.

May it please your Honours, permit us to observe, that in our opinion nothing can be more obvious than the infinite importance to the safety of the inhabitants of the Colonies of New-York, New-Hampshire, and even Connecticut, than maintaining, holding, and effectually securing the post at Ticonderoga, or some spot near the southwest end of Lake Champlain; for if that post is abandoned, the whole of Lake Champlain will be commanded by the Government of Canada, and the command of that water will amazingly facilitate all such descents upon these Colonies, whether greater or less, which Administration shall see fit to order. But if that post should be held by the Colonies, all such attempts for the destruction of the Colonies, may be vastly obstructed, if not wholly defeated. We have, therefore, the most full confidence that your Honours will immediately take these matters into your most serious consideration, and make such order thereon as will appear most fit and reasonable, and most conducive to the general safety.

We would further humbly suggest that we stand in need of large quantities of gunpowder, and it is impossible to obtain that article from any quarter this way; we therefore most earnestly entreat your Honours that some effectual measures may be devised that we may be supplied with that most necessary means of defence; and we find that the deficiency of that article prevails in all the Colonies. We most earnestly press this matter, as the salvation of these Colonies depends so much thereon. We would not presume to dictate to your Honours, but would quere whether it would not be prudent to advertise all Nations of the opportunities they now have to dispose of that article in America, as the best market.

We have the strongest persuasion that the settled plan of the British Administration is to break the chain of union of the Colonies at New-York; and we are sure that the evidence of such design, and their machinations for that purpose, cannot escape your attention.

We confide in the wisdom and vigilance of your Honours to devise such measures as (under God) will effectually defeat a plan so fatal, and which, if effected, will be the destruction of all the Colonies. We are, with the greatest respect, yours, &c.

By order of the Provincial Congress:

JOSEPH WARREN, Pres't pro tem.

THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO THE ASSEMBLY OF CONNECTICUT.

Watertown, May 27, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed are copies of a letter from Colonel Arnold, dated May 19, 1775, and a list of military stores at Ticonderoga, &c. We wrote to you (of the 17th instant) relative to that fortress, &c., and were desirous that you would give such orders relative thereto as to you should seem meet; but we are of opinion that the advice of the Continental Congress should be had thereon as soon as may be, and also the particular advice of the Provincial Congress of New-York, to each of whom we have wrote upon this matter. Those fortresses being within the jurisdiction of the Colony of New-York, we are of opinion that it is necessary to consult them upon a matter in which they are so greatly interested.

We have appointed and directed Colonel Joseph Henshaw to repair to you, and consult with you upon the affair of that fortress, the maintenance of which we think of the utmost importance to the security of New-York and the New-England Colonies. His instructions will be laid before you, and we have no doubt you will take such measures relative thereto as will promote the general safety of these Colonies.

To the Honourable the Governour and Company of the Colony of Connecticut.

MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO COL. BENEDICT ARNOLD.

Watertown, May 27, 1775.

SIR: We have, this day, with pleasure, received your letter to the Committee of Safety, of the 19th instant, by Captain Brown, and return you our hearty thanks for your exertions in the publick cause, and fully agree with you that the interposition of Providence, in this and many other instances, is apparent, for which we have the greatest cause for thankfulness.

We are clearly of opinion that keeping Ticonderoga is a matter of great importance, and we make no doubt the honourable Continental Congress will take that affair immediately under their wise consideration, and give all necessary orders therefor, as we have addressed them most earnestly on the subject.

You inform us that you have had intimations that some persons were determined to apply, in order to injure your character. If any such applications should be made here, you may be assured we shall be so candid as not to suffer any impressions to your disadvantage, until you shall have opportunity to vindicate your conduct.

We enclose a Resolve of this Congress, appointing and directing Colonel Joseph Henshaw to repair to Hartford, and consult with the General Assembly there, upon this important matter, by which you will see the resolution this Congress has taken relative thereto.

We would just add, that the letter you refer to, of the 14th instant, by Colonel Romans, has not come to hand, so that no order can be taken thereon. We are, &c.

To Colonel Benedict Arnold, Ticonderoga.

INSTRUCTIONS TO COLONEL HENSHAW, DELEGATE TO CONNECTICUT AND CROWN POINT.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May 27, 1775. }

Resolved, That Colonel Joseph Henshaw be appointed and directed to repair to Hartford, and inquire whether provision is made by the General Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut for securing and maintaining the fortress at Ticonderoga and the adjacent posts; and if that Assembly has made provision for that purpose, the said Colonel Henshaw proceed directly to Ticonderoga and acquaint Colonel Arnold that it is the order of this Congress that he return, and render accounts of his expenses in that expedition, in order that he may be honourably discharged; but if Colonel Henshaw shall find that such provision is not made, and the General Assembly not sitting, that he proceed to Ticonderoga, and inform Colonel Arnold that it is the order of this Congress that he continue there, with such a number of forces as said Colonel Henshaw shall judge necessary, for the purpose. Nevertheless, if the said Colonel Henshaw shall find the General Assembly sitting, and have not made such provision, that he consult with them touching this important matter, and take their proposals, and immediately make report to the Congress of this Colony.

COLONEL HENSHAW TO DR. J. WARREN.

Watertown, May 28, 1775.

SIR: I cannot proceed on my journey to Hartford and Crown Point through want of the papers sent last evening to Cambridge by Mr. Gill, to be attested. Mr. Gill promised to bring me a horse and sulkey to proceed on as far as Leicester, where I shall take a horse of my own, there being none that may be obtained here. If he has not provided me with a horse and sulkey already, he knows where to do it, having your directions; therefore you will please to forward the papers, with a horse and sulkey, by Mr. Gill, when I shall instantly proceed. I am your most obedient servant,

JOS. HENSHAW.

MINUTES OF COLONEL JOSEPH HENSHAW'S JOURNEY TO CONNECTICUT.

May 28, 1775.—At noon set off from Watertown for Hartford and Ticonderoga.

Wednesday noon.—Arrived at Hartford; delivered the letter to the Governour and Council, with whom had a conference respecting the fortress at Ticonderoga, before dinner.

P. M.—Attended the House, with whom conferred on the same subject, and desired a conference by a Committee, which was granted, and a joint Committee of the Council and House appointed for that purpose; from whom I understood that intelligence had been received from the Continental Congress and New-York, which had been forwarded to the Provincial Congress since my departure, that the Continental Congress had recommended to New-York to maintain the fortress, and remove such cannon as may not be wanted, &c.; that New-York had requested Connecticut to provide for the safety of the post till New-York could take it on themselves; that in consequence thereof Connecticut had ordered one thousand men to Ticonderoga, under Colonel Hinman, with artificers, and five hundred pounds of powder, provisions, &c., and were about to send up an engineer; that four Companies were raising in Albany for the same purpose; that considering the intelligence received by our Congress since my departure, it was the unanimous opinion of the Committee it would be advisable to return immediately there before I proceeded to Ticonderoga, as it would not make more than two or three days difference, and it was probable the Congress would have some fresh instructions to furnish me with from said intelligence; that Connecticut expects we shall not draw off our forces, but leave them to co-operate with theirs for the defence of the post; that a Colonel and two Majors are appointed over the Connecticut forces, &c.

Thursday, June 1.—Waited till noon for Capt. Brown, who was to meet me at Hartford, and then proceed to Ticonderoga, but he not coming, I wrote to Colonel Arnold, and left the letter, with others, for Captain Brown to take on his arrival at Hartford, and proceed to Ticonderoga, when I set off for the Congress.

COLONEL HENSHAW TO COLONEL BENEDICT ARNOLD.

Hartford, May 31, 1775.

SIR: By Captain Brown I would advise you of my consulting the General Assembly of this Colony respecting the fortress at Ticonderoga. They have ordered Colonel Hinman to take the command there with one thousand men, and four Companies raising at Albany, artificers, &c., to repair and defend that post. It is expected you will continue with Colonel Allen, and put the place in the best posture of defence you are able, and guard against any surprise from the enemy till the succours arrive, and you receive further directions from the Congress. I should have proceeded from hence to Ticonderoga, but some events taking place since my departure from the Congress, makes it necessary for me to repair immediately thither.

I am, Sir, your most obedient servant,

JOSEPH HENSHAW.

SELECTMEN OF PARTRIDGEFIELD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Partridgefield, May 27, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The Selectmen of the Town of Partridgefield having received a message from the Provincial Congress, dated at Concord, March 31, 1775, requiring the speedy payment of some money to Henry Gardner, Esq., of Stow, they immediately warned a town-meeting, and the inhabitants being assembled, and taking into consideration the present circumstances of the Town, they unanimously voted that, considering the present circumstances of the Town, they were not able to pay the tax required of them by the Provincial Congress; and also voted that the Town Clerk should write to the Congress, and give them some information concerning the present circumstances of the Town—a specimen of which is as follows, viz: This Town is but new, and but few people in it, and the generality of them are people of low fortunes; and it is not long since we were at great expense (for us) in settling a Minister in the Town; and as our farms are mostly new, and our land not quick to produce a crop, we are obliged every year to buy a great part of our provision; and this year especially, as the blast and vermin destroyed a great part of our grain the last year. We have no Town stock of ammunition, nor do we know how to procure it, as all the money we can get must go to purchase the necessities of life. I am apt to think there is as many men gone and going from this Town in defence of the liberties and privileges of America, as from any Town in this Province, if not more, according to the number of people in this and the other Towns. And we should be as free with our money as with our men, if we had it, and could possibly spare it. The taxes which the Great and General Court of this Province was pleased to lay upon this Town, we petitioned to be relieved of, and not altogether without success. And we hope the Congress will be graciously pleased to excuse us for not complying with their requisitions, when it was not in our power to do it.

In the name and in behalf of the Town,

NATHANIEL STOWELL, Town Clerk.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress, held at Wartown.

CONDITION OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE, AS DELIVERED BY THEIR DELEGATES TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS, MAY 27, 1775.

The Delegates from New-Hampshire beg leave to inform the Committee, that two of the principal Towns in that Colony, viz: Portsmouth and Newcastle, are situate on Piscataqua River, near the entrance of the harbour, and are much exposed to naval attacks; that those Towns are about five miles distance from each other, Portsmouth, the capital, lying farthest up the river, and not quite so much exposed as Newcastle, which lies at the entrance, defended only by a fort capable of mounting about thirty pieces of cannon, in the rampart; but the fortifications are extremely weak. That to defend the entrance of the harbour against a naval force, would be extremely difficult, if not impracticable; that batteries might be erected between those Towns, which, with booms, chains, &c., might possibly secure Portsmouth from such attack; that to defend the pass, and secure the retreat of the inhabitants, will require at least fifteen hundred men. But as they have a well-regulated Militia in that neighbourhood, which may suddenly be called together for that purpose, they are of opinion there will be no necessity of enlisting men at the Continental expense, especially as the Militia will readily agree to serve in turn for the defence of those places.

They beg leave further to inform the Committee, that there are sixteen Regiments of Foot, and two of Horse, in that Colony, the Foot amounting in the whole to upwards of sixteen thousand effective men, tolerably well provided with arms and ammunition; that the number of the Horse is uncertain, and those but ill provided; that great numbers of their Foot soldiers have been in actual service; and that out of those they are ready to raise and send to serve in Massachusetts, so many as the Committee shall choose to order; that the number of their inhabitants are very uncertain, as persons are continually emigrating from other Colonies, and settling in that more than in any other of the Northern Colonies; that the persons thus emigrating are extremely poor, for which reason the wealth of the Province bears no proportion to the number of inhabitants.

With respect to the amount of their Exports and Imports, no accurate account can be given, as the officers of the Customs have long since refused to suffer the books to be inspected.

RECANTATION OF EBENEZER LOVERIN.

Kensington, New-Hampshire, May 27, 1775.

Whereas I have offended the community in times past, by refusing to equip myself with arms and ammunition, and by my opposition to military orders, for which I am sorry: I hereby engage to equip myself according to orders, and be ready to take up arms in defence of my Country, in the present contest between Great Britain and the Colonies.

EBENEZER LOVERIN.

GOUVERNEUR MORRIS TO RICHARD HENRY LEE.

New-York, May, 1775.

DEAR SIR: When I had the honour of your company and acquaintance at Philadelphia, you made it a request that I would exert my poor abilities in the honest endeavour to keep my fellow-citizens in the line of their duty, their interest, and honour. I freely made you the promise, and I did honestly and faithfully perform it.

I am informed that the Committee of this City have drawn up a representation of Mr. Rivington's case, for the animadversions of that respectable body of which you are a member. The consequence of this step will undoubtedly strike your mind; it is the giving a new power to the Congress. Our Association hath given them the Legislative, and this now tenders them the Judicial supremacy.

The power of Government, as of man, is to be collected from small instances; great affairs are more the objects of reflection and policy. Here both join. A mild and favourable sentence will conciliate the opinions of mankind; and what is the force of opinion, a gentleman who has made it his study to investigate the nature of Government, need not be told. I will not pretend to offer you any reasoning on this subject; because it will be tedious to repeat things which strike your mind at the first glance; but I can venture to assure you that a favourable sentence to this creature will be highly agreeable to most men here. The history of his conduct is simply this: His company, his acquaintances, his friends, were warm advocates for the power of Government; indifferently wise, his mind took a wrong bias from interest, deference for the sentiments of others, and opposition. A tool in prosperity, a cast-off in adversity, he solicits the assistance of that body which his press has aspersed. Magnanimity will dictate to that body the true line of conduct.

The liberty I take in writing to you, can only be excused by the intention I have to do good; this, I trust, will be a sufficient apology for, Sir, your most obedient and humble servant,

Gov. MORRIS.

Richard Henry Lee, Esq., Philadelphia.

RICHARD HENRY LEE TO GOUVERNEUR MORRIS.

Philadelphia, May 28, 1775.

DEAR SIR: The friends of virtuous liberty in New-York have certainly effected a most important change in the political system of that flourishing City. I congratulate you, Sir, and your worthy associates, in this happy revolution. It is most certain that a profligate Ministry have greatly relied on the assistance of your fine fertile Province for carrying into execution their cruel system; a system by which existing millions, and millions yet unborn, are to be plunged into the abyss of slavery, and of consequence deprived of every distinction that marks the man from the beast. But happily for the cause of humanity, the Colonies are now united, and may bid defiance to tyranny and its infamous abettors.

You will see that Mr. Rivington's case is involved in all of a similar nature, which are to be determined on by the Colony Conventions where the offence is committed. I am sorry, for the honour of human nature, that this man should have so prostituted himself in support of a cause the most detestable that ever disgraced mankind. But he repents, and should be forgiven. It is not yet too late to exert his powers in defence of the liberty and just rights of a much injured Country.

I wish you happy, Sir, and I assure you that I am, with singular esteem, your friend and countryman,

RICHARD HENRY LEE.

THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO COLONEL BENEDICT ARNOLD.

Cambridge, May 28, 1775.

The expedition to Ticonderoga, &c., requiring secrecy, the Congress of this Colony was not acquainted with the orders you received from this Committee. It gives us great pleasure to be informed by the express, Captain Brown, that the success you have met with is answerable to your spirit in the undertaking. We have now to acquaint you that the Congress have taken up this matter, and given the necessary directions respecting these acquisitions. It is, then, Sir, become your duty, and is our requirement, that you conform yourself to such advice and orders as you shall from time to time receive from that body. We are, &c.

CHARLES COUNTY (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

Information being made to some of the members of the Committee of this County, on Monday, the 29th of May, that certain persons had imported, and were privately selling goods in a daring and direct violation of the Continental Association, a meeting of the Committee was immediately called, and but few members attending, a general meeting was publickly requested this day, when a very full and respectable number attended at the Court-House, in Port-Tobacco, to make inquiry into this affair; and it was clearly and satisfactorily proved, that a certain John Baillie, who last May came a passenger in the Ship Lady Margaret, Captain William Noble, from Scotland, had brought sundry Dry Goods with him, which appeared, by the testimony of Baillie and Patrick Graham, living in Port-Tobacco, to have been put on board and landed without the consent or knowledge of the Captain, though Baillie swore that Captain Noble knew of his having goods on board the ship when he arrived in Wicomico. It also appeared that Baillie, when he put these goods on board the ship in Scotland, knew of the Continental Association, and that Patrick Graham, in a secret manner, did assist and aid him in taking them from on board the ship, and did privately take them into his house, and secretly sell a part thereof, for his own and Baillie's interest, to several people in this County, without letting them know the circumstances under which they were imported. Whereupon the Committee Resolved, That the said John Baillie and Patrick Graham, for their infamous conduct, ought to be publickly known and held up as foes to the rights of British America, and universally contemned as the enemies of American liberty; and that every person ought henceforth to break off all dealings with the said John Baillie and Patrick Graham; and as the ship which brought the goods had sailed, and there being no opportunity of shipping and sending them back to Britain, the Committee further

Resolved, That such of the goods as are unsold, or can be collected from the purchasers, shall be stored with and kept by Mr. Zephaniah Turner, until, and twelve months after a general importation is agreed on by the Continental Congress; and that, where any of the goods which may have been sold cannot be collected, the said Graham shall deposite the amount of the sales thereof, in cash, to be kept with the goods stored; the whole at the risk of the owners. Published by order of the Committee:

JOHN GWINN, Clerk.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

The Committee met by adjournment, 29th May, 1775.
Present:

Henry Remsen,	Gabriel W. Ludlow,	Thomas Smith,

Ordered, That Mr. Seaton, Mr. Inlay, Mr. Berrian, and Mr. Phenix, be a Sub-Committee to observe the conduct of the proprietors of goods imported in the Snow Patty, Captain Sheppard, from Liverpool, during her stay in this port, and to permit her being supplied with water and other necessaries for her departure, and also to procure two trusty persons, inhabitants of this City, to continue on board while she remains in this harbour; that they desire the Captain to depart from this port on or before Thursday morning next, wind and weather permitting; and that he be further requested to make oath, that he will not discharge any part of his cargo in this Province, and that it be recommended to him to go back again agreeable to the directions of the late Continental Congress.

The Committee adjourned to Monday, 5th June, 1775.

New-York Committee Chamber, }
May 29, 1775. }

Whereas, the publick service of the Colony may render large supplies of the following articles absolutely necessary, upon sudden emergencies, this Committee doth therefore recommend to all our fellow citizens, who are possessed of any Osnaburghs, Ravens Duck, brown Russia Sheetting, brown Drilling, striped and plain Blankets, eight-quarter green and spotted Rugs, coarse Woollens, barrellled Beef, barrellled Pork, or tin Plates, not to dispose of them until the Provincial Congress shall determine on the expediency of detaining them for our own use. And it is also recommended, that the owners of said articles make reports of the quantities that they have on hand, to the Chairman, Deputy-Chairman, or Secretary of this Committee, within six days from this date. By order of the Committee:

HENRY REMSEN, Deputy Chairman.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, }
May 29, 1775. }

SIR: We have been honoured with the receipt of your favour of the 27th instant, containing information, and enclosing despatches relating to the important posts of Ticonderoga and Crown Point. We are sorry to hear the imminent danger of the people at those posts, from a threatened attack from Quebeck, which might be attended with the loss of them before any resolve of the Continental Congress, for their preservation, could be carried into execution by our Colony.

Though therefore we agree, Sir, in opinion with your Assembly, that the said fortresses are properly under the direction of this Colony; yet we are satisfied that the pressing and urgent necessity of the case, and our present inability to take the command of those posts, fully justify the arrangements mentioned in your letter, to have been taken by your respectable body for their immediate defence.

We are, therefore, far from considering them as an invasion of this Colony, or an intermeddling with the service entrusted to it, as you may collect from our former letter on this subject; but rather esteem them as a most friendly interposition for the safety of our frontiers, and as the wise improvement of your early intelligence, and your state of readiness to provide against immediate danger. As in consequence of these arrangements, and the succours we may be able to supply till we are in a condition to take that direction of the above-mentioned fortresses, which their situation, and the determination of the Continental Congress have allotted to us, we shall attend to a proper supply of provisions for the posts. We beg leave at the same time to present you our unfeigned thanks for your most friendly and seasonable reinforcement, from the burden of which we shall, without loss of time, endeavour, in pursuance of further directions from the Continental Congress, to relieve our brethren of Connecticut; and should your stock of ammunition permit the increase of that supply which you have generously destined for that service, we shall exert ourselves in replacing it as soon as we shall have it in our power.

We are, with great respect, Sir, your Honour's, and the General Court's most obedient and humble servants.

By order of the Congress:

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

To the Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Governour of the Colony of Connecticut.

J. TRUMBULL, JR., TO HIS BROTHER.

Hartford, May 29, 1775.

DEAR BROTHER: I have received your letter per Bacon. A little of politicks before I answer that. In consequence of our last letters from Colonel Arnold, (copies of which you will see before you have this,) we have sent off five hundred pounds of powder for Colonel Easton, with two hundred Pounds in cash, and have given orders to four companies to march immediately to the relief and support of our people at Crown Point and Ticonderoga, and have sent express to New-York and Philadelphia of our proceedings, that no jealousies may arise from our zeal and forwardness in this matter, which, without explanation, might seem to militate with a resolution of Continental Congress. Since these proceedings, have received a letter per express from New-York Provincial Convention, desiring our assistance for the support of those northern posts, until they can be in readiness to defend them with their own Troops, which, I understand, they are like to set on foot (this was without any knowledge of what we have done) for relief of Crown Point. They intimate their hopes that we will not be concerned lest they take umbrage at our doing any thing which we judge necessary for the general safety respecting those fortresses; seem very cordial, and we hear are well united. This intelligence I imagine will occasion our ordering Colonel Hinman, with his whole Regiment that way. The Deputy-Governour was consulting with the Governour on the necessity of sending more assistance to the support of our northern brethren, when Mr. Brown arrived with the above letter from New-York. Intelligence that way begins to brighten the prospect from that quarter. Our gentlemen give us accounts of their having full and free conferences with Committee of New-York Convention, and give us favourable report from them. However, must not please ourselves too much.

Our Assembly have agreed to a bounty of ten Pounds per hundred weight on saltpetre, and five Pounds per hundred weight on sulphur, for any quantity of either that may be procured and made within the Colony for one year. Have also agreed to a bounty of five Shillings each on all fire-arms made within the Colony, and one Shilling and Six Pence for each gun-lock so made, to continue till the 20th of October next, and have promised to take on Government account all the arms that can be made in this Colony and offered to them for sale, till the said 20th October. You will see by this we are not entirely wanting in our duty. Colonel Parsons, I believe, will soon come your way. He is very desirous of going to Boston; has the same ideas you have of being stationed on his own ground. I delivered your letter for Captain Wadsworth. He was gone to Middletown. You will receive no answer from him per this post, and I am unable to say what they have done; I believe they intend you shall purchase at least for all the Troops coming your way, which, I imagine, must be three thousand or upwards, though, in the present incertitude of events, there are not so many under orders for Boston. John Mumford has done wrong to raise in your mind such ideas as your letter intimates. The matter of purchasing beef is not yet adopted, and don't know if it will; also the method of paying. These matters you must leave till you see us. You will then, perhaps, understand our trim better than by writing. The pay table is composed of William Pitkin, Thomas Seymour, Oliver Ellsworth, and Ezekiel Williams, Esquires. Our caution and fears respecting Ticonderoga, &c., are fully removed. A Committee is appointed to take care of, and dispose of the officers, soldiers, &c., belonging to those posts who are prisoners; they are all here. Albany would not receive them. I don't imagine you will very soon see the Troops out of Boston. In what way can they make an impression upon your camp? They seem to be attended by some fatality in all their attempts hitherto; however, hope their ill success will not beget a security in our people. I was in hopes there would be but little business for sutlers.

I am glad to find per our letters from New-York, that their Congress do not construe the resolution of Grand Congress to intend an evacuation of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, but only a removal of such artillery, stores, &c., as necessary, to Fort George, and keep possession above. For this purpose it is they desire our assistance. We have been in great agitation lest they should immediately order an abandoning those forts. New-York have sent a Committee to superintend the removal, &c., with a number of men for the purpose, and materials, &c., for ship or sloop building on the lakes. The Provincial Congress of New-York seem much pleased with our delegation to them, so also do the people of the City, &c. Mr. Low has failed of the presidentship, which is given to Mr. Peter V. B. Livingston, who, it is said, is a warm friend. They are also much pleased with a full and free representation of people, (for first time.) Their number consists of more than one hundred. Your affectionate brother.

J. TRUMBULL, JR.

NEW-MILFORD (CONNECTICUT) COMMITTEE.

The Committee of Observation for New-Milford, in the County of Litchfield, Connecticut, having duly notified Zechariah Ferris, Joseph Ferris, Jun., James Osborne, Daniel Taylor, Nathaniel Taylor, and Hezekiah Stevens, Jun., all of said New-Milford, to appear before said Committee this day, to give reason, if any they had, why they and each of them should not be advertised as foes to the rights of British America; and said said Zechariah Ferris, Joseph Ferris, Jun., James Osborne, Daniel Taylor, and Hezekiah Stevens, Jun., having neglected to appear, and to give any satisfaction to said Committee; and said Nathaniel Taylor having appeared, and declared his opposition to the doings of the Continental Congress; and said Committee having fully deliberated upon, and finding each of the aforementioned persons obstinately fixed in their opposition to the doings of said Congress, and the now bleeding cause of America; thinks itself in duty bound to make this publication, that each of said persons may be universally neglected, and treated as incorrigible enemies to the rights of British America, according to the eleventh article of the Association, entered into by said Congress.

By order of the Committee:

SAMUEL CANFIELD, Committee Clerk.

Litchfield, May 29, 1775.

N. B. Five other persons being also notified to appear with the above, have made their retraction, and signed a compliance in full, with the doings of the Congress, to the acceptance of the Committee.

SELECTMEN OF NEW-HAVEN TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-Haven, May 29, 1775.

SIR: One of our number waits on your Honour with this, to inform the General Assembly, through the channel of your Honour, that we are now in possession of upwards of sixty cannon, nine, six, and three-pounders, for the use of the Colony, out of which a sufficient number may be made use of for the defence of this Town, if the honourable General Assembly think proper to order a battery built and carriages made for the guns, with suitable stores of powder and ball to be provided.

We refer you to Mr. Ball for the particulars of the manner of our being possessed of these cannon, which we think a great acquisition, and shall esteem ourselves happy to receive the directions of the honourable Assembly how they are to be disposed of. We are, with great respect, your most obedient servants,

JEREMIAH ATWATER, }
ISAAC DOOLITTLE, } Selectmen.
JAMES GILBERT, }

Honourable Jonathan Trumbull, Esq.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Hartford, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am desired to enclose to you a copy of a letter from the Congress of New-York to this Assembly, dated 25th instant, which you will receive herewith per Mr. Brown, who is on his return from the Continental Congress. The contents of the above mentioned letter were immediately taken into consideration by this Assembly; in consequence whereof, they came into the following resolutions: That one thousand men, (including four hundred which we had before ordered,) under command of Colonel Hinman, should march as soon as possible to Ticonderoga and Crown Point, for the support and defence of those fortresses. That they continue there until they are relieved by the Province of New-York, or are otherwise ordered by this Assembly. That Colonel Hinman take the command of our Troops on those stations. That the Troops be furnished with one pound of powder, and three pounds of bullets to each soldier. That Colonel Hinman be ordered to keep up the strictest vigilance to prevent any hostile incursions from being made into the settlements of the Province of Quebeck, and that the Provincial Congresses of New-York and Massachusetts-Bay be advised of these measures, and the New-York Congress be requested to forward the necessary supplies for said Troops, and such other supplies of ammunition as they shall judge necessary. Advice of these resolutions is already sent forward to New-York, per Mr. Colton, your express to Philadelphia.

It is matter of doubt with us whether the above-mentioned detachment of Troops, ordered by this Colony, will be sufficient for the important purposes for which they are destined; but we recollect that Colonel Arnold is now on the spot, with a commission (as we understand) to raise a Regiment in the pay of your Province. We are not informed how far he has proceeded in that design. If he meets with success, we flatter ourselves that his Regiment, joined with the Troops we have sent, will be able to maintain their ground, and keep possession of those important posts.

We take the liberty to recommend to your consideration the furnishing such additional supply of powder from you as you shall think necessary, to be sent forwards for the support of those northern posts. I am very sorry to have it to say, that we are credibly informed there is not five hundred pounds of powder in the City of New-York; but at the same time are advised that means are taking to supply them with that very important article.

I am, with great truth and regard, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,
JONATHAN TRUMBULL.
The Hon. Provincial Congress of Massachusetts-Bay.

CONNECTICUT ASSEMBLY TO THE ALBANY COMMITTEE.

Hartford, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your favour of the 27th instant, by express, came safe to hand; the contents have been duly considered, and in reply have the pleasure to acquaint you that we had before received the resolve of the Congress at New-York, with their request to send forward some forces to the northward, to keep those important posts until such time as they might be relieved by Troops from your Colony. We have accordingly ordered one thousand Troops, under command of Colonel Hinman, to march immediately to Ticonderoga and Crown Point, furnished with one pound of powder and three pounds of ball, to each soldier, to continue there until relieved by the Province of New-York, or are otherwise ordered; also sent forward, under the care of Colonel Easton, of Pittsfield, five hundred weight of powder for those fortresses; and forwarded advice of our doings to the Provincial Congresses, both at Massachusetts and New-York, just before the receipt of your letter, which renders it unnecessary your express should go forward to the Congress at Massachusetts-Bay. Colonel Hinman is directed to exercise the greatest vigilance that no incursions be made into the Province of Quebeck, to disturb the inhabitants there. It is hoped that the Provincial Congress at New-York will forward the supplies of provisions, and whatever may be thought necessary; and that the people in your Province, who are under the best advantage from their situation, will spare no endeavours that may be beneficial to preserve peace and harmony with the Indians, and prevent their taking part against, but rather that they take part for, the security of the liberties of these Colonies, whereon their own happiness so much depends.

WILLIAM GILLELAND TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Near Crown Point, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As a lover of my liberty and my country, I beg leave to offer you my warmest congratulation on the success of His Majesty's arms, under the prudent and spirited conduct of Colonel Arnold and Mr. Ethan Allen, in reducing the important posts at Ticonderoga and Crown Point, and in seizing the armed sloop on this lake, and all the officers, soldiers, and military stores. These acquisitions I conceive to be highly advantageous to the American cause; and we all ardently hope that you, gentlemen, will order them to be sufficiently supported and defended; for which purpose I imagine that a thousand men (sailors, engineers, and artillery-men, included) should be immediately stationed at Ticonderoga, Crown Point, and Point Auferre, and a sufficient number to man the sloop, the schooner, and the large and small boats now in our possession, and which at present gives us the mastery of the lake. Point Auferre is on the west side of this lake, seven miles south of the Canada line, whereon was built last summer a very strong stone and lime wall house, with strong ball-proof brick, sentry boxes at each corner, commanding every inch of ground about the house, having in them, and in a large dry cellar under the house, forty-four port-holes. This may, at a small expense, be made a very important post, by throwing up a breast-work, or by intrenching round the house, to be defended by a few pieces of cannon, whereby every naval irruption that may be attempted by the enemy, may be greatly obstructed, if not entirely frustrated; and we frontier inhabitants encouraged to remain on our flourishing settlements, without being alarmed at or exposed to the incursions of either the soldiery, the Canadians, or the Indians—the latter two of whom I must say, at present, have all the appearance of being neutrals, if not friends.

I must beg leave to observe to you, that there are now in these parts a very considerable number of men under the command of Mr. Ethan Allen, as brave as Hercules, and as good marksmen as can be found in America, who might prove immediately serviceable to the common cause, were they regularly embodied, and commanded by officers of their own choice, subordinate to whoever has or may be appointed commander-in-chief, or to the instructions of the Grand Congress. These men being excellent wood rangers, and particularly acquainted in the wilderness of Lake Champlain, would, in all likelihood, be more serviceable in these parts than treble their number of others not having these advantages, especially if left under the direction of their present enterprising and heroick commander, Mr. Allen.

I hope, gentlemen, you will pardon the freedom of this address, since it goes to you from one very much interested in the subject, having upwards of fifty families settled under his protection, on the most remote frontier of this Province, some of whom only ten miles south of the Canada line, the first settlement ever made under the British Government on Lake Champlain.

I have the honour to be, with the most profound respect, gentlemen, your most devoted and most obedient servant,
WILLIAM GILLELAND.

To the Hon. the Continental Congress.

New-York, May 29, 1775.

The martial spirit which prevails among the inhabitants of Somerset County, in New-Jersey, truly merits the attention of the publick. We have certain intelligence that they are forming themselves into companies, and daily exercising to become complete masters of the military discipline; and, particularly, that the Township of Bridge-water, in said County, met at Raritan, the 6th instant, and chose Mr. Abraham Ten Eyck Captain, under whose command eighty-five volunteers immediately enlisted, to be in readiness at an hour's warning to march for the assistance of any neighbouring Colony, on any emergency. Their pay and other necessities are provided by said Township. The other Counties and Townships, it is hoped, will follow their example, as it may be necessary to repel force by force, in order to secure our national rights and privileges.

ETHAN ALLEN TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Crown Point, May 29, 1775.

WORTHY GENTLEMEN: An abstract of the minutes of Council from the Continental Congress, signed per Mr. Charles Thomson, Secretary, has just come to hand, and though it approves of the taking the fortresses on Lake Champlain, and the artillery, &c., I am nevertheless much surprised that your Honours should recommend it to us to remove the artillery to the south end of Lake George, and there to make a stand; the consequence of which must ruin the frontier settlements, which are extended at least one hundred miles to the northward from that place. Probably your Honours were not informed of those settlements, which consist of several thousand families, who are seated on that tract of country called the New-Hampshire Grants.

The misfortune and real injury to those inhabitants, by making the south end of Lake George the northernmost point of protection, will more fully appear from the following consideration, namely: It was at the special request and solicitation of the Governments of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay and Connecticut, that those very inhabitants put their lives into the hand of their Governments, and made those valuable acquisitions for the Colonies. By doing it they have incensed Governour Carleton and all the ministerial party in Canada against them; and provided they should, after all their good service in behalf of their Country, be neglected and left exposed, they will be, of all men, the most consummately miserable.

The south promontory of Lake Champlain and Lake George, as to a southern direction, are near the same, and if we should give up the sovereignty of Lake Champlain, we may as well give up the whole. If the King's Troops should be again in possession of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, and command the lake, the Indians and Canadians will be much more inclined to join with them, and make incursions into the heart of our Country. But the Colonies are now in possession and actual command of the lake, having taken the armed sloop from George the Third, which was cruising in the lake, and also seized a schooner belonging to Major Skene, at South-Bay, and have armed and manned them both for the protection of our Country, and the Constitution and civil privileges and liberties thereof.

By a council of war held on board the sloop, the 27th instant, it was agreed to advance to the Point Auferre, with the sloop and schooner, and a number of armed boats well manned, and there make a stand, and act on the defensive, and by all means command the lake and defend the frontiers, and wait for the special directions of the honourable Continental Congress, and govern ourselves accordingly. We are now almost ready to sail to that station, which is about six miles this side of latitude forty-five degrees north. A small force, with the armed vessels, will at present command the lake, and secure the frontiers.

The Canadians, all except the noblesse, and also the Indians, appear at present to be very friendly to us; and it is my humble opinion, that the more vigorous the Colonies push the war against the King's Troops in Canada, the more friends we shall find in that country. Provided I had but five hundred men with me at St. John's, when we took the King's sloop, I would have advanced to Montreal. Nothing strengthens our friends in Canada equal to our prosperity in taking the sovereignty of Lake Champlain; and should the Colonies forthwith send an army of two or three thousand men, and attack Montreal, we should have little to fear from the Canadians or Indians, and would easily make a conquest of that place, and set up the standard of liberty in the extensive Province of Quebeck, whose limit was enlarged purely to subvert the liberties of America. Striking such a blow would intimidate the Tory party in Canada, the same as the commencement of the war at Boston intimidated the Tories in the Colonies. They are a set of gentlemen that will not be converted by reason; but are easily wrought upon by fear.

Advancing an army into Canada will be agreeable to our friends; and it is bad policy to fear the resentment of an enemy. If we lie easy, and in a supine state, and Governour Carleton exerts himself against us vigorously, as we know he will, and who, by a legal Constitution, can oblige our friends to assist him, he will, by slow degrees, discourage our friends, and encourage our enemies, and form those that are at present indifferent, into combinations against us. Therefore, the possible way to circumvent him and the scheme of the Ministry, is to nervously push an army into Canada. But if the wisdom of the Continent in Congress should view the proposed invasion of the King's Troops in Canada as premature or impolitic, nevertheless I humbly conceive, when your Honours come to the knowledge of the before-mentioned facts, you will at least establish some advantageous situation towards the northerly part of Lake Champlain, as a frontier, instead of the south promontory of Lake George.

There are many advantages in forming the frontier near the country of the enemy, as, first: it will be in our power to ravage and make inroads into the heart of the enemy's country, the same as they might easily do, were they in possession and command of Lake Champlain. This advantage will be of the utmost consequence, be it in the hands of which party it will. Though it is now in our hands, to give it up to them would be fatal to the interest of the Colonies, but more particularly to those who were instrumental in the achievement of the supremacy of that lake. But secondly: commanding the northerly part of the lake puts it in our power to work our policy with the Canadians and Indians. We have made considerable proficiency this way already. Sundry tribes have been to visit us, and have returned to their tribes to use their influence in our favour. We have just sent Captain Abraham Nimham, a Stockbridge Indian, as our ambassador of peace to the several tribes of Indians in Canada. He was accompanied with Mr. Winthrop Hoit, who has been a prisoner with the Indians, and understands their tongue. I do not imagine, provided we command Lake Champlain, there will be any need of a war with the Canadians or Indians.

Pray pardon me on account of any impertinency or inaccuracy in this composition, as it is but a rough draught, wrote in great haste, from your Honours' ever faithful, most obedient and humble servant,

ETHAN ALLEN.

To the Continental Congress.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Crown Point, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your resolution of the 18th instant, and recommendation of measures to the City of New-York and Albany, in consequence of the taking possession of Ticonderoga and Crown Point, has this moment been delivered me, as commanding officer here, the purport of which induces me to believe the Committee of Safety of the Massachusetts-Bay have not informed you of my appointment, or instructions from them, which I have taken the liberty to enclose; and, in consequence, arrived in the neighbourhood of Ticonderoga the 9th instant, where I met one Colonel Allen, with about one hundred men, raised at the instance of some gentlemen from Connecticut, who agreed we should take a joint command of the Troops. The next morning, at four o'clock, we surprised the garrison and took them prisoners, the particulars of which you have doubtless heard. Some dispute arising between Colonel Allen and myself, prevented my carrying my orders into execution, until the 16th, when, being joined by fifty men of my own Regiment, and a small schooner taken at Skenesborough, which I immediately armed, and sailed for St. John's, in quest of the sloop. The 17th, being becalmed within ten leagues of St. John's, I manned out two small batteaus, with thirty-five men, and, after rowing all night, at six o'clock next morning landed at St. John's, and took a sergeant and his party of twelve men prisoners, the King's sloop, of seventy tons, mounted with two brass six-pounders, and seven men, and in two hours after left St. John's, having previously taken on board such stores, &c., as were valuable. Providence remarkably smiled on us, as a few hours' delay would have ruined our design, a party of one hundred and twenty men, with six pieces of cannon for the sloop, being on their march from Montreal, at only twenty miles distant; add to this a party of forty men on a march from Chamblée, twelve miles distant. Colonel Allen arrived at St. John's the same evening, with one hundred men, and being attacked the next morning by the Regulars, retreated, and left three men behind, two of which are since arrived.

I have armed the sloop with six carriage and twelve swivel-guns; the schooner with four carriages and eight swivels. I have sent to Lake George one brass twelve-pounder, six large brass and iron mortars and howitzers, and am making all possible preparation for transporting all the cannon here, and as many as can be spared at Ticonderoga, to Fort George.

I must beg leave to observe, gentlemen, that the report of Ticonderoga's being abandoned, have thrown the inhabitants here into the greatest consternation. There are about five hundred families to the northward of Ticonderoga, who, if it is evacuated, will be left at the mercy of the King's Troops and Indians, and who have, part of them, joined the Army, and cannot now remain neuter, to whom a remove would be entire ruin, as they have large families and no dependance but a promising crop on the ground. I need not add to this, gentlemen, that Ticonderoga is the key of this extensive country, and if abandoned, leaves a very extensive frontier open to the ravages of the enemy, and to continual alarms, which will probably cost more than the expense of repairing and garrisoning it.

I esteemed it my duty, as a servant of the publick, to give you the foregoing hints, and hope the exigence of the times will be a sufficient apology for the liberty I have taken.

I have the honour to be, very respectfully, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD, Colonel, &c.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Crown Point, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I was equally surprised and alarmed this day, on receiving advice, via Albany, that the Continental Congress had recommended the removing all the cannon, stores, &c., at Ticonderoga, to Fort George, and evacuating Ticonderoga entirely, which being the only key of this country, leaves our very extensive frontiers open to the ravages of the enemy; and if put into execution, will be the entire ruin of five hundred families to the northward of Ticonderoga. I have wrote the Congress, and given my sentiments very freely, with your instructions to me, as I fancy they have had no intelligence of my appointment or orders.

Colonel Allen has entirely given up the command. I have one hundred and fifty men here, and expect in two or three weeks to have my Regiment complete, and believe they will be joined by a thousand men from Connecticut and New-York. I have sent to Lake George six large brass and iron mortars and howitzers, one brass and three iron twelve-pounders, and shall pursue your orders with all the despatch in my power. I am, gentlemen, with great respect, your most obedient humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May 29, 1775. }

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: Yesterday, about three of the clock, P. M., this Congress received your Honour's most kind and friendly letter of the 25th instant, enclosing a resolution of the General Congress, of the 18th instant, relating to Ticonderoga, the order of the General Committee of Association of New-York, for executing the said resolution, and the letter from the Connecticut Delegates at New-York; each of which contain articles of intelligence very important and interesting to all the New-England Governments. But while we are consoled and rejoiced to find that the General Congress is attentive to the safety and general interests of the Colonies, we cannot conceal from the General Assembly of your Colony, that we should be to the last degree agitated, if we really supposed that the said resolution of the General Congress, touching Ticonderoga and said posts on Lake Champlain, was their ultimatum, and that they would not reconsider that resolution. But as we cannot suffer ourselves to doubt of their best intentions and great concern for the liberty and safety of all the Colonies, we assure ourselves, that upon better information, and knowledge more just, they will be fully convinced of the great impolicy of abandoning Lake Champlain, which we conceive they have in effect advised to, although we confess their expressions are not the clearest. But we are confirmed in our construction of the said resolution, by the order taken by the General Committee of New-York to execute the same.

May it please your Honour, permit us to acquaint you, that as soon as possible after we had received advice of the success of our people at Crown Point and St. John's, and the taking of the armed sloop on that lake, by Col. Arnold's letter, a copy whereof we have sent you by Col. Henshaw, we sent an express to New-York and to the General Congress, signifying to the General Congress and to the Congress of New-York, in the strongest manner, our opinion of the absolute necessity and great advantages of maintaining the post of Ticonderoga. But as we conceived the reasons and grounds of such an opinion were obvious and generally known, we supposed that a detail of the arguments and proofs was altogether unnecessary. But upon seeing the resolution of the General Congress upon that important matter, we were much surprised and concerned; and in the little time we have had to deliberate on the subject, we have resolved to endeavour to suggest to your Honour and your Assembly the reasons which at present occur to us, which we apprehend make it evident that the maintaining that post is not only practicable, and, under God, in the power of the Colonies, but of inexpressible necessity, for the defence of the Colony of New-York, and all the New-England Colonies; and having enumerated those reasons as they occur, without consulting method or any orderly arrangement, to submit them to your Assembly, most importunately praying you, if your Honours approve them, that you will, with the greatest despatch, communicate them, with many more observations which your better knowledge of facts will suggest, to the General Congress; and, if you should judge it advisable, also to the Congress of New-York; conceiving that, in several respects, they would go from you with more advantage, not only to New-York, but also to the General Congress, than from us. It seems natural to compare the two stations proposed to be maintained, viz: Ticonderoga and William Henry, in the following manner, that is to say, with regard to the benefits and advantages of the two stations which will arise for the purposes of general defence and annoyance of the common enemy, and with regard to the feasibility of maintaining each place.

And, in the first place, as to the advantages of general defence resulting from a post at Ticonderoga, beyond those of William Henry; they are so great and many, that they cannot be enumerated in an ordinary letter. In the view of a post of observation, we beg leave to observe, that all movements from Canada, intended against New-England or New-York, by the way of Lake Champlain, whether by scalping parties or large bodies, whether in the winter or open seasons of the year, may almost certainly be discovered so seasonably as that the blow may be generally ward off; whereas, if the post at William Henry be only kept, it is probable that three-fourths of the attempts on the frontiers of New-York and New-England, by Champlain, will never be known until executed. As to enterprises by any large body by the way of Champlain, it is clear that they may be known much earlier from the former than the latter station; also, if it should become necessary and just that the United Colonies should annoy the inhabitants of Canada, and cause them to feel the grievousness of war on their borders, (as it most certainly will, in case they engage in the war upon us,) the two stations scarcely bear any comparison; for if we abandon the post at Ticonderoga, the enemy will infallibly seize it; and, in that case, what annoyance can we give Canada by the way of Champlain, by means of a fortified post at William Henry? If the enemy hold Ticonderoga, they will effectually command the whole of Lake Champlain. If the United Colonies hold it, they will so far command that lake, as, by the way of it, they will be able to make descents by small parties upon great part of the country of Canada, and infinitely distress them; but from William Henry none can be made without vast difficulty and risk. As to the advantages of subsisting and defending a garrison, and maintaining a post against the efforts of Canada, either at Ticonderoga or Fort William Henry, we conceive that they are much in favour of the former; for as to supplies of victuals for either a garrison or an army stationed at one place or the other, we conceive that, on the whole, they may be more easily and certainly afforded to Ticonderoga than William Henry. We suppose that what should be sent from posts on the westerly side of Hudson's River, may almost as easily be transported to Ticonderoga as to William Henry; and as to such supplies as would go from posts eastward of Hudson's River, they may be conveyed to the former place with much more facility than the latter. And as to the speed and certainty of marching succours for the relief of a garrison at one place or the other, in case of an attack, we suppose the advantages of Ticonderoga are vastly supe-riour to those of William Henry; for we cannot forbear observing, that our brethren of New-York Government, settled on the westerly side of Hudson's River, have been always rather slow in warlike efforts; and if the succours must go from Connecticut, Massachusetts, New-Hampshire, or the northeasterly parts of New-York Governments, they may be mustered and marched much sooner to the former station than the latter. We have no doubt but, on a pressing emergency, a large body of men might be marched from the middle of the County of Hampshire to Ticonderoga in six days; but to gentlemen so well acquainted with the geography of the two places, we need not dwell on this part of the argument; and, in short, we have no idea of maintaining the one or the other of the two posts in time of war with Canada, but either by constantly keeping an army on the spot, or making a fort of sufficient strength for a garrison to hold out against an attack until an army could be marched from New-York or New-England, sufficient to raise the siege; the latter method we suppose most politick, and quite practicable with regard to Ticonderoga. But at the same time we beg leave just to hint, that a fortified station, on the easterly side of South-Bay, or Lake Champlain, opposite to Ticonderoga or Crown Point, or still farther on, affords great advantages for the maintaining of Ticonderoga, and defending the settlements on the easterly side of Lake Champlain; and there is artillery enough to spare to other places; and if we abandon the land between the Lakes George and Champlain, we shall give the enemy an opportunity to build at or near the points; and by that means we shall lose the whole of Lake Champlain, and the shipping we now have on that lake, by which we can command the whole of it, and keep the enemy at a distance of a hundred miles from our English settlements, near Otter Creek, &c.; but if that fortress should be maintained, we shall have those very settlements, with some aids from the old settlements, to support it, which will not be half the charge that it would be to maintain a sufficient number of soldiers so far from their homes. We have there about four or five hundred hardy men, with many families, who, if those grounds should be abandoned, will be driven from their settlements, and leave the Massachusetts and New-Hampshire people naked, without any barrier, and exposed to the Canadians and savages, who will have a place of retreat at the point, as they had almost the whole of the last war. By abandoning this ground, we give up an acquisition which cost immense sums of money, the loss of many lives, and five campaigns.

As to the expense of maintaining a fortress at Ticonderoga, this Colony will not fail to exert themselves to the utmost of their power.

We are under the greatest obligations to your Honour and the General Assembly, for the intelligence you have given us; and you may depend we shall not fail of conveying to you all important intelligence with the greatest despatch. The interpositions of Divine Providence, in favour of America, are very obvious, which demands our utmost thankfulness. Enclosed is a brief narrative of some of them. We are, &c.

THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May 29, 1775. }

"Resolved, That the following Letter be immediately sent to the Provincial Congress of New-Hampshire."

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed are copies of Governour Trumbull's letter to this Congress, enclosing a resolution of the Continental Congress, respecting the fortresses at Ticonderoga, Crown Point, &c., and the resolution of the General Committee of Association of New-York thereon, and a letter from the Connecticut Delegates, from New-York, to their Assembly.

The measure taken by the Continental Congress, if carried into execution; will, in our humble opinion, affect those Colonies east of Hudson River, in the highest degree. By that you will see that all the lands and waters between the south end of Lake George and Crown Point, together with all Lake Champlain, will be left open for Canadians and savages, if they should be so disposed, to ravage all that country east, and distress all our new settlements.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

We have addressed the Continental Congress upon the necessity of keeping a fortress at or near Ticonderoga, and have also most pressing desired the Colony of Connecticut to exert themselves to effect the maintaining such a fortress. We have also written to New-York upon the matter.

We now lay the same advice before you, that you may have opportunity to take such measures as you shall think proper. As your Colony is so deeply affected, you will, from a concern for that, and a general regard for the common safety, which you have at all times appeared to have, we trust, take the matter up, and, by decent and respectful addresses to the Continental Congress, endeavour to prevail with them to alter a measure so dangerous in its effects.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient and very humble servants,
Jos. WARREN, Pres't pro tem.

COMMITTEE OF SANDWICH TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Sandwich, May 29, 1775.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: In consequence of complaint made to the Committee of Correspondence of the Town of Sandwich, by Messrs. Simeon Wing and Jesse Barlow, we have thought it advisable to represent to your Honours the circumstances of their vessels being taken by Captain Linsey, of the Falcon, and retaken by a schooner from Dartmouth, under command of Captain Egery, and to beg some advice and order of the Congress may be passed concerning it. Mr. Wing's vessel, commanded by his son Thomas, has been plied as a wood boat to carry wood to Nantucket from Sandwich, for some years past, and it hath been the usual practice for them to settle with the Custom-House once a year, the officer of which always gave them their choice of paying twelve pence per trip, or the whole at the year's end: and this hath been, we find on examination, the common practice with other vessels that have followed the same business at the same place. Upon Captain Wing's returning from Nantucket, through the Vineyard Sound, the sloop was taken by a barge from said Captain Linsey's brig; an Indian fellow on board of Wing's vessel informed Captain Lindsey of said Barlow's vessel, which had run a cargo lately from the West-Indies, and was laden with provisions in Buzzard's Bay. Captain Linsey took possession of Captain Wing's vessel, putting fourteen men on board, to proceed up the bay and take Jesse Barlow's vessel, which they carried off. The master of this latter vessel was taken with Wing, being then on board as a passenger; so that both vessels, with all the crews, passengers, &c., were captured, and proceeded to the cove to Captain Linsey. Mr. Barlow made application to some people at Dartmouth, who went with a sloop, one half of which Barlow ventured, and retook both said vessels and men, with their arms, &c., and carried them into Dartmouth. Messrs. Wing and Barlow applied to the Dartmouth people, who took the vessels from them again. The people offered them their vessels upon Wing's paying them eight dollars and Barlow's paying ten dollars, with which they complied, and Wing paid the money; after which the Dartmouth people detained the vessels till the order of Congress could be known, and now refuse to deliver up the said vessels without Wing and Barlow's paying forty-five dollars, and giving bonds of a very extraordinary nature, to indemnify said Dartmouth people, &c. These are a true state of facts, as nearly as we, after examination of said Wing and Barlow, can ascertain; and the said Wing and Barlow, thinking they ought to have their vessels again without further difficulty, desire the Committee of Correspondence of this Town to lay the matter before you, and pray your orders, to which they profess their readiness to submit and acquiesce in.

We are your Honours' very humble servants, the Committee of Sandwich.

NATHANIEL FREEMAN, per order.

In Congress, Watertown, July 1, 1775.

The Committee appointed to take the Remonstrance from the Committee of Correspondence of the Town of Sandwich into consideration, have considered the same, and report as follows, viz:

That the people of the Town of Dartmouth, mentioned in said Remonstrance, who withhold said vessels from said Wing and Barlow, be notified to appear the second Tuesday of the next meeting of the House of Representatives, in Watertown, to give their reasons why they withhold the same, and that they be served with a copy of this Remonstrance, and that Wing and Barlow be notified to attend at the same time and place; which is humbly submitted.

Per order,

EZRA RICHMOND.

TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY FOR MASSACHUSETTS.

Salem, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Stephen Higginson, of this Town, arrived here yesterday from London. The answers he gave on his examination before the House of Commons, and which were some time since printed in the newspapers, have given umbrage to some persons in this place, (and we hear in Marblehead also,) who imagine those answers to be highly injurious to the Province, and given with an intention to distress it. He this day appeared before the Committee of Safety of this Town, and, upon exhibition of the facts, the Committee, to a man, were perfectly satisfied of his innocence and good intention relative to the matter complained of; but that every one might be made easy, as the Town were to meet this day, it was judged best to publish the whole to the inhabitants when assembled, which was done accordingly to a full meeting, and the Town thereupon expressed their satisfaction by a vote, from which only three or four dissented, but many did not vote at all; and since the meeting was dissolved we find that several remain dissatisfied, and desire the matter may be inquired into by the Provincial Committee of Safety; we have, therefore, advised Mr. Higginson to wait on you, that your decision may quiet the minds of the people here and through the Country. We have stated the facts above-mentioned as a necessary apology for troubling you about a matter so extremely obvious.

We are, gentlemen, your most humble servants,

RICH. DERBY, Chm'n Com. of Safety.

TIM. PICKERING, JUN., Town Clerk.

To the Provincial Committee of Safety.

COLONEL STARK TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Medford, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Yours of the 26th instant I have received, and note the contents; and as to the fire-arms for the use of the Regiment under my command, the greatest part of those who were destitute when I wrote to you, are since furnished, and I am informed by the officers of the several Companies, that the remainder will be equipped very shortly; so I flatter myself that this difficulty (as to my Regiment) will be soon surmounted. Yet, as to the manner of procuring them, whether by the respective Towns to which they belong, or by individuals, I cannot at present inform you, as no account has yet come to hand. But I would still beg leave to entreat you to take some further notice of the Army. And, in the first place, consider that a great part of the Regiment or Army here, are destitute of blankets, and cannot be supplied by their Towns, and are very much exposed; some of whom, for the want thereof, are much indisposed, and thereby rendered unfit for duty. Secondly, that we are in very great want of money, and that neither officers nor soldiers can subsist much longer, without some, by any means. And this I am well assured of, (from daily complaints which are made to me,) that unless you, by some means, advance some money to the Army directly, (as there is no room in my mind to doubt that there is a very considerable sum in the Province belonging thereto,) they will certainly return, for they cannot nor will not continue. I would also recommend to your consideration the necessity of a sutler or sutlers for the benefit of the Army; and if it should be thought necessary that there should be such, and if one cannot be found in that Province who will undertake to supply the Army upon reasonable terms, I know of a gentleman in this Province that would gladly embrace the opportunity, if applied to. I would likewise be glad there might be a chest of medicine procured for the Regiment, and forwarded, as it is wanted very much, and also armourer's tools.

According to your request, I have transmitted to the Committee of Safety a regimental return of the men who have enlisted under me into the service of the Province of New-Hampshire, and who expect to be paid therefrom.

Your compliance with the above will greatly oblige your's in the common cause,

JOHN STARK.

COMMITTEE OF PORTSMOUTH, N. H., TO THE COMMITTEE OF NEWBURYPORT.

Portsmouth, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We had two provision vessels seized at the mouth of our harbour the last night, by the Scarborough, and upon application to Captain Barclay for their release, find he has positive orders from the Admiral to take possession of all vessels laden with provisions, salt, or molasses, and send them to Boston, and says further, those orders are circular through the Continent.

We give this earliest intelligence for your government, and also inform you that the Canceaux, a small ship, of six or eight guns, sails the first wind, to convoy the two vessels already seized to Boston, and are sorry to find ourselves unable to prevent it, as we have our harbour blocked up by a twenty-gun ship, and have no vessel of force able to retake them. One reason of our mentioning this circumstance, and sending an express this night with it, is, because we have just heard that you have an armed vessel in your port. We have ordered two small vessels to cruise off and on, and, if possible, give this intelligence to all vessels bound to this or any other port, and trust you will do the same. Your most obedient servants. By order of the Committee:

H. WENTWORTH, Chairman.

To the Committee of Correspondence of Newburyport.

Newburyport, May 30, 1775.

This letter was received this morning by the Committee of this Town; and as the Admiral's orders, herein mentioned, may affect every part of the Continent, we think it our duty to send it forward to the Committee of Safety for the Province, or to the Congress.

B. GREENLEAF, per order.

To the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts.

Portsmouth, N. H., May 30, 1775.

This day about thirty or forty men from on board the Scarborough, man-of-war, now in this harbour, came on shore at Fort William and Mary, and tore down great part of the breast-work of said fort, and did other damage.

The day before this attempt, the Scarborough took two provision vessels, loaded with corn, pork, flour, rye, &c., coming in from Long-Island, which were for the relief of this place, as the inhabitants are in great want of provisions; and notwithstanding the most prudent application of the principal gentlemen of this Town, the Captain refused to release them. O shocking situation.

Upon this refusal it was apprehended the most violent outrages and tumults of the people would immediately follow this detention of their provisions, the consequences of which would be, most probably, very fatal to His Majesty's subjects, by bringing into the most imminent danger the lives and properties of his said subjects, which ought by all means to be prevented, if possible.

Upon this unwarrantable transaction, the inhabitants of this and the neighbouring Towns were greatly alarmed, and, next morning, between five and six hundred men, in arms, went down to the battery, called Jerry's Point, and brought off eight cannon, twenty-four and thirty-two pounders, being the whole that were there, weighing four thousand eight hundred pounds each, and brought them up to this Town. While they were taking off the above cannon, the Canceaux, with a tender, set sail with the two provision vessels for Boston. The next day the Town was full of men from the country, in arms.

This uncommon exertion of arbitrary power immediately alarmed the inhabitants, and the Committee of Safety having met, a memorial was, by their approbation, presented to the Governour and Council, who took every prudent method in their power to pacify the people, and to obtain a release of the captures. His Excellency repaired on board the Scarborough, and informed the Captain that the provisions were the property of some of the inhabitants, who had before contracted for the same; but the only answer he could obtain was, "that Admiral Graves and the General had forwarded orders to take every provision vessel that should be met with, on every station, and to send them forthwith to Boston for the supply of the Army and Navy." Captain Barclay, the commander of the Scarborough, informed two of the Committee at Fort William and Mary, that his orders were such that he must even take all vessels with salt or molasses, they being a species of provision, and send them to Boston.

TO GENERAL GAGE.

SIR: If you are not too busy in granting passes to the people of Boston, and in protecting the remains of your Army, I beg the favour of addressing you once more. You have lately risen above contempt. You have commenced hostilities between Great Britain and America, in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay. The heinousness and consequences of this crime would have raised even a sentinel into importance, and will serve, in spite of the natural insignificance of your character, to "damn" even General Gage "to everlasting fame."

Your attempt to prove that the Militia of Massachusetts fired first in the late engagement at Lexington, if successful, would add nothing to your cause. You acknowledge that you sent your Troops out of Boston to destroy a magazine of provisions and military stores at Concord. The invasion of property, among all Nations, is justly deemed a declaration of war. But, Sir, however contrary to your intention, your account of the matter has served to entail double infamy upon the memories of those ministerial Troops that fell in the battle, for it proves that they suffered not only as murderers, but as thieves. Publick justice quickened its steps, and their punishment trod upon the heels of their crimes. We congratulate ourselves upon the history which you have sent of that transaction to the Ministry. It will certainly add weight to the depositions transmitted by the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts-Bay; for even treachery itself, when it reads your account of the battle, will be forced to acknowledge that it was begun by your Troops, and that the ravages they committed flowed less from provocations than from the natural barbarity of their dispositions.

The reign of George the Third seems intended by Providence to establish the belief of the most miraculous parts of the Scriptures. It requires less faith to believe the miracle of Joshua, than that freemen will not fight in defence of their liberty. It requires less faith to believe that an Egyptian Army perished in the Red Sea, in pursuit of a people who had brought the greatest calamities upon their Country, than to believe that a few Regiments of English soldiers, three thousand miles from resources of all kinds, can subdue a Continent eighteen hundred in extent, crowded with inhabitants, all united to each other by the closest ties of interest and affection. You, too, Sir, have contributed your share towards confirming a historical fact in the Bible. We cease now to wonder that the soldiers who guarded our Saviour's sepulchre, swore that his disciples stole his body away while they slept. Your conduct shows that there is nothing repugnant to the folly of human nature in this story. Your letter to Governour Trumbull is a commentary upon that passage of Scripture, and serves to prove that soldiers are actuated by the same principles in all arbitrary Governments, and that their abilities do not equal their inclinations in contriving falsehoods.

Where now is the martial spirit of your Army? Where are those dogs of war who panted so eagerly for the blood of their countrymen? Alas! how are the mighty fallen! No wonder they trembled and fled at the sight of a few Companies of American Militia; for English courage can dwell only in the society of justice and humanity. The genius of Britain deserted her sons when she beheld them fighting under the banners of slavery. No successes against America can ever wipe away the stain they have brought upon the British arms; for should the Colonies at last be reduced, I will venture to predict that three hundred half disciplined British Troops will never chase two thousand well disciplined Americans twenty miles in six hours.

History is unfurnished with a character like yours. You are cruel without inhumanity, unjust without avarice, and artful without design. For Heaven's sake let experience teach you wisdom, and lead you to truth. Let not your talent for dissimulation prove your ruin. You have exercised it hitherto in such a manner as to serve none but your enemies, and injure none but your friends. One candid acknowledgment of the strength and union of the Colonies, and of the weakness of your Troops, in your letters to the Ministry, will immediately restore peace and union to Britain and the Colonies.

JUNIUS AMERICANUS.

MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

April 5, 1775.

At a meeting of the Committee of Safety, at the house of Mr. Taylor, of Concord, on Wednesday, the 5th of April, 1775. Present:

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLIES.—Colonel Lee, Mr. Gill, Mr. Cheever, Mr. Gerry, Colonel Lincoln.

Voted unanimously, That application be made to Captain Hatch, for captain of the Artillery Company for Boston; and if he refuses, to offer it to Mr. Crafts, and so on in order, as they stand in the Company. Also that Capt. Robinson, of Dorchester, be applied to as captain of the Company of Dorchester; and that Mr. Newall, of Charlestown, be applied to; that the Captain for the Marblehead Company be not appointed until the Members for Marblehead make inquiry and report. That Capt. Timothy Bigelow be applied to as captain of the Worcester Company, and that Mr. Thomas Wait Foster, of Hadley, be applied to as captain of the Company at Hadley.

Voted, That the two Four-Pounders now at Concord be mounted by the Committee of Supplies; and that Colonel Barrett be desired to raise an Artillery Company, to join the Army when raised, they to have no pay until they join the Army; and also that an Instructor, for the use of the cannon, be appointed, and to be put directly in pay.

Voted unanimously, That six Pounds, lawful money, per month, be for Captain's pay in the Artillery Companies; that the First and Second Lieutenants have four Pounds; the Lieutenant of fire-works to have three Pounds five Shillings; the Sergeants to have forty-two Shillings per month; the Corporals thirty-eight Shillings per month; the common men thirty-six Shillings per month; the Drummers and Fifers thirty-eight Shillings per month; also, that four Shillings per week be allowed for their board.

Voted, That when these Committees adjourn, it be to Mr. Wetherby's, at the Black-Horse, Menotomy, on Wednesday, ten o'clock.

Voted, That the four Six-Pounders be transported to Groton, and put under the care of Colonel Prescott.

Voted, That two seven-inch Brass Mortars be transported to Acton.

Voted, That the two Committees adjourn to Mr. Wetherby's, at Menotomy, ten o'clock.

April 18, 1775.

At a meeting of the Committees of Safety and Supplies, at Mr. Wetherby's, in Menotomy, on Tuesday, the 18th of April, 1775. Present:

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.—Colonel Orne, Colonel Palmer, Colonel Heath, Colonel Gardner, Mr. Devens, Mr. Watson, Captain White, J. Pigeon.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLIES.—David Cheever, Esq., Mr. Gerry, Colonel Lee, Colonel Lincoln.

Voted, That the two brass Two-Pounders, and two brass Three-Pounders, be under the care of the Boston Company of Artillery and Captain Robinson.

Newton, April 17, 1775.

Captain Timothy Bigelow:

SIR: The Committee desired me to write you, to desire the favour of your company next Wednesday, the nineteenth instant, at Mr. Wetherby's, at the Black-Horse, in Menotomy, on business of great importance.

Sir, your most humble servant, J. PIGEON, Clerk.

P. S. The Committee meets at ten o'clock.

Voted, That all the Ammunition be deposited in nine different Towns in this Province: that Worcester be one of them; that Lancaster be one, (N. B. Colonel Whitcomb is there;) that Concord be another; that Groton be another; that Stoughtonham be another; that Stow be another; that Mendon be another; that Leicester be another; that Sudbury be the other.

Voted, That part of the Provisions be removed from Concord, viz: Fifty barrels beef from thence to Sudbury, with Deacon Plympton; one hundred barrels flour to ditto, of which what is in the malt-house, in Concord, be part; twenty casks rice to ditto; fifteen hogsheads molasses to ditto; ten hogsheads rum to ditto; five hundred pounds candles to ditto.

Voted, That there be by the Committee of Supplies provided, six Ammunition Carts, one to be in each Town where a Company of Matrosses is fixed.

Voted, That one Company of Matrosses be stationed at Worcester; one ditto at Concord; one ditto at Stoughtonham; one ditto at Stoughton; one ditto at Stow; one ditto at Lancaster.

Voted, That thirty-three rounds of Round-Shot, thirty-three rounds of Grape-Shot, and thirty-three Canisters of Lamage, be provided and lodged with each of the twelve field-pieces belonging to the Province, together with one hundred Cartridges of Powder, one hundred and sixteen Tubes, one hundred Wads, together with all necessary materials.

Voted, That one ton of Grape-Shot be carried from Stoughtonham to Sudbury.

Voted, That one ton of Three-Pound Cannon Balls be carried from ditto to ditto.

Voted, That one half the Two-Pound Cannon Ball, now at Stoughtonham, exclusive of what is for the use of the Matrosses, be carried to Sudbury.

Voted, That the vote of the fourteenth instant, relating to the Powder being removed from Leicester to Concord, be reconsidered, and that the Clerk be directed to write to Colonel Barrett accordingly, and to desire he would not proceed in making it up into cartridges.

Voted, That one half the Musket-Cartridges be removed from Stow to Groton.

Voted, That the Musket-Balls, under the care of Col. Barrett, be buried under ground, in some safe place; that he be desired to do it, and let the Commissary only be informed thereof.

Voted, That the Spades, Pick-Axes, Bill-Hooks, Shovels, Axes, Hatchets, Crows, and Wheelbarrows, now at Concord, be divided, and one third remain in Concord, one third at Sudbury, and one third at Stow.

Voted, That five hundred Iron Pots be deposited at Sudbury, five hundred at Concord, and one thousand at Worcester.

Voted, That the two thousand Wooden Bowls be deposited as the pots and the spoons, in same manner.

Voted, That the fifteen thousand Canteens be deposited as the above.

Voted, That the Weights and Measures be put into the Commissary's hands.

Voted, That two Medicinal Chests still remain at Concord, at two different parts of the Town; three of said chests at Sudbury, in different parts of the Town; six ditto at Groton, Mendon, and Stow, two in each Town, and in different parts; two ditto in Worcester, one in each part of the Town; and two ditto at Lancaster; that sixteen hundred yards of Russia Linen be deposited in seven parts, with the Doctors' chests; that the eleven hundred Tents be deposited in equal parts in Worcester, Lancaster, Groton, Stow, Mendon, Leicester, and Sudbury.

Voted, That these Committees adjourn to nine o'clock instead of ten.

Voted, That the Papers belonging to the Committees be lodged with Mr. Abraham Watson.

Newton, April 19, 1775.

Colonel Barrett:

SIR: The Committee have directed me to inform you, that the cannon-powder which last Saturday you were desired to have removed from Leicester, one load at a time, and to make up into cartridges, they would not have you send for, unless you have already; but, if sent for, take care of it; but don't make it into cartridges.

I am, Sir, your humble servant, J. PIGEON, Clerk.

April 21, 1775.

At a meeting of the Committee of Safety, April 21st, 1775, the following form of Enlistment was adopted:

"I, A. B., do hereby solemnly engage and enlist myself as a Soldier in the Massachusetts service, from the day of my enlistment to the last day of December next, unless the service should admit of a discharge of a part or the whole sooner, which shall be at the discretion of the Committee of Safety; and I hereby promise to submit myself to all the orders and regulations of the Army, and faithfully to observe and obey all such orders as I shall receive from any superiour officer."

Resolved, That there be immediately enlisted, out of the Massachusetts Forces, eight thousand effective men, to be formed into Companies, to consist of a Captain, one Lieutenant, one Ensign, four Sergeants, one Fifer, one Drummer, and seventy rank and file; nine Companies to form a Regiment, to be commanded by a Colonel, Lieut. Colonel, and Major; each Regiment to be composed of men suitable for the service, which shall be determined by a Muster-Master or Muster-Masters, to be appointed for that purpose. Said officers and men to continue in the service of the Province for the space of seven months from the time of enlistment, unless the safety of the Province will admit of their being discharged sooner; the Army to be under proper rules and regulations.

Voted, That the Field-Pieces be removed from Newburyport, and deposited, for the present, into the hands of Captain Dexter, of Malden.

Voted, That a Courier be immediately despatched to Stoughton, to require the immediate attendance of Colonel Richard Gridley, and his son Scarborough Gridley, upon this Committee.

Voted, That a Courier be sent to command the attendance of David Mason, now upon furlough at Salem.

Voted, That Mr. Mason be ordered to provide one Field-Piece with every implement necessary for action, and proceed forthwith to provide for the remainder, till the whole are in a thorough state of preparation, unless otherwise ordered; the Cannon to be provided for are eight three-pounders and three six-pounders.

Voted, That orders be given to Captain Dexter to conceal the Cannon committed to his care.

Which was accordingly done.

Voted, The Resolve above written be so far reconsidered, as that the Companies, rank and file, consist of fifty men each, and that no further obligation be required of those Companies who are adjudged to be firmly enlisted by their respective officers.

Voted, That an establishment be proposed for the Troops at an early day after the meeting of Congress.

Ordered, That Mr. Pigeon, the Commissary-General, be directed to carry thirty-five barrels of Pork, and half a barrel of hog's fat, from the Town of Salem to the Town of Cambridge, by virtue of an order from Mr. William Bond.

Voted, That the General Officers be forthwith desired to make a return of such Officers and Soldiers as are already under sufficient engagements to serve in the Massachusetts Army.

Voted, That the General Officers be desired, with all possible speed, to give in a list of such Officers as they shall judge duly qualified to serve as Colonels, Lieutenant-Colonels, and Majors, for such a number of Regiments as shall, with the officers and soldiers already engaged, make up an army of eight thousand men.

Voted, That Major Bigelow be applied to, to furnish a Map and Horse to attend the Surgeons, and convey Medicines agreeable to their direction.

April 22, 1775.

Voted, That the Commissary-General be directed to have the Stores belonging to the Colony removed from all the sea-port Towns with all possible speed.

Voted, That Captain Foster be ordered to take the care of the Cannon and Intrenching Tools at Mr. Richardson's Tavern.

Voted, That the Commissary-General be directed to inspect the Intrenching Tools, and if any are out of order, to see them, with all possible speed, repaired.

April 24, 1775.

Resolved, That General Ward be desired immediately to direct all the Field-Officers of the Regiments of Minute-Men, now in Cambridge, to attend the Committee of Safety at their chamber, at Mr. Steward Hastings's house.

Resolved, That the inhabitants of Chelsea and Malden be, and hereby are absolutely forbidden to fire upon, or otherwise injure any Seamen belonging to the Navy, under the command of Admiral Graves, unless fired upon by them, until the said inhabitants of Chelsea and Malden receive orders from this Committee, or the General of the Provincial Forces, to do so.

April 25, 1775.

Resolved, That the three Cannon now at Marlborough, be brought to the Town of Waltham, and mounted on the carriages prepared for them, till further orders.

Resolved, That Colonel Freeman, of Sandwich, be directed to take such a number of Men as may be sufficient for the purpose, and secure the Whale and such other Boats at Cape Cod, as may be of use to this Colony.

Resolved, That Colonel Paul Dudley Sergeant, of New-Hampshire, be desired forthwith to recommend ten persons belonging to the Colony of New-Hampshire, to receive beating orders for the enlistment of persons belonging to said Colony, until they are discharged by this Committee, or taken into the service of the Colony of New-Hampshire.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Provincial Congress to reduce the Regiments so far as that the Companies consist of fifty-nine men, including officers, and also that they allow only two Lieutenants to a Company.

Resolved, That be ordered, with the Troop of Horse, under his command, to proceed forward as an escort to the honourable Members of the Continental Congress, on their way to Philadelphia, until they are met by an escort from the Colony of Connecticut.

April 26, 1775.

Voted, That an Express be sent off to General Preble, at Falmouth, desiring his attendance at Cambridge, as a general officer, or in his private capacity.

Ordered, That fifteen of the Prisoners at Concord be removed from thence to Worcester Jail immediately.

Upon a motion made, Voted, That the Secretary of this Committee be directed and empowered to sign any Papers or writings in behalf of this Committee.

Voted, That Mr. Ephraim Jones, Jail-keeper of Worcester, be directed to receive fifteen Prisoners from the Jail in Concord.

Voted, That this Committee recommend it to the Provincial Congress, that they make an establishment for such a number of Armourers as they may judge necessary for the Forces belonging to this Colony.

Resolved, That as many men as are not already enlisted, and incline to remain in the Army, immediately enlist, in order that it may be ascertained what number may be still necessary to be raised in each Town to complete the complement of Troops for this Colony, and to forward to each Town their remaining quota; and the men that may now enlist may be assured, that they shall have liberty to be under the command of such officer as may be appointed by the Committee of Safety, until the particular Regiment and Companies are completed; and the utmost care will be taken to make every soldier happy in being under good officers.

On the twenty-fourth of April it was resolved that the inhabitants of Chelsea and Malden be, and hereby are absolutely forbidden to fire upon or otherwise injure any Seamen belonging to the Navy, under the command of Admiral Graves, unless fired upon by them, until the said inhabitants of Chelsea and Malden receive orders from this Committee, or the General of the Provincial Forces, so to do:

Resolved, That the Resolve of the twenty-fourth instant, respecting the inhabitants of Chelsea and Malden, be reconsidered, and ordered that it be immediately remanded; also,

Resolved, That the inhabitants of Chelsea and Malden be hereby desired to put themselves in the best state of defence, and exert the same in such manner, as, under their circumstances, their judgments may direct.

The following Warrant, for supplying an Express on the Colony service, was issued:

"To all Innkeepers, Taverners, and other persons whom it may concern:

"You are desired to furnish the bearer, Mr. John Gill, with all necessaries upon his journey to, and return from Rhode-Island, as also with horses, if necessary, and to exhibit your accounts to the Committee of Safety for this Colony, he being an Express in the Colony service."

The following Certificate was given to Doctor Bond:

"In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, }
"April 26, 1775. }

"Doctor Nathaniel Bond, of Marblehead, having been charged before this Committee with having acted an unfriendly part to this Colony, the said Committee appointed Joseph Warren, Esq., Colonel Thos. Gardner, and Lieut. Colonel Joseph Palmer, as a Court of Inquiry, to examine witnesses in the case, and hear and determine the same; and upon full inquiry into the case, they are clearly of opinion that said Bond's general behaviour has been friendly to American liberty; and though he may have discovered an imprudent degree of warmth in some instances, yet we do not find any proof of an inimical temper or disposition to this Country, and therefore recommend him to the esteem and friendship of his Country, that (as the error which occasioned his being brought before this Committee appears to have been altogether involuntary, and was such as several of our most firm friends were led into, by false rumours spread, of the transactions of the nineteenth instant) no impositions to the Doctor's disadvantage may remain on the minds of any person whatsoever.

"JOSEPH WARREN, Chairman."

April 27, 1775.

Resolved, That Captain Derby be directed, and he hereby is directed, to make for Dublin, or any good port in Ireland, and from thence to cross to Scotland or England, and hasten to London. This direction is, that so he may escape all cruisers that may be in the chops of the Channel to stop the communicating of the Provincial intelligence to the Agent.

Voted, That it is the sense of this Committee that it would promote the service, if two Majors be appointed to each of the general officers' Regiments, and that it be recommended accordingly to the Provincial Congress.

A Letter, dated twenty-sixth instant, was sent to the Colony of Rhode-Island; and another, of the same tenour, was sent to the Colony of Connecticut.

Ordered, That Colonel John Glover take such effectual methods for the prevention of intelligence being carried on board the Lively, ship-of-war, Captain Bishop, commander, now lying in the harbour of Marblehead, or any other, as may have a tendency to injure the most important cause we are engaged in, and that he take such effectual methods for carrying this order into execution, as shall appear best calculated to effect this purpose.

April 28, 1775.

Voted, To recommend to the Colony Congress, now sitting in Watertown, and it is recommended accordingly, to make an establishment for Post-Riders between the Massachusetts Forces and the Town of Worcester.

Also that the said Congress take such order as they may think proper, to prevent any Town or District taking any notice of his Excellency General Gage's precepts for calling a General Assembly.

Doctor Warren was appointed to give the sentiments of this Committee on Lord Dartmouth's Circular Letter to the other Governments.

Voted, That Mr. President Langdon be, and he hereby is appointed Chaplain of the Army in Cambridge, pro tem., and that he be furnished with a copy of this vote.

Major Brown was appointed to give such repairs to the Cannon at Waltham, as may be judged proper.

Ordered, That the Commissary-General be directed to provide Quarters for about one hundred and fifty men from Connecticut, under the command of Major Brown.

Voted, That it is the sense of this Committee that no Enlisting Orders be hereafter given out, unless a written order is received from the respective Colonels.

Voted, That for the future, no order go out, to any men that live in New-York Government, or any other Government, for the enlisting of men for the service of this Province.

Ordered, That the Cannon now in Medford be immediately brought to this Town, under the direction of Captain Foster.

Voted, That General Thomas be desired to distribute the Orders which he has received, some time since, for enlisting a Regiment, to such Captains as he thinks proper.

Mr. Henderson Inches, who left Boston this day, attended, and informed the Committee that the inhabitants of Boston had agreed with the General, to have liberty to leave Boston with their effects, provided that they lodged their Arms with the Selectmen of that Town, to be by them kept during the present dispute; and that agreeable to said agreement, the inhabitants had, on the yesterday, lodged seventeen hundred and seventy-eight Fire-Arms, six hundred and thirty-four Pistols, nine hundred and seventy-three Bayonets, and thirty-eight Blunderbusses, with their Selectmen.

Voted, That Doctor Warren, Colonel Palmer, and Mr. Watson, be a Sub-Committee, to take the state of Boston into consideration, and report as soon as may be.

April 29, 1775.

A Vote of Provincial Congress was read, respecting the removal of the inhabitants of Boston; whereupon Colonel Orne, Mr. Devens, and Captain White, were appointed a Sub-Committee, to take the matter into consideration, and report as soon as may be.

Voted, That orders be sent into the neighbouring Towns, requiring one-half of the Militia to be immediately sent into Roxbury and Cambridge, as a re-enforcement to our

Army, and that the rest of the inhabitants hold themselves in readiness to march at a minute's warning; also,

Voted, That Mr. Watson, Captain White, and Colonel Gardner, be a Sub-Committee to report the Towns to be sent to, the destination of the re-enforcements, and the expresses to be despatched.

Voted, That the Secretary be directed to empower Expresses to press as many Horses as they may have occasion for.

Voted, That the Committee of Supplies, at Watertown, be directed to attend this Committee immediately, and that the Secretary write them accordingly.

Upon information that the supplies of Powder and Ball at Watertown were in the keeping of the Commissary-General, Voted, That General Ward be desired to apply to the Commissary for such a quantity of said Stores as he may have occasion for.

Voted, That Dr. Isaac Foster be directed and empowered to remove all the sick and wounded, whose circumstances will admit of it, into the Hospital, and to supply proper beds and bedding, clothing, victuals, and furniture, with every other article that he shall judge proper for said Hospital, and that this be a sufficient order for him to draw on the Commissary for such articles as he can supply, and to draw orders on the Commissary for the payment of whatever expenses are necessary, for procuring the above-mentioned articles.

Voted, That the Secretary desire Messrs. Halls, printers, at Salem, to print three hundred Letters, to be sent to the several Towns in the Province.

Captain Benedict Arnold, with a Company, being arrived here from Connecticut, Upon motion made, Voted, That orders be given to Gen. Thomas for seizing Governour Hutchinson's Papers.

A Letter from General Thomas, respecting some Companies of Minute-Men at Dartmouth, was read; whereupon, Voted, That Colonel Orne, Colonel Palmer, and Colonel Gardner, be a Sub-Committee to consider and give directions relative to the General's request.

A Letter from Colonel Hancock, now at Worcester, was read; whereupon, Voted, That four reams of Paper be immediately ordered to Worcester by Mr. Barber, for the use of Mr. Thomas, printer, he to be accountable.

Letter from Medford read; whereupon, Voted, That the Company now raised, hold themselves in readiness to march at a minute's warning; remaining in Medford till further orders.

The Sub-Committee on Gen. Thomas's Letter, reported, that it be ordered that Capt. Nathaniel Richmond, with any other Captain that can bring into the camp fifty-six men, including Sergeants, that will enlist into the service of this Colony, shall have the encouragement given by the Provincial Congress, and shall immediately enter into pay upon their enlistment. The critical situation of our publick affairs demand the utmost exertion of the friends of America, and should remissness now appear, the consequences may be fatal.

Voted, That Mr. Watson be desired to make inquiry with respect to the Colony Arms not in use, and that Captain Gutteridge, of the Indian Company, have such a number as is desired.

Voted, That Colonel Gerrish be desired to send Major Dunbar, now a prisoner at Head-Quarters, to Woburn, under a strong guard, and order him to be there kept in safe custody, till further orders from this Committee.

Voted, That Captain Hill and Company be furnished with Provisions at any tavern they see fit to call at, in conveying Major Dunbar to a place of safety, at the expense of the Province.

Voted, That Captain Brown, of Watertown, be desired, upon any advice of the Troops coming out, to order the Cannon to a place of safety, and that for that purpose he be empowered to press horses, cattle, &c.

April 30, 1775.

Captain Benedict Arnold, captain of a Company from Connecticut, attended, and reports, that there are at Ticon- deroga eighty pieces of heavy cannon, twenty pieces brass cannon, from four to eighteen-pounders, and ten or twelve mortars; at Skenesborough, on the South Bay, three or four pieces of brass cannon; the Fort, in a ruinous condition, is supposed to have about forty or forty-five men, a number of small arms, and considerable stores. A sloop of seventy or eighty tons on the lake.

Voted, That Mr. John Chandler Williams be directed to attend this Committee, that he may be employed as an Express.

Voted, That the Committee appointed yesterday, to consider the state of the Town of Boston, be now desired to sit, and form a plan for the liberation of the inhabitants.

The Sub-Committee, on the removal of the inhabitants from Boston, reported; which report was accepted, and Dr. Warren, Col. Palmer, and Col. Orne, were appointed to wait upon the Congress with the proposals.

Voted, That two Offices be opened to deliver permits for such persons as desire to enter Boston with their effects.

Voted, That Colonel Samuel Gerrish be appointed to the office of granting permits, at the house of Mr. John Groaton, of Roxbury.

Voted, That Colonel William Henshaw be appointed to the office of granting permits, at the sign of the Sun, in Charlestown.

The following Orders were delivered to Col. Gerrish:

"You are hereby empowered, agreeably to a vote of the Provincial Congress, to grant liberty that any of the inhabitants of this Colony, who may incline to go into Boston with their effects, fire-arms and ammunition excepted, have toleration for that purpose, and that they be protected from any injury or insult whatsoever in their removal to Boston. The following form of a permit is for your government, the blanks of which you are to fill up with the names, and number of the persons, viz:

"Permit A. B., the bearer hereof, with his family, consisting of . . . persons, with his effects, fire-arms and ammunition excepted, to pass unmolested into the Town of Boston, between sunrise and sunset.

"By order of the Provincial Congress:

"JOSEPH WARREN, Clerk, pro tem."

Voted, That Andrew Craigie be appointed to take care of the Medical Stores, and to deliver them out as ordered by this Committee; and that the Secretary make out his commission accordingly.

Voted, That it be recommended by this Committee to the Council of War, that Mr. Joseph Pierce Palmer be appointed to the post of Quarter-Master General of the Army.

Whereas, proposals have been made by General Gage, to the inhabitants of the Town of Boston, for the removal of their persons and effects into the country, excepting their arms and ammunition:

Resolved, That any of the inhabitants of this Colony, who may incline to go into the Town of Boston with their effects, fire-arms and ammunition excepted, have toleration for that purpose, and that they be protected from any injury or insult whatsoever; this Resolve to be immediately published.

May 1, 1775.

Voted, That the Quarter-Master General be directed to clear that Chamber in Stoughton College, occupied by S. Parsons, for a Printing Office for Messrs. Halls.

Whereas, many of our brethren of the Colonies of Connecticut and Rhode-Island are now with us, to assist in this day of publick and general distress, in which we are all deeply concerned; and, whereas, our brethren of said Colonies have brought with them some of the Paper Currencies of their respective Colonies, which have not of late had a currency with us, and for want of which our common interest may greatly suffer:

Resolved, That said Paper Currencies shall, from and after the date hereof, be paid and received within this Colony, in all payments, to all intents and purposes, in the same proportion to silver as the same are paid and received within the respective Colonies by which the same have been issued.

Resolved, That Col. Palmer be a Committee to inquire into the matter, to find what Colonies have such Currencies, to alter the Resolve agreeably thereto, and to present the same to the honourable Congress for their consideration.

Voted, That the Reverend Mr. Gordon have free access to the Prisoners detained at Worcester and elsewhere, and that all civil Magistrates and others be aiding and assisting him in examining and taking depositions of them and others.

May 2, 1775.

Doctor Warren, Colonel Palmer, and Colonel Gardner, were appointed a Sub-Committee to confer with General Ward, relative to the proposal made by Colonel Arnold, of Connecticut, for an attempt upon Ticonderoga.

A number of Recantations, from the Town of Marblehead, having been laid before the Committee for their opinion as to the propriety of receiving them:

Voted, That it is the opinion of this Committee, that said Recantations be received, and that the persons making them be made acquainted with the Proclamation lately issued by Congress, respecting those who may incline to get into Boston; and that it be recommended to the inhabitants of this Province that they be protected from all injuries or insults whatsoever, so long as they adhere to their several Recantations, now before this Committee, and continue to assist and abide by their Country, and the inhabitants of Marblehead in particular, in the important dispute between Great Britain and America.

Voted, That two Muster-Masters be appointed, one at the Camp in Cambridge, and one at the Camp in Roxbury.

Voted, That General Thomas be desired to give such orders respecting the Whale-Boats at Falmouth, and other parts southward, as he may judge proper.

Voted, That the Massachusetts Congress be desired to give an order upon the Treasurer for the immediate payment of one hundred Pounds, in cash; and also order two hundred pounds of Gunpowder, two hundred weight of Lead Balls, and one thousand Flints, and also ten Horses, to be delivered unto Captain Benedict Arnold, for the use of this Colony, upon a certain service approved of by the Council of War: said Arnold to be accountable for the same, to this or some future Congress, or House of Representatives of this Colony.

Voted, That two Companies be raised in Braintree, for the immediate defence of the sea-coast of said Town; the said Companies to be joined to such Regiment in future as they may be ordered to, should there be occasion, or discharged from service as soon as the publick good would admit of it; and that Colonel Thayer be furnished with two sets of enlisting papers for this purpose.

Voted, That General Thomas be, and he hereby is directed and empowered to stop the Trunks mentioned to be in Colonel Taylor's hands, until this Committee send some proper persons to examine their contents.

Resolved, That agreeably to a Vote of Congress, General Thomas be directed and empowered to appoint suitable persons to accompany such people into the country as may be permitted to bring their effects into Boston, upon the conditions mentioned in the Proclamations posted up, and that General Thomas give such general orders as he may judge the common safety requires.

Voted, That Colonel Arnold, appointed to a secret service, be desired to appoint two Field-Officers, Captains, &c., to be allowed the same pay during their continuance in service as is established for officers and privates of the same rank, who are ordered by the Congress of Massachusetts-Bay to be raised for the defence of the rights and liberties of America; the officers and privates to be dismissed by Colonel Arnold, or the Committee of Safety, whenever they shall think proper.

Voted, That the Committee of Supplies be desired to procure ten Horses for Colonel Arnold, to be employed on a special service.

Voted, That Mr. Isaac Bradish, Keeper of the Prison in Cambridge, be supplied with Provisions out of the Colony Stores, for the support of the Prisoners under his care, who have or may be committed by the orders of the Council of War, or this Committee.

The Quarter-Master General having informed that some persons unknown had made spoil of Liquors in the cellars of General Brattle, and Mr. Borland, and others; whereupon,

Voted, That he be directed to take possession of those Liquors, and other Stores, immediately, in all the houses which are deserted, and that a particular account of such stores be taken, and they then be committed to the care of the Commissary-General.

May 3, 1775.

Voted, That two Companies be raised in the Towns of Malden and Chelsea, for the defence of the sea-coast of said Towns, the said Companies to be joined to such Regiments in future as they may be ordered to, should there be occasion, or discharged from service as soon as the publick good will admit of it.

Voted, That the Quarter-Master General be directed to pay the strictest attention, that the Household Furniture, of those persons who have taken refuge in the Town of Boston, may be properly secured, and disposed of in places of safety.

The following Orders were given Colonel Arnold, relative to an attempt upon Ticonderoga, viz:

To Benedict Arnold, Esquire, commander of a body of Troops on an expedition to subdue and take possession of the Fort of Ticonderoga:

SIR: Confiding in your judgment, fidelity, and valour, we do, by these presents, constitute and appoint you Colonel and Commander-in-Chief over a body of men, not exceeding four hundred, to proceed with all expedition to the Western parts of this and the neighbouring Colonies, where you are directed to enlist those men, and with them forthwith to march to the Fort at Ticonderoga, and use your best endeavours to reduce the same, taking possession of the cannon, mortars, stores, &c., upon the Lake; you are to bring back with you such of the cannon, mortars, stores, &c., as you shall judge may be serviceable to the Army here, leaving behind what may be necessary to secure that post, with a sufficient garrison; you are to procure suitable provisions and stores for the Army, and draw upon the Committee of Safety for the amount thereof, and to act in every exigence, according to your best skill and discretion, for the publick interest, for which this shall be your sufficient warrant.

BENJ. CHURCH, JUN., for Com. of Safety.

By order: WILLIAM COOPER, Secretary.
Cambridge, May 3, 1775.

Moved and voted, That the Vote passed the second of May, respecting the raising of two Companies in Braintree, be reconsidered, and that the copy of said Vote, together with the two Enlisting Papers, be ordered to be returned into the hands of said Committee of Safety;

And whereas, a Petition from the Towns of Braintree, Weymouth, and Hingham, hath this day been presented to this Committee, setting forth the exposed situation of those Towns, and praying for such relief and protection as may be thought proper: therefore,

Voted, That the Town of Braintree be hereby empowered to raise one Company, the Town of Hingham another Company, and the Town of Weymouth half of one Company, for the immediate defence of the sea-coasts of said Towns; the said Two Companies and a half to be joined to such Regiment in future as they may be ordered to, should there be occasion, or discharged from service on the last day of December next, or sooner, if the publick safety will admit of it, and that the Selectmen of said Towns be furnished with a copy of this Vote, and one set of Beating Orders, respectively.

May 4, 1775.

Resolved, as the opinion of this Committee, That the publick good of this Colony requires that Government in full form ought to be taken up immediately, and that a copy of this Resolution be transmitted to the Congress now sitting at Watertown.

The Sub-Committee reported the draught of a Letter to the Governour and Company of the Colony of Connecticut, requesting the speedy march of three or four thousand of their men; which was accepted, and ordered, that a fair copy be transmitted immediately.

Voted, That William Cooper, Junior, be appointed a Clerk to this Committee, in the room of Mr. Palmer, appointed Quarter-Master General; Samuel Cooper was added as an Assistant.

Voted, That a Chest of Medicines be removed from hence to Roxbury, under the care of General Thomas.

There having been eight Guns sent in for the use of the Colony, Colonel Whitcomb and General Heath were appointed to appraise the same, who reported as follows, viz:

One Gun taken of Captain How ,	appraised at	£2 00 0
One " " Joel Brigham ,	"	2 00 0
One " " John Baker ,	"	1 08 0
One " " Aaron Agar ,	"	2 08 0
One " " James Stone ,	"	1 04 0
One " " Asa Fay ,	"	1 10 0
One " " Aaron Fay ,	"	1 01 4
One " " William Bethank ,	"	0 18 0
		£8 09 4

Memorandum.—Colonel Jonathan Ward gave a receipt for the above Guns, for which he made himself accountable, which receipt is entered in the Minute-Book.

A Letter was reported for the Inhabitants of New-York; which was accepted, and a copy of the same put on file.

Draught of a Letter to the Governour and Company of Rhode-Island, respecting the sending a number of Troops immediately, was reported; whereupon, Voted, That the same be accepted, and transmitted by an express.

Voted, That a Sub-Committee may be appointed to wait upon the Council of War to recommend their giving orders for a return of the enlisted men, and that they will take order that such men as are enlisted, may be admitted to join the Camp with all expedition, that so such men as are far from home, and do not intend to enlist, may have leave to depart as soon as it can be done with safety to the Colony.

Voted, That Colonel Gardner be appointed to lay this Vote before the Council of War.

Voted, That it be recommended to the Council of War, that six Companies of each of the two Regiments to be raised in the County of Plymouth, be ordered to join the Army at Roxbury, as soon as they are completed; and that the four other Companies of each of said Regiments, which may be raised most contiguous to the sea-coast of said County, be retained for the immediate defence of said sea-coast, to be regulated by the Colonels of said Regiments, until further orders.

Voted, That Colonel Palmer and Colonel Cushing be appointed to lay the foregoing Vote before said Council.

Advice being received that a number of Transports with Troops are just arrived at Boston from England, Doctor Church, Colonel Palmer, and Mr. Devens, were appointed to confer with the Council of War upon the occasion.

Voted, That Colonel Bricket be desired to take possession of all the Arms and Ammunition that he shall find in Mr. Borland's house, and bring them to Head-Quarters.

May 7, 1775.

Whereas, it appears to this Committee, that great uneasiness may arise in the Army by the appointment of Surgeons who may not be agreeable to the Officers and Soldiers in their respective Regiments: therefore,

Voted, That it be recommended to the Congress to allow the Colonel of each Regiment to nominate the Surgeon for his Regiment; the said Surgeon to nominate his Mate; and, unless there is some material objection made against them, that they be accordingly appointed.

Mr. George Babcock, charged with the care of a House, having complained that certain persons had come to said House, and taken from thence considerable Furniture:

Voted, That this complaint be referred to Congress, and that Mr. Cushing be desired to accompany said Babcock there; and that the above Vote be sent to the Council of War for their approbation; which Vote being sent, it was approved of accordingly.

Resolved, That it be, and hereby is recommended to the Selectmen and Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Sudbury, that they use their utmost influence that the effects of Colonel Ezra Taylor, of that Town, be secured from any injury whatsoever.

Ordered, That the Selectmen and the Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Chelsea, be desired to take such effectual methods for the prevention of any Provisions being carried into the Town of Boston, as may be sufficient for that purpose.

May 9, 1775.

Moved and Voted, That the Congress be desired to direct their Secretary to furnish this Committee with copies of all such Resolves as have passed the Congress, any ways relative to the duty enjoined this Committee; and as the circumstances of this Colony are very different from what they were at their first appointment, the Committee would represent to the Congress that they apprehend it necessary that the whole of their duty may be comprised in a new commission.

The Council of War having determined that two thousand men are necessary to re-enforce the Army now at Roxbury, and that if possible the re-enforcement be brought into camp the ensuing night, this Committee took the vote of the Council of War into consideration: Whereupon, Ordered, That the Commanding Officers of the Town of Dorchester, Dedham, Newton, Watertown, Waltham, Roxbury, Milton, Braintree, Brookline, and Needham, immediately muster one-half of the Militia, and all the Minutemen under their command, and march them forthwith to the Town of Roxbury, for the strengthening of the camp there.

A Firelock of Mr. Borland's was appraised by Colonel Palmer and Colonel Orne, at forty shillings, and delivered Colonel Sergeant, for which he is to be accountable.

A Vote passed, recommending it to the Provincial Congress, that a Court of Inquiry be appointed for the trial of accused persons.

Voted, That Daniel Taylor, of Concord, be desired to send down to Cambridge about sixty Oars for boats, from twelve to sixteen feet in length.

May 10, 1775.

Voted, That one Company of men be raised by the District of Cohasset, for the immediate defence of the sea-coast of said District, the said Company to be joined to such Regiment in future as they may be ordered to, should there be occasion, or discharged from service, as soon as the publick good will permit it.

Voted, That Nathan Cushing, Esq., be desired forthwith to engage four Armourers for the service of this Colony, and order them immediately to repair to the Town of Cambridge, with their tools and other matters necessary for that purpose.

Whereas, the Council of War are of opinion, that many Batteaus, Whale-boats, and other vessels, will immediately, or very soon be wanted in Charles River, and other places; and as there are not a sufficient number of such vessels to be now obtained; it is, therefore,

Resolved, That it would be of publick utility to have one or more Master Carpenters immediately engaged in that service; and that this Resolve be immediately sent to Congress for their consideration.

Mr. Daniel Taylor, of Concord, is empowered to impress a Carriage or Carriages for the bringing down Oars from that Town to Cambridge.

Voted, That Orders be issued to the Colonels of the several Regiments, to repair, with the men they have enlisted, to Cambridge, immediately.

The Provincial Congress having resolved that the General Officers be directed forthwith to call in all the Soldiers who are enlisted in the service of this Colony; and that they give immediate orders to all the enlisted Soldiers, and all others now in the camp at Cambridge and Roxbury, that they do not depart till the further orders of the Congress: Whereupon,

Voted, That the following Letter be immediately sent to the respective Colonels of the Army, viz:

Cambridge, May 10, 1775.

SIR: As we are meditating a blow against our restless enemies, we therefore enjoin you, as you would evidence your regard for your Country, forthwith, upon receipt of this order, to repair to the Town of Cambridge, with the men enlisted under your command.* We are, &c.

Voted, That the following Letter, signed by Benjamin Church, Junior, as Chairman of this Committee, be transmitted to Joseph Warren, Esq., President of the Congress, to be communicated, viz:

SIR: Conformable to order of Congress, the Committee of Safety, with the Council of War, have issued orders to the several Colonels, a copy of which we enclose you. Upon receiving the Return, those who have completed their Regiments will be commissioned, agreeably to the direction of Congress. Those who find it impracticable to fill their Companies, must be incorporated into other defective Regiments, which is the only plan the Committee find themselves able to suggest on this emergency; but should there finally be a deficiency, enlisting orders must be given to others. Yours, &c.

On a motion made and seconded, Ordered, That William Goodwin have orders to fetch a number of Boats from Charlestown, and likewise orders to press Teams for the same purpose.

Mr. William Goodwin, of Charlestown, was directed and empowered to take possession of a number of Boats now at Charlestown, and likewise to press Teams wherever they may be found, to convey said Boats to Cambridge, directing the owners of such Teams to transmit their accounts to this Committee.

Voted, That Mr. Watson be directed and empowered to remove to Cambridge the Boats now in Menotomy River, and to impress what Carriages may be necessary.

The Commanding Officers of the neighbouring Regiments were directed forthwith to repair to the Town of Cambridge, with the men enlisted under their command.

The following Orders, relative to furnishing one of the Expresses with Provisions, Horses, &c., were issued, viz:

"To all Innkeepers, Taverners, and other persons whom it may concern:

"You are desired to furnish the bearer, Mr. John Chandler Williams, with all necessaries upon his journey and return; as also with horses, if necessary, and to exhibit the accounts to the Committee of Safety for this Colony, as he is now upon the Country service."

May 11, 1775.

Voted, That Mr. William Cooper, Junior, be and he hereby is appointed a Clerk to Doctor Warren, President of the Congress.

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, }
May 11, 1775. }

Whereas, this Committee, as also the Council of War, is frequently interrupted in very important business, by hearing and determining matters relative to persons supposed enemies to this Country, under various circumstances, and other matters in which the publick good is affected, which obstructs proceedings: Therefore,

Resolved, That this Committee apprehend, that if the Provincial Congress of this Colony would erect a Court of Inquiry, to hear and determine all such cases as relate to persons apprehended and brought before them as enemies to American liberty, and other cases which concern the publick good, it would be of great publick advantage; and therefore,

Resolved, That this Vote be immediately transmitted to said Congress for their consideration.

WILLIAM COOPER, Secretary.

* MAY 8, 1775.—An old Campaigner says, he knows by the movements, that there is a stroke meditated somewhere, likely to be to-night; he thinks, a feint at the Neck to divert, and a large body to take the ground on Dorchester Neck.

He advises to send a large body on Dorchester Neck, so as not to be discovered from the Town, every night, and have a strong body in Roxbury. If they should observe the Troops landing on Dorchester Neck, to have force sufficient to cut them off entirely. We in Town know nothing, nor are able to communicate, as the Tories and Troops are very vigilant.

MAY 10, 1775.—Elijah Shaw declares, that General Gage's officers have said in his hearing, that they shall soon come out; and that a soldier requested him to convey him into the country, for the Troops would soon make a push either towards Dorchester Neck or Chelsea; but he refused. Further declares that Earl Percy swears he will be revenged on some of our men; and further says that the Troops have robbed him of eleven cows, three calves, a yearling heifer, forty-eight sheep, sixty-one lambs, four hogs, and poultry, hay five tons, and almost all his furniture.

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, May 11, 1775.

The Captains William Goodridge and Charles De Bell have applied to this Committee for assistance in Cash, to enable them to enlist two Companies from the western parts of this Colony, having liberty, as they say, from the General, for that purpose. We, thinking that the matter ought to be laid before the Provincial Congress, have referred it accordingly. We are, &c.

May 12, 1775.

Voted, That Mr. Charles Miller be, and he hereby is appointed Deputy Commissary to Mr. Pigeon, Commissary-General.

Voted, That orders be given to Mr. Clark, Boat-builder, that he give such repairs to the Boats as may be judged necessary.

Voted, That Mr. Isaiah Thomas have Sixty Reams of Printing Crown Paper, and Eight Reams of Printing Demy Paper, supplied him by the Committee of Supplies, they taking his obligation to be accountable to the Colony for the amount thereof.

Ordered, That Mr. Charles Miller be, and he hereby is empowered and directed to impress any Horse he may have occasion for on the service of the Province.

Voted, That Mr. Joseph Cranch be, and he hereby is appointed one of the Armourers for the Colony Forces.

The following is the Report of a Joint Committee appointed by the Committee of Safety and the Council of War, for the purpose of reconnoitring the Highlands in Cambridge and Charlestown, viz :

We have carefully examined the lands, and their situation, in regard of annoying and preventing the enemy from passing into the country from Boston, and are of opinion that the Engineers be directed to cause a Breastwork to be raised near the bridge, by the Red House, at the head of the Creek, near the road from Cambridge to Charlestown, on the south side of said road ; also, a Breastwork raised at the north side of the road, opposite to the said Red House, and run in the same line as the fence now stands, upon the declivity of the hill there ; also, a Redoubt on the top of the hill, where the guard-house now stands, and three or four nine-pounders planted there ; also, a strong Redoubt raised on Bunker's Hill, with cannon planted there, to annoy the enemy coming out of Charlestown, also, to annoy them going by water to Medford. When these are finished, we apprehend the country will be safe from all sallies of the enemy in that quarter. All which is humbly submitted.

BENJAMIN CHURCH,

Chairman of Sub-Committee from Committee of Safety.

WILLIAM HENSHAW,

Chairman of Sub-Committee from Council of War.

The Committee of Safety having taken the foregoing Report into consideration, apprehend the matter not to belong to them officially ; and although they are persuaded the Highlands above-mentioned are important, yet, not being the proper judges what works are necessary to be constructed to make said posts tenable, are of opinion that the determination of this matter rests solely with the Council of War.

BENJAMIN CHURCH, JR., Chairman.

Ordered, That this Report be sent up to the Council of War.

The Council of War having sent in to this Committee, a proposal respecting the suspending the orders of Congress respecting the removal of the persons and effects of the Tories, and ordering the Crown Officers through the Continent to be apprehended :

Resolved, That the recommendation of the Council of War, respecting the seizure of the servants and friends of Government, improperly so called, and keeping them in custody until General Gage shall have complied with the condition proposed by him to the Town of Boston, and accepted by them, be referred to Congress, for their determination thereon.

Voted, That this Committee adjourn to Congress, upon matters of great importance.

May 13, 1775.

Voted, That Captain Isaac Foster be recommended to the Council of War, as a suitable person to carry such Provisions into the Town of Charlestown, for the use of the inhabitants, as the General shall think proper to permit to be carried in.

Voted, That General Thomas be desired to deliver out Medicines to such persons as he shall think proper, for the use of the sick Soldiers at Roxbury, until the Surgeons for the respective Regiments are regularly appointed.

Voted, That the Provisions and Chest of Medicines belonging to Madam Vassal, now under the care of Colonel Starks, be stored as Colonel Starks may direct, till further orders ; and that the other packages may pass into Boston or elsewhere.

Ordered, That the Commissary-General, or his Deputy be, and he hereby is directed to supply Captain Rosseter with Provisions for thirteen men for eight days, said men being discharged by recommendation of the Council of War, and order of this Committee.

Whereas the Committee are informed, that a number of men enlisted into the Colony Army, under Colonel Jonathan Brewer, are now posted at Waltham, and are receiving Provisions from the publick stores :

Resolved, That the Commanding Officer of the Colony Forces be desired to order said enlisted men at Waltham, immediately to repair to Head-Quarters ; and in case of refusal, that orders be given for the prevention of their being supplied with Provisions of any kind from the publick Magazines.

One Thomas Nicols, a negro, brought before this Committee on account of his suspicious behaviour for some time past, having been examined :

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Council of War to commit said negro, until there be further inquiry into his conduct.

Mr. Solomon Shaw was appointed one of the Armourers for the Army, and General Thomas was desired to accommodate him with a suitable place at Roxbury, for carrying on his business.

Ordered, That Mr. Isaac Bradish, Keeper of the Jail in Cambridge, be directed and empowered to confine one Thomas Nicols, negro, till further orders.

May 14, 1775.

Ordered, That the Commissary-General supply with Provisions for six days, four men of Captain Williams's Company, and three men of Captain Noble's Company :—these men came down with Colonel Patterson, and are returning home, being dismissed.

Voted, That Capt. John Currier have one set of Beating Orders for Colonel Fry's Regiment ; and in case it should not be consented to by the Colonel, he agrees to join that Regiment which shall be thought most convenient.

Mr. Andrew Craigie, Commissary of the Medicine, Stores, &c., was directed and empowered to impress Beds, Bedding, and other necessaries for the sick, as they may be wanted, giving the owners a receipt for such articles as he may take for the purpose aforesaid.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Committee of Supplies to engage ninety-seven barrels of Tar, in the Sloop Adventure, Samuel Foot master, just arrived at Salem from Virginia, it being apprehended that the service of the Colony requires said Tar being secured.

A Vote of the Council of War, desiring a supply of Hoes and Brooms, was recommended to the Committee of Supplies by this Committee.

The following was sent to the gentlemen the Selectmen of the Town of Lynn :

Whereas Josiah Martin has, under guard, been brought before this Committee, to be inquired of touching his conduct respecting his appearing in favour of carrying into execution the tyrannical designs of Administration for the enslaving of this Province : Upon examination of the evidences produced,

Resolved, That the said Martin's conduct has, in some instances, been unfriendly to his Country ; but that on his being charged with the same, he has promised, with his life and fortune, to stand for the defence of his Country ; and that so long as he evidences this disposition by his conduct, and does not any more attempt to go into the Town of Boston, that he be received into the favour of his countrymen, and that no insult or injury be offered him or his property.

The following Resolve, relative to the live-stock on the islands, near Boston, passed this Committee, viz:

Resolved, As the opinion of this Committee, that all the live-stock be taken from Noddle's Island, Hog Island, and Snake Island, and from that part of Chelsea near the sea-coast, and be driven back. And that the execution of this business be committed to the Committee of Correspondence and Selectmen of the Towns of Medford, Malden, Chelsea, and Lynn, and that they be supplied with such a number of men as they shall need, from the Regiment now at Medford.

Resolved, That Colonel Palmer and Colonel Orne be directed to apply to the Committee of Supplies, at Watertown, for a particular account of the Ordnance and Military Stores, and where the same are deposited, agreeably to the request of the Council of War.

Voted, That it is the opinion of this body, that all persons escaping from their imprisonment, in the Town of Boston, ought to be received and protected in the several Towns in this and the neighbouring Colonies, except such as are of principles inimical to the liberties of their Country, who are not to be received but on their first recanting their said principles, and making their peace with their countrymen to the satisfaction of the Selectmen, Committees of Inspection, &c., in the Town to which they shall apply: and that the wives and children of such persons who shall choose to remain in Boston with General Gage, may and ought to be treated with humanity and tenderness in the several Towns they may go to dwell in, during the present troubles, and by no means to suffer the least injury, or meet with the smallest mark of disrespect upon account of their said husbands or fathers.

The Council of War, having recommended that forty persons of the Regiment commanded by Colonel Fellows have liberty to return to their several homes:

Resolved, That they be dismissed accordingly, and that the Commissary-General be directed to supply said persons with six days' provisions, to serve them on their return home.

This Committee, having been informed by the Committee of Supplies that they had secured as much Naval Stores as Colonel Gridley of the Train had indented for:

Voted, That Captain Foot be permitted to deliver the cargo, (Naval Stores not excepted,) agreeably to the bills of lading he had signed for the same.

Voted, That Mr. William Haskins be, and he hereby is appointed first clerk to the Deputy Commissary-General.

The Council of War having recommended that Captain Joseph Foster, Thomas Jenkins, James Lamman, John Rutherford, Jonathan March, J. Mensh, J. Simmins, J. Crost, of Colonel Porter's Regiment, who are not enlisted, may be dismissed, they were accordingly dismissed, and had an order on the Commissary-General for four days' provisions each.

Voted, That Matthew Clark and five other persons, who are repairing the Boats brought to this Town, be supplied with Provisions while they are at work for the Colony.

May 15, 1775.

The Sub-Committee, appointed to apply to the Committee of Supplies for a particular account of the Ordnance and Military Stores, reported, and handed into the Committee the following List, viz:

Voted, That the Quarter-Master General be directed to remove as many of the three Companies now at Mr. Borland's, to the house of Doctor Kneeland, as the house can accommodate, and that the three Companies in Mr. Vassal's house be placed at Mr. Foxcroft's house, and that Mr. Borland's house be cleared and cleansed as soon as possible.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Honourable Congress, that the Records of the Probate Office for the County of Middlesex, supposed to be at Mr. Danforth's and Doctor Kneeland's houses, be removed to Doctor Minot's, at Concord, and, that the Records of the County, at Mr. Foxcroft's office, be removed to said Minot's house.

The following Certificate was delivered to Mr. John Goddard, viz:

"This is to certify, that Mr. John Goddard has been appointed by the joint Committees of Safety and Supplies as Wagon-Master to this Colony, to convey such articles of Stores from one part of this Colony to another as the publick exigencies shall require, under the direction of the Commissary-General and Ordnance Store Keeper, and that such other Wagoners or Drivers are to be employed, as he shall recommend for that purpose."

The following Permit was given to Captain Walker:

"Permit Captain John Walker, now on his parole of honour, to pass unmolested to his family at Worcester."

Mr. John Goddard, Wagon-Master, was directed and empowered, in case of emergency, to impress such Wagons and Cattle as shall be requisite for the publick service.

Voted, That the clearing Mr. Borland's and Mr. Vassal's houses be suspended till further orders.

Voted, That Thomas Austin, of Charlestown, be, and hereby is appointed an Armourer for the Army.

Voted, That the above Vote, appointing Mr. Thomas Austin one of the Armourer for the Army, be, and hereby is reconsidered.

May 16, 1775.

In a Letter from Colonel James Barrett, of this day, it is represented, that a prisoner now at Worcester is a Paper-maker, and that Mr. James Boice, of Milton, is in want of such a person in his Paper Manufactory; therefore,

Resolved, That Colonel Barrett be, and he hereby is directed and empowered, to remove said prisoner from Worcester to said Boice's Manufactory in Milton.

Voted, That Captain Hill, and four men, with four prisoners, have an order for Supplies on the Taverners and Innholders in the Towns they pass through.

Whereas, it is recommended by the Council of War, that fifty-four Whale-Boats be immediately provided for the use of this Colony:

Resolved, That a copy of said Vote of the Council of War be transmitted to the Committee of Supplies, and that they be desired to procure and place said Boats, agreeable to the recommendation of the Council of War.

Voted, That Captain Butler be desired to furnish those men of his own Company with Arms, who are destitute thereof.

By a Resolve of the Provincial Congress, the following is the establishment for ten Companies of Matrosses:

Captain, - - -	£6	10s.	0d.	per month.
Captain-Lieutenant, - -	5	10	0	"
First Lieutenant, - -	4	10	0	"
Two Second Lieutenants, each,	3	12	0	"
Sergeants, each, - -	2	10	0	"
Corporals, each, - -	2	6	0	"
Six Bombadiers, each, -	2	4	6	"
Six Gunners, each, - -	2	4	0	"
Thirty-two Matrosses, each,	2	3	0	"

Voted, That Colonel Gridley have one set of Beating Orders, for a Company of Matrosses.

Voted, That Colonel Azor Orne have one of the College Arms, he giving a receipt for the same.

May 17, 1775.

Whereas, it is determined, in Council of War, that ten Swivels be immediately provided for the use of the Army, and delivered in Camp, at Cambridge:

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing Vote be transmitted to the Committee of Supplies, and that they be desired to procure said Swivel-Guns accordingly.

Resolved, That the three pieces of Cannon, with the Stores, now at Waltham, be immediately removed to Watertown, near the bridge, by advice of the General; and that Mr. Elbridge Gerry, one of the Committee of Supplies, be desired and empowered to remove the same.

Ordered, That Colonel Orne, Doctor Church, and Colonel Palmer, be a Committee to repair to the Provincial Congress, and request, that forthwith the duty of the Committee of Safety be precisely stated, and that said Committee be empowered by Congress to conduct in such manner as shall tend to the advantage of the Colony; and justify the conduct of said Committee, so far as their proceedings are correspondent with the trust reposed in them; and to inform the Congress, that until the path of their duty is clearly pointed out, they must be at a total loss how to conduct, so as to stand justified in their own minds, and in the minds of the people of this Colony.

Mr. William Beman, in Colonel Fellows's Regiment, is appointed by this Committee to act as an Armourer for the forces posted at Roxbury.

Resolved, That Mr. Joseph Austin, of Charlestown, be directed to attend upon the Committee of Safety, immediately.

Voted, That Colonel Fellows be directed to procure a Shop and Tools, and every material necessary for an armourer, at Roxbury, to work immediately in the Colony service.

Voted, That the Commissary deliver Mr. Matthew Clark sixty Oars, for the use of this Colony.

Voted, That the carrying any Hay into the Town of Boston, on account of John Borland, Esq., be suspended until further order from this Committee.

Voted, That Mr. Stephen Hall be appointed to inspect the College Walls, and see that they be kept in proper repair.

Voted, That the Selectmen of Cambridge be directed to supply General Ward with four half barrels of Powder, for the use of this Colony.

Whereas, General Gage has not kept his agreement with the inhabitants of the Town of Boston, but, notwithstanding his said agreement, has prevented, and even refused said inhabitants, with their effects, from moving into the country: Therefore,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Congress, that they rescind their Resolution of the 30th ultimo, permitting the inhabitants of this Colony to remove, with their effects, into the Town of Boston, which Resolution was founded upon said agreement.

Resolved, That Colonel Orne and Colonel Palmer be directed to attend the Congress, with the above Resolve.

Resolved, That in case of an alarm, this Committee will repair to Coolidge's Tavern, in Watertown.

Upon a motion made, Voted, That Captain How be directed to restore the six sets of Enlisting Papers, which he this day took out without the consent of the Committee, by a fraud practised upon the Chairman.

Voted, That application be made to his Excellency General Ward, that he would order Edward How under guard, until this Committee can have a full hearing of his case.

Whereas, one Mr. Mellicant, of Waltham, who is an officer in His Majesty's service, under half pay, is suspected, by means of his, said Mellicant's, wife having free access into and out of the Town of Boston, of communicating such intelligence to our enemies as may have a tendency to injure the important cause we are engaged in, and, in some degree, defeat the plans forming for the salvation of this Colony and Continent: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Selectmen and Committee of Correspondence of the Town of Waltham, be, and hereby are directed and empowered to take such effectual methods for the preventing any intelligence going into the Town of Boston, by means of the abovesaid Mr. Mellicant, or any of his family, as to them, in their wisdom, shall seem meet.

Whereas, some of the Students of Harvard College are in possession of Arms and Bayonets belonging to the Colony, which were sent them for the purpose of their obtaining skill in military discipline :

Voted, That they be and hereby are desired to cause the same to be delivered, as soon as may be, to Mr. William Hunt, of this place ; and all other persons having in possession Arms or Military Stores, of any kind, belonging to the Colony as aforesaid, are also desired forthwith to deliver the same to the said Mr. William Hunt.

And whereas, the Surgeons of the Massachusetts Forces are in want of considerable quantities of Linen Rags, either coarse or fine :

Voted, That the female friends to America, in the neighbouring Counties, are hereby desired to send such quantities of Rags as they can spare, to the Selectmen of their respective Towns ; and the Selectmen are desired to cause the same to be delivered at Cambridge, to Commissary Craigie, at the Hospital ; and the expenses of transportation shall be paid by the Committee.

May 19, 1775.

Voted, That Captain John Lane have Enlisting Papers delivered him, for raising a Company of Indians at the Eastward.

The following Certificate was delivered Colonel Gerrish for the Provincial Congress :

"Colonel Samuel Gerrish having satisfied this Committee that his Regiment is full, we recommend to the Congress that said Regiment be commissioned accordingly."

Ordered, That Mr. Newall proceed to Watertown, and lodge the ten Swivel-Guns he has under his care, at Edward Richardson's, innholder, in said Watertown, it being recommended by General Ward.

The Committee of Correspondence of the Town of Northborough having sent a certain Ebenezer Cutler to this Committee for trial, upon complaint of his being an enemy to this Country ; and this Committee not having authority to act in the case, as they apprehend, do refer the matter to Congress.

Col. Ebenezer Learned having satisfied this Committee that his Regiment is full, it was recommended to the Congress that said Regiment be commissioned accordingly.

The following Letter of Directions to the several Colonels, was forwarded, viz :

SIR: The necessity of completing the Colony Army, and the suspicions entertained by some of the officers who have been engaged in recruiting men, oblige us to request your immediate Return to this Committee of the number of men enlisted in your Regiment, with the names of the Officers of said Regiment, as the Congress have urged for those Returns, that Commissions may be issued, and due subordination take place.

Voted, That Mr. John Wood, of Roxbury, be and hereby is appointed an Armourer for the Army.

Voted, That Mr. Dike, of Bridgewater, be and hereby is appointed an Armourer for the Army.

General Thomas was informed by Letter, that the Committee had appointed Messrs. Beman, Shaw, Wood, and Dike, as Armourers for the Forces posted at Roxbury, and was desired to acquaint the Committee if any further appointments were necessary.

Voted, That Doctor Church have an order for a Horse and Sulkey, and a single Horse, for his journey to Philadelphia, upon the Province account.

Whereas some persons have hinted that Samuel Barrett, Esquire, of Boston, has, in some instances, been unfriendly to his Country and the common cause of liberty, for which this Colony now suffers and bleeds ; and as such suggestions may have a tendency to injure him, we have inquired into the conduct of the said Samuel Barrett, Esq., during the unnatural contest between Great Britain and the Colonies, and from his acts and explicit declarations, we have reason to think that he is friendly to the rights and liberties of this his native Country, and we recommend him accordingly.

May 20, 1775.

Voted, That Captain Edward How, Ebenezer Cutler, and Nicols, a black fellow, now under guard, be sent up to Congress for examination and trial, and Captain White is appointed to attend Congress with the above-named persons.

Voted, That the General be desired to furnish a Guard for the occasion.

Voted, That for the future no person having orders to impress Horses, shall impress the Horse of Deacon Timothy Winn, of Woburn, he and his horse being employed in the Colony service.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee, as the contest now between Great Britain and the Colonies respects the liberties and privileges of the latter, which the Colonies are determined to maintain, that the admission of any persons as Soldiers into the Army now raising, but only such as are Freemen, will be inconsistent with the principles that are to be supported, and reflect dishonour on this Colony ; and that no Slaves be admitted into this Army upon any consideration whatever.

Colonel Joseph Reed having satisfied this Committee that his Regiment is full, a Certificate was given him of the same ; and it was recommended to the honourable the Provincial Congress that his Regiment might be commissioned accordingly.

Colonel Read had thirteen sets of Regulations for the Army delivered him by order.

May 22, 1775.

Whereas it appears to this Committee that no immediate service renders it necessary that Riders should be kept in pay at present : Therefore,

Voted, That all such Riders as have been employed by this Committee be, from this day, discharged from said service.

May 23, 1775.

This Committee find themselves much at a loss for a rule by which to determine when a Regiment may be said to be full, and beg leave to suggest to the honourable Congress, whether a certificate from the Muster-Master, relative to the premises, will not be a good rule for ascertaining when a Regiment is complete ; and said Committee beg instructions in the matter.

BENJAMIN WHITE, Chairman.

Whereas, our enemies make frequent excursions to the Islands and Sea-Coasts, from whence they plunder Hay, Cattle, and Sheep, which not only greatly injures many individuals, but also the publick, and strengthens the hands of our enemies : Therefore,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Honourable Congress to take some effectual measure to secure the stock on the Islands and Sea-Coasts, to prevent its falling into the hands of our enemies.

Whereas, this Committee have taken into their most serious consideration the state of the New-England Army, proposed to be raised for the defence and security of the lives, liberties, and property of the Americans, and find that the several Colonies have not, collectively, raised more than twenty-four thousand five hundred men, whereas thirty thousand were supposed to be necessary ; and the said Committee also find a considerable number of officers of Minute-men now at Head-Quarters, who, with their men, cannot find room for employment in the Army, upon the present establishment of this Colony ; and as our enemies have determined to distress us upon our Sea-Coasts, by taking our vessels, with provisions, salt, molasses, &c., as well as by plundering our Islands and Coasts of live stock, which will require a greater number of men to guard said coasts than was at first estimated ; and as said Army, or any part thereof, may be disbanded at any future time, when the publick safety will admit thereof ; and as the publick military spirit runs high : it is, therefore,

Resolved, That the consideration of these premises be recommended to the honourable Congress ; and that Colonel Palmer be directed to attend said Congress with this Resolve, in order to know whether they will make any addition to the present establishment.

May 24, 1775.

Voted, That the Commissary-General be directed to supply John Carter and three others with Provisions, as Armourers and Coopers, now in the Province service.

Colonel Scammon having satisfied the Committee that his Regiment was nearly full, a Certificate was given him thereof; and it was recommended to the Provincial Congress that his Regiment be commissioned accordingly.

General Thomas having satisfied this Committee that his Regiment was complete, a Certificate was given him thereof; and it was recommended to the Provincial Congress that his Regiment be commissioned accordingly.

Resolved, That it be recommended to Congress immediately to take such order respecting the removal of the Sheep and Hay from Noddle's Island, as they may judge proper, together with the stock on the adjacent islands.

Voted, That the Commissary-General be directed to supply twenty-five men of Captain Sprague's Company, who are stationed at Chelsea.

May 26, 1775.

The Congress having passed a Resolve, that the house of John Vassal, Esquire, be appropriated for the use of the Committee of Safety: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Quarter-Master General be directed to clear the said house immediately of the Soldiers now lodged there, that it may be improved for that purpose.

Colonels Ward and Gardner having satisfied this Committee that their Regiments were in good forwardness, a Certificate to that purpose was given them; and it was recommended to the honourable Provincial Congress that said Regiments be commissioned accordingly.

Colonels Patterson and William Prescott having satisfied this Committee that their respective Regiments are nearly full, a Certificate was given them of the same; and it was recommended to the Provincial Congress that said Regiments be commissioned accordingly.

Colonels Cotton and Bridge having satisfied this Committee that their respective Regiments are full, a Certificate was given them thereof; and it was recommended to the Provincial Congress that said Regiments be commissioned accordingly.

Colonels Asa Whitcomb, Frye, and Doolittle, having satisfied this Committee that their respective Regiments are nearly full, a Certificate was given them thereof; and it was recommended to the honourable the Provincial Congress that said Regiments be commissioned accordingly.

Colonel Walker having satisfied this Committee that his Regiment was complete, a Certificate was given him thereof; and it was recommended to Congress that said Regiment be commissioned accordingly.

Colonel Donaldson having satisfied this Committee that his Regiment is in good forwardness, a Certificate was given him thereof; and it was recommended to the honourable Congress that said Regiment be commissioned accordingly.

May 27, 1775.

Colonel Mansfield having satisfied this Committee that his Regiment is in good forwardness, he had a Certificate thereof, and a recommendation to Congress that the Regiment be commissioned accordingly.

Mr. Wesson, keeper of Thomas Oliver, Esquire's, farm, had orders to secure any creatures that might be put into his enclosures by ill-disposed persons, and to inform the Committee thereof.

Voted, That agreeable to the recommendation of General Ward, Jacob Rhodes, of Charlestown, be empowered to impress such Cattle as may be necessary for the removal of two Boats from that Town to Cambridge.

Joseph Smith, keeper of John Vassal, Esquire's, farm, had orders to secure any creatures that might be put into his enclosures by ill-disposed persons, and to inform the Committee thereof.

May 28, 1775.

A number of Guns taken from some persons in Grafton, were appraised by a Sub-Committee appointed for that purpose, and delivered Luke Drury, for the use of his Company, and a receipt taken in the rough minutes, as, reference thereto being had, will particularly appear.

May 29, 1775.

A number of Letters taken from Robert Temple, Esq., by the Committee of Safety of Cohasset, were sent to this Committee for examination, and though the Committee think that the matter is not strictly within their commission, yet, considering that the present Congress must be dissolved this day, and the good and safety of this Colony may be affected by an immediate examination of said Letters: Therefore,

Resolved, That the matter be immediately taken up by the Committee; and as Mr. Temple is now attending, that he be so directed respecting said Letters, as shall, after examination, appear necessary to promote the greatest good of this Colony.

Voted, That a Committee be chosen to draw up a Certificate for Mr. Temple, and an order for his receiving the goods taken from him.

The Committee, appointed for that purpose, reported a Certificate, which was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

"Whereas the Committee of Inspection of the District of Cohasset, have transmitted to us a number of Letters found in the possession of Robert Temple, Esq.; and this Committee having carefully inspected said Letters, and had the said Mr. Temple before them, and examined him, both with regard to his principles and conduct in the present controversy between Great Britain and the Colonies in America: And whereas, we think it the duty of this Committee, at the same time that we applaud the vigilance of the Committee of Cohasset, who have stopped those Letters, and that of the Town of Plymouth, who have sent two of their members with Mr. Temple to this Committee, to do justice to individuals; in consequence of which we Resolve, that it be recommended to the Committee at Cohasset to deliver Mr. Temple such articles of his as are now in their possession; and likewise that they, and all others, consider and treat him as a friend to the interest of this Country, and the rights of all America."

Colonel Quincy, of Braintree, having proposed to this Committee the erecting a small defensive work against the depredations of our enemies, upon the farms in his neighbourhood, they do refer the matter to the Council of War.

Colonel Fellows having satisfied this Committee that his Regiment is full, he had a Certificate thereof, and a recommendation that said Regiment be commissioned accordingly, was given him for the honourable Congress.

It being expected that the present Congress will be dissolved this night, and hearing that one volume of copies of Mr. Hutchinson's Letters are in the hands of Captain McLane, at the upper Paper-Mills, in Milton, which volume may be of use to this Colony, if in the hands of the Provincial Congress: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Reverend Mr. Gordon, of Roxbury, be desired and empowered to receive from said Captain McLane all such copies as are in his hands, or in any other hands, and to be accountable to the present or some future Congress for the same.

May 30, 1775.

Elisha Lettinwell was directed to proceed with two Teams to Chelsea, and bring from thence the Cannon and other Stores saved from the Schooner which has been burned by our people, and to lodge said Stores in this Town.

MASSACHUSETTS PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Journal of the Proceedings of the Congress of the Colony of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY; assembled at CONCORD, Saturday, APRIL 22, 1775.

Mr. RICHARD DEVENS, Chairman,
Mr. JOHN MURRAY, Clerk.

Mr. Gerry represented to Congress, that a Letter from Mr. Quincy to Mr. Adams, had been delivered to him, with a desire that it might be opened by Congress in Mr. Adams's absence:

After some debate,

Ordered, That the Members present, belonging to the Committee on the state of the Province, retire, open, and peruse the said Letter, and report to Congress what parts they think proper.

The Committee retired, and desired that the whole be read in Congress;

Which being done,
Ordered, That the same be sent to Doctor Warren, to be used at his discretion.
 Adjourned to Watertown, at four o'clock, P. M.

— Watertown, 4 o'clock, P. M.

Congress met according to adjournment.
Ordered, That Mr. Watson notify the Committee of Safety of the time and place of our adjournment, and request their attendance with whatever plans they may have in readiness for us; and also notify the absent members that are at Cambridge, and request their punctual attendance.
Ordered, That Mr. Sullivan, Colonel Cushing, and Mr. Crane, be a Committee to wait on the Selectmen for liberty of the Meeting-House during the session of Congress here.

They returned, and reported that the Selectmen readily granted their request.

Ordered, That Mr. Gerry, Colonel Cushing, Colonel Barrett, Captain Stone, Dr. Taylor, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Freeman, Mr. Watson, and Esquire Dix, be a Committee to take Depositions, in perpetuam, from which a full account of the transactions of the Troops under General Gage, in their route to and from Concord, &c., on Wednesday last, may be collected, to be sent to England by the first ship from Salem.

Adjourned to this place, to-morrow, at 7 o'clock, A. M.

— Sunday, April 23, 1775.

Congress met conformably to adjournment, and adjourned to the School-House.

Upon a Letter from General Ward, respecting the New-Hampshire Troops,

Resolved unanimously, That it is necessary for the defence of the Colony, that an army of Thirty Thousand Men be immediately raised and established.

Resolved, That Thirteen Thousand Six Hundred Men be raised immediately by this Province.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be a Committee to bring in a plan for the establishment of the Officers and Soldiers necessary for the Army, to be raised at this time, and that they sit immediately.

Voted, That Colonel Cushing, Mr. Sullivan, Colonel Whitcomb, and Mr. Durant, be added to the Committee of Safety.

Resolved, That Mr. Sullivan be a Committee to wait on the New-Hampshire Congress at Exeter, to inform them of our Resolutions, and request their concurrence; and that Major Bliss go to Connecticut, and Deacon Rawson to Rhode-Island, for the same purpose.

Ordered, That Mr. Sullivan be a Committee to inform the Committee from the Congress of New-Hampshire, now waiting, of our Resolutions immediately.

Resolved, That Mr. Murray, Mr. Gill, and Captain Stone, be a Committee to draught a Letter to each of the Colonels, to be sent by the express.

Adjourned to this place, at two o'clock, P. M.

— Afternoon, 2 o'clock.

Congress met according to adjournment, and adjourned to the Meeting-House.

Being there met, the Committee reported a draught of a Letter to the Colonels, which was accepted, and ordered to be copied by Captain Stone.

Mr. Gerry read in his place a Letter from Marblehead, reporting that the British Man-of-War Lively was lying off the Harbour of that Town; representing that their means of defence were inadequate to repel attack; and asking direction and aid; upon which,

Resolved, That the matter subside until further information.

Doctor Warren read a Letter from the Committee of Correspondence of Connecticut:

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
 April 25, 1775. }

SIR: The Congress have this day received a Letter from Nathaniel Peaslee Sargeant and Jonathan Webster, Esqrs., acquainting them that the late dreadful fire in Haverhill, together with some publick disturbances in said Town, make it necessary they should be at home at this time. The Congress apprehend, that the important business of the Colonies requires that every Town should now be represented; therefore desire, that if, in case neither said Nathaniel P. Sargeant or Jonathan Webster, Esqrs., can attend, that the Town would elect one or more members to attend in their room, that the wisdom of the whole Colony may be collected at our hour of need.

Adjourned to eight o'clock next day.

— Wednesday, April 26, 1775, 8 o'clock, A. M.

Resolved, That Richard Gridley, Esquire, be and he hereby is appointed Chief Engineer of the Forces now raising in this Colony for the defence of the rights and liberties of the American Continent; and that there be paid to the said Richard Gridley, out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, during his continuance in that service, at the rate of one hundred and seventy Pounds, lawful money, per annum. And it is further Resolved, That from and after the time when the said Forces shall be disbanded, during the life of the said Gridley, there be paid to him out of the said Treasury, the sum of one hundred and twenty-three Pounds, lawful money, per annum.

Ordered, That the duplicates lay on the table till the Narrative comes in.

Ordered, That Mr. Freeman, Doctor Taylor, Deacon Cheever, Doctor Baylies, and Colonel Farley, be a Committee to consider the state of the eastern parts of this Province at large in regard to supplying them with Ammunition, and to sit forthwith.

The Committee made the following Report, which was accepted :

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
April 26, 1775. }

Whereas, representation has been made to this Congress, that several of the Towns in the eastern parts of the Colony are deficient in such supply of ammunition, as is necessary they should, at this day, be furnished with, for the safety and defence of the Colony in general, and that part of it in particular; therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee of Supplies be, and they are hereby directed, forthwith to take some effectual measures to procure such a quantity of Powder and Ball as will appear to them to be necessary for the use of this Colony, under the present alarming situation of our publick affairs; and, in particular, that they immediately send to the Colonies of Connecticut and Rhode-Island for so much Powder as they shall think necessary, and when procured, to deliver so much of it to the order of the Selectmen of such deficient Towns, and in such quantities, as they may think will be proportional to the exigencies of each Town respectively, and to the safety and defence of the Colony in general; such Towns to pay for the supplies which they may receive of said Committee, according to the nett expense of procuring the same.

Ordered, That Colonel Cutts, Ichabod Goodwin, and Deacon Fisher, be appointed to proportion the Powder that is recommended to be sold to the Towns of York, Welles, Biddeford, Boothbay, and Sandford, and to sit forthwith.

The Committee presented the following Report, which was accepted :

Whereas, the Towns of York, Welles, Boothbay, and Biddeford, have applied to this Congress, setting forth the dangerous situation they are in, being seaports, and thereby exposed to the ravages of the enemy, although but a small force should be sent to attack them by sea; and likewise showing that they have not ammunition sufficient wherewith to make defence, should they be thus attacked; and considering them, as they ought to be, part of the whole, and should they suffer, that the whole must be affected: therefore,

Resolved, That it be, and it hereby is recommended to the Selectmen of the Towns of Marblehead, Salem, and Newburyport, that they forthwith sell, out of their Town stock, four half barrels of Powder each, to said Towns of York, Welles, Biddeford, and Boothbay, to put the inhabitants thereof in some tolerable state of defence; and should the Towns of Marblehead, Salem, and Newburyport, be under the necessity of having the quantities which they have delivered to the said Towns of York, Welles, Boothbay, and Biddeford, replaced, in that case the Congress will give orders for the same as may be. The Powder to be apportioned according to the number of inhabitants in the said Towns, as also to Sandford, said Town having made application for supplies of the same kind.

Ordered, That the Rev. James Murray, Major Fuller, and Jonas Dix, Esq., be a Committee to return the thanks of this Congress to the Reverend Ministers who have generously offered to supply the Army as Chaplains, each a month in rotation.

Ordered, That at three o'clock to-morrow, this Congress will take into consideration some effectual method of supplying the Treasury.

Ordered, That Deacon How have leave to return home, but is to return to his duty immediately.

Ordered, That the copies of the Order to the Honourable Richard Derby, Esq., for fitting out his Vessel for a Packet, be taken and authenticated by the President pro tempore.

Ordered, That the Honourable Richard Derby, Esqrs,
FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

Orders to the Treasury, be also authenticated by the President pro tempore.

Ordered, That the Committee of Supplies, directed to draught the Letter to our Agent in Great Britain, be requested to send the same with the papers now preparing for that purpose.

Ordered, That Doctor Holten, Doctor Baylies, Captain Whittemore, Colonel Dwight, and Mr. Kollock, be a Committee to take the recommendation of the Committee of Safety into consideration, with respect to the Army now forming.

Moved, That when this Congress do adjourn, that they adjourn to seven o'clock to-morrow morning.

Adjourned accordingly.

Thursday, April 27, 1775, }
Seven o'clock, A. M. }

Met pursuant to adjournment.

Ordered, That Captain Goodman inquire of the Committee of Safety, whether any provision is made for a Post or Posts, to ride from the Army to Worcester, agreeably to a request from the Selectmen of that Town; and also to procure a Writ for calling a General Assembly in May next, issued from General Gage for that purpose.

Ordered, That the Secretary pro tempore take Extracts from the Minutes of the Resolves of this Congress, and authenticate the same, and deliver them to the men now in waiting from York and Welles, for the purpose of obtaining some Powder.

Ordered, That Mr. Gerry have leave to bring in a Resolve, with regard to the seaports in the County of Essex.

Whereupon Mr. Gerry offered the following:

Whereas, hostilities have been commenced in this Colony by Great Britain, and the sword may remain unsheathed for a considerable time:

Resolved, That it be, and it hereby is earnestly recommended to the Committees of the seaport Towns in the County of Essex, that they use their utmost endeavours to have all the effects of the inhabitants of their respective Towns removed as soon as possible; that the Congress highly approves of the conduct of said Towns, in wearing a pacifick appearance, until their effects shall be secured; that the Congress consider it as absolutely necessary for said inhabitants to be in readiness to go into the country on the shortest notice, and to avoid mixing with our enemies, as thereby their own lives will ever be in imminent danger, when the Colony and the Continent shall attack such enemies. And it is also recommended to them that their application to Congress for advice, and this Resolve in consequence thereof, be kept a secret, that their effects may be more easily removed.

Ordered, That three o'clock next Tuesday be assigned to take up the matter in the Resolve brought in by Mr. Gerry.

Ordered, That Mr. President, Col. Orne, Doctor Taylor, Major Fuller, of Middleton, and Captain Goodman, be a Committee to confer with the Officers of the Army relative to the reduction of their pay.

Colonel Dwight was appointed to wait on the Committee of Safety, and acquaint them with the names of the Officers in the Regiments of Minute-Men in Worcester County.

Mr. Hale appointed to the same business, in the County of Hampshire.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

Met according to adjournment.

Ordered, That Captain Kingsbury, Doctor Holten, and Deacon Stone, be appointed to inquire and endeavour to get an exact account of the men killed, and wounded, and murdered, in the late scene, on the nineteenth instant.

The Order of the Day was moved for, to take up the matter of supplying the Treasury.

Ordered, That a Committee be appointed for that purpose, to consist of five, and to be chosen by written votes.

Ordered, That two be added to this Committee.

Ordered, That Doctor Holten, Mr. Bullen, and Captain Batchelder, be appointed to sort and count the votes.

Ordered, That nine o'clock be assigned for that purpose.

Ordered, That Mr. Patridge, Captain Greenleaf, and

Doctor Baker, be appointed to consider the Petition from Gorham, and to sit forthwith.

Ordered, That Captain Whitemore, Mr. Freeman, and Doctor Baylies, assist as scribes the Committees, in taking fair copies of the Depositions in order for the Press, and to sit forthwith.

Ordered, That Jonas Dix, Esq., William Stickney, Esq., and Deacon Stone, be appointed to take true copies of the Depositions, and have them signed by the Deponents, and authenticated by the Justices and Notary Publick.

Ordered, That Mr. Hubbart have leave to go home a few days.

Adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Friday, April 28, 1775.

Met conformably to adjournment.

Ordered, That Mr. President, Col. Gerrish, Mr. Gerry, Doctor Holten, and Mr. Gill, be appointed to confer with the gentlemen from New-Hampshire, and are desired to lay the Letters just received from New-York, dated April nineteenth, before them.

Ordered, (at the desire of the Secretary pro tempore,) that he be excused from that service, after another is appointed in that place.

Accordingly Mr. Samuel Freeman was appointed to that office, pro tempore.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
April 28, 1775. }

Resolved, That the Committee appointed to confer with the Committee who this day arrived here from the Colony of New-Hampshire, have leave to report to this Congress a draught of a Letter, which they have prepared as an answer to one received from the Convention of the said Colony of New-Hampshire, dated twenty-sixth instant.

The said draught was accordingly reported, read, and unanimously accepted, and ordered to be authenticated by the President, and delivered to Colonel Nathaniel Folsom, Colonel Josiah Bartlett, and Major Samuel Hobart, Esq., the Committee from the said Convention of New-Hampshire, and is as follows, viz:

"GENTLEMEN: It is with pleasure we have received your letter, above mentioned, and by a Committee of this Congress, have had a conference with your respectable Committee.

"We find the fullest conviction in the minds of the inhabitants of our sister Colonies, as well as of this, that by their immediate and most vigorous exertions, there is the greatest prospect of establishing their liberties, and saving their Country, and that, without such exertions, all must be lost.

"It is the opinion of this Congress, as already communicated, that a powerful Army on our side must at once cut out such a work for a tyrannical Administration, as, under the great opposition which they meet with in England, they cannot accomplish, and that their system of despotism must soon be shaken to the foundation. But should they still pursue their sanguinary measures, that the Colonies will then be able to make a successful stand,

"We have the utmost confidence in your patriotick Colony, whose inhabitants have signalized themselves, in joining their brethren in this, and hope to see New-Hampshire, and every other Government which has been exposed to the corruption of a British Ministry, soon placed upon such a footing as will be best calculated to promote the true interest of the same, and to prevent, in future, such unhappy disputes as have taken place with the mother Country.

"We have just received an agreeable account of the conduct of our brethren in New-York, and have delivered a copy of the letter to your Committee.

"We sincerely thank you for your measures, taken in Convention at Exeter, and are fully persuaded that the Congress of your Colony, which is to meet on the seventeenth of May, will take such effectual steps as the present exigencies of publick affairs require, and the Continent of America must necessarily approve."

Ordered, That the Secretary authenticate a copy of a Letter this day received from Governour Hopkins, of Rhode-Island, and deliver the same to the above mentioned Committee from New-Hampshire.

Ordered, That Mr. Dickerson, Doctor Holten, and Colonel Gerrish, be a Committee to wait upon the Committee from New-Hampshire to the Committee of Safety of this Colony, now sitting at Cambridge, to consult with them respecting the New-Hampshire Forces, now at Cambridge.

Ordered, That the President, Mr. Gerry, and Mr. Gardner, be a Committee to take into consideration a Letter this day received from the Honourable Stephen Hopkins, Esq., dated Providence, April 27, 1775.

Ordered, That Mr. Crane, Mr. Grout, and Mr. Fisher, be a Committee to take into consideration the expediency of establishing Post-Riders between the Massachusetts Forces and the Town of Worcester.

Ordered, That Mr. Crane, Mr. Grout, and Mr. Fisher, be a Committee to take into consideration the propriety of recommending to the several Towns and Districts in this Colony, that they take no notice of the Precepts lately issued by General Gage, for calling a General Assembly.

Ordered, That Major Fuller, of Newton, Mr. Goodman, Doctor Taylor, Doctor Baylies, and Major Brooks, be a Committee to prepare a form of a Commission for the several Officers of the Army now forming in this Province.

Adjourned to three o'clock this afternoon.

Afternoon.

Ordered, That Mr. Fisher, Doctor Taylor, and Benjamin Aiken, Esq., be a Committee to prepare a draught of Rules and Regulations, to be in future observed by the several Members of this Congress.

The Committee appointed in the forenoon, to take into consideration a Letter received from the Honourable Stephen Hopkins, Esq., reported.

The Report was accepted, and ordered to lie on the table, for the present.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to introduce the Honourable Delegates from the Convention at Exeter, in New-Hampshire, to the Committee of Safety, apply to said Committee for an authentick account of what transactions have certainly taken place with respect to the liberation of our friends in Boston, and report as soon as may be.

Ordered, That Colonel Dexter, Major Brooks, Doctor Taylor, Captain Batchelder, and Captain Greenleaf, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve, empowering the Committee of Supplies to procure such Provisions, Military Stores, and other Stores, as they shall judge necessary for the Army now forming in this Colony, during its establishment.

It was Moved, That the sense of this Congress be taken, whether it would be expedient to reduce the Pay of the Field-Officers of the Army. After much debate, the question was put, and it passed in the affirmative, by a large majority; whereupon it was determined, that the Pay of the Chief Colonel be reduced from fifteen Pounds to twelve Pounds, and that the Lieutenant-Colonels and Majors be reduced in the same proportion.

Ordered, That Major Fuller, of Newton, Colonel Dexter, and Captain Little, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve for that purpose.

Adjourned to eight o'clock to-morrow morning.

Saturday, April 29, 1775.

The Committee appointed to wait on the New-Hampshire Committee to the Committee of Safety at Cambridge, and to make inquiry respecting the liberation of the inhabitants of Boston, reported, that they had attended that business, and had brought from the Committee of Safety a number of papers, which contain the proceedings of the Town of Boston with General Gage, in respect to moving the inhabitants and their effects.

And that the Committee of Safety, having taken the substance of them into consideration, desired they might be returned to them, and that the Congress would not pass any resolve respecting them until they had come to some resolve concerning them; therefore,

Ordered, That the subject-matter of said Papers be referred to the consideration of the said Committee of Safety; they to make report to this Congress as soon as may be.

On a motion made, Ordered, That the day appointed for the first meeting of the County Committees, which was the first Wednesday in May next, be postponed to the fourth Wednesday in May next.

The Committee appointed to prepare a draught of Rules and Regulations to be observed by this Congress, reported; the Rules were read, and severally accepted, and are as follow, viz:

"1. No Member shall speak out of his place, nor without standing up, and applying to the President for leave, and shall sit down as soon as he is done speaking.

"2. No Member, speaking by leave of the President, shall be interrupted by another, but by rising up to speak to order.

"3. No Member shall speak more than twice to one question, without first obtaining leave of Congress, nor more than once, until others have spoken that shall desire it.

"4. Whenever any Member shall have liberty from the President to make a motion, and such motion shall be seconded by another, the same shall be received and considered by the Congress, and not otherwise.

"5. No Member shall declare or question whether it be a Vote or not.

"6. No grant for Money, or other thing, shall be made, unless there be a time before assigned for that purpose.

"7. No Vote shall be reconsidered when a less number is present in Congress than there was when it passed.

"8. No Member shall nominate more than one person for a Committee, provided the person so nominated be chosen.

"9. No Member shall be obliged to be upon more than two Committees at a time, nor Chairman of more than one.

"10. That no Member be permitted to stand up, to the interruption of another, while such other Member is speaking."

Ordered, That the Monitors of this Congress be, and they are hereby directed to see that the foregoing Rules are observed by the several Members of this Congress.

Ordered, That the Letter and Resolve, prepared to be sent to the Honourable Stephen Hopkins, Esq., of Rhode-Island, be recommitted for a suitable addition, and the Committee to sit forthwith.

Ordered, The Hon. Mr. Dexter be a Committee to bring in a Resolve, expressive of the Vote of this Congress for altering the first meeting of the County Committees.

The Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve, empowering the Committee of Supplies to procure Provisions and Military Stores, reported; the Report was read and accepted, and is as follows:

"In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
"April 29, 1775. }

"Resolved, That the Committee of Supplies be, and they hereby are empowered to purchase every kind of Military Stores, Provisions, and all other supplies which they shall judge necessary for the use of the Forces of this Colony, during the establishment of an Army for its defence, or until it shall be otherwise ordered, by this or some future Congress, or House of Representatives, on the credit of the Colony, and draw for suitable sums from the Treasury for payment of the same. Also to deposite the said Stores in such places as they, in consultation with the Generals of the Colony, shall judge proper; and to deliver such and so many of said Stores to the Commissary-General, from time to time, as he shall judge needful to supply the Army. Likewise, said Committee of Supplies are hereby empowered to employ such and so many Assistants as they shall judge necessary, to be paid as aforesaid; said Committee of Supplies to be accountable, when called upon, for their doings to this, or some future Congress, or House of Representatives of this Colony."

The Committee appointed to prepare an addition to a Letter to the Honourable Stephen Hopkins, Esquire, reported; which addition was read and accepted.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

The Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve, with respect to reducing the Pay of the Field-Officers, reported the following; which was read and accepted, and ordered to be signed by the Secretary, and transmitted to the Committee of Safety:

"In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
"April 29, 1775. }

"Whereas, the reducing of the several Regiments to be raised in the Provincial service, from one thousand men in a Regiment to five hundred and ninety, makes the service of the said Field-Officers of said Regiments less burdensome: therefore,

"Resolved, That the Pay of said Field-Officers be reduced one-fifth part from the first establishment, and that said Field-Officers' pay in said service of this Province to the last day of December next, unless dismissed before, shall be as follows, viz: A Colonel's pay twelve Pounds per month; a Lieut. Colonel's pay nine Pounds twelve Shillings per month; a Major's pay eight Pounds per month."

Ordered, That Mr. Rawson, Doctor Dunsmore, and Colonel Davis, be a Committee to wait on the Committee of Safety, now sitting at Cambridge, to inform them of the deep concern this Congress feel on account of the state and situation of the Cannon, and desire information respecting the disposition of them, and that this Committee forthwith proceed on this business.

Resolved, That this Congress will now proceed to choose a Committee to consider some method of supplying the Treasury.

Ordered, That Esquire Greenleaf, and Mr. Hall, (in the room of Doctor Holten and Mr. Batchelder,) be of the Committee to count and sort the votes.

The absent Members ordered to be called in.

The Honourable Mr. Dexter, who was appointed to bring in a Resolve expressive of the Vote of this Congress for altering the first meeting of the County Committees, reported; which Report being read and amended, was accepted, and is as follows:

"Whereas, this Congress, on the twelfth day of this instant, April, appointed a Committee for each County, to receive from the Committees of Correspondence in such Counties a state of the conduct of the Towns and Districts with respect to their having executed the Continental and Provincial measures, for the preservation of this Country from slavery: And whereas the distressed circumstances of the Colony may probably render it very inconvenient that so great a number of Members should be absent from the Congress on the first Wednesday of May next, the day mentioned for their first meeting:

"Therefore, Resolved, That the first meeting of said Committees be postponed to the fourth Wednesday in said month, and it is recommended to the several Committees of Correspondence to render a true state of the conduct of their respective Towns and Districts, on the said fourth Wednesday of May accordingly, and especially with respect to their outstanding Province Rates; any thing contained in the former Resolve of this Congress, differing herefrom, notwithstanding."

Ordered, That the several County Committees be, and they hereby are, directed to inform the Committees of Correspondence of the several Counties of the purport of the foregoing Resolve.

Ordered, That the Secretary be, and he hereby is, directed to notify the Chairman of each of the said County Committees of the purport of the said Resolve.

The Committee appointed to count and sort the votes for a Committee to consider on some method for supplying the Treasury, reported that the following gentlemen were chosen, viz:

The Reverend Mr. Murray, Colonel Dexter, Colonel Gerrish, Mr. Gill, Mr. Gerry, Captain Stone, and Captain Greenleaf.

On a motion made by the Reverend Mr. Murray that he might be excused from serving on the above Committee, and having offered his reasons therefor, the question was put, whether he be excused, agreeably to his request, from serving on said Committee; and it passed in the affirmative.

The Congress then made choice of Doctor Taylor to serve on said Committee, in the room of Mr. Murray, who hath been excused.

In Provincial Congress, April 29, 1775.

The President having received a Letter from Messrs. Nicholas Brown and Joseph Brown, dated Providence, April 27, 1775, desiring that this Congress would observe secrecy in respect to the capture of their brother, John Brown, at Newport, on the 26th instant: And also another from the Honourable Stephen Hopkins, Esquire, dated Providence, April 27th, 1775, presented the same to this Congress; which being read, Ordered, That Mr. Gerry, Colonel Gerrish, and Doctor Taylor, be, and they hereby are appointed a Committee to confer with the abovesaid Joseph Brown, who now waits the further advice of this Congress.

Ordered, That said Committee be, and they are hereby authorized to consider what is proper to be done, and make report forthwith.

The President likewise received a Letter from Worcester, enclosing one from New-York, dated April 24, 1775, which gave information of the arrival of a Packet there, with despatches for General Gage, and recommended that care be taken to intercept the same.

Ordered, That Colonel Grout be directed to carry the Letter, last mentioned, to the Committee of Safety, now sitting at Cambridge.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, seven o'clock.

Sunday, April 30, 1775.

The Committee appointed yesterday to wait on the Committee of Safety, reported that they had attended the business to which they were appointed, and brought from said Committee the following account:

"In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, }
"April 29, 1775. }

"Agreeably to the order of the Provincial Congress, this Committee have inquired into the state and situation of the Cannon and Ordnance Stores, with the provision made for the Companies of Artillery, and beg leave to report as follows, viz:

"In Cambridge, six three-pounders complete, with ammunition, and one six-pounder.

"In Watertown, sixteen pieces of artillery, of different sizes. The said six-pounder and sixteen pieces will be taken out of the way, and the first mentioned six pieces will be used in a proper way of defence.

"Captain Foster is appointed to command one of the Companies of Artillery, and ordered to enlist said Company.

"Captain William Lee, of Marblehead, has been sent for to take the command of another, and several other persons have been sent for to take the command of other Companies.

JOSEPH WARREN, Chairman."

Ordered, That Colonel Grout be directed to request of the Committee of Safety a Report respecting the inhabitants of Boston.

A motion was made for an addition to the Committee of Safety, and after some debate, the matter was ordered to subside.

The Congress then adjourned to twelve o'clock this day.

The Congress met at twelve o'clock, and adjourned to half after one.

Congress met pursuant to adjournment, and adjourned to half after three.

At which time the Congress met again.

Ordered, That another express be immediately sent to the Committee of Safety to procure their result with respect to moving out the inhabitants of Boston.

Ordered, That Colonel Mosely be directed to repair forthwith to Cambridge, on this errand.

The President was then directed to write a short Letter to said Committee on this important purpose. The Letter is as follows:

"In Provincial Congress, April 30, 1775.

"SIR: I am directed to inform you, that it is with regret this Congress find themselves obliged to send to the Committee of Safety a third messenger, to request their immediate Report on the subject of the removal of the poor inhabitants of Boston.

"To wait for that Report the Congress have suspended all proceedings on that matter, and sat in almost impatient expectation, by several adjournments, since seven o'clock this morning. I am obliged to request your answer by this express, without loss of time, that the Congress may then see what it is their duty to conclude on. I have the honour to be, with great respect, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN MURRAY.

"To Joseph Warren, Esquire, Chairman of the Committee of Safety."

Ordered, That Mr. Dix, Doctor Taylor, and Mr. Bullen, be a Committee to inquire into the conduct of the several Towns relative to the prisoners of war.

Ordered, That the Resolve, relative to altering the time of meeting of the County Committees, be printed in the Salem Gazette, and in the Massachusetts Spy.

A Committee from the Committee of Safety offered to this Congress a Resolve respecting the liberation of the inhabitants of Boston, which being read, and amended, was accepted, and is as follows:

"In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
April 30, 1775. }

"Whereas, an agreement has been made between General Gage and the inhabitants of the Town of Boston, for the removal of the persons and effects of such of the inhabitants of the Town of Boston as may be so disposed, excepting their fire-arms and ammunition, into the country:

"Resolved, That any of the inhabitants of this Colony, who may incline to go into the Town of Boston, with their effects, fire-arms and ammunition excepted, have toleration for that purpose, and that they be protected from any injury and insult whatsoever, in their removal to Boston, and that this Resolve be immediately published."

"P. S. Officers appointed for giving permits for the above purpose are, one at the sign of the Sun, at Charlestown, and another at the house of Mr. John Greateon, Jun., at Roxbury."

Ordered, That attested copies of the foregoing Resolve be forthwith posted up at Roxbury, Charlestown, and Cambridge.

Resolved, That the Resolution of Congress, relative to the removal of the inhabitants of Boston, be authenticated, and sent to the Selectmen of Boston, immediately to be communicated to General Gage, and also be published in the Worcester and Salem Papers.

Ordered, That Dr. Taylor, Mr. Bailey, Mr. Lothrop, Mr. Holmes, and Colonel Farley, be a Committee to consider what steps are necessary to be taken, for the assisting the poor of Boston in moving out with their effects, to bring in a Resolve for that purpose, and to set forthwith.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, seven o'clock.

Monday, May 1, 1775.

The Committee who were appointed to consider what steps are necessary to be taken with respect to assisting the poor of Boston in moving out with their effects, reported; the Report was recommitted for amendment, and Captain Smith, of Granby, Colonel Mosely, Captain Goodridge, and Major Smith, were added to the Committee.

Ordered, That Mr. Patridge, Doctor Baylies and Mr. Greenleaf, be a Committee to inspect the Papers of this Congress, and consider what would be proper to furnish the Printer with for publication, and make report.

The Committee appointed to inspect the Papers of the Congress, reported several extracts of Letters for publication, which are ordered to be delivered to Mr. Hall, of Salem, for that purpose.

On a motion made, that the sense of the Congress be taken on this question, viz: Whether the Commissions to be given for the Officers of the Army, now forming in this Colony, shall be signed by the President of the Congress: the question was put, and it passed in the affirmative.

Congress then adjourned to three o'clock, this afternoon.

Afternoon.

A Letter brought from Northampton, by express, from Major Hawley, respecting the bearer of despatches from General Gage, was read.

On which, Ordered, That Colonel Gerrish, Esquire Gardner and Major Gooding, be a Committee to take the same into consideration, and report.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Letter from Major Hawley, reported, that the most likely way of detecting the bearer of despatches for Governor Gage, was, to forward the said Letter by Major Gooding, to the Committee of Safety at Cambridge, that they may take order thereon.

Which Report was accepted, and the said Letter, together with two anonymous Letters from London, were ordered to be sent to the said Committee of Safety.

Moved, That William Read, Esq., be admitted in this House, to represent to this Congress the sufferings he met with on the 19th April last, at Lexington.

The question being put, after debate had thereon, it passed in the negative.

Ordered, That Captain Bragdon, Captain Dix, and Mr. Gill, be a Committee to confer with the above named Esquire Read, and to make report of their conference.

Resolved, That Mr. Gerry have leave to bring in an order of this House, for leave to the several Members of this Congress to pass the Guards of the Colony Army without molestation.

Mr. Gerry accordingly brought in an order for this purpose, and after debates had thereon, it was ordered to be recommitment.

The Committee appointed to prepare a form of a Commission for the Colony Officers, reported.

The form which they reported was read, and accepted, and is as follows:

“The Congress of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

“To Greeting:

“We, reposing especial trust and confidence in your courage and good conduct, do, by these presents, constitute and appoint you, the said to be of the Regiment of foot raised by the Congress aforesaid, for the defence of said Colony. You are, therefore, carefully and diligently to discharge the duty of a in leading, ordering and exercising the said in arms, both inferiour officers and soldiers, and to keep them in good order and discipline; and they are hereby commanded to obey you as their, and you are yourself to observe, and follow, such orders and instructions as you shall, from time to time, receive from the General and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces raised in the Colony aforesaid for the defence of the same, or any other your superiour officers, according to military rules and discipline in war, in pursuance of the trust reposed in you. By order of the Congress:

“ President pro tem.

“, the of A. D. 1775.

“ Secretary pro tem.”

Ordered, That a fair copy of the foregoing form of a Commission be taken, and transmitted to the press; and that one thousand copies thereof be printed.

Mr. Gerry again reported the form of a Pass for the use of the Members of this Congress; which was accepted, and six hundred of them ordered to be printed. It is as follows:

“To the Guards of the Colony Army.

“Pursuant to a Resolve of the Provincial Congress, you are hereby ordered to permit, a Member of said Congress, to pass and repass at all times.

“ Secretary.”

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May 1, 1775. }

Resolved, That the General Officer of the Army of this Colony be, and he hereby is directed to sign a sufficient number of blank Passes for Members of this Congress, and to deliver the same to the Secretary.

The Committee who were appointed to consider of measures for assisting the poor of Boston to move out of said Town, having amended their Report, again reported: which Report being read, was accepted, and one hundred and fifty copies thereof ordered to be printed, and a copy forthwith transmitted to the Committee of Donations in Boston, and that Mr. Gill take the charge of transmitting the same.

The Report is as follows, viz:

“In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
May 1, 1775. }

“Whereas, the inhabitants of the Town of Boston have been detained by General Gage, but at length, by agreement, are permitted to remove, with their effects, into the country; and as it has been represented to this Congress, that about five thousand of said inhabitants are indigent, and unable to be at the expense of removing themselves:

Therefore, Resolved, That it be, and it is hereby recommended to all the good people of this Colony, and especially to the Selectmen, and Committee of Correspondence most convenient to Boston, that they aid and assist such poor inhabitants with teams, wagons, &c., as shall procure a certificate from the Committee of Donations that they are unable to remove themselves; and it is further recommended to the Selectmen of the several Towns specified in the schedule annexed, to provide for said inhabitants, in the best and most prudent way, until this, or some future Congress shall take further order thereon; and that the said Selectmen receive, support, and employ their proportion of said inhabitants, assigned them in said schedule, and no other; and render their accounts to this or some future Congress, or House of Representatives, for allowance; which reasonable accounts shall be paid out of the publick Treasury. And it is further recommended to the Committee of Donations, to apply said donations for the removal of said inhabitants, and for their support whilst removing; and in case that is insufficient, it is further recommended to said Committee of Donations, that they make up said deficiency, and lay their accounts before the Congress for allowance; which reasonable expense shall be paid out of the publick Treasury of the Colony. And it is further Resolved, That the inhabitants of Boston thus removed, shall not, in future, be considered as the poor of said Town into which they remove; and it is to be understood, that if the number of the poor who shall be removed in consequence hereof, should surpass or fall short of the number herein calculated, the distribution of them shall be increased or diminished, in proportion to this regulation:

Ordered, That Mr. Patridge, Mr. Lothrop and Doctor Baylies, be directed to assist the Secretary in copying the foregoing Report, &c.

The Committee appointed to confer with William Read, Esq., reported the following, (presented to them by Wm. Read, Esq., of Lexington, in behalf of Joseph Loring, J. Loring, Jun., Widow Mulliken, and Joseph Pond.) viz:

"Joseph Loring, Joseph Loring, Jun., Widow Lydia Mulliken, and Joseph Pond, had their houses, furniture, provisions, and all apparel, burnt by Gen. Gage's Troops in the late battle, whereby they are reduced to a state of abject poverty. William Read, Esquire, prays, in behalf of the above distressed inhabitants of Lexington, that they may have a present relief from the honourable Congress of one hundred and sixty pounds of Pork, in order to prevent their starving."

Whereupon, Ordered, That the Committee of Supplies be, and they are hereby directed to deliver to said William Read, Esq., or to his order, for the use of the said Joseph Loring, Joseph Loring, Jun., Widow Mulliken, and Joseph Pond, one barrel of Pork.

Ordered, That Mr. Hollock, Colonel How and Captain White, be a Committee to consider what is proper to be done, with respect to furnishing the Army with some present necessities.

All the Committees were enjoined to sit.

Adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, May 2, 1775.

Resolved, That another President be chosen pro tem., and that he be chosen by nomination.

Colonel Warren was then nominated and chosen.

Ordered, That Mr. Patridge, Doctor Taylor and Mr. Dix, be a Committee to wait on Colonel Warren, to inform him of said choice.

Colonel Warren accordingly attended, and after offering his reasons for excuse, Moved, that a Committee be appointed to wait on Doctor Joseph Warren, informing him of the absence of the Reverend Mr. Murray, who has lately officiated as President, and to know if he can now attend the Congress in that station. Whereupon,

Ordered, That Doctor Dunsmore be a Committee for that purpose; who accordingly waited upon Doctor Warren, and received the following reply:

"Cambridge, May 2, 1775.

"Doctor Warren presents his best respects to the honourable the Provincial Congress: informs them that he will obey their order, and attend his duty in Congress in the afternoon."

Ordered, That Colonel Gerrish, Colonel Warren, Hon. Mr. Dexter, Mr. Gill, and Capt. Brown, of Abington, be a Committee to consider the propriety of taking measures for securing the records of those Counties which are more immediately exposed in this day of danger.

Ordered, That the Honourable Mr. Dexter, Colonel Warren, and Mr. Gill, be a Committee to prepare a draught of a Letter to the Delegates of Congress, now in Connecticut, giving them instruction with respect to the arrival at this Colony of two gentlemen from the Assembly of Connecticut, with an address to General Gage, and a commission to treat with him respecting a cessation of hostilities, &c.

Ordered, That Captain Stone, of Oakham, Deacon Rawson, and Major Fuller, of Newton, be a Committee to draw up the form of an oath to be taken by the Officers and Soldiers of the Army, now forming in this Colony.

The Committee appointed to consider what might be proper to be done with respect to furnishing the Army with some present necessities, reported.

The Report was read, and ordered to lie on the table for the present.

A Letter from Manchester, to Doctor Taylor, respecting a computation of the Taxes paid by Great Britain and America, &c., was read: Whereupon, Ordered, That Mr. Webster, Deacon Cheever, and Captain Stone, be a Committee to take the said Letter into consideration, and make report.

The Committee who were appointed to prepare a Letter to the Delegates of this Congress at Connecticut, reported; which Report being read, was unanimously accepted, and is as follows, viz:

"GENTLEMEN: Although this Congress entertain the highest opinion of the virtue and publick spirit of the Colony of Connecticut, and have not the smallest doubt of the attachment of the General Assembly of that Colony to the glorious cause of freedom, now threatened with total destruction by a corrupt Ministry; yet the arrival of two gentlemen, of the first character, from that Colony, with an address to General Gage, and a commission to treat with him on the subject of American grievances, and to propose, as we are informed, a cessation of hostilities, at a time when that gentleman can be considered in no other light than as an instrument in the hands, and under the absolute direction of Administration, to subjugate, and for that detestable purpose, to spread slaughter and destruction among His Majesty's loyal subjects; of his disposition to do which, he has recently given a flagrant proof in massacring a number of innocent people, who were in the peace of God and the King; and by other acts of injustice and cruelty, we cannot but be greatly alarmed for the consequences. Any interruptions of that happy union of the Colonies which has taken place, would prove of the most fatal tendency, and we cannot but view every kind of negotiation between any Colony and the chief instrument of ministerial vengeance here, as being likely to operate towards such an interruption. We apprehend that things are now reduced to such a state, that nothing but an immediate recourse to arms, and a steady and persevering exertion in military operations can possibly prevent our destruction, and that a recourse to any other method is, at best, nugatory and vain.

"Any proposals, either to Parliament, to the Ministry, or to their Agents here, made separately by a single Colony, may produce most tremendous events with regard to America; and we apprehend nothing could be more pleasing to our enemies than the making such proposals. We are so deeply impressed with the sense of the importance and absolute necessity of a thorough union of the Colonies, and particularly with respect to the raising and supporting an Army, to act with the utmost vigour at this alarming crisis; and so fearful of any measures taking place, whereby the common cause may be endangered, that we have unanimously concluded it necessary to suggest to you our fears respecting the effects of this embassy from Connecticut to Gage; and we expect you will make a proper representation of the sentiments of this Congress to their Assembly, in hopes that you will receive such an explanation of their motives, and such assurances of their intention immediately to co-operate with this Colony, as may remove every gloomy apprehension, and confirm us in that high estimation in which we have ever held the respectable Colony of Connecticut."

"P. S. If the Assembly is dissolved, it is expected that you will tarry to treat with the next Assembly.

"To Jedediah Foster, Timothy Danielson, and John Bliss, Esquires."

On motion made,

Ordered, That at three o'clock this afternoon, this Congress do take into consideration the Precepts issued by General Gage for calling a General Assembly.

Resolved, That Captain Goodman be directed to take the charge of transmitting, forthwith, the Letter to the Delegates of this Colony, now in Connecticut.

Ordered, That a postscript be added to said Letter, instructing said Delegates that if their Assembly should be dissolved, they tarry there, to treat with the new Assembly.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

A Letter was presented to this Congress by Esquire Aikin, from Mr. Lemuel Williams, dated Dartmouth, May 1st, 1775, to said Aikin, which was read: Whereupon,

Ordered, That Mr. Batchelder, Esquire Dix, Colonel Farley, Mr. Greenleaf, and Mr. Bent, be a Committee to take the said Letter into consideration, and report as soon as may be, and that Esquire Aikin be desired to attend on said Committee.

The Order of the Day was moved for.

Resolved, That the further consideration of the Precepts for calling a General Assembly, be referred to Thursday next, at ten o'clock, A. M.

Ordered, That Deacon Cheever, Colonel Warren, Mr. Gill, Honourable Mr. Dexter, and the President, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve, for the purpose of granting liberty to such persons in Boston as incline to send into the country for their effects, that so another obstacle may be removed to the liberating of the inhabitants of Boston.

Ordered, That Mr. Gerry, President Warren, Hon. Mr. Dexter, Colonel Warren, and Colonel Gerrish, be a Committee to forward an express to the honourable Continental Congress, with authenticated copies of the Depositions and Address to the inhabitants of Great Britain, and Letter to Mr. Franklin, lately sent to Great Britain, per Captain Derby, of Salem; also, to send another original set of said papers by said express, to be forwarded by the vessel in the Southern Colonies, to London, and to report an application to be sent by said express to the Continental Congress.

Colonel Learned moved, that the sense of this Congress might be taken, whether the Regiment he is now raising, may be a Regiment of Grenadiers. The matter was ordered to subside.

A motion was made and seconded, that a Committee be appointed, to take into consideration the expediency of drafting a certain proportion of the Town's stock of Powder, &c., from such Towns as they shall think proper, for the present supply of the Army now establishing in this Colony. The matter was ordered to subside until the Congress had passed upon a Report for giving license to such persons in Boston as incline to send into the country for their effects; which Report was read, amended, and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

"In Provincial Congress, Watertown, May 2, 1775.

"Resolved, That such inhabitants of this Colony as have repaired to the Town of Boston, there to take up their residence, and have effects in the other Towns of this Government, be permitted, each of them, to send out a servant or other person, without arms, to put up and transport into the said Town of Boston, any such goods or effects, excepting arms and ammunition; and that the officers appointed for granting permits at Roxbury and Charlestown, be, and hereby are directed to provide a suitable attendant to each person so sent out, whose business it shall be to continue with him till he returns, and that permits, agreeable to the intention of this Resolve, be granted."

Ordered, That Mr. Freeman, Doctor Taylor, Mr. Lewis, Colonel Dwight, and Esquire Gardner, be a Committee to consider what measures are proper to be taken for liberating those persons who were taken prisoners by the Troops under the command of General Gage, on the 19th of April.

The Committee appointed to devise ways and means for supplying the Treasury, reported, as to the first step, and asked leave to sit again.*

All the Committees were enjoined to sit.

Adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Wednesday, May 3, 1775.

Ordered, That Deacon Cheever be desired to make application to the Reverend Doctor Cooper, to request that he would officiate as Chaplain to this Congress during its session in this place.

Ordered, That Doctor Taylor, Mr. Lothrop, and Mr. Paine, be a Committee to forward the Proclamations for a Fast into the country as soon as possible.

Resolved, That this last mentioned Order be reconsidered; and thereupon, Ordered, That the Committee who were appointed at Concord for dispersing the Proclamations, be required to perform their duty with all possible expedition.

On the application from the Committee of Safety relative to supplying Col. Arnold with one hundred Pounds, and sundry Warlike Stores, Ordered, That Mr. Greenleaf, Mr. Gill, and Mr. Partridge, be a Committee to take said application into consideration, and report.

The Committee on the application from the Committee of Safety reported. The Report was read and accepted, and is as follows:

"In Provincial Congress, Watertown, May 3, 1775.

"Resolved, That the within request of the Committee of Safety be granted, and that the Committee of Supplies be, and they hereby are directed to furnish Colonel Benedict Arnold with ten Horses, two hundred pounds of Gunpowder, two hundred pounds of Lead Balls, and one thousand Flints, at the expense of the Colony; and that said Committee draw upon Henry Gardner, Esquire, Receiver-General, for one hundred Pounds, in favour of said Arnold, and take his receipt for the whole, said Arnold to be accountable therefor to this or some other Congress, or future House of Representatives."

Ordered, That Colonel Warren, Doctor Holten, Mr. Dix, Colonel Farley, and Doctor Taylor, be a Committee to ascertain the power of the Committees of Supplies and of Safety, and to see whether it be necessary that they be invested with other powers than they now have.

The Committee appointed to bring in the form of a Resolve, empowering the Treasurer to borrow a certain sum of Money, and the form of a Note to be by him given to the lender, &c., reported. The Report was amended, read, and accepted, and is as follows:

Resolved, That the Receiver-General be, and hereby is empowered and directed to borrow the sum of One Hundred Thousand Pounds, lawful money, and issue Colony securities for the same, payable with annual interest, at six per cent., June 1st, 1777; and that the Continental Congress be desired to recommend to the several Colonies to give a currency to such securities.

Resolved, That the Securities given by the Receiver-General for the Moneys borrowed by him, in pursuance of the foregoing Resolve, be in the form following, viz:

"No. . . . The . . . day of A. D. 177 .

"Borrowed and received of A. B. the sum of Pounds, lawful money, for the use and service of the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay; and in behalf of said Colony, I do hereby promise and oblige myself and my successors in the office of Treasurer or Receiver-General, to repay to the said A. B., or to his order, on the first day of

* The Committee appointed to devise ways and means for supplying the Treasury, beg leave to report, as the first step, that the Receiver General be empowered and directed to borrow the sum of One Hundred Thousand Pounds, and issue Colony securities in the form following, payable with annual interest, at six per cent., in the year 1777; and that when the subscription is filled up, the Continental Congress be desired to recommend it to the several Colonies, to give a currency to such securities in all payments whatsoever, and that a Resolve pass for that purpose. The Committee ask leave to sit again.

S. DEXTER, per order.

June, 1777, the aforesaid sum of Pounds, lawful money, in Spanish milled dollars, at six shillings each, or in the several species of coined silver and gold enumerated in an act for ascertaining the rates at which coined silver and gold, English half-pence and farthings, may pass within this Government, and according to the rates therein mentioned, with interest, to be paid annually, at six per cent.

The Committee on the Letter from Mr. Lee to Doctor Taylor, reported verbally, that a copy of said Letter be forwarded to our Members of the Continental Congress.

Upon a motion, the question was put, whether the above Report be accepted, and passed in the negative.

Resolved, That in all orders for impressing Horses and Carriages, the Horses and Carriages of the Members of this Congress be excepted, and that a copy of this Resolve be sent to the Committee of Safety and Committee of Supplies.

Ordered, That at three o'clock this afternoon, the Congress will take into consideration the propriety of establishing pay for a Brigade Major.

Ordered, That at five o'clock this afternoon, the Congress will come to the choice of a Committee of three persons (by ballot) to procure a Copperplate for printing the Colony Notes, and to countersign them.

Ordered, That the Committee who reported a Resolve relative to borrowing Money, &c., bring in a Resolve that no note be given by the Receiver-General for a less sum than four Pounds.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

The Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve that no note be given by the Receiver-General for any sum less than four Pounds, reported; the Report was amended and accepted, and is as follows:

"Whereas, inconveniences may arise by the Receiver-General issuing notes for small sums:

"Therefore, resolved, That the Receiver-General be, and he hereby is, directed not to issue any notes for a less sum than four Pounds, lawful money."

The Report of the Committee appointed to take into consideration the advance pay to the Soldiers, was taken up and read, but as part of the Report is superseded by a Resolve in the morning:

"Therefore, ordered, That the Report be recommitted, and that part thereof which hath been superseded be left out, and that each Soldier be allowed twenty Shillings, lawful money, advance.

The Order of the Day was moved for.

Resolved, That Captain Parker, Colonel Howe, and Colonel Farley, be a Committee to take into consideration the propriety of establishing pay for a Brigade Major.

The above Vote was reconsidered.

The Committee appointed to report the form of an Oath, reported; the Report was read, and recommitted.

Ordered, That Major Fuller and Captain Brown, of Watertown, be a Committee to count and sort the votes for a Committee to procure a Copperplate for printing the Colony Notes, and to countersign them.

The Committee having attended that service, reported, that the Honourable Samuel Dexter, Esquire, Doctor Joseph Warren, and Mr. Moses Gill, were chosen.

Mr. Cheever, who was appointed to wait on the Reverend Doctor Cooper, and desire his attendance on this Congress to officiate as their Chaplain, reported, that he had attended the service assigned him, and that the state of the Doctor's affairs was such that he could not attend, according to the desire of the Congress.

The Committee appointed to report a Letter to the Continental Congress, reported; the Report was read and accepted, and ordered to be copied, and forwarded as soon as may be.

Ordered, That Colonel Davis be desired to wait on the Reverend Mr. Gordon, and desire that he would attend on this Congress, and officiate as their Chaplain during their session in the Town of Watertown.

The Committee who were appointed to take under consideration the advance pay to the Soldiers, reported; the Report was recommitted, and Captain Stone and Doctor Taylor added to the Committee.

The Committee who were appointed to consider what measures are proper to be taken for liberating those persons who were taken prisoners by the Troops, under General Gage, on the nineteenth of April, reported a Resolve; which was read and accepted, and Ordered, that any Member who desires a copy may have one.* The Resolve is as follows:

"In Provincial Congress, Watertown, }
"May 3, 1775. }

"Whereas, a number of the inhabitants of this Colony were taken prisoners by the Troops, under the command of General Gage, on the nineteenth of April last, and are by him so held:

"Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Congress, that an application be sent to General Gage, signed by the wives or nearest relations of such prisoners, and the Selectmen of the Towns to which they respectively belong, desiring that he would discharge their friends from their said imprisonment; and they are empowered hereby to offer to send in to the General an equal number of his Troops, now in the hands of this people, who were taken prisoners on the aforesaid nineteenth of April, upon his liberating their friends as aforesaid."

Adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Thursday, May 4, 1775.

Colonel Davis, who was appointed to wait upon the Reverend Mr. Gordon, to desire that he would officiate as Chaplain to this Congress, reported that he had waited upon Mr. Gordon, and that Mr. Gordon informed him that he would attend accordingly.

The Committee who were appointed to take into consideration the advance pay to the Soldiers, again reported; which Report was read, amended, and accepted, and ordered to be authenticated, and sent forthwith to Head-Quarters. It is as follows:

"Whereas, the distressed state of this Colony, at this alarming crisis, calls for its utmost exertions that the Army now to be raised be forthwith completed:

"Therefore, resolved, That each non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier, who has or shall enlist himself into the service of this Colony, shall have twenty Shillings paid him out of the Receiver-General's Office, as an advance; and that the Commanding Officer of each Regiment, who shall be empowered to act as Muster-Master for his said Regiment, shall draw from the Receiver-General's Office the sum of twenty Shillings for each Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier in his said Regiment, and pay the same, according to the tenour of this Resolve, as soon as said men shall have enlisted themselves and be duly sworn, and give his bond (with sufficient surety) to the Receiver-General therefor; said bond to be discharged by a receipt produced by said Officer from each Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier, that he has received the same."

On application made to this Congress for an order on the Committee of Supplies for one barrel of Powder, for the use of the inhabitants of Falmouth, in Casco-Bay:

Ordered, That this matter be referred to the said Committee of Supplies; they to act thereon as they think best.

The Order of the Day moved for.

The absent Members were ordered to be called in.

On a motion made, that a Committee be appointed to bring in a Resolve containing a reconsideration of a Resolve passed by this Congress at Concord, the first of April

* IN PROVINCIAL CONGRESS, WATERTOWN, MAY 3, 1775.

The Committee who were appointed by this Congress to consider what measures are proper to be taken for liberating those persons who were taken prisoners by the Troops under General Gage, on the nineteenth of April, beg leave to report, they are of opinion, that if an application were sent to General Gage, signed by the wives or nearest relations of such prisoners, and the Selectmen of the Towns to which they respectively belong; who are empowered hereby to offer to send in those names, it would be the most effectual method which could be taken for their release; but if such application should be unsuccessful, they think it would be highly expedient for this Congress to consent to an exchange of prisoners; further, to take such measures in assistance to the friends of those unhappy captives as, in their wisdom, they may think will be proper to be taken for that purpose.

last, giving it as their opinion, that "If Writs should be issued for calling a General Assembly, to be held on the last Wednesday of May next, that the several Towns in this Colony ought to obey such precepts," and to bring in a Resolve recommending to the several Towns and Districts in this Colony not to obey such precepts: after a long and serious debate, the question was put, and it passed in the affirmative. For the question 94; the whole number of the House 107.

Colonel Warren, Mr. Gerry, Colonel Gerrish, Doctor Holten, and Colonel Mandell, were accordingly appointed for this purpose.

Ordered, That Captain Stone, of Framingham, Mr. Bent, and Major Fuller, be a Committee to examine the returns of the several Towns and Districts' stocks of Powder, and to bring in a Resolve recommending to such Towns as they think proper, which are not immediately exposed, to furnish the Towns of Falmouth and Arundel with one barrel of Powder each.

Adjourned to three o'clock, this afternoon.

Afternoon.

Resolved, That General Putnam and Colonel Porter, who were, with others of the Committee of Safety, appointed by the said Committee of Safety and the Council of War to lay some special matters before this Congress, be admitted into this House, and that Colonel Warren, Mr. Devens, and Colonel Gerrish, be a Committee to introduce them.

The left hand front Pew was assigned them to sit in.

The absent Members were directed to attend.

The said Committee having accordingly attended this Congress, they informed the Congress, that the gentlemen delegated by the Assembly of Connecticut, to execute an embassy to General Gage, had come out of Boston with Letters from him to the Assembly of Connecticut, of which they thought it proper to inform this Congress, that they might take order thereon if they thought fit. Whereupon, Ordered, That the President, Colonel Warren, Doctor Holten, Colonel Gerrish, Colonel Palmer, Doctor Baylies, Doctor Taylor, Mr. Gardner, Mr. Patridge, Mr. Gerry, and Mr. Mills, together with the Committee from the Committee of Safety and Council of War, be a Committee to hold a conference with the said Delegates from Connecticut, and to attend forthwith.

The Committee appointed to inquire into the conduct of the several Towns, relative to the prisoners of war, reported. Whereupon, Ordered, That Mr. Wyman apply to the Committee of Safety, desiring that they would take such measures with respect to the Colony Stores, and two Regular Officers, with their waiters, now at Woburn, as will remove the necessity of keeping so large a guard as is now placed there to guard the same.

The Committee appointed to confer with the Connecticut Delegates, reported, that they had conferred with them on the subject of their embassy, and of the Letter to their Assembly from General Gage; but that they thought it inconsistent with their honour, and the interest of the Colonies, to open it; but that they would use their influence when they returned, to have the contents of it communicated to this Colony.

Moved, That the Delegates from Connecticut be desired to attend this Congress.

After debate, the matter was ordered to subside.

Ordered, That the President, Colonel Warren, Colonel Dwight, Mr. Gerry, and Colonel Holten, be a Committee to return the compliments to the gentlemen from Connecticut, for their patient attendance to the inquiry made of them by this Congress, respecting their embassy to General Gage.

Moved, That the Resolve passed yesterday, respecting advance pay for the Soldiers, be reconsidered, so far as it respects Muster-Masters, and that two Muster-Masters be appointed by this Congress.

After debate, the matter was ordered to subside.

Ordered, That the President, Mr. Gerry, and Colonel Warren, be a Committee to prepare a Letter to the Assembly of Connecticut, respecting their late application to General Gage.

Ordered, That Captain Stone, Mr. Mills, Captain Mc-

Cobb, Doctor Perkins, Colonel Grout, and Mr. Kollock, be directed to copy the Depositions of the late hostile proceedings of General Gage's Troops, to be transmitted to Connecticut.

Adjourned until to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Friday, May 5, 1775.

Ordered, That Deacon Stickney and Mr. Webster be added to the Committee who were appointed to examine the Returns, and Districts' stock of Powder, &c., May 4, A. M.

Ordered, That Doctor Taylor, Mr. Batchelder, and Doctor Holten, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve, relative to an obstruction to the removing the inhabitants of Boston, as expressed in a Letter to this Congress from the Selectmen of Boston, and other papers; and that said Resolve, when passed, together with the Resolve that passed this Congress the second instant, giving license to those persons in Boston who incline to send a servant out for their effects, be authenticated and transmitted to General Ward.

The Committee who were appointed to bring in two Resolves respecting General Gage's Writs for calling an Assembly, reported; both of which were read and accepted, and are as follows, viz:

Whereas, this Congress did, at their session at Concord, on the first day of April last, resolve, as their opinion, that if Writs be issued (in form as the law directs) for calling a General Assembly, to be held on the last Wednesday of May next, that such Writs should be obeyed, &c. And whereas, many reasons now prevail, to convince us that consequences of a dangerous nature would result from the operation of that Resolution: therefore,

Resolved, That the said Vote and Resolution be reconsidered, and it is hereby reconsidered and declared null and void.

Whereas, his Excellency General Gage, since his arrival in this Colony, hath conducted as an instrument in the hands of an arbitrary Ministry to enslave this people, and a detachment under his command have of late been ordered to the Town of Concord, to destroy the publick Stores deposited in that place for the use of the Colony: and whereas, by this clandestine and perfidious measure, a number of respectable inhabitants of the Colony, without any provocation, have been illegally, wantonly, and inhumanly slaughtered by the Troops: therefore,

Resolved, That the said General Gage hath, by these means, and many others utterly disqualified himself to serve this Colony as a Governour, and in every other capacity, and that no obedience ought, in future, to be paid by the several Towns and Districts in this Colony to his Writs for calling an Assembly, or to his Proclamations, or any other of his acts or doings; but that, on the other hand, he ought to be considered and guarded against as an unnatural and inveterate enemy to this Country.

Ordered, That Mr. Gardner, Colonel Dwight, and Colonel Warren, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve, recommending the several Towns and Districts in this Colony, to choose Delegates for a new Provincial Congress, to be held on the last Wednesday of the present month.

The Committee who were appointed to prepare the form of an Oath, to be taken by the Officers and Soldiers of the Army now raising in this Colony, reported; which Report was ordered for the present to subside.

The Committee who were this day appointed to bring in a Resolve for the purpose of removing an obstruction to the liberating the inhabitants of Boston, reported; which Report was ordered to be recommitted, and that Mr. Gill and Mr. Patridge be added to the Committee.

The Committee who were yesterday appointed to prepare a Letter to the Assembly of Connecticut, reported a Letter, which was read, amended, and accepted, and is as follows:

To the Honourable the Governour and Company of the Colony of CONNECTICUT:

GENTLEMEN: The Delegates appointed by your respectable Assembly, to treat with General Gage on the late unhappy events which have occurred in this Colony, have favoured us with a conference, and communicated the substance of their interview with him. We are greatly alarmed at the unparalleled wickedness of our unnatural enemies, in endeavouring to persuade our sister Colony that the inhabitants of this first commenced hostilities; a suggestion which we cannot but think will appear absurd, when the great inequality of the Lexington Company, and detachment of Regular Troops which attacked them, is coolly considered. But to put this matter in the clearest light, we beg leave to enclose you the copies of depositions, taken by order of this Congress and despatched for London, containing the most incontestable evidence that the King's Troops first fired upon and killed several of the inhabitants of this Colony, before any injury was offered to them. We also enclose you the copies of an Address to the inhabitants of Great Britain, and of a letter to our Colony Agent, and think it expedient to suspend the publication of the address and letter, until they shall have had their effect in England.

The experience which we have had of General Gage, hath fully convinced us that but little dependance can be placed in his professions. Whilst he has been collecting his forces, fortifying our capital, and in every other respect preparing for war, we have been amused with his pretension to benevolence and kindness, evidently calculated to retard the measures which we were necessarily pursuing for self-defence. And we are constrained to declare, that should he be at any future time possessed of forces superiour to those raised for opposing him, we should, from his past conduct, have no hopes of escaping the heaviest vengeance which ministerial tyranny could devise, assisted by the most inveterate enemies to mankind in general, and of this their native Country in particular.

On the exertions of the Colonies and blessings of Heaven, we alone can depend for safety and support; and it is clearly the opinion of this Congress, that the establishment of a powerful army is the best and only measure left to bring the present disputes to a happy issue.

It is evidently the business of the General to subjugate these and the other Colonies; and we think there are the most convincing proofs, that, in order to effect it, he is constantly aiming to suspend their operations for defence until his re-enforcements shall arrive. But although we have been under great apprehensions with respect to the advantages which the conference of Connecticut with General Gage may give our enemies, yet we have the greatest confidence in the wisdom and vigilance of your respectable Assembly and Colony, as well as of our other sister Colonies, and have reason to hope, that while he fails in his intentions to lull and deceive this Continent, he can never accomplish his designs to conquer it.

Ordered, That the foregoing Letter be fairly copied and authenticated, and committed to the care of Col. Dwight, together with the copy of the Depositions respecting the late hostile proceedings of General Gage's Troops, attested by the Secretary, to be delivered by Colonel Dwight to the Governour and Company of Connecticut, as soon as may be.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

The Committee who were to bring in a Resolve for the purpose of removing an obstruction to the liberating the inhabitants of Boston, again reported; which Report being read and accepted, it was ordered that Mr. Patridge carry the same immediately to Mr. Ward. It is as follows, viz:

Resolved, That the following Letter be sent to General Ward, and a copy of the same to the Selectmen of Boston:

In Provincial Congress, May 5, 1775.

SIR: By the enclosed papers you will see that the liberation of our good friends in Boston is greatly obstructed; therefore, Sir, you are directed to examine into the matter, and give such orders as shall be effectual for the future; strictly to execute the resolutions of this Congress, respecting permits into the country, and protection of all persons thus permitted; and also communicate your doings hereon to the Selectmen of Boston with all possible despatch, that our friends may not be detained any longer; and also that you give directions to your officers, carefully to execute the resolves of Congress in all matters in which they are to act, without any levity, or indecency of expression or behaviour.

To the Honourable Artemas Ward, Esquire.

P. S. The pass given by the Selectmen must be in strict conformity to the resolve of Congress, viz: That the bearer is sent out to put up and transport into the Town of Boston, the goods and effects of such persons as have repaired to Boston, there to take up their residence.

On a Petition from Charles Glidden and others, for a supply of Powder, &c.:

Ordered, That Doctor Taylor inform said Glidden, now in waiting, that this Congress would gladly comply with their request, did not the present exigencies of the Colony make it necessary that all their stock of Ammunition be retained in the Colony Magazine.

The Committee who were appointed to bring in a Resolve, recommending the choice of Delegates for a new Provincial Congress, reported the following, which was read and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas the term for which this present Congress was chosen, expires on the thirtieth instant, and the exigencies of our publick affairs render it absolutely necessary, for the safety of this Colony, that a new Congress be elected and convened, to consider of and transact the publick affairs thereof:

Resolved, That it be, and it is hereby recommended to the several Towns and Districts in this Colony, that they each of them do forthwith elect and depute as many Members as to them shall seem necessary and expedient, to represent them in a Provincial Congress, to be held at the meeting-house in Watertown, on the thirty-first day of May instant, to be chosen by such only as are qualified by law to vote for Representatives in the General Assembly, and to be continued by adjournment from day to day, as they shall see cause, until the expiration of six months from their being first convened on the thirty-first of this instant, May, and no longer, and consult, deliberate, and resolve upon such further measures as; under God, shall be effectual to save this people from impending ruin, and to secure those inestimable liberties derived to us from our ancestors, and which it is our duty to preserve for posterity.

Ordered, That this last mentioned Resolve, together with the Resolve passed in the forenoon, respecting General Gage's precepts, be printed in handbills, and that Major Fuller, Captain Batchelder, and Esquire Dix, be a Committee to get the same printed and dispersed to the several Towns and Districts in this Colony.

The gentlemen who were appointed Delegates for this Colony, to the Colony of Connecticut, reported, that they had attended the business to which they were appointed, and had brought a letter from the Speaker of the Connecticut Assembly, which they laid before this Congress.

Resolved, That the Vote which passed in Congress this day, respecting a Petition made by Charles Glidden and others, for Powder and Ball, be reconsidered, and that the Committee of Supplies be, and hereby are desired to furnish the said Charles Glidden, for the use of the subscribers to said Petition, one half barrel of Powder, and such a quantity of Lead as will be proper and proportional thereto.

Resolved, That the Assembly of Connecticut be supplied with the Rules and Regulations which have been recommended to be observed by the Army now raising in this Colony.

On a motion made by Captain McCobb, that some measures might be taken to preserve a number of large Masts, Plank, &c., now lying in Kennebeck River, and to prevent their being carried to Halifax, where they might be used to the injury of this Country:

Ordered, That the consideration thereof be referred to the Committee of Safety, and that Captain McCobb be desired to attend the said Committee, and give them all the information he can, relative thereto.

A Resolution of the Committee of Safety, giving it as their opinion, that Government in full form ought to be taken up immediately, was read: Whereupon, Ordered, That the consideration of this matter be referred to Tuesday next, at three o'clock, P. M.

Adjourned until to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Saturday, May 6, 1775.

Afternoon.

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be, and they are hereby empowered to procure Powder, in such quantities as they shall think necessary, not only at Connecticut and Rhode-Island, but at New-York, or any other Colony on the Continent.

Ordered, That Mr. Sawyer, Captain Stone, and Doctor Taylor, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve for the purpose of appointing two Officers (one in each Camp) of the Colony Army, whose business it shall be to pass muster on the Soldiers, and draw for them, out of the Treasury, their half month's pay.

Ordered, That the President, Colonel Dexter, Colonel Warren, Doctor Holten, and Mr. Mills, be a Committee to take into consideration the Letter received yesterday from the Speaker of the General Assembly of Connecticut.

A form of a Pass, and Resolve thereon, brought in by Colonel Warren, was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

"To the Guards of the Colony Army:

"Pursuant to a Resolve of the Provincial Congress, you are hereby ordered to permit, a Member of said Congress, to pass and repass, with his company, at all times., President pro tem.

- "May . . . , 1775."

Resolved, That the General Officer of the Army of this Colony be, and hereby is directed to give orders to his Officers to pay obedience to all Permits of the foregoing form, signed by the President of this Congress.

Resolved, That Colonel Dwight proceed with the Letters and Depositions, as ordered by this Congress, with all possible speed, to Hartford, there to tarry (if, at his discretion, he thinks necessary) until he receives an answer to said Letter, and a copy of the Letter sent by General Gage to the Assembly at Connecticut; and to inform the said Assembly of the alteration made by this Congress in the pay of the Field-Officers of the Army now raising in this Colony.

Ordered, That Mr. Whiting, Major Fuller, Colonel Thurston, Doctor Taylor, Colonel Field, Doctor Sawyer, and Colonel Warren, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve containing a reconsideration of the Resolve passed yesterday, respecting the choice of Delegates for a new Congress, so far as to determine what Towns should send Members, and how many Members each Town and District ought to send.

This last Order was reconsidered: Whereupon,

Ordered, That Mr. Rawson, of Mendon, Colonel Gardner, Mr. Thurston, Esquire Davis, and Mr. Sawyer, be a Committee to take into consideration an equal representation of this Colony, and report thereon.

Ordered, That Colonel Thurston, Esquire Dix, and Mr. Lothrop, be a Committee, to take into consideration the form of an Establishment for the Train, and report a Resolve thereon.

The Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve for the appointment of Muster-Masters, reported.

Resolved, That three o'clock this afternoon be assigned for choosing two Muster-Masters, and that they be chosen by ballot.

Col. Lincoln brought in a Resolve empowering the Committee of Supplies to import Military Stores from such place, and in such manner and quantities, as they shall judge proper; which was read and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, in the course of the present disputes with Great Britain, it may be necessary to import, on the risk of the Colony, many kinds of Military and other Stores:

Resolved, That the Committee of Supplies be, and they hereby are empowered and directed to import, or cause to be imported from any place whatever, such and so many Stores aforesaid, as they shall judge necessary for the defence of the Colony, and the same to risk at their discretion, with or without making insurance on the vessels and cargoes which may be so sent out or imported.

Ordered, That this Resolve be kept an absolute and entire secret by every Member of this Congress.

Resolved, That four o'clock this afternoon be assigned to consider if any method can be taken for settling the appointment of the Field-Officers.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

The Order of the Day was read.

Ordered, That Mr. Dix, Mr. Gill, and Doctor Sawyer, be a Committee to sort and count the votes for two Muster-Masters; who reported, that General John Whitcomb and Colonel Benjamin Lincoln were unanimously chosen.

The Report of the Committee respecting the appointment of Muster-Masters, was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Resolved, That General John Whitcomb and Colonel Benjamin Lincoln be, and hereby are appointed Muster-Masters in the Massachusetts Army, whose business it shall be to pass muster on every Soldier that shall be enlisted into said Army, and by no means to accept of any but such as are able-bodied effective men; and also examine if their Arms and Accoutrements are in proper order. And said Muster-Masters are hereby directed and empowered to receive from Henry Gardner, Esq., Receiver-General, or his successors in office, twenty Shillings, lawful money, for each and every Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier thus mustered and sworn, who shall appear with their Arms and Accoutrements; and shall give Bonds to said Receiver-General, with sufficient surety, for such Moneys drawn out of the Treasury; and shall forthwith pay out said sum of twenty Shillings as advance pay to each and every Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier; and on producing Receipts from them to said Receiver-General, said Bonds shall be cancelled.

Resolved, That the consideration of the Pay of the Muster-Masters be referred to some future time.

Ordered, That Colonel Thurston and Mr. Sawyer be a Committee to apply to the Committee of Safety for a list of all such persons to whom they have given encouragement to receive Commissions as Field-Officers of the Army now raising in this Colony; and they are directed to inquire of said Committee of Safety what Field-Officers they expect will be most likely to succeed in filling up their Regiments.

Ordered, That Esquire Rawson, Mr. Patridge, Major Brooks, Mr. Webster, Colonel Mosely, Mr. Bliss, and Captain Stone, be a Committee to inquire what number of Province Arms there are in the Province, and in what place; and in particular, that they apply to the Committee of Supplies to know what number of Fire-Arms they have procured, and how they have disposed of them.

The Committee who were appointed to consider the form of an Establishment for the Train, reported verbally, that the pay was, in their opinion, reasonable; but as to the number of Matrosses, they were not proper judges. The Establishment was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

An Establishment for the Company of Train, as fixed upon by the Committee of Safety.

	Per month.
1 Captain, - - - - -	£6 10
2 Lieutenants, each - - - - -	4 10
1 Lieutenant Fire-Worker, - - - - -	3 10
4 Sergeants, each - - - - -	2 10
4 Corporals, each - - - - -	2 06
32 Matrosses, each - - - - -	2 03
1 Drummer, - - - - -	2 06
1 Fifer, - - - - -	2 06

46 men, officers included, in each Company of Matrosses; a blanket and coat, as for rest of the Army.

WILLIAM COOPER, Secretary.

Adjourned until to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Sunday, May 7, 1775.

Resolved, That the Committee of Supplies be, and they are hereby empowered and directed to procure at Connecticut, Rhode-Island, New-York, or any other Colony on the Continent, such a number of Fire-Arms and Bayonets for the use of this Colony, as they shall think necessary.

The Committee appointed to make application to the Committee of Supplies, to know what number of Fire-Arms they had procured, reported verbally, that they had not procured any.

On an application made to this Congress by Captain Benjamin Dunning, of Harpwell, for Powder, this Congress passed the following Resolve, viz:

Whereas the District of Harpswell, in the County of Cumberland, lies exposed to the ravages of the enemies, and is unprovided with a supply of Powder: therefore,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Selectmen of the Town of Haverhill, that they deliver to Captain Nehemiah Curtis and Mr. Benjamin Dunning, for the use of the said District of Harpswell, one barrel of Powder, they paying for the same; which shall be replaced (if needed) as soon as the Colony Magazine can be supplied.

Adjourned to twelve o'clock this day.

Met at twelve o'clock, and adjourned to four o'clock, P. M.

Met at four o'clock, and adjourned until to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Monday, May 8, 1775.

Ordered, That Mr. Lothrop, Mr. Patridge, Mr. Mills, Mr. Whiting, Captain Stone, Colonel Howe, Colonel Mandell, Colonel Mosely, Colonel Pierce, and Colonel Thurston, be a Committee to transcribe the Narrative of the proceedings of the King's Troops on the 19th ultimo, together with Depositions thereof accompanying, to be transmitted to Mr. Thomas for immediate publication.

A Letter from a number of the inhabitants of the Town of Hopkinton, was read: Whereupon, Ordered, That Doctor Church, Colonel Foster, and Deacon Rawson, be a Committee to prepare an Answer to the Selectmen of that Town, giving the opinion of the Congress on the subject thereof.

The form of an Oath, to be administered to the Officers and Private Soldiers of the Army now raising in this Colony, was read and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Resolved, That all Officers and Soldiers of the Massachusetts Army now raising for the defence and security of the rights and liberties of this and our sister Colonies in America, shall each and every of them, excepting only the General Officers, repeat and take the following Oath, viz:

"I, A. B, swear I will truly and faithfully serve in the Massachusetts Army, to which I belong, for the defence and security of the estates, lives, and liberties of the good people of this and the sister Colonies in America, in opposition to Ministerial tyranny, by which they are or may be oppressed, and to all other enemies and opposers whatsoever; that I will adhere to the Rules and Regulations of said Army, observe and obey the Generals and other Officers set over me, and disclose and make known to said Officers all traitorous conspiracies, attempts and designs whatsoever, which I shall know to be made against said Army, or any of the English American Colonies. So help me God."

Ordered, That Colonel Warren, Colonel Gerrish, and Colonel Foster, be a Committee to prepare the form of an Oath to be administered to the General Officers.

Ordered, That Colonel Warren, Esquire Dix, and Colonel Foster, be a Committee to draw up a Resolve recommending to the Committees of Correspondence of the several Towns and Districts in this Colony, and to the Selectmen of Towns and Districts who have no such Committees, to take effectual care to discover all such persons in their respective Towns, who will not give them an assurance of their good intentions and regard to the interest of this Country; and also to recommend to the people of this Colony to take effectual measures to oblige all who are liable by law to appear in arms in the Militia, to appear when properly called upon by their Officers.

Resolved, That the Muster-Masters be and hereby are empowered and directed to administer the Oath to the Officers and Private Soldiers of the Army now raising in this Colony, agreeably to the form prescribed by this Congress.

The Committee who were appointed to prepare a Letter to the Selectmen of the Town of Hopkinton, reported the following; which was read and accepted, and ordered to be dated, signed, and delivered to the messenger in waiting:

GENTLEMEN: Your favour of the 7th instant was duly considered in Congress. We cannot but regret that any persons who have heretofore evidenced their attachment to the rights and liberties of their Country, should, in this day of trial and hazard, be so far influenced by an inordinate attachment to their personal safety, or the security of their property, as to desert the common interest, and basely refuse to contribute of their wealth, or assist personally in that struggle which they are conscientiously led to approve. Nevertheless, gentlemen, such is the peculiar delicacy of our situation, that true policy suggests we should act with extreme caution respecting these fugitives. A violation of the natural right of an individual to remove his person and effects wherever he pleases, would ill become those who are contending for the inalienable right of every man to his own property, and to dispose of it as he pleases. We would likewise suggest, that should we restrain any inhabitant from conveying his goods to Philadelphia, our brethren there might justly arraign us of selfishness in such a transaction; and it would evidence such a distinction of interests in the two Colonies, as might have a tendency to disunite us, at a time when the safety of the whole must ultimately depend upon the firmest confederacy. We are aware of the mischiefs too general a removal might produce; but we have so much confidence in the disinterested virtue of our countrymen, as to indulge hopes that Mr. Barrett's example will not become infectious.

We highly approve the steady patriotism and manly jealousy of our brethren in Hopkinton, and are, gentlemen, with much esteem, yours, &c.

Ordered, That the President pro tem., Doctor Church, Doctor Taylor, Doctor Holten, and Doctor Dunsmore, be a Committee to examine such persons as are or may be recommended for Surgeons for the Army now forming in this Colony.

Resolved, That the persons recommended by the Commanding Officers of the several Regiments, be appointed as Surgeons to their respective Regiments, provided they appear to be duly qualified, upon examination.

A Letter from the Committee of Correspondence in Portsmouth, dated May 6, was received by a messenger express.

The Messenger was admitted on the floor.

Ordered, That said Letter be committed for an answer, to Doctor Church, the President, and Captain Foster.

A Letter from General Ward was read: Whereupon,

Ordered, That Colonel Danielson, Doctor Church, Colonel Foster, Mr. Bliss, and Mr. Rawson, be a Committee to take the subject thereof into consideration, and report.

Leave of absence was granted to Mr. Patridge.

The Committee on the Letter from Portsmouth, in New-Hampshire, reported the following Answer; which was read and accepted, and ordered to be copied and sent.

GENTLEMEN: The Congress have considered the subject of your express; are surprised that a gentleman of the character you have mentioned, should have such just reason to complain of unmerited severity from any of our brethren in this Colony. From a regard to justice, as well as to your recommendation, gentlemen, we shall not fail to make immediate inquiry into this transaction; and if any outrage has been offered to innocent persons, the perpetrators, you may be assured, will be properly censured, and the sufferers meet with all that redress which it may be in the power of this Congress to obtain. Be assured, gentlemen, we shall be studious to maintain that character for humanity, which we would wish may ever be the characteristic of Americans; and cannot but applaud those generous and benevolent sentiments which influenced you in your application. We are, &c.

The Committee who were appointed to prepare the form of an Oath to be taken by the General Officers, reported; the consideration whereof was referred to some future time.

Ordered, That Colonel Mosely and Major Bliss be, and are hereby empowered and directed to collect all the Province Arms which are in the County of Hampshire; and that Doctor William Whiting be empowered and directed to collect all the Province Arms which are in the County of Berkshire.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

Resolved, That Captain Trueman Wheeler, of Great Barrington, be desired to assist Doctor Whiting in collecting the Province Arms which are in the County of Berkshire.

Mr. Sawyer informed the Congress, that General Whitcomb, on account of his various avocations, could not accept the office of Muster-Master to which he has been appointed: Whereupon,

Resolved, That this Congress will now proceed to the choice of another person, by ballot, in his room, and that Mr. Sawyer, Esquire Dix, and Major Fuller, be a Committee to sort and count the votes.

On a Motion made, Resolved, That this last Resolve be reconsidered, and that to-morrow morning, eleven o'clock, be assigned for the choice of a Muster-Master, in the room of General Whitcomb, who declines that trust.

Ordered, That Major Bliss, Deacon Whitney, and Colonel Patterson, be a Committee to give notice to such Members of this Congress as are now at Cambridge and Roxbury, and other absent Members whom they can notify, that a matter of the greatest importance is to be taken into consideration at three o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and to direct their attendance at that time.

The Committee who were appointed to bring in a Resolve recommending the disarming certain persons in the Colony, reported; which Report was read, amended, and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, there are divers persons now in this Colony, who have, by their conduct, discovered themselves to be enemies to the rights of mankind, and the interest of America: and whereas, our very peculiar situation renders it absolutely necessary, not only to discriminate them from those who have shewn a disposition to be friendly to their Country, but also to put it out of their power to join with the open and avowed enemies of America, in their endeavours to subjugate their countrymen to the full operations of the tyrannical system of the British Administration, and the ruin and destruction concerted by the British Parliament against these Colonies: therefore,

Resolved, That it be and hereby is recommended to the several Committees of Correspondence in the several Towns and Districts where such Committees reside, and to the Selectmen of such Towns and Districts as have not appointed them, to inquire into the principles and conduct of such suspected persons; and that they cause all such to be disarmed, who do not give them full and ample assurances, in which they can with safety confide, of their readiness to join their countrymen on all occasions in defence of the rights and liberties of America; and likewise that they take effectual steps to put it out of the power of such persons to obstruct, by any means whatever, the measures which shall be taken for the common defence; and it is also hereby recommended to the good people of this Colony, that they take effectual care to secure obedience to the several Resolves of Congress for the regulation of the Militia, and cause a due regard to be paid to the orders of the several Military Officers who have been elected by the suffrages of the several Companies and Regiments, agreeably to the Resolves of Congress.

Ordered, That Major Fuller, Doctor Taylor and Mr. Webster, be a Committee to get the Resolve last mentioned, printed and dispersed through the several Towns and Districts in this Colony.

Ordered, That the Committee who were appointed to take into consideration the subject-matter of the Letter from General Ward, now send a written Message (by the Messenger in waiting) to the General, informing him, that they are considering the same, and will make report as soon as possible.

Ordered, That said Committee sit forthwith.

Ordered, That Mr. Fisher be added to said Committee, in the room of Mr. Bliss, who is going to Cambridge on other business of the Congress.

Ordered, That Mr. Lothrop, Doctor Taylor and Mr. Webster, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve, recommending to the inhabitants of this Province, to save their Straw.

Ordered, That Colonel Mosely, Esquire Davis, Colonel Walker, Deacon Hovey, Mr. Lewis, Captain McCobb, and Major Smith, be a Committee to confer with the Committee of Safety with respect to settling the appointment of Field-Officers, and to sit forthwith.

Mr. Gerry (by leave of Congress) brought in a Resolve, empowering the Committee of Supplies to furnish Commissaries with necessaries for the Army, &c.; which was recommitted.

The Committee appointed to consider the Letter from General Ward, reported an Answer thereto, which was amended and accepted, and is as follows:

"In Congress, Watertown, May 8, 1775.

"SIR: This Congress received your letter of this day, and the complaint enclosed, informing, that several persons, falsely pretending to have your order to search for fire-arms, have committed robbery on private property. We have taken the matter seriously into consideration, and are of opinion, that such criminals ought to meet with condign punishment.

"The persons suspected to be the offenders are, one Saunders, Samuel Malloes, Jacob Whittemore, Edward Bugby, and Ebenezer Smith, all of Roxbury, with two other persons, unknown; therefore, Sir, you are directed to apprehend the abovesaid persons, by a number of men under your command, and cause them to be carried before the Committee of Safety, who are hereby empowered and directed to examine them, touching their offence, and search for, and, if possible, to find the goods, and direct that they are immediately replaced from whence they were taken.

"And if on examination the said persons are found guilty of the said robbery, the Committee of Safety are hereby directed to imprison them till the further order of Congress."

Ordered, That the Committee just now appointed, to confer with the Committee of Safety respecting the appointment of Field-Officers, be instructed to inquire into the state of the Army at Cambridge and Roxbury; and, if they find the numbers reduced, as is reported to this Congress, that they advise the Committee of Safety to send out immediately for re-enforcements.

Resolved, That the consideration of the expediency of assuming Government, which was to have been entered upon to-morrow afternoon, be postponed to Friday next, at three o'clock, P. M.; and that the Committee who were just now appointed to confer with the Committee of Safety, be directed to give notice hereof to the several Members of this Congress, who are now at Cambridge and Roxbury.

Adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, May 9, 1775, A. M.

Resolved, That the Receiver-General be, and he is hereby directed to give publick notice of the Resolve lately passed by this Congress, for borrowing Money on the credit of the Colony, and assign certain time and place when he will attend that business.

The Congress granted permission to Colonel Trumbull to have a copy of the Resolve of this Congress relative to the inhabitants moving out of Boston.

Henry Gardner, Esq., Receiver-General, requested that this Congress would excuse him from serving any longer in that office.

The consideration thereof was ordered to subside for the present.

Mr. Gerry brought in again a Resolve respecting the supply of the Soldiers; which was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, it hath frequently happened that Sutlers, whilst permitted to supply Soldiers in the service of this Colony, have vendd their goods at extravagant rates, and thereby, in a great measure, deprived the families of such Soldiers of the benefit of their wages:

Therefore, Resolved, That the Committee of Supplies be, and they hereby are directed and empowered to purchase and supply the Commissary for the time being, with such Goods, Wares, and Merchandise as they shall at any time judge necessary for supplying the Colony Forces, and to draw on the publick Treasury therefor. And the Commissary aforesaid, as also his Deputies, who shall be accountable to him, are hereby directed and empowered to supply, at the first cost, the soldiers who shall belong to the Regiments in which they shall be stationed, with such articles as their respective Captains shall at any time order; and to keep and render to the Captains aforesaid, true and exact accounts thereof at any time before the making up of the Muster Rolls: and the said Captains are hereby directed to give orders for such articles only as they judge necessary for their respective soldiers, not exceeding one half of the wages that shall at any time be due to them, and to cause the same to be deducted from their wages on making up the muster rolls.

Ordered, That Doctor Church, the President, Colonel Dexter, Colonel Warren, and Mr. Gerry, be a Committee to prepare a spirited application to General Gage, respecting his treatment of the inhabitants of Boston.

Ordered, That the same gentlemen be a Committee to consider what provision shall be made for furnishing such enlisted Soldiers as are unprovided with Fire-Arms, with such effective Fire-Arms as are necessary for them to carry into the field.

Ordered, That Colonel Barrett, Doctor Holten, and Colonel Danielson, be a Committee to take into consideration a printed false account of the late excursion of the King's Troops to Concord.

The Order of the Day was moved for.

Ordered, That Colonel Farley, Doctor Holten, and Colonel Danielson, be a Committee to sort and count the votes for a Muster-Master.

The Committee appointed to sort and count the votes for a Muster-Master, in the room of Colonel John Whitcomb, who declined accepting that trust, reported that Colonel Asa Whitcomb was chosen.

A motion was made and seconded, that a Committee be appointed to take into consideration, the expediency of restraining the people of this Colony from supplying the inhabitants of Boston with Provisions.

After debate, the question was put, and it passed in the negative.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

On a motion made, that the Resolve passed yesterday, assigning Friday next, three o'clock, P. M., for the consideration of the expediency of assuming Government, be reconsidered, and that an earlier day be assigned for that purpose:

The question was put, and it passed in the negative.

Ordered, That Mr. Pickering be added to the Committee appointed to take into consideration an equal representation of this Colony, in the room of Mr. Rawson, absent.

Ordered, That Mr. Sawyer, Colonel Foster and Mr. Dix, be a Committee to take into consideration the expediency of establishing Post-Offices and Riders in this Colony.

The Committee who were appointed to prepare a Remonstrance to General Gage, reported. The Report was ordered to lie on the table until the further orders of this Congress.

The same Committee, agreeably to their appointment, reported a Resolve relative to furnishing those enlisted Soldiers with Fire-Arms who are unequipped therewith; which, after debate, was ordered to be recommitted.

Ordered, That Captain Stone, of Framingham, be added to the Committee who was appointed to consider of some measures to be taken with respect to the County Records, in the room of Mr. Brown, of Abington, now absent.

The Committee appointed to consider the expediency of establishing Post-Offices and Riders, in this Colony, reported; whereupon,

Resolved, That the further consideration thereof be referred till to-morrow morning, ten o'clock.

The Committee appointed to consider the false account of the late excursion of the King's Troops, reported; which Report being read, amended, and completed, was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, a printed paper, said to be a circumstantial account of an attack which happened on the 19th of April, 1775, on His Majesty's Troops, by a number of the people of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, has been read in this Congress; which contains, among many falsehoods, the following paragraph, viz:

"When Captain Parsons returned with the three Companies over the bridge, [at Concord,] they observed three soldiers on the ground, one of them scalped, his head much mangled, and his ears cut off, though not quite dead."

Resolved, That Colonel Barrett be, and hereby is directed to make strict inquiry of the persons who saw the three soldiers aforementioned lying at the said bridge, and also of those who buried them, and take their depositions, that so the truth or falsity of the aforesaid assertion may be ascertained.

The Committee appointed to consider of some method for furnishing those Soldiers with Fire-Arms who are not therewith equipped, again reported.

The Report was read, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, a few of the inhabitants of this Colony, who are enlisted into its service, are destitute of Fire-Arms and Bayonets, and other accoutrements: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Selectmen of the several Towns and Districts in this Colony be, and hereby are directed and empowered to examine into the state of the equipment of such inhabitants of their respective Towns and Districts as are, or may be enlisted into the service of this Colony; and where any are deficient in Arms or Accoutrements as aforesaid, it is recommended to the Selectmen to supply them out of the Town Stock; and in case of a deficiency there, to apply to such inhabitants of their respective Towns and Districts, as in their opinions can best spare their Arms or Accoutrements, and to borrow, or purchase the same for the use of said inhabitants so enlisted: and the Selectmen are also directed to take a bill from such persons as shall sell their Arms and Accoutrements in the name of this Colony, and receipts from the soldiers to whom they shall cause them to be delivered, and render the same to the Committee of Supplies for this Colony: and each soldier so supplied, shall pay for the use of such Arms and Accoutrements, out of his wages, the sum of six shillings; and if he does not return the said Arms and Accoutrements, there shall be deducted from his wages, at the time of making up the muster-roll, the full value of said Arms and Accoutrements, as appraised by the Selectmen, at the time of borrowing or purchasing the same. And it is strongly recommended to such inhabitants of the Colony as the Selectmen as aforesaid shall apply to for Arms and Accoutrements, that they supply the Colony with the same.

And as many Arms in this Colony which are now useless may, by small repairs, be rendered fit for service,

Resolved, That a sufficient number of Armourers, not exceeding twenty, be appointed by the Committee of Safety, to mend and repair such Arms as shall be brought to them by the Soldiers enlisted into the Massachusetts Army.

Ordered, That Mr. Webster, Major Fuller, and Mr. Batchelder, be a Committee to get this Resolve published and dispersed.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Wednesday, May 10, 1775.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to confer with the Committee of Safety upon the general state of the Army, be directed particularly to confer with them on the propriety of removing the whole or part of the Cannon and Stores now at Cambridge, further back into the country.

Resolved, That the General Officers be, and are hereby directed, forthwith, to call in all the Soldiers who are already enlisted in the service of this Colony; and that they give immediate orders to all the enlisted Soldiers, and all others now in the Camp at Cambridge and Roxbury, that they do not depart till the further orders of this Congress.

A Petition from the Committees of Correspondence and the Committees of Inspection for the Town of Pownallborough, was preferred by Joseph Tinkham.

Ordered, That this Petition lie on the table.

Ordered, That the Resolve passed by this Congress the 23d ultimo, recommending to the Selectmen of the several Towns in this Colony to furnish each Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier with a Blanket, be fairly copied by the Secretary, and printed in a handbill, and sent to the Selectmen of the several Towns and Districts in the Colony.

Ordered, That the Petition from Pownallborough just now read, be delivered to Mr. Joseph Tinkham, agreeably to his request.

Ordered, That Mr. Lothrop, Doctor Taylor, and Doctor Holten, be a Committee to take into consideration the proceedings of the Town of Bristol, presented to this Congress by Mr. Thomas Bracket, in behalf of said Town.

The Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve, recommending to the inhabitants of this Colony to save their Straw, reported; which Report was read and accepted, and ordered to be copied and sent to the Printer of the Cambridge Newspaper, and to the Printer of the Worcester Newspaper for publication, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, it will be indispensably necessary that large quantities of Straw be provided for the use of the Army now forming for the defence and protection of this Colony: therefore,

Resolved, And it is hereby strongly recommended to all such inhabitants of this Colony as have or may have of that article by them, that (as they regard the lives and health of their brethren, who engage in the service above-said) they take immediate care the same be preserved for the purpose above mentioned.

Ordered, That Captain Foster, Mr. Lothrop, and Mr. Pickering, be a Committee to transcribe the Depositions taken by a Committee of this Congress, of the proceedings of the Troops, under command of General Gage, the 19th ultimo, and that they transmit them to Mr. Hall, at Cambridge, to be published in a pamphlet, and that said Committee agree with him for the expense of publication.

Ordered, That Colonel Barrett attend the business to which he was yesterday appointed, of inquiring into the truth or falsity of a paragraph taken from a printed account of the action of the King's Troops on the 19th ultimo.

The Committee appointed to consider some measures for securing the County Records, reported. The Report was read and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Resolved, That the Committee appointed for each County, on the 12th of April last, be instructed to take proper measures for securing the Records of the several Counties, where they are exposed.

The Order of the Day was moved for.

The Committee appointed to consider of the expediency of establishing Post-Offices, &c., reported.

The Report was recommitted, for the purpose of settling the rates of Postage, and taking into consideration some method of establishing Post-Offices. Mr. Hall, of Medford, and Mr. Cross, were added to the Committee; also, Mr. Batchelder, in the room of Mr. Dix.

Resolved, That the Resolve for accepting the establishment for the Train, which passed this Congress the 6th instant, be reconsidered; and that Colonel Mandell, Captain Baker, Doctor Taylor, Major Perley, and Colonel Coffin, be a Committee to take into consideration the propriety of establishing a Regiment of the Train; and that they sit forthwith.

Ordered, That Colonel Warren, Mr. Gerry, and Colonel Foster, be a Committee to take into consideration a Resolve of the Committee of Safety, recommending to this Congress to establish a Court of Inquiry.

Ordered, That Colonel Richard Gridley be and hereby is directed forthwith to recommend to the Committee of Safety, for Officers of the Train of Artillery, such persons as he thinks are qualified for that appointment.

On a complaint of the Selectmen of the Town of Worcester, against Samuel Pain and William Campbell, prisoners from that Town; Ordered, That said Prisoners be committed to the care of Captain Brown, or such persons as he shall appoint, to be kept in custody till the further orders of this Congress.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to transcribe the Depositions of the late proceedings of the King's Troops, be directed to prepare a Narrative thereof, as an introduction to said Depositions; which are ordered to be printed.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

Ordered, That Mr. Gill, Colonel Warren, Colonel Gerrish, Mr. Dix, and Doctor Perkins, be a Committee to inquire into the complaint made by the Selectmen of the Town of Worcester against Samuel Pain and William Campbell, and report to this Congress.

The consideration of the Remonstrance to General Gage was resumed, and the same was accepted, and ordered to be authenticated, and sent forward.

It is as follows, viz:

"In Provincial Congress, Watertown, May 10, 1775.

"To his Excellency General Gage:"

"SIR: This Congress have received frequent intelligence, that their brethren, the inhabitants of the Town of Boston, have to contend, in their removal therefrom, with numerous delays and embarrassments, contrary to the stipulation proposed and agreed to between your Excellency and the Selectmen of that Town.

"We think it our duty to remonstrate to your Excellency, that from the papers communicated to us by the said Selectmen, it appeared, that the inhabitants were promised, upon surrendering their arms, that they should be permitted to leave the Town, and carry with them their effects. The condition was immediately complied with on the part of the people; since which, though a number of days have elapsed, but a very small proportion of the inhabitants have been allowed to take the benefit of your covenant.

"We would not affront your Excellency by the most distant insinuation, that you intended to deceive and disarm the people by a cruel act of perfidy. A regard to your own character, as well as the fatal consequences which will necessarily result from the violation of your solemn treaties, must be sufficient reasons to deter a gentleman of your rank and station from so injurious a design. But your Excellency must be sensible, that a delay of justice is a denial of it, and extremely oppressive to the people now held in duress.

"This Congress, though not the original party in the treaty, have taken every step in their power to facilitate the measure; and, in the whole of their conduct, have endeavoured to evidence a disposition to act upon the principles of humanity and good faith; and still indulge hopes, that the confidence of the inhabitants of Boston in your Excellency's honour and faithfulness, is not misplaced, and that, notwithstanding any disagreeable occurrences, naturally resulting from the confused state of the Colony, which this Congress have discountenanced, and endeavoured to rectify, your Excellency will no longer suffer your treaty with a distressed people, who ought by no means to be effected thereby, to be further violated."

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the expediency of establishing a Regiment of the Train, reported. Part of the Establishment reported, was accepted; the consideration of the residue was referred to a future time.

Resolved, That the Resolve, which this Congress passed at Concord, the 13th ultimo, directing the Committee of Safety to engage a suitable number of persons for forming six Companies of the Train, be so far reconsidered, as that it be, and hereby is Resolved, That the Committee of Safety be directed to engage a suitable number of persons, and form ten Companies of the Train for the artillery already provided by this Colony, to enter immediately on constant discipline, and be in readiness to enter the service of the Colony; and that said Committee be, and they are hereby empowered to draw on the publick Treasury, for said Companies, a suitable consideration for their services.

The Petition of Timothy Langdon was read, and ordered to lie on the table till some of the eastern Members should be present.

Ordered, That the Secretary be directed, pursuant to a request of the Committee of Safety, to furnish them with copies of all such Resolves as have passed the Congress, in any ways relative to the duty enjoined them.

The Secretary pro tempore represented to the Congress, that the multiplicity of the business of his office was such, as made it necessary that he should have some assistance. Whereupon, Ordered, That Captain Stone, of Oakham, assist him in that service.

The Committee appointed to inquire into the state of the Army, and to settle the appointment of the Field-Officers, reported a Letter from Head-Quarters.

The Committee appointed to inquire into the complaint of the Selectmen of the Town of Worcester against Samuel Pain and William Campbell, reported; which Report was accepted, and ordered to be transmitted and delivered to Captain Jonas Hubbard and Mr. Edward Crafts, who exhibited the above complaint, together with a printed Resolve of Congress, lately passed, for disarming the disaffected inhabitants of the Colony.

The Report is as follows, viz:

"The Committee appointed to hear the complaints exhibited by the Selectmen of Worcester against William Campbell and Samuel Pain, have attended that service; heard the parties, and beg leave to report: That we find the charges against them proved by depositions, and conceded by them; and that William Campbell has been guilty of leaving the Town of Worcester without a permit from the Selectmen, contrary to his own engagements.

"And that the said Samuel Pain has, in one instance, propagated reports with regard to our Massachusetts soldiers' rifling the house of Mr. Bradish, instead of the regular Army; and that those which were quartered in the colleges were lousy, and deserted in great numbers; which, however indiscreet, does not appear to us to be done with any bad design; and that he ought to be dismissed immediately; and that the said Campbell may be returned to the Town of Worcester, to be dealt with by the Committee of Correspondence of that Town, agreeably to a Resolve of this Congress, passed the 8th instant. The matter, however, we think, not important enough to be brought before this Congress."

The consideration of the Petition of Timothy Langdon was again resumed, and ordered to lie on the table.

Ordered, That Captain McCobb, Mr. Lewis, and Doctor Perkins, be a Committee to take into consideration the several applications made to this Congress from the eastern parts of the Province, for Arms and Ammunition.

Adjourned until to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Thursday, May 11, 1775, A. M.

The Petition of James Cargill, of New-Castle, committed to the Committee who were appointed to consider the applications to this Congress for Ammunition, &c.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the several applications to this Congress for a supply of Ammunition, &c., reported. The Report was recommitted, and the Committee directed to inspect the list of Returns of the Town's stock of Powder, &c., that it may be known whether this Congress can, with prudence, recommend to any Town which may be stocked therewith, to supply those Towns which are destitute.

Adjourned to twelve o'clock, this day.

Noon.

Congress met agreeably to adjournment.

The Committee appointed to consider the several applications made to this Congress for Ammunition, and to inspect the list of Returns, &c. reported. The Report was read and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, the Towns of Falmouth and Arundel, and the District of Cape Elizabeth, being seaport places, and much exposed to the rage of our enemies, and not having a sufficient quantity of Gunpowder to defend themselves in case of any long attack; and the Town of Andover being well stocked with Gunpowder, and not so much exposed; therefore,

Resolved, And it is hereby recommended to the Selectmen of the Town of Andover, that they deliver to Mr. Joseph McLellan, of Falmouth, two half barrels of Gunpowder for the use of the Town of Falmouth; also, deliver to Mr. Zebulon Trickey, of Cape Elizabeth, one half barrel of Gunpowder for the use of said Cape Elizabeth; also, deliver to Mr. John Hovey, of Arundel, two half barrels of Gunpowder for the use of said Arundel; they paying them for said Powder, which shall be replaced, if needed, as soon as the Colony Magazine can be supplied.

Whereas, the Towns of Brunswick, Pownalborough, Bristol, and Newcastle, being seaport places, in the eastern parts of this Colony, and much exposed to the rage and incursions of our unnatural enemies, and not having a sufficient quantity of Gunpowder to defend themselves, in case of any attack; and the Towns of Marlborough, Sudbury, and Framingham, being well stocked with Gunpowder, and not so much exposed: therefore,

Resolved, And it is hereby recommended to the Selectmen of the above mentioned several Towns, that they deliver, as follows, viz: The Selectmen of Sudbury, one half barrel of Gunpowder to Nathaniel Larrabee, for the use of Brunswick; the Selectmen of Marlborough, two half barrels of Gunpowder—one to Joseph Tinkham, for the use of Pownalborough, the other to Lieutenant John Farley, for the use of Newcastle; the Selectmen of Framingham, one half barrel of Gunpowder to Thomas Bracket, for the use of Bristol; they paying them for said Powder, which shall be replaced, if needed, as soon as the Colony Magazine can be supplied.

Ordered, That each person, now in waiting, who has made application to this Congress for Powder, be served with a copy thereof.

Information being made to this Congress, that two Men-of-War, with Troops, had sailed from Boston to New-York, with a design, as it is supposed, of frustrating a design of the inhabitants of that Colony and Connecticut, to secure the Arms and Ammunition now in the fort at New-York:

Ordered, That Mr. Gerry, Colonel Warren, and Col. Lincoln, be a Committee to prepare a Letter to the Committee of Correspondence of New-York, informing them of the sailing of said Men-of-War, and inserting such articles therein, as will put the people upon their guard against any attempt that may be made against them by said Ships.

Ordered, That this Committee prepare said Letter, and forward it forthwith, without waiting to report to this Congress; said Committee laying before this Congress, as soon as may be, a copy of said Letter.

Adjourned to four o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

Met at four o'clock, according to adjournment, and adjourned to eight o'clock to-morrow morning.

Friday, May 12, 1775.

Moved, That a Committee be appointed, to consider the expediency of recommending to the Selectmen of the several Towns in the Colony, to furnish such as may enlist in their respective Towns with necessaries for their march to Head-Quarters.

The question was put, and it passed in the negative.

Ordered, That Captain Stone, Colonel Warren, and Mr. Sullivan, be a Committee to take into consideration an extract of a Letter from the Honourable Enoch Freeman, Esquire, of Falmouth, to Samuel Freeman.

Ordered, That Captain Stone, Colonel Warren, and Mr. Sullivan, above mentioned, be a Committee to take into consideration the expediency of taking measures for raising a company or two of Indians.

Resolved, That to-morrow morning, at ten o'clock, be, and is now assigned for the purpose of choosing some person to preach a sermon to the Congress on the 31st May instant.

Resolved, That all persons who have the care of any Prisoners detained at Concord, Lexington, or elsewhere, be and hereby are directed to give the Rev. Mr. Gordon free access to them, whenever he shall desire it; and it is recommended to all civil Magistrates and others, to be aiding and assisting him in examining and taking Depositions of them and others, without exception.

Ordered, That the establishment for a Train of Artillery be recommitted.

Ordered, That Mr. Sullivan be added to the Committee appointed for revising the commissions of the Committee of Safety and Committee of Supplies, in the room of Doctor Hollen, absent.

Resolved, That the several Committees be enjoined to sit, and that this Congress be adjourned to this afternoon, three o'clock.

Afternoon.

The Committee appointed to consider measures for establishing Post-Offices and Post-Riders, reported. After some debate, the matter was ordered to subside for the present.

The Order of the Day was moved for.

The absent Members were ordered to be called in.

It was then moved, that the sense of the Congress be taken on this question, viz: Whether there is now existing in this Colony a necessity of taking up and exercising the powers of Civil Government in all its parts?

After some debate, it was Resolved, That this Congress will now form itself into a Committee of the Whole House, for consideration of the question in debate.

The Committee having considered thereon, the President, on a motion made, resumed the chair.

The Committee then, by the Honourable Joseph Warren, Esquire, their chairman, reported: "That a Committee be raised, for the purpose of reporting to the Congress an application to the Continental Congress, for obtaining their recommendation for this Colony to take up and exercise Civil Government as soon as may be, and that the Committee be directed to ground the application on the necessity of the case;" which Report being read, was accepted, by a very large majority: Whereupon, Ordered, That the President, Doctor Church, Mr. Gerry, Colonel Warren, Mr. Sullivan, Colonel Danielson, and Colonel Lincoln, be a Committee to prepare an application agreeable to said Report.

Afternoon.

Met according to adjournment.

The Report of the Committee respecting the Honourable Enoch Freeman, Esquire's Letter, was taken up, amended, and accepted.

The Committee appointed to consider the Petition of the Selectmen of the Town of Topsham, reported. The Report was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, the Town of Topsham, being a seaport place, in the eastern part of the Colony, and much exposed to the rage and incursions of our unnatural enemies, and not having a sufficient quantity of Gunpowder to defend themselves in case of an attack, and the Town of Wrentham being well stocked with that article: therefore,

Resolved, That it be and hereby is recommended to the Selectmen of the above-said Town of Wrentham, to deliver one half barrel of Gunpowder to Mr. Prince Rose, for the use of the Town of Topsham, he paying them for said Powder, which shall be replaced, if needed, as soon as the Colony Magazine can be supplied.

Resolved, That the Order of the Day, on the subject of Post-Riders, be now taken up; when Captain Jonathan Brown, Jonas Dix, Esq., and Deacon Cheever, were chosen a Committee to count and sort the votes for a Committee to establish Post-Riders; which Committee was chosen, and the blanks in the Resolve, respecting Post-Offices, being filled up with said Committee's names, the Resolve was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Resolved, As the opinion of this Congress, that Post-Riders be immediately established, to go from Cambridge, and to ride the following roads, viz: To Georgetown, in the County of Lincoln; to Haverhill; to Providence; to Woodstock, by Worcester; and from Worcester to Great Barrington, by Springfield; and to Falmouth, in the County of Barnstable. And that Post-Offices be kept as followeth, viz: one at Cambridge; one at Salen; one at Ipswich; one at Haverhill; one at Newburyport; one at Kennebunk, or Welles; one at Sandwich; one at Falmouth, in the County of Cumberland; one at Georgetown, County of Lincoln; one at Worcester; one at Spring- field; one at Great Barrington; one at Plymouth; and one at Falmouth, in the County of Barnstable.

And it is further resolved, That Mr. James Winthrop be appointed Postmaster for the Town of Cambridge; Mr. Edward Morris, for Salem; Mr. James Foster, for Ipswich; Mr. Simeon Greenough, for Haverhill; Mr. Bulkeley Emerson, for Newburyport; Captain Nathaniel Kimball, for Kennebunk; Mr. Samuel Freeman, for Falmouth, in Cumberland; Mr. John Wood, for Georgetown; Mr. Isaiah Thomas, for Worcester; Mr. Moses Church, for Springfield; Doctor William Whiting, for Great Barrington; Mr. Joseph Nye, third, for Sandwich; William Watson, Esquire, for Plymouth; and Mr. Moses Swift, for Falmouth, in Barnstable.

And that Captain Jonathan Brown, Jonas Dix, Esq., and David Cheever, Esquire, be a Committee to give directions for the setting off and returning of the Posts in their several routes, and to appoint the number of Riders, and to agree with them. And to agree also with the Postmasters for their services. And that the Rates of and Duties for Postage of Letters, &c., be as follows, viz:

For any distance not exceeding	- -	60 miles,	Os.	5½d.
Upwards of 60 miles, and not exceeding	100	"	0	8
Upwards	100	"	200	" 0 10½
Upwards	200	"	300	" 1 1
Upwards	300	"	400	" 1 4
Upwards	400	"	500	" 1 6½
Upwards	500	"	600	" 1 9

Met, and adjourned to twelve o'clock.

At twelve o'clock met, and adjourned to three o'clock.

At three o'clock met again.

Moved, That a Committee be appointed to apply to the Committee of Safety for a list of such persons as they have given Listing Orders to, that this Congress may commission such as they think proper without delay.

Resolved, That the further consideration of this matter be referred until to-morrow morning.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning, nine o'clock.

Monday, May 15, 1775, A. M.

Resolved, That four o'clock, in the afternoon of this day, be assigned for making choice of two persons, Members of this Congress, to attend the Provincial Congress of New-Hampshire, on Wednesday next.

The Order of the Day was moved for, and read.

Resolved, That David Cheever, Esquire, for reasons by him offered, be excused from serving in the business to which he was appointed by a Resolve of this Congress, passed the twelfth instant, for establishing Post Offices and Post-Riders; and that Mr. William Greenleaf, Joseph Greenleaf, Esquire, and Mr. John Pitts, be added to the Committee therein appointed.

Resolved, That five o'clock, this afternoon, be assigned for the choice of a person to serve on the Committee of Supplies, in the room of Colonel Lee, deceased.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to prepare an application to the Continental Congress, be directed to insert a clause therein, desiring that the said Congress would take some measures for directing and regulating the American Forces.

The Committee appointed to prepare an Introduction to the Depositions relating to the late affair at Lexington, reported. The same was recommitted, for the purpose of examining it, to find if the Narrative contained in the said Introduction be supported by the Depositions, and to add such other Depositions as may be procured.

Ordered, That Mr. Fisher, Colonel Field, and Mr. Bullen, be a Committee to examine the Letters of Governor Hutchinson, lately discovered, and report to this Congress such Letters and Extracts as they think it will be proper to publish.

Ordered, That Colonel Warren, Mr. Sawyer, and Major Bliss, be a Committee to take into consideration the subject of a Letter, read in Congress, from William Watson, Esquire, to Colonel Warren and Mr. Lothrop.

Colonel Barrett, who was appointed to take a Deposition at Concord, reported; the Deposition reported was ordered to be committed to the Committee who were appointed to prepare an Introduction to the Depositions.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration Extracts of a Letter from the Honourable Enoch Freeman, Esquire, reported a Letter to the Eastern Tribes of Indians; which was accepted, and ordered to be authenticated, and sent to Mr. John Lane, to be communicated to them.

The Committee appointed to consider a Letter from William Watson, Esquire, of Plymouth, reported the following Resolve; which was accepted, and ordered to be printed, and dispersed to the several Towns in the Colony, and is as follows, viz:

"Whereas, some of the inhabitants of this Colony, and most of them such as have been inimical to the Constitution and interest of the same, are now (after having united themselves with our enemies in reducing us to the distresses and difficulties we are labouring under) taking steps to remove themselves and effects out of this Colony into the Government of Nova-Scotia and elsewhere, in order to avoid their proportion of the burdens necessarily incurred for our defence: to prevent which, it is

"Resolved, That no person be, from this time, permitted to move his Goods and Effects out of this Colony, unless he shall obtain the permission of the Committee of Correspondence of the Town he belongs to, or (if no such Committee be there appointed) of the Selectmen, or the majority of them, under their hands, for that purpose, but by the leave of this or some future Congress. And the several Committees of Correspondence, or Selectmen, where there are no such Committees, are hereby directed to be very vigilant in observing the motions of all such persons whom they may have reason to suspect, and to see that this Resolve be carried into full execution."

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

The Committee appointed to consider the Extracts of a Letter from the Honourable Enoch Freeman, Esquire, reported a Resolve respecting an Embassy to Canada; which being read, and amended, was accepted, (and a copy ordered to be authenticated and sent to the Selectmen of Falmouth,) and is as follows, viz:

"Whereas, it is absolutely necessary for the interest and safety of this Colony, in its present unhappy situation, that the most certain intelligence from Canada of the designs and manœuvres of the inhabitants of that Colony should be obtained as speedily as possible: And whereas, the Selectmen of the Town of Falmouth having been alarmed by reports, which had prevailed in the eastern parts of the Colony, that the Canadians would soon attack them on their frontiers, and thereby bring not only themselves, but the whole Colony, into a still more deplorable situation: and judging it of the utmost importance, that the truth or falsity of such reports should be known without delay, have employed Mr. Jabez Matthews and Mr. David Dinsmore to go across the woods to Quebeck, in order to observe the motions of the people there, and, as far as possible, to gain a knowledge of their intentions:

"Therefore, resolved, That this Congress do approve of the care and attention of the Selectmen of Falmouth to the general interest of the Colony.

"And it is hereby recommended to the said Selectmen, that they transmit the intelligence that they may receive by them, together with the expenses of the said Embassy, to this, or some future Congress of this Colony, with all convenient speed, that the account of their expenses may be adjusted and allowed out of the Treasury of the Colony."

The Order of the Day was moved for.

The Report of the Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve for establishing a Court of Inquiry, was read; and is as follows, viz:

"Whereas, it appears to this Congress that a want of a due and regular execution of Justice in this Colony has encouraged divers wicked and disorderly persons not only to commit outrages and trespasses upon private property and private persons, but also to make the most daring attacks upon the Constitution, and to unite in their endeavours to disturb the peace and destroy the happiness and security of their Country: and whereas, this Congress conceive it to be their indispensable duty to take effectual measures to restrain all disorders and promote the peace and happiness of this Colony, by the execution of Justice in criminal matters: therefore,

"Resolved, That a Court of Inquiry be immediately erected, consisting of seven persons, to be chosen by this Congress, whose duty it shall be to hear all complaints against any person or persons for treason against the Constitution of their Country, or other breaches of the publick peace and security, and to determine and make up judgment thereon, according to the laws of this Province, and those of reason and equity: no judgments to be made up or punishments inflicted in consequence of them, unless in such cases where five of the Judges so appointed were agreed; any three of said Judges to have power, upon complaint made, to cause any person or persons complained of to be imprisoned until the said Court can be convened to hear the same, or for any further orders of Congress which may be thought necessary; five of said Judges to be a quorum, and to be vested with the full powers of the Court, and to meet and sit in such place or places as they shall agree on.

"Resolved, That he, and they hereby are appointed as Judges of the said Court of Inquiry, to execute the trust agreeably to the above Resolve."

After debate, the question was put, whether said Report be accepted? And it passed in the negative.

Ordered, That the Committee who reported a Letter to the Eastern Tribes of Indians, be directed to prepare instructions to Mr. John Lane, who is appointed to communicate the Letter to them, and enlist a Company of them in the service of the Colony.

Ordered, That Mr. Gill, Mr. Bliss, and Mr. How, be a Committee to sort and count the votes for two persons, Members of this Congress, to repair to the Congress of the Province of New-Hampshire.

The Committee last mentioned, reported, that the Honourable Joseph Gerrish, Esq., and Colonel Ebenezer Sawyer, were chosen.

Ordered, That Colonel Dexter, Colonel Warren, and Colonel Foster, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve for supplying the Soldiers with two Twenty Shilling Bills each, for a month's advance pay, and they are directed to draw up a form for said Bills, and employ an Engraver to prepare a plate for engraving the same without delay; and

Resolved, That to-morrow morning, ten o'clock, be assigned for the consideration of the Report of said Committee thereon.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to prepare an application to the Continental Congress, sit forthwith.

Ordered, That Mr. Gill, Mr. Bliss, and Mr. How, be a Committee to sort and count the votes for a Member of the Committee of Supplies, in the room of Colonel Lee, deceased.

The Committee last mentioned, reported that Mr. John Pitts was chosen.

Ordered, That Colonel Barrett, Esquire Rawson, and Mr. Webster, be a Committee to take into consideration a Petition to this Congress from Mr. Boice and Mr. McLean, of Milton.

Adjourned to eight o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Tuesday, May 16, 1775, A. M.

Ordered, That Doctor Taylor, Mr. Greenleaf, and Captain Dix, be a Committee to apply to the Committee of Safety for a list of such persons as they have given Listing Orders to, and, in particular, a list of such as have completed, or nearly completed their respective Regiments, and, as far as can be speedily obtained, the number of men each Officer has enlisted, that this Congress may commission such persons as they think proper, without delay.

The Committee appointed to consider the Petition of Messrs. Boice and McLean, reported. A long debate was had thereon, and it was finally determined that the Petitioners have leave to withdraw their Petition.

Ordered, That Mr. Sullivan, Captain Stone, Colonel Farley, Major Brooks, and Doctor Rawson, be a Committee to take into consideration a verbal information of the capture of three Vessels, by a King's Cutter, at Dartmouth, and the retaking two of them, and fifteen Marines, prisoners.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

Henry Gardner, Esq., having renewed his request that this Congress would excuse him from serving the Colony in the office of Receiver-General:

Resolved, That the determination of this matter be referred until to-morrow morning, ten o'clock; and if Mr. Gardner should then insist on being excused, that then the Congress will proceed to the choice of some other person to supply his place.

The Committee appointed to prepare an application to the Continental Congress, reported the following, which was read, paragraph by paragraph, and accepted, viz:

Resolved, That Doctor Church be ordered to go immediately to Philadelphia, and deliver to the President of the honourable American Congress, there now sitting, the following application, to be by him communicated to the Members thereof. And the said Church is also directed to confer with the said Congress, respecting such other matters as may be necessary to the defence of this Colony, and particularly the state of the Army therein. [See Folio 620.]

The Committee appointed to prepare Instructions to the Delegates who are going to New-Hampshire, reported the following, which was accepted, viz:

Resolved, That the Honourable Joseph Gerrish, Esquire, and Colonel Ebenezer Sawyer, who are, by this Congress, chosen a Committee to wait on the Delegates of the Colony of New-Hampshire, are hereby empowered and directed to take such methods, and make such application to the said Congress, as shall, in the judgment of said Committee, appear most conducive to the union of the Colonies, and the most direct way to induce said Congress of New-Hampshire to raise their proportion of men to defend the Colonies.

And it is also Resolved, That the said Committee be furnished with a copy of the application of this Congress to the Honourable Members of the Continental Congress, which the said Committee is directed to deliver to the President of the Congress of that Colony, and to do all that they can to procure the approbation of that Colony to our assuming Government, and to communicate to said Congress such of the proceedings of this Congress as they shall think conducive to the good of the whole.

Ordered, That the said Delegates be furnished with a copy of the Establishment for the Massachusetts Army, Rules and Regulations for the same, and form of the Oath for the Officers and Soldiers.

A Letter from Col. Thomas Legate, dated Cambridge, 16th May, 1775, was read, and committed to Col. Foster, Mr. Parker, and Mr. Bliss.

The Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve for supplying the Soldiers with two Twenty Shilling Bills, for a month's advance pay, again reported.

The Order of the Day was moved for.

Ordered, That Colonel Foster, Major Bliss, and Mr. Bent, be a Committee to sort and count the votes for a Member of this Congress to go to Philadelphia, with the application of this Congress to the Continental Congress.

The Committee reported that Doctor Benjamin Church was chosen.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Letter from Colonel Legate, reported; which Report, being read and amended, was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas; it is of the utmost importance that the men who shall be enlisted into the Artillery Company should be well qualified for that employment; and it being impossible to enlist the men for the Artillery at large in the Colony so soon as the service requires: therefore,

Resolved, That the Officers of the Artillery be allowed to enlist the men from the several Regiments already engaged, when the men are willing to engage in that service, until the whole Artillery establishment shall be completed. Always provided, that such enlistments shall be no prejudice or hindrance to the Officers with whom such men are already enlisted, in entitling them to their respective commissions, and that not more than four men be taken from any one Company. And the Officers of the Train of Artillery are directed to use their endeavours to enlist as many (who are not under any previous engagement in the Army) as they can speedily; and the Officers from whose Regiment or Company any person is enlisted into the Train of Artillery, are also directed to fill up their said Regiment or Company with all convenient speed, by enlisting other Soldiers in the place of those enlisted into the Train of Artillery.

Ordered, That Mr. Gerry, Mr. Pitts, Doctor Taylor, the President, and Mr. Batchelder, be a Committee, to consider what measures it would be expedient to take, relative to the prisoners in Boston, and the inhabitants which are there kept in duress.

The Committee appointed to apply to the Committee of Safety for a list of Officers, &c., reported verbally, that they had no other list than what they had before sent to the Congress; that they had received no returns, and knew not how many had enlisted, or whether any Regiments were completed.

Ordered, That Colonel Barrett, Doctor Taylor, and Mr. Fuller, be a Committee to take into consideration a Petition from the inhabitants of Canaan and Norridgewock, on Kennebeck River, and report.

The Committee who were appointed to consider the information from Dartmouth, reported. The Report was recommitted for further examination and inquiry into the affair.

Ordered, That Mr. Freeman and Doctor Holten be added to the Committee appointed to examine Hutchinson's Letters.

Adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Wednesday, May 17, 1775.

A Letter from Edward Mott to this Congress, dated 11th May, 1775, giving an account of the taking of the Fortress at Ticonderoga, was read, together with a Letter from Ethan Allen. Also an application from Col. Easton and others; whereupon, Ordered, That Colonel Foster, Mr. Sullivan, and Doctor Holten, be a Committee to introduce Colonel Easton to this House, to give a narrative of that transaction, and that each Member have liberty to ask him any questions.

Ordered, That Mr. President, Doctor Taylor, Colonel Foster, Doctor Holten, and Mr. Cross, be a Committee to take the same into consideration and report.

A Resolve from the Committee of Safety, relative to the seizing the servants and friends to Government, (improperly so called,) was read, and ordered to lie on the table.

Resolved, That three o'clock, P. M., be assigned for the purpose of considering the expediency of making out a Commission to General Ward.

The Congress appointed two other Monitors, viz: Mr. John Hale and Captain Woodbridge Brown.

The Resolve and form of an Oath to be taken by the General Officers, were read, amended, and accepted, and are as follow, viz:

Resolved, That the General Officers of the Massachusetts Army, now raising for the defence and security of the rights and liberties of this, and our sister Colonies in America, shall, each and every of them, repeat, take, and subscribe the following Oath, to be administered by . . . , viz:

"I, A. B., do solemnly swear, that, as a General Officer in the Massachusetts Army, I will well and faithfully execute the office of a General, to which I have been appointed, according to my best abilities, in defence and for the security of the estates, lives, and liberties, of the good people of this, and the sister Colonies in America, in opposition to Ministerial tyranny, by which they are, or may be oppressed, and to all other enemies and opposers whatsoever. That I will adhere to the Rules and Regulations of said Army, established by the Congress of the Massachusetts-Bay, observe and obey the Resolutions and Orders which are, or shall be passed by said Congress, or any future Congress, or House of Representatives, or legislative body of said Colony, and such Committees as shall be by them authorized for that purpose; and that I will disclose and make known to the authority aforesaid, all traitorous conspiracies, attempts, and designs whatsoever, which I shall know to be made, or have reason to suspect are making, against the Army, or any of the English American Colonies."

Ordered, That Jonas Dix, Esq., be directed to take Depositions, relative to the destruction of private property by the King's Troops, on the nineteenth ultimo, and their driving women in child-bed out of their houses, and killing old men unarmed.

Henry Gardner, Esq., informed the House that he was willing to continue to serve this Colony in the office of Receiver-General.

Ordered, That Mr. Kollock, Deacon Nichols, and Mr. Rawson, be a Committee to consider what steps are proper to be taken for the relief of such of the inhabitants of Boston as come over to Charlestown, who are not able to take care of themselves.

The Committee appointed to consider the account of taking the Fortress of Ticonderoga, reported the following Resolve, and Letter to the Assembly of Connecticut, which were accepted, and the Letter ordered to be authenticated and sent forward:

GENTLEMEN: We have the happiness of presenting our congratulations to you on the reduction of that important fortress, Ticonderoga. We applaud the conduct of both the officers and soldiers, and are of opinion, that the advantageous situation of that fortress makes it highly expedient that it should be repaired, and properly garrisoned. In the mean time, as we suppose that there is no necessity for keeping all the cannon there, we should be extremely glad if all the battery cannon, especially brass cannon, which can be spared from that place, or procured from Crown Point, (which we hope by this time is in the hands of our friends,) may be forwarded this way, with all possible expedition, as we have here to contend with an Army furnished with as fine a train of artillery as ever was seen in America. And we are in extreme want of a sufficient number of cannon to fortify those important passes, without which we can neither annoy General Gage, if it should become necessary, nor defend ourselves against him.

We therefore must most earnestly recommend this very important matter to your immediate consideration; and we would suggest it, as our opinion, that the appointing Colonel Arnold to take charge of them, and bring them down, with all possible haste, may be a means of settling any disputes which may have arisen between him and some other officers, which we are always desirous to avoid, and more especially at a time when our common danger ought to unite us in the strongest bonds of unity and affection.

We are, gentlemen, &c.

This Congress having received authentick intelligence that the Fort at Ticonderoga is surrendered into the hands of Colonel Ethan Allen and others, together with the Artillery and Artillery Stores, Ammunition, &c., thereunto belonging, for the benefit of these Colonies, occasioned by the intrepid valour of a number of men under the command of the said Colonel Allen, Colonel Easton of the Massachusetts, and others; and by the advice and direction of the Committee for that expedition, the said Colonel Allen is to remain in possession of the same and its dependencies, until further order:

Resolved, That this Congress do highly approve of the same; and the General Assembly of the Colony of Con- necticut are hereby desired to give directions relative to garrisoning and maintaining the same, for the future, until the advice of the Continental Congress can be had in that behalf.

And as this Colony is in want of some Battering Cannon for their defence immediately, it is further Resolved, That the President of this Congress be desired to write to the General Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut, desiring that they would give order for the immediate removal of some of those Cannon to this Colony, for the purpose aforesaid.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

The Committee appointed to consider the Petition from the inhabitants of Canaan and Norridgewock, reported.

The question being put, Whether the Report shall be accepted? it passed in the negative.

Thereupon, Resolved, That the Petitioners have leave to withdraw their Petition.

Ordered, That Colonel Foster, Mr. Sullivan, and Captain Farley, be a Committee to prepare a Commission for General Ward.

The Committee appointed to consider of the verbal information from Dartmouth, reported verbally, "That the inhabitants of Dartmouth be advised to conduct themselves (with respect to the prisoners they have taken) agreeably to the direction of the Committee of Inspection for that Town."

After a long debate, it was moved that the consideration of this matter should subside.

And the question being put, it passed in the affirmative.

And the matter accordingly subsided.

Ordered, That the Secretary be directed to inform the gentlemen from Dartmouth, of the determination of the Congress, respecting the information from Dartmouth, and the reason thereof.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to revise the Commission of the Committee of Safety, sit forthwith, and report as soon as may be. That Mr. Sullivan be excused, and that Colonel Foster and Deacon Fisher be added to this Committee.

Resolved, That Doctor Church be allowed one Servant to attend him in his journey to Philadelphia.

Ordered, That the Letters relative to taking the Fortress of Ticonderoga, be delivered to the Committee of Safety.

Ordered, That the Committee appointed to prepare an Establishment for Post-Offices, &c., be directed to bring in a Resolve, for the purpose of empowering the Committee, who were appointed to agree with the Post-Riders, &c., to take Bonds of the Postmasters, and appoint oaths to be taken by the Postmasters and Post-Riders; and that Colonel Foster be excused, and Captain Stone and Mr. Greenleaf be added to the Committee.

Adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Thursday, May 18, 1775, A. M.

The Committee who were appointed to revise the Resolves respecting the Committee of Safety, reported:

Whereupon, Resolved, That three o'clock, in the afternoon, be assigned for the choice of a Committee of Safety, to consist of thirteen Members, and for the further consideration of said Report.

Ordered, That Captain Rawson, Mr. Bullen, and Colonel Farley, be a Committee to consider the practicability of employing Chaplains for the Army out of the number of Clergy of this Colony.

Ordered, That Colonel Warren, Mr. Gardner, and Mr. Sullivan be a Committee to bring in a Resolve, recommending it to the inhabitants of this Colony not to choose any person to represent them in Congress, who has a Commission in the Army.

The Committee made the following Report; which was read:

In Provincial Congress, May 18, 1775.

Whereas, in all free States, the sword should be subservient to, and under the control of the civil powers of Government; from whence arises the impropriety of the Officers of the Army of this Colony being members of the Congress to be held therein: and whereas, it is absolutely necessary that every Officer of the Army aforesaid constantly attend his duty therein:

Therefore, Resolved, That it be, and it is hereby recommended to the several Towns in this Colony that they do not return to the next Congress, to be held here, any Officer of the Army, as a member of said Congress.

Ordered, That Major Fuller, of Middleton, Mr. Whittemore, and Mr. Bliss, be a Committee to wait upon the Honourable James Russell, Esq., Impost-Master, to know if he has any Publick Moneys, now in his hands.

Ordered, That the President, Mr. Sullivan, and Colonel Warren, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve, recommending to the inhabitants of this Colony to make no purchases, nor receive any conveyances of Estates, from the Mandamus Counsellors, or other inveterate enemies of the rights of this Country; and that they have no dealings of any kind with such persons.

Ordered, That Mr. Gardner, Doctor Taylor, and Mr. Kollock, be a Committee to consider and inquire into the subject-matter of a Resolve of the Committee of Safety, respecting Lady Frankland.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

Ordered, That Mr. Sullivan, Colonel Foster, Doctor Holten, Mr. Bragdon and Captain Batchelder, be a Committee to take into consideration a Letter from the Committee of Correspondence for the Town of Falmouth, and such parts of a Letter from the Honourable Enoch Freeman, Esq., to the Secretary, as he may communicate.

The Order of the Day was moved for.

Ordered, That Captain Brown, Mr. Bayley, and Captain Baker, be a Committee to sort and count the votes for a Committee of Safety.

The Committee appointed to count and sort the votes for a Committee of Safety, reported that the following gentlemen were chosen, viz:

Hon. John Hancock , Esq.,	Capt. Benjamin White ,
Doctor Joseph Warren ,	Col. Joseph Palmer ,
Doctor Benjamin Church ,	Mr. Richard Devens ,
Mr. Abraham Watson ,	Mr. John Pigeon ,
Colonel Azor Orne ,	Hon. Benj. Greenleaf ,
Mr. Nathan Cushing ,	Doct. Samuel Holten .
Hon. Enoch Freeman , Esq.,

The Report was recommitted for filling up the blanks.

Ordered, That Mr. Kollock, Doctor Taylor, and Colonel Davis, be a Committee to inquire where the Treasurer may procure Money for the Muster-Masters, to supply the Soldiers with advance pay.

The Committee who were appointed to consider the Resolve of the Committee of Safety respecting Lady Frankland, reported as follows:

The Committee appointed to consider the Resolution of the Committee of Safety, respecting the removal of Lady Frankland, with her effects, from Hopkinton to Boston, have attended to that service, and ask leave to report facts as the Committee find them, viz:

That Mrs. Frankland hath with her now going into Boston, four horses, two chaises, one phaeton, six oxen, two carts, five sheep, one swine, about four hundred of hay, two barrels and one hamper filled with bottled wine, one keg of tongues, six trunks and several small boxes, containing chiefly men and women's wearing apparel, sheeting and other linens, three beds, with their furniture; one gun, one pistol, and one sword, one flask, with a small quantity of powder and lead; about ten bushels of Indian corn, and one canister, with a small quantity of tea.

As a number of people at or near the place where the above articles are confined, appear to be greatly irritated at Mrs. Frankland's proceeding to Boston, the Committee think it their duty to report facts. Which is submitted.

Per order:

HENRY GARDNER.

Whereupon, Resolved, That Mr. Craft be and hereby is directed forthwith to attend this Congress.

Mr. Craft accordingly attended; and having heard the allegations against him, and having made his defence, withdrew.

The Congress then Resolved, That he should be gently admonished by the President, and be assured that the Congress were determined to preserve their dignity and power over the Military.

Mr. Craft was again called in, and the President politely admonished him, agreeably to the Resolve of Congress.

Resolved, That Lady Frankland be permitted to go into Boston with the following articles, viz: seven trunks; all the beds, and furniture to them; all the boxes and crates; a basket of chickens, and a bag of corn; two barrels and a hamper; two horses and two chaises, and all the articles in the chaise, excepting arms and ammunition; one phaeton; some tongues, hams and veal, and sundry small bundles.

Which articles having been examined by a Committee from this Congress, she is permitted to have them carried in without any further examination.

Adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Friday, May 19, 1775.

Resolved, That Colonel Bond be and hereby is directed to appoint a Guard of six men to escort Lady Frankland to Boston, with such of her effects as this Congress have permitted her to carry with her; and Colonel Bond is directed to wait on General Thomas with a copy of the Resolves of this Congress respecting Lady Frankland.

Resolved, That Mr. Ezekiel Hall, of this Town, be recommended to the Generals of our Colony Army, in order to have such aid as they can afford him in going into or out of Boston, or sending some suitable person there, which appears to be necessary, in order to save some of his valuable effects, which there is reason to fear were exposed by the late fire.

Ordered, That Colonel Warren wait on General Ward, directing him to attend this Congress forthwith, to receive his Commission; and also on the Committee of Safety, for a list of such Colonels and other Officers as they shall report to be prepared for receiving their Commissions.

A Letter from the Committee of Correspondence of Connecticut, was read, respecting the taking of Ticonderoga: Whereupon, Ordered, That Mr. Gerry prepare an answer thereto, informing them what steps this Congress have taken relative to that affair.

Ordered, That Doctor Perkins and Captain Baker be added to the Committee who were appointed to inquire where the Treasurer can borrow money.

Resolved, That all persons who may have any Goods or Chattels belonging to Lady Frankland, now in their custody, which are not mentioned in the Resolve of this Congress for allowing her, with certain effects, to go into Boston, be and hereby are directed to permit her to send them to Hopkinton, or dispose of them in any way agreeable to her, not inconsistent with the Resolves of this Congress.

The Committee appointed to consider what steps may be taken for the relief of such of the inhabitants of Boston as come over to Charlestown, &c., reported: Whereupon, Ordered, That Deacon Cheever, Colonel Davis, and Captain E. Withington, be a Committee to bring in a list of names of persons to fill up the blank in said Report.

Mr. Gerry reported an Answer to a Letter from the Committee of Correspondence of Connecticut, which was accepted.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

Ordered, That Doctor Holten, Mr. Whittemore, and Major Bliss, be a Committee to take into consideration the Representation made to this Congress by Colonel Warren, by desire of General Ward, of the necessity there is that the Army should be immediately supplied with Iron Pots, as well as an additional stock of Powder; as also for providing a House for the abode of Joseph Trumbull, Esquire, of Connecticut, and another for the Chairman and the other Members of the Committee of Safety.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Representation made to this Congress by Colonel Warren, by desire of General Ward, made the following Report:

That they applied to the Committee of Supplies respecting the want of Iron Pots for the use of the Army; and also of an additional stock of Powder, and received for answer, that Mr. Gerry would wait upon the Congress this afternoon, and inform them respecting the same. And said Committee beg leave further to report, as their opinion, that a Resolve be brought in empowering Joseph Trumbull, Esquire, of Connecticut, to use and improve the house of John Borland, Esquire, late of Cambridge, until further orders of this Congress, or some future Congress, or House of Representatives; and also a Resolve empowering the Committee of Safety to use and improve the house of John Vassall, Esquire, late of Cambridge, until further orders of this Congress, or some future Congress, or House of Representatives; said houses to be improved as above expressed, as soon as General Ward shall provide for the soldiers in said houses in some other places.

The Report of the Committee for revising the Commissions of the Committee of Safety, after being read, paragraph by paragraph, was amended and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, the former Congresses of this Colony have chosen, and by divers Resolutions have empowered, John Hancock, Esquire, Doctor Joseph Warren, Doctor Benjamin Church, Captain Benjamin White, Colonel Joseph Palmer, Mr. Richard Devens, Mr. Abraham Watson, Jr., Mr. John Pigeon, Colonel Azor Orne, Nathan Cushing, Esq., Colonel William Heath, Colonel Thomas Gardner, Colonel Asa Whitcomb, Mr. Edward Durant, and Mr. James Sullivan, to be a Committee of Safety; and by virtue of the authority of that office, on certain occasions, to cause to be assembled the Militia of this Colony, for the defence of the inhabitants thereof; and which Committee of Safety are, by the Resolutions of said Congresses, empowered to do several other acts for the service of the Colony, as by the Journals and Records of said Congresses appears:

It is Resolved, That whatever the said Committee of Safety, or any of them, have done pursuant to the said Resolutions of said Congress, shall be held good and valid, and that the said inhabitants of said Colony shall be held thereby, as well according to the true intent and meaning of said Resolutions, as according to the strict letter thereof.

And whereas, there appears to be still a deficiency of power in said Committee, considering the particular exigencies of the Colony, and it being necessary to have their Commission as concise and explicit as possible, which can be done only by consolidating the powers intended by the several Resolutions of this as well as the former Congresses, to be given them; it is, therefore,

Resolved, That all and every Resolution now in force respecting the said Committee of Safety, shall be and hereby are repealed, revoked, and rendered null and void.

And it is also Resolved, That the Honourable John Hancock, Esquire, Doctor Joseph Warren, Doctor Benjamin Church, Captain Benjamin White, Colonel Joseph Palmer, Mr. Richard Devens, Mr. Abraham Watson, Mr. John Pigeon, Colonel Azor Orne, Honourable Benjamin Greenleaf, Esquire, Mr. Nathan Cushing, Doctor Samuel Holten, and Honourable Enoch Freeman, Esq., be a Committee of Safety for this Colony hereafter, until some further order of this or some future Congress or House of Representatives of this Colony shall revoke their or either of their appointment.

And it is also Resolved, That the said Committee of Safety shall be, and hereby are empowered, when they shall think it necessary, in defence of the lives and properties of the inhabitants of this Colony, to assemble such and so many of the Militia thereof, and them to dispose and place where, and detain so long, as the said Committee of Safety shall judge necessary, and to discharge said Militia when the safety of this Colony will admit of it; and the Officers of the said Militia are hereby enjoined to pay strict obedience to the orders and directions of the said Committee of Safety.

And it is also Resolved, That the said Committee of Safety shall be, and hereby are empowered to direct the Army of this Colony to be stationed where the said Committee of Safety shall judge most conducive to the defence and service of the Colony; and the General, and other Officers of the Army, are required to render strict obedience to such orders of said Committee; provided always, that it shall be in the power of this, or any future Congress, to control any order of the said Committee of Safety, respecting this or any other matter.

And whereas, the former Committee of Safety were, by a Resolve of this Congress, empowered to nominate persons to this Congress to be commissioned to be officers in the Army now establishing for the defence of this Colony; and said Committee having already given orders to a number of persons to enlist men for that purpose:

Resolved, That the Committee of Safety now appointed proceed in that matter, that such officers, where the Regiments are completed, may be commissioned by this Congress; and if any Regiment should be nearly completed, and the officers thereof ready to be commissioned, agreeably to the Resolve of this Congress, during the time between the dissolution of this Congress and the meeting of the next, the said Committee shall have power to fill up and deliver out Commissions to them; and blank Commissions, signed by the President of this Congress, and attested by the Secretary, shall be delivered to the said Committee for this purpose.

And it is also Resolved, That any five of the said Committee be a quorum, with full power to transact any business which the Committee, by the Resolves above, are empowered and vested with authority to do.

Ordered, That Letters be sent to the Honourable Benjamin Greenleaf, Esquire, and the Hon. Enoch Freeman, Esquire, informing them of their being chosen Members of the Committee of Safety, and requesting their attendance as soon as possible.

Resolved, That Mr. John Pigeon be, and he hereby is appointed and empowered as a Commissary for the Army of this Province, to draw from the Magazines which are or may be provided for that purpose, such Provisions and other stores, as from time to time he shall find necessary for the Army; and he is further empowered to recommend to the Congress such persons as shall be necessary, and as he shall think qualified, to serve as Deputy Commissaries; and said Deputy Commissaries, when confirmed by the Congress for the time being, shall have full power to act in said office, and are to be accountable to the Commissary for their doings; also, said Commissary is empowered to contract with and employ such other persons to assist him in executing his office, as shall be by him found necessary; and his contracts for necessaries to supply the Army during the late confused state of the Colony, shall be allowed; and the Committee of Supplies are hereby directed to examine, and if they find them reasonable, considering the exigencies of the times, to draw on the Treasury for payment of the same.

The form of a Commission for General Ward was read, amended, and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

"The Congress of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY to the Honourable ARTEMAS WARD, Esquire, greeting:

"We, reposing especial trust and confidence in your courage and good conduct, do, by these presents, constitute and appoint you, the said Artemas Ward, to be General and Commander-in-Chief of all the Forces raised by the Congress aforesaid, for the defence of this and the other American Colonies. You are, therefore, carefully and diligently to discharge the duty of a General, in leading, ordering, and exercising the said Forces in arms, both inferior Officers and Soldiers, and to keep them in good order and discipline; and they are hereby commanded to obey you as their General; and you are yourself to observe and follow such orders and instructions as you shall, from time to time, receive from this or any future Congress, or House of Representatives of this Colony, or the Committee of Safety, so far as the said Committee is empowered, by their commission, to order and instruct you for the defence of this and the other Colonies, and to demean yourself according to the military rules and discipline, established by Congress in pursuance of the trust reposed in you. By order of the Congress:

" President pro tem.

" the of A. D. 1775.

" Secretary pro tem."

Ordered, That Colonel Foster, Captain Stone, and Mr. Webster, be a Committee to get the Depositions and Narrative of the late excursion of the King's Troops to Concord, printed in a pamphlet, on the best terms they can; and that they forward one pamphlet to each Town and District in the Colony.

Resolved, That there be a blank left in the Commissions to be given the Officers of the several Regiments of the Colony Army, for the rank of the Regiment, and that be a Committee to settle the ranks of the Regiments, when the Regiments are completed.

Resolved, That the same Committee be directed to bring in a Resolve, settling the rank or number of the Regiments, according to the rank or age of the Counties from whence the majority of the Regiments shall come.

Resolved, That the rank of the Regiments, where there are more than one in each County, be according to the rank which those Regiments formerly sustained in the old arrangement, from which they are taken, provided that can be ascertained; and where that cannot be determined, the rank to be determined by lot.

Resolved, That the Commissions be all of one date, and that the rank of the Officers be determined by this Congress, or by a Committee from this Congress at some future time.

Resolved, That Colonel Samuel Gerrish have a Commission for a Colonel in the Army, and that the oath be administered to him by Mr. Gardner, the Receiver-General; also, that Commissions, as Captains, issue for Richard Dodge, Jacob Gerrish, and William Rogers; Commissions to bear date the 19th May.

Adjourned to nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Saturday, May 20, 1775.

Ordered, That Colonel Foster, Doctor Holten, and Major Brooks, be a Committee to confer with Mr. Revere, respecting his proposal for an alteration in the value of the Colony Notes, which have been ordered to be struck off.

Ordered, That Colonel Thurston, Esquire Aikin, and Mr. Crane, be a Committee to take into consideration a Petition from a number of the inhabitants of Deer Island.

The Committee appointed to consider the case of the prisoners in Boston, and the inhabitants which are there kept in duress, reported. The Report was read and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas this Congress did, on the 30th of April last past, pass a Resolve for permitting such inhabitants of the Colony to remove into Boston, "with their effects, fire-arms and ammunition excepted," as should incline thereto; it being in consequence of General Gage's promise to the inhabitants of Boston, that upon resigning their arms and ammunition they should have liberty to remove from said Town with their effects; And whereas but a small proportion of the said inhabitants of Boston have been hitherto permitted to leave the Town, and those only to bring their clothing and household furniture, they being constrained to leave their provisions and all their other effects: Therefore,

Resolved, That General Ward be, and he hereby is directed to order the Guards in future not to suffer any provisions or effects, excepting furniture and clothing, to be carried into the Town of Boston, so long as the said General Gage shall suffer the persons or effects of the inhabitants of said Town, contrary to his plighted faith, to be restrained.

The Committee appointed to confer with Mr. Revere, brought in the following Resolves, which were accepted, and the Secretary directed to erase from the Minutes the Resolve which passed this Congress for issuing Colony Notes of ten Shillings each:

Whereas this Congress did, on the fourth day of this instant, May, pass a Resolve in the following form, viz:

Resolved, That each Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier, who has or shall enlist himself into the service of this Colony, shall have twenty Shillings paid him out of the Receiver-General's office, as advance pay, and that the Commanding Officer of each Regiment, who shall be, and hereby is empowered to act as Muster-Master to his said Regiment, shall draw from the Receiver-General's office the sum of twenty Shillings for each Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier in his said Regiment, and pay the same, according to the tenor of this Resolve, as soon as said men have enlisted themselves, and been duly sworn, and give his Bond, with sufficient sureties, to the Receiver-

General therefor; said Bond to be discharged by a receipt produced by said Officer from each Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier, that he has received the same.

And whereas this Congress have, by a subsequent Resolve, superseded the appointment of the Muster-Masters aforementioned, and directed that Colonel Benjamin Lincoln and Colonel Asa Whitcomb, be appointed Muster-Masters in the Massachusetts Army, whose business it shall be to pass muster on every Soldier that should be enlisted into the said Army, and by no means to accept of any but such as are able-bodied and effective men, and also to examine their Arms and Accoutrements, &c., that they are in proper order; and said Muster-Masters are thereby directed and empowered to receive from Henry Gardner, Esquire, Receiver-General, twenty Shillings, lawful money, for each and every Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier then mustered and sworn, and as shall appear with their Arms, &c., and shall give Bond to said Receiver-General, with sufficient sureties for such moneys drawn out of the Treasury, and shall forthwith pay out said sum of twenty Shillings advance pay, to each and every Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier, and on producing receipts from them to said Receiver-General, said Bonds shall be cancelled: And whereas it is found that sufficient ready cash cannot be obtained so soon as it will be needed for the purpose aforesaid: therefore,

Resolved, That each Non-commissioned Officer and Private Soldier aforesaid, (if he will accept the same,) shall, instead of twenty Shillings advance pay, upon the muster aforesaid, receive forty Shillings advance pay in three Notes, on interest from the Receiver-General, to be paid in one year from the date of said Notes; and that for all such sums as the said Col. Lincoln and Col. Whitcomb shall receive of the Receiver-General in Notes as aforesaid, they give Bonds, and that such Bonds be discharged by receipts, as in and by the last mentioned Resolve is directed.

Ordered, That the President, Major Hauley, General Whitcomb, Mr. Gerry, Colonel Palmer, Colonel Lincoln, and Colonel Foster, be a Committee to consider what measures are proper to be taken, for organizing the Massachusetts Army in the most effectual and ready manner.

Resolved, That for the payment of advance pay to the Massachusetts Army, there be issued by the Receiver-General, on the credit of this Colony, a sum not exceeding Twenty-Six Thousand Pounds, lawful money, in Notes of the following denominations; viz: of Twenty Shillings, of Eighteen, Sixteen, Fifteen, Fourteen, Twelve, Ten, Nine, and of Six Shillings; to be four thousand three hundred and thirty-three of each denomination, and no more; and to be of the form following, viz:

COLONY OF THE MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

No. May 25, 1775.

The possessor of this Note shall be entitled to receive, out of the publick Treasury of this Colony, the sum of Shillings, lawful money, on the twenty-fifth day of May, Anno Domini 1776, with interest, at the rate of six per cent. per annum. And this Note shall be received in all payments at the Treasury, at any time after the date hereof, for the principal sum, without interest, if so paid before the said 25th day of May, Anno Domini 1776.

Receiver-General.

Which Notes shall be received in all payments in this Colony; and no discount or abatement shall be made thereon in any payment, trade, or exchange whatsoever.

The Committee appointed to consider the practicability of providing Chaplains for the Army, reported.

The Report was read, and recommitted.

The Petition of Benjamin Thompson to the Committee of Safety, was read, and ordered to subside.

Adjourned to three o'clock, P. M.

Afternoon.

The Report of the Committee appointed to consider the practicability of providing Chaplains, was again read, accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas, it is necessary that Chaplains should be appointed in the Massachusetts Army, under the command of the Honourable Artemas Ward, Esquire, which, if appointed on the establishment made by this Colony, will greatly enhance the Colony debt:

And whereas, it has been represented to this Congress, that several Ministers of the Religious Assemblies within this Colony have expressed their willingness to attend the Army aforesaid in the capacity of Chaplains, as they may be directed by this Congress: therefore,

Resolved, That it be, and it is hereby recommended to the Ministers of the several Religious Assemblies within this Colony, that, with the leave of their several Congregations, they attend said Army in their several Towns, to the number of thirteen at one time, during the time the Army shall be encamped; and that they make known their Resolutions to the Congress thereon, or to the Committee of Safety, as soon as may be.

Resolved unanimously, That the President be desired to deliver to General Ward the Commission prepared for him by this Congress, as General and Commander-in-Chief of the Massachusetts Forces.

Ordered, That Major Brooks, Colonel Mitchell, Esquire Rawson, Esquire Dix, and Major Bliss, be a Committee to examine the prisoner at the door, brought from Head-Quarters, and report some order to be taken thereon.

The President communicated to Congress the request of the Selectmen of Boston, that the Congress would permit Mr. Hall to carry two loads of Hay into Boston, one for himself and one for another person, (Lieutenant-Governour Oliver.) Whereupon, Ordered, That the messenger in waiting be dismissed.

Resolved, That only the Colonels of each Regiment should attend this Congress to receive their Commissions, unless they should be indisposed, or otherwise necessarily prevented; in which case the next Field-Officer may apply for his Commission, and Commissions for the inferior Officers in his Regiment.

The Honourable Mr. Dexter having, by order of Congress, administered the Oath to General Ward, his Commission was delivered to him by the President.

The following Commissions were likewise delivered, viz:

To Thomas Cogswell and John Wood, Captains, under command of Colonel Gerrish.

Ephraim Doolittle, Colonel; Ebenezer Learned, Colonel; Joseph Reed, Colonel; James Bricket, Lieutenant-Colonel, under Colonel James Fry; Calvin Smith, Major, under Colonel Joseph Read.

Danforth Keys, Lieutenant-Colonel, Jonathan Holman, Major, under Colonel Ebenezer Learned.

Ebenezer Clap, Lieutenant-Colonel, under Colonel Joseph Read.

Ordered, That Commissions be delivered to the Captains of Col. Fry's Regiment, agreeably to a list exhibited.

Resolved, That nine o'clock next Tuesday morning, be assigned for taking into consideration the expediency of giving Lieutenants' Commissions to the Subaltern Officers.

Resolved, That three o'clock next Tuesday afternoon, be assigned to consider a Motion made by Colonel Doolittle, for appointing a Muster-Master for the enlisted Companies at Northfield.

Ordered, That Captain Brown and Esquire Dix be a Committee to procure a Guard over the prisoners from Head-Quarters; and that the Guard who conducted them from thence be now released.

Adjourned until to-morrow afternoon, at four o'clock.

Sunday, May 21, 1775.

Met at four o'clock, and adjourned until to-morrow morning, eight o'clock.

Monday, May 22, 1775.

The Committee on the Petition from the inhabitants of Deer Island, reported as follows, viz:

The Committee on the Petition of a number of the inhabitants of Deer Island, so called, in the County of Lincoln, beg leave to report: That they have made inquiry of the bearer of the Petition, Major Lou, and find that the people there are greatly in want of provisions, and ought to be relieved; but whether it will be best to remove them from the Island, or to supply them with one hundred and fifty bushels of Corn, one hundred bushels of Potatoes, two barrels of Pork, twenty Cod-lines, with leads and hooks, and a small quantity of Salt, we submit to the Congress.

Ordered, That the consideration of this Report be deferred until there is a fuller House.

The Committee appointed to consider what measures should be adopted in relation to the Estates of persons unfriendly to the Country, reported the following Resolve, which was accepted, and ordered to be published in the Newspapers printed in Cambridge and Salem:

Whereas a number of men, some of whom have, in times past, by the good people of this Province, been raised to the highest places of honour and trust, have become inimical to this Colony; and merely on principles of avarice, have, in conjunction with the late Governour Hutchinson, been trying to reduce all America to the most abject state of slavery; and, as well to avoid the just indignation of the people as to pursue their diabolical plans, have fled to Boston and other places for refuge: therefore,

Resolved, That those persons, among whom are the Mandamus Counsellors, are guilty of such atrocious and unnatural crimes against their Country, that every friend to mankind ought to forsake and detest them, until they shall evidence a sincere repentance, by actions worthy of men and christians; and that no person within this Colony shall take any Deed, Lease, or Conveyance whatever, of the Lands, Houses, or Estates of such persons. And it is hereby recommended to the Committee of Inspection, in every Town in this Colony, to see this Resolve fully enforced, unless in such cases as the Congress shall otherwise direct.

A Letter was received from General Ward, recommending that the Ordnance, Arms, and Ammunition mentioned in the following List, be immediately procured and sent to Head-Quarters, for the supply of the Army of Massachusetts, viz:

Thirty Twenty-Four-Pounders, and if that number of Cannon cannot be obtained, that the weight of metal be made up with Eighteen-Pounders, double fortified; ten Twelve-Pounders; eighteen Nine-Pounders; twenty-one thousand six hundred pounds of Powder, and eighty Balls for each gun; one thousand five hundred Stands of Arms; twenty thousand pounds of Musket Powder; forty thousand pounds of Lead; seventeen hundred Iron Pots.

This Congress having requested the Reverend Doctor Langdon to deliver a Sermon before the next Massachusetts Congress, at their meeting in this place on the last Wednesday of this month, and he having signified that he will comply with such request:

Resolved, That it is the desire of this Congress, that the Reverend Ministers of the Gospel in this Colony would assemble at that time, agreeable to their ancient custom, and hold a Convention as usual, if they think proper, as, in the opinion of this Congress, the cause of religion, and the political interest of this Colony, may be served by such meeting.

Ordered, That the Secretary cause the foregoing Resolution to be published in the Newspapers as soon as may be.

A Letter was received from the Committee of Safety, enclosing a communication from Colonel Benedict Arnold, giving information of the surrender of Ticonderoga.

Ordered, That the following Letter to Colonel Arnold, reported by a Committee, be accepted, signed by the Secretary, and forwarded in the name and behalf of this Congress, as soon as may be. [See the Letter, Folio 676.]

Ordered, That Doctor Taylor, Mr. Hale, and Mr. Kollock, be a Committee to take into consideration a Letter communicated this day by the President from the Honourable James Russell, Commissioner of Imposts, dated Charlestown, May 19; and, in particular, to inquire into Mr. Russell's right of making the contract therein mentioned, and the circumstances of it, and report as soon as may be.

— Tuesday, May 23, 1775.

The Committee appointed to consider the Letter from Brownfield, reported, that they find by the bearer of the Letter that the inhabitants have some Arms, Powder, &c., and are not in danger, except from Indians, who are friendly at present; and the state of our affairs calls for such large supplies, that the consideration of their request be deferred till the sitting of the next Congress.

The Report was accepted, and Mr. Israel Hobart was directed to inform the bearer of the Letter of the action of Congress thereon.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

The Committee appointed to bring in a Resolve respecting the depredations of the British Troops on the Islands and Sea-Coasts, reported as follows:

Whereas, the Troops and Forces under the command of General Gage and Admiral Graves are frequently plundering and making depredations on the Islands and Sea-Coasts of this Province, from whence they plunder or purchase Hay, Cattle, Sheep, and many other things, to the injury not only of individuals, but also to the great damage of the publick, and thus strengthen the hands of our enemies: therefore,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the several Towns and Districts on the Sea-Coasts of this Colony, and to all those persons living on the several Islands on said Coasts, that they remove their Hay, Cattle, Sheep, &c., that are exposed to those ravages, and cannot be sufficiently guarded, so far into the country as to be out of the way of those implacable enemies to this people; also, that it be recommended to the Committees of Correspondence in each Town and District, and to the Selectmen, where no such Committee is chosen, that they take effectual care that this Resolve be immediately and strictly put into execution; and that all persons who refuse to comply with the foregoing Resolve shall be held as incorrigible enemies to the rights and liberties of this Country.

This Report being read and amended,

Ordered, That the further consideration thereof be referred to the next Provincial Congress.

Whereas Edward How hath been brought before this Congress, and charged with crimes committed in the camp; and as this Congress do adjudge the Head-Quarters of the Army to be the most suitable and proper place to try the said Edward How, and determine what is adequate to his demerits: therefore,

Resolved, That the said Edward How be sent under a guard to Head-Quarters, and that he be there dealt with as the nature of his offence doth require.

Ordered, That Captain Brown be directed to see that the said How is sent to Head-Quarters with a copy of the foregoing Resolve.

Whereas Thomas Nicols, a negro man, hath been brought before this Congress, and there being no evidence to prove any matters or things alleged against him: therefore,

Resolved, That the said Thomas be sent to the Town or District where he belongs, and that the Committee of Correspondence, or Selectmen of said Town or District, take such care of the said Thomas, that he may be dealt with as they, in their judgment, shall think proper.

Ordered, That Captain Kingsbury be directed to appoint some persons to conduct the above-mentioned negro to Natick, agreeably to the foregoing Resolve.

The Committee appointed to consider what further measures are necessary to be taken for the organization of the Army, presented their Report; which was read, accepted, and is as follows:

The Committee appointed on the twentieth May current, to consider what further orders are necessary to be taken and passed, that the Army now raising by this Province for the necessary defence thereof may be effectually officered and organized, have attended that service, and beg leave to report, that they are humbly of opinion that, for the end aforesaid, it is necessary that, over and above the General already appointed for said Army, and commissioned by Congress, the following Officers (not yet ordered by Congress) should be chosen and commissioned, to wit: one Lieutenant-General, two Major-Generals, four Brigadier-Generals, two Adjutant-Generals, and two Quarter-Master-Generals; and that this Congress, before they shall rise, and as soon as shall be convenient, proceed to choose and commission such Lieutenant-General; but that the choice of the rest of the Officers above specified, should be referred to the beginning of the first session of the next Congress. And they beg leave to subjoin, as their opinion, that it will be proper that such Brigadier-Generals should be chosen, and taken of and from among the Colonels who may be commissioned by Congress.

All which is humbly submitted by your Committee, who ask leave to sit again. JOSEPH HAWLEY, per order.

Wednesday, May 24, 1775.

Ebenezer Cutler,* of Northborough, having been brought before this Congress on complaint of sundry persons, for uttering sundry expressions against the liberties of the good people of this Colony, and the same having been inquired of by a Committee, who reported, among other matters, that all the expressions of which he is accused were uttered some time ago; and that the said Ebenezer had requested that he might have the same privilege of going into the Town of Boston, without his effects, as other persons have, by the order of Congress:

The Report was accepted, and it was thereupon Resolved, That he have liberty for so doing.

Mr. Gerry, from the Committee to consider the propriety of appointing some additional Armourers, reported as follows, viz:

"Resolved, That the Committee of Supplies be empowered and directed to appoint such and so many Armourers, in addition to those already appointed, as may be wanted by the Army of this Colony, not exceeding fifteen, including those already appointed; and that the said Armourers, as also those already appointed by the Committee of Safety, shall each receive four Pounds per month, and be entitled to billeting as Soldiers, they providing their own tools; and the said Armourers are hereby directed to keep true accounts of the expense of repairing the Fire-Arms of such Soldiers whose Fire-Arms are repaired in order to qualify them to pass muster. And the Committee of Supplies be, and hereby are empowered and directed to discharge such as are, or may hereafter be appointed, when they shall think it for the interest of the Colony so to do."

The Report being read, and amended,

Ordered, That Mr. Whittemore, Captain Dwight, and Mr. Kollock, be a Committee to bring in a Resolve for the appointment of a number of Armourers as aforesaid, and for the establishment of their Pay.

It being made to appear to this Congress that the major part of the Committee appointed to effect the Removal of the Poor of the Town of Boston to the place to which they are destined, are removed out of the Towns of Charlestown and Roxbury, to which they belonged:

Resolved, That Messrs. Isaac Foster, Nathaniel Gorham, Edward Goodwin, John Frothingham, Joseph Hopkins, Colonel Joseph Williams, Mr. Nathaniel Patten, Major Nathaniel Ruggles, Mr. Noah Parsons, Deacon William Gridley, Lewis Fay, and James Bradish, Jun., or any three of them, (being present,) be a Committee for all the purposes and with all the powers to which the said Committee were appointed.

And it being also made to appear that said Committee cannot proceed unless further provision be made in that behalf:

Therefore Resolved, That said Committee, or any three

* WATERTOWN, May 22, 1775.

The Committee appointed to examine the case of Ebenezer Cutler, do find, by full proof, that said Cutler has proved himself very inimical to his Country, by speaking many things very disrespectful of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, and acting against their resolves; and by saying he would assist Gage; calling such, damned fools who signed the Town Covenant, or Non-consumption Agreement; saying, the Acts of the Parliament were just and righteous, (meaning those which tended to take away our liberties;) and many other ways has manifested his enmity to this Country, for which he, said Cutler, deserves severe punishment; but he pleading the Resolve of this Congress to tolerate such of the inhabitants of this Colony as were so minded to go into Boston, are humbly of the opinion he, said Ebenezer Cutler, have the privilege of said Resolve. All which we submit to the Congress.

Not accepted.

EDWARD MITCHELL, Chairman.

IN PROVINCIAL CONGRESS, WATERTOWN, May 23, 1775.

Whereas Ebenezer Cutler, of Northborough, hath been brought before this Congress, charged with endeavouring to subvert the Constitution, and by words, from time to time, for many months past, in various places, stirring up the people to assist in the execution of the late Acts of Parliament, encouraging the people not to submit to the measures proposed by the Continental and Provincial Congresses for extricating these Colonies out of the difficulties brought upon them by the measures of the British Administration; which charges, with others of the like nature, being proved to be true, this Congress do adjudge the said Ebenezer Cutler to be an implacable enemy to the liberties of his Country: therefore,

Resolved, That the said Ebenezer be committed to close confinement in the common Jail at until the further order of this or a future Congress; and the keeper of said Jail is hereby directed to receive and detain him accordingly, and is hereby directed to see that this Resolve be carried into execution.

Not accepted.

of them, shall have full power to procure, upon the credit of this Colony, in the most frugal manner, as much Provision as they shall find necessary to support those poor persons to the places of their destination; and the said Committee are further empowered to procure Teams to carry such persons and their effects to those places; and if such Teams cannot be hired, to impress them for that service; and all the charges arising by the measures before directed shall be paid out of the Donations to the Poor of said Town of Boston, now in the hands of the Committee who were appointed to receive and dispose thereof; and if that should be insufficient, the remainder shall be paid by this Colony. And the Committee hereby appointed to the service aforesaid, are hereby directed to lay before the next Congress an account of the charges arising in pursuance of the above commission, that whatever shall appear to be reasonable and just may be liquidated and allowed.

Ordered, That Colonel Joseph Cushing, Mr. Ellis, and Mr. Crane, be a Committee to fill up and deliver to the Colonels of each Regiment the Commissions for the Officers of their respective Regiments, when said Committee shall be notified by the Secretary of this Congress that the Congress have approved of the persons to be commissioned; and that blank Commissions be put in the hands of said Committee, properly authenticated, for that purpose; and that when said Commissions are filled up, they be delivered by said Committee to the Colonel, on his applying for the same, he engaging he will not deliver such Commissions to the respective Officers until they shall have taken the oath appointed to be taken by them by order of this Congress; and that William Holden, Esq., be appointed to administer the oath to the Officers stationed at Roxbury, and James Prescott, Esquire, be appointed to administer the oath to the Officers stationed at Cambridge.

The Committee appointed to prepare an Address to the Inhabitants of the Massachusetts-Bay, relative to an issue of Notes by said Colony, reported. The Address was read, and accepted.

Thursday, May 25, 1775.

The Committee ordered to inspect the several Towns and Districts' stocks of Powder, and consider what Towns are well stocked, and what proportion they could spare for the publick service, have attended that business, and beg leave to report the following proportion, viz:

DANIEL THURSTON, per order.

Upon the foregoing Report,

Ordered, That the Committee who brought in said Report be directed to bring in a Resolve in conformity thereto, and that it be inserted in the Resolve that the Towns shall be respectively paid for what Powder is drawn from their several Towns stock, or have it replaced; and that each Town be notified of the quantity respectively to be taken from its stock.

SAMUEL FREEMAN, Sec'y pro tem.

The Committee reported a Resolve, as directed; which was read and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

"Resolved, That there be draughted out of the Town stocks of Powder, from each respective Town before named, the quantity of Powder affixed to the name of the Town, for the use of the Army, in the defence of the Colony, and that it be replaced as soon as the state of the Colony Magazine will admit of it, or otherwise paid for in money; and that the Selectmen of each Town be forthwith served with an account of the draught made on their Town, and that they immediately deliver it to the Committee of Supplies, or their order.

The Committee of Safety having represented to this Congress that considerable difficulty exists in the adjustment of General Ward's Regiment, in consequence of the pretensions of Colonel Joseph Henshaw and Colonel Jonathan Ward to the post of Lieutenant-Colonel in said Regiment, it was Ordered, That said representation, as also the Memorial of Colonel Henshaw, setting forth his claims to said post, be referred to a Committee. The Committee having considered the matter, reported a Resolve; which was accepted, and is as follows:

Resolved, as the opinion of this Congress, That Colonel Ward is best entitled to receive the Commission as Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiment, which right was disputed by Lieutenant-Colonel Henshaw.

Ordered, That the Honourable Mr. Dexter be desired to attend his duty on the Committee for countersigning the Treasurer's Notes immediately.

Mr. Dexter transmitted the following Letter to the Congress, which was read:

Dedham, May 25, 1775, P. M.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: I was under a necessity to come home last evening. Had I been at Congress to-day, and been as unwell as I am at present, I should have very poorly performed my duty respecting the Notes. I found myself so indisposed this morning that I ventured to conclude to tarry till to-morrow morning at home. I am inclined to attend the business, and, sick or well, will endeavour to be early at Watertown for that purpose.

With much regard, I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,
S. DEXTER.

The Committee appointed to take into consideration the Petition of several persons at Roxbury, reported verbally, That it is the opinion of the Committee that the said Petition be sent to General Thomas, and that he be directed to inquire into the causes of the complaint therein contained, and take proper measures for their redress.

The Report was accepted.

The Committee to whom was referred an application from the Officers of the Army respecting absconding Soldiers, reported. The Report was read and accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Whereas application hath been made to this Congress, by some of the Officers of the Army, that some effectual method may be taken for the speedy return of absconding Soldiers, or such as shall tarry beyond the time limited by furlough:

Therefore, Resolved, That it be, and it hereby is recommended to the Committees of Correspondence in the several Towns and Districts in this Colony, or to the Selectmen, where no such Committees are appointed, that they take effectual care that such absconding or delinquent Soldiers be immediately sent back to their respective Regiments.

Friday, May 26, 1775.

The Honourable Joseph Hawley, from the Committee appointed to prepare a Letter to the Provincial Congress of New-York, now sitting in that Colony, reported; the Letter was accepted, and ordered to be forwarded. [See Folio 715.]

The Committee to whom was referred the Letter of the Honourable James Russell, reported the following Resolve, which was accepted:

Resolved, That the Honourable James Russell, Esq., be, and he hereby is directed, immediately to call in all the publick Moneys committed to his care as Impost Officer, and pay the same to Henry Gardner, Esq., the Receiver-General of this Province.

It having been represented to this Congress, that it would be agreeable to the inhabitants of the Colony of New-Hampshire, that the Post-Rider on the road from Cambridge to Haverhill should extend his route to the Town of Exeter, to meet the Post-Rider from Portsmouth to that place, and a Post-Office having been appointed at Exeter by the inhabitants of New-Hampshire:

Resolved, That the route of the Post-Rider from Cambridge be extended to said Exeter, so long as it shall be found to be expedient, or until the Massachusetts or New-Hampshire Congress, or future House of Representatives, shall otherwise order.

Whereas it appears to this Congress, that although divers able-bodied and effective men who have enlisted into the Massachusetts Army, are either not furnished with Arms and Accoutrements, or with such only as are insufficient for use, yet that it will be for the publick service that such men be accepted: therefore,

Resolved, That the Resolve of this Congress passed the 6th instant, be so far reconsidered, that the Muster-Masters be, and they hereby are directed to accept of all such able-bodied and effective men, and muster them accordingly, any thing contained in the aforementioned Resolve to the contrary notwithstanding; and the several Muster-Masters be, and hereby are directed to make a return to this or some future Congress, or House of Representatives, of the names of such Soldiers as shall be found deficient in Arms and Accoutrements, and also of the names of the Towns to which they shall belong respectively.

Ordered, That a copy of the foregoing Resolution be sent to each Muster-Master.

Upon a representation of the Committee of Safety that Mr. Jonathan Brewer, of Waltham, has, contrary to the orders of the said Committee, undertaken to enlist a Company of Rangers, has made use of artifices and impositions to obtain said enlistments; and that he has also seized and retained possession of horses and certain real estate, the private property of various individuals, and converted the same to his own use, whereby he has disqualified himself for the command of a Regiment; it was Ordered, That the matter be referred to Dr. Perkins, Mr. Kollock, and Mr. Bent.

The Committee appointed to consider of the charges alleged against Mr. Jonathan Brewer, by the honourable Committee of Safety, having attended that service, beg leave to report the defence of said Brewer, viz: That he, the said Brewer, absolutely denies the charge of seducing men belonging to other corps to enlist in his Regiment, or any of the Companies thereof. As to the taking the horses of Colonels Jones and Taylor, he acknowledges his thus doing, and thinks himself justified therein, by furthering the service of the Province in which he was engaged; that he had used them some time past in that way, and on Saturday last past had returned Jones's horse.

He also owns the leasing part of said Jones's estate, and taking security, which security, he says, was in the keeping of one Captain Butler; that he had proceeded in the affair merely from a principle of saving the improvement of one Mr. Jennison, (whose lands were contiguous to those of said Jones,) and which were exposed, by a neglect of said Jones in keeping up sufficient fences. Said Jennison (as Brewer says) supposing if he would thus dispose of the above leased land to him, he could fence and improve it without molestation. And that the Committee can proceed no further, unless they are enabled, by hearing the full of the evidence supposed to support the complaint.

Per order: RICHARD PERKINS, Chairman.

Monday, May 29, 1775.

The Committee to whom were referred the Papers relating to Jonathan Brewer, reported. The Report was accepted, and is as follows, viz:

Resolved, That the Papers respecting Jonathan Brewer be transmitted by the Secretary to the Committee of Safety, to be by them acted upon in such a manner as they think fit, so far as to determine on the expediency of recommending, or not recommending him, to this Congress, as an Officer of the Army now raising in this Colony.

MEETING OF FREEHOLDERS OF RICHMOND COUNTY,
NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the Freeholders of the County of Richmond, at Richmond Town, in the said County, on the first day of May, in the year of our Lord 1775, agreeable to a publick notice of such meeting:

BENJAMIN SEAMAN, Esquire, Chairman,
PAUL MICHEAU, Clerk.

The Freeholders of the said County, taking into consideration the distressed and alarming state of the Colonies, and the necessity of a Provincial Congress, did unanimously elect and appoint Messrs. Paul Micheau, John Journey, Aaron Cortelyou, Richard Conner, and Richard Lawrence, or the major part of them, to represent the said County of Richmond at the next Provincial Congress intended to be held in the City of New-York on the 22d day of May instant.

Signed by order of the said Freeholders:

PAUL MICHEAU, Clerk of County of Richmond.

RICHMOND (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO COMMITTEE OF
NEW-YORK.

Richmond County, May 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Yours of the 28th ultimo we received, and, agreeable to your request, convened the Freeholders of the County of Richmond yesterday, to consider of the alarming and dangerous situation the Province is in, being fully persuaded that no time should be lost, as every hour threatens us with inevitable ruin. The necessity of the case requires we should unite in forming a Provincial Congress, and appoint Deputies without delay. The said Freeholders were unanimously of opinion, that the present exigency of affairs required their adopting the measures recommended by your Committee, and appointed us, the subscribers, for that purpose, who will give our attendance accordingly.

We are, gentlemen, your very humble servants,

PAUL MICHEAU, RICHARD CONNER,
JOHN JOURNEY, RICHARD LAWRENCE.
AARON CORTELYOU,

To Mr. Isaac Low, Chairman of the Committee of New-York.

MEETING OF INHABITANTS OF ORANGETOWN, NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and Inhabitants of Orangetown, in the County of Orange, at the house of Mr. Yeast Mabie, in the said Town, on Wednesday, the third day of May, A. D. 1775:

JACOB CONKLIN, Esquire, Chairman,
Dr. THOMAS OUTWATER, Clerk.

Resolved, nem. con., That Colonel Abraham Lent and John Haring, Esquire, be the Deputies for this Town, to represent us at the Provincial Congress proposed to be held in the City of New-York on the 22d day of this instant, and that we will abide by and observe such measures as the said Congress shall, from time to time, direct or recommend. By order of the meeting:

JACOB CONKLIN, Chairman.
THOMAS OUTWATER, Clerk.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES OF SUFFOLK COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the several Committees of Correspondence from the different Towns in the County of Suffolk, at the County Hall, the 5th of May, 1775:

WILLIAM SMITH, Chairman.

The letter from the Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence of New-York, recommending to this County to choose Deputies to meet Deputies from all the Counties in this Province in General Congress, in the City of New-York, on Monday, 22d of May instant, being read,

Voted, nem. con., That Colonel Nathaniel Woodhull, John Sloss Hobart, Thomas Tredwell, John Foster, Ezra L'Hommedieu, Thomas Wickham, and James Havens, or any three of them, be Deputies for this County, who are hereby fully empowered to meet the Deputies from the other Counties in this Province, in Provincial Congress, in

New-York or elsewhere, on the 22d day of this instant, to deliberate upon, and, from time to time, to direct such measures as shall be expedient for our common safety, and the preservation of our rights and privileges; the said Deputies to act for one year, unless peace and harmony between the Colonies and Great Britain be sooner restored, or other persons chosen in their stead.

Signed by order of the Committee:

WM. SMITH, Chairman.

SUFFOLK COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO COMMITTEE OF BROOKHAVEN.

County Hall, May 5, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We beg leave to inform you that the Committees from the several Towns in this County, here met, have chosen seven persons to represent this County at the Provincial Congress, to be held at New-York the 22d of this instant, and should be glad of your concurrence therein. The Association Agreement, so generally entered into in New-York by all parties, is herewith sent to you, hoping you will sign the same, and take such measures as you judge proper to let the inhabitants of your Town have an opportunity to sign. If your Town approve of our choice, you will signify it to one of the Deputies, and if you think proper to choose a Deputy, it will be very agreeable to this Committee. By order of the Committee:

WM. SMITH, Chairman.

To Captain Nathan Woodhull, Richard Woodhull, Jonathan Thompson, John Woodhull, Selah Strong, Thomas Helmes, Esquires, Major Benjamin Floyd, and Mr. Samuel Thompson, of Brookhaven.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

We, who are this day appointed as a Committee for the County of Westchester, do certify that Gouverneur Morris, Lewis Graham, James Van Cortlandt, Stephen Ward, Joseph Drake, Philip Van Cortlandt, James Holmes, David Dayton, John Thomas, Junior, Robert Graham, and William Paulding, were chosen to be the Deputies from this County to the Provincial Convention of the Province of New-York.

Witness our hands, the eighth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five.

MEETING OF THE FREEHOLDERS OF GOSHEN PRECINCT,
NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the Freeholders and Inhabitants of the Precinct of Goshen, in the County of Orange, and Colony of New-York, assembled at the house of Mr. Isaac Nicoll, Inn-holder, in the Town of Goshen, on Wednesday, the 10th day of May, 1775:

PETER CLOWES, Chairman.

Resolved, unanimously, That as the present critical situation of affairs makes it necessary for a Provincial Congress to be held, that Michael Jackson, Peter Clowes, Benjamin Tusten, and William Allison, or any two of them, do attend therein at the City of New-York, on the 22d day of this instant, May, as Delegates for this Precinct. By order of the meeting:

BALTH. DE HEART, Clerk.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES OF ULSTER COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of the Committees of the several Towns and Precincts in the County of Ulster, elected and appointed to meet in Provincial Convention, at the City of New-York, on the 22d day of May instant, or at such other time and place as may be agreed on, held at New-Paltz, at the house of Mrs. Ann Dubois, in the County aforesaid, the 11th day of May, 1775, the following persons appeared as Committees for the different Towns and Precincts, viz :

KINGSTON.—Abraham Van Keuren, Johannes Snyder, Esquire, Egbert Dumond, Esquire, Oke Sudam, Jacobus Van Goesbeck.

AWSEY.—Adrian Wynkoop, Esquire, Captain John Van Deusen, Matthew Ten Eyck, Charles De Witt, Esq.

MARBLETOWN.—Matthew Cantine, Levi Pawling, John Cantine, David Bevier, Cornelius E. Wynkoop, Esq's.

WALLKILL.—William Wilkin, Francis Byrns.

NEW-WINDSOR.—Captain James M. Claghry, John Nicolson, Esquire, Colonel James Clinton.

NEWBURGH.—Col. Jonathan Hasbrouck, John Robinson, Benjamin Birdsell.

NEW-MARLBOROUGH.—Lewis Du Bois, Benjamin Carpenter, Esq., Joseph Morey.

NEW-PALTZ.—Jacob Hasbrouck, Joseph Hasbrouck, Johannes A. Hardenbergh, Andries Lafever, Esquire, Abraham Donaldson, Esquire.

SHAWANGUNK.—Jacobus Bruyn, Johan. Jansen, Matthew Rea, Benj. Smedes, Esquires, Capt. Thomas Jansen, Jr., Major Johannes Hardenbergh, Dirck Roosa.

HANOVER.—Dr. Charles Clinton, Alexander Trimble, Arthur Parks, William Jackson, Abimael Young.

Charles De Witt, Esquire, being unanimously chosen and appointed Chairman, the business of the day was opened, when Colonel Johannes Hardenbergh, Colonel James Clinton, Egbert Dumond, Esquire, Dr. Charles Clinton, Christopher Tappen, John Nicolson, and Jacob Hornbeck, Esquires, were nominated, and unanimously chosen and appointed Deputies for the said County, to serve in Provincial Convention, at the City of New-York, on the 22d day of May instant, or at such other time and place as may be agreed on, in order to adopt and endeavour to carry into execution whatever measures may be recommended by the Continental Congress, or resolved upon by our Provincial Convention, for the purpose of preserving our Constitution, and opposing the execution of the several arbitrary and oppressive acts of the British Parliament, until a reconciliation between Great Britain and America, on constitutional principles, can be obtained; with such further power to declare the sense of this County relative to the grievances and oppressions under which His Majesty's American subjects now groan, and to consult such measures as may tend to the preservation of the rights and liberties of America. And the Deputies hereby appointed are instructed (when met in Provincial Convention) to move that a day be set apart for publick fasting and prayer throughout the Colony, to implore Divine aid in restoring a happy reconciliation between the Mother Country and her American Colonies.

Ordered, That the proceedings of this day be signed by the Chairman, and that the same be published in the New-York Journal. CH. DE WITT, Chairman.

To Col. Johannes Hardenbergh, Col. James Clinton, Egbert Dumond, Esq., Dr. Charles Clinton, Christopher Tappen, John Nicolson, and Jacob Hornbeck, Esq's.

MEETING OF CHARLOTTE COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee in the Townships of White-Creek, Camden, Adingtown, Manchester, Dorset, Rupert, Pollett, and Wells, in the County of Charlotte, Province of New-York, for choosing two Delegates to meet at the Convention at New-York, the 22d instant: Be it known, that John Williams and William Marsh were elected for the purpose above mentioned, as witness our hands, this 12th day of May, 1775.

Signed by the Committee:

HAMILTON MCCALLISTER,	JONA. WILLARD,
JOHN WILLIAMS,	SMITH SMITH,
WILLIAM MARSH,	CALEB SMITH,
JOSHUA CONKEY,	JOS. MCCracken,
NATHAN HAWLEY,	JOHN BATIS,

MEETING OF FREEHOLDERS OF HAVERSTRAW (NEW-YORK) PRECINCT.

Whereas, it is proposed that a Provincial Convention of Deputies, from the different Cities and Counties in this Province, should meet in the City of New-York, on the 22d day of this instant, in order to deliberate and direct such measures as may be thought necessary for the preservation of our rights and liberties, we, the freeholders and inhabitants of the Precinct of Haverstraw, in the County of Orange, being met, do unanimously choose John Coe and David Pye as Deputies to represent the said Precinct, and do authorize and empower the said John Coe and David Pye to represent the said Precinct in the said Convention, and to act, transact, and direct all such measures as shall be thought necessary for the purposes aforesaid. By order of the said meeting:

JOHANNES ISA BLANVELT, Moderator.

May 12, 1775.

MAMICOTING COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

May 13, 1775.

The inhabitants of the Precinct of Mamicoting met together, and chose a Committee; likewise they all signed the Association, and are determined to stand by the same. And whereas we were destitute of militia officers hitherto, the following officers were chosen, viz: Jacob Rutson De Witt, Captain; Abraham Cuddeback, Junior, First Lieutenant; Robert Cook, Second Lieutenant; Samuel King, Ensign. We, the Committee, do think it proper to send you the account of our proceedings. Although Benjamin Depuy, Esquire, of our Precinct, joined the County Committee, yet it was before we were formed into a Committee.

Whereas, we are a frontier Company, if an Indian war should happen to break out, difficulties may arise by the officers lacking authority: we therefore petition the gentlemen of the Congress that the nominated officers may be authorized to act as in commission. And whereas, there are several poor men in our Precinct, who are able and willing to fight for their rights and liberty, and not capable of providing themselves either with arms or ammunition: we, therefore, further petition that you, gentlemen, will take it into consideration, and provide for such poor people; and you will oblige your humble petitioners. By order of the Committee:

JOHN YOUNG, Chairman.

To the Chairman of the Provincial Congress, convened in the City of New-York.

MEETING OF THE INHABITANTS OF CORNWALL (NEW-YORK) PRECINCT.

Blooming Grove, May 15, 1775.

At a meeting of the Freeholders of the Precinct of Cornwall, in Orange County, held at the house of John Brewster, on the 15th of May, 1775, convened agreeably to advertisement: After choosing Jesse Woodhull, Esq., Moderator, and Thomas Moffat, Clerk, a letter was then read, signed by Isaac Low, Chairman of the Committee of New-York, recommending the choosing of Deputies in the several Counties in this Province, to represent them in Provincial Congress on the 22d instant. The meeting then proceeded deliberately, and chose Israel Seely, Jesse Woodhull, Esquire, and Jeremiah Clark, (or any one of them,) Deputies for this Precinct for the purposes aforesaid, as part of the representation of the County of Orange.

JESSE WOODHULL, Chairman.

COMMITTEE OF DUTCHESS COUNTY TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

We, the subscribers, do hereby certify, that at a County meeting, in consequence of notifications for that purpose, held at Poughkeepsie, on Tuesday, the 16th May, 1775, Dirck Brinkerhoff, Anthony Hoffman, Zephaniah Platt, Richard Montgomery, Ephraim Paine, Gilbert Livingston, and Jonathan Landon, Esquires, and Messrs. Gysbert Schenck, Melancthon Smith, and Nathaniel Sackett, were, by a majority of voices, elected Deputies for the term of six months, to represent the County of Dutchess in the Provincial Convention to be held at the City of New-York, on the 22d instant.

VOTE OF THIRD COMPANY IN BROOKHAVEN, NEW-YORK.

Brookhaven, May 17, 1775.

There were called together the Third Company, commanded by Captain Nathan Rose.

The question being put, whether they were for appointing a Deputy in this Town to join the other Deputies of this County, to meet the Provincial Convention, to be held the twenty-second of this instant May, in New-York, to consult the general good of this Colony; passed in the affirmative nemine contradicente.

Then the question was put, whether Selah Strong, Esq., should be the man to represent this Town, in joining with the other Deputies of this County, in Provincial Convention, to be held in New-York, the twenty-second of this instant? Passed, without one dissenting voice, in the affirmative, to which they have affixed their names.

AN ADDRESS FROM JAMES RIVINGTON TO THE HONOURABLE DELEGATES AT THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Whereas the subscriber, by the freedom of his publications during the present unhappy disputes between Great Britain and her Colonies, has brought upon himself much publick displeasure and resentment, in consequence of which his life has been endangered, his property invaded, and a regard to his personal safety requires him still to be absent from his family and business; and whereas it has been ordered by the Committee of Correspondence for the City of New-York, that a report of the state of his case should be made to the Continental Congress, that the manner of his future treatment may be submitted to their direction; he thinks himself happy in having at last for his judges, gentlemen of eminent rank and distinction in the Colonies, from whose enlarged and liberal sentiments, he flatters himself that he can receive no other than an equitable sentence, unbiased by popular clamour and resentment. He humbly presumes that the very respectable gentlemen of the Congress now sitting at Philadelphia, will permit him to declare, and, as a man of honour and veracity, he can and does solemnly declare, that however wrong and mistaken he may have been in his opinions, he has always meant honestly and openly to do his duty as a servant of the publick. Accordingly his conduct, as a printer, has always been conformable to the ideas which he entertained of English liberty, warranted by the practice of all printers in Great Britain and Ireland for a century past, under every Administration; authorized, as he conceives, by the laws of England, and countenanced by the declarations of the late Congress. He declares that his press has been always open and free to all parties, and for the truth of this fact appeals to his publications, among which are to be reckoned all the pamphlets, and many of the best pieces that have been written in this and the neighbouring Colonies in favour of the American claims. However, having found that the inhabitants of the Colonies were not satisfied with this plan of conduct, a few weeks ago he published in his paper a short apology, in which he assured the publick that he would be cautious, for the future, of giving any further offence. To this declaration he resolves to adhere, and he cannot but hope for the patronage of the publick so long as his conduct shall be found to correspond with it. It is his wish and ambition to be an useful member of society. Although an Englishman by birth, he is an American by choice, and he is desirous of devoting his life, in the business of his profession, to the service of the Country he has adopted for his own. He lately employed no less than sixteen workmen, at near one thousand Pounds annually; and his consumption of printing paper, the manufacture of Pennsylvania, New-York, Connecticut, and the Massachusetts-Bay, has amounted nearly to that sum. His extensive foreign correspondence, his large acquaintance in Europe and America, and the manner of his education, are circumstances which, he conceives, have not improperly qualified him for the station in which he wishes to continue, and in which he will exert every endeavour to be useful. He therefore humbly submits his case to the consideration of the honourable gentlemen now assembled in the Continental Congress, and begs that their determination may be such as will secure him, especially as it is the only thing that can effectually secure him in the safety of his person, the enjoyment of his property, and the uninterrupted prosecution of his business. JAMES RIVINGTON.

TOWN MEETING IN BROOKLYN, NEW-YORK.

Brooklyn, Kings County, Nassau Island, May 20, 1775.

At a general Town Meeting, regularly warned, the Magistrates and Freeholders met, and voted Jeremiah Remsen, Esq., into the Chair, and Leffert Lefferts, Esq., Clerk.

Taking into our serious consideration the expediency and propriety of concurring with the freeholders and freemen of the City and County of New-York, and the other Counties, Townships, and Precincts, within this Province, for holding, continuing, and maintaining a Provincial Congress of Deputies, chosen out of the whole Province, to advise, consider, consult, watch over, protect, and defend, at this very alarming crisis, all our civil and religious rights, liberties, and privileges, according to their collective prudence:

After duly weighing and considering the unjust plunder and inhuman carnage committed on the property and persons of our brethren in the Massachusetts, who, with the other New-England Colonies, are now deemed, by the Mother Country, to be in a state of actual rebellion, by which declaration England hath put it beyond their own power to treat with New-England, or to propose or receive any terms of reconciliation, until those Colonies will submit as, or shall become a conquered Country; the first effort to effect which was by military and naval force; the next attempt is to bring a famine (a dreadful engine of war) amongst them, by depriving them of both their natural and acquired right of fishing—natural by their situation, acquired by their joint exertions to acquire the sovereignty of those fisheries: Further, contemplating the very unhappy situation to which the powers at home, by oppressive measures, have driven all the other Protestant Provinces, (in which we are included,) we have all evils in their power to fear, as they have already declared all the Provinces aiders and abettors of rebellion: It remains only with the infallibility and omnipotency of Parliament, to determine how the Crown of England can propose to, or accept of any conditions of accommodations from any of these Protestant Provinces: Therefore,

1st. Resolved, That Henry Williams and Jeremiah Remsen, Esquires, be now elected, chosen, and deputed by us, and in our behalf, Deputies for this Township, to meet and associate with all the Deputies of the Cities, Counties, Townships, and Precincts, within this Province of New-York, in a Provincial Convention, intended to be holden in the City of New-York on Monday next, the twenty-second day of this present instant, May, and so to continue to meet from time to time, and at all times, according to the adjournments of the said Provincial Convention, and then and there to consider, consult, agree, determine, act, and do all prudential and necessary business accordingly.

2d. Resolved, That we, confiding in the wisdom and equity of said Convention, collectively, do consent, agree, and conclude to observe, abide by and fulfil, all necessary and warrantable acts, associations, orders, and directions, as the said Provincial Congress shall, in their prudence, require, direct, and enjoin.

Signed by order of the Town Meeting:

LEFFERT LEFFERTS, Clerk.

COMMITTEE FROM CONNECTICUT TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, Friday Morning, nine o'clock, }
May 21, 1775. }

SIR: As we are much indisposed, think it most prudent to set out for Connecticut, and shall leave this City at two o'clock this afternoon. If the Convention have any commands to the Governour and Company of that Colony, we shall be proud of the honour of executing them. Mr. Edwards will go afterwards to New-Jersey, and, on his way to Connecticut, will wait on the Convention of this Province for further intelligence, and will give them such information as lies in his power.

We are, Sir, your most obedient humble servants,
NATHANIEL WALES,
THADDEUS BURR.

The Honourable Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES FOR KINGS COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

Flatbush, May 22, 1775.

At a meeting held this twenty-second day of May, of the several Deputies of the different Townships in Kings County, for the purpose of electing Delegates to represent the County of Kings in Provincial Congress, now held in the City of New-York, agreeable to said meeting, they have and hereby do appoint Richard Stilwell, Theodorus Polhemus, John Lefferts, Nicholas Covenhoven, Johannes E. Lott, John Van Der Bilt, Henry Williams, and Jeremiah Remsen, Esquires, Delegates, or any three of them, to represent and fully to act in behalf of the before mentioned County, in Provincial Congress before named, now held in the City of New-York.

MEETING OF FREEHOLDERS AT JAMAICA, NEW-YORK.

At a meeting of a number of the Freeholders of Queens County, at Jamaica, on the 22d day of May inst., pursuant to publick notice thereof given, I certify that the following persons, to wit: Col. Jacob Blackwell, Jonathan Lawrence, Daniel Rapelje, Esq., Zebulon Williams, Esquire, Samuel Townsend, Esq., Joseph French, Esq., Joseph Robinson, Nathaniel Tom, Thomas Hicks, Esq., and Captain Richard Thorne, were unanimously chosen and elected Deputies for the said County, to meet in Provincial Congress with the Deputies from the other Counties within this Province. Given under my hand this 22d day of May, 1775.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE ALBANY COMMITTEE.

Ticonderoga, May 22, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I take the liberty to advise you that, on the 13th instant, having proceeded from this place to St. John's, with a party of my Regiment, of thirty-five men, I surprised and took prisoners a sergeant and his party of twelve men, the King's sloop, of seventy tons and seven men, mounted with two brass six-pounders, and in two hours after weighed anchor with the sloop, &c., and proceeded for this place. Six leagues this side of St. John's, met one Colonel Allen, with a party of near one hundred men, who were determined to proceed to St. John's, and make a stand there. Not being able to dissuade them from their rash design, I supplied them with provisions. They then proceeded to St. John's, and the next morning were attacked by about two hundred Regulars, with six field-pieces, and were obliged to make a precipitate retreat, with the loss of three men killed or taken. The party arrived here last evening.

I am now fixing the sloop with six carriages and ten swivels; the schooner with four carriages and six swivels, and am determined to proceed to Crown Point, and make a stand there, in order to secure the cannon, near one hundred pieces, at that place. We are in great want of a number of seamen, gunners, carpenters, &c., for both vessels. Our safety, in a great measure, depends on them, (the vessels,) as they will be able to command the lake, if properly manned. Enclosed is a list of men wanted immediately, which I beg the favour of you, gentlemen, to ship and send up here without loss of time, furnishing them with such things as you judge necessary. I have judicious able commanders for both vessels, and want only mates, gunners, marines, &c. Annexed is the wages I propose giving, but must refer that to your direction; and any sums you are kind enough to advance for the above purpose, I will give a draft for on the Committee of Safety at Cambridge, being fully empowered for that purpose. We have only one hundred and fifty pounds of good powder for both vessels, and one hundred men. I have wrote repeatedly to Albany for powder, and must once more entreat you, gentlemen, if not forwarded, to send me as soon as possible ten or twelve hundred weight of powder. If the seamen, &c., are not to be procured at Albany, I beg the favour of you to forward this letter to the Committee of Safety at New-York, and you will much oblige, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD,
Commander at Ticonderoga.

To the Committee of Safety at Albany.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO THE ASSEMBLY OF CONNECTICUT.

Crown Point, May 23, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: My last was of the 19th instant, per Captain Oswald. I then advised you of my taking possession of the King's sloop, &c., at St. John's, and that, on the 18th instant, I met Colonel Allen, with eighty or one hundred men, who were proceeding to St. John's, with intention to make a stand there; and not being able to dissuade them from their rash purpose, I supplied them with provisions, &c. Yesterday he returned to Ticonderoga, with his party, and says, that on the evening of the 18th he arrived at St. John's, and hearing of a detachment of men on the road from Montreal, lay in ambush for them; but his party being so much fatigued, when the detachment were at about two miles distance, he thought proper to retreat, and crossed the lake at St. John's, where they continued the night, and at dawn of day were saluted with a discharge of grape-shot from six field-pieces, and a discharge of small arms from about two hundred Regulars. They made a precipitate retreat, and left three men behind. Immediately on this intelligence I proceeded for this place with the sloop and schooner, as well armed as possible under our circumstances, and eighty men, which, with the party here before, makes near one hundred and fifty men, with whom I am determined to make a stand here to secure the cannon, &c. As the Regulars have got advice of our strength and movements, I am apprehensive of their paying us a visit, provided they can get batteaus from Montreal to St. John's. I shall make every possible preparation to give them a warm reception. We have plenty of ball of every kind, but have no more than one hundred and fifty pounds of powder here. I have wrote repeatedly to Albany for powder, and can get none. I must entreat you, gentlemen, to send me four or five hundred weight as soon as possible. Out of twenty-six barrels found here there is not one pound good.

I am, with great esteem, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

BENEDICT ARNOLD.

The Hon. General Assembly of Connecticut.

P. S. This will be delivered you, gentlemen, by Captain Phelps, who has been very serviceable here, whom I must refer you to for particulars. Must beg leave to observe, I think it highly necessary for Connecticut to send here immediately fifteen hundred men at least, with good arms, ammunition, &c.

GENTLEMEN: Since writing the above, one of Colonel Allen's party, taken at St. John's, made his escape on the 19th instant, and says there were then four hundred Regulars at St. John's, making all possible preparation to cross the lake, and expected to be joined by a number of Indians, with a design of retaking these places, &c. I have sent to alarm the country for fifty miles below Skenesborough, and fifty miles below Fort George, towards Albany. The men from that distance will be sufficient for the present, if we are well supplied with powder. We are making all possible preparation, and I hope, with the smiles of Providence, to keep our ground, if not overpowered by numbers. I am, gentlemen, yours, &c.,

B. ARNOLD.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO CAPTAIN NOAH LEE.

Crown Point, May 23, 1775.

SIR: I am this minute advised by one of Colonel Allen's party, who was taken prisoner and made his escape from St. John's on the 18th instant, that there were then arrived at that place four hundred Regulars, and more expected, besides the Indians, who were repairing the boats, with a design to cross the lake, and, if possible, to retake Crown Point and Ticonderoga. It is my hearty desire that every man within fifty miles of Skenesborough, who can be of service, would immediately repair to Ticonderoga or Crown Point, and bring all the powder that can be found, and as many spades, pick-axes, and hoes, as they have. Let this letter be forwarded down the country, that they may send up provisions to supply the families of the upper Towns, who are obliged to come forward this way. Let them bring all the good arms they have.

BENEDICT ARNOLD, Commander-in-Chief.

Captain Noah Lee.

P. S. We have only one hundred and fifty men here and at Ticonderoga.

ALBANY COMMITTEE TO THE COMMITTEE OF PALATINE DISTRICT.

Committee-Chamber, Albany, May 23, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We received yours of the 21st instant, and can assure you that we sympathise with you in your distressed and distracted situation; but at the same time must rejoice to find you so warmly engaged amidst the opposition you meet with, in the grand plan of operation generally, nay almost universally adopted through the Colonies, for the preservation of our liberty, and security of our property. Enclosed you have a copy of a letter we have sent to Colonel Guy Johnson. We have sent also a Committee to join a Committee from Schenectady to wait upon him to know the reasons of his military preparations, and the source from whence those apprehensions he has from an assault from the New-England people arose; an answer to the speech of the Indian speech, (a copy of which you have enclosed,) and an interpreter to translate it for him, and to make the Indians sensible of the nature of the dispute between the Mother Country and the Colonies.

Your complain of a scarcity of ammunition amongst you. We are very sorry that though there was a free communication between you and us, we have it not in our power at present to afford you any assistance in that particular, as the New-England people have carried off almost every pound of powder that can be spared, though we understand that the Committee of Schenectady have some; but be assured that we will afford you every assistance that is in our power to give, and shall rejoice to walk hand in hand with you in every thing that shall tend to your particular advantage in so critical a situation, and promote the grand the general cause, which thousands of our neighbouring brethren are strenuously supporting, at the expense of their lives and estates. We cannot at present advise you to force a direct communication between you and us, as it may be attended with bad consequences, and perhaps it may be effected without such a risk as you must run in the attempt.

We have heard, several weeks ago, that Colonel Guy Johnson had appointed last winter to have a general Congress with the Indians this spring. We have wrote a letter to the Reverend Samuel Kirkland, missionary among the Oneida Indians, to use his influence with them to maintain peace and harmony with the white people.

A Speech of the Mohawks to the Magistrates and Committee of the Town of Schenectady, and Mayor, Corporation, and Committee of the City of Albany, &c., delivered by Little Abraham:

BROTHERS: Our present situation is very disagreeable and alarming, what we never expected; therefore desire to know what is designed by the reports that are spread amongst us. We hear that companies and troops are coming from one quarter to another, to molest us; particularly, that a large body are hourly expected from New-England to apprehend and take away by violence our Superintendent and extinguish our council fire; for what reason we know not.

Brothers: We desire you would inform us, if you know of any such design on foot, whether by the New-England people, or in your vicinity, and not deceive us in this matter, for the consequence will be important and extensive.

Brothers: We shall support and defend our Superintendent, and not see our council fire extinguished. We have no inclination or purpose of interfering in the dispute between Old England and Boston; the white people may settle their own quarrels between themselves; we shall never meddle in those matters, or be the aggressors, if we are let alone. We have, for a long time, lived in great peace with one another, and we wish ever to continue so; but should our Superintendent be taken from us, we dread the consequences; the whole Confederacy would resent it, and all their allies; and as reports now are, we should not know where to find our enemies; the innocent might fall with the guilty. We are so desirous of maintaining peace, that we are unwilling the Six Nations should know the bad reports spread amongst us, and threats given out.

Brothers: We desire you will satisfy us as to your knowledge of the foundation of these reports, and what your news is, and not deceive us in a matter of so much importance.

ABRAHAM, Chief.

[Interpreted by Samuel Kirkland, Missionary, May 20, 1775.]

An Answer to a Speech of Little Abraham, a Mohawk, to the Magistrates and Committee of the Town of Schenectady, and Mayor, Corporation, and Committee of the City of Albany:

BROTHERS: We are sorry that any reports spread amongst you should alarm you or make you uneasy. We know of no troops or companies coming from any quarter to molest you, or to apprehend and take away by violence your Superintendent, or extinguish your council fire. We have not heard, nor do we know, the New-England people ever intended to molest you or your Superintendent; nor do we believe it; for they are our friends, and they are your friends, and will do neither of us injury.

Brothers: We cannot, however, pass over in silence what probably may have given rise to such reports. We understand that two persons passing on their own business, were detained by your Superintendent, they being New-England men, which is against our laws; perhaps this may have occasioned the report.

Brothers: We are extremely well satisfied to learn that you have no inclination or purpose to interfere in the dispute between Old England and America, for you must not understand that it is with Boston alone; it is between Old England and all her Colonies; the people here are oppressed by Old England, and she sends over Troops among us to destroy us; this is the reason our people are all in alarm to defend themselves. They intend no hostilities against you; do you continue peaceable, and you need apprehend no danger; it is a dispute wherein you have nothing to do; don't you disturb any of our people, and depend upon it they will leave you in peace.

Brothers: As we have always lived in strict friendship, so we mean to continue to live in peace, not only with our brethren, the Mohawks, but all the Six Nations, for which reason we desire our brethren to give ear to no reports that may prevail. You can at any time satisfy yourselves more fully, if you choose to send down to us one or more of your Nation, any of whom we shall always be glad to see, to talk with them on these affairs.

Answer of the Mohawks to the Speech of the Magistrates, &c., of Albany and Schenectady.

Guy Park, May 25, 1775.

Present: Gysbert Marselis, Peter P. Schuyler, John Visher, John Roseboom, Chris. Yates, of the Committee, Colonel Johnson, Superintendent, Colonel Daniel Claus, William Allen, Esquire, of Philadelphia, with several other gentlemen.

Abraham, Chief of the Mohawks, Speaker.

BROTHERS: We are glad to meet you here at this our fire-place, where we meet to transact business. You are our old friends, and we heard you came now to answer our speech. We have attended to your answer, and now acquaint you that the reports we had rendered it necessary to send you such a speech, to prevent the dangerous consequences that might ensue.

We are extremely glad to hear your speech, which is very peaceable, and it gives us pleasure, because we would not willingly quarrel with a people with whom we have been so long at peace; and this must have happened, if the news we heard had been true; for we have but one head, and that is Colonel Johnson, our Superintendent. We heard that there were designs against him, and we must protect him; we cannot do without him; so that if there are no designs against him, we shall be easy in our minds; for though we have long heard of disputes between the English and the people here, we do not think proper to interfere.

You all know that during Sir William Johnson's lifetime, and since, we have been peaceably disposed; but we were greatly alarmed at the report of a design against Colonel Johnson; for he is our property, and we shall not part with him. We desire you will hearken to us, and that you will believe we speak our minds. We likewise hope you are sincere. But one thing alarms us much, and we hope it is not true. There was a report that you have stopped some powder; you know we get this and other things from our Superintendent; and we are hunters, and must have powder. If we lived as you do, it would not have been so great a loss; but we must have ammunition, and if it is stopped, we shall have reason to doubt your sincerity, and to suspect that you do not regard us or our words. We have both given fair assurances, and hope no doubt remains between us, otherwise it might be bad. We are pleased to hear you say that you are willing to communicate freely with us; this we like, and this is the place where we do business; we will at all times listen to whoever you send here, in the presence of our Superintendent. This is the truth, brothers, and agreeable to the customs of our ancestors, which we shall follow.

The gentlemen of the Committee, after retiring for some little time, returned and gave the following Answer:

BROTHERS: We are very glad to hear you speak, and hear you confirm the old friendship of our forefathers, which we intend to abide by, and thank you for the same.

Brothers: The reports you have heard of in regard to the powder, we also hope to be false, and assure you that we shall acquaint, on our return, our old and wise men about the same, and do our endeavours to prevent any such things for the future; and you may depend upon it, that whenever we have any business with you, that we shall apply here at your council fire, where we hope to meet you in the presence of your Superintendent; and that we shall always keep the communication free and open as is usual.

To which the Mohawk answered:

BROTHERS: We are glad both our speeches are so agreeable, and hope that you are not surprised to hear us say we cannot spare Colonel Johnson; for besides his being our Superintendent, the love we have for the memory of Sir William Johnson, and the obligations the whole Six Nations are under to him, must make us regard and protect every branch of his family, whom we include in our speech.

We now find there have been several false reports on both sides; we hope that concerning the powder is one of them; we shall therefore explain the same truly to the rest of our Confederacy, and we expect that you will, on your part, explain the truth immediately to all the white people east and west, as we mean to do the same among the Indians.

COMMITTEE FROM CONNECTICUT TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.
New-York, May 24, 1775.

SIR: The House of Representatives of the Colony of Connecticut have appointed us a Committee on their behalf to wait on the "Provincial Convention of this Province, in order to procure intelligence of the measures that may be adopted by said Convention, respecting the common cause of the British Colonies; to communicate a true state of the measures taken by said Colony; and to cultivate the friendship and harmony which subsists between this Province and that Colony;" we therefore take the liberty, through you, to communicate the business of our appointment to the Provincial Convention of this Province, and to inform them that we are at Mrs. Blau's, opposite the Exchange, and should esteem it a favour to be furnished from time to time with accounts of the steps taken by the Convention, "that respect the general cause of the British Colonies;" and that we are ready, on our part, "to communicate a true state of the measures adopted by the Colony of Connecticut," and to use all means in our power "to cultivate and improve the friendship subsisting between this Province and said Colony."

We are, Sir, your most obedient humble servants,
NATHANIEL WALES,
THADDEUS BURR,
PIERPONT EDWARDS.

Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq.

JOHN HANCOCK, PRESIDENT, TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.
Philadelphia, May 26, 1775.

SIR: I enclose you the Resolves of the Continental Congress respecting the measures they conceive more immediately necessary for the defence and safety of your City and Province, and which, it is expected, will be carried into execution with all possible despatch, and with as much secrecy, as to the particular operations intended, as the nature of the service will possibly admit of.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the President of the Provincial Congress New-York.

In Congress, May 25, 1775.

Resolved, That a Post be immediately taken and fortified at or near King's Bridge, in the Colony of New-York; that the ground be chosen with a particular view to prevent the communication between the City of New-York and the country from being interrupted by land.

2. Resolved, That a Post be also taken in the Highlands on each side of Hudson's River, and Batteries erected in such manner as will most effectually prevent any vessels passing, that may be sent to harass the inhabitants on the border of said river; and that experienced persons be immediately sent to examine said river, in order to discover where it will be most advisable and proper to obstruct the navigation.

3. That the Militia of New-York be armed and trained, and in constant readiness to act at a moment's warning, and that a number of men be immediately embodied and kept in that City, and so disposed of as to give protection to the inhabitants in case any insult should be offered by the Troops that may land there, and to prevent any attempts that may be made to gain possession of the City, and interrupt its intercourse with the country.

4. That it be left to the Provincial Congress of New-York to determine the number of men sufficient to occupy the several Posts above mentioned, and also that already recommended to be taken at or near Lake George, as well as to guard the City, provided the whole do not exceed the number of three thousand men, to be commanded by such officers as shall be thereunto appointed by the Provincial Congress, and to be governed by such rules and regulations as shall be established by said Congress, until further order is taken by this Congress; provided also, that if the said Provincial Congress should be of opinion that the number proposed will not be sufficient for the several services above recommended, that the said Congress report their sentiments upon this subject to this Congress as soon as may be.

5. That it be recommended to the said Provincial Congress, that, in raising those forces, they allow no bounties or clothing, and that their pay shall not exceed the establishment of the New-England Colonies.

6. That it be further recommended to the Provincial Congress aforesaid, that the Troops be enlisted to serve until the last day of December next, unless this Congress shall direct that they be sooner disbanded.

7. That it be recommended to the Congress aforesaid to persevere the more vigorously in preparing for their defence, as it is very uncertain whether the earnest endeavours of the Congress to accommodate the unhappy differences between Great Britain and the Colonies, by conciliatory measures, will be successful.

A true copy from the minutes :

CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.

CONGRESS OF NEW-JERSEY TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

In Provincial Congress, New-Jersey, Trenton, }
May 26, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: We, the Deputies appointed by the inhabitants of this Province, to meet in Provincial Congress, are now convened here for the purpose of pursuing such measures as may be thought expedient in the present unhappy situation to which the Colonies are reduced, and which the peculiar exigencies of the times may require. As nothing can tend more to ensure success to the steps that may at this critical juncture be adopted by the several Provinces, than a uniform plan of conduct, we conceived it necessary to look up to the Continental Congress for their advice and direction, which we have accordingly applied for, and hope soon to receive. We also think of consequence, that a correspondence should be established with you, and our other sister Colonies, and a free communication be had from time to time of such measures as may be judged most conducive to the interest of the common cause; and request that we may be favoured with such intelligence as may occur to you worthy of attention, and of which our situation may probably deprive us.

We are, gentlemen, your humble servants,

HENDRICK FISHER, President.

To the Provincial Congress of New-York.

SAMUEL TUDER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of NEW-YORK.

The Petition of SAMUEL TUDER, Captain, and the other Officers of the Independent Company of Artillery in the City of NEW-YORK, humbly sheweth:

That they have made considerable progress in forming, training and exercising the said company; and flatter themselves that, if properly supplied, they may, at this critical period prove of signal service to the Province. There are no carriages for even such cannon as they have pitched on to use until brass field-pieces be provided. Quite destitute of ammunition, and the necessary apparatus, they cannot exert themselves with that effect for the defence of the Colony, which they are emulous of contributing to. They therefore pray you will take the matter into consideration, and grant such relief in the premises as you in your wisdom shall think fit.

SAMUEL TUDER,

In behalf of the Independent Company of Artillery.

New-York, May 26, 1775.

LETTER FROM THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO THEIR DELEGATES IN THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

New-York, May 26, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Upon considering the present state of these Colonies, it naturally occurred to this Congress that an uncommon levy of money will soon be necessary for Continental service, and that therefore an universal paper currency may probably become the subject of consideration in your respectable body. To this scheme it may naturally be objected, that it will be imprudent in one Colony to interpose its credit for the others. On the other hand, it is clearly impossible to raise any sum adequate to the service, by tax; and the necessary intercourse of expenditures throughout the Colonies will be obstructed by separate emissions on the respective credits of the several Colonies, which cannot, in their nature, gain universal circulation. We have this important subject under serious deliberation, and are still at a loss for the best expedient most effectually to answer the purpose. We have therefore appointed a Committee of our body to give it their closest attention, and to report their opinion to us with all possible despatch; the result of which and our final resolution thereon, we shall communicate to you without loss of time. In the mean time, should this matter be now in contemplation in the Continental Congress, we earnestly request that its determination may be so postponed as to furnish an opportunity of acquainting you with our more mature sentiments on this most important point.

We beg leave, through our Delegates, to inform the grand representative body of the Continent, that we have, in the best manner in our power, executed their order to the Committee of New-York and Albany, respecting the Post at Ticonderoga, and for further satisfaction, inclose copies of our proceedings on that subject.

We are, gentlemen, with the greatest respect, your most obedient humble servants.

EXTRACTS OF INTERCEPTED LETTERS, ENCLOSED IN A LETTER FROM THE ALBANY COMMITTEE TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF NEW-YORK, DATED MAY 26, 1775.

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant GEORGE CUPBARGE, of the Twenty-Sixth Regiment, to Mr. CUPBARGE, at BELLEVILLE, in IRELAND, dated at MONTREAL, 1st of MAY, 1775.

"I am apt to think our Regiment will be sent very soon to serve against the rebellious New-Englanders."

Extract of a Letter from RANDLE MEREDITH, dated MONTREAL, 2d MAY, 1775, to Mr. JOHN ROWE, Merchant in BOSTON.

"I am sorry to find the Government intend to put their detestable measures in execution. God only knows the event. I feel for your situation, but yet have some faint hopes a plan of reconciliation may be adopted before blood is spilt. The English in this country are in a deplorable situation, being deprived of all their liberties and privileges, and are afraid to speak or act relative to public affairs. Our brethren below must pity us, and our only hopes are, that if Providence ordains that they succeed in their just demands, they will then exert themselves to obtain redress for us, our wills being good, but dare not act, being few in number, and our little attempts have been treated with disdain by the tools of power at home."

An anonymous Letter to Mr. GOMUS, at BOSTON, dated CALDWELL PLACE, 26th APRIL, 1775.

"There is a passage, that the Governor's Commission was read on Monday, and that he has power to raise a Canadian Regiment, and send it where he pleases."

Extract of a Letter dated QUEBECK, APRIL 27th, 1775, from JOHN McCORD to Lieutenant JAMES PETTEGREW, of the Tenth Regiment.

"We are impatient for the Packet; there are rumours here of bad news; have heavy fears for our friends at Boston on both sides the question. I pray God to grant peace on almost any terms. The blood of British subjects is very precious; would gladly hope a method will still be found out to prevent the spilling of any."

ABRAHAM LOTT TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Mr. Lott having received an order from the Purser of His Majesty's Ship Asia to supply the said ship with sundry provisions, takes the liberty herewith to hand the same, and to request the favour, that the Honourable Congress will be pleased to signify their opinion, whether the order shall be complied with, and whether he shall be at liberty to supply the said ship with such other provisions as she may from time to time have occasion for, for her own use, during her stay in this Colony.

City of New-York, May 27, 1775.

To the Provincial Congress of New-York.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Hartford, May 27, A. D. 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The General Assembly of this Colony, now sitting in this place, having received intelligence of the imminent danger of the people at Ticonderoga and Crown Point, by reason of a threatened attack from the Province of Quebeck, in a letter from Colonel Arnold, who, at present, commands there, of the 23d instant, a copy of which we send you enclosed, which may deprive the Colonies of those important posts, before the resolve of the Continental Congress respecting them could be carried into execution in your Province; have, from the pressing and urgent necessity of the case, given orders that five hundred pounds of powder should be sent there, and that four companies of one hundred men each should march immediately for support and defence of the men there, and for the security and defence of the artillery and stores there, until they may be removed and secured agreeable to the resolve of the Continental Congress, or until relieved by your Province.

This Assembly acquiesce in the resolve of Congress, that puts the said fortresses under the direction of the Province of New-York; and in the steps they have now taken, would by no means be considered as invading the Province, or intermeddling with the service entrusted to the Province of New-York; but, as they first had the intelligence of their danger, and had Troops ready which might be spared for the present, they thought it their duty to provide against the present danger until you might be advised of their situation, and take such measures as your wisdom and prudence shall suggest for their safety and defence.

I am, in behalf of the General Assembly of Connecticut, with great truth and regard, gentlemen, your most obedient and humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

The Honourable Provincial Congress of New-York.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Hartford, May 29, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your favour of the 25th instant, May, came safe per Mr. Brown. This Assembly have entered into the consideration of its contents, and have come into the following resolutions in consequence thereof:

That one thousand men, (including those four companies which were before sent forward,) under command of Colonel Benjamin Hinman, march as soon as possible to Ticonderoga and Crown Point, for the support and defence of those fortresses; and that they there continue till they are relieved by the Province of New-York, or are otherwise ordered by this Assembly. That Colonel Hinman take the command of our troops destined to those stations. That the troops be furnished with one pound of powder and three pounds of bullets to each soldier. That Colonel Hinman be ordered to keep up the strictest vigilance to prevent any hostile incursion from being made into the settlements of the Province of Quebeck; and that the Provincial Congresses of New-York and Massachusetts-Bay be advised of these measures, and the New-York Congress be requested to forward the necessary supplies for said troops, and such further supplies of ammunition as they shall judge necessary.

The above transactions will manifest the readiness with which this Assembly have complied with your desires. I am, with great truth and regard, in behalf of the Governor and Company of Connecticut, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Provincial Congress of New-York.

BENEDICT ARNOLD TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Ticonderoga, May 29, 1775.

Memorandum of Men, &c., wanted for the ensuing summer, viz: 1200 men, including B. Arnold's Regiment of 400 men: 100 men of the train of artillery: 10 caulkers: 25 ship-carpenters: 2 gun-smiths: 2 surgeons, and their mates: 20 men for ten teams: 20 masons and blacksmiths: 25 house-carpenters—the latter may doubtless be found among the privates who enlist, except the master workmen: 100 tents, with proper equipage: 600 hatchets: 100 narrow axes: 50 broad axes: 50 pickaxes: 200 spades: 200 wooden shovels, shod: 50 hoes: 100 camp kettles: 200 wooden canteens: arms, blankets, &c., for the men.

I observe the Committee of New-York intend forwarding a number of articles, for which reason I have omitted them.

Sundry necessaries for transporting the Cannon over Lake GEORGE, viz:

To be built on Lake George, 2 flat-bottom boats, forty feet long, twelve wide, and four deep, with strong knees, well timbered, and of four-inch oak plank—these may be built at Sparden's, where there is timber and a saw mill handy: 1 flat-bottom boat, of same size and construction, to go between Ticonderoga and the Landing, or Lake Champlain: 4 gins, the triangles fifteen feet long—the wood may be procured here: 8 falls for the gins, of thrée and a half inch white rope, made of the best hemp: 1 coil two and a half inch rope, 1 coil two inch rope, 1 coil one and a half inch rope, 100 fathoms each: 4 pieces raven duck: 10 barrels pitch: 4 barrels tar: 500 pounds oakum: 40 pounds sewing twine: 10 dozen sail and roll rope needles: 1 dozen palms: 3 seines, thirty fathoms long, capped twelve feet and arms six feet deep, made of large twine, the meshes one and a half inches wide, which will probably supply the Army with fish, as they are very plenty and good: 1 barrel twenty penny nails: 1 barrel ten penny nails: 1 barrel four penny nails: 2 dozen nail hammers, with other necessary tools for the house and ship carpenters—iron may be supplied from Skenesborough; steel will be wanted—4 pair strong wheels, wanted between Lakes George and Champlain, that will carry three tons weight: 4 pair strong wheels wanted at Fort George.

N. B. Common cart wheels will answer (if good) for most of the small cannon: there will probably be wanted at Fort George, 10 good teams of four yoke of oxen each, to bring up provisions, &c., and take such cannon and mortars to Albany as may be wanted by our Army at New-York or Cambridge: 8 yoke of good oxen will be wanted at Ticonderoga—these may probably be procured in the neighbourhood, of which Colonel Webb may inform himself.

BENEDICT ARNOLD,

Colonel and Comm'd't at Ticonderoga, &c.

Secretary of State's Office, Whitehall, May 30, 1775.

A report having been spread, and an account having been printed and published, of a skirmish between some of the people in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay and a detachment of his Majesty's troops, it is proper to inform the publick, that no advices have as yet been received in the American Department of any such event.

There is reason to believe that there are despatches from General Gage on board the Sukey, Captain Brown, which, though she sailed four days before the vessel that brought the printed accounts, is not yet arrived.*

LETTER FROM ARTHUR LEE.

London, Tuesday, May 30, 1775.

As a doubt of the authenticity of the account from Sallem, touching an engagement between the King's Troops and the Provincials in the Massachusetts-Bay, may arise

* LONDON, June 1, 1775.—The publick are requested to attend on moment to the conduct of Ministry, and they will forever detest their duplicity. A massacre is attempted by the King's mercenaries in America; the peaceable inhabitants of the Town of Concord are wantonly fired on, and many are inhumanly murdered. Ministry, unable to contest the proofs adduced in confirmation of this infamous transaction, caused the foregoing paragraph to be inserted in the Gazette.

To what does this shuffling State production amount? Is the American massacre less true because no accounts of it have been received at the Secretary's Office? Is this a time to talk of departments, when human blood, when the blood of our brethren is poured out like water by a detachment of his Majesty's troops? Are we to pay attention to trivial formalities, when the sword is drawn, and the hands of the King's troops are uplifted to cut the throats of our brethren? Is this a time to talk of the routine of office? If the news received, of a detachment of his Majesty's troops having glutted themselves with blood, if this news is untrue, why do Ministry not contradict it? And, if it be true, what have they to say? Shall we adopt their language, and call a bloody massacre a trifling skirmish? Or are we not to believe that either massacre or skirmish hath happened, because the American Department hath not as yet received those advices from General Gage which are on board the Sukey? The matter of fact is, that Ministry are so confounded at the arrival of the news, that it will require some time before they can furnish up their account of the matter. Bronzed as they are, and now all over besprinkled with the blood of our brethren, it still requires some time before facts can be falsified, or the truth wholly explained away. The Court Gazette may talk of advices on board the Sukey, (which will never arrive,) but there are better advices which have arrived, wherein it is incontestably proved that the King's troops have pillaged the houses, set fire to the stores, and slaughtered the inhabitants of the Town of Concord. That a detachment of his Majesty's regular troops, after a commission of these crimes, should be forced to run away and shelter under the guns of a man-of-war, was rather an unfortunate circumstance. If a wish remains to be accomplished, it is, that in case a similar massacre should be attempted, an English man-of-war may not be disgraced by affording protection to a banditti who are enlisted into his Majesty's service for other purposes than that of butchering his subjects.

from a paragraph in the Gazette of this evening, I desire to inform all those who wish to see the original affidavits which confirm that account, that they are deposited at the Mansion House, with the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, for their inspection.

ARTHUR LEE,
Agent for the House of Representatives of the Massachusetts-Bay.

JAMES EASTON TO THE PROVINCIAL CONGRESS, COMMITTEE OF SAFETY, AND COUNCIL OF WAR, IN CAMBRIDGE AND WATERTOWN, MASS.

Pittsfield, May 30, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: When I arrived express from Ticonderoga to the honourable Provincial Congress and Committee of Safety at Watertown and Cambridge, I represented to those two honourable Boards that the reduction of that important fortress had took its rise in the General Court of the Colony of Connecticut, as it was also mentioned in the letter from Captain Mott to those two honourable Boards aforesaid; upon which the Congress passed a resolve, and the President of the Congress was ordered to write to the said General Assembly, desiring them to garrison and fortify those late acquisitions, and also to bring down some of the cannon to our head quarters at Cambridge. When I arrived at the Assembly and delivered the letter to the Governour, his Honour told me that the Assembly had not, as an Assembly, taken the matter up, but that it had its origin in private persons belonging to the Assembly. However, it was immediately attended to, and a Committee of both Houses was appointed to take the matter under consideration, and did so, but did not report till Captain Mott came from the Continental Congress with the approbation of that honourable body in the taking and maintaining the fortress aforesaid. The Council have detained me till farther intelligence can be had from the Congress at New-York, and Mr. Shephard is sent in my stead. I am, however, sent on my way with all haste for Ticonderoga, without receiving said intelligence, on account of the great danger that fortress is in of being besieged in a short time. By order of the aforesaid Assembly, I have sent forward five hundred pounds of powder under a proper guard, and shall this day hasten after it with all expedition.

I expect no provision from Connecticut will be made for me and the men that were with me from this Province at the taking of said fort, which were about fifty, and about one hundred who have gone as a re-enforcement, except the paying them till about this time. Though Connecticut will raise men, and assist in the defence of that fortress, yet they expect that our Congress will properly officer and organize the men they send, and also pay them.

It is agreed on all hands the fortress must be maintained, as it is of infinite importance to the general cause. I have no doubt but very violent attempts will soon be made to wrest it out of our hands. As I have about one hundred and fifty men now at that fort, and shall be able to fill up a Regiment in a few days' time, I would just hint to your Honours, that I should be willing to serve my Country in the capacity I stand in at home, as head of a Regiment on this northern expedition. Should you see fit to gratify me with the command of a Regiment for the fortifying and garrisoning said fortress, you may depend on my most faithful exertions to defend it to the last extremity, against the whole weight of Canada, and most punctual observance of all your orders. And I shall be ready to make such farther acquisitions as shall be in my power, consistent with wisdom and prudence, for the safety of what are already made, that you in your wisdom shall direct.

As to other regimental officers, Capt. Israel Dickenson and John Brown, Esq., have distinguished themselves very highly, both in council and action, and in my humble opinion are well qualified to command in the field. In a word, gentlemen, what is now wanted is, that you put that fortress into the best posture of defence, in conjunction with Connecticut; that you properly officer one or more Regiments, as there must be order and command in all armies; that you nominate a Commander-in-Chief, and forward pay with all expedition. I hope to receive an answer to this without any unnecessary delay. Should you see fit to appoint a Chaplain to attend us, I recommend to you the Reverend Thomas Allen, of this place, as a suitable person, who is well known to General Pomeroy. I am, gentlemen, your humble servant,

JAMES EASTON.

To the honourable Provincial Congress at Watertown, and the honourable Committee of Safety at Cambridge.

N. B. It is necessary that provisions for the Troops be provided immediately, and also a number of military laws lately made by the Congress.

J. E.

NEW-YORK DELEGATES TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, May 30, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We received your favour of the 26th instant, and have the pleasure of informing you that the manner in which you have executed your trust was very acceptable to the Congress, to whom we communicated it. We shall pay a particular attention to what you say on the subject of a paper currency, since we are well apprized both of its difficulty and importance; and we wish you to be speedy in your determinations upon it, as it may throw some light upon the subject that we may otherwise want. You see by the order of the Congress heretofore sent you, that they have trusted to your prudence the appointment of officers. As we have the pleasure to hear that the principal people in every County have stepped forth on this important occasion, we make no doubt that they will continue the same conduct, and not refuse to accept those commands which we imagine you will see the propriety of placing in no other hands, both on account of the influence they will have among yourselves, and the effect it may probably have in England. If, gentlemen, there is any thing that you may think serviceable to you, either on the subject of the above resolves, or any other, you will oblige us by a free communication of your thoughts upon the same, to which, you may be persuaded, we will pay the greatest deference. We would just hint, that if there are any Counties in which no Committees have been chosen, as we are informed there are, that it would be proper to recommend that they be immediately elected, as the numbers interested will give strength to the cause. We observe that Tryon County has not sent Deputies to your Convention, and would submit it to your consideration, whether it would not be proper to send them a message, suggesting the inconvenience attending such conduct, and the necessity it will lay you under of breaking off all connexion with them.

We should be glad to have a particular account from you of any measures that you may have taken to establish Port Beder. And are, gentlemen, with great respect, your most obedient humble servants,

JAS. DUANE, LEWIS MORRIS,
JOHN ALSOP, ROBT. LIVINGSTON, JUN.
GEO. CLINTON, PHIL. LIVINGSTON.

To the Provincial Congress of New-York.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE ALBANY COMMITTEE.

Hartford, May 30, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your favour of the 27th inst., by express, came safe to hand; the contents have been duly considered, and in reply have the pleasure to acquaint you that we had before received the resolve of the Congress of New-York, with their request to send forward some forces to the northward, to keep those important posts, until such time as they might be relieved by Troops from your Colony. We have accordingly ordered one thousand Troops, under command of Colonel Hinman, to march immediately to Ticonderoga and Crown Point, furnished with one pound of powder and three pounds of ball to each soldier, to continue there until relieved by the Province of New-York, or are otherwise ordered; also, sent forward, under the care of Colonel Easton, of Pittsfield, five hundred weight of powder for those fortresses, and forwarded advice of our doings to the Provincial Congresses, both at Massachusetts and New-York, just before the receipt of your letter, which renders it unnecessary your express should go forward to the Congress at Massachusetts-Bay. Colonel Hinman is directed to exercise the greatest vigilance that no incursions be made into the Province of Quebeck, to disturb the inhabitants there. It is hoped that the Provincial Congress at New-York will forward supplies of provisions, and whatever may be thought necessary; and that the people in your Province, who are under the best advantage, from their situation, will spare no endeavours that may be beneficial to preserve peace and harmony with the Indians, and prevent their taking part against us, but rather that they take part for the security of the liberties of these Colonies, whereon their own happiness so much depends.

I am, with great truth and regard, in behalf of the Governour and Company of the Colony of Connecticut, gentlemen, your obedient and humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

Sam'l Stringer, Esq., Chairman of Committee at Albany.

JONATHAN PARSONS, JUN., TO THE NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.
St. John's, Newfoundland, May 30, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As liberty is the blessing, and ought to be the care of all men, I need no other apology for this letter, than to acquaint you I am an American, of Newburyport, New-England. On my arrival here, the 19th instant, from the Mediterranean, I was informed of the care you had taken with regard to the exportation of bread and flour to this Island, especially in the instance of Capt. Taverner, commander of a ship belonging to Isaac and Benjamin Lester, of Pool, in England, and loaded by T. Beach, of New-York; which Lesters are noted enemies to American liberty, as appears by the petition of the Town of Pool for an exclusive right to the fishery on the Banks of Newfoundland, &c., of which petition I am informed they were the principal promoters, the contents of which you have undoubtedly seen. I am able to inform you that, notwithstanding your care relative to said ship, she arrived the 24th instant at Trinity, in this Island; and the necessities of the people here for bread and flour are so great, that I doubt not you will have numbers of vessels on your coast, under various pretexts, to get bread and flour to supply them. They are now at their wits end to find means to acquire the necessities of life; yet such is their inveterate enmity against the Americans, that they cannot help breathing out their malice at every opportunity, where their interest is not immediately affected. Last Saturday a schooner arrived here, belonging to Salem, in New-England, from a fishing voyage; the merchants immediately sent the crier through the Town, to notify a meeting at seven that evening, which was adjourned to Sunday, to consult on the matter. It seems they were in hopes to get some hold of her from some Acts of Parliament relative to the regulation of the fishery in this Island, but finding their expectations fail them, that they could not get her seized, nor prevent an entry, they mustered their forces, seized upon and sent her to sea; and what is more surprising to me is, (if I am rightly informed,) that upon a promise of indemnification, they obtained an order from the Judge of the Admiralty for this extraordinary procedure, and that after her being admitted to a legal entry in the Custom-House.

This, gentlemen, is the breath they breathe, and this conduct is but the overflowing of that inveterate enmity they have imbibed at the Americans, for their defending that Constitution by which the throne is established, and the rights of the people secured; I say the overflowing, because they cannot live without you, and are under the greatest obligations to keep their enmity smothered as much as possible. If they are denied bread and flour from the Southern American Governments, the Newfoundland fishery must break up. Canada is too uncertain to depend on for any supplies; that Country, with which I am acquainted, is mostly low, and altogether clay land. If the season is good, they generally have great crops; but if they have too much or too little rain, they must have supplies from abroad, or starve themselves: this the people here are sensible of, and are trying all methods they can to obtain present supplies from the Southern Governments, as they have no intelligence how Canada may be stocked at present. Would it not be surprising to see men breathing out slaughter and death at the Americans, petitioning the Continental Congress to supply them with bread and flour; and pleading their not joining with the Pool men in the petition abovementioned, as a reason why the prayer of their petition should be granted? Yet such I expect will be the case, if the Canada market fails them, and the Governments to the southward are vigilant to watch the motions of those vessels which make excursions to obtain bread and flour by delusive evasions, many of which I expect will soon make the experiment. However, gentlemen, though I have already been drawn to a greater length than I at first intended, I must, in faithfulness to several gentlemen, beg your indulgence a little longer. Messrs. Robert and Benjamin Jenkins have at all times publicly declared their fixed determination to do nothing to the prejudice of the American cause. Mr. Robert Bulley is also our steadfast friend, and I doubt not but we have many more in this Town and Island; but as I never saw this Island till a few days past, I cannot give you their names.

I am, gentlemen, with sentiments of esteem, your and our Country's friend and humble servant,

JONATHAN PARSONS, JUN.

To the Committee of Safety for the City of New-York.

P. S. If you judge the above representation deserves your attention, I would gladly contribute to remove the difficulty you must labour under, by not being able to place any confidence in the testimony of a stranger; must, therefore, in that case, beg the favour of your writing a letter, directed to the Honourable Benjamin Greenleaf, Esquire, at Newburyport, New-England, to be communicated to the Committee of Safety for that place, whose joint testimony will doubtless set my character in its true light. Any use may be made of the above which may tend to promote the publick good. Yours, as above,

J. PARSONS, JUN.

TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY FOR SALEM.

Salem, May 30, 1775.

Whereas, we the subscribers, did some time since sign an Address to Governour Hutchinson, which though prompted to by the best intentions, has, nevertheless, given great offence to our Country; we do now declare that we were so far from designing by that action to show our acquiescence in those acts of Parliament so universally and justly odious to all America, that, on the contrary, we hoped we might in that way contribute to their repeal, though now, to our sorrow, we find ourselves mistaken. And we do now further declare, that we never intended the offence which this Address has occasioned; that if we had foreseen such an event we should never have signed it; as it always has been, and now is, our wish to live in harmony with our neighbours, and our serious determination to promote, to the utmost of our power, the liberty, the welfare, and happiness of our Country, which is inseparably connected with our own.

The declaration, of which the above is a copy, being presented and read, it was voted unanimously that the same was satisfactory, and that the said gentlemen ought to be received and treated as real friends to this Country.

By order of the Committee:

RICHARD DERBY, JUN., Chairman.

JOSHUA UPHAM TO THE COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TOWN OF BROOKFIELD.

May 20, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Having been informed by one of your body that my attendance was expected at this time, in order that you inquire, under a late resolve of the Provincial Congress, into my political principles and conduct; in compliance with your request I now make my appearance; and as written are much less liable to be misconceived, misapplied, and misrepresented, than parole declarations, I have chosen to declare myself in that way.

It is indeed a great misfortune at any time, but more especially at this, to be deemed an enemy to one's Country. I not only deny the charge, but abhor the character. I shall not, however, pretend that I have in general approved of the measures pursued by the Colonies to obtain redress of grievances, nor do I arrogantly set up my own private judgment against the publick judgment of my Country, as infallibly right. I can truly say that I shall rejoice at the salvation of the Country, even though the same be obtained by the very measures which have appeared to me to be improper, and not likely to be successful. But to inquire freely into the propriety of every publick measure, (provided the same, when established, be not resisted,) I have ever held as an inalienable right, and what, in a great measure, constitutes the freedom of an Englishman.

I have ever deemed it the duty, as well as wisdom of the individuals of every community, to submit and conform to the sense and opinion of the majority of the members of that community; always reserving to themselves, and saving entire and inviolate, the rights of conscience, private judgment, and freedom of speech. Therefore I have not resisted such measures as have been approved of by the majority of the people, whether agreeable to my private judgment or not. Upon the same principles I now declare, that I mean and intend to submit to what I find to be the sense and resolution of the majority of my countrymen, and expect to bear an equal share and proportion of such publick charge and expense as shall be deemed by such majority necessary to extricate this Country out of its present alarming and critical situation; nor is there any thing I hold so dear, in comparison of my Country's good, that I would not risk in its defence—even life itself, if necessary.

Therefore, as submission, or allegiance and protection, are reciprocal duties and obligations, which ought ever to subsist and take place with equal and mutual force between rulers and those over whom they are appointed to rule, I must expect, and shall depend upon it, that I am to be protected and secured in my person, family, and property, from all violent attacks upon either; which protection and security, so far as it is within your power to afford me, I now ask, and doubt not but I shall obtain the same; which concludes me, gentlemen, your most respectful friend and fellow-countrymen,

JOSHUA UPHAM.

In Committee of Correspondence, Brookfield, }
May 30, 1775. }

The foregoing declaration being read and considered, and vote asked of said Committee, and also of a number of the inhabitants of the Town then present, whether said declaration be satisfactory; it passed in the affirmative nemine contradicente.

MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY TO THE COMMITTEE OF SUDBURY.

Cambridge, May 30, 1775.

This Committee have taken into their consideration the conduct of Ezra Taylor, Esq., in going into the Town of Boston, and tarrying there a considerable time, since the important nineteenth of April last; and after examining him as to his conduct, have dismissed him, and verbally advised him to remain in the Town of Sudbury, as what we judged best for him and the publick. SELECTMEN OF HOPKINTON TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.
May 30, 1775.

To the Honourable the Delegates of the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in General Congress assembled:

Whereas there has been a false alarm this day spread here in this part of the Province, whereby the people have been called off from their labour, and much loss and expense incurred; and judging that unless such things can be prevented, husbandry will entirely be neglected: Wherefore this Town have chosen a Committee of Safety, to consist of five persons, whose names are as follow, viz: Gilbert Dench, Samuel Park, Ebenezer Clafin, Samuel Hayden, and Jonathan Hull, who are to determine when it is necessary for the people of this Town to march on any alarm; and hereby desire that the first intelligence may be conveyed to one of them. We also desire that you would be so kind to the Province as to appoint some certain criterion, or signal, by which a true alarm may be distinguished from a false one. If by this we are able to suggest any thing for the good of the Province, we are happy, and are, with great respect and devotion, gentlemen, your humble servants,

COMMITTEE FOR MANCHESTER TO THE COMMITTEE FOR CHEBACCO.

Manchester, May 30, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: A letter has been just received from Cambridge by express, from General Ward to the Committee for Salem, of which we subjoin a copy. As no particulars appear, we think it prudent to notify you thereabout, and inform you that there are eight tenders cruising around us, six of which are gone to Salem, their decks filled with boats, &c. We desire you to forward the report to Ipswich, as it is uncertain where the mischief will fall.

By order of the Committee of Correspondence for Manchester.

The following is a copy of the General's Letter:

"Head-Quarters, Cambridge, May 29, 1775.

"SIR: By information just received from Boston, I apprehend the enemy intend to make an attack some where this night; therefore would have your people in readiness to act on the shortest notice if there should be occasion.

Captain Marston sent the above to the Committee for Chebacco, about half past ten o'clock.

Ipswich, May 30, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I received the within intelligence about one of the clock this day, and thought proper to let you know what I have received. JOHN BAKER, Colonel.

To the Committee of Correspondence in Newburyport.

Newburyport, May 30, 1775, half past four o'clock.

GENTLEMEN: Having just received the above information from Ipswich by express, we forward it to you without delay.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LONDON TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED MAY 31, 1775.

I cannot let Captain Hazlewood depart without sketching a few lines to you. You will find by the papers that we have received an account from Salem of the defeat of Colonel Smith, and the precipitate retreat of Lord Percy, by the animated resistance of the brave Bostonians. This intelligence, so contrary to the expectations of Government, who have daily announced the Americans cowards, has panick-struck Administration and their tory dependants, and has exhilarated the spirits of the sons of America in this metropolis, and the friends to freedom, in the most exalted manner. It is impossible to describe the shame and vexation which are visibly depicted in the countenances of North and his tyrannical abettors. They are constrained to acknowledge that the Regulars began the attack, and equally forced to admit the intrepidity of our countrymen; but what alarms them most is the expectation of hourly receiving advice of the whole of General Gage's Army being cut off, or meanly sheltering themselves on board the men-of-war, or in the castle. God grant their total extirpation! Government has not yet received any despatches from the General; she has craved a suspension of animadversions on the news, until she can refute, or is compelled to authenticate it. In the mean time stocks have had a shock, and the people every where denounce vengeance against Bute, Mansfield, North, Sandwich, and their ignominious adherents. I impatiently wait the next intelligence, as I have no doubt we shall hear of farther significant manifestations of American prowess, founded on that principle which God and their right will inspire them with.

MECKLENBURGH (NORTH-CAROLINA) RESOLUTIONS.*

Charlottesville, Mecklenburgh County, May 31, 1775.

This day the Committee of this County met, and passed the following Resolves:

Whereas by an Address presented to His Majesty by both Houses of Parliament in February last, the American Colonies are declared to be in a state of actual rebellion; we conceive that all Laws and Commissions confirmed by, or derived from the authority of the King or Parliament, are annulled and vacated, and the former civil Constitution of these Colonies for the present wholly suspended. To provide in some degree for the exigencies of this County, in the present alarming period, we deem it proper and necessary to pass the following Resolves, viz:

I. That all Commissions, civil and military, heretofore

* THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE BY THE CITIZENS OF MECKLENBURGH COUNTY, NORTH-CAROLINA, ON THE TWENTIETH DAY OF MAY, 1775, WITH ACCOMPANYING DOCUMENTS; PUBLISHED BY THE GOVERNOUR, UNDER THE AUTHORITY AND DIRECTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NORTH-CAROLINA.

Report and Resolutions adopted by the General Assembly, at the session of 1830-31, upon which this publication is predicated.

The Committee to whom it was referred to examine, collate, and arrange in proper order such parts of the Journals of the Provincial Assemblies of North-Carolina as relate to the Declaration of American Independence; also such documents as relate to the Declaration of Independence made by the patriotick men of Mecklenburgh in May, 1775; and also such measures as relate to the same cause, adopted by the freemen of Cumberland County, previous to the fourth of July, 1776, in order to the publication and distribution of such documents, having performed the duty assigned them, respectfully report:

That upon an attentive examination of the Journals of the Provincial Assembly of North-Carolina, which met at Halifax in the month of April, 1776, the Committee are of opinion, that no selection could be made from the said Journal to answer the purpose of the House. But as every thing relating to that period must be interesting to those who value the blessing of national independence, the Committee recommend that the whole of the Journal be printed, and receive the same extended distribution which the Resolution of the House contemplates for the proceedings in Mecklenburgh and Cumberland. This course is deemed by the Committee the more proper, because the Journal is now out of print, and it is highly probable that the copy in the possession of the Committee is the only one now extant.

Your Committee have also examined, collated, and arranged all the documents which have been accessible to them, touching the Declaration of Independence by the citizens of Mecklenburgh, and the proceedings of the freemen of Cumberland.

By the publication of these papers it will be fully verified, that as early as the month of May, 1775, a portion of the people of North-Carolina, sensible that their wrongs could no longer be borne, without sacrificing both safety and honour; and that redress, so often sought, so patiently waited for, and so cruelly delayed, was no longer to be expected, did, by a publick and solemn act, declare the dissolution of the ties which bound them to the Crown and people of Great Britain, and did establish an independent, though temporary Government, for their own control and direction.

This first claim of independence evinces such high sentiments of valour and patriotism, that we cannot, and ought not lightly to esteem the honour of having made it. The fact of the Declaration should be announced, its language should be published and perpetuated, and the names of the gallant Representatives of Mecklenburgh, with whom it originated, should be preserved from an oblivion which, should it involve them, would as much dishonour us, as injure them. If the thought of independence did not first occur to them, to them, at least, belongs the proud distinction of having first given language to the thought; and it should be known, and, fortunately, it can still be conclusively established, that the Revolution received its first impulse towards independence, however feeble that impulse might have been, in North-Carolina. The Committee are aware that this assertion has elsewhere been received with doubt, and at times met with denial; and it is, therefore, believed to be more strongly incumbent upon the House to usher to the world the Mecklenburgh Declaration, accompanied with such testimonials of its genuineness, as shall silence incredulity, and with such care for its general diffusion, as shall forever secure it from being forgotten. And in recounting the causes, the origin, and the progress of our revolutionary struggle, till its final issue in acknowledged independence, whatever the brilliant achievements of other States may have been, let it never be forgotten, that at a period of darkness and oppression, without concert with others, without assurances of support from any quarter, a few gallant North-Carolinians, all fear of consequences lost in a sense of their Country's wrongs, relying, under Heaven, solely upon themselves, nobly dared to assert, and resolved to maintain that independence, of which, whoever might have thought, none had then spoken; and thus earned for themselves, and for their fellow-citizens of North-Carolina, the honour of giving birth to the first Declaration of Independence.

The Committee respectfully recommend the adoption of the following Resolutions.

All of which is submitted.

THOMAS G. POLK, Chairman.
JOHN BRAGG,
EVAN ALEXANDER,
LOUIS D. HENRY,
ALEX. MCNEILL.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governour be directed to cause to be published in pamphlet form the above Report, and the accompanying documents, in the manner and order following, viz: After the Report, first, the Mecklenburgh Declaration, with the Names of the Delegates composing the meeting; second, the Certificates, testifying to the circumstances attending the Declaration; third, the Proceedings granted by the Crown, to be exercised in these Colonies, are null and void, and the Constitution of each particular Colony wholly suspended.

II. That the Provincial Congress of each Province, under the direction of the great Continental Congress, is invested with all legislative and executive powers within their respective Provinces, and that no other legislative or executive power does, or can exist, at this time, in any of these Colonies.

III. As all former laws are now suspended in this Province, and the Congress have not provided others, we judge it necessary, for the better preservation of good order, to form certain rules and regulations for the internal government of this County, until laws shall be provided for us by the Congress.

of the Cumberland Association; and that he be further directed to have reprinted in like manner, separate and distinct from the above, the accompanying Journal of the Provincial Assembly, held at Halifax in one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six.

Resolved, further, That after publication, the Governour be instructed to distribute said documents as follows, to wit: Twenty copies of each to the Library of the State; to each of the Libraries at the University, ten copies; to the Library of the Congress of the United States, ten copies; and one copy to each of the Executives of the several States of the Union.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

May 20, 1775.—Names of the Delegates present.

Col. Thomas Polk,	Hezekiah J. Balch,	James Harris,
Ephraim Brevard,	John Pluifer,	William Kennon,
John Ford,	Henry Downs,	William Graham,
Richard Barry,	Ezra Alexander,	John Queary,
Abraham Alexander,	Zacheus Wilson, Sen.,	Robert Irwin,
J. McKnitt Alexander,	Waightstill Avery,	John Flenmiken,
Hezekiah Alexander,	Benjamin Patton,	David Reese,
Adam Alexander,	Matthew McClure,	Richard Harris, Sen.
Charles Alexander,	Neil Morrison,

Abraham Alexander was appointed Chairman, and John McKnitt Alexander Clerk. The following Resolutions were offered, viz:

1. Resolved, That whosoever directly or indirectly abetted, or in any way, form or manner, countenanced the unchartered and dangerous invasion of our rights, as claimed by Great Britain, is an enemy to this Country, to America, and to the inherent and inalienable rights of man.

2. Resolved, That we, the citizens of Mecklenburgh County, do hereby dissolve the political bands which have connected us to the Mother Country, and hereby absolve ourselves from all allegiance to the British Crown, and abjure all political connection, contract, or association with that Nation, who have wantonly trampled on our rights and liberties, and inhumanly shed the blood of American patriots at Lexington.

3. Resolved, That we do hereby declare ourselves a free and independent people; are, and of right ought to be, a sovereign and self-governing Association, under the control of no power other than that of our God and the general government of the Congress; to the maintenance of which independence, we solemnly pledge to each other our mutual co-operation, our lives, our fortunes, and our most sacred honour.

4. Resolved, That as we now acknowledge the existence and control of no law or legal officer, civil or military, within this County, we do hereby ordain and adopt as a rule of life, all, each and every of our former laws; wherein, nevertheless, the Crown of Great Britain never can be considered as holding rights, privileges, immunities, or authority therein.

5. Resolved, That it is further decreed, that all, each, and every military officer in this County, is hereby reinstated in his former command and authority, he acting conformably to these regulations. And that every Member present, of this delegation, shall henceforth be a civil officer, viz: a Justice of the Peace, in the character of a "Committee-man," to issue process, hear and determine all matters of controversy, according to said adopted laws, and to preserve peace, union and harmony in said County; and to use every exertion to spread the love of country and fire of freedom throughout America, until a more general and organized Government be established in this Province.

After discussing the foregoing Resolves, and arranging by-laws and regulations for the government of a Standing Committee of Public Safety, who were selected from these Delegates, the whole proceedings were unanimously adopted and signed. A Select Committee was then appointed to draw a more full and definite statement of grievances, and a more formal declaration of independence. The Delegation then adjourned about two o'clock, A. M., May 20.

A.

FROM THE RALEIGH REGISTER OF APRIL 30, 1819.

It is not probably known to many of our readers, that the citizens of Mecklenburgh County, in this State, made a Declaration of Independence more than a year before Congress made theirs. The following document on the subject has lately come to the hands of the Editor from unquestionable authority, and is published that it may go down to posterity.

NORTH-CAROLINA, MECKLENBURGH COUNTY, May 20, 1775.

In the spring of 1775, the leading characters of Mecklenburgh County, stimulated by that enthusiastic patriotism which elevates the mind above considerations of individual aggrandizement, and scorning to shelter themselves from the impending storm, by submission to lawless power, &c., &c., held several detached meetings, in each of which the individual sentiments were, "that the cause of Boo."

iv. That the inhabitants of this County do meet on a certain day appointed by this Committee, and having formed themselves into nine Companies, viz: eight in the County, and one in the Town of Charlotte, do choose a Colonel and other military officers, who shall hold and exercise their several powers by virtue of this choice, and independent of the Crown of Great Britain and former Constitution of this Province.

[Then follows a number of Resolves, for the preservation of peace, and the administration of justice; in order to which, proper persons are to be chosen, empowered to hear and determine all matters of controversy; or in cases of felony, to commit persons convicted, to close confinement; and to answer all the purposes of regular Government was the cause of all; that their destinies were indissolubly connected with those of their Eastern fellow-citizens; and that they must either submit to all the impositions which an unprincipled, and to them an unrepresented, Parliament might impose; or support their brethren who were doomed to sustain the first shock of that power, which, if successful there, would ultimately overwhelm all in the common calamity." Conformably to these principles, Colonel Thomas Polk, through solicitation, issued an order to each Captain's Company in the County of Mecklenburgh, (then comprising the present County of Cabarrus), directing each Militia Company to elect two persons, and delegate to them ample power to devise ways and means to aid and assist their suffering brethren in Boston, and also generally to adopt measures to extricate themselves from the impending storm, and to secure unimpaired their inalienable rights, privileges, and liberties, from the dominant grasp of British imposition and tyranny.

In conformity to said order, on the nineteenth of May, 1775, the said Delegation met in Charlotte, vested with unlimited powers; at which time official news, by express, arrived of the battle of Lexington on that day of the preceding month. Every Delegate felt the value and importance of the prize, and the awful and solemn crisis which had arrived; every bosom swelled with indignation at the malice, inveteracy, and insatiable revenge, developed in the late attack at Lexington. The universal sentiment was: let us not flatter ourselves that popular harangues or resolves, that popular vapour will avert the storm, or vanquish our common enemy; let us deliberate; let us calculate the issue—the probable result; and then let us act with energy, as brethren leagued to preserve our property, our lives, and what is still more endearing, the liberties of America. Abraham Alexander was then elected Chairman, and John McKnitt Alexander Clerk. After a free and full discussion of the various objects for which the Delegation had been convened, it was unanimously ordained:

1. Resolved, That whoever directly or indirectly abetted, or in any way, form, or manner, countenanced the unchartered and dangerous invasion of our rights, as claimed by Great Britain, is an enemy to this Country, to America, and to the inherent and inalienable rights of man.

2. Resolved, That we, the citizens of Mecklenburgh County, do hereby dissolve the political bands which have connected us to the Mother Country, and hereby absolve ourselves from all allegiance to the British Crown, and abjure all political connection, contract, or association with that Nation, who have wantonly trampled on our rights and liberties, and inhumanly shed the innocent blood of American patriots at Lexington.

3. Resolved, That we do hereby declare ourselves a free and independent people; are, and of right ought to be, a sovereign and self-governing Association, under the control of no power other than that of our God and the general government of the Congress; to the maintenance of which independence, we solemnly pledge to each other our mutual co-operation, our lives, our fortunes, and our most sacred honour.

4. Resolved, That as we now acknowledge the existence and control of no law or legal officer, civil or military, within this County, we do hereby ordain and adopt, as a rule of life, all, each and every of our former laws; wherein, nevertheless, the Crown of Great Britain never can be considered as holding rights, privileges, immunities, or authority therein.

5. Resolved, That it is also further decreed, that all, each, and every military officer in this County, is hereby reinstated to his former command and authority, he acting conformably to these regulations. And that every Member present of this Delegation shall henceforth be a civil officer, viz: a Justice of the Peace, in the character of a "Committee-man," to issue process, hear and determine all matters of controversy, according to said adopted laws, and to preserve peace, and union, and harmony, in said County; and to use every exertion to spread the love of country and fire of freedom throughout America, until a more general and organized Government be established in this Province.

A number of by-laws were also added, merely to protect the Association from confusion, and to regulate their general conduct as citizens. After sitting in the Court-House all night, neither sleepy, hungry, nor fatigued, and after discussing every paragraph, they were all passed, sanctioned, and decreed, unanimously, about two o'clock, A. M., May 20. In a few days, a deputation of said Delegation convened, when Captain James Jack, of Charlotte, was deputed as express to the Congress at Philadelphia, with a copy of said Resolves and Proceedings, together with a Letter addressed to our three Representatives there, viz: Richard Caswell, William Hooper, and Joseph Hughes, under express injunction, personally, and through the State representation, to use all possible means to have said proceedings sanctioned and approved by the General Congress. On the return of Captain Jack, the Delegation learned that their proceedings were individually approved by the Members of Congress, but that it was deemed premature to lay them before the House. A joint letter from said three Members of Congress was also received, complimentary of the ment, till that shall be settled by the Grand Congress. Provision is likewise made for the collection of Taxes, to be paid into the hands of Committees; appointment of collectors, removable at the pleasure of their constituents, and to indemnify them for the money paid to the Committee.]

The 16th Resolve is,

xvi. That whatever person shall hereafter receive a Commission from the Crown, or attempt to exercise any such Commission heretofore received, shall be deemed an enemy to his Country; and upon information to the Captain of the Company in which he resides, the Company shall cause him to be apprehended, and upon proof of the fact, committed to safe custody, till the next sitting of the Committee, who shall deal with him as prudence shall direct.

zeal in the common cause, and recommending perseverance, order, and energy.

The subsequent harmony, unanimity, and exertion in the cause of liberty and independence, evidently resulting from these regulations, and the continued exertion of said Delegation, apparently tranquillized this section of the State, and met with the concurrence and high approbation of the Council of Safety, who held their sessions at Newbern and Wilmington, alternately, and who confirmed the nomination and acts of the Delegation in their official capacity.

From this Delegation originated the Court of Inquiry of this County, who constituted and held their first session in Charlotte—they then held their meetings regularly at Charlotte, at Colonel James Harris's, and at Colonel Phifer's, alternately, one week at each place. It was a Civil Court founded on military process. Before this judicature, all suspicious persons were made to appear, who were formally tried and banished, or continued under guard. Its jurisdiction was as unlimited as toriyism, and it decrees as final as the confidence and patriotism of the County. Several were arrested and brought before them from Lincoln, Rowan, and the adjacent Counties.

[The foregoing is a true copy of the papers on the above subject, left in my hands by John McKnitt Alexander, deceased. I find it mentioned on file, that the original book was burned, April, 1800; that a copy of the proceedings was sent to Hugh Williamson, in New-York, then writing a history of North-Carolina, and that a copy was sent to General W. R. Davie. J. McKNITT.]

STATE OF NORTH-CAROLINA, Mecklenburgh County:

I, Samuel Henderson, do hereby certify, that the paper annexed was obtained by me from Major William Davie, in its present situation, soon after the death of his father, General William R. Davie, and given to Doctor Joseph McKnitt by me. In searching for some particular paper, I came across this, and knowing the handwriting of John McKnitt Alexander, took it up and examined it. Major Davie said to me (when asked how it became torn) his sisters had torn it, not knowing what it was. Given under my hand, this 25th of November, 1830. SAM. HENDERSON.

[Note.—To this certificate of Doctor Henderson is annexed the copy of the paper A, originally deposited by John McKnitt Alexander in the hands of General Davie, whose name seems to have been mistaken by Mr. Jefferson for that of Governor Caswell. This paper is somewhat torn, but is entirely legible, and constitutes the "solemn and positive proof of authenticity" which Mr. Jefferson required, and which would doubtless have been satisfactory, had it been submitted to him.]

C.

CAPTAIN JACK'S CERTIFICATE.

Having seen in the newspapers some pieces respecting the Declaration of Independence by the people of Mecklenburgh County, in the State of North-Carolina, in May, 1775, and being solicited to state what I know of that transaction, I would observe, that for some time previous to, and at the time those Resolutions were agreed upon, I resided in the Town of Charlotte, Mecklenburgh County; was privy to a number of meetings of some of the most influential and leading characters of that County on the subject, before the final adoption of the Resolutions, and at the time they were adopted. Among those who appeared to take the lead, may be mentioned Hezekiah Alexander, who generally acted as Chairman, John McKnitt Alexander, as Secretary, Abraham Alexander, Adam Alexander, Major John Davidson, Major, afterwards General William Davidson, Colonel Thomas Polk, Ezekiel Polk, Doctor Ephraim Brevard, Samuel Martin, Duncan Ochletree, William Willson, Robert Irvin.

When the Resolutions were finally agreed on, they were publicly proclaimed from the Court-House door in the Town of Charlotte, and received with every demonstration of joy by the inhabitants.

I was then solicited to be the bearer of the proceedings to Congress. I set out the following month, say June, and in passing through Salisbury, the General Court was sitting; at the request of the Court I handed a copy of the Resolutions to Colonel Kennan, an attorney, and they were read aloud in open Court. Major William Davidson, and Mr. Avery, an attorney, called on me at my lodgings the evening after, and observed, they had heard of but one person, (a Mr. Beard,) but approved of them.

I then proceeded on to Philadelphia, and delivered the Mecklenburgh Declaration of Independence, of May, 1775, to Richard Caswell and William Hooper, the Delegates to Congress from the State of North-Carolina.

I am now in the eighty-eighth year of my age, residing in the County of Elbert, in the State of Georgia. I was in the Revolutionary War, from the commencement to the close.

I would further observe, that the Reverend Francis Cummins, a Presbyterian Clergyman, of Greene County, in this State, was a student in the Town of Charlotte at the time of the adoption of the Resolutions, and is as well, or perhaps better acquainted with the proceedings at that time, than any man now living.

Colonel William Polk, of Raleigh, in North-Carolina, was living with his father, Thomas, in Charlotte, at the time I have been speak-

CHESTER COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Chester, May 31, 1775.

Whereas it appears very necessary, in order to avert the evils and calamities which threaten our devoted Country, to embody ourselves and make all the military preparations in our power; and it appears absolutely impossible to carry this laudable design into execution, without observing the greatest order, harmony, and concord, not only under the laws of civil Government, but also while under arms and on actual duty. We, therefore, unanimously recommend the following Association to be entered into by the good people of this County:

We, the subscribers, do most solemnly resolve, promise, and engage, under the sacred ties of honour, virtue ing of, and although then too young to be forward in the business, yet the leading circumstances I have related cannot have escaped his recollection.

JAMES JACK.

JOSEPH WESTON, C. C. O.,

JAMES OLIVER, Attorney-at-Law.

C 2.

NORTH-CAROLINA, Cabarrus County, November 29, 1830:

We, the undersigned, do hereby certify, that we have frequently heard William S. Alexander, deceased, say that he, the said William S. Alexander, was at Philadelphia on mercantile business, in the early part of the summer of 1775, say in June; and that on the day General Washington left Philadelphia to take the command of the Northern Army, he, the said William S. Alexander, met with Captain James Jack, who informed him, the said William S. Alexander, that he, the said James Jack, was there as the agent or bearer of the Declaration of Independence made in Charlotte, on the twentieth day of May, seventeen hundred and seventy-five, by the citizens of Mecklenburgh, then including Cabarrus, with instructions to present the same to the Delegates from North-Carolina, and by them to be laid before Congress, and which he said he had done; in which Declaration the aforesaid citizens of Mecklenburgh renounced their allegiance to the Crown of Great Britain, and set up a Government for themselves, under the title of The Committee of Safety. Given under our hands the date above written.

ALPHONSO ALEXANDER,
AMOS ALEXANDER,
J. McKNITT.

D.

LEXINGTON, Georgia, November 16, 1819.

DEAR SIR: The bearer, the Honourable Thomas W. Cobb, has suggested to me that you had a desire to know something particularly of the proceedings of the citizens of Mecklenburgh County, in North-Carolina, about the beginning of our Revolutionary War.

Previous to my becoming more particular, I will suppose you remember the Regulation business, which took its rise in or before the year 1770, and issued and ended in a battle between the Regulators and Governor Tryon, in the spring of 1771. Some of the Regulators were killed, and the whole dispersed. The Regulators' conduct was a "rudis indigestaque moles," as Ovid says about the beginning of creation; but the embryotick principles of the Revolution were in their temper and views. They wanted strength, consistency, a Congress, and a Washington at their head. Tryon sent his officers and minions through the State, and imposed the oath of allegiance upon the people, even as far up as Mecklenburgh County. In the year 1775, after our Revolution began, the principal characters of Mecklenburgh County met on two sundry days, in Queen's Museum, in Charlotte, to digest Articles for a State Constitution, in anticipation that the Province would proceed to do so. In this business, the leading characters were, the Reverend Hezekiah James Balch, a graduate of Princeton College, an elegant scholar, Waightsill Avery, Esquire, attorney-at-law, Hezekiah and John McKnitt Alexander, Esquires; Colonel Thos. Polk, &c., &c.

Many men, and young men, (myself one,) before Magistrates, abjured allegiance to George the Third, or any other foreign Power. At length, in the same year, 1775, I think, at least positively before July 4, 1776, the males generally of that County met on a certain day in Charlotte, and from the head of the Court-House stairs proclaimed Independence on English Government, by their herald, Colonel Thomas Polk. I was present, and saw and heard it, and as a young man, and then a student in Queen's Museum, was an agent in these things. I did not then take and keep the dates, and cannot, as to date, be so particular as I could wish. Captain James Jack, then of Charlotte, but now of Elbert County in Georgia, was sent with the account of these proceedings to Congress, then in Philadelphia, and brought back to the County the thanks of Congress for their zeal, and the advice of Congress to be a little more patient, until Congress should take the measures thought to be best.

I would suppose, Sir, that some minutes of these things must be found among the records of the first Congress, that would perfectly settle their dates. I am perfectly sure, being present at the whole of them, they were before our National Declaration of Independence.

Honourable Sir, if the above few things can afford you any gratification, it will add to the happiness of your friend and humble servant,

FRANCIS CUMMINS.

Hon. Nathaniel Macon.

VESUVIUS FURNACE, October 4, 1830.

DEAR SIR: Agreeably to your request, I will give you the details of the Mecklenburgh Declaration of Independence, on the 20th of May 1775, as well as I can recollect after a lapse of fifty-five years. I was then a lad about half grown, was present on that occasion, (a looker on.) During the winter and spring preceding that event, several popular meetings of the people were held in Charlotte, two of which I attend-and love to our Country, that we will use our utmost endeavours to learn the military exercise, and promote harmony and unanimity in our respective Companies; that we will strictly adhere to the rules of decency during duty; that we will pay a due regard to our Officers; that we will, when called upon, support with our utmost abilities the civil Magistrate in the execution of the laws for the good of our Country; and that we will at all times be in readiness to defend the lives, liberties, and properties of ourselves and fellow-countrymen against all attempts to deprive us of them."

Information being lodged with this Committee that William Moore, Esq., has expressed himself in terms inimical to the liberties of America, and derogatory to the Contied; papers were read, grievances stated, and public measures discussed. As printing was not then common in the South, the papers were mostly manuscript; one or more of which was from the pen of the Reverend Doctor Reese, then of Mecklenburgh, which met with general approbation, and copies of it circulated. It is to be regretted that those and other papers published at that period, and the journal of their proceedings are lost. They would show much of the spirit and tone of thinking, which prepared them for the measures they afterwards adopted.

On the 20th of May, 1775, besides the two persons elected from each Militia company, (usually called Committee-men,) a much larger number of citizens attended in Charlotte than at any former meeting, perhaps half the men in the County. The news of the battle of Lexington, the 19th of April preceding, had arrived. There appeared among the people much excitement. The Committee were organized in the Court-House, by appointing Abraham Alexander, Esq., Chairman and John McKnitt Alexander, Esquire, Clerk or Secretary to the meeting.

After reading a number of papers as usual, and much animated discussion, the question was taken, and they resolved to declare themselves independent. One among other reasons offered, that the King or Ministry had, by proclamation or some edict, declared the Colonies out of the protection of the British Crown; they ought, therefore, to declare themselves out of his protection, and resolve on independence. That their proceedings might be in due form, a Sub-Committee, consisting of Doctor Ephraim Brevard, a Mr. Kennon, an attorney, and a third person, whom I do not recollect, were appointed to draft their Declaration. They retired from the Court-House for some time, but the Committee continued in session in it. One circumstance occurred I distinctly remember: a member of the Committee, who had said but little before, addressed the Chairman, as follows: "If you resolve on independence, how shall we all be absolved from the obligations of the oath we took to be true to King George the Third, about four years ago, after the Regulation battle, when we were sworn, whole Militia companies together. I should be glad to know how gentlemen can clear their consciences after taking that oath." This speech produced confusion. The Chairman could scarcely preserve order, so many wished to reply. There appeared great indignation and contempt at the speech of the member. Some said it was nonsense; others, that allegiance and protection were reciprocal; when protection was withdrawn allegiance ceased; that the oath was only binding while the King protected us in the enjoyment of our rights and liberties, as they existed at the time it was taken, which he had not done, but now declared us out of his protection, therefore was not binding. Any man who would interpret it otherwise, was a fool. By way of illustration, (pointing to a green tree near the Court-House) stated, if he was sworn to do any thing as long as the leaves continued on that tree, it was so long binding; but when the leaves fell, he was discharged from his obligation. This was said to be certainly applicable in the present case. Out of respect for a worthy citizen, long since deceased, and his respectable connexions, I forbore to mention names; for, though he was a friend to the cause, a suspicion rested on him in the public mind for some time after.

The Sub-Committee appointed to draft the Resolutions, returned, and Doctor Ephraim Brevard read their report, as near as I can recollect, in the very words we have since seen them several times in print. It was unanimously adopted; and shortly after, it was moved and seconded to have proclamation made, and the people collected, that the proceedings be read at the Court-House door, in order that all might hear them. It was done, and they were received with enthusiasm. It was then proposed by some one aloud, to give three cheers and throw up their hats. It was immediately adopted, and the hats thrown. Several of them lit on the Court-House roof; the owners had some difficulty to reclaim them.

The foregoing is all from personal knowledge. I understood afterwards, that Captain James Jack, then of Charlotte, undertook, on the request of the Committee, to carry a copy of their proceedings to Congress, which then sat in Philadelphia; and on his way, at Salisbury, the time of Court, Mr. Kennon, who was one of the Committee who assisted in drawing the Declaration, prevailed on Captain Jack to get his papers, and have them read publicly; which was done, and the proceedings met with general approbation. But two of the lawyers, John Dunn and a Mr. Booth, dissented, and asserted they were treasonable, and endeavoured to have Captain Jack detained. He drew his pistols, and threatened to kill the first man who would interrupt him, and passed on. The news of this reached Charlotte in a short time after, and the Executive of the Committee, whom they had invested with suitable powers, ordered a party of ten or twelve armed horsemen to bring said lawyers from Salisbury; when they were brought, and the case investigated before the Committee. Dunn, on giving security and making fair promises, was permitted to return, and Booth was sentenced to go to Camden, in South-Carolina, out of the sphere of his influence. My brother, George Graham, and the late Colonel John Carruth, were of the party that went to Salisbury; and it is distinctly remembered that when in Charlotte they came home at night, in order to provide for their trip to Camden, and that they and two others of the party took Booth to that place. This was the first milimental Congress; and as a special Committee is now appointed to examine into the affair, the publick are desired to suspend their judgment until Mr. Moore has had an opportunity either to exculpate himself from the charge, or make proper acknowledgment to his Country.

By order of the Committee:

FRANCIS JOHNSON, Secretary.

TO LORD SANDWICH.

Philadelphia, May 31, 1775.

MY LORD: I congratulate your Lordship on an instance of American cowardice; which your Lordship had so prophetically foretold.* The instance I allude to is to be found tary expedition from Mecklenburgh in the Revolutionary War, and believed to be the first any where to the South. Yours, respectfully,

J. GRAHAM.

Dr. Joseph McKt. Alexander, Mecklenburgh, N. C.

EXTRACT FROM THE MEMOIR OF THE LATE REV. HUMPHREY HUNTER.

Orders were presently issued by Colonel Thomas Polk, to the several Militia companies, that two men, selected from each Corps, should meet at the Court-House on the 19th of May, 1775, in order to consult with each other upon such measures as might be thought best to be pursued. Accordingly, on said day a far larger number than two out of each company were present. There was some difficulty in choosing the Commissioners. To have chosen all thought to be worthy, would have rendered the meeting too numerous. The following were selected, and styled Delegates, and are here given, according to my best recollection, as they were placed on roll: Abram Alexander, Senior, Thomas Polk, Richard Harris, Senior, Adam Alexander, Richard Barry, John McKitt Alexander, Neil Morrison, Hezekiah Alexander, Hezekiah J. Balch, Zacheus Wilson, John Phifer, James Harris, William Kennon, John Ford, Henry Downs, Ezra Alexander, William Graham, John Queary, Charles Alexander, Waitstill Avery, Ephraim Brevard, Benjamin Patton, Matthew McClure, Robert Irwin, John Flenniken, and David Reese.

Abram Alexander was nominated, and unanimously voted to the Chair. John McKitt Alexander and Ephraim Brevard were chosen Secretaries. The Chair being occupied, and the Clerks seated, the House was called to order, and proceeded to business. Then a full, a free, and dispassionate discussion obtained, on the various subjects for which the delegation had been convened, and the following Resolutions were unanimously ordained:

1st. Resolved, That whosoever directly or indirectly abetted, or in any way, form, or manner, countenanced the unchartered and dangerous invasion of our rights, as claimed by Great Britain, is an enemy to this Country, to America, and to the inherent and inalienable rights of man.

2d. Resolved, That we, the citizens of Mecklenburgh County, do hereby dissolve the political bands which have connected us to the Mother Country, and hereby absolve ourselves from all allegiance to the British Crown, and abjure all political connexion, contract, or association, with that Nation, who have wantonly trampled on our rights and liberties, and inhumanly shed the blood of American patriots at Lexington.

3d. Resolved, That we do hereby declare ourselves a free and independent people; are, and of right ought to be, a sovereign and self-governing Association, under the control of no power other than that of our God and the general government of the Congress; to the maintenance of which independence, we solemnly pledge to each other our mutual co-operation, our lives, our fortunes, and our most sacred honour.

4th. Resolved, That as we now acknowledge the existence and control of no law or legal officer, civil or military, within this County, we do hereby ordain and adopt, as a rule of life, all, each and every of our former laws, wherein, nevertheless, the Crown of Great Britain never can be considered as holding rights, privileges, immunities, or authority therein.

5th. Resolved, That it is further decreed, that all, each and every military officer in this County, is hereby reinstated in his former command and authority, he acting conformably to these Regulations. And that every member present, of this Delegation, shall henceforth be a civil officer, viz: a Justice of the Peace, in the character of a "Committee-man," to issue process, hear and determine all matters of controversy, according to said adopted laws, and to preserve peace, union, and harmony in said County; and to use every exertion to spread the love of country and fire of freedom throughout America, until a more general and organized Government be established in this Province.

Those Resolves having been concurred in, by-laws and regulations for the government of a Standing Committee of Public Safety were enacted and acknowledged. Then a Select Committee was appointed, to report on the ensuing day a full and definite statement of grievances, together with a more correct and formal draught of the Declaration of Independence. The proceedings having been thus arranged, and some what in readiness for promulgation, the Delegation then adjourned until to-morrow, at twelve o'clock.

The 20th of May, at twelve o'clock, the Delegation, as above, had convened. The Select Committee were also present, and reported agreeably to instructions, viz: a statement of grievances, and formal draught of the Declaration of Independence, written by Ephraim Brevard, Chairman of said Committee, and read by him to the Delegation. The Resolves, By-Laws, and Regulations, were read by John McKitt Alexander. It was then announced from the Chair, Are you all agreed? There was not a dissenting voice. Finally, the whole proceedings were read distinctly and audibly at the Court-House door, by Colonel Thomas Polk, to a large, respectable, and approving assemblage of citizens who were present, and gave sanction to the business of the day. A copy of all those transactions were then drawn off, and given in charge to Captain James Jack, then of Charlotte, that he should present them to Congress, then in session in Philadelphia.

On that memorable day I was twenty years and fourteen days of age,

* March 16, 1775. See Vol. I. 1631.

in General Gage's circumstantial account, or narrative of the attack or battle at Lexington and Concord, in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, in which he gives a clear and impartial account of the barbarity of the Americans, as well as that of their cowardice. I make no doubt but the Yankees will pretend not to believe it, especially the barbarity, which is not quite so clear; but as to the cowardice, it is so incontestably proved, that they themselves will not undertake to deny, if they do not own it. The General, in this sensible and masterly performance, says a man had advanced from the Provincials assembled at Lexington, and attempted to shoot the Regulars by snapping his gun, which flashed in the pan; and that on the attack of the Troops at Concord bridge, after some of them had fallen, and they a very deeply interested spectator, recollecting the dire hand of oppression that had driven me from my native clime, now pursuing me in this happy asylum, and seeking to bind again in the fetters of bondage.

On the return of Captain Jack, he reported that Congress, individually, manifested their entire approbation of the conduct of the Mecklenburgh citizens, but deemed it premature to lay them officially before the House.

Note.—The foregoing extract is copied from a manuscript account of the Revolutionary War in the South, addressed by the writer to a friend, who had requested historical information upon this subject. Mr. Hunter was in the battle of Camden, and has given an interesting narrative of the circumstances connected with the death of Baron De Kalb. The manuscript gives the biography of the writer, from which it appears he was a native of Ireland, and born on the 14th of May, 1755, and at an early age emigrated from his native land to the Province of North-Carolina.

Additional Papers.—From the RALEIGH REGISTER, FEBRUARY 18, 1820.

MECKLENBURGH DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

When this Declaration was first published in April last, some doubts were expressed in the Eastern papers as to its authenticity, (none of the Histories of the Revolution having noticed the circumstance.) Colonel William Polk, of this City, (who, though a mere youth at the time, was present at the meeting which made the Declaration, and whose father being Colonel of the County, appears to have acted a conspicuous part on the occasion,) observing this, assured us of the correctness of the facts generally, though he thought there were errors as to the name of the Secretary, &c., and said that he should probably be able to correct these, and throw some further light on the subject, by inquiries amongst some of his old friends in Mecklenburgh County. He has accordingly made inquiries, and communicated to us the following Documents as the result, which, we presume, will do away all doubts on the subject.

CERTIFICATE.

STATE OF NORTH-CAROLINA, Mecklenburgh County:

At the request of Colonel William Polk, of Raleigh, made to Major-General George Graham, soliciting him to procure all the information that could be obtained at this late period, of the transactions which took place in the County of Mecklenburgh, in the year 1775, as it respected the people of that County having declared Independence; of the time when the Declaration was made; who were the principal movers and leaders, and the members who composed the body of Patriots who made the Declaration, and signed the same:

We, the undersigned citizens of the said County, and of the several ages set forth opposite to each of our names, do certify, and on our honour declare, that we were present in the Town of Charlotte, in the said County of Mecklenburgh, on the 19th day of May, 1775; when two persons elected from each Captain's Company in said County, appeared as Delegates, to take into consideration the state of the Country, and to adopt such measures as to them seemed best, to secure their lives, liberty, and property, from the storm which was gathering, and had burst upon their fellow-citizens to the Eastward, by a British Army, under the authority of the British King and Parliament.

The order for the election of Delegates was given by Colonel Thomas Polk, the commanding officer of the Militia of the County, with a request that their powers should be ample, touching any measure that should be proposed.

We do further certify and declare, that to the best of our recollection and belief, the delegation was complete from every company, and that the meeting took place in the Court-House, about 12 o'clock on the said 19th day of May, 1775, when Abram Alexander was chosen Chairman, and Doctor Ephraim Brevard Secretary. That the Delegates continued in session until the night of that day; that on the 20th they again met, when a Committee, under the direction of the Delegates, had formed several Resolves, which were read, and which went to declare themselves, and the people of Mecklenburgh County, free and independent of the King and Parliament of Great Britain—and that, from that day thenceforth, all allegiance and political relation was absolved between the good people of Mecklenburgh, and the King of Great Britain; which Declaration was signed by every member of the Delegation, under the shouts and huzzas of a very large assembly of the people of the County, who had come to know the issue of the meeting. We further believe, that the Declaration of Independence was drawn up by the Secretary, Doctor Ephraim Brevard, and that it was conceived and brought about through the instrumentality and popularity of Colonel Thomas Polk, Abraham Alexander, John McKitt Alexander, Adam Alexander, Ephraim Brevard, John Phifer, and Hezekiah Alexander, with some others.

We do further certify and declare, that in a few days after the Delegates adjourned, Captain James Jack, of the Town of Charlotte, was engaged to carry the Resolves to the President of Congress, and to our Representatives—one copy for each; and that his expenses were paid by a voluntary subscription. And we do know that Captain Jack executed the trust, and returned with answers, both from the President and our Delegates in Congress, expressive of their entire approbation of the course that had been adopted, recommending a continuance in the same; and that the time would soon be, when the whole Continent would follow our example.

We further certify and declare, that the measures which were adopted at the time before mentioned, had a general influence on the people of this County to unite them in the cause of liberty and the Country, at that time; that the same unanimity and patriotism continued unimpaired to the close of the war; and that the Resolutions had considerable effect in harmonizing the people in two or three adjoining Counties.

That a Committee of Safety for the County were elected, who were clothed with civil and military power, and under their authority sevbegan their retreat, they observed soldiers dead on the ground, one of them scalped and his ears cut off, though not quite dead; from which it is very clear that one or more of the Provincials had the cowardice to go in amongst the Regular Troops, and cut off the ears of a soldier that had fallen, though not quite dead.

This, my Lord, may seem no less odd than true, for it is fully proved; for unless the soldier's ears had been cut off whilst among the body of Regulars, they could not possibly have known it, as they do not pretend, nor the Provincials believe, that they ever regained any ground they had re-eral disaffected persons in Rowan and Tryon (now Lincoln County) were sent for, examined, and conveyed (after it was satisfactorily proven they were inimical) to Camden, in South Carolina, for safekeeping.

We do further certify, that the acts passed by the Committee of Safety, were received as the civil law of the land in many cases, and that Courts of Justice for the decision of controversies between the people were held, and we have no recollection that dissatisfaction existed in any instance with regard to the judgments of said Courts.

We are not, at this late period, able to give the names of all the Delegation who formed the Declaration of Independence; but can safely declare as to the following persons being of the number, viz: Thomas Polk, Abraham Alexander, John McKnitt Alexander, Adam Alexander, Ephraim Brevard, John Phifer, Hezekiah James Balsh, Benjamin Patton, Hezekiah Alexander, Richard Barry, William Graham, Matthew McClure, Robert Irvin, Zacheus Wilson, Neil Morrison, John Flenniken, John Queary, Ezra Alexander.

In testimony of all and every part herein set forth, we have hereunto set our hands.

GEO. GRAHAM, aged 61, near 62.

FROM JOHN SIMESON TO COLONEL WILLIAM POLK.

"PROVIDENCE, January 20, 1820.

"DEAR SIR: After considerable delay, occasioned partly to obtain what information I could, in addition to my own knowledge of the facts in relation to our Declaration of Independence, and partly by a precarious, feeble old age, I now write to you in answer to yours of the 24th ult.

"I have conversed with many of my old friends and others, and all agree in the point, but few can state the particulars; for although our County is renowned for general intelligence, we have still some that don't read the publick prints. You know, in the language of the day, every Province had its Congress, and Mecklenburgh had its County Congress, as legally chosen as any other, and assumed an attitude until then without a precedent; but, alas! those worthies who conceived and executed that bold measure, are no more; and one reason why so little new light can be thrown on an old truth, may be this—and I appeal to yourself for the correctness of the remark—we, who are now called Revolutionary men, were then thoughtless, precipitate youths; we cared not who conceived the bold act, our business was to adopt and support it. Yourself, sir, in your eighteenth year and on the spot, your worthy father, the most popular and influential character in the County, and yet you cannot state much from recollection. Your father, as commanding officer of the County, issued orders to the Captains to appoint two men from each company to represent them in the Committee. It was done. Neill Morrison, John Flenniken, from this Company; Charles Alexander, John McKnitt Alexander, Hezekiah Alexander, Abraham Alexander, Esq., John Phifer, David Reese, Adam Alexander, Dickey Barry, John Queary, with others, whose names I cannot obtain. As to the names of those who drew up the Declaration, I am inclined to think Doctor Brevard was the principal, from his known talents in composition. It was, however, in substance and form, like that great national act agreed on thirteen months after. Ours was towards the close of May, 1775. In addition to what I have said, the same Committee appointed three men to secure all the military stores for the County's use—Thomas Polk, John Phifer, and Joseph Kennedy. I was under arms near the head of the line, near Colonel Polk, and heard him distinctly read a long string of grievances, the declaration, and military order above. I likewise heard Colonel Polk have two warm disputes with two men of the County, who said the measures were rash and unnecessary. He was applauded and they silenced. I was then in my 22d year, an enemy to usurpation and tyranny of every kind, with a retentive memory; and fond of liberty, that had a doubt arisen in my mind that the act would be controverted, proof would not have been wanting; but I comfort myself that none but the self-important peace-party and blue-lights of the East, will have the assurance to oppose it any further. The biographer of Patrick Henry, (Mr. Wirt) says he first suggested independence in the Virginia Convention; but it is known they did not reduce it to action—so that it will pass for nothing. The Courts likewise acted independently. I myself heard a dispute take place on the bench, and an acting Magistrate was actually taken and sent to prison by an order of the Chairman.

"Thus, Sir, have I thrown together all that I can at this time. I am too blind to write fair, and too old to write much sense—but if my deposition before the Supreme Court of the United States would add more weight to a truth so well known here, it should be at the service of my fellow-citizens of the County and State generally.

"I am, Sir, your friend and humble servant,

"JOHN SIMESON, SEN."

"P. S. I will give you a short anecdote. An aged man near me, on being asked if he knew any think of this affair, replied, "Och, aye, TAM POLK declared independence lang before any body else." This old man is 81."

CERTIFICATE OF ISAAC ALEXANDER.

I hereby certify that I was present in Charlotte on the 19th and 20th days of May, 1775, when a regular deputation from all the Captains' companies of Militia in the County of Mecklenburgh, to wit: Colonel Thomas Polk, Adam Alexander, Lieutenant-Colonel Abram Alexander, John McKnitt Alexander, Hezekiah Alexander, Ephraim Brevard and a number of others, who met to consult and take measures for the peace treated over; and besides, my Lord, as proof, if his ears had been cut off after they had retreated, and left him on the ground which the Provincials had gained, the King's Troops could not possibly have seen him to prove it. Another instance, my Lord; one of them had the cowardice to strike Major Pitcairn at the head of his Troops; so that, my Lord, I think I have very fully proved to your Lordship at least, (and for which I hope to be rewarded,) the clearest and most flagrant instances of American cowardice, and which, I think, is quite sufficient to satisfy your Lordship, that a few more Troops, in addition to those and tranquillity of the citizens of said County, and who appointed Abraham Alexander their Chairman, and Doctor Ephraim Brevard Secretary; who, after due consultation, declared themselves absolved from their allegiance to the King of Great Britain, and drew up a declaration of their independence, which was unanimously adopted; and employed Captain James Jack to carry copies thereof to Congress, who accordingly went. These are a part of the transactions that took place at that time, as far as my recollection serves me.

ISAAC ALEXANDER.

CERTIFICATE OF SAMUEL WILSON.

STATE OF NORTH-CAROLINA, Mecklenburgh County:

I do hereby certify, that in May, 1775, a Committee or Delegation from the different Militia Companies in this County, met in Charlotte; and after consulting together, they publicly declared their independence on Great Britain, and on her Government. This was done before a large collection of people, who highly approved of it. I was then and there present, and heard it read from the Court-House door. Certified by me.

SAM'L WILSON.

CERTIFICATE OF JOHN DAVIDSON.

BEAVER DAM, October 5, 1830.

DEAR SIR: I received your note of the 25th of last month, requiring information relative to the Mecklenburgh Declaration of Independence. As I am, perhaps, the only person living who, as a member of that Convention, and being far advanced in years, and not having my mind frequently directed to that circumstance for some years, I can give you but a very succinct history of that transaction. There were two men chosen from each Captain's company, to meet in Charlotte, to take the subject into consideration. John McKnitt Alexander and myself were chosen from one company; and many other members were there that I now recollect, whose names I deem unnecessary to mention. When the members met, and were perfectly organized for business, a motion was made to declare ourselves independent of the Crown of Great Britain, which was carried by a large majority. Doctor Ephraim Brevard was then appointed to give us a sketch of the Declaration of Independence, which he did. James Jack was appointed to take it on to the American Congress, then sitting in Philadelphia, with particular instructions to deliver it to the North-Carolina Delegation in Congress, (Hooper and Caswell.) When Jack returned, he stated that the Declaration was presented to Congress, and the reply was, that they highly esteemed the patriotism of the citizens of Mecklenburgh; but they thought the measure too premature.

I am confident that the Declaration of Independence by the people of Mecklenburgh was made publick at least twelve months before that of the Congress of the United States.

I do certify that the foregoing statement, relative to the Mecklenburgh Independence, is correct, and which I am willing to be qualified to, should it be required. Yours respectfully,

Dr. J. M. Alexander.

LETTER FROM J. G. M. RAMSEY.

MECKLENBURGH, T. October 1, 1830.

DEAR SIR: Yours of the 21st ultimo was duly received. In answer I have only to say, that little is in my possession on the subject alluded to which you have not already seen. Subjoined are the certificates of two gentlemen of this County, whose respectability and veracity are attested by their acquaintances here, as well as by the accompanying testimonials of the Magistrates in whose neighbourhood they reside. With this you will also receive extracts from letters on the same subject from gentlemen well known to you, and to the Country at large.

I am, very respectfully, yours, &c.

J. G. M. RAMSEY.

CERTIFICATE OF JAMES JOHNSON.

I, James Johnson, now of Knox County, Tennessee, but formerly of Mecklenburgh County, North-Carolina, do hereby certify, that to the best of my recollection, in the month of May, 1775, there were several meetings in Charlotte concerning the impending war. Being young, I was not called on to take an active part in the same; but one thing I do positively remember, that she (Mecklenburgh County) did meet and hold a Convention, declared independence, and sent a man to Philadelphia with the proceedings. And I do further certify, that I am well acquainted with several of the men who formed or constituted said Convention, viz: John McKnitt Alexander, Hezekiah Alexander, Abraham Alexander, Adam Alexander, Robert Irvin, Neill Morrison, John Flenniken, John Queary.

Certified by me this 11th day of October, 1827.

JAMES JOHNSON, in my seventy third year.

CERTIFICATE OF ELIJAH JOHNSON AND JAMES WILHITE.

We, Elijah Johnson and James Wilhite, acting Justices of the Peace for the County of Knox, do certify, that we have been a long time well acquainted with Samuel Montgomery and James Johnson, both residents of Knox County; and that they are entitled to full credit, and any statement they may make to implicit confidence.

Given under our hands and seals this 4th day of October, 1830.

ELIJAH JOHNSON, (seal.)

JAMES WILHITE, (seal.)

Justices of the Peace for Knox County.

Note.—Mr. Montgomery's certificate does not purport to state the facts as having come under his own personal observation. It is therefore omitted in this publication.

already here in command of General Gage, (who have shown so much bravery as to suffer a single cowardly American or two, to enter into the Army and cut off the ears of a soldier that had fallen in battle,) will be sufficient to frighten all the inhabitants out of America, whereby your Lordship, and the rest of the junto, will have an opportunity of amply serving your faithful friends, in the glorious cause of despotism and arbitrary power, by granting to them the lands and estates of these refugees. In doing which, I should not forget to remind your Lordship to remember your faithful, humble servant,

AN EXPECTANT.

COLONEL GEORGE WASHINGTON TO GEORGE WILLIAM FAIRFAX, ENGLAND.

Philadelphia, May 31, 1775.

DEAR SIR: Before this letter will come to hand, you must undoubtedly have received an account of the engagement in the Massachusetts-Bay, between the Ministerial Troops (for we do not, nor can we yet prevail upon ourselves to call them the King's Troops) and the Provincials of that Government. But as you may not have heard how that affair began, I enclose you the several affidavits which were taken after the action.

General Gage acknowledges that the detachment under Lieutenant-Colonel Smith was sent out to destroy private property; or, in other words, to destroy a magazine, which self-preservation obliged the inhabitants to establish. And he also confesses, in effect at least, that his men made a very precipitate retreat from Concord, notwithstanding the re-enforcement under Lord Percy; the last of which may serve to convince Lord Sandwich, and others of the same sentiment, that the Americans will fight for their liberties and property, however pusillanimous in his Lordship's eyes they may appear in other respects.

From the best accounts I have been able to collect of that affair, indeed from every one, I believe the fact, stripped of all colouring, to be plainly this: that if the retreat had not been as precipitate as it was, (and God knows it could not well have been more so,) the Ministerial Troops must have surrendered or been totally cut off; for they had not arrived in Charlestown, under cover of their ships, half an hour, before a powerful body of men from Marblehead and Salem was at their heels, and must, if they had happened to be up one hour sooner, inevitably have intercepted their retreat to Charlestown. Unhappy it is, though, to reflect that a brother's sword has been sheathed in a brother's breast, and that the once happy and peaceful plains of America are either to be drenched with blood, or inhabited by slaves. Sad alternative! But can a virtuous man hesitate in his choice?

I am, with sincere regard and affectionate compliments to Mrs. Fairfax, dear Sir, yours, &c.

WORCESTER (MASSACHUSETTS) CONVENTION.

May 31, 1775.

The Convention met according to adjournment, at the Court-House in Worcester.

Mr. William Young was elected Chairman pro tempore, and Jeduthan Baldwin Clerk pro tempore.

Voted, That the Rev. Mr. Chaplain be desired to open this Convention with prayer.

Voted, To pass over counting the votes for County Treasurer.

Voted, That Colonel Hezekiah Ward, Mr. Paddleford, and Mr. Joshua Bigelow, be a Committee to draw up a Remonstrance to the Provincial Congress, that no man be allowed to have a seat therein who does not vote away his own money for publick purposes, in common with the other members, and with his constituents.

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed to take into consideration the subject of allowing those who are inimical to the Country, to exercise the right of voting in Town meetings.

Resolved, That the erecting of a Paper-Mill in this County would be of great publick advantage; and if any person or persons will undertake the erecting of such Mill, and the manufacture of Paper, that it be recommended to the people of the County to encourage the undertaking by generous contributions and subscriptions.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

REPRESENTATION OF ROBERT TEMPLE TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Plymouth, May 31, 1775.

I, Robert Temple, of Ten Hills, near Charlestown, New-England, do declare, that I have received no injury to my property, nor have I been under any apprehensions of danger to either my person or property from the Troops that are under the command of General Ward; but it is a fact that I have been so threatened, searched for, attacked by the name of tory, an enemy to this Country, and treated in such a manner, that not only my own judgment, but that of my friends, and of almost the whole of the Town where I lived, made it necessary or prudent for me to fly from my home. I am confident that this is owing to the wickedness of a few, very few, who have prejudiced some short-sighted people against me, who live too far from my abode to be acquainted with my proper character. I am confirmed in this opinion from the kind protection that my wife and family have received, and continue to receive from General Ward, as well as from the sentiments which the Committee of Safety have been pleased to entertain of me.

R. TEMPLE.

STEPHEN NYE TO NATHANIEL FREEMAN.

Sandwich, May 31, 1775.

SIR: I would give you a relation of Captain Linscy's proceeding at the islands since your going from here. On Sunday he received a re-enforcement by a schooner from Boston, and proceeded from thence to the west end of the island, where they took off about two hundred sheep, chiefly from Tucker's Island, which belonged to John Wing; from thence they came down to the cove, and ordered the sheep there to be yarded, which was accordingly done, but it being near night they concluded to leave them in the yard till morning. They rudely insulted, abused, and threatened the people for their backwardness in assisting them. In the night, word was brought off to Falmouth of the above proceeding, by Nye, who went immediately back to take care of his family, on which a number of men, well equipped, immediately went on the island. Before their arrival at the cove the sheep were turned out of the yard into the woods. The people from the ship had been on shore, and on finding the sheep were gone, were still more enraged, and took all the arms they could find, six calves and the hogs, and carried them off. When the people from Falmouth got to the cove, which was before day, they placed themselves in the bushes, and lay undiscovered. In the morning the boat came on shore with the doctor, boatswain, &c., whom they might have taken had they not expected the captain ashore soon; however, the boat soon went back without going to the house, and both vessels immediately weighed anchor and went down to Holmes's Hole, where they lay last night at anchor. Captain Bassett is now on the island, with about fifty men, and will tarry to guard the stock until we have the advice of the Congress what method is best to take. By the best account, there is not less than four thousand sheep, and between two and three hundred horned cattle, and a number of horses, on the Island of Naushan, and perhaps nigh as many on the other islands. It is generally judged that fifty or sixty men, placed on the island at Tarpaulin Cove, would guard the above stock. It is certainly impracticable to bring it off; and it must most certainly either be destroyed where it is, or fall into the hands of our enemies; which is best, the Congress must judge. Their determination we should be glad of as soon as possible, for we fear the men now there will be impatient to come off unless they are put under pay. Captain Bassett is perhaps the best officer that can be placed there; his courage and conduct have been heretofore well approved, and he is moreover well acquainted with the ground on the island, which must certainly be of great advantage. There went a number of men from this town, some of whom are, we conclude, now on the island. We hope the Congress will let us have their advice and determination as soon as possible, and pray that in all their determinations they will be counselled by the Supreme Counsellor; and are, Sir, your humble servants,

STEPHEN NYE.

To Colonel Nathaniel Freeman, to be communicated to Congress.

SELECTMEN OF SCARBOROUGH TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

To the Honourable Representatives in Congress assembled, the 31st of May, 1775:

The Selectmen of the Town of SCARBOROUGH, for and in behalf of said Town, humbly sheweth:

That the said Town of Scarborough thought themselves not able to support the charge of a Member in said Congress at present, said Town having no money to pay any tax whatever. Our lumber was our chief trade in this Town; that being done, we are in great distress for want of money and provisions. Our crops are very short the last year, and under present circumstances, little or no supplies brought from the Southern Colonies, makes it distressing.

But we doubt not of your Honours' great wisdom in consulting the good of the whole Colony; and though this Town has no Representative in Congress, we look upon ourselves in duty bound to conform to the Resolves of the honourable Congress, and shall ever be willing to exert ourselves to the utmost to support good government and defend our just rights and privileges. We have only to add our prayers that God may bless and prosper your counsels, and in the end confirm to us that liberty which our forefathers came into these regions to enjoy.

We beg leave to subscribe ourselves, as in duty bound, your obedient humble servants,

REUBEN FOGG, }
PETER LIBBEE, } Selectmen.
JOSHUA FABYAN, }

SELECTMEN OF EDGARTOWN TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

To the Honourable the Members of the Provincial Congress to be held at WATERTOWN, on the 31st day of May instant:

GENTLEMEN: Agreeable to the recommendation of the late honourable Provincial Congress, we have caused the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of Edgartown, qualified by law to vote for Representatives in the General Assembly, to meet, in order to elect and depute a Member or Members to represent them in a Provincial Congress to be held at Watertown, on the said 31st day of May instant, but did not elect or depute any Member or Members for the purpose aforesaid; because it was thought inexpedient, on account of the peculiar situation and circumstances of this small and much exposed Town; being situated on an Island, the communication to the main land not only difficult but dangerous, and frequently surrounded by armed vessels, by reason of the advantageous situation, and convenient harbour suitable for their reception; by reason whereof, a man-of-war is for the most part stationed here, to the great detriment and terror of the inhabitants, and apprehensive that in case they publicly manifest any great degree of forwardness, with regard to the public's unhappy affairs of this Province, that some fatal consequence may ensue, being thus exposed. We are fully convinced that the inhabitants of this place have a most sincere regard for the Congress, and mean to follow and pursue their recommendations from time to time cheerfully with punctuality, consistent with their safety under their situation. We are therefore led to think that the situation of this people at this time deserves much pity and some indulgence. All which is humbly submitted in behalf of said Town of Edgartown.

THOMAS COOKE, }
EBENEZER SMITH, } Selectmen.

PETITION OF INHABITANTS OF BERWICK TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

To the Honourable the Delegates of the Colony of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY in Provincial Congress at WATERTOWN convened:

The Petition of the Inhabitants and Freeholders of BERWICK, in the County of YORK, in town-meeting convened, humbly sheweth:

That the harbours of York and Kittery, within the said County, lie entirely open to our now known enemies, and the lives and properties of the inhabitants thereof and the neighbouring Towns along the sea-coast exposed to the ravages and depredations of the enemy.

And that the remaining part of the inhabitants of this and the remaining Towns labour under the disagreeable situation (for want of arms and ammunition) of being incapable to defend themselves, wives, and children, and properties, should a descent be made by the King's Troops on this coast, which your Petitioners have the greatest reason to fear will inevitably be the event.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray this honourable House, in their great wisdom, to take the premises into serious consideration, and that they would be pleased to despatch one or more of the Companies now in the service of this Colony, in order to assist in guarding and defending this coast, or enable them, by raising more Troops for the Colony service, in some measure to guard and defend themselves. And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c., &c. By order of the Town:

NAHUM MARSHALL, Town Clerk.

Berwick, May 31, 1775.

SELECTMEN OF BEDFORD TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress convened at WATERTOWN, May 31, 1775:

GENTLEMEN: We have received the Resolve of the late Provincial Congress, signifying the necessity of a new Congress, and recommending to us that we elect one or more Members to represent us therein, which hath been laid before our Town, at a general meeting called for that purpose; but as the Town is small, and hath of late been visited with sickness and death, as well as the general calamities of our times, and apprehending it not necessary to multiply the number of Members, we hope to be excused, as we did not obtain a major vote of the Town to send one. Notwithstanding, we do highly approve of, and are well sensible of the expediency of such a Congress at this important crisis, and will freely comply with all the wise and salutary measures thereof relative to us.

So, wishing Divine influence and blessings on your endeavours for the peace and safety of this Province, at this alarming day, we subscribe ourselves yours, &c.

In the name and by order of the Selectmen of Bedford:
STEPHEN DAVIS, Town Clerk.

LETTER FROM THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS TO GENERAL WARD.

Exeter, May 31, 1775.

SIR: In order to commission the Officers belonging to the New-Hampshire Regiments, the Congress have thought it absolutely necessary that Colonel Stark should appear before them; therefore should take it as a favour, that you grant him leave for that purpose.

To his Excellency General Ward.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS TO COLONEL STARK.

Exeter, May 31, 1775.

SIR: As some difficulties have arisen in settling the Regiment under your command, the Congress, as you will see by the enclosed vote, have thought proper that you should immediately, without loss of time, repair to this Town, to receive their orders, and give a more particular account of the state of the Troops under your care.

To Colonel John Stark, Esq.

PORTSMOUTH COMMITTEE TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Portsmouth, May 31, 1775.

SIR: We beg leave to inform you that this day eight pieces of cannon were removed from Jersey Point to this Town, and that threats are thrown out by the Captain of the man-of-war, that in case he hears of any preparation of rafts, or any other means being used to annoy him, he shall come up with his ship to fire upon the Town. We would submit it to the wisdom of the Congress, whether these guns should not be immediately placed in some convenient battery to prevent this mischief, and whether a Committee should not be forthwith employed for this purpose. The guns are six twenty-four and two thirty-two-pounders.

And it is absolutely necessary that we be provided with ammunition and carriages, &c., to save them, of which we are entirely destitute.

I am, by order of the Committee, your most humble servant,
H. WENTWORTH, Chairman.

To Matthew Thornton, Esq., President of the Congress at Exeter.

MESHECH WEARE TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

To the Provincial Congress for the Province of NEW-HAMPSHIRE, convened at EXETER, MAY 31, 1775:

GENTLEMEN: As you have now under your consideration the important affair of raising Troops, and appointing them to proper stations, as well for the safety and defence of this Province, as for promoting the common cause at this critical and alarming season, we doubt not but you will kindly receive intimations from any number of persons of things which appear to them of great importance; we therefore beg leave to represent, from frequent alarms we have had, and from authentick advice from General Ward, that a number of armed cutters are sailed from Boston, for what design is unknown. We apprehend it to be absolutely necessary that a proper proportion of the Troops to be raised in this Province be immediately assigned for the defence of our sea-coasts; and permit us to suggest, that if a proper number of Troops for this purpose were ordered to be raised in the Towns near the sea-coasts, it would greatly facilitate the raising the men immediately, and be a great help for procuring immediate supplies, and we can conceive will be much more service to the common cause than sending our men elsewhere. It will also be a great discouragement to men enlisting to be sent to a distance, at the same time that they leave their friends and substance exposed by their absence, when they themselves might be more advantageously employed for their defence.

We therefore pray that a proper quota of men may be assigned, and Officers for enlisting them, for this service, as soon as may be, which we submit to your wisdom and determination.

MESHECH WEARE.

To the President of the Provincial Congress.

At the request of many persons who represented to me that the general mind of the people in the Towns near the sea-coast, is as above represented, and that much uneasiness is in their minds until some provision be made for their defence, I subscribe, on their behalf, to save the time of collecting a great number of subscribers.

M. W.

WINBORN ADAMS TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

GENTLEMEN: By a message from Portsmouth, I am desired to go there to-morrow with my Company, to assist in endeavouring to destroy the men-of-war in our harbour. As my Company were enlisted under your direction, I think it my duty to wait your order on any movement, therefore have sent the bearer, and desire your direction in this affair, which I shall endeavour to obey. And am, with great respect, your very humble servant,

WINBORN ADAMS.

To the Honourable the Provincial Committee of Safety at Exeter.

P. S. The plan proposed to execute the aforesaid affair I have not heard in particular, only that it was thought the deck might be commanded with small arms from the shore, while she was set on fire by rafts sent down by water.

CHARLES JOHNSON TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

To the Provincial Congress convened at EXETER:

GENTLEMEN: We hereby inform you that we sent a scouting party towards Canada, which party returned on Saturday last, by whom we have the following information:

They give us to understand that, by the best information that could be got, there is a body of Indians now lying on the west side of the Lake Champlain, nearly opposite to the mouth of Union River. What the particular number of them is, we cannot certainly determine; but by the best information, not less than four or five hundred. And furthermore, that the day before the scouting party left the mouth of Union River, they were informed there were ten canoes of Indians from Canada, who joined said party. And, moreover, that Governour Carleton, of Quebeck, is enlisting men in Canada; and also, he has sent to those tribes of Indians whom General Montcalm had with him at the reduction of Fort William and Henry. The same party give account of the taking Ticonderoga and Crown Point by our parties of the Southern Government.

Now, gentlemen, as to the situation of these parts. How near the borders of the enemy we are, every one knows who is acquainted with the boundaries of our own Province. As to the position of defence, we are in difficult circumstances; we are in want of both arms and ammunition. There is but very little, or none worth mentioning, perhaps not one pound of powder to twenty men, according to calculation, and not the one-half of our men have arms. Now, gentlemen, we have all reason to suspect, and really look upon ourselves in imminent danger of the enemy, and at this time in no capacity for a defence, for want of arms and ammunition. And, moreover, we have not a sufficient number of men to defend these our frontiers, without some assistance from the lower Towns, which assistance, gentlemen, we humbly conceive should necessarily be here, in order to act upon the first alarm.

We, gentlemen, refer the matter to your mature consideration, whether it is not necessary to give us assistance, that we may be ready in case of invasion. We have, gentlemen, a number of men in these parts of the Country who have not any real estate, who will certainly leave us, unless some assistance be given; and who are ready to assist, and stand by our cause with their lives, provided encouragement be given them.

If, gentlemen, you shall think it necessary to raise forces to defend this our Province, if you will give orders in what manner assistance shall be procured, please to inform us as expeditiously as the nature of things will allow. There is no doubt of enlisting numbers, without distressing or much interfering with the lower Towns near the sea-coasts, provided we have the platform to act upon.

We are, gentlemen, with all due respect, your humble servants.

In behalf: CHAS. JOHNSTON;

Clerk to the Committee of the Northern Regiment in the County of Grafton.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER RECEIVED AT WATERTOWN, DATED LONDON, JUNE 1, 1775.

The intelligence by Captain Derby, of the defeat of General Gage's men under Lord Percy, by the Americans, on the 19th of April last, has given very general pleasure here, as the newspapers will testify. 'Tis not with certainty that one can speak of the disposition of people in England with respect to the contest with America; though we are clear that the friends of America increase every day, particularly since the above intelligence.

It is believed the Ministers have not as yet formed any plans in consequence of the action of April 19th. They are in total confusion and consternation, and wait for General Gage's despatches by the Sukey, Captain Brown. The talk of the day is, that more troops and ships are to be sent immediately; but this, it is thought, cannot be done without calling the Parliament to raise more money. If it should be attempted, much disturbance may be expected in England.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER RECEIVED IN NEW-YORK, DATED LONDON, JUNE 1, 1775.

It is my indispensable duty to inform my countrymen on your side the water of whatever resolutions are formed on this side injurious to your sacred rights, that you may be timely on your guard to defeat the pernicious attempts of that implacable and tyrannical Administration. My intelligence is founded on the best information, and therefore full credence ought to be paid to it.

On the arrival of the news of the defeat and retreat of the detachments under Lord Percy and Colonel Smith, this great city was agitated to its centre. The friends to America rejoiced at the noble victory of the Bostonians, and its enemies were abashed at their courage. The news flew rapidly, and soon caught the ear of an unwise and deluded King. Administration were alarmed at the unexpected success of the Provincials, and were at a loss what lies to fabricate which would destroy the force of the qualifications which accompanied the intelligence. Runners were sent to every part of the City, who were authorized to deny the authenticity of the facts; and so distressed was Government, that they officially requested a suspension of belief, until despatches were received from General Gage. No advice is received yet from that quarter. In the mean time frequent ministerial councils were held without any conclusive determinations until yesterday, when His Majesty presided at one of them. The King, after having heard the news read, asked what mode should be pursued to support the dignity of the Nation, retrieve the honour of the British arms, and annihilate the American opposition? Lord North replied, that there were thirty thousand Troops in Quebeck and Canada, ready to march to Boston for General Gage's relief; that more men-of-war should be sent out, and that the Admiral should have positive orders to seize provision vessels for the due supply of the Navy and Army. He observed, that from the natural formation of the entrance into Boston, with the precautions taken by the General, there was no apprehension of any attack, for in fact it could not be stormed. Upon this futile opinion, instructions were immediately despatched to Gage, to order the regulars from Quebeck, and to march the militia of Canada, as well as to obtain the necessary supply of provisions by seizing the American vessels at sea, or in the harbours. To facilitate this accursed plan, the General is to assure the officers of the King's determination to promote them; and to stimulate the soldiers to acts of butchery, their pay is to be increased, to which purpose fifty thousand Pounds were sent off last night to Boston.

The General has positive orders to destroy the magazines, to spike the cannon, to order the riot act to be read, and to set up the King's standard immediately. What infatuation possesses this Nation! You and I, who know the strength of America and the consolidated union of its inhabitants, must laugh at their threats, and despise their shallow schemes. But whilst they are forming this impracticable plan of extracting thirty thousand Troops from Canada, they dread the arrival of the Packet; because, however they would dupe the credulous inhabitants of England with fallacious contradictions of the facts announced, they cannot help believing that General Gage and his Army are even now either cut off, or ignominiously constrained to retreat into the castle, or on board the men-of-war.

Such also is the terror of Administration, that they have despatched some of the nobility and gentry throughout England to contradict the Boston news, in order to quiet the landed gentlemen, cajole the manufacturing cities, and prevent the dreaded effects on the stocks. But alas! these are temporary, ineffectual expedients; for the next American intelligence will arouse the supine landed and manufacturing interest, and a vital stab will be given to the funds. This Nation has passed her meridian splendour. America, by her virtue and her numbers, will permanently establish her rights, and be the blessed means of extirpation of this most flagitious Ministry, and of establishing the British throne in wisdom and clemency.

This evening some of the principal Common Councilmen meet, to revive and effectually equip the military of London, which consists of eight thousand men, in order to co-operate with the Americans in forcing a relinquishment of the present infernal politicks, and in supporting constitutional liberty throughout the British Dominions.

W. JONES TO THE COMMITTEE OF DONATIONS, BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS.

Savannah, June 1, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Although the inhabitants of Georgia have unfortunately drawn on themselves the censure of her sister Colonies, by not adopting those measures which the wisdom of the General Congress have pointed out for the preservation of the liberties of America; yet, we flatter ourselves you will believe there are many among us who sincerely espouse the great cause contended for by you; and who ardently wish that the noble stand you have made in defence of these rights, to which, as men and British subjects we are entitled, may be crowned with success. The distresses our brethren must unavoidably experience by enforcement of the late acts of a cruel and vindictive Ministry, deeply affect us. The unhappy division amongst us has hitherto prevented our contributing to their support; but have now the pleasure to transmit you, by the Juliana, Captain Stringham, bound to New-York, a small contribution of sixty-three barrels of rice, and one hundred and twenty-two Pounds sterling, in specie, under the care of John Eaton Le Conte, Esq., which we desire you will please to appropriate towards the relief of those who have lately left the Town of Boston. We hope soon to be enabled by our friends who reside at a distance from Savannah, to send you a further token of our regard for you, and those whose misfortunes must increase with the oppressive measures now pursued by Administration against America.

I have the honour to be, on behalf of the contributors, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

W. JONES.

To the gentlemen of the Committee for receiving Donations for the relief of the distressed inhabitants of Boston.

INDEPENDENT COMPANY OF ALBEMARLE TO THE WILLIAMSBURGH VOLUNTEERS.

Charlottesville, Virginia, June 1, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The first Company of Independents for the County of Albemarle are highly pleased with the resolves of the gentlemen volunteers in Williamsburgh, and have been truly alarmed at the late arbitrary proceedings carried on in that city. We think that every apostate to the American cause should be properly stigmatized. We coincide with you in opinion, that the landing any armed force in this Colony, will not only be a dangerous attack, but a sufficient cause to justify us, with our countrymen, in any opposition; and we are determined, at all events, to act on that occasion as men of spirit ought to do in defence of their natural rights and country's cause.

With great respect, we remain, gentlemen, your humble servants,

CHARLES LEWIS, Captain.
GEORGE GILMER, } Lieutenants.
JOHN MARKS, }

TO RICHARD HENRY LEE.

Easton, June 1, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: An ancient, and accounted a long-headed man, in these parts, has dropped some hints devising a scheme of reconciliation between the Mother Country and the Colonies, which I think worthy of consideration; and I am persuaded your zeal for a reconciliation is such, that you will lend an ear to healing propositions, let them come from what quarter they may; otherwise, you would be unworthy of the eminence of character you possess for republican candour of sentiment.

He observed, "suppose the Congress were to offer as much to the Crown as all the duties amount to by a proper estimate;" meaning such duties as we agree they have a right to lay, as regulations of trade, and that exempt from all impositions by the Crown, called running, which might easily be assessed on each Province, by having recourse to their books of entry, and making, at the same time, an allowance for what are run, which is thought to be as much again; and besides this, to offer a number of forces, well disciplined, in case of requisition, as was the case in the last two wars; so many hundred or thousand from each Province, according to its importance, and ship, pay, and victual and clothe the same, or some, or all, as Congress judges best; and the same to continue for a certain season, or during an expedition, as was the case in the attack in the last war, on Carthage and Havana. At least, the most strenuous endeavours ought to be made, in some way or other, to effect an accommodation, considering what lamentable confusion and distress must attend the quarrel, if it continues any length of time; and the idea of aiming at independence at present, affords the most frightful of all prospects, whilst the Mother Country has such power on the ocean. Your unknown friend and humble servant, PHILOPATRIA.

P. S. I had like to have forgotten the venerable sage would have insisted that all the obnoxious Acts of Parliament should be repealed at the same time that the above offers should be made; the one to be made the inseparable condition of repealing the other; and in the space of ten, fifteen, or twenty years, an additional quantity of troops and money might be offered, in case of pressing requisitions from home, according as the Colonies flourish, and trade increases; but still the mode of raising, as well as the quantity, to be wholly left in the power of the Colonial Assemblies. And to confess the truth, the within letter, on account of your reputed eloquence in the Congress, I direct to you, as it is the more likely you will thereby have more influence on that august assembly, though you are under no obligation, but may still pursue your opinions.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO THEIR DELEGATES IN THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read in Congress June 3, 1775.]

In Provincial Congress at New-York, June 1, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We this morning received despatches from Albany, Watertown, and Hartford, which contains, as you will observe, very important intelligence. We think it our duty, through you, to lay it before the Continental Congress; and for that purpose have prepared copies of the several papers which were received as aforesaid. We shall make no comments on them, being convinced that your own good understanding and knowledge of the state of these Colonies will render any such attempt useless.

Our business proceeds with great heaviness, for want of the sinews of war, which we have not, neither have we any powder. Money we cannot have, until we receive the directions of your body, as you will easily believe. Besides this, we would be extremely happy to know that your body had taken into their serious consideration the several circumstances of the associated Colonies; and that they, in their wisdom, had assigned the several quotas of men and money to each. This information will guide our deliberations to a proper object, for the want of which our present attention is distracted, by the uncertainty of what shall be determined with respect to this Colony.

We have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most obedient and humble servants.

By order of the Congress:

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

To the New-York Delegates at the Continental Congress, Philadelphia.

MEMORIAL OF JOHN SPARDING TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

To the Honourable the President and Members of the Provincial Congress now assembled at New-York:
The Memorial of JOHN SPARDING, living at TICONDEROGA LANDING, the north end of Lake GEORGE, June 1, 1775, humbly sheweth:

That your memorialist has, for upwards of six years past, been at a great expense in providing boats and carriages for the ease and convenience of persons travelling this way with their baggage and effects, over the lake and carrying place, at an easy rate; likewise providing batteaus on Lake Champlain, for the convenience of gentlemen and others travelling to Canada. The unhappy differences now subsisting between the Colonies and the Mother Country, have put a stop to any business your memorialist was formerly engaged in. Your memorialist has, ever since the tenth day of May, (the day on which the fort at Ticonderoga was taken,) assisted with his boats, men, &c., in transporting the troops, with their baggage and provisions, over Lake George and the carrying place, upon no other security than a verbal agreement with Colonel Arnold, for twenty shillings, currency, per day, for a perryaugre capable of crossing the lake with seventy men, besides a quantity of provision, and a batteau for carrying expresses; and when there was not a sufficient loading for the perryaugre, to have the privilege of conveying such private property as might offer, of which your memorialist is at present deprived; your memorialist having likewise carted the greatest part of the baggage and provisions over the carrying place, the whole amount of which, to this day, is near seventeen Pounds. And as the gentlemen appointed here have this day intimated to your memorialist that his teams are not to be any more employed, they having brought teams over the lake for said service; your memorialist, therefore, trusting in the known justice and humanity of the gentlemen in New-York, who scorn to let any individual suffer, which must inevitably be the case of your memorialist, unless your goodness prevents it, by confirming the agreement made by Colonel Arnold: your memorialist therefore humbly hopes, as he has done his utmost endeavour for the good of the common cause, and is disabled at present from providing for his family, you will take the same into consideration. And your memorialist will ever pray.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER RECEIVED IN NEW-YORK, FROM A GENTLEMAN IN THE PROVINCIAL CAMP, DATED JUNE 1, 1775.

When our people were engaged in taking the stock, &c., from Noddle and Hog Islands, the King's Troops made an attack upon them. On Hog Island the combat began about five o'clock in the afternoon, and continued almost incessantly till midnight. The attack was made with cannon, swivels, and small arms, from an armed schooner, sloop, and eight or ten barges, upon our people, who had small arms only, but were very advantageously posted by Colonel Putnam, who got to them just in season to station and command them properly. He placed them in a ditch, up to their waists in water, and covered by the bank to their necks. The schooner, sloop, and boats, full of men, came within twelve or fifteen rods of them, and gave our people a fine opportunity to place their shot well. About midnight the fire ceased a little, and our people retreated to the main land, where they were soon after joined by Captain Foster, with two field-pieces, which were planted on the way of Winnesimit ferry. At daylight the combat was renewed; as the schooner passed the ferryway, she was briskly attacked by our people with the field-pieces and small arms, which soon clearing her deck, she drifted on shore, where our people set fire to her, and she blew up, notwithstanding the utmost endeavours of the people in the boats, &c., to tow her off and save her from destruction. In this they exposed themselves much to our fire, and suffered greatly. When they found the schooner was lost, they with difficulty rowed off the sloop, much disabled, and retired to their den; and thus ended the combat at about seven o'clock in the morning. In the afternoon (Sunday) our people got out of the wreck twelve four-pounders, six swivels, and every thing else that was valuable, without molestation. They afterwards removed or destroyed from both the islands all the stock, &c., viz: about five or six hundred sheep, thirty horses, about as many cattle, a large quantity of hay, and burned all the barns and houses.

All this was done in sight, and as we may say under the noses of the whole fleet and army at Boston, without molestation. The killed of the enemy, (viz: General Gage's crew of enemies to the English Constitution,) they themselves allow to be more than one hundred, besides wounded; others, who have good opportunity to know, say their killed and wounded exceed three hundred; and I believe they have suffered as much as in their precipitate flight from Lexington, on the memorable 19th of April. Our killed, none; wounded, three. Heaven apparently and most evidently fights for us, covers our heads in the day of battle, and shields our people from the assaults of our common enemies. What thanks can speak our gratitude.

These interpositions, and our determined resolutions, may perhaps make our haughty enemies glad to quit their unjust possessions, for a cooler and more calm retreat in some distant quarter of the globe, and leave us peaceably to enjoy those rights and liberties which God in our nature has given us as our inalienable right, and which they are most unjustly endeavouring to wrest from us by violence.

The men-of-war's cruisers are out, with orders to take all vessels with provisions, or any kind of West-India goods. Two men-of-war lying in Portsmouth River, have taken two corn sloops bound in there to supply the necessities of the place, and were about sending them to Boston. Governour Wentworth went on board to solicit their discharge, and represented the necessity of the Town, but without effect. This proceeding has so exasperated the people, that not a single Tory is left in the Province, and some of the most bigoted have quitted the cause, declared for the people, and join them in their most spirited measures, &c.

An important expedition was on foot, but as we have received no news of its success, we fear it has miscarried.

DECLARATION OF ALEXANDER WALKER.

Salem, June 1, 1775.

Whereas I, the subscriber, did some time since sign an Address to Governour Hutchinson, which has given just cause of resentment to this Town and Country; I do now declare, that at the same time of signing said Address, I did suppose it might serve the Colonies, but am convinced of my error, and am sorry for the offence I have given; and stand ready as any other, as far as in me lies, to support the rights and liberties of this Country.

ALEXANDER WALKER.

In Committee of Safety, June 3, 1775.

The foregoing Declaration being presented and read, voted unanimously that the same is satisfactory.

Attest: R. DERBY, JUN., Chairman.

TO THE AMERICANS.

Salem, Massachusetts, June 1, 1775.

We are now called by the providence of God to fight for those precious liberties which were handed down to us by our heroick and venerable ancestors. Our present circumstances are unhappy, but our prospect is great and glorious. God hath in a signal manner favoured our righteous cause, covered our heads in the day of battle, miraculously given us the victory over our enemies, and shewn us his salvation. So very remarkably hath Heaven appeared on our side, that I hope our murderous enemies will no longer dare to oppose what God approves.

We greatly lament that we are driven by tyranny to shed human blood. It would give us infinitely greater pleasure to make our enemies free and happy, than to triumph in victory. As a testimony of this disposition, we have given freedom to the soldiers who were well inclined, that we have taken in the late engagement. And it is our ardent wish and prayer to Almighty God, that these Colonies may be enabled to give freedom and happiness to our oppressed land and Nation, without injury to any person, and the once happy union between Britons and Americans be restored, and both forever live together as brethren.

AN AMERICAN.

REV. SAMUEL LANGDON TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

June 1, 1775.

SIR: We, the Pastors of the Congregational Churches of the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, in our present annual Convention, gratefully beg leave to express the sense we have of the regard shown by the honourable Provincial Congress to us, and the encouragement they have been pleased to afford to our assembling as a body this day. Deeply impressed with sympathy for the distresses of our much injured and oppressed Country, we are not a little relieved in beholding the Representatives of this people, chosen by their free and unbiased suffrages, now met to concert measures for their relief and defence, in whose wisdom and integrity, under the smiles of Divine Providence, we cannot but express our entire confidence. As it has been found necessary to raise an Army for our safety, and our brave countrymen have so willingly offered themselves to this hazardous service, we are not insensible of the vast burden that their necessary maintenance must devolve upon the people. We therefore cannot forbear, upon this occasion, to offer our service to the publick, and to signify our readiness, with the consent of our several congregations, to officiate, by rotation, as Chaplains to the Army.

We devoutly commend the Congress, and our brethren in arms, to the guidance and protection of that Providence, which, from the first settlement of this Country, has so remarkably appeared for the preservation of its civil and religious rights.

SAM'L LANGDON, Moderator.

To the Honourable Joseph Warren, Esq., President of the Provincial Congress of the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, &c.

At the Convention of the Ministers of the Massachusetts-Bay, June 1, 1775:

The Convention, taking into consideration the method of furnishing the Army with Chaplains, agreeably to the offer they have made to the honourable Congress, think it most expedient that a sufficient number of persons should be chosen out of their members by the Officers of the Army, to officiate statedly, rather than by quick rotation in that character; and the Convention depend that the parochial duties of those Ministers who shall serve in the Army, will be performed by their brethren in the vicinity.

SELECTMEN OF LUNENBURGH TO DOCTOR JOHN TAYLOR.

Lunenburg, June 1, 1775.

SIR: We have received the resolve of the Provincial Congress, that there be draughted out of the town stock of powder from Lunenburg, two half barrels for the use of the Army. Now, Sir, we here represent the circumstances, the greater part of which you have a knowledge of. You may remember that the Town granted twenty-five Pounds to supply the town stock of ammunition, but by reason of the scarcity of powder we have never obtained it; and at the time of the alarm at Concord, we were obliged to open the town stock to furnish those that marched on that occasion, (which was upwards of one hundred men,) and if we should take out the two half barrels, we should not have above thirty pounds of powder left in the town stock. Now, Sir, we desire to know if the Congress, under these circumstances, will excuse us from taking out the two half barrels, and if not, we are ready to comply with the resolve. Please to write to us as soon as may be; in the mean time we remain yours, &c.

By order of the Selectmen, GEORGE KIMBALL, Town Clerk.

To Dr. John Taylor, Member of Congress.

N. B. If you know of any powder to be sold, please to inform us.

PETITION OF WILLIAM TALMAN AND OTHERS TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Dartmouth, June 1, 1775.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress now sitting at WATERTOWN:

The Petition of us the subscribers humbly sheweth:

That your petitioners have, at great expense, fitted out some vessels for whaling voyages, and one or two with lumber for the West Indies, some of which are now ready for the sea, and being advised thereto by the Committee of Correspondence of this Town, and not being restricted therefrom by the Continental or Provincial Congress, the advice or directions of which we determine to abide by in this affair; notwithstanding which some people manifest an uneasiness that we should send our vessels to sea, and will not be satisfied unless we have the advice of the honourable the Provincial Congress, now sitting, thereon, which will quiet the minds of the people, and give them and us satisfaction relative to said matter. Therefore, your petitioners pray your advice and direction thereon; and as in duty bound shall ever pray.

MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Watertown, June 1, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We send you enclosed a copy of a letter from Colonel Arnold, commander of the Troops at Ticonderoga and Crown Point, together with a copy of a letter from the Speaker of the House of Representatives for the Colony of Connecticut, by which you will be acquainted with the present situation of those fortresses, and the measures necessary to be taken for serving and defending so valuable acquisitions. You will doubtless agree with us in sentiment, that it is a matter of the greatest importance that those places remain in our possession, in order to secure our frontiers from the depredations of our enemies, if they should attempt to attack us from that quarter, of which there appears to be great danger. It was the agreement of this Colony that four hundred men, and one hundred Pounds of money, should be raised for the reduction of the place, and it is our determination to contribute our full proportion towards securing the acquisition.

By the letter from the Speaker of the House of Representatives for Connecticut, you will find that that Colony have voted to send immediately to their assistance four companies and five hundred weight of powder, and we suppose that the Troops are upon their march there.

And we most earnestly request that you would continue your endeavours, likewise, for the speedy and effectual security of the aforementioned places, which, considering the importance of the affair, and the ready disposition which you have discovered for the defence of the common cause, leaves us no room to doubt of your compliance therewith.

JOSEPH WARREN, President.

To the Provincial Congress of New-Hampshire.

MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO ASSEMBLY OF CONNECTICUT.

Watertown, June 1, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 27th ultimo. We fully concur in opinion with you, that maintaining a post at Ticonderoga or Crown Point, is of the utmost importance; therefore take particular satisfaction that you have, on this subject, so early and repeatedly expressed your minds to the Continental Congress.

By private intelligence, of the 29th ultimo, sent to Captain Joseph Trumbull, we are informed that the Provincial Congress of New-York do not understand the resolve of the Continental Congress, concerning said fortresses, to extend so far as wholly to disseminate them; but so far only as to supply any fortifications that may be built at the south end of Lake George. Which resolve, in this sense of it, they are with despatch executing; therefore, in our present distressing situation, we have postponed sending further assistance to Captain Arnold, especially since New-York have not requested it.

To the Hon. William Williams, Speaker of the House of Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut.

GOVERNOUR OF CONNECTICUT TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Hartford, June 1, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of the twenty-ninth of May, per Sheppard, is received, and observe your agitation occasioned by the resolution of the General Congress touching Ticonderoga and Crown Point. It was looked on in the same light here, and hath been repeatedly mentioned to the Delegates from Connecticut, that removing from Ticonderoga to the south end of Lake George would expose great part of the frontiers to invasion and distress, and a fort at the latter scarcely tenable. The expressions of the resolution are not clear. The Provincial Congress at New-York take them to mean no more than the removing the supernumerary cannon and stores from those two fortresses to the south end of Lake George, but not to leave or abandon those two important posts. Mine of the 29th of May, per Mr. Brown, informs what hath been resolved here, which is fully approved by the Provincial Congress at New-York. They express their concern to keep and maintain "the important posts of Ticonderoga and Crown Point." We have received intelligence from Albany of the readiness of that City and County to afford their utmost assistance for securing those important posts for the common defence of our rights and liberties. Our General Assembly was closed last evening. I shall be attentive to your intelligence, and will communicate to you all that appears important that shall come first to my knowledge. Please to direct for me at Lebanon. I congratulate you on the union and increasing harmony of these North-American Colonies, and the wonderful concurrence and coincidence of counsels among them. May our hearts be united in humble thankfulness therefor. I am, with great truth and regard, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts-Bay.

JOSEPH KELLY TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety and Gentlemen of the Congress, now sitting at EXETER, in and for the Province of NEW-HAMPSHIRE:

The Petition of JOSEPH KELLY, of NOTTINGHAM-WEST, in said Province, humbly sheweth:

That your petitioner has, by orders from the Committee of Safety at Cambridge, raised a number of men for the preservation of the liberties of America, and has been at some considerable expense in providing arms and fitting them for said service; some of which men are now at Medford, some at Cambridge, and the others wait for orders when and where to march. That your petitioner verily thought he was serving God and his Country in so doing; notwithstanding, Major Hubbert told your petitioner we were not looked upon as friends by this Congress, for no other reason, that your petitioner knows of, than only because the soldiers at Cambridge refused to be mustered by said Hubbert, as they said they well knew him to be an enemy to the common cause; which your petitioner had no other hand in than to persuade the soldiers to be easy and not to treat the said Hubbert ill, and to tell him the minds of the people, and prevent any disorder in the camp. Your petitioner prays the men may be taken into the service of this Province, and put under some officers who they shall agree cheerfully to go under, or that they may not be restrained of their liberty of joining with any other Province, when they are willing to serve their Country to the utmost of their power in the common cause; which is the prayer of, gentlemen, your hearty and sincere well-wisher,

June 1, 1775.

JOSEPH KELLY.

Philadelphia, June 2, 1775.

The spirit of opposition to the arbitrary and tyrannical acts of the Ministry and Parliament of Britain, hath diffused itself so universally throughout this Province, that the people, even to its most extended frontiers, are indefatigable in training themselves to military discipline. The aged, as well as the young, daily march out under the banners of liberty, and discover a determined resolution to maintain her cause even until death. In the Town of Reading, in Berks County, Pennsylvania, there had been some time past three Companies formed, and very forward in their exercise; since, however, we are well informed a fourth Company have associated under the name of the Old Man's Company. It consists of about eighty *German*s, of the age of forty and upwards. Many of them have been in the military service in Germany. The person who, at their first assembling, led them to the field, is ninety-seven years of age; has been forty years in the regular service, and in seventeen pitched battles; and the drummer is eighty-four. In lieu of a cockade, they wear in their hats a black crape, as expressive of their sorrow for the mournful events which have occasioned them; at their late time of life, to take arms against our brethren, in order to preserve that liberty which they left their native Country to enjoy. A correspondent, who lately saw them perform their exercise for several hours, says, they discovered such a sober firmness in their countenances, and such vigour and address in handling their arms and performing their evolutions, as filled him with the highest respect and esteem for this truly venerable band.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE COMMITTEE OF TRYON COUNTY, NEW-YORK, TO COL. GUY JOHNSON.

According to the example of the Counties in this and the neighbouring Colonies, the people of the District we represent have met in a peaceable manner to consider of the present dispute with the Mother Country and the Colonies, signed a General Association, and appointed us a Committee to meet in order to consult the common safety of our rights and liberties, which are infringed in a most enormous manner, by enforcing oppressive and unconstitutional Acts of the British Parliament, by an armed force in the Massachusetts-Bay.

Was it any longer a doubt that we are oppressed by the Mother Country, and that it is the avowed design of the Ministers to enslave us, we might, perhaps, be induced to use argument to point out in what particulars we conceive that it is the birthright of English subjects to be exempted from all taxes, except those which are laid on them by their Representatives, and think we have a right, not only by the laws and Constitution of England, to meet for the purpose we have done. Which meeting we probably would have postponed awhile, had there been the least kind of probability that the Petition of the General Assembly would have been noticed more than the united petition of almost the whole Continent of America, by their Delegates in Congress; which, so far from being anywise complied with, was treated with superlative contempt by the Ministry, and fresh oppressions were, and are, daily heaped upon us. Upon which principles, principles which are undeniable, we have been appointed to consult methods to contribute what little lies in our power to save our devoted Country from ruin and devastation; which, with the assistance of Divine Providence, it is our fixed and determined resolution to do; and, if called upon, we shall be foremost in sharing the toil and danger of the field. We consider New-England suffering in the common cause, and commiserate their distressed situation; and we should be wanting in our duty to our Country and to ourselves, if we were any longer backward in announcing our determination to the world.

We know that some of the members of this Committee have been charged with compelling people to come into the measures which we have adopted, and with drinking treasonable toasts. But as we are convinced that these reports are false and malicious, spread by our enemies with the sole intent to lessen us in the esteem of the world, and as we are conscious of being guilty of no crime, and of having barely done our duty; we are entirely unconcerned as to any thing that is said of us, or can be done with us. We should, however, be careless of our character, did we not wish to detect the despicable wretch who could be so base as to charge us with things which we never have entertained the most distant thoughts of. We are not ignorant of the very great importance of your office, as Superintendent of the Indians, and, therefore, it is no more our duty than inclination to protect you in the discharge of the duty of your proper province, and we meet you with pleasure, in behalf of ourselves and our constituents, to thank you for meeting the Indians in the upper parts of the County, which may be the means of easing the people of the remainder of their fears on this account, and prevent the Indians committing irregularities on their way down to Guy-Park. And we beg of you to use your endeavours with the Indians to dissuade them from interfering in the dispute with the Mother Country and the Colonies. We cannot think that, as you and your family possess very large estates in this County, you are unfavourable to American freedom, although you may differ with us in the mode of obtaining a redress of grievances. Permit us further to observe, that we cannot pass over in silence the interruption which the people of the Mohawk District met in their meeting; which, we are informed, was conducted in a peaceable manner; and the inhuman treatment of a man whose only crime was being faithful to his employers, and refusing to give an account of the receipt of certain papers to persons who had not the least colour of right to demand any thing of that kind. We assure you, that we are much concerned about it, as two important rights of English subjects are thereby infringed, to wit: a right to meet, and to obtain all the intelligence in their power.

TO MR. JOHN HOLT.

New-York, June 2, 1775.

SIR: We have seen with that satisfaction which we believe every British Constitutionist must feel at beholding your name on the Address which you printed against unlawful Standing Armies. You have done right; for the abettors of despotism cannot legally prosecute, though they may censure and dislike you for your honest boldness in conveying, through the channel of your press, the instruction which was much wanted concerning deserters.

That in the Colonies no soldier can be lawfully detained against his will, or punished in any case by military officers, under colour of any act of the British Parliament only; that now all soldiers are under the sole protection of the civil power of such of the British Colonies where they may be respectively stationed; and that whether the soldiers choose to remain in or desert from the King's service, it is highly criminal and absurd in us not to protect them in their civil rights against the oppression of their tyrannical masters, or the usurpations of unlawful courts-martial. All these, Sir, are self-evident truths. And yet our citizens were alarmed on Saturday last, by a party of soldiers who sallied out of our barracks, seized a deserter in the street, and forcibly dragged him to their hold, where, it is said, the officer who received him swore the deserter should be "shot or whipped to death." A quiet application (too quiet, doubtless) was made to one of the officers; for, the deserter is still detained, and may be very soon transported elsewhere. Not long ago a deputation of four men from a Connecticut detachment, which did not stay here, was very differently received at the same barracks by an officer of the same corps. A deserter was peremptorily demanded there, and the officer immediately delivered him to the deputation. Shall we behave with less spirit than our neighbours? Must we be reduced to call on them for assistance?

The audacious attack on the person of the deserter, violently taken by the soldiery on Saturday last, was certainly intended to keep as long as possible in their state of delusion, the soldiery, who begin to doubt the local force of the abominable edict, under pretence of which many of their comrades have been most iniquitously "shot or whipped to death!" And shall destruction be the lot of men who would avoid shedding the blood of their brethren, our own blood, and fly to us for protection against that unnatural command? God forbid!

As military men cannot now exercise over the soldiers stationed in this Colony any lawful authority independent of our own established courts of judicature, we think it very necessary to inform you, that many of our fellow-citizens, ancient sons of liberty, as well as ourselves, expect that some orthodox casuist amongst your readers will speedily determine, and without evasion, whether or not to apprehend deserters in defiance of our laws, be out of the line of that peaceable behaviour which the Continental Congress lately fixed as the criterion of our future operations respecting the Regulars who are permitted to remain in our barracks; and if yea, what must be done for the safety of those who have been apprehended, and for our own?

A CLUB OF CONGRESSIONISTS.

NO STANDING ARMY IN THE BRITISH COLONIES; OR, AN ADDRESS TO THE INHABITANTS OF THE COLONY OF NEW-YORK AGAINST UNLAWFUL STANDING ARMIES.

"Resolved, nemine contradicente, That the keeping a Standing Army in these Colonies, in times of peace, without the consent of the Legislature of the Colony in which such Army is kept, is against law."—Proclamation of the Continental Congress.

Brethren, Friends, and Countrymen:

The sanguinary schemes of the present Administration have been sealed with the approbation of the late ministerial Parliament. Every vessel that came to this or the neighbouring ports, since the proceedings of our late Congress were published in London, brought us fresh intelligence of the hostile measures resolved on against us. More regiments are to be sent over, some of which will be stationed in this metropolis and in New-Jersey, to support the King's friends, to intimidate and divide us, to be a check on the Southern Colonies, and, if judged practicable, to prevent their relieving our suffering brethren of the Massachusetts-Bay.

These particulars, and many more, have, doubtless, come to the knowledge of that body, commonly styled our Representatives; and yet, amongst the objects of real complaint, resolved as such by that Assembly, in their late catalogue of grievances, we do not read any of the ruinous consequences of an act of Parliament, which was solely machinated to extort the submission of all the British Colonies to every parliamentary, or, what is synonymous, to every ministerial mandate, though ever so ruinous. But it may be predicted that, sooner or later, this act will have the intended effect, should its not appearing to press upon us in a direct manner render us so inattentive, or so very selfish as to suffer its continuing to be enforced with impunity.

This introduction must point out to you, that the act, or rather edict here alluded to, is that which was made for extending to all the British Colonies on this Continent the acts of Parliament relating to mutiny and desertion in Great Britain, as likewise to maintain the discipline of His Majesty's Army, so styled, instead of its true descriptive name, the British, or National Army—an impropriety of the greatest importance to a free people, justly jealous of their honour, and conscious of their real dignity! But, to the manifest danger of the national liberty, this is little attended to by military men; too many of whom, from a field-marshal to a drummer, mistake the true sense of that phraseology, which, when at first used, was meant but as a complaint, and appeared, as it really was, perfectly harmless, before our Kings kept a Standing Army. Erroneous notions on this head are now big with ruin, it being not unfrequent to find in the military order a commissioned, as well as a non-commissioned varlet, ignorant enough to believe that he eats the King's bread, and is bound, for that very reason, implicitly to obey any command he receives from his superiours, who eat the same bread! As men of this stamp never inquire with whose bread the King himself is fed, it is judged very necessary, at this critical juncture, to awaken the attention and sensibility of many men of liberal principles, who serve in the British Army and Navy, some of whom inadvertently mention the King, and even address him, as their master.

The enemies to our Constitution, well knowing the fatal effects of the illusion which this old prejudice never fails to produce in the minds of the vulgar, surreptitiously provided themselves with the Extension Edict, before (though not long before) the late Parliament issued their inquisitorial sentences against the people of the Massachusetts-Bay. That edict demonstrates to you by what means the Ministry have determined to conduct their conspiracy against our liberty. Surely, this is a grievance of the first magnitude.

The American newspapers have informed you since that time, that Courts-Martial have dared to decree various punishments, which have been inflicted on soldiers in America; but, though such Courts-Martial acted under colour of that same illegal edict, we do not learn that any of their members, or the deluded victims that became their accomplices by executing the felonious sentences, have been indicted for their respective crimes! Nay, have not such unlawful Courts-Martial been suffered in our metropolis to exercise the same illegal authority?

About the beginning of the last war, an Administration, which had formed no design against our liberty, acted on very different principles, to prevent the mutiny and desertion of the British forces in North America. The Minister sent circular directions to most of the American Governours, for procuring temporary acts, which, as they manifestly tended to the welfare and safety of the whole British Empire, were cheerfully granted. The Legislatures to which such applications were made, extended to their respective territories the acts of Parliament for punishing mutiny and desertion, &c. Those acts afterwards received the Royal assent; but the legal force of every such temporary act has long since expired. They were granted with the same caution that acts of a similar nature pass in Great Britain, where the Lords and Commons know, that the national liberty might be easily destroyed should they declare acts of such importance, perpetual. The Legislature can give no lawful authority to such acts of perpetual duration, any more than they can lawfully surrender the liberties of the people. These have, in reserve, an inalienable right to ratify, or annual every act of their delegates to legislative assemblies.

The fair proceedings of the Administration above mentioned, are of publick notoriety. They not only prove, in the most authentick manner, that Administration then believed the British Parliament had no right to bind us in all cases whatsoever, but that the King and his Ministers were solicitous to demonstrate the uprightness of their intentions—that they would not violate any of our constitutional rights, by attempting to bind us in any case whatsoever, without our legal consent.

The anti-British junto, being sensible the legal expiration of those temporary acts of the Colonies was an invincible obstacle to their projects of depredation, so artfully conducted themselves in, and out of Parliament, that their dark designs were not suspected. For this reason, the patriotick minority, who did not think that more regiments were intended to be sent over to America, made little or no opposition to the Extension Edict. This shows you, my brethren, how cautious you ought to be of your friends themselves. They may be sincere, but they do not feel!

Let us see now what our late venerable Congress did for us—they who felt with us the innumerable evils that are inseparable from a Standing Army not dependant on ourselves. Their ninth resolve expressly declares, that to keep such Army is unlawful, and consequently proclaims the nullity of the Extension Edict, in the comprehensive words which are prefixed to this address, although the consequence which results from the truth contained in them, being founded on the self-evident principles of universal jurisprudence, that respectable authority might have been omitted here, without the least danger. This consequence is acknowledged by the uniform proceedings of every civilized Country relative to distributive justice, as well as in the judgment of every person who is not in a state of insanity. Whatever is done any where against law, cannot be supported there, by law. It is a mere nullity.

We have often been astonished at the superlative effrontery of ministerial hirelings; and yet, it is improbable any caviller of that tribe will be so irreverent and scurrilous as to urge, that the ninth resolve of the Congress does not affect the extension edict. However, should you meet with that wretch, read to him, and intrench yourselves within the tenth resolve in their Bill of Rights, from which the following quotation is inserted here, to support the ninth resolve, and several other parts of this address, to wit:

"All and each of which," that is to say, the rights mentioned in the nine preceding resolves, "the aforesaid Deputies, in behalf of themselves and their constituents, do claim, demand, and insist on, as their indubitable rights and liberties, which cannot be legally taken from them, altered, or abridged by any power whatever, without their own consent, by their Representatives, in their several Provincial Legislatures.

"In the course of our inquiry we find many infringements and violations of the foregoing rights, which, from an ardent desire that harmony and a mutual intercourse of affection and interest may be restored, we pass over for the present, and proceed to state such acts and measures as have been adopted since the last war, which demonstrate a system formed to enslave America."

Now, can a fair reasoner assert that, notwithstanding the declared illegality of the infringements alluded to in the preceding quotation, the declaration implies, that the Congress admitted the legal operation of any such act, till it should be repealed? That it is to be so understood, though the whole of the proceedings shows that it is feared there will be a civil war, unless they be repealed? Though the repeal be solicited, not to annul such acts, (they being all illegal, and every one of them, whether enumerated or not, being consequently null and void,) but "to restore harmony," that is, to prevent that civil war which is justly feared, unless the violences which have been already committed to enforce those unlawful, illegal, and null acts, be discontinued?

If those men who, solemnly appealing to God and the equity of mankind for the justice of our cause, declared to you and the other members of the British Nation that "to keep a Standing Army in these Colonies without our consent, is against law," had justified the least suspicion of their admitting that it was not against law to punish, without our consent, mutiny and desertion in such unlawful Standing Army: Believe me, my dear, devoted countrymen, the most iniquitous Administration that can be conceived, the present Administration itself, never would wish to obstruct their proceedings.

The Extension Act is unlawful, illegal, and null, being made to support the discipline of an unlawful Standing Army: and should a Standing Army be made lawful in any Colony, (which God avert,) the Extension Act would, nevertheless, remain unlawful, illegal, and null in that Colony, until the Legislature should have given it their local lawfulness, legality, and therefore existence. But you have no reason to fear this; for self-preservation will effectually prevent the most abandoned traitor from making a motion of that tendency in any American legislative assembly, against the safety of a people protected by the British Constitution.

Regardless of every principle of justice and policy, the British Parliament are trying against our liberty experiments which, if hazarded against the people under their immediate legislative authority, would infallibly involve Great Britain in a civil war, and might produce another revolution there. The King is vested with the supreme command of all the forces of the Nation, wherever they may be stationed; but he has no legal coercive authority any where over the soldiers or sailors, otherwise than by local laws, made from time to time, to that effect. And, as the safety of every constitutional right depends on the limitation of that authority, the other branches of the Legislature grant him but temporary acts, for maintaining the discipline of the army and navy, by coercive laws, and for restraining or enlarging the power of Courts-Martial in both these departments, within the limits of that Legislature by which they are granted.

The limited duration of those laws being as short as it appears, from occasional circumstances, to be consistent with the publick safety, the treasonable designs of Administration may be counteracted with more facility than if such laws were perpetual. After the legal expiration of those acts, the King's lawful authority over the national forces expiring of course, can he punish, or detain any body in that service, since Courts-Martial are abolished by law, as they now are in the British Colonies? And if the King would attempt to retain them in his own service, how could he accomplish it before he had usurped an arbitrary power over the purses of the people? Could he satisfy capricious demands, which would increase in proportion to the knowledge that every man in his army and navy would have of the embarrassments of their master? No! for those salutary limitations are solely intended to preserve inviolate our rights of opening or shutting up our purses, as we think fit. They have till now prevented such usurpations, which, to exercise with safety, is the ultimate end of every other usurpation that ever was exercised by any tyrant in the world. It was but to attain that end the selfish Parliament of Great Britain have so flagitiously exceeded the limits of lawful power.

If you admit, as lawful, the extension illegally decreed by a ministerial Parliament, and machinated but as a provisional edict to insure the success of measures resolved on, relatively to the proscription of the Bostonians, and other proscriptions in petto; if you only tolerate its illegal operation any longer, the King will not experience those difficulties which would thwart his arbitrary projects in Great Britain, were his usurpations to begin there. His Parliament might pay us the compliment of renewing the extension and other temporary acts of their own sole legislation, for the sole purpose of raising a revenue to lighten their own burdens, which luxury and corruption have already prodigiously increased, and which your tameness will increase to a degree which it is now beyond the power of calculators to ascertain. But you may rest assured that, in a very short time, Administration will sport with your liberties, and, soon after, with those of the whole British Empire. The opprobrious and degrading denomination of Province, which now is but an innocent and unmeant misapplication of a foreign word adopted in our language, will significantly describe the real state of every British Colony, and, indeed, of every Shire in Great Britain and Ireland. Never forget that about two years ago a crowned miscreant compelled the states of Sweden, the Parliament of that Country, to release him from his coronation oath! His success may tempt others to commit the same sacrilege.

Our enemies are now terrified at the superiority of strength which the justice of our cause gives us over them in the present contest. They will be amazed at the effect of their flimsy artifices, if, by tolerating the extension edict, we stupidly subject ourselves to a set of men upon whom we can have no check; who, having exempted themselves and their tools from the power of our tribunals, will drag before theirs, such of us who may indicate the least inclination to a better change. Then, our disguised friends, and our open foes, united in the British Parliament, will, with iron hands and unfeeling hearts, "bind us in all cases whatsoever." We shall be in the condition of the Swedes, French, Spaniards, and most other Nations, where, now and then, an honest man may regret the loss of his natural rights, but where an attempt to recover them would be next to madness.

It will be a melancholy reflection to us, perhaps for many years, that no strictures have yet been tendered respecting the destructive tendency of the extension edict. It is expected that the tried patriotism of our ablest writers will inspire them to hold it up to publick view in its most minute circumstances. The silence now complained of dismays our friends, and secretly elates our enemies on the other side of the water; it may, in some measure, exculpate the Magistrates and Grand-Juries, who have not yet brought to justice any of the persons who are liable to be prosecuted in their respective districts for crimes committed there, under the unlawful sanction of Parliamentary edicts.

But, every such edict, or illegal act of Parliament, being void and null in law, respecting its operation amongst us, it clearly follows, that all the robberies and burglaries committed by Custom-House Officers and others, under colour of several edicts of a similar nullity; that all the murders and violences perpetrated under the directions of illegal Courts-Martial; that the oppression of the soldiers, who now are legally under the sole protection of the civil power of the British Colonies on this Continent, where they are unlawfully stationed by a despotick Administration; and that the enormities which Custom-House Officers, and illegal Courts of Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty, or which the deluded soldiery in the ministerial service, have already committed, or may hereafter commit, shall be wholly chargeable to the pusillanimous, or treasonable connivance of the Colonists themselves, if such crimes remain unnoticed by those whose sworn, and therefore whose indispensable duty it is, to bring them to light and trial.

O my countrymen, will you cease to incur the contempt of the world? Will you no longer continue the jest of your enemies? Listen no more to trembling delinquents, who artfully whisper to you, that your Courts of Justice would quash such indictments. For God's sake, do justice to the understanding and integrity of your Judges. Consider, and you will clearly see, that were they as corrupt as we know them to be otherwise, they would not dare, at this juncture, to betray their iniquitous partiality. Nay, the most profligate member of our Assembly, though he could depend on the concurrence of a majority of the same corrupt principles, would not dare now to abuse representation so far as to move for a bill tending to screen, directly or indirectly, under the illusory declaration of your assent, manifested by them only, any of the obnoxious acts which the late Congress reprobated, as demonstratory of "a system formed to enslave America."

Timid well-wishers to their Country may object, that our zeal will be frustrated by an unprincipled Governour; that, not daring with a high hand to impede the prosecution of criminals, protected by himself, he will stretch prerogative even to the pardon of irremissible crimes, none of which are more so than those by which our sacred Constitution is endangered. But, may not the well known fate of a Porteus check traitors, by convincing them that they cannot always shelter themselves under the wings of prerogative? And should this prove ineffectual, our holy religion teaches us, that no worldly consideration ought to deter the just from doing his duty. Our Committees, and, what is much safer, Colonial Conventions, vested with discretionary powers, will, at last, baffle the arts of ministerial tools, and work our political salvation.

If there be amongst us a conscientious lawyer, he certainly will point out to the officers of the unlawful Standing Army, stationed in the British Colonies, the imminent danger they run by detaining soldiers in North America, under the illegal extension edict. As to pettifoggers, we know they are seduced by the prospect of a plentiful harvest, and that self-interest, not justice, determines them to act, whatever side they undertake to defend. If the Minister do not value these enough to retain them in his service for supporting the unlawful acts, they will of course rejoice at the almost innumerable actions of a civil nature which may be grounded on the local nullity of Parliamentary edicts, and commenced by soldiers for unjust detention, loss of time, and unpaid labour; or for various trespasses, unjustifiable before tribunals which follow the British system of law.

All injuries sustained by any person in this Colony, in consequence of the same unlawful sanction, may be redressed, and the same offences will be prevented for the future, if we have but sense and firmness enough to apply as we should, and where we should. It is never too late to do our duty. Let us trust the event to the omnipotent Ruler of the universe, and He will reward our perseverance.

If, through ignorance or inattention, any of you ever gave a verdict in contradiction to the fundamentals of justice; if he admitted the force of any act of Parliament to which your own Colonial laws have given no such force, that man must be very unhappy whenever he reflects on the injustice he has occasioned; but he is guiltless—he deserves compassion. It is far different with jurymen, who knew the local nullity of acts of Parliament, and by their verdicts authorized their illegal operation. Those jurymen, and the judges who designedly suffered it—who have suppressed the warnings and instructions which they ought to have given, and strengthened with their eloquence—have been bribed. Whether hope, fear, avarice, or any other worldly motive influences such judges and jurymen—they have been bribed. They stand guilty before God and man, of wilful and corrupt perjury.

Do not believe, my dear countrymen, that, infatuated as the junto may be, they hope that the Continental Association can be dissolved by the external, the seeming defection of any Colony, were it even ours, which is nearly central, and the most liable to such suspicions. A Governour may bribe the majority of an Assembly, who fancy that they represent a people not virtuous enough to exercise their rights of choosing their representatives and elective officers by ballot. Illegal warrants may be issued, and remain unquashed for a considerable time, to bewilder the bulk of the people with the innumerable doubts which, it is evident, will arise from the untried illegality of those proceedings; to intimidate and oppress, till the bench determine the question; and, in the mean while, to deter the injured from prosecuting such daring conspirators.

He may bribe a few trading justices, and seduce other sons of corruption and power, who hold, or expect to hold magistracy or other offices during pleasure, and are as much afraid of Colonial Conventions as the Minister is of Continental Congresses. But he cannot bribe the body of the people, in whom, originally and finally, lies the sovereign power, represented for their benefit only by one single person.

All the Colonies, nay, the internal force of any single Colony, can punish a few venal officers for abusing the authority with which they are entrusted by their superiours, who are themselves subordinate to another superiour, likewise entrusted by, and (as glorious experience shows) accountable, as well as every one of his dependants, to the people at large, whether they meet in one single spot, or in their respective Districts. The patriotick spirit of the American Britons cannot be subdued. They will exercise their constitutional right to hold Conventions for their safety; a right which cannot be questioned, without openly denying the legal title of the Hanoverian line of our Kings to the British Crown. Therefore, my dear countrymen, do not basely relinquish that sacred right, when you ought to exercise it. You know that, should you be oppressed by a wicked knot of traitors, you will be delivered by your happier neighbours as soon as their assistance is required.

The arch fiend to our Constitution knows all this. The Colonies which delegated members to the late Congress, have already appalled him, that insolent, cruel, and cowardly wretch, who, a year ago, declared by his wicked trumpet, that he would not relent "till he saw you prostrate at his feet!" Your Congress made him stoop to proposals, which he well knows you will reject with disdain. He means but to divide and betray you, whom he despairs to subjugate by force. However, he will send more Troops, more indeed than he thinks it is prudent now to divulge. But it is not solely in that re-enforcement he confides. Will you believe it, my dear devoted countrymen, it is in his opinion of your folly. I shall reveal to you his grand secret—the only resource left him to extort your compliance.

Now that the vices of the Nation have reduced to a state of impotence the small portion of virtue which still remains in the British Parliament, he hopes that a superstitious reverence for that body, degenerate as it is, will continue to betray you into absurdities, and an inconsistent passiveness. He still hopes that your inattention to the extension edict will enable him at last to defeat your united forces. Your supineness justifies him in believing, and persuading his associates, that you will always tolerate the operation of that destructive edict, which is sufficient in itself to put all the others in force.

Can we, without feeling the severest stings of self-reproach, reflect on the many crimes which, since the extension act was quietly enforced, our inattention has emboldened Custom-House Officers and other sons of tyranny to commit? Oh! had criminal prosecutions been instituted in that Country where the first felony or the first degradation of human nature was committed, in defiance of our laws, and under the usurped authority of Courts-Martial, or rather, immediately after their first unwarrantable sentence was known! had soldiers been duly protected against their tyrannical masters, robberies and murders might have been prevented; our brethren at Boston could not be dragooned; we might long ago have defied the combinations of the parricidal junto, whose aim is to destroy our Constitution! We should no longer fear their dethroning our King, and fixing his crown on the head of a race of tyrants whom a patriotick Parliament justly proscribed about ninety years ago, as irreconcilable foes to the natural rights of the British Nation! With truth and security we might tell the arch fiend, "What do you think of venal Parliaments now?"

Since no sophistry can delude an incorrupted American jury; since the joint efforts of the ministerial hirelings cannot, without our connivance, hold up before the eyes of the soldiers the veil which hides from them the knowledge of their civil rights, let us instruct those deluded victims; let us openly protect them against their oppressors. If we adopt this pacifick mode of resistance, which no political casuist who has subscribed to the Revolution creed can disapprove, the Minister may send over as many Regiments as he pleases; the intended instruments of our ruin will but add to our strength and prosperity. As soon as they know it is against law to detain them in the Army, the ministerial army, there will be no obstacle to their desertion. Then, but not before, sycophants, paid to calumniate and betray the British Colonies, will in vain attempt to persuade the instructed and less credulous soldiers that we shall deliver them up to facilitate our reconciliation with the British Parliament, who will not hear of any proposal of accommodation, unless this, their sine qua non condition, be first complied with. If we adopt this generous measure, we shall enjoy the purest pleasure that can affect freemen—that of rescuing our fellow-creatures, our brethren, from disgraceful bondage. And if experience can teach us wisdom, we shall so cautiously grant temporary acts for preventing mutiny and desertion, should ever the safety of the British Empire make it again necessary to grant such acts, that the abominable project of reducing us into a state of slavery, by the means of a Standing Army, cannot enter the head of any future Minister.

The virtuous part of the British Officers themselves impatiently wait for this manifestation of our prudence. They will secretly rejoice, as Britons, at the mutiny and desertion of whole battalions, whatever they may do in their publick character to the contrary. And General Gage, whom his weakness and incapacity recommended to a perfidious Administration, who emulously extol his abilities, though they would not have employed him if a sensible man, of an established military reputation, had accepted the dishonourable command; that General, whom they have decorated but as a bound victim, may be brought to justice, and answer for the many crimes which his thirst of power inspired him to perpetrate, or patronize, as the most acceptable offerings which could propitiate to him his tutelar Deity at St. James's.

It is not yet too late to pursue this plan of philanthropy and self-defence; but we must exert ourselves with activity and constancy. If we lose time, the soldiers, not knowing the local nullity of an edict made for the purpose of detaining them against law, on an unnatural service which they abhor, will be afraid of being treacherously delivered up, in case they desert. They will not cease to be awed by illegal Courts-Martial, though if they were properly instructed they would not fear, but despise, the authority usurped by those Courts; and the soldiers who have been injured by them, or by any military officer, would obtain legal redress, should they make proper application.

If we suffer them to be misled by a sacrilegious interpretation of their military oath, from which they are released as soon as the Army is kept against law; if we scandalously forsake them, in vain shall we cry out to them in the strain of the Roman Patriot,

Whither, oh! whither do you madly run?
'Tis not that Britons, with avenging flame,
Might burn the rival of the British name;
But that the Stuarts should their vows enjoy,
And George, with impious hand, himself destroy!

When they are ordered to butcher us, and destroy our habitations, then they will not listen to us; self-preservation, and even revenge, must impel them to imbrue their hands in our blood, and our destruction or slavery, attended with the curses of posterity, may be the fatal consequences of our infatuation, in neglecting to seize an opportunity to vanquish our enemies without shedding the blood of our friends.

AN ANTI-DESPOT.

ROBERT AND JOHN MURRAY TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 2, 1775.

SIR: Herewith you have a memorial to the Congress now assembled, together with a copy of the papers laid before the Continental Congress. We should take it as a favour, if you would lay the whole before the gentlemen as soon as possible. Your compliance will much oblige your humble servants,

ROBERT & JOHN MURRAY.

P. V. B. Livingston, Esq., President of the Congress.

Memorial of ROBERT MURRAY and JOHN MURRAY to the Honourable the Provincial Congress of NEW-YORK.

GENTLEMEN: The annexed papers are copies of what we laid before the honourable Continental Congress, in consideration of which they came to the following Resolution:

"In Congress, May 27, 1775.

"Upon motion, the Memorial of Robert Murray and John Murray, desiring to be restored to their former situation, with respect to their commercial privileges, was taken into consideration, and after some time spent thereon,

"Resolved, That where any person hath been, or shall be, adjudged by a Committee to have violated the Continental Association, and such offender shall satisfy the Convention of the Colony where the offence was or shall be committed, or the Committee of the Parish of St. John's, in the Colony of Georgia, if the offence be committed there, of his contrition for his offence, and sincere resolution to conform to the Association for the future, the said Convention or Committee of the Parish of St. John's aforesaid, may settle the terms upon which he may be restored to the favour and forgiveness of the publick, and that the terms be published.

"A true copy from the Minutes:

"CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary."

From the foregoing it appears, that to procure restoration to publick favour, we have no tribunal but yours to appeal to. The annexed papers exhibit a full state of our case, which we humbly submit to your consideration, not doubting but that in your wisdom you will afford us such relief as will be consistent with humanity and the publick good.

ROBERT MURRAY,
JOHN MURRAY.

MEMORIAL OF ROBERT AND JOHN MURRAY TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

To the Honourable the Continental Congress now sitting at PHILADELPHIA:

The Memorial of ROBERT MURRAY and JOHN MURRAY, of the City of NEW-YORK, Merchants, humbly sheweth:

That the memorialists being owners of the ship Dutchess of Gordon, and expecting she would be in London by the time their orders could arrive there, did, on the 7th of September last, by a letter to Philip Sansom, direct him to put certain articles on board the said ship, on account of the memorialists, together with what freight he could procure for her, and to despatch her immediately for New-York, as may appear by an extract of the letter hereunto annexed, marked No. 1.

That the memorialists, so far from entertaining any design to counteract the measures recommended by the late Continental Congress, did, as soon as they were informed thereof, countermand the above-mentioned orders, except as to such goods as might, in consequence thereof, have actually become the property of the memorialists and their partner, the said Philip Sansom; for the truth of which they beg leave to refer to the annexed extract of a letter to the said Philip Sansom, dated the 5th of October, 1774, marked No. 2.

That in pursuance of the above directions, there were shipped on board the Beulah, (a vessel belonging to the memorialists) at London, sundry goods, on account of the memorialists and their partner, with which goods the said vessel sailed for New-York on the 5th or 6th day of December last, and arrived there the 16th or 17th of February following.

That on the arrival of the said vessel and cargo, which happened after the time limited by the Congress for the continuance of our importations, the memorialists having no intention to land their goods contrary to the terms of the Association, would have cheerfully submitted to what they conceived to be the spirit and design thereof, and were therefore willing, and did offer to unload their cargo and ship it in another bottom, under the inspection of some of the Committee here, and to send it to some place not within the restriction imposed by the Congress; and the memorialists beg leave to refer to the annexed copy of their letter, sent to the Committee upon this subject, marked No. 3, containing more at large their proposal, and the reasons on which it was founded.

The memorialists beg leave further to observe, that they did verily believe their construction of this part of the Association was consistent with the spirit and design thereof; and had the Committee here been of that opinion, such a mode of compliance would have greatly alleviated the loss of the memorialists, as they might, in that case, have shipped their cargo away in a small vessel, instead of sending it in a vessel not above one-third full.

That, reduced, as they thought, to an unnecessary hardship, and chagrined with the disappointment, the memorialists rashly formed the design of secretly landing some small part of the cargo, and were so imprudent as to carry the same into execution. That before a discovery was made thereof, and at a time when the memorialists had great reason to suppose the place where the goods were deposited would not be discovered, to wit: the 13th of March last, they made a declaration of the fact, and offered to give the Committee a full account of the particulars, on oath, which they accordingly did on the 15th of the same month, when all the goods landed had been delivered up to the Committee of Elizabethtown, and the disposition thereof submitted entirely to the directions of the Committees at New-York; all which particulars will more fully appear from Holt's New-York Journal, of the 23d March, hereunto also annexed, to which the memorialists refer.

The memorialists having proceeded thus far, and manifested their intention to satisfy the publick in any reasonable way that could be expected, as well as to express their contrition for the hasty and imprudent measure they had taken; and to prevent their future commercial intercourse with others from becoming the means of other infractions of the Association, the memorialists did shut up their store, discontinue all trade, shut up their own goods under the seals of certain persons here, transfer their commission business to others, and give up their wharf as free for the use of the navigation of this City, until they should be relieved in the premises by the interposition of the Congress. As vouchers of these facts, the memorialists refer to the annexed printed publications, marked No. 5 and No. 6.

The foregoing is a true state of the facts relative to this unhappy affair in which the memorialists are involved; and as their commercial concerns were large and extensive, at least amounting to £50,000 per annum, this total dereliction of business has become an immense loss to them; and if unrelieved, cannot but terminate in their ruin.

That Mr. Philip Sansom, their partner, who has been distinguished for his warm attachment to American liberty, though not concerned in the indiscreet step taken by the memorialists, is yet involved in all its fatal consequences. That besides the weight of distress and sufferings to which the memorialists themselves have been exposed, not only from their great losses, but the resentment of an incensed people, their present situation must be attended with a train of evils to the innocent who are connected with them in business; their creditors must suffer; those who depended on their large commercial business for bread, are turned out of employ, and the publick deprived of the advantages which necessarily flow from a continuance of their trade and commerce.

That the memorialists presume the American Congress, from the great and important ends of the Convention, will move only on publick principles, and therefore think it improper to address their tender and benevolent feelings, not doubting but every generous and humane sentiment towards the memorialists, which is consistent with the publick good, will have their due influence in a determination of this subject, in which the memorialists are so deeply interested.

Permit them, then, to hope that this august and respectable body, from a consideration of the conduct of the memorialists in this affair; from their utmost endeavours to atone, in some measure, for their indiscretion; from the great and complicated distress they have already sustained; from the circumstance that the innocent are deeply involved in their sufferings; and that a continuation of their sufferings can only perpetuate their calamities, without advancing the important ends of publick safety, will, in their wisdom, reinstate the memorialists in their former situation, with respect to their commercial privileges.

ROBT. MURRAY,
JOHN MURRAY.

No. 1.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO PHILIP SANSOM, DATED NEW-YORK, SEPTEMBER 7, 1774.

As we expect the Dutchess will be with you by the time this reaches thy hands, we have thought it most prudent to order out some bulky articles, such as we apprehend will pay a good freight, in consequence of which, we have now enclosed thee a list of such articles as we would have thee send out in her immediately, with what freight offers.

No. 2.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO PHILIP SANSOM, DATED OCTOBER 5, 1774.

The foregoing is a copy of our last, per the Thetis, to the contents of which refer you. She sailed the 2d current, since which we find it to be the sense of the Congress, that all orders that are gone may be suspended or countermanded; in consequence of which, we desire that all our orders sent may be countermanded, except such as are already become our property. Those we would have you ship immediately, by the first vessel for this port, giving the preference to one of our own, if there.

No. 3.

February 20, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We being sole owners of the Ship Beulah, from London, do propose, (with your approbation,) that the ship be regularly entered at the Custom-House; in which case we pledge to you our word and honour, that no part of the goods shall be landed in this Province; but the same shall be forthwith reshipped and sent off in some other bottom. If it shall be thought more satisfactory, we consent that any number of your body be on board the ship while here, to see that the above engagement is strictly observed.

This proposition, we think, must appear reasonable, as being not inconsistent with the resolution of the Congress; and therefore we are led to hope it will meet not only with your approbation, but that of the inhabitants of this City in general. The Congress having been silent as to what bottom the goods shall be returned in, probably meant to expose the owners of the ship and cargo to as little inconvenience as possible, by leaving that matter to their discretion, which, from the terms in which their resolve is expressed, seems evidently to be the case. Their words are: "If any goods, wares, or merchandises, shall be imported after the first day of February, the same ought forthwith to be sent back again without breaking any of the packages thereof." This, we conceive, manifestly declares that the goods, (which are the object of this resolve,) are to be imported after the first day of February; but as there cannot be a legal importation without an entry at the Custom-House, it follows that such entry is presupposed and implied in their resolution; and the more especially, as they direct that the packages shall be sent back unopened; for, as opening the packages without an entry, would make the ship liable to a seizure, the Congress could hardly have thought such rash conduct in the owners to be probable; and, therefore, from this prohibitory clause, they must have considered the goods as in a situation in which the packages might be lawfully opened, which plainly includes the idea of a previous entry at the Custom-House. By permitting, therefore, such entry under the guards proposed, we think that not only the letter, but the spirit and intention of the resolution of the Congress will be fully complied with.

It has, and probably may again be insisted on against this construction of the resolve, that the first article of the Association prohibits the importation of goods from Great Britain, &c., after the first day of December; and therefore, that it must be absurd to suppose the Congress could intend an importation after the first day of February, in the sense we contend for, as it would imply a contradiction. Whatever force there may appear to be in this argument at first view, it is entirely taken off by the explanatory clause in the tenth article, which declares, that in case any merchant, trader, or other persons, shall import any goods after the first day of December, and before the first day of February, the same ought forthwith, at the election of the owner, to be either reshipped or delivered up to the Committee of the County, &c. That an importation, in the proper and legal sense of the word, is here meant, cannot admit of a doubt, since neither of the alternatives imposed on the owner, of reshipping or delivering the goods to the Committee, can possibly take place without an actual unloading of the cargo, for which purpose an entry was absolutely necessary, and therefore must have been intended by the Congress.

As to the objection that proper evidences cannot be given to the neighbouring Colonies, that the goods are sent back unless they go in the same bottom, we think it must be effectually removed, by having the matter transacted under the inspection of some of the Committee, in the way we propose. Besides, we cannot help observing, that the grand object of the Congress seems to have been the sending the goods back; and as it must be immaterial in what vessel they are carried, this may well account for their leaving that circumstance to the discretion of the owner. And as we are disposed to comply not only with the express words of the Congress, but likewise with the very spirit thereof, we shall therefore think ourselves ill used, if we are obliged to carry the goods back in the same bottom, which will be laying a very heavy burthen on, that we and many more believe was not intended by the Congress.

We have no objection to your publishing this letter, as we are free the publick should have an opportunity of judging thereof. We may further inform you, that the proprietors of the goods are quite free that they be reshipped in the manner here proposed.

MURRAY, SANSOM, & Co.,
WM. M. BUSSELL.

JOHN LAMB TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As I embarked very early in the cause of liberty, and have ever defended the rights of America by every means in my power, so I am still actuated, both by principle and inclination, to exert myself to the utmost of my abilities, in preserving the freedom of my country; and as it is highly probable that troops will soon be raised in this Colony, I take the liberty to tender you my best services. Should you think me worthy your confidence, I flatter myself that my future conduct will evince it has not been placed on an improper object. At the same time, I must beg leave to observe, that I should incline to serve in the Artillery department, having made that branch of military science more particularly my study.

I am, with the greatest respect, gentlemen, your most humble servant,
JOHN LAMB.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York.

ETHAN ALLEN TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Crown Point, June 2, 1775.

RESPECTABLE GENTLEMEN: Before this time you have undoubtedly received intelligence not only of the taking the fortified places on Lake Champlain, but also the armed sloop and boats therein, and the taking possession of a schooner, (the property of Major Skene,) which we have armed and manned, and of the conversion of them, with a large train of artillery, to the defence of the liberty and constitutional rights of America. You have likewise been undoubtedly informed that the expedition was undertaken at the special encouragement and request of a number of respectable gentlemen in the Colony of Connecticut. The pork forwarded to subsist the Army by your Honours' direction, evinces your approbation of the procedure; and as it was a private expedition, and common fame reports that there are a number of overgrown Tories in the Province, your Honours will the readier excuse me in not first taking your advice in the matter, lest the enterprises might have been prevented by their treachery. It is here reported that some of them have been lately savingly converted, and that others have lost their influence. If, in those achievements, there be any thing honorary, the subjects of your Government, viz: the New-Hampshire settlers, are justly entitled to a large share, as they had a great majority of numbers of the soldiery, as well as the command in making those acquisitions; and as your Honours' justify and approve the same, I desire and expect your Honours already have, or soon will lay before the Grand Continental Congress, the great disadvantage it must inevitably be to the Colonies to evacuate Lake Champlain, and give up to the enemies of our Country those invaluable acquisitions, the key of either Canada or of our Country, according as which party holds the same in possession and makes a proper improvement of it. The key is ours as yet, and provided the Colonies would suddenly push an Army of two or three thousand men into Canada, they might make a conquest of all that would oppose them in the extensive Province of Quebeck, except a re-enforcement from England should prevent it. Such a diversion would weaken General Gage or insure us of Canada. I wish to God America would, at this critical juncture, exert herself agreeable to the indignity offered her by a tyrannical Ministry. She might rise on eagles' wings, and mount up to glory, freedom, and immortal honour, if she did but know and exert her strength. Fame is now hovering over her head. A vast continent must now sink to slavery, poverty, horror, and bondage, or rise to unconquerable freedom, immense wealth, inexpressible felicity, and immortal fame.

I will lay my life on it, that with fifteen hundred men and a proper train of artillery, I will take Montreal. Provided I could thus be furnished, and if an Army could command the field, it would be no insuperable difficulty to take Quebeck. This object should be pursued, though it should take ten thousand men to accomplish the end proposed; for England cannot spare but a certain number of her Troops. Nay, she has but a small number that are disciplined, and it is as long as it is broad; the more that are sent to Quebeck, the less they can send to Boston, or any other part of the continent. And there will be this unspeakable advantage in directing the war into Canada, that, instead of turning the Canadians and Indians against us, (as is wrongly suggested by many,) it would unavoidably attach and connect them to our interest. Our friends in Canada can never help us till we first help them, except in a passive or inactive manner. There are now about seven hundred regular Troops in Canada. I have lately had sundry conferences with the Indians; they are very friendly. Captain Abraham Ninham, a Stockbridge Indian, and Mr. Winthrop Hoit, who has sundry years lived with the Caughnawagoes in the capacity of a prisoner, and was made an adopted son to a motherly squaw of that tribe, have both been gone ten days to treat with the Indians, as our ambassadors of peace and friendship. I expect, in a few weeks, to hear from them. By them I sent a friendly letter to the Indians, which Mr. Hoit can explain to them in Indian. The thing that so unites the temper of the Indians to us, is our taking the sovereignty of Lake Champlain. They have wit enough to make a good bargain, and stand by the strongest side. Much the same may be said of the Canadians. They have no personal controversy with us, but act on political principles. If we evacuate Lake Champlain and retire to Lake George, Governour Carleton can by intrigue, and will not fail to draw them into his interest. If we hold the supremacy, we shall do the same, for cunning and power are but the same thing, be it exercised by either Carleton or us: but cunning without power can hold no equal contest with that which is armed with it.

It may be thought that to push an Army into Canada would be too premature and imprudent. If so, I propose to make a stand at the Isle-au-Noix, which the French fortified by intrenchment the last war, and greatly fatigued our large Army to take it; it is about fifteen miles this side St. John's, and is an island in the river, on which a small artillery placed would command it. An establishment of a frontier so far north, would not only better secure our own frontier, but put it into our power better to work our policy with the Canadians and Indians; or, if need be, to make incursions into the territory of Canada; the same as they could into our Country, provided they had the sovereignty of Lake Champlain, and had erected head quarters at or near Skeneborough. Our only having it in our power thus to make incursions into Canada, might probably be the very reason why it would be unnecessary so to do, even if the Canadians should prove more refractory than I think for. Lastly, with submission, I would propose to your Honours to raise a small regiment of Rangers, which I could easily do, and that mostly in the Counties of Albany and Char- lotte, provided your Honours should think it expedient to grant commissions, and thus regulate and put the same under pay. Probably your Honours may think this an impertinent proposal; it is truly the first favour I ever asked of the Government, and if it be granted, I shall be zealously ambitious to conduct for the best good of my Country and the honour of the Government.

I subscribe myself, gentlemen, with due respect, your Honours' most obedient humble servant,

ETHAN ALLEN.

P. S. In the narrative contained in the enclosed was too materially omitted the valour and intrepidity of Colonel James Easton, and forty-six veteran soldiers from the Massachusetts-Bay, who assisted in taking of Ticonderoga. Colonel Easton is just returned from the Provincial Congress of the Massachusetts-Bay to this place, and expects he will soon have the command of a Regiment from that Province. Yours, &c.

E. A.

ADDRESS OF THE NEW-YORK PROVINCIAL CONGRESS TO THE INHABITANTS OF QUEBECK.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 2, 1775.

Friends and Countrymen:

The Parent of the universe has divided this earth among the children of men, and drawn out the line of their habitations. The great God having ordained that all our joys and sorrows here below should proceed from the effect of human actions upon human beings, our situation has drawn together this great bond of natural dependance, and enabled us to deal out injuries and kindness to each other. We consider you as our friends, and we feel for you the affection of brothers.

The great question between Britain and her Colonies is, whether they are subjects, or whether they are slaves. The rights delivered down to us from our forefathers, the venerable laws of our Country, have subjected our own property to our own disposal, nor hath any earthly power a right to take it away. Mankind ought to be governed by the dictates of justice, not by the hand of oppression. The peaceable enjoyment of what we yet call our own, and that liberty which confers on every man the right of adoring his God in the manner which he humbly thinks most agreeable to the Divine nature—these are the objects of all our labours and all our cares. Ministerial tyranny hath endeavoured, throughout all these Colonies, to rend from us the dearest rights of humanity; and in the defence of those rights some persons have taken certain forts in this Colony, which are near your frontiers. We have heard that others have made an attack upon the post of St. John's, an attempt without our counsel or participation. And although we have taken measures for the defence of our own fortresses, yet our only intention is to prevent any hostile incursions upon us by the troops of your Province. Confident that the enemies of our King and his people will take every opportunity to excite jealousies and discord amongst us, we beseech you not to be imposed on by their artifices, but call to your remembrance the complicated horrors of a barbarous war. Avoid those measures which must plunge us both into distress, and instead of consenting to become miserable slaves, generously dare to participate with your fellow-subjects in the sweets of that security which is the glorious lot of freedom. We are, with sincere affection, your brethren and friends.

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

To the Inhabitants of the Province of Quebeck.

GENERAL GREENE TO JACOB GREENE, ESQ.

Rhode-Island Camp, June 2, 1775.

I arrived in camp on Saturday last, and found it in great commotion. A few days longer in the state of excitement in which I found our Troops, would have proved fatal to our campaign. The want of government, and of a certainty of supplies, had thrown every thing into disorder. Several Companies had clubbed their muskets in order to march home. I have made several regulations for introducing order and composing their murmurs; but it is very difficult to limit people who have had so much latitude, without throwing them into disorder. The Commissaries had been beaten off at my arrival, and were about returning home the next day. I believe there never was a person more welcome, who was so little deserving, as myself. I wish you would forward Colonel Varnum's Regiment; he will be a welcome guest in camp. I expect much from his and his troops' example.

WILLIAM LITHGOW TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress now assembled at WATERTOWN, &c., the humble Petition of WILLIAM LITHGOW shews to your Honours:

That he is an inhabitant of Georgetown, on Kennebeck River, and comes in behalf and at the request of said Town, to let your Honours know that we are in daily expectation of being plundered by cutters or armed vessels, and thus exposed to our enemy's insults; therefore humbly pray that your Honours would grant us one or two barrels or half barrels of powder, or such a quantity as in your wisdom may seem meet, as our town stock of powder, upon due examination, is found not to exceed thirty pounds. And, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

WM. LITHGOW.

Watertown, June 2, 1775.

COL. RICHARD GRIDLEY TO THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Cambridge, June 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am very sensible you are engaged in a multiplicity of business of consequence, but I shall think myself blameable in my duty if I do not urge, in the strongest terms, the necessity there is of providing an establishment for an ordnance store-keeper, conductors, and clerks, to take care to keep accounts of the stores as they receive them and deliver them, and also to make an establishment for a company of artificers to make beds for mortars, and carriages for guns, and platforms, and mending wheelbarrows, and keeping tools in repair, &c.

The want of such establishments hinders greatly the progress of the works, which I think is of great importance, and beg you will please to use your interest with the Congress, that such establishments be made immediately, if you think proper.

I am, gentlemen, with respect, your most obedient servant,
RICHARD GRIDLEY.

In Committee of Safety, Cambridge, June 2, 1775.

The above not being within the department of this Committee, they refer the same to the honourable Congress of the Colony.

BENJ. WHITE, Chairman.

NATHANIEL SHAW TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

New-London, June 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer, Mr. John Stale, applied to me for a quantity of powder for the use of your Province, but am sorry to inform you that article is very scarce in this Colony, and not to be purchased. What I have imported is on Government account, and by letters from New-York I have lately received, it is not to be had in that Province, neither in Rhode-Island. I expect a large quantity, but from its not arriving, I begin to suspect that either the cruisers in the channel, or the negotiation between Great Britain and the States, has prevented it. If I should have a larger quantity arrive than should be wanted in this Colony on Government account, I will give you the offer of it; but at the same time I would recommend to you that you make no dependance on having any from me.

I am, gentlemen, your very humble servant,

NATH'L SHAW, JR.

To Matthew Thornton, President of the Provincial Convention of New-Hampshire.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS TO THEIR DELEGATES IN THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Exeter, June 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Enclosed we send you an address to your Congress, relating to their order for the demolition of the fort at Ticonderoga. The taking that garrison by the Colonists, and hopes of keeping it, have very much encouraged the frontiers of this and the neighbouring Colonies. The continual accounts received from Canada, by scouts sent from our frontiers, and otherwise, keep them under the most terrible apprehensions of being ravaged by the Canadians and Indians. The late determination of your Congress has much increased it, as the destroying that fortress leaves such an opening to the excursions of our enemies. We desire your vigilance in a critical review of that matter.

Our circumstances appear daily more and more alarming. The men-of-war stop all provision vessels coming into our harbour, and send them to Boston; and the Captain of the Scarborough has shewn his orders to a Committee who waited upon him, to stop all provisions, salt, molasses, &c., coming to us. Since which several hundred armed men, in the day time, went down to the entrance of our harbour, in open sight of the men-of-war, and brought from a point of land there a number of large cannon, and deposited them at Portsmouth for the present, where preparations are making for mounting and fitting them for action. A number of men are now making a battery on Kittery Point; and if we had a sufficiency of ammunition, should hope soon to be able to command our harbour.

We would desire you, if any arms or gunpowder can be procured in the Southern Governments, to procure them, if possible, on such terms as you can make, with which the Colony will endeavour punctually to comply. The difficulty of land-carriage we would surmount, as the want thereof must exclude every other difficulty. We have wrote to you on the pressing occasion we have for a paper currency, or some other, to answer our urgent necessity; and still must desire that you do all in your power that some plan be formed, or directions given us by your Congress for that purpose.

Enclosed we send you a copy of a vote of Council, relative to stopping provisions, &c. We would have you endeavour to keep a constant correspondence with the Congress or Committee of Safety, at Exeter, and inform us of every thing you think essential.

In behalf of the Provincial Congress:

MATTHEW THORNTON, President.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read in Congress, June 21, 1775.]

In Provincial Congress, Exeter, }
June 2, 1775. }

GENTLEMEN: A late order of your very respectable Congress, for the demolition of the fortress at Ticonderoga, and removal of the artillery from thence, has very much damped the expectation of the people in this Colony, arising from the security our frontiers hoped to receive by the check the Canadians and savages might receive in any incursions on us, by a good garrison there. We are heartily disposed to, and shall readily obey all the orders and directions you give us; and on this occasion would not presume to complain or dictate, but most humbly to suggest, that all the land and waters between the south end of Lake George and Crown Point, together with all Lake Champlain, will be left open for Canadians and savages (if they should be disposed, which we very much fear) to ravage all the country east. Our new settlements, extended on Connecticut River for a hundred miles, are very defenceless in every respect, and under terrible apprehensions, from the accounts of the warlike preparations making in Canada against the Colony.

The reasons which directed your order in this matter, we are unacquainted with, but would wish a review thereof; and if you should then think it best that the former order be countermanded, we hope it will be a service to the common cause; otherwise, shall concur in your determination of that as well as all other matters that concern the welfare of America.

In behalf of the Provincial Congress aforesaid, I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

MATTHEW THORNTON, President.

To the Honourable Continental Congress.

CONGRESS OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Exeter, New-Hampshire, June 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I am directed by the Provincial Congress now convened in this Town, to advise you that the Resolution of the Continental Congress, respecting the demolition of the fortress at Ticonderoga, is just come to hand; that we have taken the same into consideration, and as we esteem that fortress to be at a place truly important to the welfare of all these Northern Colonies in general, and to this Colony in particular, the thoughts of its demolition casts a damp on the spirits of our people, as we apprehend our western frontiers will be thereby greatly exposed to the depredations of the Canadians and Indians, if (as we have reason to fear) they should incline to annoy us. And not being acquainted with the reasons for passing that order, we have thought it our duty to entreat that respectable body again to take that matter into their consideration, And, if they shall think proper, to order that the said fortress may be kept in possession of the Colonies; and we would earnestly entreat your concurrence with us in said request. At the same time you may be assured that no Colony on this Continent is, or can be more determined than we are, to abide by the determination of that respectable body.

In behalf of the Provincial Congress aforesaid, I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

MATTHEW THORNTON, President.

To the President of the Congress at New-York.

P. S. By an enclosed Resolve of this body, you will find we are providing against any attempt from Canada on our adjacent frontier. We earnestly desire your approbation of this measure, and concurrence with it, by adding such numbers of troops from your Colony, as in your wisdom and concern for the general good, you may think proper.

M. T.

COMMITTEE OF PORTSMOUTH TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Portsmouth, June 2, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: On the preservation of the peace and good order of this Town, is the only security that this Committee have, whereby they expect to carry into execution any measures which the Provincial Congress may resolve upon; therefore find ourselves necessitated to desire you would be pleased to regulate all future movements of any bodies of armed men from one Town to another, as many inconveniences and losses to the publick are sustained thereby, especially at this time, when so many idle and false reports are spread, by which the good people of this Province are alarmed, and assemble together for the defence of the grand cause in which we are all embarked. We are fearful our enemies will improve every opportunity to increase these alarms, and make them so familiar to us as to put us off our guard, and then may strike some fatal blow.

We find this Town labours under many difficulties peculiar to seaports, and which our friends in the country are free from. The stagnation of trade, and the return of our shipping, increases the number of our people, who, for want of employment, readily fall into disorders, and when numbers are once collected, it is very difficult to persuade them to disperse, until they exceed the bounds of reason. We have great reason to believe that our invaders are endeavouring to promote alarms to harass the country, and to prevent our agriculture, by calling off and diverting our attention from that great, and, at this time, particularly necessary duty.

Any resolves Congress may pass upon our request, it is desired that copies of the same be sent to every Committee in every Town, besides being published in the publick prints, as it is necessary it should be known in the most publick manner, and as soon as possible. We submit our request to your wisdom, wishing you Divine assistance in your consultations for the publick weal.

I am, gentlemen, your most humble servant.

By order of the Committee:

H. WENTWORTH, Chairman.

To the Honourable Congress at Exeter.

SOUTH-CAROLINA PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Charlostown, Saturday, June 3, 1775.

Resolved, That this Congress do earnestly recommend to all their constituents, the promotion of union and harmony by all means in their power. That to this purpose all those things be avoided which tend to promote disaffection between the people, utterly discountenancing all national reflections, and engaging to be watchful and diligent that the laws for the peace and good order of the Colony be observed inviolate as far as may be.

Wednesday, June 7, 1775.

Ordered, That the above Resolve be printed, and made publick.

A true copy from the Minutes:

PETER TIMOTHY, Secretary.

ASSOCIATION

Unanimously agreed to in the Provincial Congress of South-Carolina, on SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 1775.

The actual commencement of hostilities against this Continent, by the British Troops, in the bloody scene on the 19th of April last, near Boston; the increase of arbitrary impositions from a wicked and despotick Ministry; and the dread of instigated insurrections in the Colonies, are causes sufficient to drive an oppressed people to the use of arms. We, therefore, the subscribers, inhabitants of South-Carolina, holding ourselves bound by that most sacred of all obligations—the duty of good citizens towards an injured Country; and thoroughly convinced that, under our present distressed circumstances, we shall be justified before God and man in resisting force by force, do unite ourselves under every tie of religion and honour, and associate as a band in her defence, against every foe; hereby solemnly engaging, that whenever our Continental or Provincial Councils shall decree it necessary, we will go forth and be ready to sacrifice our lives and fortunes to secure her freedom and safety. This obligation to continue in full force until a reconciliation shall take place between Great Britain and America, upon constitutional principles; an event which we most ardently desire. And we will hold all those persons inimical to the liberty of the Colonies, who shall refuse to subscribe to this Association.

Subscribed by every member present, on the fourth day of June, 1775.

Certified by HENRY LAURENS, President.

NORFOLK (VIRGINIA) COMMITTEE.

Committee-Chamber, Norfolk, June 3, 1775.

Present: Mr. Chairman and twenty Members.

The Committee being informed that the Ship Molly, Captain Mitcheson, has lately arrived from Great Britain, laden with a large quantity of goods from Messrs. Eilbeck, Ross, and Company; and the circumstances of the importation appearing very suspicious, and inducing this Committee to believe there was an intention thereby to counteract the Association:

Resolved, therefore, That agreeably to the Association, the said ship ought, on or before Tuesday morning next, to return directly back with the said goods; and that a copy of the invoice ought to be delivered to the Sub-Committee which this Committee shall appoint; and that a Certificate, properly authenticated, that the said goods have been actually relanded in Great Britain, ought also to be produced to this Committee by the said Eilbeck, Ross, and Company, as soon as the said Certificate can be produced and transmitted to their hands.

Ordered, That the above Resolution be published.

WILLIAM DAVIES, Secretary.

Committee Chamber, June 4, 1775.

Present: Mr. Chairman and twenty-two Members.

Upon motion, Resolved, That it be published at the same time with the Resolution of yesterday, that Mr. Ross and Mr. Eilbeck did this day wait on this Committee, and produced their invoice of goods shipped on board the Molly; and that it did not appear to this Committee that the said goods were shipped by order of the said Ross or Eilbeck, but on their account, by Mr. Chambers, of Whitehaven.

By order of the Committee:

WILLIAM DAVIES, Secretary.

FOURTH SERIES.—VOL. II.

NEW-YORK DELEGATES TO PROVINCIAL CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, June 3, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We have received your several letters, and communicated such of your papers to the Congress as were intended for their inspection. Your plan for raising money we are much pleased with, though we have some doubt of its being adopted; however, as the reasons on which it is founded appear to us to be conclusive, we shall use our endeavour to carry it through. Till the success is known, you will, we dare say, see a propriety in keeping the whole secret. We observe with pleasure the attention of our Colony to Indian affairs, as they are really of the highest importance. Should you conceive the interposition of the Congress necessary, you will let us know the mode in which you think it will be most effectual.

You inquire whether the direction relative to the Militia of New-York was intended to extend farther than that City and County. In answer to this we must inform you, that it was the design of the Congress that the whole Province should be well armed and disciplined.

We wish to hear that you have received some supply of powder, as we fear that none is to be purchased here, the people conceiving they have not a sufficient stock for their own defence. We believe, however, that Connecticut will take care to supply their Troops at Ticonderoga with that article, as the command of that post is for the present vested in their officers, owing to your repeated declaration of your inability to furnish the arms and ammunition necessary for its defence.

We think it an object of great consequence to know in whom you would wish to vest the command of the Continental Army in our Province, which is to be maintained at the general charge, and hope you will not be at a loss to fix on men among yourselves who may be entrusted with that important charge. As General Officers will, in all probability, be shortly appointed by this Congress, your express should return immediately, with a warm recommendation of those persons in our Province who you think may safely be trusted with the first and second commands, as Major and Brigadier Generals. If possible let us have an answer to this by Tuesday morning, drawn up in such a manner that, if necessary, it may be offered to the Congress, with the reasons on which such choice is founded. We know of nothing farther that may require your attention, unless it be to recommend a profound secrecy with respect to any advice we may offer, particularly on the subject of this letter, though we conceive that your own prudence will render any such recommendation unnecessary. If you wish for any other directions, pray be speedy and explicit in your application.

We remain, with great respect, your most obedient humble servants,

JAMES DUANE, FRANCIS LEWIS,
R. R. LIVINGSTON, JR., WILLIAM FLOYD,
PHILIP SCHUYLER, SIMON BOERUM,
JOHN ALSOP, HENRY WISNER.

Comfort Sands,

A Letter, dated New-York, 3d June, 1775, from Mr. George Folliott, received and read; in which he declines representing this City and County in Provincial Congress.

Mr. Lamb, seconded by Mr. Denning, moved in the words following, viz: as Mr. George Folliott has declined serving as a member of the Provincial Congress, and of this Committee, I move that this Committee do proceed to the nomination to serve in his stead, both in the Provincial Congress and in this Committee.

Resolved, That Mr. Isaac Sears be nominated by this Committee for the approbation of the freeholders and freemen of this City and County, to represent them in Provincial Congress in the room of Mr. George Folliott, who declines serving. And that Mr. William Bedlow and Mr. John Woodward, be also nominated as members of this Committee instead of the said Mr. Folliott, and of Mr. Samuel Jones, who never has attended.

Ordered, That a poll be opened at the City-Hall, on Thursday, the 8th instant, at nine o'clock in the morning, to elect the above persons, or such others as may be approved of for the above purposes.

At which time the Freeholders and Freemen are requested to attend. The poll will be under the inspection of Messrs. R. Ray and Evert Banker, and the Vestrymen of the North Ward.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOUR COLDEN.

By the Honourable CADWALLADER COLDEN, Esquire, His Majesty's Lieutenant-Governour and Commander-in-Chief of the Province of New-York, and the Territories depending thereon in AMERICA:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the General Assembly of this Province stands prorogued to the seventh day of June instant: I have thought fit, for His Majesty's service, to prorogue, and I do, by and with the advice of His Majesty's Council, farther prorogue the said General Assembly to the fifth day of July next; of which all His Majesty's subjects concerned therein are required to take notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

Given under my hand and seal at arms, at Fort George, in the City of New-York, the third day of June, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five, in the sixteenth year of the reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Third, by the Grace of God, of Great-Britain, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, and so forth.

CADWALLADER COLDEN.

By his Honour's command,

SAMUEL BAYARD, JUN., D. Secretary.

God save the King.

JAMES RIVINGTON TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Friday Morning, 10 o'clock.

SIR: Having been just now informed that my case has been referred to the judgment of the gentlemen of the Provincial Congress of this City, and that it may probably be considered by them this morning, I have been employed the little time allowed me, to copy and enclose the letter from the gentlemen of the New-York Committee, and my own address to the Delegates in the Continental Congress, and added a newspaper, in which is inserted my address to the publick, that the gentlemen of the very respectable Board over which you have the honour to preside, may be acquainted with the whole proceedings in the matter.

Your continuance of my suit, and your friendly mediation on this occasion, will everlastingly oblige, Sir, your most obedient servant,

JAMES RIVINGTON.

COMMITTEE OF NEW-YORK TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

GENTLEMEN: The agitation of this Town respecting Mr. Rivington, as a printer, has given this Committee much concern. Some of the warm friends of liberty seem not to be fully satisfied that his former offences, as they were against the whole Continent, are within our authority; and we are concerned that nothing less than a determination of the General Congress will give full satisfaction on that head, much less secure him in his person and property. We have therefore resolved to refer his case to your respectable body, and would beg leave strongly to urge it as a subject of their consideration. We have adopted temporary expedients; but as they are merely temporary in effect, as far as concerns him, we beg the direction of that body, whose determination we doubt not will be a law to the Continent. His transgressions are known to your whole body. He has subscribed our Association, and we know not that he has since his subscription done any thing contrary to its true intent and meaning. Those expedients we have gone into to preserve present peace and good order will appear from the enclosed. We pray the directions of the Congress on this matter, and are, &c.

Providence, Rhode-Island, June 3, 1775.

The Committee of this Town have appointed a person to act as Postmaster here, as also a Post-Rider under the direction and control of said Committee, until the Legislature of this Colony, or the Continental Congress, shall be pleased to make other regulations and appointments.

A number of the inhabitants of Plymouth went a few days ago to Nantucket, in whale-boats, and took from thence eight hundred barrels of flour, the property of a merchant at Dartmouth, and which is supposed was intended to be smuggled into Boston, for supplying the Ministerial Army.

Last week the company of the train of Artillery lately raised here, all well accoutred, with four excellent field-pieces, marched to join the American Army near Boston; they made a very military appearance, and are, without exception, as complete a body of men as any in the King's Dominions. The other companies raised here, and in the adjacent Towns, as also several from the south Counties, all able-bodied men, and well armed, have marched to the American camp. Several companies of the Connecticut forces have also passed through this Town, to join their brethren.

Twelve pieces of battering cannon, eighteen and twenty-four pounders, with a quantity of ordnance stores, were sent from hence to the American camp a few days since.

MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO HENRY GARDNER.

Provincial Congress, Watertown, June 3, 1775.

SIR: For the absolute necessity of paying the Colony forces immediately, (having been duly considered by this Congress, and not being able to make necessary payment to prevent the Troops from returning home without your being present,) you are therefore directed, upon the receipt of this order, immediately to repair to this place, and make the utmost despatch in completing the signing of the Bills wanted for the above purpose.

Signed by order of the Congress:

SAML. FREEMAN, Secretary.

To Henry Gardner, Esq., Receiver-General.

P. S. The Congress is just informed that a gentleman at Salem has five hundred Pounds, which he is willing to lend the Province, which would be of the greatest importance, to pay immediately to the soldiers, and might prevent the greatest mischiefs.

COMMITTEE OF ARUNDEL TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

To the Honourable Congress of the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, in NEW-ENGLAND, now sitting: The Committee of the Town of ARUNDEL, in said Province; sendeth greeting:

Whereas, a sloop belonging to the said Town of ArunDEL, about three weeks ago sailed out of this harbour, and disposed of her cargo at Plymouth, and having received her effects, upon her return was seized and carried into Boston, and there detained by General Gage for some time, and her effects taken into his custody, for which he paid near the prime cost. After which a proposal was made to the master of said sloop by the officers of the Troops to enlist into the Governour's service, with a promise of a large reward for his service therein. The master being now under confinement, and knowing of no means of obtaining his liberty, now thought this proposal the only way to make his escape, and obtain his liberty, and therefore complied with the same, and accordingly received orders to sail immediately for Annapolis, to bring a quantity of hay and other stores for the use of the Troops in Boston. A number of the King's arms, with cartridges, were put on board, and two young men (one named Josiah Jones and the other Jonathan Hicks) were put on board, one or both of whom as supercargo in the above employment, with a packet of letters, orders, and other papers. The master then being prepared to go out, sailed directly for this port, and arrived in this harbour the 2d instant, with the persons, letters, &c., as above mentioned, who were immediately carried before the Committee of this Town, and after examination of both, it was agreed by the Committee, and they have accordingly sent the persons and papers under guard to this honourable Provincial Congress now sitting, for examination, and to be dealt with as they in their united wisdom shall think just. The master and mate of said sloop we have hereby sent, by whom an account of the whole affair will be given.

BENJ. DURRELL, JONATHAN STONE,
JAMES BURNHAM, JOHN HOVEY,
THOS. WISWALL,
Committee of the Town of Arundel.

Arundel, June 3, 1775.

Watertown, June 9, 1775.

I, the subscriber, being of lawful age, do testify that, being in a coasting sloop belonging to Arundel, and on my return from Plymouth, was taken by a cutter belonging to Admiral Graves's squadron, in Boston, and carried into that port, and there detained several days; and being solicited by Admiral Graves's Secretary to enter into His Majesty's service, and knowing no other way wherein I could possibly make my escape but by entering into said service, to go to Windsor, in Nova-Scotia, for hay and other things; and having one Josiah Jones put on board as factor, and being ready to sail, I desired of the Captain of our convoy leave to sail, but he told me I must not sail till to-morrow, at ten o'clock, as there were a number of other vessels in the same employ, and should all sail together. I then desired leave of Mr. Jones to haul off into the road, and obtained leave. It being dark, I got consent of our factor, Mr. Jones, to sail; I therefore embraced the opportunity, and immediately sailed for Arundel, where I arrived in about twenty-four hours, and delivered up Mr. Jones, and one Jonathan Hicks, who was introduced on board my sloop by Mr. Jones, but for what purpose I cannot tell. And further saith, that Mr. Jones desired me to oil and clean the fire-arms that were put on board to defend ourselves, as he said the rebels might attack us on our passage.

SAMUEL SMITH.

Mr. Ephraim Perkins:

Boston, May 30, 1775.

SIR: You will immediately proceed with the Sloop Molly, under your command, to Windsor, in the Bay of Funda, and receive such orders as Mr. Jones will give you respecting your cargo, making every despatch that is possible, taking care to touch at no other harbour unless it be absolutely necessary.

JOS. GOLDTHWAIT, for
WM. SHERRIFF,

Deputy Quartermaster General.

Boston, May 30, 1775.

MR. JONES: You will proceed to Windsor, in Nova-Scotia, with the Sloop Polly, Ephraim Perkins master, and, immediately upon your arrival there, you will apply to Messrs. Day and Scott for a cargo, as specified in the letter herewith transmitted to them; and in case they should not be there when you arrive, you will immediately hire an express and forward the letter to them at Halifax. And I trust in your diligence in receiving the cargo, and making every despatch in your power on your return to this port. And you are further to observe, that you are not, upon your return, to put into any harbour upon the eastern coast, without being forced to by absolute necessity.

Sir, I am your most obedient servant,

WM. SHERRIFF, Dep. Q. M. General.

Boston, May 30, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The bearer, Mr. Josiah Jones, with the Sloop Polly, Ephraim Perkins master, is chartered for Windsor, in Nova-Scotia, in order to receive from you hay and oats. I am therefore to desire you will use every endeavour to despatch him as soon as possible, agreeable to my letter, wrote you via Halifax, the 29th instant. Please to forward the enclosed by express to Annapolis.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,
WM. SHERRIFF.

To Messrs. Day and Scott, at Windsor, Nova-Scotia.

Boston, May 29, 1775.

DEAR SIR: I have received your obliging favour, and return you many thanks for the trouble you have taken, and readiness you have shown, in giving your assistance, so necessary at present, for the good of the service. The hay will be most acceptable, and I am in hopes Captain Perkins's vessel has taken a part on board, as he promised me she should return immediately, and I will send you another one as soon as possible. I shall want three or four thousand tons of hay, and I wish, with all my heart, poor Annapolis could furnish it; but all it can furnish I will take; and if they are industrious they may get a great deal of money for their vegetables, poultry, butter, eggs, &c., &c., and may come directly into this port without any expense whatever, and will be sure to find every encouragement and assistance that can be given them. On the other hand, if they give themselves airs, and follow the cursed example of these madmen, they will easily consider how readily Government can chastise them, and they may rely upon it they will, and that immediately too. But I hope they will consider their interest better, and make all the money they can; they never will have a fairer opportunity.

I have wrote to Messrs. Day and Scott, at Halifax, respecting tonnage, and have desired them to consult with you about the quantity that may be procured at Annapolis, as they are to furnish the remainder from Windsor and that neighbourhood.

Procure hay-screws, and at any rate, and the whole should be carried to a particular place most convenient for that purpose, as also for shipping of it. You have not advised me in what manner I am to make you remittances for expenses to be incurred in the above service, therefore shall expect it per next. We are in the same situation as when I wrote you last, except the addition of twelve hundred Troops, lately arrived from England, three Regiments of Horse, and eight other Regiments are hourly expected, when I hope you will hear better accounts from us. I am hurried to death, therefore have only time to add my compliments to all friends, and to wish you every happiness, being truly, dear Sir, your faithful and obedient servant,

WM. SHERRIFF.

Thomas Williams, Esquire, Storekeeper of Ordnance at Annapolis Royal.

P. S. If you can add to the quantity of old hay, pray do, and don't mind the expense. W. S.

LOAMMI BALDWIN TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Cambridge, June 3, 1775.

His Excellency General Ward, having been pleased to approve of a proposal made for taking some surveys of the ground between us and our enemies, and as some mathematical instruments are wanting to enable us to complete the same, this is, therefore, humbly to desire that the honourable Provincial Congress would grant leave for such instruments as are wanting for said purpose to be taken out of the apparatus belonging to Harvard College, to be returned as soon as said surveys shall be finished.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

LOAMMI BALDWIN.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress of the Massachusetts-Bay.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

In Provincial Congress, Exeter, June 3, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Having undoubted intelligence of the attempts of the British Ministry to engage the Canadians and savages in their interest in the present controversy with America, and of actual movements in Canada in consequence thereof, we have thought it necessary that measures should be immediately taken to defend and quiet the minds of the people more especially exposed in the frontiers, and accordingly have resolved to send a number of Troops as soon as may be; three companies, for the present, to be employed where, and in such manner as may best answer that important end. We thought it expedient to give you the earliest intelligence of what we have done in this way, earnestly praying, and nothing doubting, but that you will concur in such measures as in your wisdom you shall judge reasonable and necessary for the defence and safety of the back settlements, for whom both you and we must very sensibly feel.

We furthermore think it suitable just to suggest, that we have some apprehension lest our military manœuvres on the frontiers should raise a jealousy in the minds of the Canadians, and awaken their fears of direct intentions of hostilities against them. We should give them the most positive assurance upon this head, that we desire nothing more than our own security, and that it is our most hearty wish to remain on steady terms of friendship with them. And in order to the more regular, harmonious, and effectual prosecution of the important object aforesaid, as also other valuable purposes that we conceive it may answer, we would humbly move for a conference by a Committee, with a Committee from you, at such time and place as you shall please to appoint, and to consider of an address to be forwarded to the Canadians, and put it in the power of this Congress to join with you, and, if it might be, the other New-England Colonies and New-York, that this negotiation might answer the most effectual purpose.

By order of Congress, I am your most obedient humble servant,
MATTHEW THORNTON, President.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A GENTLEMAN IN LONDON TO HIS FRIEND IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED JUNE 4, 1775.

From business you naturally expect I should descend to news and politicks. Of the former we should have had a dearth, had it not been for the arrival of Captain Darby with the account of the Lexington affair, which has greatly agitated the people and confounded the Ministry, who fain would suppress the account, or disbelieve it; but notwithstanding we are without despatches from General Gage, it has full credit with many, and friends are daily added to the American cause. Even Hutchinson is become a convert. I hope he will live to make amends for all the harsh things he has said and wrote against America.

The virtue and spirit of your City is highly spoken of, and your strict adherence to the rules of the Congress does you honour. The duplicity of New-York will ever render them suspected. The many and repeated assurances given to the Ministry by their quondam leaders, will justify a suspicion, which the conduct of some of the merchants and traders confirms, that they would adopt any means to break through or elude the Association.

One avenue, indeed, seems to have been unguarded by the Congress, through which they may attempt to break the Association with impunity, and that is, by importing goods and manufactures from the Island of Guernsey, where large quantities of goods, suitable to the American consumption, have been landed. Now, as a friend to America, I would fain hold forth to the publick view every secret attempt to frustrate and destroy your present Association, which I consider as your grand bulwark. I would recommend it to the sons of liberty in New-York, to be watchful and circumspect of all arrivals from that quarter, as goods or manufactures imported from thence are as much English as those manufactured in Great Britain itself, to which it is so contiguous. To guard against such attempts you may, if you think proper, communicate my fears to the real friends of America and all congressional measures.

ANNE ARUNDEL COUNTY (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation for Anne Arundel County and City of Annapolis, on the fourth day of June, 1775, in the said City,

Mr. CHARLES WALLACE, Chairman.

A charge having been made on oath, before the Committee, that Thomas Chipchase, of this City, butcher, on the twenty-third day of May last, had killed several Lambs, he was ordered to attend. He appeared, and confessed the fact, alleging, as an excuse, that he understood that there was no absolute prohibition by the Continental Congress, and that the scarcity of provisions at that time would plead for him, as what he did was from a desire of supplying the many strangers in Town; but as he had since been informed that such procedure was contrary to a resolve of a Provincial Convention, he would take care to offend in that manner no more, and hoped the Committee would forgive him.

The sense of the Committee being taken on the above, they declared it a breach of the resolve of the Provincial Convention respecting the killing of Lambs; but, all circumstances considered, they were of opinion he ought to be forgiven.

Ordered, That these proceedings be published in the Maryland Gazette.
G. DUVAL, Clerk.

GENERAL SCHUYLER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 4, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As I am ordered by the Continental Congress to liquidate the accounts of the people employed in the reduction of Ticonderoga, that they may be paid; and as Messrs. Allen and Warner were concerned, there will be money due to them; and as they are in want of some, I could wish you to advance them thirty Pounds, and to make it a Continental charge, for which I shall debit them in their account with the publick.

I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,
PHILIP SCHUYLER.

To the Honourable Members of the New-York Provincial Congress.

ETHAN ALLEN TO THE CANADIANS.

Ticonderoga, June 4, 1775.

To our worthy and respectable Countrymen and Friends, the French People of CANADA, greeting:

FRIENDS AND FELLOW-COUNTRYMEN: You are undoubtedly more or less acquainted with the unnatural and unhappy controversy subsisting between Great Britain and her Colonies, the particulars of which, in this letter, we do not expatiate upon, but refer your consideration of the justice and equitableness thereof on the part of the Colonies, to the former knowledge that you have had of this matter. We need only observe, that the inhabitants of the Colonies view the controversy on their part to be justifiable in the sight of God, and all unprejudiced and honest men that have or may have opportunity and ability to examine into the merits of it. Upon this principle those inhabitants determine to vindicate their cause, and maintain their natural and constitutional rights and liberties at the expense of their lives and fortunes, but have not the least disposition to injure, molest, or any way deprive our fellow-subjects, the Canadians, of their liberty or property. Nor have they any design to wage war against them; and from all intimations that the inhabitants of the said Colonies have received from the Canadians, it has appeared that they were alike disposed for friendship and neutrality, and not at all disposed to take part with the King's Troops in the present civil war against the Colonies. We were nevertheless surprised to hear that a number of about thirty Canadians attacked our reconnoitring party, consisting of four men, fired on them, and pursued them, and obliged them to return the fire. This is the account of the party which has since arrived at Head-Quarters. We desire to know of any gentlemen Canadians, the facts of the case, as one story is good till another is told. Our general order to the soldiery was, that they should not, on pain of death, molest or kill any of your people. But if it shall appear, upon examination, that our reconnoitring party commenced hostilities against your people, they shall suffer agreeable to the sentence of a court-martial; for our special orders from the Colonies are, to befriend and protect you, if need be; so that if you desire their friendship, you are invited to embrace it, for nothing can be more undesirable to your friends in the Colonies, than a war with their fellow-subjects the Canadians, or with the Indians. You are very sensible that war has already commenced between England and the Colonies. Hostilities have already begun; to fight with the King's Troops has become a necessary and incumbent duty; the Colonies cannot avoid it. But pray, is it necessary that the Canadians and the inhabitants of the English Colonies should butcher one another? God forbid. There is no controversy subsisting between you and them. Pray let old England and the Colonies fight it out; and you, Canadians, stand by and see what an arm of flesh can do. We are apprehensive that the conduct of your people, before complained of, had not a general approbation, and are still confident that your Country, as such, will not wage war with the Colonies, or approve the aforesaid hostile conduct of your people, as we conceive it to be impolitick to the last degree for the Canadians to enter into a bloody war without either a provocation or motive, and when, at the same time, every motive of interest, virtue, and honour, are ready at hand to dissuade you from it. In fine, we conclude Saint Luke, Captain McCoy, and other evil-minded persons, whose interest and inclination it is that the Canadians and the people of those Colonies should cut one another's throats, have inveigled some of the baser sort of your people to attack our said reconnoitring party. We expect, gentlemen, as to these particulars, you will in good time inform us; and subscribe ourselves your real friends,

ETHAN ALLEN,

At present the principal Commander of the Army.

JAMES EASTON.

A copy of the foregoing letter was this day sent to Mr. Walker, our trusty friend at Montreal, per favour of Mr. Jeffere, whose fidelity is unquestionable; and it is wholly left with Mr. Walker to make its contents the most publick that he possibly can, whether by printing it and translating it into French, &c. We furthermore thought it expedient your Honours should have a copy communicated to you.

Yours at command,

ETHAN ALLEN,

JAMES EASTON.

To the Provincial Congress of New-York.

ELBRIDGE GERRY TO THE MASSACHUSETTS DELEGATES IN THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Watertown, June 4, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: A publick express for your honourable body gives me opportunity to hand you information of the affairs of this Province. From the confusion in which the engagement at Lexington threw the people, they are now beginning to recover, and I hope, by the speedy assistance of some form of Government, that the measures which will be necessary for defence, will not only be practicable, but executed here with success. The spirit of the people is equal to our wishes, and if they continue as they began, it will be as familiar to fight as to pursue the dangers of the ocean. We want assistance by ammunition and money. A full supply of these would render Lord North and his myrmidons as harmless as they are infamous. We have stripped the seaports of canvass to make tents; and it is of great importance to possess ourselves of about five hundred pieces of raven's duck, to keep the soldiers in health. I should be glad if the bearer could obtain it on the credit of our vote, as we want all of our specie to send out of the Government for other purposes; but I am doubtful whether you can assist us in this matter, although very important, as the great objects of your attention must take up your whole time.

Government is so essential that it cannot be too soon adopted; and although no argument can be necessary to convince you of so plain a truth, yet it may not be amiss to hint a matter which can only be discovered by being where it has taken place. The people are fully possessed of their dignity from the frequent delineation of their rights, which have been published to defeat the ministerial party in their attempt to impress them with high notions of Government. They now feel rather too much their own importance, and it requires great skill to produce such subordination as is necessary. This takes place principally in the Army. They have affected to hold the military too high, but the civil must be first supported; and unless an established form of Government is provided, it will be productive of injury. Every day's delay will make the task more arduous.

We want, also, a regular General to assist us in disciplining the Army, which, in twelve months' time, and perhaps less, by frequent skirmishes, may be brought to stand against any troops, however formidable they may be with the sounding names of Welsh Fusileers, Grenadiers, &c. And although the pride of our people would prevent their submitting to be led by any General not an American, yet I cannot but think that General Lee might be so established as to render great service by his presence and counsels with our officers. I should heartily rejoice to see this way the beloved Colonel Washington, and do not doubt the New-England Generals would acquiesce in showing to our sister Colony, Virginia, the respect which she has before experienced from the Continent, in making him Generalissimo. This is a matter in which Dr. Warren agrees with me, and we had intended to write you jointly on the affair.

The letter from our Joint Committees and the Generals to the Congress, will come before you, and nothing further is necessary on this head. I remain, gentlemen, with great respect, your obedient servant,

ELBRIDGE GERRY.

To the Honourable Members of the Continental Congress from Massachusetts-Bay.

GEN. WARD AND OTHERS TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Cambridge, June 4, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: We beg leave to represent to you the peculiar distresses of this Colony, being assured that you will, as the wise guardians of the lives, liberties, and properties of the whole of this extensive Continent, attend to the several circumstances of all who, under God, look up to you for protection and deliverance.

Our capital is filled with disciplined troops, thoroughly equipped with every thing necessary to render them formidable. A train of artillery, as complete as can be conceived of; a full supply of arms and ammunition; and an absolute command of the harbour of Boston, which puts it in their power to furnish themselves with whatever they shall think convenient by sea, are such advantages as must render our contest with them in every view extremely difficult.

We suffer at present the greatest inconveniences from a want of a sufficient quantity of powder; without this every attempt to defend ourselves or annoy our enemies, must prove abortive. We have taken every step to avail ourselves of this article, by drawing into our general magazines whatever could be spared from the respective Towns of this Colony; but the frequent skirmishes we have had have greatly diminished our stock, and we are now under the most alarming apprehensions that, notwithstanding the bravery of our troops, (whom we think we can, without boasting, declare are ready to encounter every danger for the preservation of the rights and liberties of America;) we shall, barely for want of the means of defence, fall at last a prey to our enemies.

We, therefore, most earnestly beseech you, that you would warmly recommend it to the other Colonies, to send whatever ammunition they can possibly spare forthwith to our relief. The manner of recommending this matter we submit to your superiour judgment; we only beg leave to suggest, that an immediate supply is of the last importance to us, and that a discovery of our weakness in this particular, before we receive assistance, may be fatal, not to us only, but to the liberties of the whole Continent; whereas, with a full supply of arms and ammunition, we might, with the common blessings of Providence, baffle the designs of our enemies, and be greatly instrumental in bringing our present disputes to a happy issue. We are your Honours' most obedient servants,

ART. WARD, General of the Massachusetts Forces.

JOS. WARREN, Chairman of the Comm. of Safety.

MOSES GILL, Chairman of the Comm. of Supplies.

P. S. We beg what powder you can possibly spare may be immediately conveyed to us by land in the way least liable to be suspected by any persons who may correspond with the enemy.

MRS. BOWDOIN TO THE MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

Dorchester, June 4, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Mr. Bowdoin has just received the enclosed depositions, and being in a very weak state, desires me to inform you, that for some time past the Falkland Sloop-of-War, commanded by Captain Linsey, has been cruising about the islands called Elizabeth Islands, near Martha's Vineyard. That the said sloop's boats have divers times landed armed men on the said islands, who have abused the inhabitants, stove their boats, and by force taken away a considerable part of their property, as may more fully appear by the said depositions.

It is humbly apprehended if about one hundred armed men were properly posted on the said islands, they would be a sufficient force to defend the inhabitants, and protect their stock of cattle and sheep, which is very considerable, and which has hitherto every year furnished divers parts of this Colony with fat sheep and cattle for provisions, and particularly with a large quantity of wool for our home manufacture.

I beg leave to make this representation that you may take such measures as your wisdom shall dictate; and am, most respectfully, in Mr. Bowdoin's behalf, who is part owner of one of said islands, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

ELIZABETH BOWDOIN.

To the Honourable Committee of Safety.

DEPOSITIONS.

I, Elisha Nye, innholder, living on one of the Elizabeth Islands, commonly called Naushan, and near to Tarpaulin Cove, testifieth and sayeth, that some time about the fifth of May the sloop-of-war called the Falkland, commanded by Captain Linsey, came into the cove, and as soon as the vessel had come to anchor, the Captain came on shore with his boat's crew, all armed, and came to the house, and said unto the deponent, You need not be scared; upon which I told him it was enough to scare any body to see so many men come on shore armed; and the women are all fled, and to where I knew not. Upon which Captain Linsey told me to call them in, for he did not mean to hurt any body; upon which promise I and my family were satisfied. Soon after, the Captain asked me to walk with him, which I complied with, and in the course of the walk he demanded to know what stock I had, and added, to tell him right, for if I did not, he would take all that he met; upon which I gave him the account. Then the Captain told me, (the deponent,) if I sold any one of them he would take the remainder by force; upon which I told him if he were here when they were fit for market, he might have them by paying the price I used to have. Soon after which he went to Rhode-Island, and returned back in a few days; after which he used to pass and re-pass the island almost every day, mostly in company with the Doctor of the ship, leaving down the fence repeatedly, which let the cattle often mix together, which I told the Doctor was a great damage. The Doctor's answer was, then you may put it up yourselves, for I will not; and often talked in an abusive, insulting manner, that he (the Doctor) would soon take what he wanted without any pay. On the twenty-sixth instant a sloop came into the cove with about twenty passengers—men, women, and children—in great distress for provisions, and made application to me for supplies. Captain Linsey, knowing that, (his boat having boarded her,) sent his boat on shore and forbid me letting them have any. Then I advised them to apply to Captain Linsey, and see if they could not prevail upon him to let them have some. Accordingly they went. Afterwards the Captain of the sloop told me that he absolutely refused them, and said, damn the dog that would let them have any, and if they were not gone immediately they would sink them; upon which they set sail immediately without any supplies.

And further, the deponent declareth that the Doctor came on shore, and said that the Captain's orders were that I should go with him and destroy all the boats on the island. I told him I could not go upon such business as that. He said he would send me on board the ship if I did not go; upon which I found I must comply, and accordingly went with him, and saw him (the Doctor) stave three boats. On the twenty-ninth, about eight o'clock in the evening, he (the said Doctor) came on shore, and told me he had come for my sheep; upon which I told him they were out in the pasture, and I could not get them into the pen, it being dark, but would fetch them in as early in the morning as he pleased. The answer from the Doctor was, damn you, what did you turn them out for; the reason I told him was that they had got out their own sheep, and did not say any thing more about when they should want mine, and I thought it best the sheep should be let out to feed. Upon which the said Doctor said to me, Damn your eyes, go on board the ship, and I'll see what they were turned out for. I told him I would not, but would go and try to get the sheep up; well, damn you, make haste; and swung his sword over my head. But upon trial I found it so dark I could not get them in; but on my return was informed that he (the Doctor) had sent on board for more help to carry me and my brother on board the ship. Upon which, with the abuses and threats I had received before, thought it time to make my escape, which I did, to the main land, and begged the assistance of the people, who readily came to my assistance; and when I returned, which was about three o'clock in the morning, some of my family told me they had been ashore, armed, and had taken all my calves, being seven in number; two of the poorest and smallest they sent ashore in the morning, the others, with four sheep they had some days before, they carried off without paying any thing for them. And I do further declare the abuses and threats I received from Captain Linsey and the Doctor is the occasion of my moving off the island and leaving my interest. And I declare that I never refused Captain Linsey, or any other person belonging to a sloop-of-war, entertainment in my house, or supply of provisions that I had on my farm that I could spare. And I further declare, that on the night of the twenty-ninth instant aforesaid, the Doctor, as my wife informs me, came on shore and demanded my gun with his sword in his hand, which she delivered to him, and have not seen it since, though the only weapon of defence that I had on the island. The value of the sheep, calves, and gun, which they took from me, and the use of my horse and well, are as follows, viz:—

Four sheep, value £2 16s.; three calves two months old, value £3 6s.; four quarters of veal, weight sixty pounds, sold before and delivered, 16s.; one gun, taken out of my house by the Doctor of the ship, of great value, £3; riding my horse, and use of my well, £3.

ELISHA NYE.

BARNSTABLE, ss., May 31, 1775:

Then the within and above named Elisha Nye made oath to the within and above named deposition and account as the truth, and by him subscribed. Before me,

THOS. SMITH, Justice of the Peace.

We, the subscribers, testify and say, that on the 29th day of May, 1775, Captain Linsey, commander of a ship-of-war, then at Tarpaulin Cove, came with a number of armed men and landed on one of the Elizabeth Islands, called Reskatemeth, and came to the place where the men that owned part of the stock on said island were shearing their sheep, and demanded the sheep, saying and promising that he would pay for them, and give the full value of the sheep, or words to that purpose; but the owners of said sheep told him that they were unwilling to part with them, but if he would take them, they should not molest him, as most of the owners of the sheep were of the people called Quakers, and that they would not be concerned in defending themselves or their interest by force of arms, but would treat him with civility; but said Captain, with his men, took said sheep, and carried them away, some shorn, and many not shorn. The sheep were hurried away in such a manner that we could not take an account of the numbers with exactness, but according to the best of our judgment, the numbers and value of the sheep are as follow, viz:

Took from Joseph Tucker and Sons ninety-three sheep, value £68 8s., lawful money; took from Jeremiah Robinson seventeen sheep, value £12 4s. 10d., lawful money; took from William and Elisha Robinson twenty-four sheep, value £14 8s., lawful money; took from Ebenezer Meiggs seventy-two sheep, value £51 15s. 6d., lawful money.

JOHN TUCKER,

JEREMIAH ROBINSON,

ELISHA ROBINSON,

EBENEZER MEIGGS.

BARNSTABLE, ss., May 31, 1775:

Then the above named Ebenezer Meiggs made oath to the truth of the above written, by him subscribed, and the above named John Tucker, Jeremiah Robinson, and Elisha

Robinson, being of the people called Quakers, affirmed to the truth of the above written, by them subscribed.

Before me:

THOMAS SMITH,
Justice of the Peace.

Daniel Egry, of Dartmouth, says, that last Sabbath, a Whaleman went through Robinson's Hole into the Sound; just at the eastward lay three tenders, who fired upon the schooner. The master then ordered the schooner about again, and run into the Hole; all the people then left the vessel, by the master's orders. The officer of a barge then came on board, and snapped his pistol at the master, which did not go off, though well primed, and all the rest of the barge's crew cocked their pistols, but were ordered by the officer not to fire. The people of the three tenders swore they would have all the stock on the island, having forced the tenants to give an inventory thereof, and intended to seize five vessels to carry them off, and pursued one vessel which hove in sight. The name of the island is Naushan, and owned by Mr. Bowdoin; suppose there are three thousand sheep on the island, and a large stock of cattle. It is supposed they intended to rob the several islands near, on which islands it is supposed there were ten thousand sheep, beside cattle.

POLITICAL OBSERVATIONS.

London, June 5, 1775.

In the course of animadversion upon our dispute with America, the principle, "that wheresoever the supreme power of legislation is vested, there also centres the supreme power of taxation," has been (it is thought) fully proved to the conviction of every unbiased reader; and, indeed, the Americans themselves seem so thoroughly convinced of it, as to have given up the distinction not only between internal and external taxation, but also the difference between the legislative and taxing power; well knowing that they who can tax will rule, and those who can rule must and will tax; the act of taxation being an essential act of dominion and sovereignty, without which no Government can subsist, or maintain its authority.

The rebellious Americans depend upon their numbers and distance from us; but we hope they will be of but little service to them, for there are other ways and means of distressing them, besides our meeting them in the field. Their wealth is the source of their rebellion; and our Ministry have already wisely begun to reduce them to reason by lessening it; and when they find themselves so blocked up by sea that nothing can go to or come from them without falling into our hands; or, if that will not do, that their vessels and properties are seized, and, if occasion requires, their coasts plundered, their towns and ports reduced to ashes, &c., poverty and distress will by degrees break in upon them; and though they have got a great Army, they will see their ruin daily approaching without being able to prevent it. If, therefore, they still persist in their rebellion, contrary to their own interest, and contrary to all the feelings of humanity for their fellow-subjects, but in a more particular manner; contrary to the compassion they ought to have for their wives and children, all the evils and calamities that arise from it will, in the sight of God and man, lie at their door; and even the cries of the injured orphan and widow, that will go up to Heaven upon that account, will go up against them.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Committee Chamber, June 5, 1775.

Whereas, the business of this Committee has been much obstructed and embarrassed by necessary inquiries into the circumstances of Goods imported here from other Provinces:

Resolved, therefore, That for the future, whenever goods shall be imported into this Province from any of the neighbouring Colonies, the importer do produce a certificate from the Chairman of the Committee from whence such goods are sent, signifying their importation within the rules of the Congress, or do produce a qualification taken before some Magistrate of the identity of such goods, of the time of their importation into this Country, and vessel in which they were imported; in failure whereof no such goods be permitted to be landed or sold within the limits of this City and Liberties.

By order of the Committee for the City and Liberties of Philadelphia. JONATHAN B. SMITH, Secretary.

TO GENERAL BURGOYNE.

Philadelphia, June 5, 1775.

Permit me, Sir, though a stranger to your person, but not wholly unacquainted with your character, to address you on your arrival. Glad should I be to offer the language of congratulation; but the love of my Country forbids. Unhappy situation! that virtue must restrain the plaudits with which she hath been used to meet the accomplished Burgoyne.

With the manly openness of a soldier you have delivered your sentiments in the Senate; you have wished that the bravery of every "military man" in America "may be judged by the test of compassion;" you have chosen "argument," if admitted to intercourse in America, "before activity in the line of your profession." The precious opportunity that you desire is granted; the fertile, the once peaceful, the free shores of America have received you; a people delighting in freedom of inquiry, susceptible of the force of solid argument, capable of refuting sophistry, would gladly meet you on this first ground of your choice, with candour enough to admire the copiousness of your eloquence, though possessed with too much judgment to mistake it for argument. We desire not to meet you reasoning "to the best of your power in the line of your profession," because the issues of war are dreadful and uncertain; and though you have been victorious in a "cause" which it was honourable "to fight for, to bleed, and to die for," yet in this, we apprehend, whether victor or vanquished, you will "find" nothing but "sorrow and remorse."

When Chairman of the Select Committee on East India affairs, you declared, "that the most infamous designs had been carried into execution by perfidy and murder; that the East India Princes held their dignities on the precarious condition of being the highest bribers; and that no claim could be admitted, however just on their part, without being introduced by enormous sums of rupees. Your noble nature started from the horrid scene; the ghost of Omichund could not have thus appalled you. And can you, Sir, be instrumental to enslave and oppress, not effeminate East Indians, but the sons of Englishmen? Can you imbrue your hands in brothers' blood, or stoop to the infamous designs of perfidy? Can you wish that claims the most just should not be admitted, unless the fallacious scheme of the treasury be adopted? Forbid it every ennobling sentiment of the human breast! No, Sir, satisfied with the glorious laurels that adorned your brow, let the peaceful olive twine around them; so shall Britain and America in future time bless the man who felt that bravery and compassion were associate virtues.

A PENNSYLVANIAN.

WILLIAM DUER TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Fort Millar, June 5, 1775.

SIR: I esteem it a duty which I owe to the Province to inform you that my apprehensions with respect to the designs of the people in this County to stop the courts of justice, were not ill founded. A party of the people on the New-Hampshire Grants, strengthened by some persons of desperate fortunes and bad characters in the western districts, had formed a resolution of abolishing the law; and to effect their purpose, had actually marched on their way to Fort Edward. Yesterday fortnight I had intelligence of their design, and by a lucky incident put a stop to their proceedings, at least for the present.

Captain Mott, who is the bearer of this, was marching his company to join the forces at Ticonderoga. I mentioned to him the intelligence I had received, and applied to him for his assistance. This gentleman coincided with myself in opinion of the absolute necessity there was of keeping up at least the shadow of order and justice, and detained his company at Fort Edward in order to protect the Bench. The riotous party getting information of this unlooked for relief, desisted from their attempt.

As Captain Mott is on his way to your Congress, I esteem myself bound in gratitude to mention his alacrity in supporting good order within our Province, not doubting but such a line of conduct will recommend him to your attention. I have likewise to submit it again to your consideration, whether it might not be proper for the Provincial Congress to make publick their sentiments with respect to the courts of justice. However daring many of the people are in this County, I scarcely imagine they would dare to counteract the avowed opinions of the Congress. It is merely owing to chance, and Captain Mott's conduct, that this last Court was not broke up; and should this attempt once succeed, it will not be an easy matter to restore order amongst a people of so turbulent a spirit. Our County will then be reduced to a worse dilemma than any other. We shall not only have to oppose the incursions of the enemy on the frontiers, but shall be torn to pieces with intestine anarchy and confusion. I am conscious, from the knowledge I have of your personal character, of your aversion to such proceedings, and have therefore thought it advisable to write to you on the subject. Your interposition in this matter may save the spilling of blood the next Court, for so long as I know it to be the sense of the Country that the courts of justice should be supported, and that I have the honour of sitting as one of the Judges, I shall endeavour to keep them open even at the risk of my life. I am, Sir, with respect, your obedient humble servant,

WM. DUER.

To Peter Van Brugh Livingston, Esq., President of the Provincial Congress at New-York.

COLONEL GUY JOHNSON TO THE COMMITTEE OF TRYON COUNTY, NEW-YORK.

Thompson's, Cosby's Manor, June 5, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: I have received the paper signed Chris. P. Yates, Chairman, on behalf of the Districts therein mentioned, which I am now to answer, and shall do it briefly, in the order you have stated matters. As to the letter from some Indians to the Oneidas, I really knew nothing of it till I heard such a thing had been by some means obtained from an Indian messenger; and from what I have heard of its contents, I can't see any thing material in it, or that could justify such idle apprehensions; but I must observe that these fears among the people were talked of long before, and were, I fear, propagated by some malicious persons for a bad purpose.

As to your political sentiments, on which you enter in the next paragraph, I have no occasion to enter on them or the merits of the cause. I desire to enjoy liberty of conscience and the exercise of my own judgment, and that all others should have the same privilege; but, with regard to your saying you might have postponed the affair, if there had been the least kind of probability that the petition of the General Assembly would have been noticed more than that of the Delegates, I must, as a true friend to the Country, in which I have a large interest, say, that the present dispute is viewed in different lights, according to the education and principles of the parties affected; and that, however reasonable it may appear to a considerable number of honest men here, that the petition of the Delegates should merit attention, it is not viewed in the same light in a country which admits of no authority that is not constitutionally established; and I persuade myself you have that reverence for His Majesty, that you will pay due regard to the Royal assurance given in his speech to Parliament, that whenever the American grievances should be laid before him by their constitutional Assemblies, they should be fully attended to. I have heard that compulsory steps were taken to induce some persons to come into your measures, and treasonable toasts drank; but I am not willing to give too easy credit to flying reports, and am happy to hear you disavow them.

I am glad to find my calling a Congress on the frontiers gives satisfaction; this was principally my design, though I cannot sufficiently express my surprise at those who have, either through malice or ignorance, misconstrued my intentions, and supposed me capable of setting the Indians on the peaceable inhabitants of this Country. The interest our family has in this Country and my own, is considerable, and they have been its best benefactors; any malicious charges, therefore, to their prejudice, are highly injurious, and ought to be totally suppressed.

The office I hold is greatly for the benefit and protection of this Country, and on my frequent meetings with the Indians depends their peace and security; I therefore cannot but be astonished to find the endeavours made use of to obstruct me in my duties, and the weakness of some people in withholding many things from me, which are indisputably necessary for rendering the Indians contented; and I am willing to hope that you, gentlemen, will duly consider this and discountenance the same.

You have been much misinformed as to the origin of the reports which obliged me to fortify my house and stand on my defence. I had it, gentlemen, from undoubted authority from Albany, and since confirmed by letters from one of the Committee at Philadelphia, that a large body of men were to make me prisoner. As the effect this must have on the Indians might have been of dangerous consequences to you, (a circumstance not thought of,) I was obliged, at great expense, to take these measures. But the many reports of my stopping travellers were false in every particular, and the only instance of detaining any body was in the case of two New-England men, which I explained fully to those of your body who brought your letter, and wherein I acted strictly agreeable to law, and as a magistrate should have done.

I am very sorry that such idle and injurious reports meet with any encouragement. I rely on you, gentlemen, to exert yourselves in discountenancing them; and I am happy in this opportunity of assuring the people of a Country I regard, that they have nothing to apprehend from my endeavours, but that I shall always be glad to promote their true interests.

I am, gentlemen, your humble servant,

G. JOHNSON.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN NEW-YORK, DATED HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT, JUNE 5, 1775.

Mr. Hide, the Boston post, reports that a vessel bound to London, on board of which Mr. Robert Temple, a high-flying tory, was passenger, sprang a leak soon after her departure, and put into Plymouth, (New-England), to refit. That the people took Temple prisoner, sent him to the camp at Cambridge, secured his papers, and opened a great number of letters, many of which were from officers of the Army at Boston. That those letters in general are full of complaints and expressions of uneasiness. Some of the officers desire and entreat to sell out, others say they are fighting in a bad cause, and apprehensive of a mutiny; others mention a difference between the General and the Admiral, and that the Army in general are disheartened and uneasy; other letters are full of invectives against the poor Yankees, as they call us. We hear the Provincial Congress will keep Temple as a hostage; but I hope they will let the vessel go with the above letters.

JAMES CURGENVEN TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

New-Haven, June 5, 1775.

SIR: I beg permission to acquaint your Honour that I am appointed Collector of the Customs for the port of New-Haven, vice Peter Harrison, Esquire, deceased; and that on the second instant, when I arrived within your Government, some people showed a great dislike to my taking upon me the duty of my office. But by the interposition of several gentlemen concerned in trade, and my informing them that I should wait on your Honour as soon as I had recovered from the fatigues of the voyage, they appeared to be satisfied.

I look on it a respect due to your Honour, that I should satisfy you as to the legality of my appointment, as well as necessary that I should take the oaths prescribed by law previous to my entering upon the execution of my duty; but as my ill state of health will not admit of my taking a journey at present, and as I have already taken the oath of office before the Board of Customs, I hope this will be admitted as a sufficient apology. And some persons having suggested that your Honour would refuse to administer the oaths appointed to be taken by officers of the Crown in similar cases with mine, I take the liberty to request that your Honour will be pleased to inform me by a line, if you have any objection to administer them. Your condescension herein will lay me under the most lasting obligations.

I am, with the greatest respect, Sir, your Honour's most obedient and most humble servant,

JAMES CURGENVEN.

The Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Esq., Governour of His Majesty's Colony of Connecticut, &c., &c., &c.

I, James Curgenvén, do sincerely promise and swear, that I will be faithful, and bear true allegiance to His Majesty George the Third. So help me God.

I, James Curgenvén, do swear that I do, from my heart, abhor, detest, and abjure, as impious and heretical, that damnable doctrine and position that Princes, excommunicated or deprived by the Pope or any authority of the See of Rome, may be deposed or murdered by their subjects or any other whatsoever. And I do declare that no foreign prince, person, prelate, state, or potentate, hath, or ought to have, any jurisdiction, power, superiority, pre-eminence, or authority, ecclesiastical or spiritual, within the Realm of Great Britain. So help me God.

I, James Curgenvén, do solemnly, in the presence of God, profess, testify, and declare, that I do believe that in the Sacraments of the Lord's Supper there is not any transubstantiation of the elements of bread and wine in the body and blood of Christ, at or after the consecration thereof by any person whatsoever, and that the invocation or adoration of the Virgin Mary, or any other Saint, and the sacrifice of the Mass, as they are now used in the Church of Rome, are superstitious and idolatrous. And I do solemnly, in the presence of God, profess, testify, and declare, that I do make this declaration, and every part thereof, in the plain and ordinary sense of the words read unto me, as they are commonly understood by English Protestants, without any evasion, equivocation, or mental reservation whatsoever, and without any dispensation already granted me for this purpose by the Pope, or any authority or person whatsoever, or without any hope of any such dispensation from any authority or person whatsoever, or without thinking that I am or can be acquitted before God or man, or absolved of this declaration, or any part thereof, although the Pope or any other person or persons, or power whatsoever, should dispense with or annul the same, or declare that it was null and void from the beginning.

I, James Curgenvén, do truly and sincerely acknowledge, profess, testify, and declare, in my conscience, before God and the world, that our sovereign Lord, King George, is lawful and rightful King of this Realm, and all other His Majesty's Dominions and Countries thereunto belonging. And I do solemnly declare, that I do believe, in my conscience, that not any of the descendants of the person who pretended to be Prince of Wales during the life of the late King James the Second, and since his decease, pretended to be, and took upon himself the style and title of King of England, by the name of James the Third, or of Scotland, by the name of James the Eighth, or the style or title of King of Great Britain, hath any right or title whatsoever to the Crown of this Realm, or any other Dominions thereunto belonging. And I do renounce, refuse, and abjure any allegiance or obedience to any of them; and I do swear that I will bear faith and true allegiance to His Majesty King George, and him will defend to the utmost of my power against all traitorous conspiracies and attempts whatsoever, which shall be made against his person, crown, or dignity. And I will do my utmost endeavour to disclose and make known to His Majesty and his successor all treasons and traitorous conspiracies which I shall know to be against him or any of them. And I do faithfully promise, to the utmost of my power, to support, maintain, and defend the succession of the Crown against the defendants of the said James, and against all persons whatsoever, which succession, by an Act intituled "An Act for the further limitation of the Crown, and better securing the rights and liberties of the Subjects," is and stands limited to the Princess Sophia, Electress and Dutches Dowager of Hanover, and the heirs of her body being Protestants. And all these things I do plainly and sincerely acknowledge and swear, according to these express words by me spoken, according to the plain common sense and understanding of the same words, without any equivocation, mental evasion, or secret reservation whatsoever. And I do now make this recognition, acknowledgment, abjuration, renunciation, and promise, heartily, willingly, and truly, upon the true faith of a Christian. So help me God.

JAMES CURGENVEN.

Camp Cambridge, June 5, 1775.

The Petition of the subscribers, Soldiers in the Company commanded by Captain DRURY, humbly sheweth:

That your petitioners, with the utmost concern, find themselves shifted out of Colonel Nixen's Regiment into that of Colonel Gardner's, contrary to our inclination, and repugnant to the promise made us at our enlisting. We, therefore, beg that your Excellency would be pleased to continue us in the Regiment we engaged to serve in, and not to be removed for the future only to serve the malevolent disposition of our Captain; and, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

TOWN MEETING IN CONWAY, NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

At a legal meeting held by the inhabitants of Conway, on the fifth day of June, 1775, the following Votes were passed:

Voted, That Col. Andrew McMullen, Capt. Timothy Walker, Capt. David Page, Lieut. James Osgood, and Ensign Joshua Heath, be a Committee at and in behalf of the Town, in any matter respecting the present time of difficulty.

Voted, That the Town will aid and assist the above Committee that is chosen in behalf of the Town to preserve the peace and order of it, whenever the Committee shall judge occasion.

Voted, That this Committee be fully empowered to inquire touching any obnoxious person who may flee to this Town for an asylum, and that they shall judge whether it is expedient for any such refugee to reside here, or depart from it; and any inhabitant of this Town who shall be obnoxious, shall be only accountable to the Committee for their conduct.

Voted, That no other person but the Committee shall concern with any such refugees; but if any person shall know of any such obnoxious person coming into Town, the earliest notice thereof shall be given the Committee.

Voted, That the Committee be empowered to call before them, and upon proper evidence to pass upon any inhabitants of the Town, who shall dare to transgress any of the preceding Votes, or in any manner to disturb the peace of the Town.

Voted, That the Committee shall make application to the Congress of this Province for arms and ammunition that are wanting in this Town, and for men for a scouting guard for our safety.

RICHARD EASTMAN, Town Clerk.

TO THE MINISTER.

London, June 6, 1775.

The sword of civil war is at last unsheathed. You are astonished; for you believed those sagacious counsellors, who assured you that the Americans were cowards. You were persuaded that what you are pleased to call "firmness" in the King, and "steadiness" in his Ministers, were alone sufficient to stifle that thing called "liberty," which, having fled from this island, took shelter in America. You find, my Lord, you were deceived, and from that fatal hour in which the hostile sword glittered in America, every ship will bring fresh proof of your error. I know the Americans, my Lord, better than any of your military informers. You are deceived, abused, wretchedly abused, and you will find your error when it is too late. Just God! I lose all patience when I recollect the incredible absurdity of your conduct; the paltry, shallow, contemptible system of politics, by which every transaction of your Ministry hath been governed. With regard to America, you have struggled under an universal cloud of insatiation, and the arguments of your treasury slaves in support of your tyranny are a continued burlesque on argumentation. You have been equally unlucky, my Lord, in your pensioned scribblers, the two celebrated Doctors, who, unfortunately for your Lordship, are, in-truth, most scurvy politicians.

But, my Lord, I will, for the present, waive all other matters of discussion, and confine myself to the topick of the day. America, my Lord, America! You shudder at the sound. I marvel not; it will be your destruction. Your present game, my Lord, depends entirely on your ability to persuade the people of England that their fellow-subjects in America are in a state of rebellion. The people of England are less liable to mistake declamation for argument than any people in Europe. The people of England know that to resist illegal exertions of power is not rebellion. If you, my Lord, have presumed to stretch the power of the Crown, or of the Parliament, beyond its legal bounds, you are a rebel to the People and a traitor to your Country. You have dared to tax America, an unrepresented part of the King's Dominions. That taxation and representation are inseparable, is the avowed opinion of the first lawyer in the Kingdom. It is not only an opinion, but a glaring axiom of the Constitution; and if you dare deny it, my Lord, I thus publicly declare you an errant traitor to your Country. America is not represented, and therefore cannot be taxed but by themselves; and whatever may be your present position, I pledge my credit with the publick, that I will bring you or your advocates to acknowledge the truth of this position. If, therefore, you have presumed to tax America illegally; if you have sent an Army to enforce laws unconstitutionally enacted, the Americans are not in a state of rebellion. On the contrary, they deserve our prayers and assistance; and you, my Lord, are the arch rebel against whom all our vengeance should be directed. I am unexpectedly interrupted, and I must therefore beg leave to conclude myself, my Lord, yours, &c.

PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

Charlestown, Tuesday, June 6, 1775.

Resolved, That the following gentlemen, viz: Sir Edmund Head, Bart., David Deas, Esq., Mr. John Fullerton, Mr. John Wagner, Mr. Josiah Smith, Jr., Mr. Joseph Dill, Robert Williams, Jr., Esq., Mr. Thomas Eveleigh, John Scott, Esq., of Broad-street, Major William Savage, Mr. Edward Lightwood, Captain Alexander Gillon, Alexander Rose, Esq., Mr. George Abbott Hall, Mr. Barnard Beckman, Captain Edward Blake, Doctor Peter Fayssoux, Captain Simon Tufts, Captain John Scott, Mr. James Fagartie, Mr. William Johnson, Mr. James Carsan, Joshua Ward, Esq., Mr. Samuel Legare, Mr. Charles Johnston, and Mr. John Horlbeck, be a Committee to receive the signatures of all the inhabitants of Charlestown, to the Association entered into on the third instant, and signed on the fourth by every member of this Congress. And that it be recommended to them to complete the subscriptions as speedily as possible, and make a return of the names of such as decline to sign the said Association, to the General Committee.

By order of the Congress:

PETER TIMOTHY, Secretary.

CHESTER COUNTY (PENNSYLVANIA) COMMITTEE.

In Committee, Chester County, June 6, 1775.

The Committee met pursuant to appointment, in the Township of Charlestown, and proceeded to examine into the charge lodged against William Moore, Esquire, setting forth that he was inimical to the liberties of America, and that he had expressed a design to oppose the present Association.

Mr. Moore being ill, was waited on by two of the Committee, with copies of the several charges exhibited against him, to which, after due consideration, he returned the following answer, viz:

GENTLEMEN: I have read the different charges against me, which have been laid before you, and am extremely sorry for any unguarded expression therein contained that may have dropped from me; for believe me, I have no interest but what is in America. I wish well to every individual in it, and pray that its liberties may be preserved to the latest times. I also further declare that I have of late encouraged, and will continue to encourage, learning the military art, apprehending the time is not far distant when there may be occasion for it.

I hope, gentlemen, this will be satisfactory to you. I am now an old man, and cannot possibly entertain a thought but what is friendly to America, in which I am to leave my family and all that is dear to me; and the short time I have to live, I wish to seek peace with all men.

Witness my hand this 6th of June, 1775.

WM. MOORE.

To Anthony Wayne, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Chester County.

On motion, Resolved, nem. con., That William Moore, Esquire, has made a proper acknowledgment, and given a satisfactory answer to this Committee: Therefore, Ordered, That this proceeding be published, to the end that Mr. Moore's person and property may remain free from injury on account of any thing that has heretofore been alleged against him respecting publick matters.

By order of the Committee:

LEWIS GRONOW, Secretary pro tem.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 6, 1775.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR: We take leave to enclose a Resolution of the Grand Congress, of the 31st of May, and at the same time to present you our acknowledgments for the letter which we had the honour to receive from you, dated the 29th.

Be assured, Sir, that we are most gratefully sensible of the cheerfulness with which the Government of Connecticut has exerted itself to support the important posts of Crown Point and Ticonderoga, until our abilities may enable us to execute that trust which the Continental Congress has, on that subject, thought proper in the first instance to repose in us.

In compliance with the requisitions made upon us, we have expedited our orders for the several things contained in the enclosed lists, at the bottom whereof are accounts of the several articles already sent for that service, and the persons employed in it.

We are sorry to present you with the very disagreeable intelligence that we have not a sufficient quantity of powder in this Colony to enable us at present to contribute in the least towards supplying those forts with that article; a circumstance which is the more distressing, as we have great reason to believe that a considerable quantity will be required for the defence of the northern frontier.

We pray your Honour to believe that we feel the utmost desire of co-operating with our sister Colonies in executing the Resolves of the Congress, and that we are, with great respect, your Honour's most obedient humble servants.

Per order, and in behalf of the Provincial Congress:

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

To the Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Governour of the Colony of Connecticut.

FREDERICK WEISSENFELS AND OTHERS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 6, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: As we have ever been heartily attached to the cause of our Country, so we are now ready to engage in the defence of its rights; and as we understand Troops are soon to be raised in this Province, we think it a duty incumbent on us to offer our service.

Should you think proper to confide in us, and appoint us, respectively, to the command of a company, we shall study to conduct ourselves in such a manner as to merit your approbation.

We are, with the greatest respect, gentlemen, your most humble servants,

FREDK. WEISSENFELS,	GARRET ROORBACK,
MARINUS WILLETT,	JACOBUS WYNKOOP,
GERSHOM MOTT,	JAMES ALNER,
JOHN JOHNSON,	JOHN QUACKENBOS.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress of the Province of New-York.

PIERPONT EDWARDS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 6, 1775.

SIR: I am now on my way to Connecticut; shall therefore be much obliged to the Congress of this Province for giving me the fullest information of the measures they have adopted, that I may communicate them to the House of Representatives of the Colony of Connecticut.

As it will be impossible for me to give them an accurate account, relying merely on memory, I shall esteem it a favour to be furnished with attested copies of those parts of the Minutes of the Congress which contain the most important Resolutions and Orders.

I intend to set out to-morrow morning, and shall esteem myself happy in having an opportunity to execute any commands that the Congress may have to the Eastward.

I am, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

PIERPONT EDWARDS.

Peter V. B. Livingston, Esquire.

KINGSTON, (ULSTER COUNTY, NEW-YORK,) COMMITTEE.

Kingston, June 6, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Whereas, there is a dispute now subsisting between me and you, gentlemen of the Committee of this Town; and considering that unanimity is necessary for the preservation of our rights and liberties at this critical juncture, the welfare of individuals, and for my own interest in particular, I do most earnestly request, if it be possible, that we may come to an amicable reconciliation, by the following concessions:

First. That I am very sorry so great a misunderstanding has so long subsisted between us, respecting the difference in opinion of the Resolves of the Continental Congress.

Secondly. I earnestly entreat that the gentlemen of the Committee will forgive me all the offences and transgressions, wherein I have offended and injured them in their respective reputations or characters, either in their publick or private capacities.

JACOBUS LOW.

At a Meeting of the Committee of the Town of Kingston, in Ulster County, on the sixth day of June, 1775:

It is hereby certified to all whom it may concern, that Mr. Jacobus Low, of said Town of Kingston, personally appeared before us, and did make all such reasonable satisfaction (by publick concession) as was required relative to his former conduct. And we recommend to the publick, that from henceforth he may again be received as a friend to the liberties and privileges of British-America.

By order of the Committee:

JOHANNES SLEIGHT, Chairman.

I am both disposed and willing to forgive all injuries and damages which I have sustained in consequence of divers advertisements.

JACOBUS LOW.

CAPT. HENRY B. LIVINGSTON TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Claremont, June 6, 1775.

SIR: Yesterday I received my warrant (which permits me the liberty I now take) from Captain Shelden, a member of the Committee appointed for Dutchess County. It was not without surprise I received a commission inferior to that I have been honoured with. But the reflection, that the Congress will undoubtedly supply places of higher rank with more experienced officers, soon rid me of the disagreeable sensations my degradation had excited, and determined me to accept of the commission offered, with a fixed resolution to be as useful to my Country as the station I am placed in will allow me. I have this day enlisted ten men, and have provided quarters and provisions for my whole complement, at the rate of eight shillings per week for each man. The men I have enlisted bear good characters, and to appearance are healthy, lively, and of robust constitutions; proper persons will be appointed to inspect them by Saturday next. Few of them will be able to furnish shoes, stockings, arms, &c. You will infinitely oblige me if you would lay this matter before the Congress, and use your endeavours to get arms sent to us as expeditiously as possible, as the disciplining them will be much retarded for want of them. I can enlist many who have those necessities, but this will take up more time, and perhaps hinder me from getting men so fit for action as those I now have. A fifer, I believe, cannot be found in this part of the Country; a drummer I have engaged. The rest of my task shall, with all diligence, be performed. Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

HENRY B. LIVINGSTON.

To Peter V. B. Livingston, Esquire, President of the Provincial Congress of New-York.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

At a full meeting of the Delegates from the several Towns in the County of Cumberland, Colony of New-York, convened at Westminster, June 6, 1775:

The County of Cumberland having received certain intelligence from Mr. Isaac Low, Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence at New-York, that it is the desire of the said respectable Committee of Correspondence at New-York, that the sense of the people in said County of Cumberland should be fully known with regard to the hostile measures that are using by the British Parliament to enforce the late cruel, unjust, and oppressive Acts of the said British Parliament, through the British Colonies in America: We, the Delegates from the several Towns and Districts in said County of Cumberland, being chosen by the freeholders and inhabitants of the same, to exhibit to the Provincial Congress the sense and voice of the people with regard to the unjust proceedings of the British Parliament, &c., do pass the following Resolves:

1. Resolved, nem. con., That the late Acts of the British Parliament, passed in order to raise a revenue in America, are unjust, illegal, and diametrically opposite to the Bill of Rights, and a fundamental principle of the British Constitution, which is, "that no person shall have his property taken from him without his consent."

2. Resolved, nem. con., That we will resist and oppose the said Acts of Parliament, in conjunction with our brethren in America, at the expense of our lives and fortunes, to the last extremity, if our duty to God and our Country require the same.

3. Resolved, nem. con., That we think it needless to pass many resolves exhibiting our sentiments with regard to the unhappy controversy subsisting between Great Britain and America. Let it suffice, therefore, that we fully acquiesce with what our brethren have lately done at New-York, in their late Association; and it is hereby resolved that the late Association entered into at New-York is perfectly agreeable to the sentiments of the freeholders and inhabitants of this County, and that they fully acquiesce in the same.

4. Resolved, nem. con., That this County is at present in a very broken situation with regard to the civil authority. We therefore sincerely desire that the advice of the honourable Congress may be by our Delegates transmitted to us, whereby some order and regularity may be established among us. We therefore should take it as a favour if the honourable Congress would particularly recommend to us in this County some measures to be pursued by us the inhabitants of the same; for we are persuaded their advice herein would have great weight to influence our people universally to pursue such measures as would tend to the peace, safety, and good order of this County for the future.

5. Resolved, nem. con., That we, the inhabitants of this County, are at present in an extremely defenceless state with regard to arms and ammunition. We sincerely desire the honourable Provincial Congress would consider us in this respect, and from their generosity and goodness would do what in them lies for our relief in the premises. We have many brave soldiers, but, unhappily for us, we have nothing to fight with.

6. Resolved, nem. con., That in pursuance of the Honourable Isaac Low's (Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence) request for this County to send Delegates to the City of New-York, in order to ascertain the sentiments of the people in the County concerning the unconstitutional measures lately adopted by the British Parliament against the Americans in general, and some other matters, and so forth, we do hereby vote and resolve, that Colonel John Hazeltine, Doctor Paul Spooner, and William Williams, Esquire, be our Delegates to meet and join the other respectable Delegates convened at New-York, to represent the affairs of this County in said Congress, at the City of New-York.

JOHN HAZELTINE,

Chairman of the County of Cumberland Congress and Committee of Correspondence.

JAMES EASTON TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Crown Point, June 6, 1775.

RESPECTABLE GENTLEMEN: It is of the utmost importance to the United Colonies to cultivate harmony and friendship with the Canadians and their Indians. I have painfully exerted myself to procure and secure it. Have sent you a copy of a letter Colonel Allen and myself wrote to the Canadians. It appears to me of importance that your Honours should be acquainted with the state of policy and of facts. You will discern by perusing the enclosed, that a party of Canadians made an attack upon our reconnoitring party. Since that, Mr. Ferris, an inhabitant of the New-Hampshire Grants, has been at Montreal, and returned to this place. He is a man I can confide in, and informs that Saint Luke La Corne, who acted many barbarities towards our people last war, (for which he was sainted,) has been using his utmost influence to excite the Canadians and Indians to take part in the war against the United Colonies, and that he and Captain McCoy, who commanded the Canadians' attack, have made but little proficiency. Most of the said party of Canadians were appointed officers, but could procure but very few soldiers, and not one Indian. Saint Luke advises that some in every Parish be immediately executed, except they will join the King's Troops. There are lately come to St. John's near two hundred Regulars, and joined Captain McCoy's party of about fifty Canadians, who have been mentioned as assailants on the reconnoitring party; they are there fortifying.

I still retain my sentiments, that policy demands that the Colonies advance an Army of two or three thousand men into Canada and environ Montreal. This will inevitably fix and confirm the Canadians and Indians in our interest. Nothing gives me so much concern, as the mistaken policy in our worthy Congresses and Assemblies, who, for want of the real knowledge of certain facts, imagine that to push an Army thither would offend the Canadians, and incense them against the Colonies. The armed vessels are advanced to the north part of the lake to command it, and consequently to guard the frontier settlements thereon.

We hear that Colonel Hinman is appointed Commander-in-Chief of this department, and is marching hither with a thousand men. This is joyful tidings to us; we hope it will prove true; for we cannot long conduct our Army, without it be regularly organized with officers, and under pay. I am, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

JAMES EASTON.

To the Hon. Provincial Congress, Committee of Safety, or the Council of War, at Watertown and Cambridge.

STAMFORD (CONNECTICUT) COMMITTEE.

Stamford, June 6, 1775.

At a meeting of the Committee of Observation for the Town of Stamford, held in said Stamford on Tuesday, the 6th day of June, 1775, personally appeared Silvanus Whitney, of said Stamford, before said Committee, and made the following confession: Whereupon, the Committee passed sentence against him, agreeable to the direction of the Continental Congress. His punishment being greater than he was able to bear, he requested the liberty to advertise himself, and offering to deliver up the unfortunate Tea to be burnt, the Committee were of opinion that it would satisfy the publick, who are requested to accept of the following concession as a satisfaction for his crime.

By order of the Committee:

JOHN HAIT, JUN., Clerk.

TO THE PUBLICK.

Whereas I, the subscriber, have been guilty of buying and selling Bohea Tea, since the first of March last past, whereby I have been guilty of a breach of the Association entered into by the Continental Congress; and sensible of my misconduct, do, in this publick manner, confess my crime, and humbly request the favour of the publick to overlook this my transgression, promising for the future to conduct myself as a true friend to my Country. And in testimony of my sincerity, I do now deliver up the whole of the Tea I have on hand unto the said Committee of Inspection, to be by them committed to the flames.

SILVANUS WHITNEY.

A short Narrative of the execution of the unfortunate Tea above-mentioned.

About eight o'clock in the evening, a gallows was erected in the middle of the street opposite Mr. Weed's tavern; a large concourse of people soon collected, and were joined by a number of the soldiery quartered in the Town. A grand procession soon began to move. In the first place, a large guard under arms, headed by two Captains, who lead the van, with the unfortunate Tea hung across a pole, sustained by two unarmed soldiers. Secondly, followed the Committee of Observation. Thirdly, the spectators who came to see the great sight. And after parading through part of the principal streets, with drums beating and fifes playing a most doleful sound, they came to the gallows, where the common hangman soon performed his office, to the general satisfaction of the spectators. As it was thought dangerous to let the said Tea hang all night, for fear of an invasion from our Tea-lovers, a large bonfire was made under it, which soon reduced it to ashes; and, after giving three loud huzzas, the people soon dispersed to their respective homes, without any bad consequences attending.

The owner of the aforesaid Tea attended during the execution, and behaved himself as well as could be expected on the occasion.

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

Cambridge, New-England, June 6, 1775.

This being the day agreed on for the exchange of Prisoners, between twelve and one o'clock Doctor Warren and Brigadier General Putnam, in a phaeton, together with Major Dunbar and Lieutenant Hamilton, of the Sixty-Fourth, on horseback, Lieutenant Potter, of the Marines, in a chaise, John Hilton, of the Forty-Seventh, Alexander Campbell, of the Fourth, John Tyne, Samuel Marcy, Thomas Parry, and Thomas Sharp, of the Marines, wounded men, in two carts, the whole escorted by the Weathersfield Company, under the command of Captain Chester, entered the Town of Charlestown, and marching slowly through it, halted at the ferry, where, upon a signal being given, Major Moncrief landed from the Lively, in order to receive the prisoners, and see his old friend, General Putnam. Their meeting was truly cordial and affectionate. The wounded privates were soon sent on board the Lively; but Major Moncrief and the other officers returned with General Putnam and Doctor Warren, to the house of Doctor Foster, where an entertainment was provided for them.

About three o'clock a signal was made by the Lively, that they were ready to deliver up our prisoners; upon which, General Putnam and Major Moncrief went to the ferry, where they received Messrs. John Peck, James Hewes, James Brewer, and Daniel Preston, of Boston, Messrs. Samuel Frost and Seth Russell, of Cambridge, Mr. Joseph Bell, of Danvers, Mr. Elijah Seaver, of Roxbury, and Caesar Augustus, a negro servant to Mr. Tileston, of Dorchester, who were conducted to the house of Captain Foster, and there refreshed; after which the General and Major returned to their company, and spent an hour or two in a very agreeable manner. Between five and six o'clock, Major Moncrief, with the officers that had been delivered to him, were conducted to the ferry, where the Lively's barge received them. After which, General Putnam, with the prisoners that had been delivered to him, &c., returned to Cambridge, escorted in the same manner as before. The whole was conducted with the utmost decency and good humour, and the Weathersfield Company did honour to themselves, their officers, and their Country. The regular officers expressed themselves as highly pleased. Those who had been prisoners acknowledged the genteel, kind treatment they had received from their captors. The privates, who were all wounded men, expressed, in the strongest terms, their grateful sense of the tenderness which had been shewn them in their miserable situation; some of them could do it only by their tears. It would have been to the honour of the British arms, if the prisoners taken from us could, with justice, have made the same acknowledgment. It cannot be supposed that any officers of rank, or common humanity, were knowing to the repeated cruel insults that were offered to them; but it may not be amiss to hint to the upstarts concerned, two truths, of which they seem to be totally ignorant, viz: that compassion is as essential a part of the character of a truly brave man as daring; and that insult offered to a person entirely in the power of the insulter, smells as strongly of cowardice as it does of cruelty.

DECLARATION OF JOHN PRENTICE.

Londonderry, N. H., June 6, 1775.

Whereas I, the subscriber, was so unfortunate some time since as to sign an address to the late Governour Hutchinson, so universally and so justly deemed an enemy to American liberty and freedom, I hereby, in this publick manner declare, that at the time I signed the said address, I intended the good of my Country and that only; but finding, to my sorrow, it had not that but quite a contrary effect, I hereby renounce the same address in every part, and hope my injured and affronted fellow-countrymen will overlook my past misconduct, as I am ready to assist them in their struggles for liberty and freedom, in whatever way I shall be called upon by them.

JOHN PRENTICE.

King's Arms Tavern, Cornhill, London, June 7, 1775.

At a special meeting this day of several members of the Constitutional Society, during an adjournment, a gentleman proposed that a subscription should be immediately entered into by such of the members present who might approve the purpose, for raising the sum of one hundred Pounds, to be applied to the relief of the widows, orphans, and aged parents of our beloved American fellow-subjects, who, faithful to the character of Englishmen, preferring death to slavery, were, for that reason only, inhumanly murdered by the King's Troops at or near Lexington and Concord, in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, on the nineteenth of last April.

Which sum being immediately collected, it was thereupon

Resolved, That Mr. Horne do pay to-morrow, into the hands of Messrs. Brownes and Collison, on the account of Doctor Franklin, the said sum of one hundred Pounds, and that Doctor Franklin be requested to apply the same to the above mentioned purpose.

London, June 7, 1775.

A commercial correspondent has obliged us with the several quantities of wheat and flour imported at Bristol from the following Provinces, from the first of January, 1775, to the twenty-seventh of April last.

	Barrels of Flour.	Bushels of Wheat.
From New-York,	- 5,523	71,122
" Maryland,	- 7,594	91,888
" Philadelphia,	- 8,045	35,967
" Virginia,	- 1,252	42,155
	22,414	241,812

Suppose five bushels of wheat goes to a barrel of flour, which being added to the sum total of the wheat, makes 353,882 bushels, which is the produce of 17,694 acres; at twenty bushels per acre; and the value of the same, at five shillings per bushel, amounts to £88,470 10s. The bread, rye, rice, and Indian corn, are omitted, and likewise wheat, barley, and oats, imported from Holland, Germany, and Ireland, at Bristol.

During the abovesaid period, twenty ships were cleared out from Bristol for North America, with nothing but ballast, viz:

For New-York,	- - 7	Virginia,	- - 3
" Maryland,	- - 3	South Carolina,	3
" Philadelphia,	- 3	North Carolina,	1

N. B. The quantity of American provisions imported at Bristol, is scarce a fourth of what is imported at London, Liverpool, Lancaster, and throughout the other parts of England; and therefore when the Non-Exportation Agreement from America takes place, with the present scarcity and almost dearth of our own corn this year, a famine may be dreaded before next spring, if the present American disputes are not previously settled.

Charlestown, South-Carolina, June 8, 1775.

The Association signed by the Provincial Congress, and recommended by them as a proper instrument to be subscribed to at this juncture by persons of all persuasions, was, in a few days, with the greatest avidity and cheerfulness, signed also by almost every man in this Town; in short, such is here the spirit for liberty and freedom, that of the very few who objected, there were only two who were hardy enough to ridicule, or treat it with contempt, viz: Laughlin Martin and John Dealey, on which account they drew on themselves the resentment of the populace. Yesterday they were carted through the principal streets of this Town, in complete suits of tar and feathers. The very indecent and daring behaviour of the two culprits in several instances, occasioned their being made publick spectacles of. After having been exhibited for about half an hour, and having made many acknowledgments of their crime, they were conducted home, cleaned, and quietly put on board of Captain Laseley's ship, lying wind-bound for Bristol. We hear that, upon the intercession of Martin's friends, and his repeated promises of future good behaviour, he is allowed to come on shore and follow his business as usual.

To the Honourable Members of the Committee of Correspondence at CHARLESTOWN, the humble Petition of MICHAEL HUBART sheweth:

That upon the second day of June, your petitioner being in the house of Thomas Nicoll, in King-street, a certain James Dealey came in, and said there was good news come to Town. Being asked what it was, he answered that a number of arms was sent over to be distributed amongst the Negroes, Roman Catholics, and Indians. Upon which your petitioner replied, he thought it was very bad news that Roman Catholics and savages should be permitted to join and massacre christians. Upon which Dealey struck his breast, and swore "he was a Roman Catholic, and that he had arms, and would get arms, and use them as he pleased." Your petitioner went home to his house, and shortly after came in said Dealey and a certain Laughlin Martin, and A. Reed.

After sitting down a little, Laughlin Martin arose and said, "So, Mr. Hubart, you'll not allow Roman Catholics to carry guns." Your petitioner answered that his circumstances were too small to forbid any party or sect to carry arms. Martin then damned your petitioner for a false-faced villain, and declared he would believe Dealey sooner than me; at the same time ordered said Dealey to drag your petitioner out of the house and pull him to pieces, at the same time standing with a drawn cutteau in his hand, swearing if he did not, that he (Martin) would have blood himself. Dealey then dragged your petitioner into a shop in front of the house, holding him by the throat, until released by the aforesaid Reed. But, upon being released, said Martin came up with his cutteau drawn, threatening to put your petitioner to immediate death, when your petitioner, falling upon his knees, begged his life; your petitioners' wife and children begging at the same time to spare the life of their father and husband. Your petitioner then arose and went into the next room, but was still followed by Martin, who vowed to God if your petitioner did not beg pardon of Dealey, he would that instant cut off his head. Upon which your petitioner, to save his life, did ask his (Dealey's) pardon.

Martin then declared he was a Roman Catholic, and vowed to God to cut off the head of any person who said he should not carry arms. After which said Martin called for some drink, and drank of it with Dealey and Reed; and one of his toasts was, "Damnation to the Committee and their proceedings."

Your petitioner has prosecuted them as the law directs; but as the times appear to be very troublesome, and numbers of enemies both to the Protestant interest and the present cause are lurking amongst us, your petitioner hopes that you will inquire into such parts of the transaction as concerns the publick; and your petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

MICHAEL HUBART.

Secret—tar and feather him.

Passed the Secret Committee and ordered to be put in execution.

On the back of the petition is written, in the real handwriting of William Henry Drayton, the Chairman of the Secret Committee, the following, viz: Locklin Martin. James Dealey.†*

* To land and be discharged, upon his expressing his contrition in the most publick manner.

† Send away.

§ During the events which took place about this time, and of which mention has been made, it is of some consequence to observe, that in the course of June of this year, Laughlin Martin and James Dealey, having behaved in a very improper manner respecting the General Committee and their proceedings, as well as respecting the Association; and having threatened Michael Hubart with death, unless he begged their pardon for having justified the conduct of the Committee, he sent a petition, respecting the affair, to the Committee of Correspondence of Charlestown. This Committee immediately transferred it to the Secret Committee of five, who having considered the same, ordered both Martin and Dealey to be tarred and feathered. The order was promptly put in execution by suitable agents, and they were both stripped of their clothes, tarred, feathered, and carted through the streets of Charlestown, affording the first instance of such a spectacle in this Colony. This being done, the Secret Committee sent them on board a ship ready to sail for England; Laughlin Martin was, however, permitted to land again, and was discharged, on expressing his contrition in a publick manner, but James Dealey, for an example, was sent away. These summary measures have been supposed by writers to have proceeded from the intemperate zeal of the populace, and there can be no doubt but many of them took their rise from that source; but there can be as little doubt this first commencement of so ludicrous and disgraceful a punishment owed its origin in South-Carolina to this very case. And that it was sanctioned and directed by the Secret Committee is equally clear, as the case is specially noted in the manuscript of William Henry Drayton, who was Chairman of that Committee, as having been done by the sanction of the same, and the original petition of Hubart, with the orders of the Secret Committee thereon, one of them in the known handwriting of the Chairman, Mr. Drayton, is now in the possession of the writer of these Memoirs. We need go no farther for authority to show what vast power and confidence were lodged in this Secret Committee of five, and particularly in the abilities, prudence, and enterprise of its leading members, William Henry Drayton, Arthur Middleton, and Charles Cotesworth Pinckney. And had the revolution not taken place, but colonial affairs had settled down in a rebellion, there can be no doubt but these distinguished patriots would have been marked out as early victims to private persecution and British vengeance. For the councils of this Committee were not paralyzed by timid opposition, as often happened in the Provincial Congress, Council of Safety, and General Committee. It was only necessary that the emergency should arise, calling on the Committee to act, for them to direct the blow; and it often fell before the cause of it could have been surmised. Hence the lead and tone which this Secret Committee gave to publick opinion and to publick operations, was great and decisive, and they much tended to concentrate the publick energies into a firm and manly opposition.—Drayton.

|| The British Forty-Seventh Regiment, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Neble, commenced this singular punishment on one of the inhabitants of the Town of Billerica, in the State of Massachusetts, on the eighth of March, 1775. See the London Remembrancer for 1775, page 62.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN NEW-YORK, DATED NORTH-CAROLINA, JUNE 7, 1775.

We are much alarmed here with the intentions of Administration; and unless affairs take a turn in our favour very shortly, we shall expect the worst effort of its villany, that of spiriting up an enemy among ourselves, from whose barbarity, if roused, the most dreadful consequences will follow. Our Governour has sent his family to New-York, and being greatly disgusted with the people of Newbern, has taken up his residence in Fort Johnston, at the mouth of Cape Fear River, which he has chosen as a place of retreat from popular complaints. Our brethren in the Colonies may be assured that we never shall be bribed, by the benefit of an exclusive trade, to desert the common cause.

WORCESTER COUNTY (MARYLAND) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of a great majority of the Committee of Worcester County, at the Court-House, at Snow Hill Town, on Wednesday, the 7th June, 1775:

BENTON HARRIS, Esquire, in the Chair.

1st. Resolved unanimously, That we owe and acknowledge most faithful and perfect duty and allegiance to His Majesty King George the Third, rightful King of Great Britain, &c.; that we are actuated by the most loyal and sincere attachment to his person, the most fervent zeal for the support of his Crown and dignity; and that, when constitutionally required, we are ready to expend our lives and fortunes in his service.

2d. Resolved unanimously, That we feel ourselves bound by the strongest ties of love and affection to our fellow-subjects in the Mother Country, and that we most ardently wish for a speedy, cordial, and permanent reconciliation and union with them; but we do further resolve, that we will, to the utmost of our power, oppose the detested ministerial plan for enslaving us—a plan calculated to divest us of every privilege which can render life valuable or desirable; that we are incontestably entitled to all the rights and liberties of Englishmen; that, as we received them from our glorious ancestors without spot or blemish, we are determined to transmit them pure and unsullied to our posterity.

3d. Resolved unanimously, That we will, from time to time, as often as shall be found necessary, contribute cheerfully for the support and relief of our distressed brethren in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, now actually experiencing the fullest extent of ministerial vengeance and tyranny, and groaning under the horrors of war, in defence of their and our common rights and liberties.

The following Letter from Mr. Dixon Quinton, an inhabitant of this County, relative to a quantity of Salt imported contrary to the Resolves of the Continental Congress, was produced and read, to wit:

"June 1st, 1775.

"SIR: I have bought forty bushels of Liverpool Salt, at two shillings per bushel; and if you have occasion for any, you may have it as I bought. Please to write me a line whether you will take any or no, that I may dispose of it to other people. From your humble servant,

"DIXON QUINTON."

"To Mr. James Houston, this."

Likewise Mr. Thomas Lambden, an inhabitant of this County, and crier of said County Court, being called before the Committee, and full proof being made that he had declared "all those who took up arms, or exercised agreeable to the Resolves of the Provincial Convention at Annapolis, to be rebels," and that, in conversation relative to a quantity of Salt being thrown into the water by the Baltimore Committee, the said Thomas Lambden had declared, "that the Committee were a parcel of damn'd rascals, and would not be easy until some of them were hanged up;" and further, that in conversation relative to a report that the Ships and Troops were about to be recalled from Boston, the said Thomas Lambden had declared, "that he should be very sorry they should be withdrawn, until the Bostonians were fully humbled;"

It is, therefore, unanimously Resolved, That we hold the said Dixon Quinton and Thomas Lambden to be enemies to their Country; that we are determined immediately to break off all dealings and intercourse with them, and with every person who shall have any connexion with them, or either of them; and do recommend to every attorney of this Province not to bring or prosecute any action at law, nor to appear or plead for them, or either of them, on any trial, until they shall make such proper acknowledgments, and show such genuine marks of repentance and reformation as shall be satisfactory to a majority of this Committee.

Resolved, That these proceedings be immediately printed in the Maryland Gazette.

DELAWARE ASSEMBLY.

Monday, June 5, 1775.

The House met, pursuant to their adjournment, and adjourned till ten o'clock, on Wednesday, A. M.

Wednesday, June 7, 1775, A. M.

The House met, pursuant to their adjournment, and the Speaker assumed the Chair.

The Speaker informed the House that, during the recess of this House, he had received a Letter from the Speaker of the House of Assembly at New-York, enclosing a List of Grievances, with the Resolutions of the House in consequence thereof; also, a Petition to the King, a Memorial to the House of Lords, and a Representation and Remonstrance to the Commons of Great Britain, which he now laid before the House.

On motion, by order,

The same were read, and ordered to be filed among the Records of this House.

The House being informed by the Delegates appointed to represent this Colony in the Grand Continental Congress now held at Philadelphia, in the Province of Pennsylvania; that the said Congress are unanimously of opinion, that it is absolutely necessary, for the preservation of the lives, liberties, and properties of the good people of the twelve United Colonies, and of the Parish of St. John's, in Georgia, to have an armed force, at their general expense, sufficient for repelling and defeating all hostile attempts by arms to deprive them of the same, took the same into their most serious consideration, and unanimously approved thereof.

Resolved, nemine contradicente, That the inhabitants of this Government be chargeable and charged with their quota or share of said expense, to be ascertained by the Congress, and that this House will provide the same by all ways and means in their power.

Resolved, nemine contradicente, That the sum of Five Hundred Pounds be drawn for by the Speaker, upon the Trustees of the several Loan Offices of this Government, according to the Proportion Act, to be paid to Mr. Speaker, Thomas McKean, and George Read, Esquires, towards the share of this Colony of the expense aforesaid; and that the same be hereafter replaced in the said Offices by the Assembly.

Then the House adjourned till the twenty-first day of August next.

GENERAL LEE TO GENERAL BURGOTNE IN BOSTON.

Philadelphia, June 7, 1775.

MY DEAR SIR: We have had twenty different accounts of your arrival at Boston, which have been regularly contradicted the next morning; but as I now find it certain that you are arrived, I shall not delay a single instant addressing myself to you; it is a duty I owe to the friendship I have long and sincerely professed for you; a friendship to which you have the strongest claims from the first moments of our acquaintance. There is no man from whom I have received so many testimonies of esteem and affection; there is no man whose esteem and affection could, in my opinion, have done me greater honour: I entreat and conjure you, therefore, my dear Sir, to impute these lines not to a petulant itch of scribbling, but to the most unfeigned solicitude for the future tranquillity of your mind, and for your reputation. I sincerely lament the infatuation of the times, when men of such a stamp as Mr. Burgoyne and Mr. Howe can be seduced into so impious and nefarious a service by the artifice of a wicked and insidious Court and Cabinet. You, Sir, must be sensible that these epithets are not unjustly severe. You have yourself experienced the wickedness and treachery of this Court and Cabinet. You cannot but recollect their manœuvres in your own Select Committee, and the treatment yourself, as President, received from these abandoned men. You cannot but recollect the black business of St. Vincent's, by an opposition to which you acquired the highest and most deserved honour. I shall not trouble you with my opinion of the right of taxing America without her own consent, as I am afraid, from what I have seen of your speeches, that you have already formed your creed on this article: but I will boldly affirm, had this right been established by a thousand statutes; had America admitted it from time immemorial, it would be the duty of every good Englishman to exert his utmost to divest Parliament of this right, as it must inevitably work the subversion of the whole Empire. The malady under which the state labours is indisputably derived from the inadequate representation of the subject, and the vast pecuniary influence of the Crown. To add to this pecuniary influence and incompetency of representation, is to insure and precipitate our destruction. To wish any addition can scarcely enter the heart of a citizen who has the least spark of publick virtue, and who is at the same time capable of seeing consequences the most immediate. I appeal, Sir, to your own conscience, to your experience and knowledge of our Court and Parliament; and I request you to lay your hand upon your heart, and then answer with your usual integrity and frankness, whether, on the supposition America should be abject enough to submit to the terms imposed, you think a single guinea raised upon her would be applied to the purpose (as it is ostentatiously held out to deceive the people at home) of easing the Mother Country; or whether you are not convinced that the whole they could extract would be applied solely to heap up still further the enormous fund for corruption which the Crown already possesses, and of which the most diabolical use is made? On these principles I say, Sir, every good Englishman, abstracted of all regard for America, must oppose her being taxed by the British Parliament. For my own part, I am convinced that no argument (not totally abhorrent from the spirit of liberty and the British Constitution) can be produced in support of this right. But it would be impertinent to trouble you upon a subject which has been so amply, and, in my opinion, so fully discussed.

I find, by a speech given as yours in the papers, that it was by the King's positive command you embarked in this service. I am somewhat pleased that it is not an office of your own seeking, though, at the same time, I must confess that it is very alarming to every virtuous citizen, when he sees men of sense and integrity (because of a certain profession) lay it down as a rule implicitly to obey the mandates of a Court, be they ever so flagitious. It furnishes, in my opinion, the best arguments for the total reduction of the Army. But I am running into a tedious essay, whereas I ought to confine myself to the main design and purpose of this letter, which is to guard you and your colleagues from those prejudices which the same miscreants who have infatuated General Gage, and still surround him, will labour to instil into you against a brave, loyal, and most deserving people. The avenues of truth will be shut up to you. I assert, Sir, that even General Gage will deceive you, as he has deceived himself. I do not say he will do it designedly; I do not think him capable. But his mind is so totally poisoned, and his understanding so totally blinded by the society of fools and knaves, that he no longer is capable of discerning facts as manifest as the noon-day sun. I assert, Sir, that his letters to the Ministry (at least such as the publick have seen) are one continued tissue of misrepresentation, injustice, and tortured inferences from misstated facts. I affirm, Sir, that he has taken no pains to inform himself of the truth; that he has never conversed with a man who has had the courage or honesty to tell him the truth.

I am apprehensive that you and your colleagues may fall into the same trap; and it is the apprehension that you may be inconsiderately hurried, by the vigour and activity you possess, into measures which may be fatal to many innocent individuals; may hereafter wound your own feelings; and which cannot possibly serve the cause of those who sent you, that has prompted me to address these lines to you. I most devoutly wish that your industry, valour, and military talents, may be reserved for a more honourable and virtuous service against the natural enemies of our Country, (to whom our Court are so basely complacent,) and not in ineffectual attempts to reduce to the wretchedest state of servitude the most meritorious part of your fellow-subjects. I say, Sir, that any attempts to accomplish this purpose must be ineffectual. You cannot possibly succeed. No man is better acquainted with the state of this Continent than myself. I have ran through almost the whole Colonies, from the north to the south, and from the south to the north. I have conversed with all orders of men, from the first estated gentlemen to the lowest planters and farmers, and can assure you that the same spirit animates the whole. Not less than one hundred and fifty thousand gentlemen, yeomen, and farmers, are now in arms, determined to preserve their liberties or perish.

As to the idea that the Americans are deficient in courage, it is too ridiculous and glaringly false to deserve a serious refutation. I never could conceive upon what this notion was founded. I served several campaigns in America last war, and cannot recollect a single instance of ill-behaviour in the Provincials, where the Regulars acquitted themselves well. Indeed, we well remember some instances of the reverse, particularly where the late Colonel Grant (he who lately pledged himself for the general cowardice of America) ran away with a large body of his own Regiment, and was saved from destruction by the valour of a few Virginians. Such preposterous arguments are only proper for the Rigbys and Sandwiches, from whose mouths never issued, and to whose breasts truth and decency are utter strangers.

You will much oblige me in communicating this letter to General Howe, to whom I could wish it should be considered in some measure addressed, as well as to yourself. Mr. Howe is a man for whom I have ever had the highest love and reverence. I have honoured him for his own connexions, but above all for his admirable talents and good qualities. I have courted his acquaintance and friendship, not only as a pleasure, but as an ornament; I flattered myself that I had obtained it. Gracious God! is it possible that Mr. Howe should be prevailed upon to accept of such an office! That the brother of him, to whose memory the much injured people of Boston erected a monument, should be employed as one of the instruments of their destruction. But the fashion of the times, it seems, is such as renders it impossible he should avoid it. The commands of our most gracious Sovereign are to cancel all moral obligations, to sanctify every action, even those that the satrap of an Eastern despot would start at.

I shall now beg leave to say a few words with respect to myself, and the part I act. I was bred up from my infancy in the highest veneration for the liberties of mankind in general. What I have seen of Courts and Princes convinces me, that the power cannot be lodged in worse hands than in theirs; and of all Courts, I am persuaded that ours is the most corrupt and hostile to the rights of humanity. I am convinced that a regular plan has been laid (indeed every act since the present accession evinces it) to abolish even the shadow of liberty from amongst us. It was not the demolition of the tea, it was not any other particular act of the Bostonians, or of the other Provinces which constituted their crimes; but it is the noble spirit of liberty pervading the whole Continent which has rendered them the objects of ministerial and royal vengeance. Had they been notoriously of another disposition; had they been homines ad servitutinem parates, they might have made as free with the property of the East-India Company as the felonious North himself, with impunity. But the Lords of St. James's, and their mercenaries of St. Stephen's, well know, that as long as the free spirit of this great Continent remains unsubdued, the progress they can make in their scheme of universal despotism will be but trifling. Hence it is that they wage inexpiable war against America. In short, this is the last asylum of persecuted Liberty.

Here, should the machinations and fury of her enemies prevail, that bright goddess must fly off from the face of the earth, and leave not a trace behind. These, Sir, are my principles; this is my persuasion; and, consequently, I am determined to act. I have now, Sir, only to entreat, that whatever measures you pursue, whether those which your real friends (myself amongst them) would wish, or unfortunately those which our accursed misrulers shall dictate, you will still believe me to be personally, with the greatest sincerity and affection,

Yours, &c.

C. LEE.

PHILADELPHIA COMMITTEE.

Philadelphia, June 7, 1775.

The Committee last evening having requested as many members as conveniently could to meet this day at the Coffee-House, to inquire concerning an information given, that Captain Robert Torrans had imported and sold Irish Linens some time about the first of May last, in direct violation of the Association of the Congress:

Mr. Blair McClenaghan, in whose vessel Captain Torrans sailed, gave the following affidavit, made by the Captain:

"On the fifth day of June, 1775, before the subscribing Justice, cometh Robert Torrans, Master of the Ship Duke of York, lately arrived at the City of Philadelphia, and maketh oath on the Holy Gospels, and saith, that Mr. Blair McClenaghan, of said City, merchant, was not privy to, nor interested in any goods or merchandise lately imported in said vessel from Ireland; and that Blair McClenaghan aforesaid was not privy to, nor aiding or assisting, nor consenting to the sale, landing, or putting on shore at Philadelphia, or elsewhere in America, said goods or merchandise so imported.

ROBERT TORRANS.

"Taken and sworn before me: GEORGE BRYAN."

1. Resolved, That Mr. McClenaghan appears to this Committee to be liable to no censure or suspicion with regard to the importation, landing, or sale of goods in said vessel, and that he has done his duty in discharging Captain Torrans from his employ.

2. Resolved, That Messrs. Harbison and Dean call at Captain Torrans's lodgings, and inquire if he is in Town, and request his attendance immediately.

3. Messrs. Harbison and Dean report, that Captain Torrans has not been at his lodgings since yesterday morning.

4. Resolved, That as Captain Torrans cannot now be found, the consideration of his conduct, and further proceedings of the Committee thereon, be deferred to next meeting of the Committee.

June 9.—The Committee resumed the consideration of Captain Robert Torrans, late of the Ship Duke of York:

Resolved; unanimously, That Captain Torrans has wilfully and knowingly violated the Association of the Congress, and that it is the duty of this Committee to advertise his conduct, agreeable to the eleventh Resolution of the Continental Congress.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO MASSACHUSETTS COMMITTEE OF SAFETY.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 7, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The multiplicity of business brought before us by the Continental Congress, and a short adjournment of our body from Saturday till Tuesday morning, have rendered it impossible for us to give a more early attention to your favour of the 26th ultimo.

We have little to say upon the principal subject of your letter, as we conceive that the Provincial Congress of both Colonies are concluded from any discretionary provision relative to the ordnance and other stores taken at Crown Point and Ticonderoga, of which you must be fully convinced by the acts of the Continental Congress on that subject, copies of which are enclosed.

We are fully apprised of the dangerous consequences that would await this capital of our Colony, either from supineness or a confidence in the honour of those who, being the avowed instruments of ministerial vengeance, we cannot expect will hold any faith with us. Whatever articles we are now possessed of, that may be used to the injury of this City in particular, or of the Continent in general, we shall be studious to prevent, if possible, from falling into the hands of our enemies. In sympathizing with you for the unhappy Town of Boston, we shall do every thing in our power to prevent this City from being reduced to the same deplorable situation, and shall watchfully attend to every means of defence which our present or future circumstances may enable us to improve.

We are, gentlemen and brethren, with great respect and sincere affection, your most obedient humble servants,

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

To Joseph Warren, Esquire, and the Committee of Safety for the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay.

DONALD McLEOD TO NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

To the Honourable Gentlemen of the Committee for the City and County of NEW-YORK, in Assembly or body convened: The Petition of DONALD McLEOD, Esq., late from SCOTLAND, humbly sheweth:

That your petitioner, from a deep sense of the favours conferred on himself, as well as those shown to many of his countrymen when in great distress after their arrival into this once happy City, is moved by a voluntary spirit of liberty to offer himself in the manner and form following, viz:

That your said petitioner understands that a great many Companies are now on foot to be raised for the defence of our liberties in this once happy land, which he thinks to be a very proper maxim for the furtherance of our rights and liberty; that your said petitioner (although he has nothing to recommend himself but the vanity of calling himself a Highlander, from North-Britain) flatters himself that if this honourable Committee were to grant him a commission, under their hand and seal, that he could, without difficulty, raise one hundred Scotch Highlanders in this City and the neighbouring Provinces, provided they were to be put in the Highland dress, and under pay during their service in defence of our liberties. Therefore, may it please your Honours to take this petition under your serious consideration; and should your Honours think proper to confer the honour upon him as to have the command of a Highland Company, under the circumstances proposed, your petitioner assures you that no person shall or will be more willing to accept of the offer than your humble petitioner.

DONALD McLEOD.

New-York, June 7, 1775.

BENJAMIN LINDSAY TO NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

New-York, June 7, 1775.

Captain Benjamin Lindsay acquaints the gentlemen of the Committee that he arrived here yesterday from Providence, and has brought with him a letter to the Committee, and informs them that application has been made to him by the Committee and people of that Town to bring back with him a load of flour and other necessities, of which they stand much in need, and of the former are at present much necessitated, owing to the uncommon large supplies that Town has contributed to the Provincial Army. And Captain Lindsay can assure the Committee, from repeated trials, he can go and come from that place through the back part of Narragansett, so as entirely to evade the vigilance of the men-of-war stationed at Newport, besides his being well manned and completely armed and able to resist any attacks from their boats, or otherwise. He therefore requests the concurrence of the Committee, as also to take on board a parcel of flour and other necessities that Mr. Curtenius informs him he has in care for the poor of Boston, and which may easily be forwarded by land to the Provincial Camp, Mr. Curtenius having applied to him for that purpose.

BENJAMIN LINDSAY TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-York, June 11, 1775.

Gentlemen of the Provincial Congress:

I am very sorry that any difficulties should arise from the flour that was to be shipped by Captain Coffin. As Mr. Cook and I came from Providence together, and as I found that I could not take all the flour on board my own vessel, so we agreed that he should procure another vessel, and Mr. Cook applied to Mr. Vixson to procure the flour for us; and when Mr. Vixson understood how matters were circumstanced, he provided the effects, and we were to sail together. Gentlemen, if you will take it into consideration, and, believe me, it is for the same purpose as mine is, for the Committee of Providence, and to supply our camp, or rather called Provincial Camp. This I certify and declare to, with my hand, that there is no other intent in this matter.

BENJAMIN LINDSAY.

SELECTMEN OF LANCASTER TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress now holden at WATERTOWN, in the Province of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

We, the subscribers, do request and desire that you would be pleased to direct or inform this Province in general, or the Town of Lancaster in particular, what is best to be done with the estates of those men who are gone from their estates to General Gage, and are now with him in Boston; and who shall take possession of such houses and lands as belong to such men as are with General Gage, and to whose use they shall improve them, whether for the Province or the Town where said estate is.

EBENEZER ALLEN,
CYRUS FAIRBANK, } Selectmen.
SAMUEL THURSTON,

Lancaster, June 7, 1775.

COMMITTEE OF BELFAST, ETC., TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Penobscot, June 7, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We, the subscribers, being duly appointed a Committee by the inhabitants settled on Penobscot River, the inhabitants of Belfast, Majabigwaduce, and Benjamin's River, to make a representation to you of the difficulties and distress the said inhabitants are under in respect to the scarcity of corn and ammunition, occasioned by the interruption of vessels which they depended upon for their supplies, and also the impediments in the exportation from the seaport Towns from different Committees, after the said articles have been purchased: We accordingly herewith send you the votes of said inhabitants, passed by them at a general meeting, on Tuesday, the 6th day of June instant, which we are to pray your consideration of, being encouraged thereto from the many instances of favour and assistance which the Province have heretofore afforded to this infant settlement; and without some at this time, we have real cause to apprehend that these promising settlements may be broken up. We are further to assure you that the said inhabitants are ready, with their lives and all they have, to support the cause which this Country is engaged in, in defence of their liberties and privileges, and will hold themselves in readiness for that purpose. The said Committee are also to inform you that it was represented at the said meeting that the establishment of Fort Pownall is nearly expired; that the commander of the said fort, in obedience to the commands of the Governour, delivered to his order the artillery and some arms belonging to the said fort; that he also delivered to our own inhabitants in the different parts of this vicinity, upon their application, some arms and ammunition, reserving only a small quantity of each for the use of the soldiers belonging to said garrison, which occasions the said fort at this time to be very bare in those respects. We are also to represent to you that the Town of Belfast is in want of about one dozen stands of arms, which is not practicable to be got here. All which we are enjoined to lay before you, gentlemen, who represent the Province in this unhappy time, and to pray you to take the same into your consideration, and give them such relief as, upon mature deliberation, you judge expedient.

We are, in behalf of the said inhabitants, gentlemen, your most humble servants,

THO. GOLDTHWAIT, EDMUND MOORES,
JOHN TUFTS, BENJAMIN SHUTE,
JONATHAN BUCK, OLIVER CRARY.

To the Honourable Gentlemen assembled at Cambridge in Provincial Congress.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress now sitting at WATERTOWN:

The Petition of DAVIS and COVERLY, late of BOSTON, humbly sheweth:

That whereas your petitioners have a quantity of English goods in Boston; that Mr. Henry Barnes, of Marlborough, now in Boston, has quantities of English goods at said Marlborough, near the same quality, and is willing to make an exchange for the same: We therefore beg leave of this honourable Congress that we, your petitioners, be allowed to make the exchange; and, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

DAVIS & COVERLY.

Watertown, June 7, 1775.

RESOLVES OF HANOVER (VIRGINIA) VOLUNTEERS.

At a meeting of the Hanover Volunteer Company on the 8th of June, 1775:

Resolved, That this Company approve of the spirited resolution of the Williamsburgh Volunteers of the 25th ult., and that they are determined, at the risk of their lives, to aid and assist in protecting the liberties of this Country against all arbitrary measures whatsoever.

Resolved, That the expedition undertaken by this Company in making reprisals on the King's property for powder removed from the Country's magazine by the command of the Governour, proceeded from a sincere attachment to the liberties of their Country; and it is with heartfelt satisfaction that their conduct is so generally approved by their worthy countrymen.

Signed by order of the Company:

JAMES OVERTON, Clerk.

Philadelphia, June 8, 1775.

This morning the three Battalions of this City and Liberties, consisting of fifteen hundred men, the Artillery Company of one hundred and fifty, (with two twelve and four six-pound brass field-pieces,) a troop of Light-horse, several companies of Light-Infantry, Rangers, and Riflemen, in the whole above two thousand men, marched to the commons, and having joined in brigade, went through the manual exercise, firings, and manœuvres, (with a dexterity scarcely to have been expected from such short practice,) in the presence of the honourable members of the Continental Congress, and several thousand spectators, among whom were a great number of the most respectable inhabitants of this City.

ABRAHAM CLARK TO THE NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Elizabethtown, New-Jersey, June 8, 1775.

SIR: You have now sent you six quarter casks and two half barrels of powder. The quarter casks I got at New-Brunswick, and the two half barrels, containing one hundred and five pounds, I got at Woodbridge; for each of which I gave receipts that I received them to be forwarded to the Provincial Camp near Boston, agreeable to a requisition from them. There was no more to be obtained; they had sold the most of their stores to the inhabitants. You will be so kind as to send a receipt of the same tenour of those I gave, that I may show them the stores are forwarded agreeable to my promises. I am, Sir, your humble servant,

ABRAHAM CLARK,

To Peter V. B. Livingston, Esq.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read in Congress June 10, 1775.]

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 8, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We take the liberty to intrude on the patience of your most respectable body, by enclosing a letter which we have this instant received from our brethren in the Massachusetts-Bay. When we inform you that it is utterly impracticable for us to procure what they have requested, you will certainly excuse a freedom which is dictated by an attention to the publick safety. How necessary it is, to provide some remedy to this pressing necessity, we will not presume to mention. Our duty hath compelled us to relate to you the facts. They speak for themselves loudly; and a most entire confidence in your wisdom precludes us from saying any thing farther on the subject.

We are, gentlemen, most faithfully and respectfully, your fellow-labourers and countrymen.

By order and in behalf of the Provincial Congress:

VOLKERT P. DOUW, Vice-President.

To the Honourable the Continental Congress.

GENERAL WARD AND OTHERS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Camp, June 4, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Your noble exertions in the common cause, your zeal for the maintenance of the rights of America, and the sympathizing concern with which we know you look on our sufferings, encourages us to represent to you the distressing state of this Colony.

Our capital is filled with disciplined troops, thoroughly equipped with every thing necessary to render them formidable; a train of artillery as complete as can be conceived of; a full supply of arms and ammunition; and an absolute command of the harbour of Boston, which puts it in their power to furnish themselves with whatever they shall think convenient by sea, are such advantages as must render our contest with them in every view extremely difficult.

We suffer at present the greatest inconveniences from a want of a sufficient quantity of powder; without this, every attempt to defend ourselves, or annoy our enemies, must prove abortive. We have taken every step to avail ourselves of this article, by drawing into our general magazines whatever could be spared from the respective Towns of this Colony; but the frequent skirmishes we have had has greatly diminished our stock, and we are now under the most alarming apprehensions, that notwithstanding the bravery of our troops, (whom we think we can, without boasting, declare are ready to encounter every danger for the preservation of the liberties and rights of America;) we shall basely, for the want of means of defence, fall at last a prey to our enemies. We, therefore, most earnestly beseech you that you would, if possible, afford us some relief in this respect, by lending or selling to us some part of the powder in your Colony. We readily conceive the unwillingness with which you must part with so necessary an article at this time. We know you have not the quantity you would wish to keep for your own use. We apply to you, not because we suppose you have a surplusage, but because we are in the most distressing want. We beg, therefore, that we may not be suffered to perish. We have taken such steps as we have great reason to hope will, in a short time, furnish us with powder, and if we can be assisted till that arrives, we doubt not but that we shall be able to baffle the designs of our enemies, and be greatly instrumental in preserving the rights and liberties of all America. We must request that whatever aid you shall find it in your power to give us, may be in the most secret manner, as a knowledge of our deficiency in the article of powder before we are supplied, might be attended with the most fatal consequences.

We are, gentlemen, with great respect, your affectionate brethren and very humble servants,

ARTEMAS WARD,

General of the Massachusetts Army.

JOSEPH WARREN,

Chairman of the Committee of Safety.

MOSES GILL,

Chairman of the Committee of Supplies.

To the Hon. Congress for the Colony of New-York.

P. S. We beg what powder you can possibly spare may be immediately conveyed to us by land, in the way least liable to be suspected by any persons who may correspond with the enemy.

To the Honourable Gentlemen of the Congress for the Colony of New-York, in body convened:

The Petition of DONALD McLEOD, Esquire, late from SCOTLAND, most humbly sheweth:

That yesterday your said petitioner presented a petition before this honourable body, and as to the contents of which he begs leave to give reference. That since, a ship arrived from Scotland, with a number of Highlanders passengers. That your petitioner talked to them this morning, and after informing them of the present state of this as well as the neighbouring Colonies, they all seemed to be very desirous to form themselves into companies, with the proviso of having liberty to wear their own country dress, commonly called the Highland habit, and moreover to be under pay for the time they are in the service for the protection of the liberties of this once happy Country, but by all means to be under the command of Highland officers, as some of them cannot speak the English language. That the said Highlanders seem very desirous of being commanded by your petitioner, provided an answer shall be given them very soon, as their intention is not to stay here any considerable time. That the said Highlanders are already furnished with guns, swords, pistols, and Highland dirks, which, in case of occasion, is very necessary, as all the above articles are at this time very difficult to be had. Therefore, may it please your Honours to take all and singular the premises under your serious and immediate consideration; and as your petitioner wants an answer as soon as possible, he further prays that as soon as they think it meet, he may be advised. And your petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray,

DONALD McLEOD.

City of New-York, June 8, 1775.

NEW-YORK COMMITTEE.

The Committee met, by adjournment, 8th June, 1775.

Present:

Henry Remsen,	Edward Fleming,	Evert Banker,
Ab. Brinkerhoff,	Hercules Mulligan,	Daniel Dunscomb,
Wm. Denning,	William Goforth,	Nicholas Hoffman,
John Berrian,	Lancaster Burling,	Gerret Kettletas,
Oliver Templeton,	Petrus Byvanek,	Isaac Sears,
Joseph Totten,	Eleazer Miller,	Jacobus Lefferts,
Jacob Van Voorhies,	John Imlay,	Abraham P. Lott,
John Morton,	Peter T. Curteneus,	Alex. McDougall,
William Laight,	Richard Sharpe,	John M. Scott,
Jeremiah Platt,	Thomas Ivers,	James Beekman,
Nicholas Bogart,	Robert Ray,	John Van Cortlandt.
Abraham Duryee,	Cornelius P. Low,

In pursuance of an order of this Committee at their last meeting, a poll was this day opened at the City-Hall, for the electing a Deputy to represent this City and County in Provincial Congress, in the place of Mr. George Folliott, who declined serving; and also of two members to serve in this Committee, in the room of the said George Folliott, and of Samuel Jones, who never has attended. And by a return of the said poll, it appears that Mr. Isaac Sears was elected by a large majority as a Deputy, and Mr. William Bedlow and Mr. John Woodward as members of this Committee.

Ordered, That the Chairman of this Board grant no certificates for licensing the exportation of Goods from this City and County to any port or place out of this Colony, unless due proof, in writing, on oath, be produced to him, that the said Goods were not imported contrary to the tenour or true intent and meaning of the General Continental Association.

Ordered, That John Imlay, John Berrian, Thomas Buchannan, William Goforth, Joseph Bull, Abraham P. Lott, Cornelius Clopper, and Evert Banker, be a Sub-Committee to inspect and examine into the Cargoes of any vessels which may arrive in this Port, suspected of having goods on board not admissible.

Ordered, That Daniel Phenix, Captain Bedlow, William Denning, and John Woodward be added to the above Committee.

BROOKHAVEN (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the freeholders and other inhabitants of the Town of Brookhaven, in the County of Suffolk, and in the Province of New-York, on the 8th day of June, 1775: Then by a large majority of votes, were chosen and elected sixteen persons as a Committee of Observation, to represent said Town, and to deliberate on other matters relative to our present political welfare. Agreed that the last Tuesday in June be appointed as a day for the above named Committee to meet.

The Committee met, pursuant to appointment, at Co-ram, on the 27th of June, 1775. Present: John Woodhull, Esquire, Thomas Helme, Esq., Mr. John Robinson, Mr. Thomas Fanning, Lieut. William Brewster, Mr. Noah Hallock, Mr. Joseph Brown, Mr. John Woodhull, Jun.,

Mr. Nathaniel Roe, Jun., Captain Jonathan Baker, Mr. Daniel Roe, and Mr. Samuel Thompson, of the Manor of St. George's; Mr. William Smith and Mr. Jonah Hulse, of the Patentship of Moriches; Capt. Josiah Smith.

Then proceeded, and chose John Woodhull, Esquire, Chairman, and Mr. Samuel Thompson Clerk, and entered into the following Votes and Resolutions:

First. Resolved, nemine contradicente, That we express our loyalty to His Majesty King George the Third, and acknowledge him as our rightful Lord and Sovereign, as settled on Revolution principles, being of legal descent from the illustrious house of Brunswick, to the utter exclusion of the family of the Stuarts, who, by their despotick and tyrannical principles, were deservedly banished and rendered unfit to sway the British sceptre.

Second. Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Committee that the above Resolution was the opinion of the Continental Congress that set last year; and is also the opinion of the Continental Congress and our Provincial Congress now sitting; and that it is also the opinion of very far the greater part of the English inhabitants of this most extensive Continent.

Third. Resolved, unanimously, That it is the opinion of this Committee that the several acts passed in the British Parliament for the express purpose of raising a revenue in America; also, the acts for stopping the Port of Boston; for altering their Charter and Government; for establishing the Roman Catholick religion, and abolishing the equitable system of English laws, and erecting in their stead French despotick Government, in Canada;—as also the act for restraining the New-England fishery, and many other acts of a similar nature; and further declaring they have power vested in them to make laws binding on us in all cases whatsoever, are contrary to the Constitution, and subversive of our legal rights as English freemen and British subjects.

Fourth. Resolved, nemine contradicente, That we will use our utmost endeavours, as far as in us lies, and we will earnestly recommend it to our constituents, strictly and invariably to abide by and adhere to the determinations and resolutions of the honourable the Continental Congress, and also strictly to comply with the injunctions of our Provincial Convention, which (under God) we hope is the most effectual means to obtain a redress of our present publick grievances, and save us from impending ruin.

Fifth. We do unanimously make this our apology to the respectable publick, and to our several Congresses in particular, that we have come so late into Congressional measures, and hope a veil may be cast over our past conduct, for we can assure the publick in general that our remissness was not for want of a patriotick spirit in a number of our individuals, but because that opposition ran so high in some parts of this Town, that an attempt of this kind would perhaps have answered no valuable purpose, but we verily believe that the past opposition arose in a great measure from want of better information.

Sixth. It is unanimously resolved by us at this meeting, that we will keep a strict watch that no Provisions or necessaries be transported from within the bounds of our constituents, so as designedly or accidentally to fall into the hands of those we have just cause to esteem and treat as our enemies.

Seventh. Ordered, That the resolves and proceedings of this Committee be printed by Mr. John Holt.

Signed by order of the Committee:

JOHN WOODHULL, Chairman.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Westminster, June 8, 1775.

HONOURED SIR: Having received certain advice from Mr. Isaac Low, Chairman of the honourable Committee of Correspondence at New-York, that it is the desire of the said Committee that this County of Cumberland should send Delegates to the City of New-York, to consult with the very respectable members of the Provincial Congress, what measures are best to be pursued in this distressing and very alarming situation of this Province; we hereby inform your Honour that the inhabitants of the several Towns in said County of Cumberland immediately assembled, (at the earliest notice from Mr. Low,) and all of us, inhabitants of the same County, were unanimously disposed to send Delegates to the City of New-York, in order to consult what measures are proper to be taken in this alarming situation of our publick affairs.

We hereby return our most sincere thanks to the honourable Committee of Correspondence, for the favourable notice they have taken of us in this far-distant, infant County.

You, Sir, and the honourable Provincial Congress, may be assured (although the minions and tools of power may assert to the contrary) that we, in this County, are almost to a man resolute and fully determined, (under God,) as much as in us lies, to vindicate and maintain those liberties, both civil and religious, which, by the laws of God and the British Constitution, we are clearly entitled to.

We detest and abhor those arbitrary, tyrannick, and sanguinary measures which the British Parliament are most industriously pursuing against the American Colonies, in order to dragoon them into compliance of certain late detestable acts of Parliament, replete with horror, and repugnant to every idea of British freedom, and which have a direct tendency to reduce the free and brave Americans into a state of the most abject slavery and vassalage.

We, therefore, think it our indispensable duty to God, our Country, and ourselves, at the expense of our lives and fortunes, (if called,) to the last extremity, to join with our brethren in America in general, and most vigorously to oppose and resist the said detestable measures and proceedings. Confidently relying upon the wisdom and integrity of the honourable Provincial and Continental Congresses, we are determined to pursue, at all times, such salutary measures as they in their wisdom and prudence shall advise to.

We would earnestly request that you, Sir, would exert your influence with the members of the honourable Congress, that this poor infant County, at present in a very defenceless state, might have some relief from New-York. We esteem it a privilege, and a peculiar happiness, that we are in a Government, rich, opulent, and flourishing, and abundantly able to afford assistance to a needy but industrious people, who are settling a rude and uncultivated wilderness, but at the same time are heartily disposed to promote the grand American cause.

Sir, we would flatter ourselves, and humbly hope that the honourable Congress will assist our Delegates in procuring arms and ammunition, which are so very necessary for us at this important crisis. Sir, you may rely upon it that our people in general are spirited, resolute, and active, in the defence of our dear-bought rights and liberties, and will not flinch, if called, generously to spill our blood to oppose and resist ministerial tyranny and oppression.

Therefore, wishing this Province all imaginable prosperity, happiness, and success, we, in behalf of the freeholders and inhabitants of this County of Cumberland, subscribe ourselves your most obedient humble servants, &c.

JOHN HAZELTINE,

Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence and County of Cumberland Congress.

To the Hon. P. V. B. Livingston, Esq., President of the Honourable Provincial Congress now convened at the City of New-York.

PETITION OF SENIOR CLASS RHODE-ISLAND COLLEGE, TO THEIR PRESIDENT, ETC.

College in Providence, June 8, 1775.

To the Reverend President, Honourable Professor, and the rest of the Honourable Corporation of RHODE-ISLAND College: the dutiful Petition of the Senior Class:

MOST WORTHY PATRONS: Deeply affected with the distresses of our oppressed Country, which now most unjustly feels the baneful effects of arbitrary power, provoked to the greatest height of cruelty and vengeance by the noble and manly resistance of a free and determined people, permit us, gentlemen, to approach you with this our humble and dutiful petition, that you would be pleased to take under your most serious consideration the propriety of holding the ensuing Commencement in a publick manner as usual; whether such a celebration of that anniversary would be in conformity to the eighth article of the Association, formed by the Grand American Congress, and which all the Colonies are now religiously executing, and that you would be pleased to signify unto us your resolution respecting the same, that we may govern ourselves accordingly.

Signed by Committee in behalf of the Senior Class.

JOSIAH READ,
ANDREW LAW,
JAMES FULTON.

ANSWER TO THE PETITION OF THE SENIOR CLASS.

College Library, June 9, 1775.

To the Committee of the Senior Class:

GENTLEMEN: Your dutiful and reasonable petition has been duly attended to; and permit us to assure you that it gives us no small satisfaction, that the present members of this institution, and particularly the respectable Senior Class, are so sensibly affected with the distresses of our Country in its present glorious struggles for liberty. We rejoice that you are so ready to sacrifice that applause to which your abilities would entitle you at a publick Commencement. And though by this means you may be deprived of an advantageous opportunity to give proof of your abilities in pleading the righteous cause of liberty, for which your predecessors, in this institution, have been justly celebrated, yet you have hereby given us a convincing proof of your inviolable attachment to the true interest of your Country. Be assured that we shall most heartily concur in this, and every other measure which has been or may be adopted by the Grand American Congress, as well as the Legislature of this Colony, in order to obtain a most ample redress of all our grievances, and deem it the greatest honour to which a noble and generous mind can aspire, to contribute in any degree towards a restoration and re-establishment in our Country, of all those liberties and privileges, both civil and religious, which the Almighty Father of the Universe originally granted to every individual of the human race, and which all ought to enjoy till by law forfeited; which reason claims; which the right of soil, obtained of the natives by free purchase, settles upon us; which our charters ensure to us, and which have been recognised by Great Britain, and guarantied to us by the faith of the English Nation. These inestimable rights and privileges our Country has for many years enjoyed, the source of its present wealth and strength, more than its fertile soil or healthy climate. By the cruel and wanton invasion and violation of these, she now bleeds in almost every vein; and finally, it is these that her noble sons, the illustrious American patriots, prompted as well as justified by the examples of heroes in all ages, are now prepared to defend, by the same means which have hitherto preserved the liberties of Great Britain, and raised to royal dignity the House of Brunswick.

And though the din of arms, and the horrors of a civil war, should invade our hitherto peaceful habitations, yet even these are preferable to a mean and base submission to arbitrary power and lawless rapine.

Institutions of learning will doubtless partake in the common calamities of our Country, as arms have ever proved unfriendly to the more refined and liberal arts and sciences; yet we are resolved to continue College orders here as usual, excepting that the ensuing Commencement, by the advice of such of the Corporation as could be conveniently consulted, will not be publick.

JAMES MANNING, President.
DAVID HOELL, Philos. Professor.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Lebanon, June 8, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: Since my letter of the first instant, I have received three Resolves from the honourable Continental Congress; the copies enclosed will show you their ultimate determination touching the fortresses on Lake Champlain, agreeable to our desires, set right by taking the sloop at St. John's.

I take encouragement that the Indians of the Six Nations will prove friendly, from the speeches and answers to and from the Magistrates, &c., of Albany and Schenectady, with the Indians at Guy Park, May 25, 1775; too long to copy at this time, received this day.

From Albany and places adjacent, six companies, consisting of fifty men each, and one of a hundred men, are gone and going to the above-mentioned fortresses.

The Albanians appear spirited in defence of our rights.

Enclosed letter from Colonel Arnold came enclosed to me, with desire to forward it to you.

I am, with truth and regard, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress of Massachusetts-Bay.

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, June 8, 1775.

To the Moheakounuck Tribe of Indians, living in and about Stockbridge :

BROTHERS: We this day, by the Delegate from Stockbridge, first heard your friendly answer to our speech to you by Captain William Goodrich; which answer we are told you made to us immediately, by a letter which we have not yet received. We now reply.

Brothers! you say that you were once great, but are now little, and that we once were little, but are now great. The Supreme Spirit orders these things. Whether we are little or great, let us keep the path of friendship clear, which our fathers made, and in which we have both travelled to this time.

The friends of the wicked counsellors of our King fell upon us, and shed some blood, soon after we spoke to you last by our letter; but we, with a small twig, killed so many, and frightened them so much, that they have shut themselves up in our great Town, called Boston, which they have made strong.

We have now made our hatchets, and all our instruments of war, sharp and bright. All the chief counsellors who live on this side of the great water, are sitting in the Grand Council-House in Philadelphia. When they give the word, we shall all, as one man, fall on and drive our enemies out of their strong fort, and follow them till they shall take their hands out of our pouches, and let us sit in our Council-House as we used to do, and as our fathers did in old times.

Brothers! though you are small, yet you are wise. Use your wisdom to help us. If you think it best, go and smoke your pipe with your Indian brothers towards the setting of the sun, and tell them all you hear, and all you see, and let us know what their wise men say.

If some of your young men should have a mind to see what we are doing here, let them come down and tarry among our warriors. We will provide for them while they are here.

Brothers! when you have any trouble, come and tell it to us and we will help you.

Signed by order of Congress:

SAMUEL FREEMAN, Secretary.

To Capt. Solomon Uhhaunauwaunmut, Chief Sachem of the Moheakounuck Tribe of Indians at Stockbridge.

PORTSMOUTH COMMITTEE TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Portsmouth, June 8, 1775.

SIR: A mail containing a quantity of letters were last night sent from on board the man-of-war to Eleazer Russell, Esq., in whose hands they now remain. Mr. King waits on the Congress to request their determination on this matter, and will give them what further information they require. We must entreat Mr. King may return to Town this night, as the people will be impatient for their letters.

I am, by order of the Committee, Sir, your most humble servant,

THOS. HART, Chairman.

To the President of the Provincial Congress at Exeter.

In Provincial Congress, Exeter, June 8, 1775.

Whereas the present alarming and very critical situation of this Colony has occasioned this Congress to raise a number of Soldiers to defend the same, and the extreme scarcity of money in the Colony makes it very difficult to raise a sufficiency for supplying said Soldiers, and as there is a considerable sum in the Treasury of this Colony raised on the polls and estates of the inhabitants thereof: it is

Resolved, That Ichabod Rollings, Esq., Col. Bartlett, Eben. Thompson, Mr. Cilley, Major Welch, David Gilman, and Captain Evans, be a Committee, in the name of this Congress, to call upon the Honourable George Jaffrey, Esquire, for the balance due from him to the Colony, as Treasurer aforesaid, and that they receive from him said money, and give him such security as shall be sufficient for justifying his payment of the same, which they are hereby empowered to do, and are authorized to assure said Treasurer, that the exigence of the Colony is such that no excuse or delay of the same will be admitted; and make return of your doings.

Charlestown, South-Carolina, June 9, 1775.

We are informed that the Association lately subscribed by the Provincial Congress, and recommended by them as proper to be signed by all the inhabitants, meets with the greatest success. In the course of four days it has been signed by almost every man in Charlestown; none having refused that we hear of, except a few gentlemen under peculiar circumstances.

We also learn, that the Provincial Congress have determined to raise two Regiments of Foot, and one of Horse, immediately; and also to put the Militia upon a respectable footing, to which the people most cheerfully accord; and we have the satisfaction of knowing, that the Colony will very speedily be put in a good posture of defence.

The Provincial Congress have resolved to lay up proper quantities of rice and flour in granaries in divers parts of the Colony; and have appointed Commissioners for purchasing these articles, and carrying these resolutions forthwith into execution. They have also prohibited the further exportation of rice and corn for three months.

MEETING OF LANCASTER (VIRGINIA) VOLUNTEERS.

At a meeting of the Volunteer Company of Lancaster County, on Friday, June 9, 1775:

Resolved, That every Member of this Company do return thanks to the worthy Captain Patrick Henry and the Volunteer Company of Hanover, for their spirited conduct on a late expedition, and they are determined to protect him from any insult that may be offered him on that account, at the risk of life and fortune.

Resolved, That we are determined to defend our worthy Speaker, and the rest of our worthy Delegates, who have so nobly exerted themselves in the cause of America; and all other friends to American liberty, whom the abandoned tools of Administration may dare to attack.

Resolved, That notice be given to the Volunteer Company of the City of Williamsburgh that this Company bind themselves by the sacred ties of honour and love for their Country, to join them on the smallest warning, and march to any part of the Colony in defence of liberty, and that they concur with them in opinion that landing any foreign forces at this time in this Country will be a dangerous attack on the liberties of the same; and therefore if any such should be landed, they are determined, with the assistance of their countrymen, immediately to oppose them.

Resolved, That a copy of the aforesaid Resolutions be transmitted to Mr. John Pinkney, and that he be desired to print the same in his Gazette as soon as convenient.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS AND OTHERS TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Westminster, June 9, 1775.

SIR: We, the subscribers, beg leave most humbly to shew, that being deeply impressed with the great importance of having a Regiment duly prepared, at the least notice, in this County, in order to keep under proper subjection Regulars, Roman Catholics, and the Savages at the northward, as also to be ready at all times to defend our rights and privileges against Ministerial tyranny and oppression, seeing hostilities have already commenced, and the sword is actually drawn in order to enforce certain tyrannick and arbitrary acts of the British Parliament, replete with horror, and repugnant to every idea of British freedom; we, the loyal inhabitants of this County, glowing with true martial ardour, and willing, with the utmost cheerfulness and alacrity, to unsheath the sword in defence of the lives and properties of the good people of this ancient and truly respectable patriotick Colony of

New-York, beg leave to offer our services in the defence of this Province, and America in general. We therefore, with due submission, propose cheerfully and with the utmost gratitude to accept (if your honourable Congress shall think proper) commissions from this honourable Provincial Congress, viz: Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, and Major.

We determine to be entirely under the command and order of the Provincial Congress, hoping we shall truly merit the favours of said Congress, and be useful instruments in serving this ancient and honourable Colony of New-York, as also the common grand American cause.

Sir your assisting us in this our humble request, and presenting to us the above-mentioned Commissions, would much oblige your most obedient humble servants,

WM. WILLIAMS,
BENJAMIN WAITE,
JOAB HOISINGTON.

To the Honourable P. V. B. Livingston, President of the Provincial Congress.

N. B. We hope to raise a Regiment of good active enterprising soldiers in this County, which we hope will reflect honour on this Colony. The arrangement of said commissions we desire might be according to the following order: Major William Williams, our Delegate, to be first Colonel; Major Benjamin Wait, Lieutenant-Colonel; and Captain Joab Hoisington, Major.

ETHAN ALLEN TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Crown Point, June 9, 1775.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN: I am informed by Colonel Easton that you are well satisfied with the economy and enterprising spirit of a number of the sons of liberty, who, animated with the glorious example of the brave action at Concord, were inspired to make those acquisitions to the United Colonies of which your Honours have received intelligence, viz: the sovereignty of Lake Champlain, and the fortresses thereon, with an armed sloop and all the boats on the lake, and also took into possession a schooner, which was the property of Major Skene, and furnished it out for war: These armed vessels are at present abundantly sufficient to command the lake. The making these acquisitions has greatly attached the Canadians, and more especially the Indians, to our interest. They have no personal prejudice or controversy with the United Colonies, but act upon political principles, and consequently are inclined to fall in with the strongest side. At present ours has the appearance of it, as there are at present but about seven hundred regular Troops in all the different Posts in Canada. Add to this the consideration of the imperious and haughty conduct of the Troops which has much alienated the affections of both the Canadians and Indians from them. Probably there may soon be more Troops from England sent there, but at present you may rely on it that Canada is in a weak, and almost helpless condition. Two or three thousand men, conducted by intrepid commanders, would at this juncture make a conquest of the ministerial party in Canada, with such additional numbers as may be supposed to vie with the re-enforcements that may be sent from England. Such a plan would make a diversion in favour of the Massachusetts-Bay, who have been too much burdened with the calamity that should be more general, as all partake of the salutary effects of their merit and valour in the defence of the liberties of America. There would, furthermore, be this unspeakable advantage in directing the war into Canada, that it would unite and confirm the Canadians and Indians in our interest; and as England can spare but a certain number of her Troops, therefore the more she sends to defend her interest in Canada, which at present is languid and weak, the less she can send to Boston, or any other part of the Continent. By gaining the sovereignty of Canada, would intercept the design of the Quebeck Bill, and greatly discourage the Ministry, who dote much on the efficacy of it.

I would to God America would exert herself in proportion to the indignity offered her by a tyrannical Ministry. She might mount on eagles' wings to glory. Fame is now hovering over her head. A vast Continent must either sink to bondage, ignominy, and exquisite horror, or rise triumphant above the shackles of tyranny to immortal fame.

I hope, gentlemen, you will use your influence in forwarding men, provision, and every article for the Army that may be thought necessary. Blankets and provisions are scarce. I might have added the article of powder. It ought to be observed that the Colonies must first help their friends in Canada, and then it will be in their power to help them again.

I subscribe myself your Honours' most obedient servant,
ETHAN ALLEN.

To the Honourable Provincial Congress of the Massachusetts-Bay, or the Council of War, at Watertown and Cambridge.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOUR CARLETON.

By his Excellency GUY CARLETON, Captain-General and Governour-in-Chief in and over the Province of QUEBECK, and the Territories depending thereon, in AMERICA, Vice-Admiral of the same, and Major-General of His Majesty's Forces, commanding the Northern District:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, a rebellion prevails in many of His Majesty's Colonies in America, and particularly in some of the neighbouring ones: and whereas, many of the said rebels have, with an armed force, made incursions of late into this Province, attacking and carrying away from thence a party of His Majesty's Troops, together with a parcel of stores, and a vessel belonging to His Majesty, and are at present actually invading this Province with arms, in a traitorous and hostile manner, to the great terror of His Majesty's subjects, and in open defiance of his laws and Government; falsely and maliciously giving out, by themselves and their abettors, that their motives for so doing are to prevent the inhabitants of this Province from being taxed and oppressed by Government, together with divers other false and seditious reports, tending to inflame the minds of the people, and alienate them from His Majesty: To the end, therefore, that so treasonable an invasion may be soon defeated; that all such traitors, with their said abettors, may be speedily brought to justice, and the publick peace and tranquillity of this Province again restored, which the ordinary course of the civil law is at present unable to effect, I have thought fit to issue this Proclamation, hereby declaring, that until the aforesaid good purpose be attained, I shall, in virtue of the powers and authority to me given by His Majesty, execute martial law, and cause the same to be executed throughout this Province, and to that end, I shall order the Militia within the same to be forthwith raised; but as a sufficient number of commissions to the several officers thereof cannot be immediately made out, I shall, in the mean time, direct all those having any militia commissions from the Honourable Thomas Gage, the Honourable James Murray, Ralph Burton, and Frederick Haldimand, Esquires, heretofore His Majesty's Governours in this Province, or either of them, to obey the same, and execute the powers therein mentioned, until they shall receive orders from me to the contrary; and I do accordingly, in His Majesty's name, hereby require and command all his subjects in this Province, and others whom it may concern, on pain of disobedience, to be aiding and assisting such commissioned officers, and others who are or may be commissioned by me, in the execution of their said commissions for His Majesty's service.

Given under my hand and seal of arms, at Montreal, this ninth day of June, 1775, in the fifteenth year of the reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Third, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, and so forth.

GUY CARLETON.

By his Excellency's command:

H. T. CRAMAHE.

GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

Lebanon, June 9, 1775.

SIR: I have received your letters of the 31st May and 1st June, enclosing the resolves of the honourable Continental Congress of the same dates. By a wonderful coincidence of counsels the first was nearly complied with before the receipt of it.

Colonel Benjamin Hinman is appointed to the command of the troops at Ticonderoga, consisting of one thousand men from this Colony, well armed, and furnished with one pound of powder and three pounds of ball to each man, with flints sufficient; besides this we have also sent there about eight hundred pounds of powder. Colonel Hinman is a gentleman, in whom we trust full confidence may be placed. On giving my orders to him, (dated 29th of May, 1775,) instructed him to keep up the strictest vigilance to prevent any hostile incursions from being made into the settlements in the Province of Quebeck.

In compliance with the other resolution of Congress, I have appointed a Commissary to receive at Albany, and forward the supplies of provisions for the forces on Lake Champlain, with directions to him, with advice of Colonel Hinman, to employ such others under him as that service shall appear to require.

I am, with great truth and regard, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JONATHAN TRUMBULL.

To Hon. John Hancock, Esquire.

ABIATHAR ANGEL TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Watertown, June 9, 1775.

HONOURABLE SIR: I take this method to communicate to you my present unhappy situation, viz: that I have a company of men now lying at Worcester, which I enlisted and brought from the remotest parts of this Province, many of them having been in the expedition to Ticonderoga, and now enlisted as Rangers in the service of this Province; and whereas, as matters have turned, there is not such an establishment.

I came off myself in the alarm after the battle of Concord, from my house, one hundred and forty miles from here, and here staid many days a volunteer, on my own expense; but seeing nothing of importance speedily to be done, and that there was a regular establishment on foot for a standing army, I received orders from David Brewer, of Kingston, from under the hand of the honourable Committee of Safety, for enlisting a company of Rangers into the service of this Province; and judging the men to be greatly wanted, I exerted myself in speedily raising and equipping said company, and have expended above twenty Pounds for said purpose, and marched my men away, greatly against the minds of the inhabitants from whence they came, on account of the commotions to the westward. But being under no regular establishment to go that way, I marched my men forward, and came as far as Worcester; there halted last Sunday, and came forward myself, previously hearing of some difficulties attending Colonel Brewer's establishment, of which you, Sir, are not unapprised. I have been now in waiting ever since Tuesday last, endeavouring to obtain some orders and directions from the honourable Congress in regard to my situation. The situation of about fifty men, who have, most of them, been in the service near six weeks at Ticonderoga, without receiving the least consideration for the same, surely demands some attention; for them to be now disbanded, when they have laid out of their business for the season, will be almost the ruin of many; and as they are so greatly wanted to the westward, I have petitioned the House for orders to march them to Ticonderoga, but have received as yet no orders thereon. I most earnestly entreat you, Sir, to have some regard to my situation, and use your influence for my relief.

I am, Sir, your sincere friend, and most obedient servant,

ABIATHAR ANGEL.

To the Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Province of MASSACHUSETTS-BAY:

The Petition and Remonstrance of ABIATHAR ANGEL, of LANESBOROUGH, in the County of BERKSHIRE, humbly sheweth:

That the petitioner came off from his home, one hundred and forty miles from this place, a volunteer, in the alarm after the battle of Concord, and here staid several days on his own expense, and seeing nothing of importance to be speedily done, and that there was a regular establishment on foot for a standing army, received orders from Captain David Brewer, signed by the Chairman of the Committee of Safety, for raising a company of Rangers in the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay, for the defence of the liberties of America. And that your petitioner, judging said men to be greatly wanted, exerted himself to raise a company, and expended upwards of twelve Pounds, lawful money, in effecting the same, and marched them from the remotest part of this Province, greatly against the minds of the inhabitants where they came from, on account of the commotions to the northward; but as your petitioner was under no regular establishment from authority to go that way, I marched my men forward towards Head-Quarters at Cambridge, and came as far as Worcester, where they now, by my orders, remain. I do, therefore, at the earnest request of the Committees and principal inhabitants of sundry Towns from whence they came, earnestly pray this honourable Congress that I may be regularly appointed, by the authority of this Province, to march with my company to Ticonderoga, for the safety and protection of the inhabitants in the northwestern frontiers of this Province. And your petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

ABIATHAR ANGEL.

JOHN LANE TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Fort Pownall, June 9, 1775.

SIR: I have proceeded agreeable to my orders, as you will see by the enclosed journal, and have got one of the chiefs to go as an ambassador, attended by three young men, as far as Falmouth, and I am in hopes to be able to get them as far as Watertown. I could not have thought that they had been so hearty in the cause, and are very ready to assist us, if occasion requires. The Canada Indians are all of the same mind. The Indians are now here, and we shall go to Casco-Bay to-morrow, when I shall write more fully. I am, Sir, with respect, your much obliged servant,

JOHN LANE.

Honourable Joseph Warren, Esquire.

The following is my journal to Penobscot, in behalf of the honourable Provincial Congress:

Monday, May 22, 1775.—I received my orders from the Congress, by James Sullivan, Esquire, Monday, and proceeded to Falmouth, where I arrived on the 24th current, and applied to Colonel Preble and the gentlemen belonging to the Committee for that place, who supplied me with some stores for the Indians. On Sunday, the 28th of said month, set sail for Penobscot, and arrived at Boothbay the same day. Monday morning sailed about ten miles towards Penobscot, and meeting with a sloop at sea, commanded by David Hanwood, bound for Penobscot, which I got on board of and proceeded. Tuesday, the 30th, arrived at a place called Owl's-Head, at the mouth of Penobscot-Bay. The 31st set sail to go up the Bay, and got up to the fort.

The first of June, when I waited on Colonel Goldthwait, and acquainted him of my business, who was willing to do every thing in his power for the good of the Province, and offered me all the assistance possible to forward my business, and any sort of provision or clothing that I should want for the Indians, which I accepted, and ordered the interpreter of the fort to go with me to assist in my business. The second day of June I went up the river, accompanied by said interpreter and an Indian of the Penobscot tribe, and got up to the Truck-House the same day; there met a number of this tribe, and informed them of my business, among whom was an Englishman, belonging to the St. Francois tribe, who gave me the greatest assurance of his utmost abilities to engage the St. Francois tribe in our behalf, and doubted not but he could accomplish it; and I think this Englishman is a man of truth, by the conversation I had with him, and may be relied on. On the third I had some discourse with them, when they agreed to go up to their village to bring their chiefs down to the Truck-House, to know their minds respecting going to the westward. Sunday, the fourth, four of their chiefs, accompanied by a number of Indians, came to the Truck-House, and after my making known my proposals to them, they told me they fully understood the nature of the thing, and, after some talk, agreed to send one of their chiefs as an ambassador, and three of the young men to attend him as far as Falmouth, with me, and one Mr. Andrew Gilman, who came in with them, who also agreed to go with me.

On the sixth, attended the meeting of said river, Bel-fast, Benjamin's River, and Majabigwaduce, who are all ready, on notice, and repaired to the fort, waiting for the Indians to come down the river to go to Casco with me at the same time. I informed Colonel Goldthwait what success I had met with, and who proved to me of his being contrary to what had been represented by some evil-minded person respecting his delivering up the cannon to the Governour; and I am sensible, in my own mind, he could not have acted to the contrary, not because he was obliged to obey the Governour's orders, but that there was not sufficient ammunition to defend it.* And I am further convinced, by the conversation I had with him, he is ready to give all the assistance in his power for the good of the Province, and has been a great help to me in my tour this way; and I don't know of any person better qualified to act in the office he holds for the good of the poor in that part, for I am sure neither I nor the Indians could have been accommodated upon the river elsewhere. He assures me that, by the advice of Congress, he will still keep up the fort and pay the soldiers off, and wait for the pay till its convenient for them, although at this time there is twelve months pay due to the garrison, and which he has paid off to the soldiers and some of the officers. And I don't think that he ought by any means to lay under the scandalous report that has been spread abroad about his delivering the cannon.

Remainder per another opportunity.-

ELISHA HEWES TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Penobscot River, Jun⁵ 9, 1775.

To JOSEPH WARREN, Esquire, President of the Provincial Congress of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY.

SIR: I have had the pleasure of being well acquainted with your uniform and unalterable principles, from the first instant of your publicly engaging in the glorious cause which you now so nobly lead on in the defence of. Should your high appointment and the complicated situation of affairs under your inspection and direction, render my scrawl too minute for your notice, I shall not wonder. I now live on Penobscot River, about twenty-three miles above Fort Pownall; the settlement is very new—the first man that pitched in my neighbourhood has not been there more than five years. 'Tis true Captain John Buck began near ten years ago, but he lives not more than eight miles above the fort, the inhabitants being settled about twenty miles above him. I find this a country very good for both tillage and grass, though at present covered with a fine growth of pine, spruce, cedar, hemlock, &c., and some oak. The river excels for fish of various kinds, and easy navigation for the largest of vessels. The people are firmly attached to the Constitution you preside in defence of, and I am confident will support it to the last moment of their lives, being willing in general to encounter any difficulty rather than yield to that band of tyrants whose plodding pates have long been projecting methods to enslave us.

I am confirmed in this opinion by an anecdote or two that have come to my knowledge since my residence on this river, for I live in the neighbourhood of Colonel Thomas Goldthwait, who was a member of our Assembly (as you may remember) for many years, and particularly in the year 1762; from whom I had the following story: Richard Jackson, Esq., was then agent for our Province. The Colonel says that then, in some of the private letters which he wrote after his appointment, he intimated his fears that it would not be in his power to do the Province much service, as there was a principle prevailing in England at that time to render the Colony Assemblies useless. The Colonel also says, that Mr. Bollan (who was agent before Mr. Jackson) was continually warning the General Court of this principle then prevailing in England, and yet no doubt you remember both these gentlemen were turned out of their agency upon a suspicion that they were not in the interest of the Province. Certainly they were faithful as touching the most important matter, whatever part of their conduct might give umbrage to their constituents. And there seems to be some degree of similarity in the case of the above gentleman and Colonel Goldthwait; for one of your members, viz: Captain John Lane, who is now here, says the Congress had received very unfavourable accounts of the Colonel's conduct; whereas, on a fair and impartial examination, it will appear that Colonel Goldthwait has been a steady, uniform friend to our Constitution.

Should the Almighty prosper us so as to bring on an accommodation, among other grievances I think the Greenwich Hospital money, exacted from our American seamen, to be a very capital one. I hope the Congress will compassionate the case of this infant settlement, as we have not got to the years of tillage and raising our own bread and clothing, and like to be shut from the privilege of importing. We could now manufacture our own clothing, but are destitute of wool and flax, which is a very great grievance.

There is an island in the mouth of the river, owned by Isaac Winslow, Esquire, as he saith, which contains six or seven thousand acres. I first settled on it; there are ten or twelve families, of good Connecticut men, who are hearty in our cause, and should hold what they have taken in their own right; the rest should be deemed forfeit. This is my private opinion, made publick to none but you.

Pray excuse the want of order in these hints from, honourable Sir, your humble servant, in haste,

ELISHA HEWES.

P. S. I have wrote by this opportunity to Joseph Hewes, Esq., in the Continental Congress; we are brothers' children, and were brought up together in the same family. Your favour in forwarding is prayed by, Sir, &c.

JOSEPH HAWLEY TO THE HONOURABLE JOSEPH WARREN.

Northampton, June 9, 1775.

DEAR SIR: In my letter sent yesterday in great haste, I suggested some broken hints respecting Ticonderoga. I am still in agonies for the greatest possible despatch to secure that pass. I don't call it an acquisition, for it don't merit that epithet; nor can it, until more is done for maintaining it than I have yet heard of. It is clear that it is necessary we should take precisely the same measures for retaining that post, as if the country of Canada was in the full possession of the French. Nay, I believe we have more to fear from that quarter than if France alone held Canada. I think there is much reason to apprehend that Britain and France will, and do act jointly against America, and nothing more probable than that they design, in their partition of America, that the Province of Quebeck, as lately defined, shall be ceded or given up to France. I most heartily wish that every member of our Congress, yea, every inhabitant of the Province, had a true idea of the infinite importance and consequence of that station. If Britain, while they are in hostility against New-England, hold that post, they will, by means thereof, be able to do more to vanquish and subdue us from that quarter, than they will be able to do in all other parts of the continent; yea, more than they could do in all other parts of the globe. If Britain should regain and hold that place, they will be able soon to harass and waste, by the savages, all the borders of New-England, eastwards of Hudson's River and southeast of Lake Champlain and the River St. Lawrence, and shortly, by the Lake Champlain, to march an army to Hudson's River, to subdue the feeble and sluggish efforts of the inhabitants on that river, and so to connect Montreal and New-York; and then New-England will be wholly environed by sea and land, east, west, north, and south. The chain of the Colonies will be entirely and irreparably broken; the whole Province of New-York will be fully taken into the interest of Administration; and this very pass of Ticonderoga is the post and spot where all this mischief may be withstood and resisted; but if that is relinquished or taken from us, desolation must come in upon us like a flood. I am bold to say, (for I can maintain it,) that the General Congress would have not advised to so destructive a measure, if they had recommended and prescribed that our whole Army, which now invests Boston, should instantly decamp, and march with all the baggage and artillery to Worcester, and suffer Gage's Army to ravage what part of the country they pleased. Good God! what could be their plan. If they intend defence, they must be unacquainted with the geography of the country, or never adverted to the matter. The design of seizing that post was gloriously conceived; but to what purpose did our forces light there, if they are now to fly away from there. Certainly to no good purpose, but to very bad and destructive purposes; for by this step General Carleton is alarmed. Whereas if this step had not been taken, his proceedings might have been slow and with some leisure; but now, if he is worthy of command, he will exert himself to the utmost, and proceed with despatch. If we maintain the post, the measure of taking it was glorious. If we abandon it, the step will turn out to have been a destructive one.

I am informed that Connecticut have ordered five hundred men for that place. What number they have proposed that this Province should send, I have not heard. I hope that a moment's time will not be lost before a proper number get on their way thither, if it is possible that they can be furnished with so much ammunition as will make them of any service when they shall arrive there. I shan't presume to say any more, what more I conceive to be fittest for this service; perhaps I went too far on that head in my last. Instead of seeing men march eastward from the County of Berkshire, (as they have within these two days,) I hope to see some marching westward for Ticonderoga. I think it would be best to importune Connecticut to spare some more gunpowder to that place, we paying them for a part or all of it, as they have had a late arrival of at least two tons since they sent five hundred pounds for that place. All that I can say on that head is, that they and we must do as well as we can. As to supplies of victuals, there can be no difficulty of procuring a sufficiency on Hudson's River and in Berkshire County, if proper persons, with the needful, are appointed for that purpose.

I think, Sir, that Connecticut have good pretensions to appoint the commanding or chief officer there, and hope, Sir, that we shall not make any difficulty about it, but fully cede that prerogative to them.

I purpose to set out for Congress the day after to-morrow; but as the case of Ticonderoga calls for the greatest despatch, I could not endure the loss of a day before I communicated more of my mind to you. You will use these hints, Sir, as you please.

I am, Sir, with great truth and best regards, your Honour's friend and most humble servant, JOSEPH HAWLEY.

Honourable Joseph Warren, Esq., at Watertown.

Whitehall, June 10, 1775.

Lieutenant Nunn, of the Navy, arrived this morning at Lord Dartmouth's, and brought letters from General Gage, Lord Percy, and Lieutenant-Colonel Smith, containing the following particulars of what passed on the nineteenth of April last between a detachment of the King's Troops in the Province of Massachusetts-Bay, and several parties of rebel Provincials, viz:

General Gage having received intelligence of a quantity of military stores being collected at Concord, for the avowed purpose of supplying a body of troops to act in opposition to His Majesty's Government, detached, on the eighteenth of April at night, the Grenadiers of his Army, and the Light-Infantry, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Smith, of the Tenth Regiment, and Major Pitcairn, of the Marines, with orders to destroy the said stores; and the next morning eight Companies of the Fourth, the same number of the Twenty-Third and Forty-Ninth, and some Marines, marched under the command of Lord Percy, to support the other detachment.

Lieutenant-Colonel Smith finding, after he had advanced some miles on his march, that the country had been alarmed by the firing of guns and ringing of bells, despatched six Companies of Light-Infantry, in order to secure two bridges on different roads beyond Concord, who, upon their arrival at Lexington, found a body of the country people under arms, on a green close to the road; and upon the King's Troops marching up to them, in order to inquire the reason of their being so assembled, they went off in great confusion, and several guns were fired upon the King's Troops from behind a stone wall, and also from the meeting-house and other houses, by which one man was wounded, and Major Pitcairn's horse shot in two places. In consequence of this attack by the rebels, the troops returned the fire and killed several of them. After which the detachment marched on to Concord without any thing further happening, where they effected the purpose for which they were sent, having knocked off the trunnions of three pieces of iron ordnance, burnt some new gun carriages and a great number of carriage-wheels, and thrown into the river a considerable quantity of flour, gunpowder, musket-balls, and other articles. Whilst this service was performing, great numbers of the rebels assembled in many parts, and a considerable body of them attacked the Light-Infantry, posted at one of the bridges, on which an action ensued, and some few were killed and wounded.

On the return of the Troops from Concord, they were very much annoyed, and had several men killed and wounded by the rebels firing from behind walls, ditches, trees, and other ambushes; but the brigade, under the command of Lord Percy, having joined them at Lexington with two pieces of cannon, the rebels were for a while dispersed; but as soon as the troops resumed their march, they began to fire upon them from behind stone walls and houses, and kept up in that manner a scattering fire during the whole of their march of fifteen miles, by which means several were killed and wounded; and such was the cruelty and barbarity of the rebels, that they scalped and cut off the ears of some of the wounded men who fell into their hands.

It is not known what numbers of the rebels were killed and wounded, but it is supposed that their loss was considerable.

General Gage says that too much praise cannot be given to Lord Percy for his remarkable activity during the whole day; and that Lieutenant-Colonel Smith and Major Pitcairn did every thing that men could do, as did all the officers in general, and that the men behaved with their usual intrepidity.

Return of the Commission, Non-commission Officers, and Rank and File, killed, wounded, prisoners, and missing, on the 19th of April, 1775:

Fourth, or the King's own Regiment: Lieut. Knight, killed; Lieutenant Gould, wounded and prisoner; three sergeants and one drummer wounded; five rank and file killed, twenty-one wounded, and eight missing.

Fifth Regiment: Lieutenant Thomas Baker, Lieutenant William Cox, Lieutenant Thomas Hawkshaw, wounded; five rank and file killed, fifteen wounded, and one missing.

Tenth Regiment: Lieutenant-Colonel Francis Smith, Captain Lawrence Parsons, and Lieutenant Wald Kelly, killed; Ensign Jeremiah Lester, wounded; one rank and file killed, thirteen wounded, and one missing.

Twenty-Third Regiment: Lieut. Colonel Berry Bernard, wounded; four rank and file killed, twenty-six wounded, and six missing.

Thirty-Eighth Regiment: Lieutenant William Sutherland, wounded; one sergeant wounded; four rank and file killed, and eleven wounded.

Forty-Third Regiment: Lieutenant Hull, wounded and prisoner; four rank and file killed, five wounded, and two missing.

Forty-Seventh Regiment: Lieutenant Donald McCloud and Ensign Henry Baldwin, wounded; one sergeant wounded, five rank and file killed, and twenty-one wounded.

Fifty-Second Regiment: one sergeant missing, three rank and file killed, and two wounded.

Fifty-Ninth Regiment: three rank and file killed, and three wounded.

Marines: Captain Souter, and Second Lieutenant McDonald, wounded; Second Lieutenant Isaac Potter, missing; one sergeant killed, two wounded, and one missing; one drummer killed, twenty-five rank and file killed, thirty-six wounded, and five missing.

Total: One Lieutenant-Colonel killed; two Lieutenant-Colonels wounded; two Captains wounded; nine Lieutenants wounded; one Lieutenant missing; two Ensigns wounded; one Sergeant killed, four wounded, two missing; one Drummer killed, one wounded; sixty-two rank and file killed, one hundred and fifty-seven wounded, and twenty-four missing.

N. B. Lieutenant Isaac Potter reported to be wounded and taken prisoner. THOMAS GAGE.

TO THE PUBLICK.

London, June 12, 1775.

When the news of a massacre first arrived, the pensioned writer of the Gazette entreated the publick "to suspend their judgment, as Government had received no tidings of the matter." It was added "that there was every reason to expect despatches from General Gage, by a vessel called the Sukeey."

The publick have suspended their judgment; they have waited the arrival of the Sukeey; and the humane part of mankind have wished that the fatal tale related by Captain Derby might prove altogether fictitious. To the great grief of every thinking man, this is not the case. We are now in possession of both the accounts. The Americans have given their narrative of the massacre; the favourite official servants have given a Scotch account of the skirmish. In what one material fact do the two relations, when contrasted with each other, disagree? The Americans said "that a detachment of the King's Troops advanced towards Concord; that they attempted to secure two bridges on different roads beyond Concord; that when they reached Lexington, they found a body of Provincials exercising on a green; that on discovering the Provincial Militia thus employed, the King's Troops called out to them to disperse, damned them for a parcel of rebels, and killed one or two, as the most effectual method of intimidating the rest." This the writer of the Scotch account in the Gazette styles, "marching up to the rebels to inquire the reason of being so assembled." Both relations, however, agree in this, that a question was asked; the pensioned varnisher only saying that it was asked in a civil way, attended with the loss of blood.

Thus far, then, the facts, in every material circumstance, precisely agree; and as yet, we have every reason to believe that the Salem Gazette is to the full as authentick as our Government paper, which, as a literary composition, is a disgrace to the Kingdom.

The Salem Gazette assured us that the King's Troops were compelled to return from Concord; that a handful of militia put them to rout, and killed and wounded several as they fled. Is this contradicted in the English Gazette? Quite the contrary; it is confirmed. The Scotch account of the skirmish acknowledges that, "on the hasty return of the Troops from Concord, they were very much annoyed, and several of the men killed and wounded." The Scotch account also adds, "that the Provincials kept up a scattering fire during the whole of the march of the King's Troops of fifteen miles, by which means several of them were killed and wounded." If the American Militia "kept up a scattering fire on the King's Troops, of fifteen miles," the Provincials must have pursued, and the Regulars must have fled, which confirms the account given in the Salem Gazette, wherein it is asserted that the Regulars "were forced to retreat." Whether they marched like mutes at a funeral, or whether they fled like the relations and friends of the present Ministry who were amongst the rebel army at the battle of Cullodan, is left entirely to the conjecture of the reader; though it should seem that a scattering fire, poured in upon a retreating enemy for fifteen miles together, would naturally, like goads applied to the sides of oxen, make them march off as fast as they could.

The Scotch account, in our English Gazette, relates dreadful things respecting "the cruelty and barbarity of the rebels, who scalped and cut off the ears of some of the wounded men." If the publick have any aversion to being imposed upon, they need only refer to the affidavits of the Lieutenants, and the rest of the King's force, who were wounded and taken prisoners. In those affidavits the parties freely, and of their own accord make oath, that "although the King's Troops began the bloody business, and thus provoked the Provincials to a rage that might have justified merciless revenge, yet the Provincials behaved with unparalleled moderation, and had exercised every virtuous office humanity could suggest to such of the King's Troops as had fallen into their hands." Whether, therefore, is the greater credit to be paid, to the oaths of the parties who experienced this tenderness, or to the naked assertion of a pensioned varnisher, who trumps up a Scotch account of the matter, manifestly to serve the purpose of Ministry, by glossing over murders, for the perpetration of which their heads should instantly be struck off. The Gazette writer concludes his narrative, by informing the publick that General Gage says "that too much praise cannot be given to Lord Percy for his remarkable activity during the whole day."

The publick will think this a very singular kind of compliment. The preceding part of the narrative had told a story about the troops marching, or, in plainer English, retreating from Lexington; they did not halt, but continued their retreat for fifteen miles. What then are we to understand by the "remarkable activity of Lord Percy?" His personal bravery is too well known to leave room for suspicion that he ever would shew "remarkable activity" in retreating. Yet the Scotch account in the Gazette leaves the compliment so ambiguous, that an invidious reader might suppose Lord Percy made it, like the swift-footed Achilles, with a light pair of heels. It is not surprising that General Gage should wish to pay his court at Northumberland house; but when he pays another compliment, as he cannot write himself, he should entrust a better hand than the pensioned compiler of the Gazette.

To reason on the facts, which are now indisputable, is a task which will better suit some future opportunity. The publick have but to ponder on the melancholy truths thus attested by Government. The sword of civil war is drawn, and if there is truth in Heaven, the King's Troops unsheathed it. Will the English Nation much longer suffer their fellow-subjects to be slaughtered?

It is a shameful fallacy to talk about the supremacy of Parliament. It is the despotism of the Crown, and the slavery of the people, which the Ministry aim at. For refusing those attempts, and for that only, the Americans have been inhumanly murdered by the King's Troops.

Englishmen! weigh these things with deliberation; make the case your own. If the massacre of brethren will not open your eyes, they deserve to be forever shut against your welfare. Away with the canting piety of a Court! Away with the affected candour of tools in office! Ministry are so candid that they would disguise the truth, and so pious that they would take the sacrament as barbarians keep carousals, and drink of the cup, if it was but filled with the libations of the blood of freemen.

STRICTURES ON THE GAZETTE ACCOUNT OF THE ACTION BETWEEN THE PROVINCIALS AND THE REGULARS, NEAR BOSTON.

London, June, 1775.

We must give the Ministry credit for the little cunning of putting General Gage's name to the end of the whole account, when in truth it was to the return only. This is a trick, or, as Lord Sandwich would say, a "take in," and suits at once their genius and their capacity. The truth is, that the whole was culled out of a variety of letters by two Secretaries, their Sub-Secretaries, and office Clerks. Though I do not conceive General Gage to be a Cesar or a Wolfe, yet I know him incapable of writing such stuff as is here indirectly imputed to him.

The Ministry were exceedingly puzzled between the shame of being themselves obliged to refute the charge of cowardice, which they have been so forward to urge against the Americans, and the reproach of having commenced a civil war, by a wanton and unprovoked murder of the people. Of two evils, the Ministry chose the least; and, as men who have neither wisdom nor veracity generally correct one extravagance by another, a small body of those cowardly poltron Americans, millions of whom were to fly before the face of the Regulars, are represented as daring enough to attack the flower of General Gage's Army.

The Gazette tells us, "that General Gage detached in the night the Grenadiers and Light-Infantry of his army, to destroy some stores at Concord."

Every one knows that this description comprehends the best and most active troops of the whole body. They have the advantage, too, of stealing a march upon the people. We might have expected some enterprise and exploit of moment and magnitude, equal to the preparation, the secrecy, and confidence of this expedition. But, alas! the trunnions of three old iron ordnance are the vast object of this mighty achievement. Some flour, musket-balls, and gunpowder, were also thrown into the river. I should be glad to know what motive could induce the King's Troops to throw away articles so useful to themselves, but the distress occasioned by—a precipitate retreat?

However, the Ministry go on to inform us, “that whilst this prodigious service was performing, the rebels assembled, and a considerable body of them attacked the Light-Infantry posted at one of the bridges, on which an action ensued.” Well, and who were defeated? Not a word of that, but—“a few were killed and wounded.” These dastardly Americans march up and attack the best of the Regulars, advantageously posted; and we are left to conclude, from their continuing to annoy, kill, and wound the troops on their return (as it is generally termed) from Concord, that the Light-Infantry were driven from their post and defeated. All this we should readily admit, on the credit of the Gazette, had not the former assurances of the Ministry, that the Americans were too cowardly ever to face the Regulars, rendered it utterly incredible.

But let us accompany the Army in its return, and we find them met by Lord Percy, at Lexington, with sixteen companies and the Marines, amounting in all to about twelve hundred men, with two pieces of cannon. We have now almost the whole army that was collected at Boston, under so active a leader as Lord Percy, with the assistance of Colonel Smith and Major Pitcairn, “doing every thing (so says the Gazette) that men could do,” and two pieces of cannon. We may now expect that not a man of the unheaded poltron Provincials will be left alive. Not quite so bad. The Gazette tells us dryly, that “the rebels were for a while dispersed.”

They were so dispersed, however, that “as soon as the troops resumed their march,” (not their flight,) they began again to fire upon them, and continued it during the whole of fifteen miles march, “by which means several were killed and wounded.”

If this was not a flight, and if Lord Percy's activity was not in running away, I should be glad to know where were the flanking parties of this army on its march, with all this Light-Infantry? Would any commanding officer suffer such an enemy to continue killing and wounding his troops, from stone-walls and houses, if it was not a defeat and flight? Would they have left so many of their wounded to fall into the enemy's hands? I feel for the honour of the British Troops, though the Ministry do not. This Gazette will proclaim their disgrace throughout all Europe; and yet I think, that when the military lend themselves to fight against the freedom of their fellow-subjects, they deserve to be both disgraced and defeated.

Take, then, the whole of this account as it stands, and to what does it amount, but that General Gage's Army having marched out of Boston in the night, was attacked by the Militia, hastily assembled, without a leader, and was driven back, with the loss of sixty-five killed, one hundred and eighty wounded, and twenty-eight taken prisoners, making in all two hundred and seventy-three.

In the mean time the Ministers, who have thus involved us in disgrace and blood, are perfectly unconcerned. They comfort themselves with throwing out some shameful reflections on the Americans, and boast of the activity of their officers and the intrepidity of their troops. They have not sense to perceive, that the more they exaggerate the bravery and conduct of the Regulars, the more they extol their opponents, whom they and their Scotch tools have been traducing, both publickly and privately, as the most abject cowards. What must the resolution of that Militia be, which could drive these active and intrepid Regulars, with loss and confusion, back into their intrenchments? In fact this superiority does not arise from any difference between the English and the Americans, but from the one contending in the cause of tyranny, and the other in that of liberty. It never has entered into the hearts of these wretched Ministers and their tools, to feel or conceive the enthusiasm and valour which so good and noble a cause inspires. Is it not, therefore, wonderful that they should not foresee its effects?

The charge of scalping is of the same complexion with those which they have constantly made, and which we have as constantly found to be false. It is like those of Bernard and Hutchinson, made in such general terms that it cannot have a particular refutation. Had they mentioned the names of those men who were thus treated, we might then have sought them out to refute the falsehood; but no, they content themselves with saying, the Provincials “scalped and cut off the ears of some of the wounded;” which I very sincerely believe to be an infamous falsehood, because we have had affidavits from several of the wounded prisoners, acknowledging the kindest treatment; and it is most certain that General Ward sent word to General Gage, “that his surgeons were at liberty to come into the Provincial camp and attend the wounded prisoners, if General Gage had more confidence in them than in the Provincial surgeons.” The publick will hardly believe that so fair and generous an enemy could be guilty of barbarity and cruelty, because an unfair and ungenerous Ministry are their accusers.

The Gazette tells us “that the Troops, on seeing some Provincials drawn up at Lexington, marched up to them.” For what purpose do you think, gentle reader? to ask the civilist question in the world, “the reason of their being so assembled.” But the Militia not being apprised of their very civil intentions, “went off in great confusion;” and yet, to our utter astonishment, we are in the next line told that this confounded and flying enemy immediately began an attack upon the victorious Regulars, wounding one man, and, what was an inexpressible offence, shot a Scots officer's Scots poney! It is, I believe, the first time in the world that one army marched up to another to “ask questions.” We have heard of Parthians wounding as they fled, but I did not know this was the American method. Surely they might have told a more plausible story, to make us believe the Americans were the aggressors; but the Ministry have so often imposed on our credulity, that they think any thing will suffice. The presumption arising from this very detail, compared with that of Lieutenant Gould's affidavit, and the positive oaths of a variety of witnesses, render it unquestionable that the King's Troops began the fire, and that, too, upon a small body of Provincials who were dispersing.

The whole of this business is shocking in itself, dangerous in its consequences; nor can any thing comfort us under the evils attending it, but a trust that the wicked authors of it will soon be brought to condign punishment.

I am of opinion that children unborn will not alone have occasion to lament the bloody and inhuman carnage of Lexington. Some men, whose advice has tended to produce so unhappy a scene, and whose abilities have since been prostituted in misrepresenting and reviling their countrymen, may have cause to join in the general lamentation. The hypocritical eye of Mr. H— may once more weep, and even *Coriolanus may shed a tear from a different cause than that of virtuous compunction. Coriolanus's friend and adviser, the late Major of Brigade, will meet with a reception worthy of his treachery; and the noble Lord who has been his dupe, will find that he has bestowed rewards on a person unworthy of his confidence. His engagement to bribe the Members of the Continental Congress, and to raise ten thousand men to join the Parliamentary Army, showed the extremity of impudence. He must have known that he was deceiving the Secretary of State; and his Lordship ought to be ashamed of his own puerile credulity. The solicitations of modest virtuous merit, have by him been often rejected, and the most forward and wicked incendiaries countenanced and promoted. Coriolanus has been extremely liberal in charging his countrymen with treason and rebellion. I shall not lose so much time as to discuss this question with him. It would necessarily lead me to the examination of the right of taxation.

All the disorders of America have arisen from that source, and I defy him to derive them from any other. If the Parliament have not a right to tax America, they have no right to send troops to compel submission. If compulsion be attempted, resistance is justifiable. The greatest authorities that ever this Country produced might be cited to prove this. I forbear mentioning the names of Sidney and Locke, of Chatham, and Camden. Their doctrines are obsolete, and too uncourtly for the ear of a young divine, newly flattered with the pomp of a professorship in divinity, and gratified with the more substantial acquisition of two hundred Pounds a year. I appeal to Judge Blackstone; he cannot be suspected of partiality in favour of the people in opposition to sovereign power. In his seventh chapter, which treats of the rights of persons, he says, "All oppressions which may happen to spring from any branch of the sovereign power, must necessarily be out of the reach of any stated rule or express legal provision; but if ever they unfortunately happen, the prudence of the times must provide new remedies upon new emergencies." And again, "It is found by experience that whenever the unconstitutional oppressions even of the sovereign power advance with gigantick strides, and threaten desolation to a State, mankind will not be reasoned out of the feelings of humanity, nor will sacrifice their liberty by a scrupulous adherence to those political maxims which were originally established to preserve it." "Whenever necessity and the safety of the whole shall require it, they will exert those inherent though latent powers of society, which no climate, no time, no constitution, no contract can ever destroy or diminish." A fuller and plainer justification of resistance on certain occasions cannot be penned; and that the occasions have offered which call forth the exertion of those "inherent though latent powers of society," is very evident, from the convulsions into which all America is thrown.

The American gentlemen, in their petition to Parliament last year, which has done them infinite honour, and which he ought to remember with shame, very justly observe, that "no history can show, nor will human nature admit of an instance of general discontent, but from a general sense of oppression. As there is now no legal provision against such oppression left untried, every Province having in vain, first separately and then unitedly, petitioned and remonstrated, they are compelled into a contest the most shocking and unnatural, with a parent State which has ever been the object of their veneration and their love."

The present Administration and the rest of the friends of arbitrary power and non-resistance, have been premature in declaring this contest rebellion. The event must prove whether it may not be called the necessary step to a revolution. I hope that this Nation may have wisdom and virtue enough to prevent it, by a total and immediate repeal of all the offensive acts, and by resting satisfied with the monopoly of the American trade, which is all that the one ought to require, or the other submit to. But it seems the honour of Parliament must not be hurt. They have declared that these are terms they will not be satisfied with. This is a difficulty that Lord North will be so good as to obviate for me. The necessity of the case has always been thought a sufficient justification for a departure from such resolutions, which, if not impracticable, never can compensate for the miseries and calamities which must be the consequence of an attempt to carry them into execution. "If (says Lord North, in his speech on what he called his conciliatory motion) it should seem to be abandoning the high ground taken in the address, or be contrary to the assurances so frequently given that no terms should be held out to America previous to her submission, this is nothing but what is common. The greatest Powers have done it. In the war of the Succession it was a fundamental point that no Prince of the house of Bourbon should ever sit on the throne of Spain. This was several times repeated, and in the most solemn manner. Such politicks are necessary to gain or to animate allies.* Yet all the powers which composed this confederacy yielded, and a Prince of the house of Bourbon did sit, and one of the same house does now sit on the throne of Spain. In the Spanish war of 1739, we declared that we could never treat with Spain, until she had given up the point of search. Yet peace was made without her giving up the point, and the search continued." Lord North added to these many other instances in which great Powers had abandoned their pretensions. His Lordship will, I hope, for the sake of stopping the farther effusion of blood, and for the sake of making us a happy, powerful, and united people, add another example to his catalogue. I shall trouble Coriolanus with but one more observation, which, to a clergyman, may have some weight. If he should be as fortunate as Dr. Johnson, and get an addition to his pension; if he should succeed his worthy friend and patron, the President of the College in which he is a professor; if he should attain the summit of all spiritual honours in this kingdom, even the See of Canterbury, it is worthy of his consideration whether there may not be

TO THE PEOPLE OF ENGLAND.

London, June, 1775.

I am a plain man, and you must therefore expect to hear plain truths. Silence would now be a crime.

You have but two choices left, and if you have not wisdom to choose wisely, or virtue to act as wisdom dictates, you will deserve to sink under the evils which this very moment hang suspended, ready to crush you by their fall.

Continue these tory Ministers at your helm, and after having been accustomed for ten years to the news of unnatural carnage, you will have the satisfaction of seeing the whole Continent of America totally wrested from you, or, what is equally hurtful, their affections entirely estranged. Your commerce, of course, must decay, and your enemies will have cause to rejoice in your destruction.

Or, if you prefer your own welfare to the emoluments and gratification of your tory Ministers, drive them from their offices, and prevail on Lord Chatham to take the reins of Government. He will offer the Americans the terms proposed by their Congress, namely, to be governed as in the late reigns; and the Americans must gladly accept these terms from whig Ministers, or else all England, to a man, will zealously be their enemies. This pen has often fought their battles, because I think them injured by the common enemy of our liberties; but let them refuse to be governed by a whig Administration, according to whig principles, and I will be their most violent opposer. I think they ought not to trust tory Ministers, though they should offer ever such fair terms, because they are not to be trusted. Enemies to freedom, they must be enemies to America. But if whigs govern, America may depend on their favour, for they have fought one battle, and our hearts are with them. It may truly be said, that if this Nation is saved from ruin, it will be by American virtue, for I fear there is none left in England. The sun of Liberty is setting here, but Englishmen may yet be warmed by its rays from America, since they have courage to bleed for freedom.

The Gazette styles them rebels; the Ministry honoured them with that appellation long before they drew the sword. I say "honoured them," because I think it an honour to be termed rebels by such men.

Is it rebellion to defend freedom? If your Juries were attacked, if Magna Charta in any shape was to be daringly violated, would you not yourselves draw the sword? Could you then be properly styled rebels? Certainly you could not. Can you hesitate in the choice of the only alternatives left you by Heaven? Can you read the accounts from America without horror? Are you not shocked when your imagination presents to your view Englishmen shedding English blood? Do you wish for the continuance of such unnatural, horrid carnage? If the idea of this detestable civil war does not excite the most generous feelings for your brave countrymen, (now driven almost to madness by the obstinate perseverance of tories,) you have lost the humanity, you have degenerated from the virtue of your ancestors.

Are the Ministry to be gratified longer with the ability of involving you still deeper in this ruinous contention? Will you allow them to prosecute this bloody, unnatural war, any longer? They talk of embodying the Militia, in order to be able to send more mercenaries to America; ought they not rather to lose their heads, for having sent those which are already there? Has not enough of English blood been shed? Must more be spilled? Are they to add a fresh list of murders to the black account? If the idea of such repeated massacres does not awaken your feelings, England ought to be deserted by the few whigs, whose hearts glow with indignation; they should fly to America, where liberty is idolized, and tyranny detested.

Have not Ministry, by every measure hitherto adopted, made what was bad, still worse? Did the bills of spring 1774, or those of spring 1775, answer any good purpose? Did they not add fuel to the flame?

If, then, you have found Ministers so very unequal to the task they have undertaken, can you be so very weak as to trust any longer to their management? You would not surely wish to become habituated to the recital of battles, in which English blood must be shed by Englishmen. You have now heard of above two hundred of your soldiers killed and wounded. The Gazette informs us, that the loss of the Provincials was much greater; in all, lost to England above five hundred men.

And as a salve General Gage informs us, that "the men behaved with their usual intrepidity:" if so, I have been mistaken in my opinion of English soldiers. If they can be brought to fight with ardour against their countrymen, who are standing forward in the most glorious of all causes, that of their Country, they should never be known, henceforward, by any other name than "mercenaries."

EXTRACT OF A LETTER TO A GENTLEMAN IN PHILADELPHIA, DATED FALMOUTH, ENGLAND, JUNE 10, 1775.

We have received the melancholy news of hostilities being commenced in America, between the King's Troops and the Provincials, which will be attended, I fear, with fatal consequences to both parties. I was in hopes the armed force on both sides would have conducted themselves with such prudence as to prevent bloodshed until affairs could have been amicably settled, but now I fear an accommodation is by this means removed at a distance. Our Ministry have carried matters with too high a hand, and been too arbitrary in their determinations; they are greatly blamed (even by those who are of the same sentiments in respect to taxing the Americans) for sending any Troops to the Colonies.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM CHARLESTOWN, SOUTH-CAROLINA, DATED JUNE 10, 1775.

Our Congress has done hard duty this week, and are still sitting. They have resolved to raise two Regiments (each seven hundred and fifty men) of Foot, and another of Horse to consist of four hundred and fifty, exclusive of officers. The command of one Regiment is to be given to Mr. Gadsden, as Chief Colonel, and Isaac Huger as Lieutenant-Colonel; the other officers are to be determined on this evening. About two hundred gentlemen, I am informed, are candidates for commissions in our Provincials.

We are informed the Whigs and Tories in Georgia are disputing with each other, and that Governour Wright is much alarmed for his safety. The officers of the Grenadiers Company in that Colony, on receiving some orders from Governour Wright, positively refused to pay any attention thereto, threw down their commissions, and declared they would fight in defence of their liberties.

Officers of the First and Second Regiments of Infantry, and of the Regiment of Horse Rangers.

Field Officers of the First Regiment.—Christopher Gadsden, Colonel; Isaac Huger, Lieutenant-Colonel; Owen Roberts, Major.

Field Officers of the Second Regiment.—William Moultrie, Colonel; Isaac Motte, Lieutenant-Colonel; Alexander McIntosh, Major.

Captains of the First and Second Regiments.—Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, Barnard Elliott, Francis Marion, William Cattell, Peter Horry, Daniel Horry, Adam McDonald, Thomas Lynch, William Scott, John Barnwell, Nicholas Eveleigh, James McDonald, Isaac Harleston, Thomas Pinckney, Francis Huger, William Mason, Edmund Hyrne, Roger Parker Saunders, Charles Motte, Benjamin Cattell.

Field Officers of the Regiment of Rangers.—William Thomson, Lieutenant-Colonel; James Mayson, Major.

Captains of the Rangers.—Samuel Wise, Eli Kershaw, Edward Richardson, Ezekiel Polk, Robert Goodwin, Thomas Woodward, John Caldwell, Moses Kirkland, John Purvis.

JOHN HANCOCK, PRESIDENT, TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: The enclosed Resolution of this Congress I am directed to transmit you, and to desire you will order it to be executed in as expeditious and secret a manner as possible, referring to your judgment the most suitable places for landing it, and where there will be the least risk of interruption from the ships-of-war. You will please to consign it to the Committee of Correspondence in each place, with a direction to forward the flour to the Army as soon as possible.

I have it also in charge to recommend to you that the flour be transported in small quantities, as there may be danger of the enemy. I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Honourable Members of the Provincial Congress of New-York.

NEW-YORK DELEGATES TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: We are now to acknowledge the honour of your despatches of the 7th instant.

We have long foreseen the difficulties you must be reduced to for want of money. They will not be lessened by the resolutions of the Congress of yesterday, recommending it to you to procure and forward five thousand barrels of flour for the use of the Army at Boston.

We communicated the paragraph of your letter, in which you complain, that unless the Congress shall make some speedy order with relation to the levying of money, it will be impossible for you to comply with their farther requests. They, however, seem persuaded that their note of credit, which accompanies the order for the supply, will remove every obstruction; and relying on your zeal for the common cause, they hope you will be able to throw in this provision, which we are apprehensive will soon become highly necessary.

We may venture to hint to you, that the emission of paper money will be discussed on Monday, and we expect in the course of next week to be able to present you with a determination of this important business, which will free us from much anxiety.

We shall not fail to attend to what you suggest concerning the Indians. This is an object to our Colony of the highest moment, and we hope in due time will be considered by the Congress. We think the Indians will not be disposed to engage in this unhappy quarrel, unless deceived and deluded by misrepresentations, and this, with vigilance and care on our part, can be prevented. As one step towards it, which we much applaud, are the assurances you have given the Superintendent of his safety. From the temper and customs of the Indians, they would illy brook the extinguishing of their council fire; and had it been damped by any violence to Colonel Johnson's person or property, they must have been alarmed and very probably excited to extremities.

It is much to be lamented that we are still destitute of ammunition. The Government of Connecticut have been more provident, or more fortunate, and will be able to supply the forces at Ticonderoga with powder.

We commend your caution in directing two letters to us upon the subject of general officers to command our Troops. What we wrote to you was in the character of your own immediate Delegates, and with a view to discover the sense of our Colony, that we might, when this matter came to be debated in Congress, be fortified with your opinion and arguments, which, having obtained, we shall, to the utmost of our power, enforce your recommendations.

Your remarks on the resolution of the Continental Congress relative to taking post at King's Bridge appear to us to be conclusive; we shall, however, lay them before our body as soon as the other important matters under consideration shall be determined.

We have the honour to be, with the greatest respect, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servants,

PHILIP LIVINGSTON, WILLIAM FLOYD.
JAMES DUANE, JOHN ALSOP.
FRANCIS LEWIS,

To the Provincial Congress at New-York.

JOHN HANCOCK, PRESIDENT, TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of your application to this Congress for advice respecting a form of Government to be adopted in the Massachusetts-Bay, under your present circumstances, I am directed by the Congress to transmit you their Resolution thereon, which is here enclosed.

I am also to inform you that the Congress have been so pressed with business that they have been prevented determining upon the other matters mentioned in your letters to them, but they will very soon come under their consideration, and their resolutions thereon shall be forwarded you.

I also enclose you a Resolve of Congress for furnishing our Army with flour. This you will keep secret, at least as far as the nature of it will admit, as the publication may give an alarm, which may prevent the good effects of it.

Last evening Mr. Fessenden, your express, arrived with your despatches of June 4th, which I shall this morning lay before the Congress, and when considered by Congress, their determinations shall be immediately transmitted to you.

I am, with much esteem, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the Gentlemen of the Provincial Congress, Massachusetts-Bay.

In Congress, Friday, June 9, 1775.

Resolved, That no obedience being due to the Act of Parliament for altering the Charter of the Colony of Massachusetts-Bay, nor to a Governour or Lieutenant-Governour who will not observe the directions of, but endeavour to subvert, that Charter, the Governour and Lieutenant-Governour are to be considered as absent, and these offices vacant; and as there is no Council there, and the inconveniences arising from the suspension of the powers of Government are intolerable, especially at a time when General Gage hath actually levied war, and is carrying on hostilities against His Majesty's peaceable and loyal subjects of that Colony; that in order to conform as near as may be to the spirit and substance of the Charter, it be recommended to the Provincial Congress to write letters to the inhabitants of the several places which are entitled to representation in Assembly, requesting them to choose such Representatives; and that the Assembly, when chosen, should elect Counsellors; which Assembly and Council should exercise the powers of Government, until a Governour of His Majesty's appointment will consent to govern the Colony according to its Charter.

A true copy from the Minutes.

CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.

By order of the Congress:

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

THOMAS CUSHING TO ELBRIDGE GERRY.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1775.

SIR: Doctor Church will bring with him a vote of the Congress advising our people to consider the Governour and Lieutenant-Governour as absent, and their offices vacant; and further recommending it to the Provincial Congress to issue letters to all such places as are entitled to a representation, to choose Representatives, who, when convened, are advised to choose Counsellors, agreeable to the Charter; which Assembly, together with the Counsellors that may be chosen, are advised to carry on the affairs of Government until a Governour of His Majesty's appointment will consent to govern according to the directions of the Charter. As to giving a credit to our Provincial note, and regulating the Army, you will hear further from the Congress soon. The bearer carries a recommendation to the other Colonies to supply you with all the powder they can safely spare.

In great haste, I am, with respect, your most humble servant,

THOMAS CUSHING.

Mr. Elbridge Gerry, Watertown.

P. S. Pray let me hear from you soon concerning my dear Country. Must refer you for particulars to Dr. Church.

ROBERT TREAT PAINE TO ELBRIDGE GERRY.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1775.

MY DEAR SIR: I cannot express to you the surprise and uneasiness I received on hearing the Congress express respecting the want of gunpowder; it always was a matter that lay heavy on my mind; but the observation I made of your attention to it, and your alertness and perseverance in every thing you undertake, and your repeatedly expressing it as your opinion that we had probably enough for this summer's campaign, made me quite easy. I rely upon it, that measures are taken in your parts of the Continent to supply this defect. The design of your express will be zealously attended to, I think. I have seen one of the powder-mills here, where they make excellent powder, but have worked up all the nitre. One of our members is concerned in a powder-mill at New-York, and has a man at work making nitre. I have taken pains to inquire into the method. Doctor Franklin has seen saltpetre works at Hanover and Paris; and it strikes me to be as unnecessary, after a certain time, to send abroad for gunpowder as for bread, provided people will make use of common understanding and industry; but for the present we must import from abroad. Major Foster told me at Hartford he suspected he had some land that would yield nitre; pray converse with him about it. Doctor Franklin's account is much the same as is mentioned in one of the first of the American magazines; the sweepings of the streets and rubbish of old buildings are made into mortar, and built into walls, exposed to the air, and once in about two months scraped, and lixiviated, and evaporated. When I can describe the method more minutely I will write you; mean while give me leave to condole with you the loss of Colonel Lee. Pray remember me to Colonel Orme, and all other our worthy friends. Pray take care of your important health, that you may be able to stand stiff as a pillar in our new Government.

I must now subscribe, with great respect and affection, your humble servant,

R. T. PAINE.

JOHN HANCOCK, PRESIDENT, TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, June 10, 1775.

SIR: By order of the Congress I transmit to you the enclosed Resolutions passed by the Congress this morning. The necessity of the present emergency requires a speedy compliance with the first, respecting the supply of powder to the Army; and I need not inform you, that the nature of the service requires that it should be done with as much secrecy as possible. If there are any supplies of powder to be purchased in your Colony, you will readily see the propriety of engaging it for the use of the Continental Army, and informing the General of the Army thereof, as well as, Sir, your most obedient humble servant,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

To the President of the Provincial Congress, or Committee of the Colony of New-Hampshire.

P. S. I am directed by the Congress to request you will please to transmit to them, as soon as may be, an estimate of the powder, arms, and ammunition in your Colony, including private as well as publick stocks. Your humble servant, &c.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO THEIR DELEGATES.

[Read in Congress June 14, 1775.]

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: A certain Captain Coffin being suspected of taking on board his vessel provisions for the Army and Navy at Boston, though consigned to persons at Rhode-Island, we have thought proper to delay his voyage until we have the sentiments of the General Congress on the subject. Our reason of suspicion is this, that it hath been intimated to us, that Messrs. Lopez and Roam, to whom great part of the cargo is assigned, are commissioned to supply those articles to the Army and Navy, which is done, as is alleged, by suffering vessels which contain provisions to lie in the harbour unladen until seized by a ship-of-war, according to agreement for that purpose.

We should have made inquiry and order in the premises, but that one of our sister Colonies being concerned, it might tend to create divisions among us at a time when unanimity is so necessary to the publick safety.

We are, gentlemen, your most obedient humble servants. By order of the Congress:

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

To the New-York Delegates at the Continental Congress.

NEW-YORK CONGRESS TO GOVERNOUR TRUMBULL.

In Provincial Congress, New-York, June 10, 1775.

SIR: Since our former letters to your Company on the subject of gunpowder, by application to a neighbouring Colony we have procured a quantity, which we cheerfully spare, as we apprehend it will be most acceptable to our brethren of the Massachusetts-Bay. For the more speedy despatch, we would ask the favour of you to issue, out of your most easterly magazine, six hundred and fifty-five pounds weight, and forward to the American camp at Boston, and we shall immediately replace it, the like quantity being already on the way to your Colony.

We are, Sir, your most obedient and humble servants.

By order of the Congress:

P. V. B. LIVINGSTON, President.

Hon. Jonathan Trumbull, Governour of Connecticut.

P. S. As we have given a receipt for the powder to our neighbouring Colony, you will please to direct the like to be given us.

ROBERT BOYD, JUN., TO NEW-YORK CONGRESS.

New-Windsor, June 10, 1775.

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of a resolve of this honourable Convention, passed the 6th instant, Mr. Henry Watkeys hath waited on me for the purpose of fixing a plan for making muskets, bayonets, &c., agreeable to said resolve; and after mature deliberation on the subject, I find that the expense of manufacturing a gun-barrel, bayonet, and steel rammer, (which are the parts Mr. Watkeys would assign me,) will amount to thirty-two shillings currency; this, I think, will be the extent, but dare not fix it lower previous to making trial. Gentlemen, it would give me particular pleasure to have a manufactory of this kind established in this Province; and believe me, that if you shall be pleased to appoint me as one to bear a part in the execution thereof, I will exert my utmost skill in endeavouring to give satisfaction, both respecting price and quality; but must remind you, gentlemen, that in order to facilitate the business, it will be necessary to fix machinery, and provide a number of tools not necessary in other business, the expense of which will amount to about one hundred Pounds; this sum will be requisite previous to the undertaking; and if a contract can be obtained for one thousand barrels, &c., the money advanced shall be discounted on the first payment; if, on the contrary, it shall be judged by the honourable Congress inexpedient to prosecute the plan proposed, the sum advanced must be considered as sunk.

I am, gentlemen, with due esteem, your most obedient and humble servant,

ROBERT BOYD, Junior.

The Honourable the Provincial Congress for the Colony of New-York, now convened in the City of New-York.

Crown Point, June 10, 1775.

To the Honourable the Continental Congress of NORTH-AMERICA, held at PHILADELPHIA:

Colonel Ethan Allen; Major Samuel Elmore, of the Connecticut Farms; Colonel James Easton, of Pittsfield; Captain Seth Warner; Captain Hezekiah Balding;

Captain Ebenezer Marvin; Captain Remember Baker; Captain George White; Captain James Noble, commandant at this place; Captain Amos Chapple; Captain Wait Hopkins; Captain Joseph McCracken; Captain John Grand; Captain Barnabas Barnum; Captain James Wills; Lieutenant Ira Allen; Lieutenant Oliver Parmerly; Isaac Hitchcock, Commissary; Stephen Bay, clerk to Major Elmore.

HONOURED SIRS: We, whose names are prefixed above, do in council approve of and nominate Colonel Ethan Allen, Captain Seth Warner, and Captain Remember Baker, to meet you in Congress, to consult and have your advice upon this move, which we have understood that you have approved; we are now in possession of Ticonderoga and Crown Point. And this day, at five o'clock, our armed sloop and schooners arrived here and furnished us with intelligence, that about three hundred of the Regular forces were at St. John's, fortifying and intrenching upon the Grants, near this place. We think it might be practicable, in case of emergency, to raise about five hundred men, in case (as they are poor) of encouragement. Colonel Allen has behaved, in this affair, very singularly remarkable for his courage, and must, in duty, recommend him to you and the whole Continent.

A number of gentlemen, among whom were Major Elmore, of Connecticut, and Colonel Easton, of Pittsfield, contributed, as a present, to a number of Indians of the Caughnawagas and Captain Ninham, of Stockbridge, largely, out of their own pockets, who ask no fee nor reward; it was given upon their assurance of friendship. The majority of us have seen the marks of his abuse that he had received at St. John's from the Regulars; they assure us, (and we believe that the Indians will meddle in no way,) that they understand this affair to be a family dispute.

SAMUEL ELMER, President.

ELISHA HEWES TO MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS.

Fort Pownall, June 10, 1775.

HONOURABLE SIR: I expect my letters, sent by Captain Buck, will reach you before Captain Lane, who will be impeded with his charge. I hope none will rob him of the honour he alone deserves (under the smiles of Heaven) for the success he has met with in his tour up our river. I hope we shall have more of his company, if our troubles continue; you cannot send a man that can act more for the service and interest of the Country. I dare not ask a written answer to this, or mine by Buck, but a few words will be highly acceptable to, Sir, your very humble servant,

ELISHA HEWES.

To Joseph Warren, Esquire, President of the Provincial Congress.

COMMITTEE OF CONWAY TO NEW-HAMPSHIRE CONGRESS.

Conway, June 10, 1775.

SIR: Last Monday we had a Town-meeting; a copy of the same will be shown to you by Mr. Burbank, one of our Committee; and as he is not acquainted with any of the Congress, we have recommended him to you, and hope you will direct and assist him in the business he is sent upon. Sir, it is needless to mention any thing concerning our situation on the frontiers of this Province, for it is well known to you, and most part of those gentlemen appointed and chosen for the Congress. But although we are at such a distance from you, we are willing to do every thing in our power in support of the common cause; but, under our present situation, we are neither able to defend ourselves or assist you, if there should be occasion, for reasons which we shall mention. In the first place, there is a number of our men enlisted and gone into the service, we think about fourteen or fifteen, from this Town. The most part of those who are left have no provision to support themselves and families, but what they must bring from some seaport, and but very few have any money to purchase; and not more than half of the Town have got any arms, and those who have got arms have scarcely any ammunition. Therefore, as Mr. Burbank and myself are appointed to make application for arms and ammunition, we thought, as you were the one man, to make our first application to you; and are confident you will do what you can, that he may have such warlike stores as he wants, if they are to be had, or to assist and advise him what steps to take so that we may be provided; and that he may be despatched back as soon as possible: for we have reason to be suspicious of the Indians, and, were we able, would keep a scout in the woods daily, to discover their motions; but without the assistance of the Province, of ourselves we are not able; for there are so many of our young men enlisted, that all the men that are left are not sufficient to carry on our farming. Therefore, we shall be under the necessity of asking or petitioning the Congress for some men, to be employed as a scouting party, to guard this quarter of the frontiers; but we are afraid these matters will be omitted until it is too late. We shall esteem it a favour if the Congress will give us directions what to do, or what steps to take, for we are fully determined to adhere strictly to all orders that may come from the Congress.

We expected to have been called upon to send a member to the Congress, but we suppose our being at such a distance left us to be forgot. We shall come down as soon as Burbank returns. Any arms or ammunition that we want, we are ready to make over our estates for security, but as to money, at present we have none.

In hopes, Sir, you will do and assist us all you can, I subscribe myself, your obedient humble servant,

Signed in behalf of the Town and Committee:

ANDREW McMULLEN.

To Colonel M. Thornton.

TRYON COUNTY (NEW-YORK) COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of the Committee of Tryon County, on Sunday, the eleventh of June, 1775, at the house of Gosen Van Alstyn: Upon reading Letters from the Provincial Congress, dated the thirty-first of May, and third of June, 1775, recommending the appointing of Deputies to meet in Congress with the Deputies of the different Counties at New-York, the question being put, whether any should be sent down? was carried in the affirmative.

This Committee having great confidence in the integrity and ability of Christopher P. Yates and John Malett, Esquires, do resolve that the said Christopher P. Yates, and John Malett, be appointed, and are accordingly appointed, to be Deputies to attend the Provincial Congress without delay, and to act, in conjunction with the members of that body, upon the very alarming and calamitous situation of British America. By order of the Committee:

NICHOLAS HERKIMER, Chairman pro tem.

ANDREW FINCK, JUN., Clerk.

MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESS TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[Read in Congress June 19, 1775.]

In Provincial Congress, Watertown, June 11, 1775.

Resolved unanimously, That the following address be immediately transmitted to the honourable American Congress now sitting at Philadelphia.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOURS: The situation of any Colony or People, perhaps, was never before such as made it more necessary for fully exercising the powers of civil government than the present state and situation of the Colony of the Massachusetts-Bay.

The embarrassments, delays, disappointments, and obstructions, in executing every undertaking necessary for the preservation of our lives, and, much more, of our property, are so great and many, as that they cannot be represented or enumerated; and that is chiefly to be attributed to our want of a settled civil polity or government. Besides, every thing necessary for the abovesaid most important purposes, which is, in some degree, effected, is done in the most expensive manner, in that although the times we are fallen into, and the prospects before us are such as require the utmost economy; yet nothing of the kind can be preserved in our present state.

There are, in many parts of the Colony, alarming symptoms of the abatement of the sense in the minds of some people of the sacredness of private property, which is plainly assignable to the want of civil government; and your Honours must be fully sensible that a community of goods and estate will soon be followed with the utter waste and destruction of the goods themselves. Besides, the necessity of civil government appears more and more apparent, from the extreme difficulty of maintaining the public peace without it; although we can truly say, much fewer enormities and breaches of the peace have happened among us, than it was natural to expect from the contemplation of such a state as we have been cast into.

May it please your Honours, the pressing weight of our distresses has necessitated the sending a special post to obtain your immediate advice upon this subject, and we do most earnestly entreat that you would, as soon as possible, despatch the messenger with such advice.

Our former application to you, of the sixteenth of May last, has rendered it unnecessary that we should further enlarge upon the subject; and to prevent repetition, we beg leave to refer you to our letter of that date.

The Army under the command of General Gage, we estimate to amount to at least five thousand men, well appointed, under the command of Generals of character and experience, and prepared with every thing necessary for action, exclusive of the additional strength derived from negroes, which the General has taken into his service, and disaffected Americans; and we have great reason to apprehend a re-enforcement of at least eight regiments of Foot, and one of Horse, may be hourly expected. We enclose a copy of an intercepted letter from Major Sherriff, which exhibits to you one ground of that apprehension.

We have had under our consideration the propriety and necessity of augmenting our Army, notwithstanding our great embarrassments, and though we have not yet adopted it, nothing perhaps but the more ample provision of the neighbouring Colonies will relieve that necessity.

The depredations and piracies frequently committed on our sea-coasts, and the little trade which remains to us, whereby, among other capital articles, the importation of ammunition and provision is almost totally obstructed, and threatens our ruin, has also occasioned our contemplating steps to prevent these inconveniences, by fitting out a number of armed vessels, with sufficient strength to encounter their small though numerous cutters.

We shall only add, that as the seat of war and all the attendant distresses have, for the present, taken their principal residence here, we should consider it as a happy event if you should think proper to adjourn to some part of the Continent not so far distant, that the advice and aid of the Continent may be more expeditiously afforded upon any emergency.

We have, may it please your Honours, the honour to be your most obedient humble servants,

By order of Congress:

JOSEPH HAWLEY, Vice-President.

SAMUEL FREEMAN, Secretary.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM LONDON TO A GENTLEMAN IN VIRGINIA, DATED JUNE 12, 1775.

We have had the news of the skirmish at Concord between the King's Troops and the Provincials for some time past; and yesterday it was confirmed by an express from General Gage to Government, in the Sukey, Capt. Brown. The first advice many (especially the Court party) threw away, declaring it to be an absolute lie, and wished Government would secure the person who brought it, although we had the Salem paper brought by Captain John Derby, who said that the account was as particular as could be collected at the time of his departure; but now they believe it to their shame, that eighteen hundred disciplined troops ran away from a handful of brave Yankees. I believe that seven-eighths of this Country would willingly fight for us against the King's Troops, if it were possible for them to get to you. The Americans bear the greatest applause here of any people in the world, and I hope they may now stand firm, for it is not in the power of Government to send out any more troops. I had the honour of being sent for by Sir John Warren, who is nephew to the late Admiral, and a great friend to America, with whom I breakfasted. We had all the American affairs over, and he positively declared there were not seven thousand of the King's Troops both in England and Ireland; and he hoped the Ameri- cans would stand firm to each other; and then they might have the affair settled as they liked; for, says he, it is impossible for this Country to do without you, neither can they subdue you.

ON THE DISTURBANCES IN AMERICA.

London, June 12, 1775.

Whether this is the best of possible worlds, is a point with which the politician has nothing to do; he must take men as they are, and, till the period of the millenium arrives, wars and tumults will possess their full number of pages in the history of mankind. A too eager love of peace, the child of pusillanimity, will be generally found a prelude to the most destructive scenes of blood and slaughter. Whenever unavoidable danger presents itself, prudence directs us to face it boldly. Shall our humanity induce us to leave the contest, so big with danger, to our immediate descendants? Forbid it justice and paternal affection. The probability of success, which is now on our side, will be against them. Yet, shall we give up the sovereignty in America, their right of inheritance, and the price of so many cares and of so much blood and treasure, without some struggle? Though they, if the contest was deferred till their day, might probably fail and involve the British Empire in ruin, yet we, by a spirited conduct, now may shelter them from the danger, and procrastinate the event.

The Bostonians have been guilty of numberless acts of rebellion, which have no other real foundation than their opinion that they can resist with success. On the slightest occasion, large bodies of men appear in arms, with the avowed intention of fighting the King's Troops. Let them have their humour. In every essential point of view they are the enemies of Great Britain, and their insults must not be forgiven because they are dangerous—so dangerous, that suppose them defeated, suppose them suing for forgiveness with all the humility which may be expected from their present insolence, they must not be forgiven; they can never be again entitled to the protection and encouragement of the Mother Country. Their soil and climate, their growing manufactories of iron and wool, their ship-building, and even their industry, are our natural, our irreconcilable enemies. The Colonists must not only be defeated, but, as far as it is in our power, the Colonies destroyed. This may be done without much of that carnage which is so dreaded by us. The steady and inflexible regulations of policy, by which every source of trade or manufactures must be cut off from the Northern Colonies, and every possible encouragement given to settlements in warmer latitudes, can alone effect it. Indigo, rice, rum, sugar, cotton, silk, and the various productions of the tropicks, are commodities we want, and the habits of life in southern climates will forever prevent their interfering with our laborious manufactories. Mutual wants are the true foundation of trade and political friendship, and Colonies established without this permanent view, have ever been the ruin of the Mother Country. We want nothing from the Colony most dangerous to us, but provisions and lumber for the islands; and these it will furnish, even were it in a much less cultivated and improved state than it now is.

The Americans are fond of repeating their arguments, though it seems agreed on all sides that it is time that action should commence. I shall not, therefore, enter into those reasons by which a Mother Country may be justified in ruining a Colony which has been found prejudicial to her; they deny the debt of gratitude, by asserting that we raised and supported them from motives of interest alone. Admit this to be true, we raised them at an immense expense, with permanent views of political advantage. They are now found to be not barely detrimental, but highly dangerous to us. The same policy will teach us to destroy that which we have been mistaken in defending and supporting. This cannot be done without much private injury and public calamity, but in disputes of this magnitude they are unavoidable. In the management of natural concerns, the lesser evil must be resolutely chosen, and to listen to the complaints of unavoidable evil is a dangerous humanity, and will have the same effect as the most contemptible weakness. Shall we, to avoid the effusion of human blood, give up the sovereignty of America without
